WILKES PASHA.

STANDARD 2618.

Dark bay with white hind feet, 16½ hands high, bred by R. P. Pepper, of South Elk Horn Farm, Frankfort, Kentucky. Sired by Onward, 1411, record 2:25¾, trial 2:17. He by George Wilkes, 2:22, sire of sixty-five horses in the 2:30 list, ten of them with records below 2:20. First dam Fisher (dam of Clara Wilkes, 2 29¾, trial 2:25) by American Clay, 34, sire of Granville, 2:28; Maggie Briggs, 2:27; Ella Clay, 2:27½; and the dams of Executor, 2 24½, Ruchero, 2:23½; Judge Hawser, 2:24¾; Ambassador, 2.25, and nine others in 2:30; second dam by Wilson's Snow Storm, sire of Jim Irving, 2:2-; third dam by Paddie Burns, thoroughbred.

Onward, 1411, is one of the noted sires of to-day. In 1887 he placed seven performers in the 2:30 list, including Houri three-year-old record 2:19¾; while in 1888 he still further sustains his reputation by adding nine of his sons and daughters to the list. Onward combines the blood of the two great trotting families, Hambletonian 10 and Mambrino Chief 11, and derives his speed inheritance direct through the greatest son of the one family, and the greatest daughter of the other.

Onward's dam was Dolly (the dam of Director, 2:17, and Thorndale, 2:22½), by Mambrino Chief. Dolly was one of the greatest speed-producing brood mares that ever lived. George Wilkes stands at the head of the list of sires of fast trotters with 65 performers with records of 2:30 or better, and the combination of these two great producers will breed on with absolute certainty.

WILKES PASHA will make the season of 1889 at the stables of the undersigned, at the Trancas Bridge, two miles north of Napa, on the Soda Spring Road.

TERMS,

For the season ending July 1, 1889, $35 in U. S. gold coin.

Alfalfa pasturage $4 per month; natural grass $2.50 per month.

Every attention and care will be given to mares, but no liabilities assumed for accidents or escapes.

AMBERINE.

$25 $25.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by PROMPTER No. 2305, with six weeks training at the close of a stud season, he won a stallion race of five heats, winning the last three heat and getting a record of 2:33¼; he has never been trained since.

His sire, Wilson's BLUE BULL, No. 75, has more of his progeny in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived, except it may be George Wilkes, and it is a disputed point between the two which has most.

PROMPTER'S dam, PRAIRIE BIRD, 2:28½, is in the GREAT BROOD MARE TABLE, a proved producer, and of a family of wonderful producers, as an examination of the produce of Fluxtail mares will prove.

AMBERINE'S dam, "BONNIE," owned by G. W. Hancock, of Sacramento, is one of the best road-mares in the State; she has many times covered 50 miles on the road in five hours, and 125 miles in 17 hours. She is the dam of Daisy, yearling record, 2:38½; her sire is John Nelson, sire of the dams of Albert W., 2 20, and Valensin, 2:24.

AMBERINE is a beautiful bay, three years old, very powerfully built, 16 hands, and trotted a mile in his yearling form in 3:20, and has never been trained.

Will serve 15 outside mares at the low price of $25 the season. Should the mare not prove in foal, the money refunded or mare bred following season. Service fee payable, when I pasture the mare, at the time of her removal; but if served outside, payable at time of service.

He is full brother to DAISY; yearling record, 2:38¼. THE BEST IN THE WORLD. Two-year-old; trial, two miles, 5:07; last mile in 2:28.

Good pasturage for a limited number of mares only, at $5 per month. Ranch 18 miles from the City, San Pedro Valley. Horses taken down at owner's risk.

This horse will stand in San Francisco, San Mateo, or Alameda Counties. Owned by

NUT GROVE.

By GROSVENOR, he by ADMINISTRATOR, he by RYSDYK'S HAMILTONIAN.

First dam Lady Nutwood by Nutwood 600; second dam Lady Mac, standard, by American Boy; third dam a thoroughbred mare imported from Australia.

NUTGROVE is a beautiful bay, 15¾ hands, and is one of the finest appearing young horses in the State. He took the first prize for best two-year-old standard-bred horses at Oakland in 1888, also first prize at the State fairs in the same class. He has been worked for speed but a little, but showed quarters in 34 to 40 seconds. His dam took first prize for standard mare at the Oakland Fair, and also took first prize at the State Fair, 1888, for best mare of any age or breed. For further particulars apply to

Thoroughbred Stallion

LEON.

Bay stallion, 16¾ hands high, foaled 1885, sired by Leinster, dam Ada A, dam of Pater Duffy, Frank Rhodes, Lizzie P., dam of Idalene Cotton, and Lady Leonore—by Asteroid. The ones that saw Leon race at the Oakland Fair last fall can best judge as to his racing qualities. He ran the 1¼ miles, carrying 118 lbs, in 2:10, and galloped under the wire. The last mile he ran in 1:43¾. If not sold by Feb. 1st will make a season in the stud at Sacramento. For further particulars address

ALMONT PATCHEN.

Pacing Record 2.15.

Sire JUANITO, dam Glidey, by GLADIATOR, the sire of James H. 2:21, Boss 2:29¼, and the pacer Damiana 2:26¼; second dam by HENRY BELMONT, third dam a Sir Archie mare. JUANITO is by Tilton Almont, record 2:26, dam Berlcia by Signal (Singleterry's Rattler), sire of Marysville Queen, wagon record 2:25, and the pacers Prussian Maid 2:19, Carr e T. 2:20¾, and Handy Andy 2:29¾, second dam a mare bought of J. W. Moore of Marysville, Cal., from the Harper Stock Farm in Kentucky. Tilton Almont, 2:26, is the sire of Daisy S. 2:2-¼ and is by the gr at Almont, dam by Clark Chief. Henry Belmont is a full brother to Venture 2:27¼, being by Williamson's Belmont, dam Miss Mostyn, by American Boy, Jr., second dam Fannie Mostyn by Grey Medoc.

To his excellent blood lines Almont Patchen adds performances which show him a worthy descendant of famous families. He is a large, well-formed, rangy and stylish horse, of great power and unsurpassed staying qualities, and cannot fail to get fast and useful horses. In 1886 he started in Chico and in Sacramento in two races, winning both, making in the latter a record of 2:23.

In 1888 ALMONT PATCHEN started in eight races, winning six, and coming in second in the other two. In his last race at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, he defeated Adonis and Belmont Boy, making a record of 2:18. A few days later, in private, he paced a mile in 2:13½ on same track.

Almont Patchen will make the season of '89 at the Race Track, San Jose, commencing February 1st and ending in May.

TERMS: $100 for the season, payable when mare is bred. Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. All mares taken at owner's risk. For further particulars address,

VINELAND BREEDING FARM.

Whippleton, 1883,

STANDARD UNDER RULE 406.

The most successful stock horse in California for his opportunities. WHIPPLETON has no equal as a producer of carriage and general purpose horses. Sire of Lily Stanley, record 2:17½, dam's breeding unknown; Homestakes pacer, 2:16¾, dam's breeding unknown; Flora B., 2:30, dam's breeding unknown; Cora C., three-year-old pacer, 2:35¾, dam by Nanbuc, Rachel, 2:38, dam's breeding unknown.

DESCRIPTION.

WHIPPLETON is a beautiful black, tan muzzle and flanks, and exceptionally strongly made all over. He stands 17 hands high and weighs 1400 pounds. He is beyond doubt the most uniform breeder on the Coast for size, color and finish. Most of his colts are 16 hands or over, and all bay, brown or black in color. He has never sired a sorrel or white faced colt; if he does I agree to refund service money.

PEDIGREE.

WHIPPLETON, sired by Hambletonian Jr. (sire of Hancock 2:20), by Whipple's Hambletonian; dam Lady Livingston; (dam of Lady Blanchard 2:2-¼, Bloomfield Maid, trial 2:22); by General Taylor (sire of dam of Wells Fargo 2:18¾, Nearea 2 24¾, Bickford 2:29¾, Lady Blanchard 2:26¼) and Stella 2:30, son of the Morse horse.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars, with usual return privilege.

By the great Almont (sire of Westmont, 2:15¾, Puritan, 2:16, Fannie Witherspoon, 2:16¾, Piedmont, 2:17¼, and 31 others with records better than 2:30, and grandsire of Bell Hamlin, 2:13¾, by Alexander's Abdallah (sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14), he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Alcona's dam, Queen Mary by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¾, Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½ and 4 others in 2:30 list, and sire of the dams of Piedmont, 2:17¾. Director, 2.17, Onward, 2:25¾, and many others; 23 of his sons have produced 2:30 trotters.

Almont has 38 sons that have produced 2:30 trotters, which number is only equaled by his grandsire, Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

DESCRIPTION.

Alcona is a beautiful chestnut, 16¾ hands high, and weighs 1,300 pounds. His colts possess speed, style, finish and beauty, and if they don't trot fast they command the highest price for carriage and general purpose horses. Eleven of Alcona's colts that have been sold UNTRAINED brought $7,810, an average of $710 per head.

TERMS: $35. Usual return privilege.

Grandissimo,

Sired by La Grande (son of Almont and out of Jessie Pepper by Mambrino Chief; Jessie Pepper is the dam of Iona 2:22, Alpha 2:23¾, Sterling Wilkes 2:23¾, and others) dam Norma, by Arthurton (sire of Arab 2:15, Joe Arthurton 2:2-¾, etc.).

Grandissimo is Nourmahal full sister to A. W. Richmond, sire of Arrow 2:14¾, Nutmeg 2:19, and sire of Columbine, dam of Anteo 2:16¼, and Anievolo 2:19¼, at 4 years old).

DESCRIPTION.

Grandissimo is 3 years old, will make a sixteen hand horse; he is a rich mahogany bay in color and perfect in style and action. Limited to ten mares, at $50 for the season. Usual return privilege.

In case any of my horses are sold before the next season, parties breeding mares have the privilege to return them to any other stallion I have making the season at the same price. Mares kept in any manner desired. Best of pasture the year round, at $4 per month. Some choice young stallions, colts and fillies for Whippleton for sale reasonable. Correspondence solicited.

The Electioneer Stallion

LANCELOT,

SEAL BROWN STALLION, 15½ HANDS, FOALED APRIL 15, 1881.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco, Cal.

Sire Gov. Stanford's ELECTIONEER; first dam Lizzie Harris by Comus; second dam by Arnold Harris. Comus by Gree 's Bashaw, dam Topsey by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk. Young Bashaw by Grand Bashaw (Arabian) (182), dam Pearl by First Consul (913); g d Fancy by imp. Rockingham. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam Sportsmistress by American Eclipse.

All the sons of Electioneer in the Eastern States have their books filled for the season. This is a rare opportunity to breed to Lancelot at a very low price. Lancelot has shown quarters better than a 2:30 gait, and had it not been for an accident would have had a record as low as the fastest of the sons of Electioneer.

The Nutwood Stallion

SALADIN.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco.

SALADIN, chestnut stallion, 16 hands 1 inch high; foaled April 9, 1880. By Nutwood; first dam Lady Utley Jr. by Speculation, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian; second dam Lady Utley. Grandam of Western Girl. Record 2:27¼.

The Thoroughbred Stallion

Judge McKinstry,

Will make the Season of 1889, from

March 1 to July 1, at San Felipe

Rancho, near Gilroy.

PEDIGREE.

Foaled 1879, by Grinstead or Thad Stevens, dam Katy Pease; second dam Minnie Mansfield by imp. Glencoe; third dam Allegrante by imp. Young Truffle.

DESCRIPTION.

JUDGE MCKINSTRY is a bright bay with black points, 15¾ hands in height, of a conformation combining power and speed. His breeding is one that cannot be excelled. The families on both sides being noted for their gameness and fleetness. Speakin of JUDGE MCKINSTRY, Matt Storn, the well-known trainer, says: "He is the fastest race-horse I ever saw on the Sacramento track. He has shown me trials that were marvelous, one especially of a mile and a quarter that was ahead of the present record." He was started in several races when not in condition to run, and even then developed an amount of speed that is characteristic of the noted families from which he descends. His performances are too well known to need repetition here Good judges of horses st te positively that there can be no doubt of his sire, as he is a perfect picture of Grinstead, but rule compels us to name both sires.

TERMS: $75 payable when the mare is moved from ranch, or, $100, with the usual privilege. Good pasturage, $3 per month. Mares at owners risk. All communications must be addressed to

Prince Imperial.

DESCRIPTION—PRINCE IMPERIAL is a black horse, 15-3 hands high; weighs 1 150 pounds, and is a model of beauty, action and power.

PEDIGREE.—Sired by Black Prince, he by Dictator, own brother to Dexter, dam Daisy by Witherell Messenger, he by Winthrop Messenger, son of imp. Messenger.

MR. Peter Brandow's statement in regard to Prince Imperial: "I met A. Weske in the Park in 1887 driving the above horse, both strangers to me. I was driving a good horse, but the above horse, bitched to a phaeton, beat me easily. I followed him to find out what horse it was, and he finally allowed me to hitch him to a sulky, whi h I did, and drove him easily in 2:42½. I think him one amongst the best horses in California, and firmly believe that in six months I can drive him in 220."

PETER BRANDOW.
Trainer of trotters for 25 years.

In 1881, while visiting Salt Lake City, I saw the colt Prince Imperial, and bought him for my own use, and have used him for family purposes ever since. In offering him for public service last year, not knowing anything about horses' pedigrees I made a mistake in his. I wrote to the owner of the mare in Salt Lake, Dr. S. B. Young, and he says she was by Henry Clay, brought from Kentucky by him.

Will make the season of 1889 at the farm of A. Weske, 2½ miles from Santa Rosa on the Healdsburg road. Season commencing March 1st.

SIRE OF YOLO MAID, 2:14.

Alexander Button.

Alexander's Record, 2:31 1-4!

DESCRIPTION.

Alexander Button is a dark bay with fine flowing mane and tail; stands 15-3¾ hands high; weighs 1,200 pounds, and is of excellent disposition. When three years old he made a record of 2:28½, and when four years old, in his first race, he obtained a record of 2:26½. Has been driven a mile in 2:16 in his four-year-old form, and has been drive a last half in 1:0 ; Alexander Button is a natural trotter, inherited through the speed-lines of his ancestors, and imparts his speed to his offspring with uniform certainty. Yolo Maid, as a three-year-old, paced 18 heats, never leaving her feet—carrying the world's record of 2:14. Rosie Mc, as a five-year-old, rarely ever breaks; has a record of 2:20¾. R. H. Newton's colt, with very little handling, paced a 2:16 gait, and there are several other colts that show gaits from 2 16 to 2:20. Considering that Alexander Button has never been mated with a standard-bred mare—his colts show him to be a wonderful producer—and with his breeding, and terms of service, he is the cheapest and most wonderful horse in the State.

PEDIGREE.

Alex. Button was sired by Alexander, he by Geo. M. Patchen, Jr., his dam Lady Button by Napa Rattler by Biggett's Rattler, he by Sir Henry, and he by imported Henry, dam of Biggett's Rattler by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam of Napa Rattler, thoroughbred.

TERMS: $75, payable at end of season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge. Good pasturage will be furnished at $2 per month, and due care taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability whatever assumed.

Will stand at City Stable, Woodland, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. The remainder of the time he will stand at my ranch, which is situated about 1½ miles west of Yolo station.

All mares sent to Fashion Stable, Woodland, Yolo County, will be forwarded free of charge.

LONGWORTH.

High Bred Trotting Sta'lion.

WILL BE FOUR YEARS OLD IN MARCH

Dark Bay, Black Points, by Sidney.

OWNED BY A. C. DIETZ, OAKLAND.

Also the owner of Bay Stallion Ringwood, four years old, by Sidney, half bro her to Longworth, which has showed trials over the Oakland Track, 2:30; quarters, in 34 secon s—2:16 gait —as a three-year old.

LONGWORTH for finish, style and form cannot be excelled by any four-year-old horse in the State. His g it is perfect; going low to the ground, with smooth, easy motion, and has shown wonderful speed with but two month's work. As a two-year-old, he show d a 2:10 gait; as a three-year-old showed—trial—full mile over the Oakland track, 2:26; half mile, 1:10; quarters, 34 seconds; eighths, 16 seconds—a 2:08 gait.

Longworth is the result of a long line of distinguished ancestors, endowed with speed on the sire and dams' side that follows back for generati ns—consequently he cannot help but produce great speed.

He is half brother to the great three-year-old Adonis, record 2 14¾.

Memo, three-year-old trial, 2:20½.
Sister V., two-year-old trial, 2:32.
St. Nicholas, three-ye r-old trial, 2:27¼.
Ringwood, three-year-old trial, 2:30
Miss Sidney, one-ye r-old trial, half mile, 1:38.
Brown colt, three-year-old trial, 2 40.
Linda, one-year-old tri l, one quarter, 40 seconds.
Sorrel colt, two-year-old trial, quarter, 31 seconds, and a number more that have shown remarkable speed One yearling that has shown one-eighth of a mile in 16 1-5 seconds—a 2:40 gait.

Sidney, the sire of Longw rth, has a record of 2:19¾; Santa Claus, the grand sire, has a record of 2 17½; Sweetness, the grandam, record 2:21½; Strathmore, the sire of Santa Claus, has twenty-two that have trotted below 2:30; Volunteer, the sire of Sweetness, has twen y-six that have trotted below 2:30. Volunteer is the sire of St Julian, record 2:11¾.

Longworth's first dam Grey Dale, the dam of Daisy C., Silver Threads, and grandam of Phaeeola; Grey Dale by American Boy, Jr.; he by American Boy, the sire of Belmont. Second dam Grey Poll by Winfield Scott, by Edward Everett; third dam Sorrel Poll by Sir Henry; fourth dam Daughter of Printer.

All letters pertaining to the s rvice of this horse should be addressed to J. J. FAIRBANKS, Oakland Alameda County, Cal.

TERMS: Fifty dollars, payable at the end of the season or sooner if the mares are taken away. Season will close June 15th, 1889. The number of mares limited to twenty-five. The best of care will be taken to insure mares with foal. Pasture $5 per month, which can be procured at the Oakland Race Track. Mares at the owners' risk, as to escapes or accidents.

The stallion will be kept at the stables of the undersigned, at the junction of San Pablo Avenue and Park Street.

NOONDAY.

No Record, Foaled 1884.

Standard No. 10,000.

THIS CELEBRATED TROTTING-BRED STALlion will be limited to 40 mares the ensuing season at Oakland Trotting Park, Oakland, Cal., commencing February 1st and ending July 1st, at $100 the season, with the usual privilege of returning the mare next season if not proving in foal. The names of his patrons will be entered on his book in order of their application. He will be limited strictly to forty mares. Pasturage at five dollars per month, hay and grain extra.

NOONDAY, sired by Wedgewood (692), record, the fourth heat, 2 19, (sire of Favonia, record, fourth heat, 2:15, and Nugget, record 2:26, he the sire of Nettie Leaf, four-year-old record 2:23¼), and five others better than 2:26.

First dam Noontide, record 2:20½, by Harold (413), sire of Maud S., record 2:08¾, Mattie Graham, 2:21¼, and 17 others in 2:30.

Second dam Midnight (the dam of Jay-Eye-See, record 2:10), by Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Maud S., 2:08¾, Nutwood, 2:18¾.

First dam (the dam of Woodford Mambrino, 2:21), by Woodford (thoroughbred son of Kosciusko), he by Sir Archy.

NOONDAY is well formed, evenly balanced and handsome; his color is dark seal brown, small star, right hindfoot white, 15 1-2 inches high, weight 1075 lbs., strong back and good gaited, short and rapid, and will make a fast and game campaigner.

Breeders will please remember that this horse is not owned by me. I have only leased him for two years for the benefit of the State and breeders on account of the speedy lines and blood that this State is in need of, and no stallion now in public service can show a pedigree with such fast records as enrich the blood of NOONDAY.

I will also handle and train a few horses for gentlemen at fair terms. Address

THE WILKES STALLION

Mambrino Wilkes, 6083

(Half Brother to Harry Wilkes, 2:13 1-2.)

Sire of Gus Wilkes, 2:22; Alpheus, 2:27; Balkan, 2:29¾, three-year-old; John O'Brien, lapped out the winner in 2:36 as a three-year-old; H. A. W.'s Black Colt, trial 2:29 with very little work as a four-year-old.

Will remain in the future at San Miguel Stock Farm, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County.

DESCRIPTION.

MAMBRINO WILKES is a black horse, 16 hands high, and considerably longer than his height; has immense muscular development and weighs 1,260 pounds. He has the utmost symmetry of proportion and elegance of finish. No competent judge who has seen this horse has failed to pronounce him a perfect individual, and his breeding is certainly fashionable enough to satisfy the most fastidous His colts are large, stylish and handsome, and Balkan has been pronounced by many the most stylish trotter on the turf.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by George Wilkes, dam Lady Chrisman by Todhunter's Mambrino; second dam by Pilot Jr.

Todhunter's Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, dam Ripton's dam by Hunt's Commodore, son of Mambrino by imp. Messenger; second dam by Potomac, son of imp. Messenger.

George Wilkes sired 65 colts that have beaten 2:30. Of these 39 have average records of 2:24, 11 of 2:19 and 12 of 2:18.

TERMS.

Mares from a distance will be received at the Dexter Stables, Oakland, or Livery Stable, Martinez, the owner notifying Smith Hill, Superintendent at the farm. Good pasture and plenty of water. For the purpose of placing the service of a Wilkes within reach of breeders, the same rate will be maintained as last year, to wit, $75 for the season. Although it is not admitted thereby that this horse is inferior as a producer to the horses whose fees are placed at from $150 to $500.

BALKAN,

Three-year-old Record 2:29 1-2; trotting many heats faster, when he did not obtain a record.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Fanny Fern by Jack Hawkins, son of Boston; second dam S. L. B. by Jim Crow.

It will be readily seen that this colt is from strong producing lines on both sides. Fanny Fern having produced Mollie Drew, May Queen, Onyx and Fred Arnold, all noted trotters and all by different sires.

This colt will be kept at the Oakland Trotting Park, and will be stinted to ten approved mares at $100 for the season.

The Fast Trotting Stallion

JIM L.

RECORD 2:20 1-2, made at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, November 1888.

DESCRIPTION.

JIM L was foaled May 14, 1881. He is a chestnut sorrel, stands 16 hands high, and weighs 1200 pounds.

PEDIGREE.

JIM L was sired by Dan Voorhees (record 2:23½), dam Grace by Uncle Sam out of Kitt (or the Chloroform mare). Dan Voorhees was sired by General McClellen, by North Star, dam Black Swan (record 2:28½) by David Hill (858), by Vermont Black Hawk (5), dam by Liberty, son of Bishop's Hambletonian; dam a Morgan mare by Ethan Allen.

PERFORMANCES.

JIM L trotted three races in 1887, and closed a season with a record of 2:30½. In 1888 he trotted five races and gained a record of 2:20½ at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, on October 24th, in the first heat of a race in which the other starters were Junio, Alto, Ha Ha and Argent.

He has shown quarters at a 2:15 gait; is a FAST AND RELIABLE TROTTER, and is possessed of a remarkable amount of "bottom." He has served two seasons in the stud, is a sure foal getter, and has a number of promising colts.

TERMS.

Forty dollars for the season, $25 for single service. Mares sent from a distance will be properly cared for at reasonable terms, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes. Good pasturage furnished at $7.50 per month.

ELECTIONEER STALLION

EROS,

Standard No. 5326.

Electioneer, his sire, has more 2:30 trotters than any living horse, and more 2:30 trotters than any stallion LIVING OR DEAD.

Eros has a record of 2:29½, made in the fifth and deciding heat against a field of eight horses in his maiden race, and with only four weeks preparation after coming out of the stud.

Progeny.

Eros had last fall but three colts trained; the oldest a three-year-old trotter, an exhibition mile during the San Jose Fair in 2:51, last quarter in 36½ seconds. A two year-old (timed by the judges) made a mile in 2:16½, and the other two-year-old in 2:47. All of these trials being made without a single skip, and none of these colts had then been handled three months from the butting harness.

TERMS: $50 for the season, from February 1st to July 1, 1889. Due at time of service.
Pasturage, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes. Apply to

GROVER CLAY,

Bay Stallion, bred by Hon. W. M. Traylor, San Francisco. Foaled 1883. By ELECTIONEER.

First dam MAGGIE NORFOLK by NORFOLK, son of Lexington.
Second dam by BILLY CHEATHAM.
Third dam by DORSEY'S GOLDDUST.

GROVER C is a very handsome shade of bay, 15¾ hands high, and showing as much quality as a majority of thoroughbreds. He is as square-gaited a trotter as can be, and has shown a great deal of speed for the amount of handling. Has been worked very little, though he can show a thirty gait or better whenever called upon.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars the season, payable at time of service. Proper care will be taken, but no responsibility incurred for accidents or escapes. Mares will be pastured inside of the Oakland Trotting Park, which is especially safe, having two fences which give ample security against escape. There is a never-failing stream of water which runs through the field, and the food is good.

Season commencing first of January and ending the first of July.

This is the only son of Electioneer standing in Alameda County, and the high breeding on the side of his dam is a guarantee that his colts will inherit qualities already made famous through the mixture of Electioneer and Lexington-blood. Ansel, 2:20, is from a Lexington mare, and Sunol's granddam, two-year-old record 2:18, was by Lexington, both Sunol and Ansel by Electioneer, Lexington the sire of Norfolk.

The Sultan Stallion

SOUDAN, No. 5103

Black Standard Bred Stallion, Foaled 1884, Stands a trifle over 16 Hands, bred by L. J. ROSE, Los Angeles.

TWO-YEAR-OLD RECORD 2:32½
THREE-YEAR OLD RECORD 2:30

Sired by Sultan (1513), record 2:24. The get of his sire include the GREAT STAMBOUL, 2:14¼, at six year old; ALCAZAR, 2:20½; EVA, 2:23½; KISMET, three year old, 2:25½; LE GRANGE, 2:23½; RUBY, 2:19½; SWEETHEART, three-yea-old, 2:22½, and ten others in 2:30 or better.

Sultan's sire THE MOOR (870), has six to his credit in the 2:30 list, and sired the dams of the three fastest 3-years-olds in the world, viz, SABLE WILKES, 2:18; BELL BOY, 2:19½ and HINDA ROSE, 2:19½.

Soudan's dam Lady Babcock by Whipple's Hambletonian (725). The sire of Graves, 2:19, and 14 other in the 2:30 list; also the sire of the dams of DAWN, 2:19½, and MORTIMER, 2:27, g. d. the DUBOISE MARE by a son of the EATON HORSE (122); the sire of STRANGER, 2:30; VILLAGE GIRL, 2:28, and SHEPPARD KNAPP, 2:27¾; also the sire of the dams of J. G. MORRILL, 2:29, LOTHAIR, 2:29½, and SAM CURTIS, 2:28.

Note—LADY BABCOCK is also the dam of ELECTOR by ELECTIONEER, with a record of 2:21¼.

SOUDAN'S record, 2:30, was made in the fourth heat of race on the San Jose track

SOUDAN will serve a limited number of approved mares at $100 for the season, with the privilege of return if they do not prove in foal.

Thoroughbred Stallion

Prince of Norfolk,

Will Make the Season of 1889, from Feb 15th to July 1st, at Sacramento.

PEDIGREE.

PRINCE OF NORFOLK, ch c, foaled 1881, by Norfolk; 1st dam Marion by Malcolm; 2nd dam Maggie Mitchell by imp. Yorkshire; third dam Charmer by imp. Glencoe; 4th dam Betsy Malone by Stockbridge; 5th dam by Potomac; 6th dam by Imp. Diomed; 7th dam by Pegasus, etc. Norfolk, the unbeaten son of Lexington, is the sire of Winters, Twilight, Conner, Ballot Box, Trade Dollar, Flood, Duchess of Norfolk, Lou Spencer, the Great Emperor of Norfolk, an many others. Marion's sire, Malcolm, was one of the first horses to bring Bonnie Scotland into notice. Through the Maggie Mitchell cross comes the blood of two of the most celebrated race mares of their day, Charmer and Betsy Malone. The combined speed of these great families seem to be concentrated in the get of Norfolk and Marion, as is instanced in the case of the Emperor of Norfolk, who is a full brother to the Prince of Norfolk.

The blood lines here displayed cannot be surpassed in the world, there not being a single cross that has not been celebrated for speed and endurance, and it is fair to assume that the get of this stallion will show equally well with those of past generations.

TERMS, $50 for the season. We offer first class pasturage on our own ranch, at $4 per month and the best of care will be taken of mares sent to us but no responsibility can be incurred. For further particulars address

W. P. TODHUNTER, Sacramento.

MEMO.

The Fast Trotting Stallion, the Best Son of Sidney.

Will make the Season of 1889 at the Oakland Trotting Park.

He was bred by G. Valensin at the Arno Stock Farm, Sacramento County, California; foaled spring of 1885

PEDIGREE.

By Sidney.
First dam Flirt by Buccaneer.
Second dam Mohaska Belle by Flaxtail.
Third dam by John the Baptist.

Sidney by Santa Claus, 2:17¾, his dam Sweetness, 2:17¼. Strathmore, the son of Santa Claus, has 21 of his get which have trotted in 2:30 or better, up to close of 1887, several having entered since, and Volunteer the sire of Sweetness, has 28 in the same list. Buccaneer is the sire of Shamrock, two year old record 2:25, and of Flight, 2:29, and in him are combined the strains of Long Island Blackhawk, Vermont Blackhawk, and the dam of Ryadyk's Hambletonian. Flaxtail figures prominently in both pacing and trotting descendants, and is the sire of the dam of Apex, 2:26, Flight, 2:29, J. H. McCormack, 2:29, and Shamrock, 2:25.

PERFORMANCES.

Memo only trotted in public in his two-year-old form, obtaining a record of 2:49, though he was close to Grandee in a race on the Bay District Track, the second heat of which was made in 2:39½, the first in 2:32. He exhibited phenomenal speed when three years old, and had it not been for a slight strain of his fore fetlock there is little question that he would have shown in public very closely to the best record. On the Oakland track he was timed a mile in 2:20½, and frequently trotted quarters in from 32½ to 34 seconds.

DESCRIPTION.

He is nearly if not quite sixteen hands high, and of powerful build throughout. His color is a glossy black, with both fore-feet white and a touch of white on his off hind quarters. His disposition is all that could be desired, and his action superb.

TERMS: One hundred dollars the season, which will commence on the 5th of February and cease on the 1st of July. Due care will be taken of mares, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes.

Mares taken and kept as desired by the owners, and at reasonable rates.

Pasturage at $3 per month within the track enclosure; feed first rate, and a living stream of water in the field. There is a double protection against escape, as in addition to a strong fence on the inside of the track, the gates of the outer fence are enclosed at night, which gives almost positive assurance of safety. BONANZA.

This Highly Bred Trotting Stallion

Will make the season of 1889 at the OAKLAND TROTTING PARK, commencing Feb 5th, and extending to July 1st.

TERMS.

$40 for the season. Due care taken to prevent accidents and escapes, but no responsibilities assumed. Mares kept in any manner desired and at reasonable rates. Pasture inside of the Oakland track at $5 per month.

PEDIGREE.

Bonanza was bred by A. Waldstein of San Francisco,
BY ARTHURTON.

His dam, the dam of Albert W., record 2:20, by John Nelson. He is one of the purest gaited trotters imaginable, and his record of 2:29 is no measure of his speed. He is nearly 16 hands, a very handsome shade of chestnut, and of commanding form.

Address,

RICHARD HAVEY,
Oakland Trotting Park.

The Thoroughbred Stallion

THREE CHEERS

Will make the Season of 1889 at Oakland Race Track, Oakland, Alameda County.

Pedigree.

Newminster by Touchstone (winner St. Leger 1831), dam Beeswing (winner of 34 races out of 64 starts) by Dr. Syntax (winner Doncaster Cup 1837, 40, 41, 42, the only horse that ever accomplished that feat.)

THREE CHEERS is bred in the speediest and stoutest lines. His dam, Young Fashion was the dam of Surprise, Scotland (the only horse that ever beat Asteroid a heat), Liverpool, Columbia and Bonnie Kate, the dam of Little Buttercup and the flying Bonnie Lizzie. His grandam, Fashion, was the greatest race mare of her era, defeating Boston in that historical match at four-mile heats, that is recorded as one of the greatest events in the annals of the turf. He is thoroughly sound in wind and limb, his family on both sides being noted for their exemption from curbs, spavins, roaring, or any other hereditary unsoundness. Horsemen, who can appreciate the highest type of the thoroughbred, are specially invited to inspect Three Cheers.

TERMS: $75 for the season. Mares not proving with foal can be returned the next season free of charge. Good pasturage at $5 per month. Mares cared for in any manner owners may desire, and fed on hay and grain, either or both, at reasonable rates. None but competent grooms employed, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

N. B.—Mares sent from a distance in care of J. W. Morsehead City Front Stables, San Francisco, will be forwarded without delay.

For further particulars address

OHIO BOY, 4289.

Foaled 1879; 16 Hands High. Weight 1200 Pounds.

He is a beautiful dark bay or brown, with black points. A fine roadster and a sure foal getter.

PEDIGREE.

OHIO BOY 4289, by Flying Cloud, by Hill's Vermont Black Hawk; first dam by Ohio Bellfounder by imported Bellfounder; second dam by Duff Green (Thoroughbred).

Ohio Boy will make the season of 1889 at Oakland, Haywards, Walnut Creek, from March 1st to June 1st.

TERMS.—For the season $25. To insure $35. Casual return privileges. Address

ANNUAL FALL MEETING.

RAISIN HANDICAP. For all ages. 1¼ mile dash. Guarantee Purse $1,000. $100 entrance, $10 May 1st, $15 June 1st, $25 July 1st. Weights will be declared August 15th and acceptance September 1st, when the other $50 is to be paid. To be run at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entrance money amounts to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the association will add 20 per cent of amount of purse; 3 moneys, 70, 20, 10 per cent of purse. Horses winning any purse or stake of one mile or more at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $800 or over, shall carry 10 pounds extra. Horses winning a purse or stake of one mile or over at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $500 or over, to carry 5 pounds extra.

Weights to be declared through BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, August 15, 1889. Entries close May 1st with the secretary.

American Association Rules to govern.

REMARKS.

As to the Handicap Running, 1¼ mile dash, the Handicapping Committee will use due diligence in learning the performance of every horse entered, and weighting them fairly to their merits. Each entry must be accompanied by entrance money or be considered no entry. All payments not made when due the nominator forfeits all money paid in. We propose at the finish of the race the horse winning the purse, or any part of it, gets his money and not forfeit papers.

GUARANTEE PURSE.

For horses that never beat 2:30. Trotting Purse $1,000, $100 entrance, $25 May 1st, $25 July 1st, $50 August 15th, when nominees are to be named. To be trotted at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entries amount to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the Association will add 20 per cent. of amount of stakes. Four moneys, 70, 25, 15, 10 per cent of purse.

American Association rules to govern.

REMARKS.

This 2:30 class Guarantee Purse gives the party making the entry the privilege of naming any horse he sees fit the 5th day of August, having no better record than 2:30 the first day of May, irrespective of the record he gets after that date. You will see by this the nominator has almost a sure thing of getting his money back. Any nominator failing to make payments when due, forfeits all money paid in, and money must accompany entry or it will be considered no entry.

Our grounds are the finest appointed in the State being about 2½ miles from the city; horse car line running direct to the grounds.

We also have the best of box stalls for 100 horses. Hay and straw furnished to all horses entered in races free of charge. Grain can be procured on the grounds at reasonable rates.

CONDITIONS.

All trotting and pacing races, best 3 in 5, to harness, unless otherwise specified. Entrance, ten per cent on amount of purse, to accompany nomination. Any horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money.

American Association Rules to govern all trotting, pacing, and running races, but the Board reserves the right to trot heats of any two classes alternately, or to trot a special race between heats; also, to change the day or hour of any race if deemed necessary.

A horse making a walk-over shall be entitled to only one-half of entrance money paid in. When less than required number of starters appear, they may contest for entrance money paid in, to be divided as follows: 66⅔ to first, 33⅓ to second.

In all entries not declared out by 6 P. M of the day preceding the race shall be required to start.

When there is more than one entry by one person, or in one interest, the particular horse they are to start must be named by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race.

If, in the opinion of the judges, any race cannot be finished on the closing day of the meeting, it may be continued or declared off, at the option of the judges.

Non-starters in running races will be held for entrance under Rule 36.

Racing colors to be named on entries.

In trotting races the drivers shall be required to wear caps of distinct colors, which must be named in their entries.

These two last rules will be strictly enforced.

All races to be called at 2 P. M. sharp

Entries to all the above races to close with the Secretary at 11 P. M., Saturday, April 6, 1889.

LEWIS LEACH, President.

N. I. BALDWIN, Secretary.

Frank Morgan,

M. S. S. LARABIE, OF MONTANA, is at present in the city, and has brought with him one of the handsomest stallions seen in many a day. He is a dark chestnut, about sixteen hands in height, of free, easy carriage, well gaited, perfectly developed and superb in general appearance. In disposition he is all that can be desired. He has been named "Frank Morgan" in honor of the family from which he descends. He is by a son of Morgan General Jr., first dam by Romeo, he by Green Mountain Morgan, the blood lines running direct on both sides to the great Justin Morgan. The stallion is at present in the hands of C. W. Welby, who feels a natural pride in handling the reins over the most magnificent carriage horse in San Francisco.—BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.

627 Seventeenth Street,

Where prices and information regarding him may be obtained of

NUTWOOD JR.,

FOR SALE OR LEASE.

This Speedy Son of the Great NUTWOOD can be Bought for $2,500, or Leased for the Season for $1000.

He is a sure foal getter, and can show as fine colts as are in the State. He earned $3,100 last year in the stud, can take care of 100 mares with ease. This is the best opportunity ever offered for any live man to make from two to three thousand dollars clear in a few months, with one of the most popular and fashionably bred horses in the land. The services of this style of horses never goes begging. His sire commands more for his stud services than any living trotting stallion. $500. He can be seen at Sacramento by calling at the address below. Other engagements prevent his owner from caring for him in the stud the coming season.

DESCRIPTION.

NUTWOOD, JR., is a mahogany bay horse, 16½ hands high, weighs 1,180 pounds. Foaled April 14, 1879, bred by L. U. Shippee of Stockton, Cal.

He is a horse of powerful mold, symmetrical form and in striking resemblance to his sire, NUTWOOD. He has never been trained but his action is faultless and his disposition most unexceptional.

PEDIGREE.

Nutwood, 2:18¾, half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾, by Belmont (Alexander's), dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sallie Russel by Boston; third dam Maria Russell by Thornton's Rattler, etc. He is the sire of Fe 1x, 2:19¼, Manon, 2:21, Jim Mulvenna, four years, 2:27½, Nutbreaker, yearling, 2:42¾, and many other fast ones.

Belmont, by Alexander's Abdallah, dam Belle by Mambrino Chief, second dam by Brown's Bellfounder, son of imp. Bellfounder. He is the sire of Wedgewood, 2:19, and five others in the 2:30 list. Alexander's Abdallah, sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14, and others.

Pilot Jr. sire of the dam of Nutwood, is also the sire of Midlight, the dam of Jay-Eye-See, 2:10, and seven in the 2:30 list.

Two Nutwood Stallions

One is Bay, dam by G. M. Patchen. He is nine years old, never been trained, shows lots of speed, has taken several premiums at our County Fairs as a Roadster Stallion. His name is BAYWOOD black legs, mane and tail, and free driver. Weighs 1,200 pounds; 16 hands high, and is a sound horse.

FLEETWOOD is eight years old, dam by Young America, is sorrel, looks like his sire, fine style and lots of action; close to 16 hands, and weighs 1,100 pounds. In perfect health; good mane and tail. All they want is work to make them trot better than 2o, as the are bred right for speed and staying qualities and has had the best of care up to the present time.

Horses can be seen at my Stable, corner THIRD AND EMPIRE STREETS, SAN JOSE.

OSSIDINE

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 15, 1888.

GENTLEMEN:—We have used Ossidine for the past two years and consider it invaluable for Sprung Tendons, Curbs, Ringbone and Spavins; there is nothing equals it; and for us it effected a permanent cure where firing failed, although perfo med by one of the most successful veterinarians on the continent. We have recommended it to others with like success, and believe it has more merit than any blister ever used.

Very respectfully yours, S. A. BROWNE & Co., Prop's.

This scientific preparation is an absolute cure for all bony or callous lumps on horses, and is a more powerful absorbent than "firing," without creating the slightest blemish. After a few applications the excrescence is so palpably reduced that even the skeptical frankly acknowledge that it is by far the most valuable outward remedy for horses ever invented.

The ONLY preparation in the world that will remove a Bone Spavin after it has become ossified.

Price $3.00 per Large Bottle,

Sole Agents for United States and Canada.

Owner of Eole, St. Saviour, Eolist, etc, says: I have long used it in my stables, and find it to be all that is claimed for it in removing callous and unnatural bony growths, without leaving the slightest blemish. From my experience, I most strongly recommend the use of Ossidine, and feel that it is a necessary adjunct to every stable. Yours respectfully,

ALEXANDER BUTTON,

Owned by G. W. WOODWARD, Woodland, Yolo County, California.

A grand colt he was, a grand stallion the last season has proved Alexander Button to be. A great three-year-old, a still greater four-year-old, as 2:26½ in a third heat in 1881 for a colt of that age was a grand performance. But his work showed him to be a horse of still higher class of speed than his races demonstrated. Game, enduring and level-headed was amply exhibited in public and in private, we have from good authority, he has shown miles in 2:16 and halves in 1:05. Had he been continued in training there is little doubt that he would have occupied a very high place among the great trotters of this coast.

But the perfection of a stallion is his progeny, and in this respect he deservedly occupies a conspicuous position. His daughter, Yolo Maid, is beyond doubt the most wonderful young pacer which has yet appeared. That is saying a good deal, when the same year witnessed the advent of Adonis and Gold Leaf, and yet there are few who are not swayed by prejudice who will deny her the pride of place. Two minutes and fourteen seconds is a notable performance at any age, when it is made by a three-year-old it approaches the marvelous.

Still better from a trotting standpoint is the feat of Rosie Mc in gaining a record in her five-year-old form of 2:20¾, and furthermore, both of these representatives of Alexander Button are mares of high form and of great beauty. This was likely to follow, as their sire was a fine looking colt, and though we have not seen him since he was four years old, good judges unite in calling him one of the best looking big horses that can be found in any country. This the cut shows, and we are assured that it is an admirable representation of the horse. This should follow from his lineage, as his son Alexander, was also one of the good looking big ones, and a trotter as well.

Then the combination of Alexander and Rattler lines produced another great trotter in Reliance, who gained a record of 2:22½, and had speed enough to be good company for the fastest.

Taken altogether, form, size, breeding, speed and his progeny, and this horse can be safely classed as one of the "Notable Horses of California," and we are much gratified in being able to present so good a likeness to our readers.

The Life of a Jockey.

Some weeks ago. in giving a report of a race, a representative of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN alluded to jockey Hazlett as "The Garrison of the Pacific Coast." Almost every newspaper East of the Rocky Mountains which devotes any space to sport, has mentioned Mr. Hazlett's name, and alluded to him as quoted above. The editor of one of the principal sporting papers has written to this office for a short history of Mr. Hazlett, and, thinking it might interest our readers, we give the result of an interview with him.

John Thomas Hazlett was born near Edinburgh, Christian Co., Ills., in 1856, and is consequently thirty-three years of age. His father was a farmer, and had a number of horses, but was not interested in blooded stock, although he always attended the county fairs and race meetings, on which occasions "Tom," as he was always called, was taken along. The lad early developed a love for thoroughbreds, there being an adjoining farm, the owner of which had several, and Tom, whenever he visited there, was permitted to exercise them.

When thirteen years old, his parents allowed him to go to work for Mr. Adair, who had a stable of horses at Beardstown. Hazlett had to begin at the lowest round of the ladder, carrying food and water for the horses, and rubbing up the harness. It was some time before Mr. Adair would allow him to ride in a race, but finally, requiring a light weight for a three-quarter race, the boy's ambition was gratified, and he was given the mount. The race did not take place on a regular course, but over a level piece of land selected for the purpose. There were nine starters, and all the horses of rather inferior quality, but Tom was fortunate enough to land his mount in second, which so pleased Mr. Adair, that from then out Hazlett was given a chance whenever occasion required. It is with considerable pride that Tom tells how he won his first race, which was the second one in which he started. There were five horses to face the flag, and in the pools Adair's entry was thought but little of. Hazlett's mount was called Dixie, and in pools averaging $50 would sell for five and six. When the word was given, Dixie was next to the last, but he gradually crept up, until he headed his field, and when only a furlong from home, Tom gave him his head, and won in a canter.

Most of the races then in vogue, as stated above, were not run on regular courses, but on open land, the owners giving permission for the races to take place. As a natural consequence, there were no hotels or boarding houses for the men, so they carried a tent aronnd with them, and pitched it as necessity required. Racing would usually extend over a couple of days, at the expiration of which the camp would be broken and the party would go to the next selected place. He rode for Mr. Adair nearly four years, at times being "farmed out" to other owners, receiving twenty dollars a month and ten dollars every time he won a race. Being of frugal habits he saved up a tidy sum, and resolved to go to California, of which he had heard so much. His parents prevailed on him not to go, so he stayed home from 1873 to 1875. The old feeling returning, he started for the Land of the Golden Fleece, to visit an uncle, with whom he stayed several months. He returned to Illinois but came back again in 1876, and bought several horses, among the number being Snap by Norfolk, dam Jennie Hull. This should have been a great race horse, but he had been spoiled as a two-year-old, and had a most frightful temper. Hazlett kept buying and selling horses, riding as opportunity offered, and at times ran his own horses. The only time he has ever been regularly engaged with any stable as jockey was in the spring of 1888, when his services were secured by B. C. Holly. He rode twelve times for Mr. Holly, winning ten times and being second twice. In the summer of 1888 he returned home to see his aged parents, and while at Washington Park, Chicago, Cy Mulkey prevailed on him to accept several mounts, the first of which he won with Yum Yum. On being asked whom he considered the best jockey he had ever rode against, Mr. Hazlett replied that he considered Fred Carillo the superior of any he had ever met; he was good at the post, a magnificent judge of pace, perfectly cool headed, and always kept his horse well in hand for a race at the finish.

"Are you going East this year?"

"Yes, I shall take back several, as I have entries at Chicago and also at the Twin City meeting. I will take Laura Gardner, a five-year-old by Jim Brown, dam Avail by Leinster, Jack Brady by Wildidle, dam Sour Grapes by Norfolk, and possibly two two-year-olds."

"Will you accept any mounts when East?"

"If there is any one who desires my services I shall be pleased to ride for them when my own horses do not start but as I am almost a stranger there will not be many who will want to hire me."

"At what weight do you ride?"

"I rode once last year at 93 pounds, but prefer a hundred pounds. There is no inconvenience for me in riding at that weight, and I can then reserve all my strenth without entailing on myself unnecessary punishment."

"Will you go East of Chicago?"

"I will go on to New York to see the tracks at Monmouth, Sheepshead, Gravesend, and Jerome, as I have never seen them, and may take the horses if they are still in good condition, and fit for further campaigning."

"Do you believe in whipping and the use of spurs?"

"Well, that is rather a hard question to answer. I always have both, but I have seen hundreds of races lost through the use of the whip. There are many jockeys who do not use discrimination with it, and they think it looks well from the Grand Stand, but there are any quantity of horses who are ruined from its immoderate use. I prefer not to use spurs when it can be avoided, but at times it becomes necessary in a bruising race, however it depends altogether on the disposition of the animal I am riding."

"What is the best horse you ever rode?"

"Well, I thought you would ask that question and I have been trying to think up a bit, and can recall three all about alike. There was Ninena by Jim Brown, dam Nannie Hubbard, was a good one, and Yum Yum pretty fair, but for a weight carrier I fancy Repetta, owned by the Matlock Brothers, of Oregon, was the best I ever rode."

"Did you ever see a horse that you thought could beat Ten Broeck's time for a mile?"

"Yes, I think Mr. Swartz's horse Mark L could have beat the record time, and I have heard scores of others make the same remark."

Mr. Hazlett is a quiet unassuming man, rather diffident in his manner, and blushed like a school girl at several of the personal questions which were put him. Wherever known he is a great favorite, and will without doubt make hosts of friends when on his travels this year.

Mr. Baldwin's Intentions.

Mr. Baldwin was asked a few evenings ago if the current rumor was correct that he would not run any horse in California this year. He replied that Dame Rumor was, in this instance, not at fault, except that he would in all probability start a few at Los Angeles, but would not bring any to the Blood Horse meeting. He has altered his original intentions and will take two car loads of horses East about the first of May, one load he will sell and the other will be used for racing purposes. He has made Isaac Murphy, the jockey, a proposition to ride for him, and to quote his own words, "you can bet your life it ain't ten thousand a year." He has not notified Mr. Baldwin whether he will accept or not, although several of the Eastern newspapers have stated that Murphy would shortly start for California to join the stable.

Sister Anne, Jennie D., Clara D., Santa Anita, Jennie B., Experiment, Glenita, Hermoso and Miss Ford to Grinstead.

Gray Anne and Freda to Rutherford.

Mollie McGurn, Gloretta and Estrella to Gano.

On mention being made that sporting journals were surprised at Mr. Baldwin's assertion that on the Eastern tracks Californians get the worst of the handicaping, the gentleman remarked, that nothing else could be expected, as the men who fill the positions on the big tracks make their living out of four or five of the largest horse owners and naturally favored them in weight.

The Brandt Stock Farm.

The following transfers have been made during the week, says the Rural Spirit of Portland, Or., by J. Brandt, Esq., this city, to Mayor Van B. Lashmutt, also of this city:

Midnight, blk g, 6, by Rockwood, dam Susie.

Frankie, br m, by Pathfinder.

Tillie, ch m, by Rockwood.

Puss, b m, by son of Whipple's Hambletonian.

To the above list let us add Hambletonian Mambrino, Kitty Lynch, Palatina, Wallula, Blondie, two brown Sir Walter mares (family carriage), and the roadsters Fowler and Dudley, and we will have some idea of the trotting stock owned by Mr. De Lashmutt.

Mr. De Lashmutt intends to make the Brandt farm a gilt-edged breeding farm of trotters, draft horses and Short-horn cattle.

Training Trotters in Australia.

G. W. Griffin, the United States Consul at Sydney, says in his report that very little attention has been paid to the training of road horses in Australia. The taste of the people, however, is now changing in that respect. The trotting matches at Elsternwick Park, near Melbourne, and those of the Sydney Driving Club, at the Agricultural Grounds, near Sydney, are daily becoming more popular, and it is said that this sport is also becoming popular at Adelaide and other cities in Australia. This should be very gratifying to the public, inasmuch as the sport of trotting leads to something of a direct practical value. The racehorse, strictly speaking, is of little use or interest except to the turfmen, and is seldom seen off the race track, while the trotter is not only a useful animal in the buggy and carriage, but is a fascinating sight on the road, giving pleasure and recreation to thousands in everyday life. Among those to whom credit is due for encouraging the sport of trotting in Australia are Dr. Weir of Melbourne, the Hon. James Miller and Dr. George F. Slate of Sydney, and Mr. Andrew Towns of Hobartville. The last-named gentleman purchased in the United States the stallion Contractor. Mr. Towns also purchased for Australia Honesty and Childe Harold. The latter is by Harold. Dr. Slate has recently imported from America the fine stallion Doncaster and several valuable mares for breeding. It was through the influence of Dr. Slate that Mr. F. B. Baldwin of Buffal visited the colonies. Mr. Baldwin first introduced the modern method of booting and driving, and it has become so popular that almost every horse on the track is now provided with boots. Dr. Slate is the owner of Huon, one of the fastest trotters in Australia. The centennial champion prize for the best colonial-bred trotting stallion was won by Burlington, owned by Mr. A. L. Faithful of Sidney. This valuable horse was secured to New South Wales through the visit of Mr. E. R. Deane to the United States in 1884. Mr. Deane travelled from Maine to California in search of suitable horses, and finally purchased two mares in foal by Bob Mason, whose sire was Echo, by Rysdyk's Hambletonion. The result of the purchase was Burlington and a filly, both foaled in New South Wales in June, 1885. Burlington is a magnificent horse for his age, a perfect picture of strength and symmetry.

The Death of Ossory and Prince Io.

In last week's BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN mention was made of the death of these grand horses, and now it is learned from the New York Sportsman that grievous charges are made against the officers of the vessel on which the unfortunates were shipped. The editor of that journal says: "From what I have heard of the manner in which Ossory and Prince Io, that died on the passage to this country from England on the National Line steamer The Queen, were handled, Mr. Milton Young has ample grounds for an action for damages against the steamship company, and it is to be hoped that he will recover a good substantial recompense. It seems the horses were shipped in the forward part of the vessel, and in the stormy passage they were practically flooded and battered to death by the seas which swept in through the open hawse holes through which the anchor chains pass. If these holes could not have been permanently closed, ordinary seamanship would have suggested the substitution of canvas shields, but according to Brett, the groom who accompanied the horses, nothing was done and the horrible spectacle was afforded of seeing the valuable animals dying by inches, and amid tortures which are almost incredible in these days when humanity is extended even to the worthless stray mongrel cur or cat.

Sprint Racing and Jockeys.

We recognize the fact that four-mile heat-racing or a great number of heat races or long-distance races are impracticable under the present state of affairs. Were racing a select sport, confined to the wealthy men of the country, and the meetings few and of short duration, such racing would be the natural order, as it was prior to the Civil War, when the owners were mostly wealthy merchants in the North and planters in the South. But racing has become the great popular sport of the masses, who have adopted it as a medium of speculation that rivals Wall Street itself, and the sport has been made dependent upon public speculation for its existence, as it is the revenues derived from it which provide the rich sums of money added by the clubs The majority of the owners are also men who race for pure gain (the number who race for sport could be counted on the fingers), and to such men the idea of racing over long distances would not be only preposterous but ruinous.

Still we are of opinion that the number of short races are much too great. They are dependent greatly upon chance, and are the worst races in the world for the public to bet upon, as the horse which gets off in front in a large field has too great an advantage, and the anxiety to get the best of the start is an inducement to the corruption of racing officials and jockeys. It is these short races which will yet bring the turf into disrepute. Short races mean "in and out running." People get disgusted with the vagaries of "public form," and many refuse to attend the races under the belief that they have been "played for suckers," The increased number of short dashes have made that class of horse more valuable than a stake horse. Why? Because the stakes at a mile and a quarter or a half are too few and the fields too small, while, on the other hand, the sprinter can be made to win more money in bets. One of our shrewdest racing men, Dave Gideon, told us: "There's no sure money in stake horses. Give me a good one for three-quarters of a mile and I can put him in a selling race and win more than I can in a stake—there's no betting in stake races."

In regard to jockeyship sprint racing has ruined the profession in America. It is a doubtful question if we have a really artistic jockey outside Hayward and Isaac Murphy. The fine art of race-driving, patience, judgment of pace, fine hands, seat, etc., is of no use in this sprint racing. It has developed a race of "hustlers" for jockeys. All they know is to "get off in front and hustle like the devil" to the finish. There's no science in that. It's merely trickiness at the post, disobedience of the starter and disregard for your own neck and everybody else's which make the ideal jockey. The starter can unmake you. If he gets "down on you" he won't let you off, and you are soon voted a "blockhead," and, if if you don't win "a Jonah," and soon sink out of sight. If you want to lose a race you need only get off badly; you'll never get through, and thus you can lose a race without rendering yourself liable for "pulling." This sprint racing has not only developed a brainless lot of jockeys, but has ruined good ones. Mr. Crickmore, of the World, intimated the other day that Hayward regarded himself inferior to what he once was, and great as Garrison is as a hustler we saw him ride like a wooden man in a long distance race last season. McLaughlin, too, never was an artist at distances. He introduced hustling and rose upon the tidal wave of hustling until his success brought him a monopoly of the best mounts. Success, no matter how attained, is more potent than all the ability in the world.

The breeding interest is bound to suffer if this short-distance racing continues. Who is going to pay a good price for stallions or broodmares if it continues? To run races of half a mile, five or six furlongs a first-class stallion or mare is not necessary. A breeder can breed as good horses for this style of racing from a $500 horse as he can from one costing $50,000. Of what avail are such magnificent animals as Longfellow and Glenelg? But few of their get are of any account at such distances. Some light, flashy cocktail will answer better for stud purposes than they. The most shrewd of our public breeders see this, as it is very significant that of late some horses of no very great merit as performers have been purchased cheap and put into the studs. We need mention no names. We have no doubt these horses will become more famous than their betters. Why? Because at half mile and five furlong sprints their progeny will be at home. A first-class horse is not always good at these distances.

The "Breeder's Gazette" states that Mr. Robert Steele only paid B. C. Holly $12,000 for Woodnut, still Mr. Holly was my authority for naming the purchase price at $20,000.

For The BACKING
Of a Colt.

If you have used the Method of Housing your Colts every Winter; and, after the First Winter, used them in the Stable, as you do any other Horse; and that they will Lead, and be as Quiet as any Horse: You need not Fear their Plunging, and Leaping, nor a Hundred Extravagancies more; Neither need you Tyer him in a Bogg, or a Deep Plow'd-Field, to take Off his Spirit, to Break his Heart, or at least, his Wind, before you dare get Upon him. For, being Ordered as I have formerly Told you, you may Safely Back Him, and find him as Quiet as a Lamb, and Never Drive him into Faint-Sweats, which will bring many Diseases upon him.

You need not then a Cavezone of Cord, which Mr. Blundevil, calls a Head-Strain; nor a Padd of Straw; but such a Saddle as you ordinarily Ride Horses of Mannage in, with Stirrups; and on his Nose, an ordinary Cavezone, as you Ride other Horses with; but it must be well Lined with double Leather, as the Rest are: and if you will, you may put a Watering-Bitt in his Mouth, without Rains on, only the Headstal, and this but for a few Dayes; and then to put such a Bitt as I would always Ride him withal, of which we shall Speak hereafter, and so give him the Lessons, which you shall have Perfectly sett down in the Second Book.

But if you light on an Older Colt, and Unruly, then put him to the Single Pillar, and Trot him, and Gallop him on both Hands, until he be very Quiet, and will Peaceably suffer you to Take his Back; which he will not Fail to do within four or five Dayes at the most, if you Use this Method: And I do not Know, that the Single Pillar, the Old Way, is good for anything, but this. At first you must Ride your Colt without Spurrs. And thus much for Backing of Colts.

Of The SPANISH MULES.

I have seen the Finest Shap't of them in the World; the Finest Shap't Heads, and the Best set On; the Finest Turned Necks, and the Thinnest, and Well Risen; Excellent Backs, good Bodies; their Leggs Clean, and Sinewy; Admirable Hooffs; their Croups a little Slender: And in a Word, No Horse in the World finer Shap't, and only their Ears are a Little Long, which, methinks, is a Grace to them. They are of all Colours, as Bayes, Dapple-Grayes, and so forth. Extremely Strong, as Strong as Two Horses; very Large, Some as Large as any Horse whatsoever, and of great Prices; as three, and four Hundred Pistols a Mule. The King of Spain hath Beautifull, and Large ones in his Coach; they Use them very much for the Saddle; for they Amble most Curiously, and Easily; they seldom Stumble, but when they Do, they never Fall further than the Knees.

They are very Safe and Sure to Ride on; there be some very Little ones, and Fine ones, like Gallowayes; and those Commonly great Generals, and Commanders, Ride on in the Trenches, and about Fortifi'd Castles, to View them: The Grosser sort they Use for Sumpters, Waggons, and Carriers for many things. They also Ride Post on them; and Don John de Borge, who was Governour at Antwerp, told me, That they would Amble as fast as any Horse could Gallop.

They Live Long, and Sound, Thirty Years at least: There are Males and Females of them, and very Hot they are in the Act of Generation, but never produce any thing, with any thing; either to Get, or Bring Forth.

They say, One is never assured of them from Biting or Striking though the Groom hath kept them Twenty Years; But I perceive no such Thing in them: And I have seen a Mule go in Capriols, excellently well. They say, They have Ill Mouths; but that's because they Spoyl them with Horrible Bitts: For they use both Other Bitts, and other Saddles and Furniture to them, than to Horses; wherein they are very much Mistaken. To those that are for the Saddle, I would use the very same Bitts and Saddles, as for Horses, and no otherwise. 'Tis true, that for Sumpters, there be Proper things that they use for Them only, and not for Horses, which is very Comely. And in Spain, they use in their Coaches, Ropes for the Mules (and the Horses also) to Draw the Coaches withall. They are Excellent to Ride on in Stoney-Waves, none like them: they are so Sure of Foot.

102 The New Method

The Stallions that Get theſe Mules. are Aſſes, upon very Fine Spaniſh Mares.

Sir Benjamin Wright, being a Merchant at Madrid, Writ to me once, That a Stallion Aſſe would Coſt, at the leaſt, Two Hundred and Fifty Piſtols; but others Tell me of Greater Prices that They are at: and great Reaſon, ſince Mules are of ſo great Uſe to them in Spain.

My Lord Cottington told me, That the Aſſes in Spain, are Greater and Larger Beaſts, than ever he ſaw of Horſes in all his Life, and almoſt of Any other Beaſt; and are ſo Furious, and full of Spirit, That there is Men, that Live only by the Ordering of them, and no Other Men can do it, but thoſe men which make a Trade of it; for Others would be Kill'd by them. And Theſe Men Hood the Aſſes when they Cover any Mares, that they may not See them; for otherwiſe they would Pull the Mares in Pieces, and Kill them. When they Bray, it is a moſt Lowd and Horrid Noiſe, beyond any Lyon in the world.

Now you ſee, There is great Reaſon, why they ſhould be of Great Prices; but one that Thinks they they should be just such Little dull Asses as are in England, of Twenty or Thirty Shillings a Piece, would Laugh to hear this Tale told; Because they think there is Nothing more in the World than they have seen: As in such a case, Sir Walter Rawley said well, That there are Stranger Things in the World, than between Stains and London. The Asses in France, are just like the Asses in England; Little, Lazy, Dull, and Woful things, and of as Small Price; only in those Parts of France that are next Spain, there the Asses are Large, but nothing in Comparison of those in Spain.

The Shee-Asses in Spain, are very Fair, and Large; For else, How can you Imagine such huge, large, and great Puissant Beasts should be Produc'd?

That TRYING
KNOW HORSES.

I Told you, That Marks, Colours, and Elements, are Nothing at all to Know a Horse by; for they are but Philosophical Mountebanks that Talk of such Toyes. Nay, Shape is nothing to Know the Goodness of a Horse; and therefore the best Philosophy is to Try him: And you may be Deceived then, if he be a Young Horse; for Colts alter extreamly, both in Spirit and Strength. What Judgment can one give of a Little Boy, what Kind of Man he will Prove? No more can one give a Judgment of a Colt, what Kind of Horse he will Prove. But still Ride him, and Try him; and that is the Best Philosophy to Know him by.

Some say, If a Horse have a Great Head, a Thick Neck, and Fleshy Shoulders, that he is Hard on the Hand: You must Know, That if he have any Imperfection in his Leggs or Feet, but especiall Before, the Horse must be Hard on the Hand; for he Leans on the Hand, to Ease the Grief of his Leggs, as a Gowty-Man doth Use his Staff. And let him be finely-Shap't, or ill-Shap't, if he have any Imperfection in his Leggs, he must be Hard on the Hand; and then the Farrier must Cure him, and not the Horse-man; for the Art of Riding will not make a Lame Horse Sound.

Our Great Masters, and Best Authours, say, That when a Horse is Sound, if he have a Great Head, Thick Neck, and Fleshy Shoulders; that then, of Necessity, this Horse must be Hard on the Hand; and give many Rare Lessons, as they Think, to make him Leight on the Hand: And they also say, That a Horse that hath a fine Thin Forehand, must be Leight on the Hand, wherein they are infinitely Deceived; for I have Known more Thick Heads, Necks, and Shoulders, Leight on the Hand, than I have Known fine Shap't, and Slender Forehands. But it is neither the One, nor the Other, that makes it, but meerly the Strength of his Chine. For, if a Horse that hath a Great Head, Thick Neck, and Fleshy Shoulders, hath a Good Chine, he will be Leight on the Hand; and if he have a Weak Chine, he will be Hard on the Hand. And so a Fine Forehand, if he have a Weak Chine, he is Hard on the Hand; and if he have a Strong Chine, he is Leight on the Hand: So it is, not having a Gross, or a Fine Forehand, that makes him Hard or Leight, on the Hand; but all Consists in the Strength of his Chine.

The Reason of that, is, Because if he hath a Strong Back, he can Suffer without Grief or Pain, to be put upon the Hanches: And no Horse is upon the Hanches, but he is Leight on the Hand; and if his Chine be Weak, the putting him upon the Hanches, doth so Pinch him, as he Presses upon his Foreparts to save the Pain on his Back; and sometimes will Run away, rather than to Suffer it; and will Leap, rather than to be Pincht of his Weak Back: and yet I must Tell you, The Strongest Horses are not Fittest, or Properest, for the Mannage, nor for a Souldiers Horse; for you must Gallop him an Hour before you can take him Off his Fury; and such Counter-times of Leaps, do In-commode the Rider, to no Purpose: And when you would make him Go, he shall not Go so Well, as a Horse of Half his Strength: and though he Leaps in such a Manner, that will Disorder an Armed-Man; yet the Best Horse-man in the World shall not make him a Leaping-Horse: Therefore the best for the Mannage, and the War, is a Horse that hath so much Strength as to Indure a Stopp, and no more, to make him Easie for an Armed-Man. And Certainly a Weak Horse with Spirit, Docil, and of a Good Disposition, is much Better, and will go Beyond a huge Flanders Horse, of a Dutch Brewer, that hath no Spirit: And I must Tell you, That the Greatest and Largest Horses are not commonly the Strongest, but for the most part the Contrary; for that which makes them Draw, is their Weight, and not their Strength, nor their Spirit; for they have none. I dare say, I can take a little English Cart-Horse, that shall Draw Twice as much as their Great Flanders Horses: Commonly those they Use in Flanders are Geldings.

Whipple's Hambletonian.

BY FOLIO.

Whipple's Hambletonian has heretofore been noted as the sire of fourteen trotters with records from 2:19 to 2:30. When compared with the numbers in the 2:30 list to the credit of Rysdyk's Hambletonian, Geo. Wilkes, Electioneer, etc., the subject of our sketch makes but a meagre showing, but if the surrounding circumstances and opportunities be properly weighed, it is doubtful whether the old horse is not entitled to much greater credit than is generally accorded to him. A glance at his representatives in the list shows that but two of these were from fashionably-bred mares (Ajax, 2:29, and May Boy, 2:26); three others were from dams sired by running-bred horses; four were from dams beyond the pale of fashion, and five were from dams of unknown breeding.

Of his sons that have bred on, Rustic, 2:30, (who was out of a thoroughbred dam) sired Nighttime, 2:29½, out of a "said to be" mare. Priam (also running-bred on the dam's side) begot Honesty, 2:25¾, (at four years) out of a Chieftain mare. Whipple, out of a mare by Easton's David Hill, sired Retta, 2:28¾, out of a Clark Chief mare. Gen. Dana, who was from a mare of unknown breeding (also the dam of Alexander, 2:31¼), sired Volunteer, 2:27, out of a Novato Chief (Blackhawk) mare. Volunteer, 2:27, is credited in the list with Connemara, 2:27½, and Jackson Temple, 2:38¾, sire of Emma Temple, 2:28½, and Mattie P., 2:31. His most noticeable line in male descent comes, however, through Hambletonian Jr. (brother to Ajax, 2:29), he being the sire of Whippleton (out of Lady Livingstone by Gen. Taylor), who, during the past two seasons has placed to his credit Homestake (pacer) 2:16, Lily Stanley, 2:17½, and Flora B., 2:30, all three of them from dams of unknown breeding.

It cannot be claimed that there would be anything very wonderful in the showing above made under ordinary circumstances; but, if there be taken into consideration the fact that none of these sires have, as a rule, been bred to any better mares than generally come to "cross roads" stallions, it must be admitted that there must somewhere have been an exceedingly strong trotting instinct to perpetuate the trotting gait through four or five generations in spite of the ever-recovering infusion of unknown blood.

The past year or two, however, has brought out the blood of Whipple's Hambletonian in a new and stronger light. Whipple's Hambletonian dams seem to be "nicking" most marvelously with all sorts of stallions. Two years ago Dawn, 2:19½, by Nutwood, out of Countess, by Whipple's Hambletonian, was confessedly the fastest stallion of his age on the coast; last year that game son of Sultan's, Soudan, out of Lady Babcock, by Whipple's Hambletonian, scored a three-year-old record of 2:30. The past season Lady Babcock placed a second to her credit in Elector, 2:21¼, by Electioneer; another daughter, Marti, produced (to Electioneer's embrace) Mortimer, with a four-year-old record of 2:27, and a fourth has given us Steve Whipple, 2:23, at four years (he being sired by Chrisman's Hambletonian). In addition to the above there is Helen, 2:30¼, (at three years) by Gen. Benton.

The above are all I recall as being on the record, but it is a well-known fact that Marlet, also by Electioneer, out of Marti (the dam of Mortimer 2:27), trotted trials in 2:31 as a two-year-old, and as a three-year-old covered the Sacramento track in a public trial in 2:27 (coming home from the half-mile post in 1:11), whilst the records at Palo Alto show that another sister, Morning Glory, showed quarters as a two-year-old in 39 seconds, and Alamira (out of Alameda Maid) as a three-year-old trotted quarters in 35 seconds. Nothing but an accident could have prevented Strathway, by Steinway, out of Countess (dam of Dawn 2:19½) from scoring a record well inside of the 2:30 limit during the past season.

It must be conceded that the foregoing is a remarkable showing for Whipple's Hambletonian. Up to 1888 Geo. Wilkes, the most ultra fashionable sire of the day, had only four dams with six trotters in 2:30 to his credit, whilst Whipple's Hambletonian, with but a tithe of the former's opportunities and "fashion," now has four dams with five trotters in the same category.

If, however, we study the breeding of this great old horse, I think my readers will be surprised that his worth has not been more fully appreciated. In Martha Washington he undoubtedly had a great dam; her merit has been shown not only through the breeding and success of the son under review, but she has also to her credit another son, Speculation, the sire of Oakland Maid 2:22, Gracie S. 2:28½, and Crown Point 2:24, the last-named being furthermore the sire of Valensin 2:23 as a three-year-old. Martha Washington's dam was by old Abdallah, sire of the dams of Goldsmith Maid 2:14, and six others in 2:30; her sire, Burr's Washington, sired Lady Woodruff 2:28, and the dam of Jessie Maud 2:29, and was out of a Mambrino mare by Burr's Napoleon, who, although not having anything of speed to his own credit, must be given a share of honor in being the sire of the dam of Fanny Mapes (dam of Jerome Eddy 2:16¼) and sire of Telegraph, sire of dam of Rarus 2:13¼.

If now we turn to Guy Miller (sire of Whipple's Hambletonian) who was sired by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, we shall find that the blood of this progenitor has not been dormant either. He sired Delmonico, who in turn sired Darby, 2:16½, and Sultana dam of Sultan, 2:24, the latter breeding in through his incomparable sire, Stamboul, 2:14¾, to Nehusta, 2:30, and Visolia, 2:29½, as a two-year-old, and timed separately in her race with Sunol at the same age in 2:27¾.

Am I then too sanguine in predicting for Whipple's Hambletonian a place among the foremost of fashionable sires? It is scarcely likely that many, if any, more will be added to his 2:30 list, but there are great possibilities and probabilities still open for him through his daughters, and it seems to the writer that when attention is called to what he has already achieved in this line these daughters will be more highly valued and more carefully mated, both to the credit of Whipple's Hambletonian and to the profit of their owners.

Suburban Tips.

For quite a number of years the Suburban has been looked foward to with great expectation by the racing public, until it is acknowledged as the greatest all aged event which now takes place in this country. How many times one hears the remark, "If I could only pick the winner of the Suburban," yet men keep thinking over the matter until they only see one horse in the race and finally become convinced that their selection cannot lose. Year after year winter books have been opened on the event and hundreds of thousands of dollars risked on the result. In 1884 when the great prize was captured by Gen. Munroe, as much as 15 to 1 could have been had against him, for who could imagine that he would beat such horses as Geo. Kinney, Barnes, Rica, Pizarro and Jack of Hearts. Then in 1885, Monogram, Richmond and Rataplan were the great tips, still Pontiac, an outsider, was the lucky one. For 1886, Lizzie Dwyer was the pronounced favorite, Joe Cotton and Favor dividing second honor in the mind of the betting public, yet the winner turned up in Troubadour, against who—during the winter the very tidy odds of 75 to 1 could have been secured. 1887, furnished still another surprise, as Richmond was considered the sure thing and although there were twenty starters, the best odds procurable against the favorite were 2 to 1. Quito was second choice at 5 to 2, and from that up to 50 to 1 were laid against the others. That swerving rogue Eurus proved too much for his field, he romping home the easiest of winners by six lengths. Before the flag fell 20 to 1 against him could be had in thousands from the bookies. We now come to last year's running, when Hidalgo and Terra Cotta were equal favorites, individually, but the ones to carry the public money was the Haggin stable, Hidalgo and Firenzi combined. During the winter, Elkwood was hardly thought of, 75 to 1 being the ruling odds, and even 40 to 1 was given on the day of the race, the last, or starting odds being 25 to 1. The rider of Terra Cotta, Kiley, allowed his horse to swerve when within a few yards of the wire, and Elkwood was enabled to win by half a head. Thus again the favorite was downed and a long shot won. To test the opinion of prominent horsemen in California and elsewhere as to the probable winner this year, about fifty have received postal cards and their opinions asked for, in addition to individuals who have been personally invited to give their preferences.

Genial Tom Merry, editor of the Portland Sunday Mercury—I fancy Taragon on his performances of last year, I think Mr. Cassatt's entry the best of the lot, at the weight.

W. L. Appleby—I like Aurelia, but as mares are seldom at their best at that season of the year, if I selected one, not knowing anything more about them than their performances, I would take Hanover.

Leslie E. McLeod, assistant editor of Wallace's Monthly has a warm heart for the thoroughbred, as well as for the trotting families, and he gives his opinion. At the weights Belvidere will have a great show.

Matt Storn—If Eolian comes to the post in proper condition, he should win handily.

James McLaughlin, jockey for the Chicago stable—At first glance I think that Terra Cotta should have no trouble in winning.

Col. Fred Vaughan—From the manner in which Judge Murray finished up his season I rather fancy the Bertha B. colt.

W. A. Purssell of New York, at present visiting the Pacific Coast—From the consistant manner in which Kingston ran last year I incline toward his chances.

C. E. Trevathan, horse editor of the San Francisco Chronicle—I must stick to the favorite, The Bard.

Ben Benjamin, "Dagworth," of the Los Angeles Tribune—I am inclined to think that the Clifton Horse, Drumstick has more than a passing show at his light weight.

Walter Olney, who lately bought Winfield from J. B. Haggin—Kingston first, last and all the time, will prove the only thing in it.

Peter DeLacy, well known bookmaker of New York—I wish Mr. Haggin had left Firenzi in, she was good enough for me, The Bard will have to be my next choice.

M. McManus, trotting horse driver—Gorgo ought to be a very hard mare to beat.

Matt Allen, trainer for Senator Hearst—I think Firenzi was hardly dealt with, Kingston in his best form may win.

P. McCaffrey, turf writer for the San Francisco Call—If fit, Hanover should have little or no trouble in landing the prize.

T. R. Horton, after a careful perusal of the entries and weights—Put me down for Hanover.

Tom Atchison, the old time turfite—I don't want to see the list; there's only one horse in it, and that's Terra Cotta.

R. T. Carroll, member of the P. C. Blood Horse Association—Egmont should have as good a chance as any.

S. B. Whitehead, the noted pool seller—I cannot see how Terra Cotta can be beat. "All right, Tuttle, I'll go you an oyster supper; my selection against yours."

Charles Kingsley, prominent bookmaker—The handicapper has let Eolo in so easily that I will have to select him.

Bob Holland, whom everybody knows—The Bard will run away from that lot.

Hon. E. S. Culver, Secretary of the Blood Horse Association, and member of the Assembly—My preference is for Yum Yum.

Cy. Mulkey, a well-known horseman—I must say if Terra Cotta is sound, he is my choice for the Suburban.

Southern Pacific Handicap.

The following entries have been made to Secretary H. T. Rodman, of the Southern California Racing Club, for the Southern Pacific handicap, to be run on the first day of the Spring Meeting at Los Angeles. Entries closed Feb. 21:

Pacific Stables—Ed. McGinnis 4—110 pounds.
Pacific Stables—Welcome 4—108 pounds.
P. C. Dornalech—Naicho B 3—95 pounds.
P. C. Dornalech—El Plano 3—90 pounds.
Chas. Sible—Galgo 6—105 pounds.
Al. Morine—John Treat 6—112 pounds.
J. D. Dunne—Four Aces 3—100 pounds.
E. J. Baldwin—Lillita 4—100 pounds.
E. J. Baldwin—Carrientes 3—104 pounds.
Albert Cooper—Canny Scott 4—97 pounds.
G. W. Trahern—Dave Douglas 7—112 pounds.
G W Trahern—G. W. 3—87 pounds.
Archie Stevenson—Susie S. 4—105 pounds.
Archie Stevenson—Gem of the Mountain 5—103 pounds.
T. Bally—Little Phil 3—95 pounds.

Advertising Notes.

The fashionably bred black stallion Henry Clay is offered for sale by Mr. J. McEntee of Monterey County. There is no more stylish horse to be found in all California, his action is perfect, and although never trained for speed he can show a three minute gait at any time. Read the advertisement for particulars.

Mr. Mathews who formerly worked for General Bidwell at Chico, is requested to send his address to this office.

Trainer Griffen of the Bay District track has two advertisements in the current issue, one announcing that Arlington, by Abbottsford, dam the Gillespie mare by Blue Bull, will make the season at the track. Montgomery Queen, Esq., used to drive the dam of this horse, and she was considered one of the finest roadsters in the United States. The sire Abbottsford, 2:19½, is so well known that nothing need be said about him. This magnificent stallion will stand at the low price of $25 the season. He also informs the public that he has the well bred stallion Blue Gown for sale. Read the pedigree, and it is long odds that if you want to buy a good horse that you will give Mr. Griffen a call.

Mr. Fred W. Loeber announces that his three stallions Whippleton 1883, Alcona 730, and Grandissimo, will make the usual season at St. Helena. Of Whippleton too much cannot be said; it is doubtful if there is another stallion in the United States that can show such a record: Lily Stanley 2:17½, dam's breeding unknown; Homestakes 2:16½, pacer, dam's breeding unknown; Flora B. 2:30, dam's breeding unknown; Rachael 2:38, dam's breeding unknown. If that does not stamp Whippleton as being one of the best producing sires in the world, then facts go for nothing. In Alcona 730, Mr. Loeber has as fashionably bred a horse as one could desire. The most conclusive proof that Alcona is all that is claimed for him is evinced in the fact that eleven of his colts sold for $7,810, an average of $710 each. He is by Almont, and one of his very best sons; his colts all possess speed, style, beauty and finish. Grandissimo is a full brother to Grandee (three-year-old record 2:23½), being by La Grande, dam Jessie Pepper by Mambrino Chief. This fine young horse is limited to ten mares, and several applications for service have already been made. Read the different pedigrees in the advertisement, then send for further particulars. Address, F. W. Loeber, St. Helena.

Still another well bred stallion is Amberine by Prompter, dam Bonnie by John Nelson. In this horse flows the justly celebrated blood of Wilson's Blue Bull 75, who has placed scores in the "30" class. Prompter's dam Prairie Bird is in the Great Brood mare table, a proved producer herself, and from a great family of producers. Any information required, further than is shown in the announcement will be cheerfully given by either the proprietor, Mr. J. J. Evans, or Sam Gamble at the Oakland race track

The well known W. H. (Knap) McCarthy, of Los Angeles, notifies the readers of this paper that he will receive only ten approved mares for his stallion Rajah 2:29½. Rajah, is by Sultan, dam Kitty Wilkes by Geo. Wilkes; second dam by American Clay; third dam by Sir Archy. Now where is the person that has ought to say against that pedigree. If "Knap" does not secure ten mares in very short order for Rajah we will sadly miss our guess. Address Mr. McCarthy, Los Angeles.

Napa City is not behind with the stallion record, for from there we receive the advertisement of Wilkes Pasha 2618, as far as we are aware at present, the only son of Onward, trial 2:17, that is in this State. Onward was by George Wilkes, 2:22, and is one of the most noted sires of the day. In 1887 he placed seven performers in the 2:30 list, and in 1888 still further added to his reputation by placing nine sons and daughters in the list. Wilkes Pasha, with desirable mares, should prove one of the best stallions in California, and will undoubtedly stamp himself such by his produce.

At the sale of trotting horses put up at auction by the executors of the Searle estate, Sunflower, 2:28, was bought by Dan McCarty, price $950. Duchess, Frank Burke, $575. Don Quixote, A. Rosenbaum, $725. Somoa, J. H. Smith, $280. Fleetwood, S. Otis, $170. Robert Elsmere, McMahon & Son, $340. Judge Belden, L. Jones, $290. Ben Hur, L. Jones, $220. Rex, Sam Gamble, $700. Silver Thread, Dan McCarthy, $525. Engadine, Mrs. J. M. Donahue, $260. Ko Ko, S. Otis, $235. After the sale the pacing horse Damiana was sold to Mr. Graham of Eureka, price $325.

Mr. H. W. Heinsch of 267 North Main street, Los Angeles, has been appointed sole agent for the sale of the celebrated McKerrons's horse boots, and announces that fact to the residents of California through our columns. The standard goods have a high representation, and Mr. Heinsch will add greatly to his already large saddlery business by handling the fine horse equipments.

Mr. John Rowen, of Oakland, sends in an advertisement regarding his stallion St. Nicholas. As the last edition of this journal had an elegant cut of this horse, with full description and pedigree, it is unnecessary to say much about him now. St. Nicholas is justly considered one of Sidney's best sons, and as the fee is only $50, should be largely patronized.

MATHEWS.

If MR. MATHEWS, Short-horn expert, late of Gen. Bidwells, of Chico, Butte County, will send his address to this office he will greatly oblige.

THE

1891.

A sweepstakes for trotting colts and fillies, foals of 1888, $175 each, $25 payable on the 2d of April, 1889, which must accompany the nomination, and none will be recorded in which there is a failure to comply with this requirement, at which time the stakes will close; $25 on the 1st of January 1890; $25 on the 1st of January 1891, and $100 thirty days before the day fixed for trotting, whatever amount up to be considered forfeit, and the neglect to pay at the stipulated time incurring forfeiture of the previous payments. The race to be heats of a mile, best 3 in 5 to harness. First to receive six-ninths of the whole sum, the second two-ninths, the third one-ninth. In addition to the stakes and forfeits the proportion of the gate money, profit on pool sales, and all other sources of emolument will constitute the gross amount, to be divided in the foregoing proportions. Five or more subscribers to fill. The race to be trotted in 1891, not sooner than the 1st of August. The exact date to be fixed and announced on the 1st of April, 1891, or sooner.

Race to be governed by the Rules of the National Trotting Association. Nominations to be made to N. T. SMITH, Treasurer, S P Railroad Office, Fourth and Townsend Streets, on or before the 2d day of April, 1889. The colt must be named, the name and pedigree, so far as known, given.

Should a Pacific Coast Trotting-Horse Breeder's Association be gotten up, the above stake may be transferred to that, the Treasurer, N. T. Smith, having the power to make the transfer, and also to arrange anything else, in connection with this stake which is not expressed in the above conditions. Should it occur that Captain Smith cannot act at any time, then a majority of the subscribers still eligible to start will have the power to fill the vacancy.

Under the new trotting rules letters legibly postmarked April 1st will be eligible.

N. T. SMITH, Treasurer.

Grim's Gossip.

The sportsmen of Winters and vicinity are talking of starting a racing association and building a track.

Marion, the dam of the Emperor of Norfolk, has a foal by her side, the sire being Joe Hooker.

Peter Nichols, of Rockland Lake, Rockland County, N. Y., has a mare forty-four years of age. Who can beat it?

Remember that entries for the Los Angeles Spring Meeting close with the Secretary, Mr. H. D. Rodman, on March 15th.

Jimmy McLaughlin the jockey is travelling west, and may in all probability come to San Francisco before he joins the Chicago Stable.

General E. F. Beale has joined the circle of horsemen at the Palace, and is as enthusiastic as any of the younger members of the coterie.

An Australian syndicate is trying to purchase Harry Wilkes, 2:13½, and Rosalind Wilkes, 2:14¼. The pair have been offered for $50,000.

I am informed that Mr. Homer Saxe has sold his stallion, Prince Mambrino, which was lately leased to R. B. James, of Gilroy.

Mr. J. B. Haggin will sail from New York on March 9th for England. He will return to witness the opening of the Coney Island Meeting.

The directors of the meeting at Helena, Mont., have changed the 2:28 pacing race to a free for all, and make the purse $1,000 instead of $500.

Hon. E. S. Culver, secretary of the Blood Horse Association, informs me that the first day of the Blood Horse Meeting will be April 20th.

Mr. Lindsay, a Montana stock man, has taken several horses over with him to England, and has already won two steeplechase races with them.

E. A. DeCamp has resigned as Secretary of the Sixth District Agricultural Association. It will be a hard matter to replace such an active, hard-working official.

Theodore Winters has the finest lot of yearlings he has ever had. His horses which wintered at Washoe were brought down to Sacramento on last Monday.

A syndicate, consisting of New York breeders, have offered Col. R. J. Stoner, of Kentucky, $46,000 for Baron Wilkes, but the Colonel says his horse is not for sale.

Bermuda, 2:20½, is the only horse in the history of the trotting turf which has been in active training since a yearling, that each successive season has lowered his record.

Jockey Covington was reported to have signed with Senator Hearst for the approaching season, but the rumor was unfounded, as Norvice will be the light weight jockey.

Among the high caste mares sent to St. Bel this year are Aldine and Early Rose, Mr. Vanderbilt's great team that trotted the Hartford track in 2:16½ in the fall of 1882.

Two of Senator Hearst's two-year-olds were sent a half, a few days ago in 53 seconds. That was beat all to pieces, however, by L. U. Shippee's Whisban, who covered the same distance in 51¾ very handily.

Volante will positively be taken East in the Baldwin string, but he will not be started until the Saratoga meeting. Mr. Baldwin seems to be under the impression that his grand old horse is as good as ever.

Mr. Edginton, of Napa County, has purchased a grand looking stallion, five-years-old by Whippleton, dam The Bucephalus mare. He is being put through his paces by Mr. Marsh, at the Santa Rosa track.

The good folks of Petaluma are enjoying a stallion and colt show to-day at the Agricultural Park. Mr. Fox, the new lessee, has the grounds in splendid order. A report of the affair will appear in our next issue.

Mr. J. Trestail has sold two more of his imported Clydesdale stallions, one to Chas. Scott of Napa, for $1250, and the other to Mr. L. French of Alviso for $1300. Mr. Trestail still has four imported mares of the same breed.

Many thanks to Mr. Wilfred Page for a finely executed photograph of his stallion Mortimer 5346. It now adorns the walls of this office in close proximity to the portraits of Phallis and Anteeo.

Mr. Theodore Winters has visited his Sacramento ranch this week, and inspected his yearlings. One of them, a full brother to the Emperor of Norfolk, Mr. Winters has refused an offer of $5,000 for. I am informed that he is almost an exact counterpart of the Emperor.

C. B. Hurxthal, a well-known turfman and breeder of trotting and racing stock, and proprietor of the Chillicothe Driving Park, died last week of pneumonia, aged 60 years. He leaves a large estate.

It is the opinion of a good many turfmen, says the Breeder's Gazette, that if Messrs. Haggin and Baldwin want to win handicaps at the far Eastern meetings they will have to quit running their nominations for those events at Louisville and other Western and Southern points.

Harry Lowden is over in Nevada, and he writes from Reno that he has visited Mr. Theo. Winter's Stock Farm at Washoe. He reports Don Jose in fine fettle, and the two-year-olds as all looking grand. He will return to this city about the 15th of next month.

A fire broke out in the basement of the main building at the Bay District track a few days ago, and if it had not been for the vigilence of one of D. J. McCarty's men, the loss would undoubtedly have been serious. The fire was discovered about half past six in the morning, and the occasion of it is not known.

A literary wave is sweeping with moving force among the trotting horse trainers. Charles Marvin is now preparing a work on "Training the Trotting Horse," which will be a practical exposition of the Palo Alto method of developing trotters. Mr. Leslie E. Macleod of Wallace's Monthly will have charge of the literary construction of the work, the publication of which will be announced in the spring.

The San Jose Blood Horse Association have secured the services of J. W. Donathan as starter for the forthcoming races. A man of rare experience in such matters, Mr. Donathan should give great satisfaction.

Mr. D. D. Withers confidently asserts that his two-year-old Chieftain is a better colt than the Faverdale one was last season. If he is correct, the new candidate for turf honors must be another Tremont.

C. V. Tupper and James Brown, the trainer of Santa Rosa, passed through the city on their way to Sacramento last week. They report the horses at the track in good condition, Al Farrow being in splendid form.

W. J. Gordon, the well-known horseman of Cleveland, is considering the sale of Clingstone, Guy, Nobby, Clingstone II and his brood mares. If he decides to sell, the horses will be offered at the Fasig sale in May. Mr. Gordon is in poor health, and thinks of disposing of his trotters for that reason.

At the Brasfield sale, at Lexington, Ky., there were a total of 469 horses sold at the average price of $387. At the Woodard sale 518 were sold, the average being $581. The Woodard average was raised materially by the large price paid for Bell Boy.

The San Jose Blood Horse Association have adopted the rules of the P. C. B. H. A, with the exception of the one referring to dead heats. They have decided that any dead heat shall be run off twenty minutes after the heat in question, and not after the last race of the day, as the rule at present reads.

Mr. G. A. Doherty has removed his sensational trotter, Victor, 2:22½, from Indian Valley, in Plumas County, to Chico. He will, in all probability, be prepared there for the season's campaign. His owner feels assured that the colt's present record will be materially reduced.

Mr. J. W. Wilson, of Sacramento, ex-President of the Capital Turf Club, is highly spoken of by the many strangers who go there to see the horses at the track, or to visit the many stock farms in that vicinity. He is courteous and obliging, always ready to give information and show attention to visitors.

Mr. W. H. Wilson, Abdallah Park, Cynthiana, Ky., on the 31 inst. lost the black stallion Ravenswood, public trial at four years old, 2:26, by Blackwood Jr., 2:22½. The horse had but a few weeks ago been farmed to parties in Hamilton, Mo., where he died of congestion of the lungs.

Mr. T. J. Ludwig, of Santa Rosa, has purchased a full brother to his fine trotting horse by Alexander Button, sire of Yolo Maid. Like the other, he is a bay, stands the same height, 17 hands, and the pair can trot together in 2:35. They are both at the Santa Rosa track being exercised.

Patron is now the sole property of Mr. C. F. Emery. Two years ago he paid Mr. A. D. Merrill, of Tilsonburg, Can., $12,500 for a half interest in the stallion. Last week the master of the Forest City Farm visited Tilsonburg and paid Mr. Merrill a large sum for his share of the great young stallion.

Robert Bonner has been interviewed in New York and was asked if it was true that he proposed buying Sunol, and said, "There has been some correspondence between Senator Stanford and myself regarding Sunol, but we have not reached any conclusion yet, consequently I do not care to say anything more about it now. I will say, however, that no such price as $50,000 has been mentioned by Senator Stanford."

Mr. Arthur Brisbane writes me from London that all reports to the contrary notwithstanding, Ormonde will be shipped to Buenos Ayres as soon after the first of June as possible. Mr. Gerrard, who had leased his services from the Duke of Westminster, gives up one year of the time, and the Argentine Republic buys the horse, paying therefor $70,000.

Mr. W. H. Wilson, Cynthiana, Ky., has sold to W. P. Brock, of Maud, Bucks Co., Pa., the bay yearling colt Gray's Ferry by Simmons, record 2:28. First dam Carrie Almont by Abdallah Mambrino 3715; second dam Margaret by (Rankins) American Boy, son of American Boy. Also to same party bay mare Clytie by Byerly Abdallah (sire of Jerome Turner, 2:15), dam by Indian Chief 832. Clytie belonged to the estate of Noe Dills.

D. J. McCarty has tried very perseveringly to institute the white hat as a badge by which to distinguish celebrated turfites, but he finds it hard work to accomplish his end. In furtherance thereof he is now making presents of the long furred cadies to his friends. Word reaches me from New York that the one he sent to Secretary McIntyre of the Brooklyn Jockey Club fits exactly, and is highly appreciated.

Sam Bryant is authority for the statement that he has been offered $300 to declare Proctor Knott out of the Kentucky Derby. The story comes from a correspondent to the Live Stock Record and sounds very fishy, as it has been a well known fact, to the majority of horsemen, for two months past, that Knott would not start for the Derby. Bryant has been loading up the reporters again. It's a way of his.

Mr. Charles Kilgore of the firm of Kilgore & Disston, is at present in California having been sent out as the agent of Robert Steele, Esq., of Philadelphia, to pay the money and take possession of Woodnut, his latest purchase. While in this state Mr. Kilgore will try to secure about a dozen choice broodmares to take back with him. As Mr. Holly had made up his mind to go East for the purpose of being present at the sale of the Californian trotting horses, Woodnut returned to his care and will be taken to Philadelphia under the charge of his late owner. Mr. Kilgore is understood to be in negotiation with several owners of first class mares, and has offered $6,000 for Manon 2:21 by Nutwood, dam Addie by Hambletonian Chief.

The following is a complete list of Senator Hearst's horses now being trained at Sheepshead Bay by Matt Allen: True Briton, 5; San Simeon, 4; Philander, 3; Surinam, 4; Question, 4; Rhono, 3; Glen Echo, 4; Gorgo, 4; Peachblow, 3. Eveleen, ch f, 3, by Hock Hocking; Vixen, by imp. Saxon. King Thomas, b c, 2, by King Ban; Maud Hampton. Kingmaker, c, 2, by Warwick, dam by Wildidle; Yolone. Anaconda, b c, 2, Spendthrift, Maid of Athol. Sir Lancelot, b c. 2, by Sir Modred. Faustina. Ballarat, b c, 2, by Sir Modred. Favorita. Minstrel, ch c, 2, by Hock Hocking. Maid of the Mist. Tournament, br c, 2, by Sir Modred—Plaything. Lovelace, br c, 2, by Kyrle Daly—My Love. Golden Horn, b f, 2, by Spendthrift—Constantinople. Gloamin, b f, 2, by Sir Modred—Twilight. Everglade, blk f, 2, by Iroquis—Agenoria. Barn Dance, ch f, 2, by Warwick—Cinderella.

George Hankins, the owner of Terra Cotta, objects to the weight his horse has to carry in the Suburban, and may possibly withdraw him. If such is his intention, he should follow the precedent of Mr. Haggin, and do it at once, for Terra Cotta has many warm friends among the betting public.

Suburban Handicap—Firenzi, 128; Kingston, 128; Sir Dixon, 122; Larchmont, 103; Now or Never, 106 pounds.

Volunteer Handicap—French Park, 128; The Lioness, 115; Harry Kirkover, 108; Madstone, 118; Cynosure, 115; Sluggard, 111; Chemise, 110 pounds.

Stallion Sales.

Each copy of the BEEDER AND SPORTSMAN for many weeks past has had to announce the sale of one or more stallions to foreign purchasers, and now we have to chronicle the departure for all time from this State of two more. Perhaps in the first instance, many may say, well Bell Boy would not have stood in this State anyway, as his book had already been made in Kentucky, but it must be taken into consideration that he was bred and raised in California, and owned, until last Thursday week, by a Californian, so we take the credit to the State. At the great combination sale of W. T. Woodward at Lexington, Ky., which progressed over a period of six days, many very fine horses were offered at public auction, among the number being Mr. Seamen's fast son of Electioneer. A letter from our Kentucky correspondent says the sale was very spirited, and when Bell Boy was brought out from his stall the spectators broke out into raptureous applause. There were three auctioneers who took turns at selling the different lots as they were brought forward, but it tell to the turn of Col. R. E. Edmonson of Lexington, to ask for bids on the great four-year-old. When the horse was being led out a telegram was received saying that R. Steele of Philadelphia, had bought Woodnut at private sale for $40,000, and almost instantly with that announcement came the news that Anteeo had been bought by Eastern parties for $30,0000. This naturally added to the excitement, as it was well known that several parties out of the 3,000 present, were determined to pay a long price for the colt. Mr. J. H. Ryder of Franklin, Pa., commenced operations by bidding $30,000, applause greeting the bid. Before the noise incidental thereto had died away, Mr. Woodard, acting under the instructions from a private bidder, raised the amount to $35,000. The crowd was now at fever heat, and it is doubtful if any such scene was ever witnessed in Kentucky, the home of great stock sales. Mr. Ryder, on a look from Col. Edmonson, nodded his head, "and I am offered $40,000," came from the auctioneer. At this point the Hermitage Stud of Nashville, Tenn., took a hand, through its representative Major Thompson, who bid $45,000. The confusion attendant on the entrance of this new bidder into the ring, is simply indescribable, especially as at this point Mr. Ryder shook his head signifying to Edmonson that he would go no higher. The lull in bidding was only temporary, as Mr. J. H. Clark of New York, bid $46,000, which was promptly raised by Thompson another thousand, and as quickly Clark said, "forty-eight," when the representative of Hermitage responded with "fifty." Mr. Clark's answer to this raise was, "another thousand," and at this point Thompson quit, evidently having gone his limit. Col. Edmonson tried all the usual tactics to have the bid raised, but without avail, so the stallion was knocked down to the Genessee Valley Stud at Elmira, N. Y., for $51,000. As the words, "and sold" came from the lips of the auctioneer, it seemed as though pandemonium had broken loose; men were intoxicated with excitement, everybody wanted to shake hands with Mr. Clark, congratulations were showered upon Mr. Woodard, as the promoter of the great sale, and all present were gratified at witnessing the sale of one of the greatest horses in the country, and for a price that has never been equaled in America.

Information has also been sent to us that Mr. J. W. Knox, acting for the Sonoma County Stock Breeders Association, has sold the well known stallion Anteeo, to S. A. Brown & Co. of Kalamazoo, Mich., and M. R. Brissell of Grand Rapids, Mich., for the sum of $30,000. This is the price given in Kentucky, but members of the Association state that the horse is sold for $25,000, probably commisions and expenses making up the difference. It will be remembered that we predicted several weeks ago that if Antee reached his destination in safety, that in all liklihood he would never see this State again. That prophesy will now beyond venture be verified, as he will remain in Lexington this season, and then be taken to his new home in Michigan.

THE KENNEL.

Captain H. B. Blagrave, spent three days early in the week shooting near Byron with great success. His average being nearly ninety ducks per day, with many plover and some snipe.

We shall be very pleased to receive from readers, names of those near by who have not been enterested hitherto in field trails and bench shows, but who, nevertheless, own fine dogs. Those now actively interested should feel it a duty to arouse their acquatances who manifast similar tastes, to an appreciation of the benefits derivable from the great public competitions.

Mr. James Watson who judged at the last P. K. C. show in this city, is now editing the Kennel department of our exchange, Reins and Whip, in Philadelphia. The paper cannot but be the better for the addition of so keen an observer and so a trenchant writer to its staff.

The noted pointer Tammany, owned by Mr. F. R. Hitchcock of New York, died on February 16th from paralysis of the spine. Tammany was a great field dog, and had staying power beyond that of any but the very best. He leaves many representatives.

Mr. Geo. W. Peltier of Tuscarora, Nev,, has purchased the American Gordon setter Pride of the Border, 12145 A. K. C., by Hindoo—Rothiemay, whelped August 20, 1888, and will have her trained and run in the next Derby of the Pacific Coast Club. The bitch is finely bred, and gives promise of great field excellence.

Captain Moore informs us that his English setter Carl R. by Leicester—Dart is aging fast. The dog is the last potent representative of that grand cross, and local breeders are throwing away opportunit es in not breeding to him that they will regret.

Mr. Geo. A. Frasher sends from Los Angeles extended pedigrees of his mastiffs Wellington and Cassandra. They are both of unexceptionable breeding and quality. It is to be hoped that the dogs will be fitted for the dog show in May and benched.

Whelps.

Mr. J. E. Watson, San Francisco, greyhound bitch Brunette, whelped February 20, 1889, eight, five dogs, to owner's Saturday Night.

Visits.

Mr. J. E. Watson's fox terrier Gyp to Mr. J. K. Newton's Teddy, February 18, 1889.

Mr. John Kerrigan's English setter Wildflower (Cambridge—Pet Laverack) to Capt. W. W. Moore's Carl R, (Leicester—Dart), February 25, 1889.

Mr. Thos. Casey's English setter Dot (Hayes' Barney—a bitch by Buck—Clabrough's Flash) to W. S. Kittle's Luke (Carl R—Bessie), February 11, 1889.

Sales.

To Mr. Geo. March, San Francisco, a litter sister to preceding.

To Mr. Sam Dusenbury, San Francisco, a litter brother to preceding.

Names Claimed.

Mr. T. H. Hughes claims the name Lady Josie H. for an Irish setter by Pat O'More—Belle C, whelped Nov. 24, 1888.

Mr. Sam Dusenbury claims the name Sport for litter brother to preceding.

Mr. Geo. March claims the name Lady Franc, for litter sister to preceding.

Mr. Chas. Ahlborn claims the name Brace for litter brother to preceding.

P. C. F. T. Derby.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The statement in your last issue, that some entries for the next field trials were coming from neighboring states and territories, induces the thought that perhaps our future trials may include dogs from beyond the Rocky Mountains. There seems to have been less interest taken in the last season's trials in the East than formerly, and it may be that many owners of dogs back there could be induced to bring them to the Coast trials, where fair play is accorded every contestant. Gentlemen of means could bring their dogs here in November or December, enjoy a season of fine sport, and wind up by running their animals at the Bakersfield trial. While I believe that our "home-made" dogs would be well able to hold their own with any that might come, still a few entries from among the Eastern cracks would add new interest to our trials. It is to be hoped that your estimate of the number of entries for the next derby may be realized, and there seems to be no reason why the stake money—including forfeits and paid up entrance fees—should not reach $700 or $800.

SACRAMENTO, February 26, 1889.

Los Angeles Mastiffs.

It has been but a few months since we have taken much interest in handling any special breed of dogs; our choice being the mastiff, we will care for him alone. We have but the pair and their whelps, from Grant's kennel of Boston. We find them much neglected here, and of little value (seemingly). People are not informed about this most wonderful dog, the English lion mastiff. He is called bull, bloodhound and even St. Bernard. We are asked nearly every day: Are they vicious? We say if they are properly bred they are not. They are endowed with great intelligence, make strong friendships, have a noble bearing, and are of rearless courage.

There are but few old dogs here, but several pairs of young ones. Most all we have seen are very well marked. Pasadena, Riverside and San Diego have a stock of these dogs. Our Cassandra is a great house dog, and a lover of children. Wellington is a stud dog of four years old; has not the training he should have. Is very peaceable and a good breeder. Would like to have people know the mastiff. There can be no better house or guard dog. We value our puppies moderately; bitches not for sale. The little fellows are growing finely.

GEO. A. FRASHER.

LOS ANGELES, February 25, 1889.

Executive Meeting, P. K. C.

The Executive Committee of the Pacific Kennel Club met at the office of President R. E. Wilson, on the evening of Thursday, February 21st. Present, President Wilson, Mr. William Schreiber, Mr. H. W. M. Sandbach, Mr. T. J. O'Keeffe, Mr. Clarence Haight, Mr. J. H. Wise and H. H. Briggs. On motion, it was ordered that the Secretary of the Club send to Mr. J. M. Adams a check for $50. The committee on advertising reported that arrangements had been nearly completed to secure advertising for the premium list and show catalogue. It had been decided to charge $10 per page in each publication. All advertising would be done under contract, and the committee expected to make the catalogue pay its way. The report was adopted, and the committee directed to proceed.

The committee on printing reported that bids for printing the catalogues had been invited, and the most favorable yet received was one to print three thousand 100 page catalogues for $488. On motion of Mr. O'Keeffe the committee was directed to close contracts for printing upon what were thought the best terms obtainable.

Mr. Schreiber suggested the employment of an Assistant Secretary, or that the Secretary be empowered to hire a man to assist him in sending out circulars, premium lists, and in correspondence relative to the show. He thought Mr. Watson was overtasked, and would be entirely unable to meet the extra demands upon his time, as the date for the show came near. He would also prefer to receive detailed reports from the Treasurer showing the receipts and expenditures, in order that the Committee might be better able to judge as to the interest felt in the club, and who were the interested members, Mr. Haight said that he could easily belive the Secretary to be overworked, because when elected a member of the club he (Haight) received his first intimation of the fact in the form of a notice to pay the initiation fee.

Mr. O'Keefe thought it wonderful that Mr. Watson could act as book-keeper for a great firm and in addition do the laborious work involved in the secretaryship of the Kennel Club.

On motion of Mr. Schreiber it was ordered that the secretary be authorized to employ help when needed.

Mr. Marsh, secretary of the California Poultry Associatton, was present, and on invitation said he came to represent the association, and was authorized to conclude some arrangement with the Kennel Club. He wished to know what was proposed. Mr. Schreiber thought that if it could be demonstrated beyond reasonable doubt that the addition of a poultry exhibit would pay, it should be encouraged. Mr. J. H. Wise said that the dogs would be the attractive feature of the show and not the chickens. In reply to a query, Mr. Marsh said that Mr. Bayley, of Oakland, had attended former meetings of the Kennel Club merely as a member of the Poultry Association, and entirely without authority to speak for the association or to bind it in any way, but he hoped that what Mr. Bayley had said had made a favorable impression and would influence the Kennel Club to add poultry to its show. Mr. Schreiber said he had given considerable attention to the poultry matter with a view to learning what might be expected, and his conclusion was that the chickens would add from 300 to 400 dollars to the receipts.

He favored giving the poultrymen about that amount of money, and requiring them to furnish their own judges.

Mr. Wise was sure that the announcement of a show of poultry would draw a certain "fancy" to the show, and did not object to the offering of a moderate sum, but he was emphatically in favor of so ordering the show that all unnecessary expenditures should be avoided, and the exhibition be made to clear itself at least. He thought the Kennel Club might safely guarantee the payment of $300 in prizes for the poultry. Mr. Marsh said that he thought that there would be one hundred and fifty coops shown, of which 100 would be owned by members of the Poultry Association and 50 by outsiders.

The Committee then adjourned, to meet again on March 4th at Mr. Wilson's office, 419 California Street.

Occidental Coursing Club.

The third coursing meeting under the auspices of the Occidental Club was most successfully brought off on February 22d, at Newark. The history of the club is known to readers, its personelle has often been favorably spoken of, and it is not an over-statement to write that its last meeting was in every essential not only the best it has ever conducted but was absolutely as elegant and satisfactory an affair as has ever drawn together lovers of the leash in California. The day was cool and dry and just suited to the sport, the dogs being keen to go, and not being distressed after their courses. A very large number of ladies lent highly appreciated presence and brilliancy to the meeting, many of them the wives, beautiful daughters and nieces of members of the club. Luncheons were carried down by several parties, and a thoroughly enjoyable day passed, without any hinderance or annoyance of any sort. Very much credit is due to the officers of the day, President, S. O. Gregory, Field Stewards, S. L. Abbot, Jr., Thos. J. O'Keeffe and J. F. Carroll, and Flag Steward, H. Boyd. They were all prompt in doing what properly fell within their lines of duty, and found time beside to keep everybody in good humor. Sec'y J. B. Lincoln was omnipresent, and with Treasurer Abbot contributed a great deal to the pleasure of all present. The judging was well done by Mr. J. R. Dickson and Slipper Wren was efficient as usual. A great many old time coursers were present, who have for several years been missed from the field. Dominick Shannon, suave as ever, was as interested as a novice Mr. "Keating" won the day and stake without ruffling a single well-arranged hair. Mr. Pat Lyman shone resplendent because he had raised and owned the runner up until recently. Mr. Jas. E. Watson, not content with wiping up the field trials with his black dog, put another into the coursing meeting and took second brilliantly.

The sport began promptly after reaching the park, and there were no delays between courses. Both winner and runner up were smallish black and white dogs. The winner, Pat Molloy, weighs about forty-eight pounds, is an upstanding, well balanced and workman-like dog, whelped in the fall of 1883, by imported King John—Fanny Parnell. As to his breeding it is given as received from his owner, but if memory serves, King John was bred in California, and if a correction is in order none will more gladly make it than the owner of the dog.

The runner-up, Saturday Night, was bred by H. W. Smith, of Worcester, Mass., whelped October 29, 1885, and is by Friday Night—Mother Domdike. The dog is a quick, close worker, runs honestly, and will take a lot of beating. Several of the dogs lost toe nails because of the hardness of the ground, among them Redwood Belle, a very speedy and brilliant little animal, in whose welfare a lovely little maiden seemed most interested, whose eyes suffused as the Belle came limping and bleeding from the course.

FIRST ROUND.

LADY—BELLE OF LOS GATOS.—From a long slip Lady led to a lively hare, turned it and let Belle in for two wrenches. When again straightened Lady let out a kink and scored a good go-by, again placing Belle for a turn, when Lady killed and won. Before the dogs could be caught they killed four more hares, pumping themselves completely and spoiling Lady's chances in the stake.

NEMO—FAUGH-A-BALLAUGH—Faugh-a-Ballaugh had all the speed to the hare and turned, without placing Nemo, the latter seeming a bit cunning. Faugh held the hare for three wrenches in addition, and then Nemo got in for a fleck and the kill, Faugh-a-Ballaugh winning out of hand.

PAT MALLOY—BENELON II.—From slips Benelon showed the way for a hundred yards, when Pat, a very strong flyer, went by and took the quarry for three wrenches, finally surrendering to Benelon for several exceedingly neat wrenches, closely followed up, Pat Malloy finally carrying the strong hare to an escape at the upper end of the park. Pat won.

REDWOOD CHIEF JR—IRISH BOY.—Chief was first to the hare, and held puss for a lot of work before Irish Boy was placed, but when the latter was well in command he waked up and rolled up a rare score and won by a little. A good course on a teasing hare.

REDWOOD BELLE—FOREST—Forest showed all the dash of his great sire, Davy Crockett, and in the run up drew away from his fast competitor, also taking a wrench, and letting Belle in for some close work and an exhibition of rare handiness, Belle finally winning after the hare had escaped.

JUANITA—PEASANT GIRL—Peasant Girl had all the foot of the course, taking and leaving the hare at pleasure, Juanita seeming a little high in flesh and not as keen as usual. The Girl killed and won.

BINGO—SATURDAY NIGHT—A lively no course was first run, Bingo getting a bad fall and losing a nail. In the second attempt Saturday Night had it all his own way, and won easily after a sharp run.

SECOND ROUND.

Lady—FAUGH-A-BALLAUGH—Lady was done up by her immense labors in the first course, and Faugh-a-Ballaugh won as he pleased on a splendid hare which escaped.

PAT MALLOY—REDWOOD BELLE—Pat Malloy and Irish Boy would have come together in the natural order, but as both were owned by Mr. Keating, the guard operated, and the Boy was dropped in favor of Redwood Belle. The course was long and close, although Pat Malloy held a clear lead. The run up was his and a turn, then Belle got in for two wrenches, when Pat killed and won.

IRISH BOY—PEASANT GIRL.—After a hard "no course" the dogs were again slipped, Irish Boy winning after a most brilliant display of speed and ability.

SATURDAY NIGHT—DEBSBOROUGH.—The course was a short one, and well in favor of Saturday Night, a good hound. Each had three wrenches, the run up and kill going to Saturday night.

THIRD ROUND.

FAUGH-A-BALLAUGH—PAT MOLLOY.—Pat ran the hare to a turn, letting Faugh-a-Ballaugh in for a kill, which lost the latter the course, Pat Molloy winning.

IRISH BOY—SATURDAY NIGHT.—Saturday Night won after a short spurt, getting the run-up and a turn, Irish Boy then taking the game for the kill.

FINAL.

PAT MOLLOY—SATURDAY NIGHT.—A brilliant course, but much in favor of Pat Molloy, he being rested while Saturday Night had done more running and was a bit fagged. Saturday Night was game, but Pat Molloy shut him out all round, and won the course and first, second going to Saturday Night.

THE GUN.

American Shooting Association.

The advisory board of the recently formed American Shooting Association, met in Cincinnati on February 18th, those present being C. W. Dimick of Boston, President, J. M. Taylor of New York, General Manager, and the following members of the Board: Harvey McMurchy of Syracuse, E. I. Mills of Washington, D. C., C. E. Willard of Chicago, W. Fred Quimby of New York, S. A. Tucker of Meriden, Conn., Ed. Taylor and Al. Bandle of Cincinnati. The meeting was called to organize a shooting circuit of five or six great tournaments per year, and to formulate rules to govern both live bird shooting and that at artificial targets. The work of the Board is to be submitted to the Directors of the Association for final revision and approval.

Humboldt Shooting Notes.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—With much pleasure I take up my pen to write a few lines to you. It has been a long time since we heard directly from each other. However, begging you to excuse me on my own behalf, I will proceed.

Of course knowing you to be an ardent gunner, etc., I shall devote myself principally to that sport, although general remarks are quite appropriate.

I presume your mind drifts outside the limits of San Francisco in search of your friends and acquaintances occasionally. Our friend Mr. H. Cohn, Jr., of Eureka, Secretary of the Eureka Jockey Club of Humboldt County, called on me on his return from the city recently and tendered me your compliments, and naturally the same are always appreciated.

I sincerely hope you have enjoyed your share of outing, gunning, etc. No doubt you have distinguished yourself with the fowling piece the present season as usual. I hope you have had the pleasure of a few successful trips to Sherman Island, the one favored spot for an occasional good duck shoot. However the shooting here is fair, although it does not compare with the shooting on the San Joaquin. Humboldt Bay is quite a favored spot, and it is taken advantage of and much appreciated by the growing element of local sportsmen, many of them being quite expert with the gun.

The game on this bay chiefly consists of sprig, teal, widgeon, canvasback, and the large and small blue bill. Those classes are fairly represented, while the mallard and gadwall are quite scarce. However this bay is the possessor of a species known as the sea brant (Branta nigricans, proper), and there is a good showing of them, yet they are the shyest water fowl I ever met. They are the finest water fowl that I have ever shot, considering their eating qualities, flavor, etc., which are unsurpassed by any water fowl that can be found on our shores, or I venture to say, anywhere.

The main objection advanced by our sportsmen in regard to them is their extreme shyness. To make a good bag no calculations can be relied upon until the hunt is over, when the result is self evident. While writing of this bird, will inform you of the best modes practiced to secure them. They are shot over decoys made and painted after their own type, and are decoyed close to protruding points running out into the bay, and on small specks of land in the bay. They are also sculled on at long range. The shooting is generally at long range, although when they come to decoys they venture at times very close. There is another method which proves quite successful.

The hunter goes to where there is a sand bar exposed at low tide, where those fowl cluster to get sand to grind their food, and at this chosen point make a box of suitable size, and with spade and shovel sink it and securely fasten it so as to remain. He then reaches this spot as the tide is about to leave it, puts a set of decoys out and soon as admissible bails out the water and sand from his sink box, lies down in it, and awaits results. The brant soon migrate to those places to secure their ballast.

The hunter lies quietly and figures on from one to two flock shots, and waits for the bunch to swell to suit the capacity of his gun, then he discharges a double shot and the result depends on the range and size of the flock of fowl.

We bag all the way from 5 to 20, and there have been shots made here in years past that reached 40 brant. I have watched the nature and habits of those birds, and concluded to try a little device of my own. So strong am I in my conclusions that it will be successful that I have taken the matter in hand. Consequently in a couple of weeks more I hope to be in a position to satisfy my inquisitiveness.

I am making a set of 110 brant decoys, and will make a sink commonly called a floating battery. When completed will move it into the favored places on the bay. Should it work at all, think it will do well; however, will let you know the result later.

The quail in Humboldt are abundant, and Eureka is a fine market, although there is not a quail hunter in the county. There are a few favored spots here for snipe, although no market here for them. Rabbit and hare are quite common, and grouse are to be found quite plentiful. Deer are very numerous, and the bucks back in the mountains are as fine in season as a sportsman ever saw.

Eureka has a good showing of sportsmen who are fond of the gun, among them will name a few, commencing with Dr. Lewitt, then Mr. Keleher, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Hansen, Mr. Bahne, Mr. Kelly, Mr. McGeorge, Mr. Dodge, Mr. Ruscoe, Mr. Strong, Mr. Heney, Ohman Bros., Mr. Carson, Mr. Schroeder and Mr. Tommy Persons. The former gentleman, Dr. Lewitt, is a son of Dr. Wm. Lewitt, deceased, who at one time honored the star club of San Francisco, the Cosmopolitan Gun Club, by belonging to it.

I formed Dr. Lewitt's acquaintance soon after arriving here, and have met him out with the gun, and find him a very genial gentleman, an ardent sportsman, and a good shot. He also possesses an interest in a small steam craft christened the Dandy, and with a small party of friends the Doctor frequently steams out around the bay with guns, etc., for a few hours outing.

Tommy Persons, last mentioned, is one of Eureka's "crack brant hunters." He has had more experience in this line than any man in town. To have him relate his experience is the way to appreciate it. He is very successful. His plan is to sink a box in the sand and await the arrival of the game. Tommy always has a load, sometimes he secures it before starting.

Will send you an account of my first venture on the bay with my floating battery, if the thing does not go to the bottom and take me with it. I shall shoot a pair of ten bores and kill the cripples with a twelve, from the battery.

EUREKA, February 25, 1889. W. R.

The Preserve Question Again.

On Monday evening last at the room of Police Court No. 1, a second meeting of those who oppose the desire of owners to control the shooting on their lands was held. The purpose of the meeting as announced was to complete organization and elect permanent officers. A letter from M. J. Geary declining the secretaryship was read. Election of officers followed, M. W. Stackpool being chosen president; J. L. Durkee, vice-President; Charles Staples, Recording Secretary; F. Venker, Financial Secretary, and John Stack, Treasurer.

The president remarked that the committee on permanent organization had recommended the election of four trustees, and asked Mr. Kennedy, of the Committee, to report. That gentleman said that he understood that the matter had been relegated to the club Mr. Durkee moved that the matter be referred to the Committee on Constitution. Mr. Stack said that the Committee on Constitution had used reasonable diligence, but had not finished its labors. The work of the Committee, as far as finished, was then read by Mr Kennedy. The preamble is as follows:

"Owing to acts of selfish individuals who have apparently banded for the purpose of controlling all available tide-water lands upon which to establish private game preserves, and believing such to be foreign to our country and inimical to the interests of true sportsmanship, we, the undersigned, do hereby agree to form an association with the object of resisting further encroachments and also attending to other matters relating to game and fish. Our association purposes to attain its object by lawful means, paying due respect to the legal rights and property of others, and for its government we do hereby establish and adopted the following Constitution."

The name chosen was "Sportsman's Protective Association of California." The objects, opposition to the establishment of preserve clubs, the enforcement of existing game laws, etc.

A roll call was then ordered, and members requested to pay their initiation fee of one dollar, together with the first months dues, twenty-five cents, to the Secretary.

The following names were called: J. L. Day, R. C. Richardson, A. Gaskil, J. G. Ross, A. J. Curry, A. Northrop, Geo. Frawren, W. J. Farman, J. L. Durkee, John Stack, W. A. Morgan, Pete Walsh, J. E. Page, A. H. Dregfus, J. H. Van Buskirk, A. T. Burton, Dennis Coleman, John H. Dalton, J. J. Adams, M. D. Rice, H. Cohn, Wm. Iburg, M. Iburg, J. Green, J. H. Patton, A. Love, Thos. Higgs, H. H. Venker, F. Venker, Leon Frank, W. E. Patchel, L. Hacket, J. A. Bruns, T. F. Klein, J. Kearney, F. Murphy, F. J. Lapham, J. L. Wallis, Wm. Flynn, J. Smith, S. Wolf, Thos. Kerus, J. O. Flynn L. C. Gerstchig, J. B. C. O'Neill, R. Blennerhassett, O. Swain, S. G. Scovern, H. Spencer, Thos. Bowman, T. E. Scully, J. H. O'Sullivan, E. A. Wolf, A. Peterson, J. H. A. Garber, A. K. Murphy, A. Carriere, J. Crossgrill, W. W. Noble, H. Smith, O. Friedenbach, T. Dodge, A. Gilford, A. T. Boyd, R. Wagoner, J. R. Callahan, D. Daniels, C. Fish, C. H. Cate, C. O. Deane. E. A. Perry, E. H. Cate, M. Murphy, A. Langerman, W. Murphy, J. H. Walkington, J. H. Jicha, J. S. Fanning, A. M. Cummings, P. A. Mullen, M. W. Stackpool, Chas. Staples, T. Kennedy, and M. J. Geary. Sixty-six members appeared and paid, the receipts being $82.50.

W. C. Percival, owner of some thousands of acres of the Suisun marsh had invited members to shoot on his premises at pleasure. A similar invitation had been received from Thos. Tunstead at Bouldin Island. Votes of thanks to both were ordered.

A resolution from the Lincoln Gun Club was read, protesting against preserves and preserve clubs, and bitterly characterizing all who attempted to exercise control over shooting privileges. A vote of thanks to the Lincoln Gun Club was passed.

The meeting then adjourned to meet again in Police Court No. 1, on the evening of March 15th.

The Gun Club.

The Gun Club, now in its thirteenth year of active life, opened the trap season for 1889 at San Bruno on Washington's Birthday, nine members being present to enjoy the perfect day and rare sport. Three got into double figures, but among those who made inferior scores were some of the best and most reliable shots of the club. Messrs. Harry Babcock with nine and Fred Butler with seven showed that their incessant work on canvas backs during the winter had influenced them to lead the pigeons too much. The birds were good and strong, many of them taking a deal of killing.

To summarize: The best work was done by Orr, Jellett and Wattles in the order named. Orr killed eleven pigeons with one barrel, losing only his third, and that dead outside. He only had one easy one and that his last. Jellett's clean score contains an equal number of rights and lefts. Wattles worked in his usual style, and was as busy in chaffing his adversaries as in dropping his own birds. His last four were all first-barrel kills.

At 12 birds, Hurlingham.

Trap at Lathrop.

A tournament was arranged for February 22d at Lathrop, near Stockton, which was very successful, attracting pretty much all the cracks, of whom Stockton rightly boasts so great a number. There were matches, both at live birds and blue rock targets, the winners being about equally divided between the local shots and their visitors. Mr Charles J. Haas, as usual, assimilated a large proportion of the "sack." Mr. Charley Merrill also "fell in" for a portion, Mr. Haas taking first money in seven matches.

The other leading winners were W. Burnett, F. O. Scarlett, T. Sutherland, Frank Lastreto, E. Leffler, C. B. Smith, W. C. Scarlett and Romer.

At ten single blue rocks, eighteen yards rise, entrance 50 cents, divided by W. Burnett and W. C. Scarlett. Score—W. Burnett 6, W. Patchen 3, O. D. Wilson 3, S. O. Scarlett 4, W. C. Scarlett 6, E. Holdsworth 4, E K. Pile 3.

At ten single blue rocks, same conditions. First, W. Burnett, second divided by F. O. Scarlett and T. Sutherland. Score—W. Burnett 9, F. O. Scarlett 7, J. Burnett 4. T. Sutherland 7, E. Holdsworth 3, W. Patchen 2, J. Palmer 5, O. D. Wilson 5, W. C. Scarlett 4, C. Frewart 6, E. K. Pile 5, J. Lo Romer 4, Shepherd 6.

At six live birds, Hurlingham. $5 entrance. Divided by C. J. Haas, T. Sutherland, F. Lastreto, W. C. Scarlett, E. Leffler, C. B. Smith, Milt Whitehead and C. A. Merrill.

Score—C. J. Haas 6, T. Sutherland 6, A. B. Sperry 4, A. E. Myers 4w, J. Vinet 2w, F. A. Lastreto 6, S. N. Cross 4, F. E. Lane 2, W. C. Scarlett 6, Milt Whitehead 5, S. O. Scarlett 4w, E. Leffler 6, C. B. Smith 6, C. A. Merrill 6, J. S. Dunham 5.

Freeze out, live birds. Hurlingham. Entrance $2.50. Divided by C. J. Haas, C. A. Merrill and E. Leffler.

Score—C. J. Haas 7, C. A. Merrill 7, E Leffler 7, F. J. Post 1, F. H Post 0, C. B. Smith 1, J. Buzzell 0, F. A. Lastreto 0, S. O. Scarlett 4, Milt Whitehead 2.

At 10 single Blue Rock targets. 18 yards rise. Entrance $1 50, First, W. Burnett; second, Milt Whitehead; third, divided by C. J. Haas, L. Romer and C. A. Merrill.

Score—Haas 8, S. O. Scarlett 5, Dunham 5, Lo Romer 8, Whitehead 9, W. Burnett 10, Merrill 8, Cross 7, Sperry 6, Lane 5, Smith 6, Beecher 8, W. C. Scarlett 4, Lastreta 4, W. F. Bliss 5.

At 10 single and 5 pairs Blue Rock targets. Entrance $.150. First, Milt Whitehead; second and third divided by C. B. Smith and C. A. Merrill.

Score—Haas 14, Cross 11, Smith 15, Beecher 12, Whitehead 17, LoRomer 11, A. Litchfield 10, Lane 5, Sperry 12, Sutherland 14, Merrill 15, W. Burnett 11.

At single and 5 pairs Blue Rocks. $1.50 entrance. First, C. J. Haas, with 17; second, C. B. Smith, with 16; third, F. O. Scarlett, with 15.

At 5 pairs Blue Rocks. $1.50 entrance. Divided by C. J. Haas and T. Sutherland, with 8 breaks each.

At 5 pairs Blue Rocks. $1.50 entrance. Divided by C. J. Haas and C. B. Smith, with 8 breaks each.

At 10 single Blue Rocks. $1.50 entrance. First, C. J. Haas, with 10 straight; second, W. C. Scarlett, with eight.

At 6 single Blue Rocks. $1.50 entrance. Sweepstake. Won by C. J. Haas.

MEMO.

The Fast Trotting Stallion, the Best Son of Sidney.

Will make the Season of 1889 at the Oakland Trotting Park.

He was bred by G. Valensin at the Arno Stock Farm, Sacramento County, California; foaled spring of 1885.

PEDIGREE.

By Sidney.
First dam Flirt by Buccaneer.
Second dam Mohaska Belle by Flaxtail.
Third dam by John the Baptist.

Sidney by Santa Claus, 2:17½, his dam Sweetness, 2:21¼. Strathmore, the son of Santa Claus, has 22 of his get which have trotted in 2:30 or better, up to close of 1887, several having entered since, and Volunteer the sire of Sweetness, has 26 in the same list. Buccaneer is the sire of Shamrock, two-year-old record 2:25, and of Flight, 2:29, and in him are combined the strains of Long Island Blackhawk, Vermont Blackhawk, and the dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Flaxtail figures prominently in both pacing and trotting descendants, and is the sire of the dam of Apex, 2:26, Flight, 2:29, J. H. McCormack, 2:29, and Shamrock, 2:25.

PERFORMANCES.

Memo only trotted in public in his two-year-old form, obtaining a record of 2:19, though he was close to Grandee in a race on the Bay District Track, the second heat of which was made in 2:31½, the first in 2:32. He exhibited phenomenal speed when three years old, and had it not been for a slight strain of his fore fetlock there is little question that he would have shown in public very close to the best record. On the Oakland track he was timed a mile in 2:20¾, and frequently trotted quarters in from 32½ to 34 seconds.

DESCRIPTION.

He is nearly if not quite sixteen hands high, and of powerful build throughout. His color is a glossy black, with both fore-feet white and a touch of white on his off hind quarters. His disposition is all that could be desired, and his action superb.

TERMS: One hundred dollars the season, which will commence on the 5th of February and close on the 1st of July. Due care will be taken of mares, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes.

Mares taken and kept as desired by the owners, and at reasonable rates.

Pasturage at $5 per month within the track enclosure; feed first rate, and a living stream of water in the field. There is a double protection against escape, as in addition to a strong fence on the inside of the track, the gates of the outer fence are enclosed at night, which gives almost positive assurance of safety. Address

JOHN ROWEN,
Oakland Trotting Park.

ELECTIONEER STALLION

EROS,

Standard No. 5326.

Electioneer, his sire, has more 2:20 trotters than any living horse, and more 2:30 trotters than any stallion LIVING OR DEAD.

Eros has a record of 2:29½, made in the fifth and deciding heat against a field of eight horses in his maiden race, and with only four weeks preparation after coming out of the stud.

Progeny.

Eros had last fall but three colts trained; the oldest a three-year-old trotter, an exhibition mile during the San Jose Fair in 2:34, last quarter in 36½ seconds. A two-year-old (timed by the judges) made a mile in 2:46½, and the other two-year-old in 2:47. All of these trials being made without a single skip, and none of these colts had then been handled three months from the bitting harness.

TERMS: $50 for the season, from February 1st to July 1, 1889. Due at time of service.

Pasturage, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes. Apply to

STALLIONS.

DIRECTOR 2:17.

DIRECTOR will stand at Pleasanton from March 1st to August 1st, 1889, for fifteen good mares more than are now booked, at $200 for the season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge of service to same stallion, or money will be refunded, at option of the Stock Farm Co.

Pasturage $1 per month, hay and grain extra. Accidents and escapes at owner's risk. Service fees due at time of service and must be paid, together with pasturage, etc., before mares are taken away, or a good approved note given, payable August 1st, 1889, at which date all bills must be settled

THISTLE,

Full brother to Gold Leaf, pacing record 2:15 at three years old. By Sidney, dam Fernleaf, she the dam of stallion Shamrock, trotting record at two years old, 2:25. Thistle is a large, speedy pacing colt, showing more speed than Gold Leaf at the same age, and double the speed of his sire; so if anyone wants to breed pacers, here is a chance.

Thistle will stand for seven approved mares at $100 for the season, with same conditions and return privileges as Dictator.

Great Expectations.

In a letter received from W. L. Appleby, dated February 7th, a postscript was overlooked, which gave the information that "Neilson had foaled a fine chestnut horse colt, with three white legs half way to hocks and knees, blaze face, and crescent over one eye." "Billy" writes further, "Great expectations are set on him, as he is by Joe Hooker," and it is not surprising that there should be. He has the typical markings, and with the great speed which he should inherit from sire and dam, he is likely to be troublesome to the best at any reasonable distance.

The Pool Bill.

The bill for the reformation of poolselling and bookmaking appears to languish in the committee rooms, and as the session is so nearly at a close, there is small likelihood of its becoming a law until another legislature is convened. We feel that the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN has done its duty, and that failure cannot be charged to a lack of effort on our part. The lapse, if lapse there should be, is due to supineness on the part of those who have the most interest in reform, as we do not "take any stock" in the statements that the bookmakers have sent "sacks" to Sacramento.

That the fraternity have feed lawyers and advanced money for other expenses is beyond question; that they have raised a fund to directly influence votes is a surmise, which it is long odds to wager is without foundation.

The Stanford Stakes, 1891.

We are in receipt of a letter dated the 26th inst., from Captain N. T. Smith, in which he suggests that it will not do to postpone the advertisement of the Stanford Stake for 1891, any longer, and authorizes making it public this week. This is done and we concur in the views expressed, although we felt strong hopes that the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeder's Association would be gotten up in time to take it in charge. In the advertisement a provision is made for transferring the stake should an association be gotten up with headquarters in San Francisco, the clause giving Captain Smith the power to transfer or not was inserted in order to keep control, so that it could not be claimed for some distant point.

It was also necessary to give Captain Smith full power to decide upon what cannot be expressed at this time. There may arise a necessity to name some other track than the Bay District or Oakland Trotting Park, and if either or both of these were chosen now and they were abandoned when the time fixed for trotting came, the stake would lapse.

In order to cover all points it is also embodied in the advertisement that if Captain Smith cannot act, through absence or other cause, a majority of the subscribers, still eligible, can fill the vacancy.

The Stanford is the largest stake for three-year-old colts in any part of the country, and it would be a serious loss to the breeding interests of the State to have it fail. Not merely to the large establishment where trotters are bred, as the minor producers have an interest. A nomination adds to the value of the colt engaged, and likewise brings the family to which it belongs more prominently before the public. While we never had the least apprehension that the stake would not be kept up, it is pleasant to announce the opening of the tenth Stanford.

California Trotters.

The late purchases by Eastern parties of California trotting stallions is a notable event in the track history of this coast.

It is a practical illustration of belief in superiority, and as that belief is based on good grounds, the future will witness an increased demand.

Every stallion which has been bought is a worthy representative of "native sons," and an endorsement of the advantages of climate to perfect physical growth.

When the progeny of California-bred stallions show in the East there will be still more forcible illustrations of the value of the blood. Many years ago we advanced the theory that a change of locality was beneficial in the propagation of animals as well as in cereals and vegetables. This was very favorably accepted as having a solid foundation, and could be supported with many facts to substantiate its truth.

Even such slight changes of location as from New York to Kentucky have resulted favorably, and there is hardly an instance when there was a failure to excel previous efforts in stallions brought from England to America. Some of the most noted of American sires were considered comparative failures in England. Diomed, Leamington and Phaeton are examples of the benefits of transfer from England, Mambrino Chief, George Wilkes, Dictator and others of the grand improvement attending a change from New York to Kentucky.

When full and reliable evidence can be obtained regarding all the purchases which have been made here recently we shall have a good deal to present in relation thereto.

Choose for Yourself.

Frequently we are solicited for advice in regard to breeding mares, and quite a number of letters are received, asking for information about horses which are in the stud. We decline to say positively which stallion would be the most suitable to couple with a named mare, as there are good reasons for so doing.

In the first place, it would be a difficult task to make the selection from such a list as appears in this paper, and had the requests to be complied with, a good deal of study given to the subject. But fortunately, whatever selection is made cannot be far out of the way, and like Captain McHeath, who sang, "How happy could I be with either, were either dear charmer away," so many high bred and otherwise good stallions appear that the task is not easy of accomplishment.

Many breeders have partialities for families, and few who have not favoritism for one branch of kindred houses. This is all very well when not so pronounced as to obscure the judgment in relation to those which are not fancied. That there are good ones in all the tribes which have gained the distinction of a family name, candid men must admit, and though "fashion" cannot be ignored in horse breeding, there is a good chance that that which is not considered the top of the mode now, may be at the head or closely up in a short time.

Fair size, high form and beauty are always in demand, and though extreme speed is the gem most eagerly sought, when there is a lowering of the capacity to medium speed, then the other qualities enhance the price. That California bred horses will hold the supremacy in other respects beside that of speed we have implicit confidence. Believing that so perfect a climate for physical development must bring every generation to greater perfection, it is not far out of the way to claim that the blood which gains distinction in less favored climes will show brighter achievements on this coast.

"Our" Thoroughbred Stallions.

Although there is an allusion to the thoroughbred stallions advertised in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN in another article, they are well worthy of separate attention. There is a wide difference between them and trotting stallions, or rather there are different conditions under which their services are classed. By far the largest proportion of thoroughbred mares in this State are owned by a few men and are domiciled on the big breeding farms, where "private stallions" are also kept. Men with one or two thoroughbred mares have had small opportunity of breeding to those which have gained distinction as the getter of race horses, and have either disposed of them or bred them to horses which were within reach, irrespective of fitness. It was regarded as uphill business to engage in stakes where such opposition as Rancho del Paso, Santa Anita, Palo Alto and Rancho del Rio was to be encountered, for though the mares might be meritorious there was such an array of stallions against them as forbade the hope of success at all commensurate with the trouble and expense. This drawback is in a great measure removed, and though there are only six thoroughbred stallions offered for public service, their breeding is so good that there is little risk in predicting many victories for their offspring. The best blood of England and America, sons of Hermit and Dollar, brothers to Emperor of Norfolk, and Eolus, a son of the grand old mare Katie Pease, and the sire of Almont and Applause.

Six thoroughbred and forty trotting bred stallions are probably about in proportion to the breeders of each class of horses, though our calculation would give a still greater preponderance of breeders of harness horses, and though a large number of saddle horses are employed, they are mainly of service in mountain districts, and for the purposes of vacqueroing. There is, too, a settled objection to the use of thoroughbred sires as a means of improvement, and in the desire to obtain fast trotters not enough attention is given to form and quality. That a higher class of horses in both of these respects can be obtained from the use of properly selected thoroughbred sires on the mares of the country will not disputed by men who have a knowledge of general horse breeding, and who are not so bitterly opposed to thoroughbred blood as to bias their judgment. But as a rule the prejudice against racing-bred horses is confined to those who have little acquaintance with horses of a high caste, and erroneous ideas in regard to them are prevalent. What may be termed the general estimate is derived from attending races, and drawing conclusions from what is seen. By far the largest proportion of public runners are colts and fillies, and for one that has a full mouth, there are at least ten that rank as two and three-year-olds. Far from being fully developed either in frame or muscle, and with the greater part of the adipose tissue which gives roundness of form absorbed by the training process. From this inmature look and with hindrances to speed eliminated, they are voted leggy, wasp-waisted, fragile creatures, without bulk or substance enough to be put in shafts. A visit to any of our main breeding farms would despite this illusion, and men who are at all competent to decide on the best form for fast harness work, cheerfully acknowledge that amajority of them have all the outward characteristics in an eminent degree.

There is another false estimate derived from witnessing races. The impression that thoroughbreds are rattle-headed, so nervous and intractable, that there will be no pleasure in driving them, is formed from seeing the excitement, delay and tribulation attending the start of a majority of races.

There are so many reasons for the display of what is improperly called "temper" that many pages would be necessary to give them in detail, though a brief synopsis will be enough to show that however "level-headed" they may be by inheritance, they would have to be peculiarly stolid to await in quietness the signal to start. With colts which have taken part in races there is an association of punishment with the accessories of a race. Frequently cruelty of a barbarous description, and though a feeling of shame at the exhibition of nervousness may induce a man to march with a firm step to accept the laceration of the knout or cat-of-nine-tails, the babies at the starting post are not restrained by any such prompting. Then the jockeys are all endeavoring to get the advantage. There is a like emulation in a portion of the field, in another division the fear of whip and spur causes them to hang back. After several breakaways, and in which, if steel and catgut have not stung, there have been snatches at the bit to stop them, it is not at all surprising that there should be doubts of what is going to happen next. Then again a majority of jockeys have not physical strength sufficient to control the excited colts, and the faults of riders are charged against them.

While it is beyond contradiction, or rather while under the present state of affairs, mares of trotting blood will bring a greater and more certain return by being bred to trotting stallions, there are cases where it will be advantageous to breed part-bred mares to thoroughbred stallions.

"Our Stallions."

We take great pride in the showing of our California stallions. Notwithstanding the late purchases made by Eastern breeders, a reference to our advertising columns will convince people that there is still a galaxy of stars shining, and that the future, in that way, is well provided for.

Forty trotting-bred stallions, and six of the blue bloods, and numbers are not the only recommendation! It does not require a great deal of knowledge of trotting genealogy to become impressed with the value of the blood presented. Every family of any note in the United States will be found represented, and so far as our knowledge extends—and we have seen many of them—there is superiority of form as well as of lineage. Then they are scattered so widely that breeders can avail themselves of contiguity, as where all are so good the question of commingling of strains is about all that has to be met.

We are oftentimes solicited to name a horse which we should prefer for a mare which the querist desires to breed, and though our rule has long been not to reply authoritatively to such requests, it would be an exceedingly arduous task to give a decided preference. There may be, of course, "points" which would determine the choice of a sire outside of blood lines, as where a mare was deficient in some qualifications, a horse which was particularly good in corresponding points would be given the preference over equally as good an animal, in the whole, but failing to come up to the standard of the other in the form sought. There are few, if any, stallions among the number advertised in these columns, which will be found unworthy of coupling with good mares. And in this connection it will be proper to state that none are good enough for mares which can be classed as inferior. If it is determined to put poor mares into the breeding paddocks, "cheap horses" are the right sort to employ, as in that case it is not likely that future expenses will be so heavy. With a fairly good mare—that is, one which has an average form and breeding—and there is not a stallion in the list which will not give reasonable anticipations of "getting the worth of the money"—not merely a return of the fee for the service of the horse, but also recompense for rearing and training.

We have heard expressions of regret over and over again at the loss to California of the stallions which have been sold to go East. In one respest it is a loss; in others a gain. Had there been a lack of material to fill the vacant places, the loss would have been serious and beyond compensation. With the reserve so strong, the advantages which stimulation will develop will make amends. With prices running from fifteen thousand dollars to twice that amount, the breeding of high class trotters will be increased, and more care taken that rearing, breaking and educating shall be done in the best manner.

That there is an opportunity for those who have to depend on "public stallions" to obtain "winning strains" a perusal of the advertisements will afford abundant proof. That the essentials for success are within their reach is so palpable that comments are unnecessary, though it is not a waste of time to urge that the advantages which soil and climate present are made the most of.

The starting point is on the down grade, or, with the list of advertised stallions to choose from, it may be compared to a scheme which was brought to the upper country by a famous Arkansas Short Horse man. In making matches he stipulated that he should be permitted to start his horses from a "shoot," claiming that they were so troublesome to get off, that course was the only one. The shoot was an incline formed of planks, and the horses had the benefit of starting down the grade, almost equivalent to the springboard of the leaper, and in a short race gain the victory. There are plenty of good mares in California to breed to these stalliens, fashionably bred in many cases, and what is sure to become in vogue (if the proper course is pursued) oldtime strains that we regard as good as the best. There were a great number of good horses brought here in the early days. In the turmoil and rush of gold seeking these were neglected, and so recently as our coming to California the blood of the oldtimers was not properly appreciated.

Not yet as it should be. The racing strains of thirty years ago, the mixture of them and some of the old importations of trotters should not be overlooked; and if even a pedigree ends in unknown, when there are a few top-crosses of the right blood there will be well founded expectations of breeding fast trotters.

Whoever has a mare of good shape and with blood such as prevails on this coast, can certainly select a suitable stallion from among the list, and so far as we are acquainted the claims made in the advertisements are based on a good foundation.

The American Stud Book.

The fifth volume of the American Stud Boook has been received, though so recently as to preclude such a notice as its merits warrant in the paper of this week. We append Colonel Bruce's letter to breeders, trusting that there will be a more liberal response than has heretofore been given. Even should everyone who is directly interested in breeding thoroughbreds, subscribe for the set, the remuneration will not be commensurate with the labor, but when only a small per cent. of the breeders of the country purchase a volume, it is surprising that the work should have been continued after issuing the first and second volumes. Although we were of the opinion that no registry fee should be charged, under the facts now shown, this has been a mistake, and had the fee for registry in the Trotting Stud Book been levied, the expense in part would have been met, and also more demand for the book.

OFFICE OF SANDERS D. BRUCE,
Editor Turf, Field and Farm,
American Stud Book,
No. 215 Broadway,

NEW YORK, Feb. 15, 1889.

Dear Sir—The fifth volume of the American Stud Book is out and ready for delivery. Those who have stock entered in this volume are expected at least to purchase a copy of the work. The price is $10 in cloth; $11 half calf; very handsome library style; $45 for the five volumes complete to the end of the year 1888 in cloth; $49 half calf. I have published at my personal expense after years of patient labor five volumes of the stud book. Few of the breeders have contributed towards its publication, whilst the sales have not paid the outlay, to say nothing of the time and labor incident to the work, which is acknowledged to be of vast benefit to the breeding and racing interests of this country. The Trotting Register, Herd Book and all similar publications, charge and are paid a good fee for registration, and such is the custom in England, France and other countries. I therefore ask that the breeders contribute something towards the publication of the work, not in charity, but in justice to one who has labored through the best years of his life to advance their interest. Very truly S. D. BRUCE.

Waxy's Pedigree.

While we never doubted the authenticity of the pedigree of Waxy, as given from the time she was brought across the plains, there were some doubts of establishing it so as to meet the exacting conditions which some insist upon, and therefore we are greatly pleased to receive the appended letter from Mr. Gould. Tom Merry was aware that she was bred by Philip Swigert, of Frankfort, Kentucky, and had he known before going to Australia that there was any doubt regarding her breeding, could have given information which would have materially lessened the labor of Mr. Gould. He had to pick up clews here and there, and stuck to the pursuit until the chain was complete.

Further than to gratify the desire to have the pedigree of the grandam of Sunol placed beyond cavil or quibble, there was little importance attached to the "clearing up." That Waxy was thoroughbred her daughter Alpha demonstrated, and that was sufficient to prove, in her case, that the capacity to race was not "pernicious." There is an interesting feature in the evidence, that being the proof that Waxy and Annette were sisters. One with a son having a record of 2:20, the other a granddaughter which registers 2:18 when two years old, is proof that the female side of these performers had a good deal to do in furnishing the inheritance of excellence.

BOSTON, February 16, 1889.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

My Dear Sir: The labors attending the tracing of the history and breeding of Waxy are complete. Agreeable to your request I herewith give you the results, which are substantially proven. Waxy, light chestnut or sorrel mare, by Lexington. Bred by Philip Swigert, Frankfort, Ky. Foaled 1863. First dam Grey Eagle mare by Grey Eagle, dam of Annette; second dam Mary Morris by Medoc; third dam Miss Obstinate by Sumpter; fourth dam Jenny Slamerkin by Tiger; fifth dam Paragon by imp. Buzzard, etc.

My work has been accomplished at an outlay of about six weeks of time, and thousands of miles of travel. The full and complete history of Waxy with statements, etc, to prove the above, will appear in the March number of "Wallace's Monthly." Very truly yours, LEVI S. GOULD.

Unintentional Trespass.

The trespass on Mr. P. J. Shafter's field was far from being intentional, and the name of Antevenio was chosen without thinking of encroachment, and in order that while vacating our friends' preserves, another's may not be invaded. Chosing a name for the daughter of Antevolo and Ruby will be postponed until there is time for fuller examination.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—I find an item in one of our sportsman papers here, saying that "The Grey Gelding J. D. W.," that has been trotting in your State, is "Monte Christo, son of Malta by Swigert." Can you give me an account of his performances? Monte Christo was bred in our town. Yours truly, F. J. AYERS.

Answer—As far as we can learn J. D. W. did not trot in this State last year, and do not know that he is owned by California parties, although we have seen that assertion made in several Eastern journals. A grey gelding with the initials J. D. W.——, D. K. W. and D. D. W. was entered and trotted through Colorado, Montana and other Northwestern States and Territories last year, getting a record at Helena, Mont., of 2:31½ on August 31st. If you know anything about this horse and his real record please inform us.

L. E. Clawson.

Please let me know the pedigree of Tule Duck, and the owner of her sire.

Answer—Tule Duck, by Billy McCracken, dam a grey mare called Kate, pedigree unknown. Billy McCracken was owned by D. E. Knight of Marysville.

1st—Would you be kind enough to inform me through your columns the pedigree of Hector, bay stallion, bred in Sonoma County, and if he is standard bred? 2d—The age of the stallion Elector? 3rd—If there is a stallion in California named Smuggler?

Answer—1st—We do not know. 2d—Which one do you mean? 3rd—Not to the best of our knowledge.

Austust Olson, Stanislaus County.

Answer—We do not charge anything, but be sure and send all the information you have in regard to him.

W. H. Taylor.

Can you give me the pedigree of the dam of Conway's Patchen, sometimes called San Francisco Patchen.

Answer—Write to John Mackey, Rancho del Paso, Sacramento County, Cal.

E. F. F., Hollister.

What is the price of Bruce's five volumes of the Stud Book?

Answer.—$45 in cloth, $49 half calf.

J. K. Fisher, Santa Barbara.

Please give me the pedigree of A. W. Richmond; also the mare Bridget, formerly owned by Josiah Sessions, of Oakland?

Answer.—A. W. Richmont, gr h, foaled in 1862, by Blackbird 401, dam a grey mare bred near Cleveland, O., by Thos. W. Pope, and by him taken to Jackson County, Iowa, and represented to be by a horse called Rattler; grandam said to be a spotted horse called Spotted Ranger. Brought to California in 1874.

Bridget, so Mr. Josiah Sessions informs us, was by Kentucky Hunter, dam, a mare said to be thoroughbred, owned by M. O'Brien. This mare was called Lady Lexington, and a man by the name of Sofley sold her to O'Brien. She could trot in about 2:50.

F. M. Denio.

Will you be kind enough to publish Afternoon's pedigree? And also where I may be able to find or communicate with the gentleman who advertised some time since in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, to be able and would guarantee to make a barren mare breed?

Answer.—Afternoon 6543, b h, foaled 1884, by Almont McGregor 1775, dam Minnie by Gen. Hatch 139; second dam Lucy by Prophet (Weed's), son of Prophet. He was bred by Mr. A. B. Rodman, who now resides in Lake County, Cal. (2) We do not know his address; you may possibly learn it from the manager of the Valensin Stock Farm, Pleasanton.

L. M. Lasley.

Is stringhalt in horses hereditary, and is it so considered by veterinary surgeons?

Answer.—Authorities consider hereditary predisposition is perhaps the chief cause of "stringhalt," though mal-hygenic conditions, malformations of the limb—such as a ringbone or a bone spavin pressing on a nerve—may cause it. Overwork, and exhaustion may also act as exciting causes. Some again consider it due to diseased condition of the blood, probably associated with rheumatism.—THOS. BOWHILL, M. R. C. V. S.

W. P.

This correspondent desires the full name and address of a Mr. Hertel who owned a mare by Guy McClellan, which he named Lena H. and sold to Mr. James Samuels, of Sonoma.

Can any of our readers oblige the gentleman? Address this office. We are corresponding about his other questions and will probably answer next week.

Foals of 1889.

January 25th, bay colt by Joe Hooker, dam Alice N. by Norfolk, from Kitten by Imp. Eclipse.

A few days before the Rose, Durfee and Johnston consignment started for the East, a filly, full sister to Arrow, reared up and came down on a blunt harness hook, almost severing the windpipe. Her jaws were fearfully lacerated, and she was unable to start with the balance of the horses.

WILKES PASHA.

STANDARD 2618.

Dark bay with white hind feet, 16¼ hands high, bred by R. P. Pepper, of South Elk Horn Farm, Frankfort, Kentucky. Sired by Onward, 1411, record 2:25¼, trial 2:17. He by GeorgeWilkes, 2:22, sire of sixty-five horses in the 2:30 list, ten of them with records below 2:20. First dam Fisher (dam of Clara Wilkes, 2 29¾, trial 2:25) by American Clay, 34, sire of Granville, 2:26; Maggie Briggs, 2:27; Ella Clay, 2:27½; and the dams of Executor, 2 24½, Ruchero, 2:23½; Judge Hawser, 2:24¾; Ambassador, 2 25, and nine others in 2 30; second dam by Wilson's Snow Storm, sire of Jim Irving, 2:24; third dam by Paddie Burns, thoroughbred.

Onward, 1411, is one of the noted sires of to-day. In 1887 he placed seven performers in the 2:30 list, including Hourl, three-year-old record 2:19¾; while in 1888 he still further sustains his reputation by adding nine of his sons and daughters to the list. Onward combines the blood of the two great trotting families, Hambletonian 10 and Mambrino Chief 11, and derives his speed inheritance direct through the greatest son of the one family, and the greatest daughter of the other.

Onward's dam was Dolly (the dam of Director, 2;17, and Thorndale, 2;22¼), by Mambrino Chief. Dolly was one of the greatest speed-producing brood mares that ever lived. George Wilkes stands at the head of the list of sires of fast trotters with 65 performers with records of 2:30 or better, and the combination of these two great producers will breed on with absolute certainty.

WILKES PASHA will make the season of 1889 at the stables of the undersigned, at the Trancas Bridge, two miles north of Napa, on the Soda Spring Road.

TERMS,

For the season ending July 1, 1889, $35 in U. S. gold coin.

Alfalfa pasturage $4 per month; natural grass $2.50 per month.

Every attention and care will be given to mares, but no liabilities assumed for accidents or escapes.

AMBERINE.

$25. $25.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by PROMPTER No. 2405, with six weeks training at the close of a stud season, he won a stallion race of five heats, winning the last three heats and getting a record of 2:33¾; he has never been trained since.

His sire, Wilson's BLUE BULL, No. 75, has more of his progeny in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived, except it may be George Wilkes, and it is a disputed point between the two which has most.

PROMPTERS' dam, PRAIRIE BIRD, 2:28¾, is in the GREAT BROOD MARE TABLE, a proved producer, and of a family of wonderful producers, as an examination of the produce of Flaxtail mares will prove.

AMBERINE'S dam, "BONNIE," owned by G. W. Hancock, of Sacramento, is one of the best road-mares in the State; she has many times covered 50 miles on the road in five hours, and 125 miles in 17 hours. She is the dam of Daisy, yearling record, 2:38¾; her sire is John Nelson, sire of the dams of Albert W., 2 20, and Valentain, 2:24.

AMBERINE is a beautiful bay, three years old, very powerfully built, 16 hands, and trotted a mile in his yearling form in 3:20, and has never been trained.

Will serve 15 outside mares at the low price of $25 the season. Should the mare not prove in foal, the money refunded or mare bred following season. Service fee payable, when the mare, at the time of her removal; but if served outside, payable at time of service.

He is full brother to DAISY; yearling record, 2:38¾. THE BEST IN THE WORLD FOR PACING. Two-year-old trial, two miles, 5:07; last mile in 2:28.

Good pasturage for a limited number of mares only, at $5 per month. Ranch 18 miles from the City, San Pedro Valley. Horses taken down at owner's risk.

ALMONT PATCHEN.

Pacing Record 2.15.

Sire JUANITO, dam Glidey, by GLADIATOR, the sire of James H. 2:21, Boss 2:29¼, and the pacer Damiana 2:26¾; second dam by HENRY BELMONT, third dam a Sir Archie mare. JUANITO is by Tilton Almont, record 2:26, dam Berlcia by Signal. Singleterry's Rattler, sire of Marysville Queen, wagon record 2:25, and the pacers Prussian Maid 2:19, Carrie T. 2:20¼, and Handy Andy 2:29¼, second dam a mare bought of J. W. Moore of Marysville, Cal., from the Harper Stock Farm in Kentucky. Tilton Almont, 2:26, is the sire of Daisy S. 2:2 ¼ and is by the grand Almont, dam by Clark Chief. Henry Belmont is a full brother to Venture 2:27¼, being by Williamson's Belmont, dam Miss Mostyn, by American Boy, Jr., second dam Fannie Mostyn by Grey Medoc.

To his excellent blood lines Almont Patchen adds performances which show him a worthy descendant of famous families. He is a large, well-formed, rangy and stylish horse, of great power and unsurpassed staying qualities, and cannot fail to get fast and useful horses. In 1886 he started in Chico and in Sacramento in two races, winning both, making in the latter a record of 2:23.

In 1888 ALMONT PATCHEN started in eight races, winning six, and coming in second in the other two. In his last race at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, he defeated Adonis and Belmont Boy, making a record of 2:15. A few days later, in private, he paced a mile in 2:13¾ on same track.

Almont Patchen will make the season of '89 at the Race Track, San Jose, commencing February 1st and ending in May.

TERMS: $100 for the season, payable when mare is bred. Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. All mares taken at owner's risk. For further particulars address,

VINELAND BREEDING FARM.

Whippleton, 1883,

STANDARD UNDER RULE 406.

The most successful stock horse in California for his opportunities. WHIPPLETON has no equal as a producer of carriage and general purpose horses. Sire of Lily Stanley, record 2:17½, dam's breeding unknown; Homestakes, pacer, 2:16½, dam's breeding unknown; Flora B., 2:30, dam's breeding unknown; Cora C., three-year-old pacer, 2 33¾, dam by Anubuc, Rachel, 2:38, dam's breeding unknown.

DESCRIPTION.

WHIPPLETON is a beautiful black, tan muzzle and flanks, and exceptionally strongly made all over. He stands 17 hands high and weighs 1400 pounds. He is beyond doubt the most uniform breeder on the Coast for size, color and finish. Most of his colts are 16 hands or over, and all bay, brown or black in color. He has never sired a sorrel or white faced colt; if he does I agree to refund service money.

PEDIGREE.

WHIPPLETON, sired by Hambletonian Jr. (sire of Hancock 2:20), by Whipple's Hambletonian; dam Lady Livingston; (dam of Lady Blanchard 2:29¼, Bloomfield Maid, trial 2:22); by General Taylor (sire of dam of Wells Fargo 2:18¾, Nearea 2 24½, Bickford 2:29½, Lady Blanchard 2:26¾) and Stella 2:30, son of the Morse horse.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars, with usual return privilege.

By the great Almont (sire of Westmont, 2:15½, Puritan, 2:16, Fannie Witherspoon, 2:16½, Piedmont, 2:17¾, and 31 others with records better than 2:30, and grandsire of Bell Hamlin, 2:13¾) by Alexander's Abdallah (sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14), he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Alcona's dam, Queen Mary by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¼, Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½ and 4 others in 2:30 list, and sire of the dams of Piedmont, 2:17¾, Director, 2:17, Onward, 2:8 ¾, and many others; 23 of his sons have produced 2:30 trotters.

Almont has 38 sons that have produced 2:30 trotters, which number is only equaled by his grandsire, Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

DESCRIPTION.

Alcona is a beautiful chestnut, 16½ hands high, and weighs 1,300 pounds. His colts possess speed, style, finish and beauty, and if they don't trot fast they command the highest price for carriage and general purpose horses. Eleven of Alcona's colts that have been sold UNTRAINED brought $7,810, an average of $710 per head.

TERMS: $35. Usual return privilege.

Grandissimo,

Sired by La Grande (son of Almont and out of Jessie Pepper by Mambrino Chief; Jessie Pepper is the dam of Iona 2:22, Alpha 2 23½, Sterling Wilkes 2:33¾, and others); dam Norma, by Arthurton (sire of Arab 2:15, Joe Arthurton 2:2 , etc).

Grandam Nourmahal (full sister to A. W. Richmond, sire of Arrow 2:13½, Romero 2:19, and sire of Columbine, dam of Anteeo 2:16¼, and 1 Antevolo 2:19¾ at 4 years old).

DESCRIPTION.

Grandissimo is 3 years old, will make a sixteen hand horse; he is a rich mahogany bay in color and perfect in style and action. Limited to ten mares, at $50 for the season. Usual return privileges.

In case any of my horses are sold before the next season, parties breeding mares have the privilege to return them to any other stallion I have making the season at the same price. Mares kept in any manner desired. Best of pasture the year round, at $4 per month. Some choice young stallions, colts and fillies by Whippleton, for sale reasonable. Correspondence solicited.

The Electioneer Stallion LANCELOT,

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco, Cal.

Sire Gov. Stanford's ELECTIONEER; first dam Lizzie Harris by Comus; second dam by Arnold Harris. Comus by Grece's Bashaw, dam Topsey by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk. Young Bashaw by Grand Bashaw (Arabian) (182), dam Pearl by First Consul (913); g d Fancy by imp. Rockingham. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam Sportsmistress by American Eclipse.

All the sons of Electioneer in the Eastern States have their books filled for the season. This is a rare opportunity to breed to Lancelot at a very low price. Lancelot has shown quarters better than a 2:30 gait, and had it not been for an accident would have had a record as low as the fastest of the sons of Electioneer.

The Nutwood Stallion SALADIN.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco.

SALADIN, chestnut stallion, 16 hands 1 inch high; foaled April 9, 1880. By Nutwood; first dam Lady Utley Jr. by Speculation, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian; second dam Lady Utley. Grandam of Western Girl. Record 2:27½.

NUTWOOD (record 2:18¾), half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾, by Belmont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; first dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sally Russell by Boston; third dam Maria Russell by Thornton's Rattler; f urth dam Miss Shepard by Stockholder; fifth dam Miranda by Topgallant; sixth dam by imported Diomed; seventh dam by imported Medley; eighth dam by imported Juniper. Nutwood is the sire of Felix, 2:18¾; Dawn 2:19½; Manon 2:21; Menlo 2:21¼; Nutbreaker, two years old, 2:29½; Nutwood Jr. 2:26; Mount Vernon 2:21; Woodnut 2:16¾, and several others that have trotted under 2:30.

The above stallions will make the season of 1889 at the Hoag Stables, corner 1st and B Streets, Santa Rosa.

Pasturage $3 per month. All mares at the owners risk. Apply or address,

The Thoroughbred Stallion Judge McKinstry,

Will make the Season of 1889, from

March 1 to July 1, at San Felipe

Rancho, near Gilroy.

PEDIGREE.

Foaled 1879, by Grinstead or Thad Stevens, dam Katy Pease; second dam Minnie Mansfield by imp. Glencoe; third dam Allegrante by imp. Young Truffle.

DESCRIPTION.

JUDGE McKINSTRY is a bright bay with black points, 15¾ hands in height, of a conformation combining power and speed. His breeding is one that cannot be excelled. The families on both sides being noted for their gameness and fleetness. Speakin of JUDGE McKINSTRY, Matt Storm, the well-known trainer, says: "He is the fastest race-horse I ever saw on the Sacramento track. He has shown me trials that were marvelous, one especially of a mile and a quarter that was ahead of the present record." He was started in several races when not in condition to run, and even then developed an amount of speed that is characteristic of the noted families from which he descends. His performances are too well known to need repetition here Good judges of horses state positively that there can be no doubt of his sire, as he is a perfect picture of Grinstead, but rule compels us to name both sires.

TERMS: $75 payable when the mare is moved from ranch, or, $100, with the usual privilege. Good pasturage, $3 per month. Mares at owners risk. All communications must be addressed to

Prince Imperial.

DESCRIPTION.—PRINCE IMPERIAL is a black horse, 15-3 hands high; weighs 1 150 pounds, and is a model of beauty, action and power.

PEDIGREE.—Sired by Black Prince, he by Dictator, own brother to Dexter, dam Daisy by Witherell Messenger, he by Winthrop Messenger, son of imp. Messenger.

Mr. Peter Brandow's statement in regard to Prince Imperial: "I met A. Weske in the Park in 1887 driving the above horse, both strangers to me. I was driving a good horse, but the above horse, hitched to a phaeton, beat me easily. I followed him to find out what horse it was, and he finally allowed me to hitch him to a sulky, which I did, and drove him easily in 2:42¼. I think him one amongst the best horses in California, and firmly believe that in six months I can drive him in 220."

PETER BRANDOW.
Trainer of trotters for 25 years.

In 1881, while visiting Salt Lake City, I saw the colt Prince Imperial, and bought him for my own use, and have used him for family purposes ever since. In offering him for public service last year, not knowing anything about horses' pedigrees I made a mistake in his. I wrote to the owner of the mare in Salt Lake, Dr. S. B. Young, and he says she was by Henry Clay, brought from Kentucky by him.

Will make the season of 1888 at the farm of A. Weske, 2¼ miles from Santa Rosa on the Healdsburg road. Season commencing March 1st.

SIRE OF YOLO MAID, 2:14.

Alexander Button.

Alexander's Record, 2:31 1-4!

DESCRIPTION.

Alexander Button is a dark bay with fine flowing mane and tail; stands 15-3¾ hands high; weighs 1,200 pounds, and is of excellent disposition. When three years old he made a record of 2:28½, and when four years old, in his first race, he obtained a record of 2:26¾. Has been driven a mile in 2:16 in his four-year-old form, and has been drive a last half in 1:0 . Alexander Button is a natural trotter, inherited through the speed-lines of his ancestors, and imparts his speed to his offspring with uniform certainty Yolo Maid, as a three-year-old, paced 18 heats, never leaving her feet—carrying the world's record of 2:14. Rosie Mc, as a five-year-old rarely ever breaks; has a record of 2:20¾. R. H. Newton's colt, with very little handling, paced a 2:16 gait, and there are several other colts that show gaits from 2 16 to 2:20. Considering that Alexander Button has never been mated with a standard-bred mare—his colts show him to be a wonderful producer—and with his breeding, and terms of service, he is the cheapest and most wonderful horse in the State.

PEDIGREE.

Alex. Button was sired by Alexander, he by Geo. M. Patchen, Jr., his dam Lady Button by Napa Rattler by Biggett's Rattler, he by Sir Henry, and he by imported Henry, dam of Biggett's Rattler by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam of Napa Rattler, thoroughbred.

TERMS: $75, payable at end of season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge. Good pasturage will be furnished at $2 per month, and due care taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability whatever assumed.

Will stand at City Stable, Woodland, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. The remainder of the time he will stand at my ranch, which is situated about 1½ miles west of Yolo station.

All mares sent to Fashion Stable, Woodland, Yolo County, will be forwarded free of charge.

LONGWORTH.

High Bred Trotting Stallion.

WILL BE FOUR YEARS OLD IN MARCH.

Dark Bay, Black Points, by Sidney.

OWNED BY A. C. DIETZ, OAKLAND.

Also the owner of Bay Stallion Ringwood, four years old, by Sidney, half brother to Longworth, which has showed trials over the Oakland Track, 2:30; quarters, in 34 seconds—2:16 gait —as a three-year old.

LONGWORTH, for finish, style and form cannot be excelled by any four-year-old horse in the State. His gait is perfect; going low to the ground, with smooth, easy motion, and has shown wonderful speed with but two month's work. As a two-year-old, he showed a 2:40 gait; as a three-year-old showed—trial—full mile over the Oakland track, 2:26; half mile, 1:10; quarters, 34 seconds; eighths, 16 seconds—a 2:18 gait.

Longworth is the result of a long line of distinguished ancestors, endowed with speed on the sire and dams' side that follows back for generations—consequently he cannot help but produce great speed.

He is half brother to the great three-year-old Adonis, record 2 14¾.

Memo, three-year-old trial, 2:20½.
Sister V., two-year-old trial, 2:32.
St. Nicholas, three-year-old trial, 2:27¼.
Ringwood, three-year-old trial, 2:30.
Miss Sidney, one-year-old trial, half mile, 1:38.
Brown colt, three-year-old trial, 2.40.
Sorrel colt, two-year-old trial, quarter, 34 seconds, and a number more that have shown remarkable speed. One yearling that has shown one-eighth of a mile in 16 1-5 seconds—a 2:10 gait.

Sidney, the sire of Longworth, has a record of 2:19¾; Santa Claus, the grand sire, has a record of 2:17½; Sweetness, the grandam, record 2:21½; Strathmore, the sire of Santa Claus, has twenty-two that have trotted below 2:30; Volunteer, the sire of Sweetness, has twenty-six that have trotted below 2:30. Volunteer is the sire of St. Julian, record 2:11¼.

Longworth's first dam Grey Dale, the dam of Daisy C., Silver Threads, and grandam of Phaceola; Grey Dale by American Boy, Jr.; he by American Boy, the sire of Belmont Second dam Grey Poll by Winfield Scott, by Edward Everett; third dam Sorrel Poll by Sir Henry; fourth dam Daughter of Printer.

All letters pertaining to the service of this horse should be addressed to J. J. FAIRBANKS, Oakland. Alameda County, Cal.

TERMS: Fifty dollars, payable at the end of the season or sooner if the mares are taken away. Season will close June 15th, 1889. The number of mares limited to twenty-five. The best of care will be taken to insure mares with foal. Pasture $5 per month, which can be procured at the Oakland Race Track. Mares at the owners' risk, as to escapes or accidents.

NOONDAY.

No Record, Foaled 1884.

Standard No. 10,000.

THIS CELEBRATED TROTTING-BRED STALlion will be limited to 40 mares the ensuing season at Oakland Trotting Park, Oakland, Cal., commencing February 1st and ending July 1st, at $100 the season, with the usual privilege of returning the mare next season if not proving in foal. The names of his patrons will be entered on his book in order of their application. He will be limited strictly to forty mares. Pasturage at five dollars per month, hay and grain extra.

NOONDAY, sired by Wedgewood (692), record, the fourth heat, 2.19, (sire of Favonia, record, fourth heat, 2:15, and Nugget, record 2:26, he the sire of Nettie Leaf, four-year-old record 2:23¾), and five others better than 2:26.

First dam Noontide, record 2:20½, by Harold (413), sire of Maud S., record 2:08¾, Mattie Graham, 2:21¾, and 17 others in 2:30.

Second dam Midnight (the dam of Jay-Eye-See, record 2:10), by Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Maud S., 2:08¾, Nutwood, 2:18¾.

Third dam by Lexington (sire of dam of Ansel, 2:20.)

First dam (the dam of Woodford Mambrino, 2:21), by Woodford (thoroughbred son of Kosciusko), he by Sir Archy.

NOONDAY is well formed, evenly balanced and handsome; his color is dark seal brown, small star, right hindfoot white, 15 1¾ inches high, weight 975 lbs., strong back and good gaited, short and rapid, and will make a fast and game campaigner.

Breeders will please remember that this horse is not owned by me. I have only leased him for two years for the benefit of the State and breeders on account of the speedy lines and blood that this State is in need of, and no stallion now in public service can show a pedigree with such fast records as enrich the blood of NOONDAY.

I will also handle and train a few horses for gentlemen at fair terms. Address

THE WILKES STALLION

Mambrino Wilkes, 6083

(Half Brother to Harry Wilkes, 2:13 1-2.)

Sire of Gus Wilkes, 2:22; Alpheus, 2:27; Balkan 2:29½, three-year-old; John O'Brien, lapped out the winner in 2:36 as a three-year-old; H. A. W.'s Black Colt, trial 2:29 with very little work as a four-year-old.

Will remain in the future at San Miguel Stock Farm, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County.

DESCRIPTION.

MAMBRINO WILKES is a black horse, 16 hands high, and considerably longer than his height; has immense muscular development and weighs 1,200 pounds. He has the utmost symmetry of proportion and elegance of finish. No competent judge who has seen this horse has failed to pronounce him a perfect individual, and his breeding is certainly fashionable enough to satisfy the most fastidous His colts are large, stylish and handsome, and Balkan has been pronounced by many the most stylish trotter on the turf,

PEDIGREE.

Sired by George Wilkes, dam Lady Chrisman by Todhunter's Mambrino; second dam by Pilot Jr.

Todhunter's Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, dam Ripton's dam by Hunt's Commodore, son of Mambrino by imp. Messenger; second dam by Potomac, son of imp. Messenger.

George Wilkes sired 65 colts that have beaten 2:30. Of these 39 have average records of 2:23, 14 of 2:19 and 12 of 2:18.

TERMS.

Mares from a distance will be received at the Dexter Stables, Oakland, or Livery Stable, Martinez, the owner notifying Smith Hill, Superintendent at the farm. Good pasture and plenty of water. For the purpose of placing the service of a Wilkes within reach of breeders, the same rate will be maintained as last year, to wit, $75 for the season. Although it is not admitted thereby that this horse is inferior as a producer to the horses whose fees are placed at from $100 to $500.

BALKAN,

Three-year-old Record 2:29 1-2; trotting many heats faster, when he did not obtain a record.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Fanny Fern by Jack Hawkins, son of Boston; second dam S. I. B. by Jim Crow.

It will be readily seen that this colt is from strong producing lines on both sides Fanny Fern having produced Mollie Drew, May Queen, Onyx and Fred Arnold, all noted trotters and all by different sires.

This colt will be kept at the Oakland Trotting Park, and will be stinted to ten approved mares at $100 for the season.

The Thoroughbred Stallion

THREE CHEERS

Will make the Season of 1889 at Oakland Race Track, Oakland, Alameda County.

Pedigree.

Newminster by Touchstone (winner St. Leger 1831), dam Beeswing (winner of 54 races out of 61 starts) by Dr. Syntax (winner Doncaster Cup 1837, 40, 41, 42, the only horse that ever accomplished that feat.)

THREE CHEERS is bred in the speediest and stoutest lines. His dam, Young Fashion was the dam of Surprise, Scotland (the only horse that ever beat Asteroid a heat), Liverpool, Columbia and Bonnie Kate, the dam of Little Buttercup and the flying Bonnie Lizzie. His grandam, Fashion, was the greatest race mare of her era, defeating Boston in that historical match at four-mile heats, that is recorded as one of the greatest events in the annals of the turf. He is thoroughly sound in wind and limb, his family on both sides being noted for their exemption from curbs, spavins, roaring, or any other hereditary unsoundness. Horsemen, who can appreciate the highest type of the thoroughbred, are specially invited to inspect Three Cheers.

TERMS: $75 for the season. Mares not proving with foal can be returned the next season free of charge. Good pasturage at $5 per month. Mares cared for in any manner owners may desire, and fed on hay and grain, either or both, at reasonable rates. None but competent grooms employed, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

N. B.—Mares sent from a distance in care of J. W. Morshead City Front Stables, San Francisco, will be forwarded without delay.

Finely Bred Trotting Stallion

ARLINGTON.

$25. BY $25.

ABBOTTSFORD.

By Abbottsford, dam the Gillespie mare, Abbottsford by Woodford Mambrino, son of Mambrino Chief, dam Columbia by Young Columbus. This horse was brought to California by J. W. Knox, and made a record in 1883 of 2:19½, and has always proved a great speed producer.

The Gillespie mare, by the celebrated Wilson's Blue Bull, who has probably more of his get in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived.

Arlington has as yet no record, but has shown very fast trials. He will be limited to twenty-five mares only, as he will be trained for a record immediately on the conclusion of the season.

TERMS: $25 the season, with usual return privileges. The best of attention will be given mares, but no liability assumed for escapes or accidents. Call on or address

Thoroughbred Stallion

Prince of Norfolk,

Will Make the Season of 1889, from Feb 15th to July 1st, at Sacramento.

PEDIGREE.

PRINCE OF NORFOLK, ch c, foaled 1881, by Norfolk; 1st dam Marion by Malcolm; 2nd dam Maggie Mitchell by imp. Yorkshire; third dam Charmer by imp. Glencoe; 4th dam Betsy Malone by Stockholder; 5th dam by Potomac; 6th dam by imp. Diomed; 7th dam by Pegasus, etc. Norfolk, the unbeaten son of Lexington, is the sire of Winters, Twilight, Conner, Ballot Box, Trade Dollar, Flood, Duchess of Norfolk, Lou Spencer, the Great Emperor of Norfolk, an many others. Marion's sire, Malcolm, was one of the first horses to bring Bonnie Scotland into notice. Through the Maggie Mitchell cross comes the blood of two of the most celebrated race mares of their day, Charmer and Betsy Malone. The combined speed of these great families seem to be concentrated in the get of Norfolk and Marion, as is instanced in the case of the Emperor of Norfolk, who is a full brother to the Prince of Norfolk.

The blood lines here displayed cannot be surpassed in the world, there not being a single cross that has not been celebrated for speed and endurance, and it is fair to assume that the get of this stallion will show equally well with those of past generations.

TERMS, $50 for the season. We offer first class pasturage on our own ranch, at $4 per month and the best of care will be taken of mares sent to us, but no responsibility can be incurred. For further particulars address

RAISIN HANDICAP. For all ages. 1¼ mile dash. Guarantee Purse $1,000. $10 entrance. $10 May 1st, $15 June 1st, $25 July 1st. Weights will be declared August 15th and acceptance September 1st, when the other $50 is to be paid. To be run at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entrance money amounts to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the association will add 20 per cent. of amount of purse; 3 moneys, 70, 20, 10 per cent of purse. Horses winning any purse or stake of one mile or more at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $800 or over, shall carry 10 pounds extra. Horses winning a purse or stake of one mile or over at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $500 or over, to carry 5 pounds extra.

Weights to be declared through BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, August 15, 1889. Entries close May 1st with the Secretary.

American Association Rules to govern.

REMARKS.

As to the Handicap Running, 1¼ mile dash, the Handicapping Committee will use due diligence in learning the performance of every horse entered, and weighting them fairly to their merits. Each entry must be accompanied by entrance money or be considered no entry. All payments not made when due the nominator forfeits all money paid in. We propose at the finish of the race the horse winning the purse, or any part of it, gets his money and not forfeit papers.

GUARANTEE PURSE.

For horses that never beat 2:30. Trotting Purse $1,900, $100 entrance, $25 May 1st, $5 July 1st, $50 August 15th, when horses are to be named. To be trotted at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entries amount to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the Association will add 20 per cent. of amount of stakes. Four moneys, 50, 25, 15, 10 per cent of purse.

American Association rules to govern.

REMARKS.

This 2:30 class Guarantee Purse gives the party making the entry the privilege of naming any horse he sees fit the 15th day of August, having no better record than 2:30 the first day of May, irrespective of the record he gets after that date. You will see by this the nominator has almost a sure thing of getting his money back. Any nominator failing to make payments when due, forfeits all money paid in, and money must accompany entry or it will be considered no entry.

Our grounds are the finest appointed in the State being about 2½ miles from the city; horse car line running direct to the grounds.

We also have the best of box stalls for 100 horses. Hay and straw furnished to all horses entered in races free of charge. Grain can be procured on the grounds at reasonable rates.

CONDITIONS.

All trotting and pacing races, best 3 in 5, to harness, unless otherwise specified. Entrance, ten per cent on amount of purse, to accompany nomination. Any horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money.

American Association Rules to govern all trotting, pacing, and running races, but the Board reserves the right to trot heats of any two classes alternately, or to trot a special race between heats; also, to change the day or hour of any race if deemed necessary.

A horse making a walk-over shall be entitled to only one-half of entrance money paid in. When less than required number of starters appear, they may contest for entrance money paid in, to be divided as follows: 66⅔ to first, 33⅓ to second.

In all entries not declared out by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race shall be required to start.

When there is more than one entry by one person, or in one interest, the particular horse they are to start must be named by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race.

If, in the opinion of the judges, any race cannot be finished on the closing day of the meeting, it may be continued or declared off, at the option of the judges.

Non-starters in running races will be held for entrance under Rule 36.

Racing colors to be named on entries.

In trotting races the drivers shall be required to wear caps of distinct colors, which must be named in their entries.

These two last rules will be strictly enforced.

All races to be called at 2 P. M. sharp.

Frank Morgan.

M. S. S. LARABIE, OF MONTANA, is at present in the city, and has brought with him one of the handsomest stallions seen in many a day. He is a dark chestnut, about sixteen hands in height, of free, easy carriage, well gaited, perfectly developed and superb in general appearance. In disposition he is all that can be desired. He has been named "Frank Morgan" in honor of the family from which he descends. He is by a son of Morgan General Jr., first dam by Romeo, he by Green Mountain Morgan, the blood lines running direct on both sides to the great Justin Morgan. The stallion is at present in the hands of C. W. Welby, who feels a natural pride in handling the reins over the most magnificent carriage horse in San Francisco. —BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.

627 Seventeenth Street,

Where prices and information regarding him may be obtained of

NUTWOOD JR.,

FOR SALE OR LEASE.

This Speedy Son of the Great NUTWOOD can be Bought for $2,500, or Leased for the Season for $1000.

He is a sure foal getter, and can show as fine colts as are in the State. He earned $3,400 last year in the stud, can take care of 100 mares with ease. This is the best opportunity ever offered for any live man to make from two to three thousand dollars clear in a few months, with one of the most popular and fashionably bred horses in the land. The services of this style of horses never goes begging. His sire commands more for his stud services than any living trotting stallion. $500. He can be seen at Sacramento by calling at the address below. Other engagements prevent his owner from caring for him in the stud the coming season.

DESCRIPTION.

NUTWOOD, JR., is a mahogany bay horse, 16½ hands high, weighs 1260 pounds. Foaled April 14, 1879, bred by L. U. Shippee of Stockton, Cal.

He is a horse of powerful mold, symmetrical form and in striking resemblance to his sire, NUTWOOD.

He has never been trained but his action is faultless and his disposition most unexceptional.

PEDIGREE.

Nutwood, 2:18¾, half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾) by Belmont (Alexander's), dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sallie Russel by Boston; third dam Ma ia Russell by Thornton's Rattler, etc. He is the sire of Felix, 2:19¾, Manon, 2:21, Jim Mulvenna, four years, 2:27½, Nutbreaker, yearling, 2.42¾, and many other fast ones.

Belmont, by Alexander's Abdallah, dam Belle by Mambrino Chief, second dam by Brown's Bellfounder, son of imp Bellfounder. He is the sire of Wedgewood, 2:19, and five others in the 2:30 list. Alexander's Abdallah, sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14, and others.

Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Nutwood, is also the sire of Midnight, the dam of Jay-Eye-See, 2:10, and seven in the 2:30 list.

Two Nutwood Stallions

One is Bay, dam by G. M. Patchen. He is nine years old, never been trained, shows lots of speed, has taken several premiums at our County Fairs as a Roadster Stallion. His name is BAYWOOD black legs, mane and tail, and free driver. Weighs 1,200 pounds; 16 hands high, and is a sound horse.

FLEETWOOD is eight years old, dam by Young America, is sorrel, looks like his sire, fine style and lots of action; close to 16 hands, and weighs 1,100 pounds. In perfect health; good mane and tail. All they want is work to make them trot better than 2:20, as they are bred right for speed and staying qualities and has had the best of care up to the present time.

Horses can be seen at my Stable, corner THIRD AND EMPIRE STREETS, SAN JOSE.

GROVER CLAY,

Bay Stallion, bred by Hon. W. M. Traylor, San Francisco. Foaled 1883. By ELECTIONEER.

First dam MAGGIE NORFOLK by NORFOLK, son of Lexington.

Second dam by BILLY CHEATHAM.

Third dam by DORSEY'S GOLDDUST.

GROVER C. is a very handsome shade of bay, 15¾ hands high, and showing as much quality as a majority of thoroughbreds. He is as square-gaited a trotter as can be, and has shown a great deal of speed for the amount of handling. Has been worked very little, though he can show a thirty gait or better whenever called upon.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars the season, payable at time of service. Proper care will be taken, but no responsibility incurred for accidents or escapes. Mares will be pastured inside of the Oakland Trotting Park, which is especially safe, having two fences which give ample security against escape. There is a never-failing stream of water which runs through the field, and the food is good.

Season commencing first of January and ending the first of July.

This is the only son of Electioneer standing in Alameda County, and the high breeding on the side of his dam is a guarantee that his colts will inherit qualities already made famous through the mixture of Electioneer and Lexington blood. Ansel, 2:20, is from a Lexington mare, and Sunol's granddam, two-year-old record 2:18, was by Lexington, both Sunol and Ansel by Electioneer. Lexington the sire of Norfolk.

THE STANDARD BRED YOUNG STALLION

NUT GROVE.

By GROSVENOR, he by ADMINISTRATOR, he by RYSDYK'S HAMILTONIAN.

First dam Lady Nutwood by Nutwood 600; second dam Lady Mac, standard, by American Boy; third dam a thoroughbred mare imported from Australia.

NUTGROVE is a beautiful bay, 15½ hands, and is one of the finest appearing young horses in the State. He took the first prize for best two-year-old standard-bred horses at Oakland in 1888, also first prize at the State fairs in the same class. He has been worked for speed but a little, but showed quarters in 38 to 40 seconds. His dam took first prize for standard mare at the Oakland Fair, and also took first prize at the State Fair, 1888, for best mare of any age or breed. For further particulars apply to

OSSIDINE

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 15, 1888.

GENTLEMEN:—We have used Ossidine for the past two years and consider it invaluable for Sprung Tendons, Curbs, Ringbone and Spavins; there is nothing equals it; and for us it effected a permanent cure where firing failed, although perfo med by one of the most successful veterinarians on the continent. We have recommended it to others with like success, and believe it has more merit than any blister ever used.

Very respectfully yours, S. A. BROWNE & Co., Prop's.

This scientific preparation is an absolute cure for all bony or callous lumps on horses, and is a more powerful absorbent than "firing," without creating the slightest blemish. After a few applications the excrescence is so palpably reduced that even the skeptical frankly acknowledge that it is by far the most valuable outward remedy for horses ever invented.

The ONLY preparation in the world that will remove a Bone Spavin after it has become ossified.

Price $3.00 per Large Bottle,

A. P. BUSH & CO., 149 Pearl Street, Boston, Mass.

Sole Agents for United States and Canada.

Owner of Eole, St. Saviour, Eolist, etc., says; I have long used it in my stables, and find it to be all that is claimed for it in removing callous and unnatural bony growths, without leaving the slightest blemish. From my experience, I most strongly recommend the use of Ossidine, and feel that it is a necessary adjunct to every stable. Yours respectfully,

LONG BRANCH, July 28, 1888. F. GEBHARD.

Mambrino Stallion

FOR SALE.

The Fashionably bred Black Stallion

HENRY CLAY,

Is by Carr's Mambrino, he by Mambrino Patchen, he by Mambrino Chief, by Mambrino Paymaster, by Imported Messenger. HENRY CLAY'S dam was sired by Taxation by Lexington, dam Black Swan by Messenger Carrol; his dam Messenger Maid, by Cooper's Bay Messenger; Swan's first dam was Katy Aubrey, by American Eclipse, second dam Buzzard, fourth dam Mary Grey by Imported Messenger.

He was foaled June 1, 1881, is jet black, stands 17¼ hands high, and weighs 1260 pounds.

At the State Fair in 1884, he took the first premium for horses for all purposes, also first premiums at the Monterey District Fairs in 1883, 1884 and 1885.

There is no more stylish horse to be found in the State, his action is perfect, and although never trained for speed he shows a remarkably fine road gait of 3 minutes. For further particulars apply to

How To KNOW the AGE Of A HORSE.

Mr. Blundevil says, Some seek to Know a Horses Age in this Sort: They Pull his Skin with their Hand from his Flesh, holding it so a Pretty while together, and then let it Go Again, Marking whether the Skin Returneth immediately to his Place, or not, without leaving any Signe or Wrinckle where it was Toucht: And then they Judge the Horse to be Young. But if the Skin will not Fall down quickly again of its own accord, they take him to be Old, and to lack that Natural Heat, and Warm Blood, which should Nourish his Outward Parts. These are the very Words of Mr. Blundevil.

Let us see the Probability of it, and the Certainty of the Rule, in a Horse whose Mark is Out of his Mouth; for many Horses that are many Years Older, if they be Healthful, and Sound, and in good Case, Wanton, and full of Blood, their Skin will Return to the same Place again Presently, when a Younger Horse by many Years, that is Sickly, Lean, and Faint, his Skin will not Return so soon; and then your Old Observation Deceives you, and is a great Folly. And when he will Know a Horses Age by his Tayl, he begins at the Wrong end; which is most Ridiculous.

Mr. Blundevil sayes also, That when a Horse Waxeth Old, his Temples will wax Hollow, and the Hair of his Browes Hore and White, &c. This is for the Most part somewhat Probable. But yet I have Known a young Fellow of Seventeen all Gray; Why may it not be so in Horses? Nay, I have Known some so. But though I Grant, That Gray Hairs shewes Age, for the most part; yet, I believe, you do not know How Old a Horse is for all that Observation, but only in general, That he is Old.

So that there is no Sure way to Know his Age, but by his Teeth; and that is a certain Rule, but Lasts no longer than Seven years Old. Captain Mazine sayes, That a Horses Years may be Known until he is Fourteen, by his Upper Teeth; but, because it doth not Hold in all Horses, I forbear to Write it. There is some Difference between Horses and Mares, to Know their Age.

For any Man that would have a Horse of Use in his ordinary Occasions; as for Journeys, Hawking, or Hunting; I would never Buy a Horse until the Mark be Out of his Mouth; and if he be Sound of Wind, Limb, and Sight, he will last you Eight or Nine Years with good Keeping, and never Fail you; when a Young Horse will have many Diseases, as Children have, and you must leave him with your Host at Harborow, or Northampton, or some Inne, and Hire another Horse for your Occasion, and have your Host's Bill, and the Farriers, which will come to more than your Horse is Worth; and there's your Young Horse; but your Old Horse shall never Fail you. I am always ready to Buy for such Purposes, an Old Nagg of some Hunts-Man, or Falconer, that is Sound, and that's the Useful Nagg; for he Gallops on all Grounds, Leaps over Ditches, and Hedges; and this will not Fail you in your Journey, nor any where; and is the only Nagg of Use, for Pleasure, or Journey, but not for a Souldier Horse, nor the Mannage: For every Horse must be Appropriated in his Kind, and put to what he is Fittest.

What EQUIPAGE is PROPER for the HORSE, And Most COMMODIOUS for the HORSE-MAN Afore the Horse is MOUNTED.

For the Saddle, Bitt, Cavezone, Stirrups, and Spurrs, in my first Book of Horse-manship you shall see the Figures of all These, most Lively Represented.

For the Girthes, I must Advise you to have one Girth as Broad as two, only at each End separated, as if they were Two, though it is but one Girth; and an Italian Surcingle over them; which is so excellent a thing, that if the Girths, or Straps, should Break, yet the Surcingle will not fail to Hold.

You must fit your Horse with a Bitt proper for him; that is, a Cannon, or a Scatch, A ta Pignatel, and Branches A la Conestable; and the same Bitt I alwayes Ride my Horse with I give him at first; for they are Ridiculous with their Pistol Cannons, and not to fit a Horse for two Years, and then to Bitt him up. But I will alwayes Bitt and fit my Horse at the first, with what he should alwayes Wear, or such Another when that's Broke, or is worn in Pieces.

Your Horse should be Girt as Hard as you can; for the Italian sayes, He that Girds well, Rides well. But a Groom may Gird well, and yet not Ride well. But they Mean, No Man can Ride well, that doth not Gird well: For, how can he Ride well when the Saddle turns Round? Horses of Mannage force the Girths much with Violent Ayres, which an Ambling Horse doth not. But I must Tell you, That you should never Gird your Horse up Hard and Straight, but just before you Ride him; for, being Hard Grit in the Stable Long before you Ride him, I have Known them grow very Sick. Why do they not so when they are Ridd, say you? I'll tell you why; Because the Violence of the Exercise makes them put Out their Bodies, and so Stretches the Girthes, and makes them Easier.

But I will Tell you a great Truth in Horses that are used to be Girt Hard: When the Groom comes to Gird them up, the Horses will so Stretch their Bodies and Bellies Out, with holding their Breath, that the Grooms have much ado to Gird them: And this is Craftily done of them, that they may have Ease after they are Girded, and then they let their Bodies Fall again. And yet, says the Learned, Like to the Horse that hath no Understanding.

Another thing I am to Advertise you of; and that is, To make the Nose-Band as Straight as possible you can; because it Hinders him, as they say, to make Sheeres with his Mouth, or to Gape to Disorder the Working of the Bitt, or to Bite at the Rodd when you help him, or to Bite at your Feet. But the Nose-Band, being very Straight, makes the Bitt lie in his due Place, and Works orderly, as it Ought, both upon the Barrs, and the Curb, and firms and settles his Head: And I assure you, there is nothing Better than this, for many things; and therefore I would have also the Cavezone as straight as you could, for many Reasons; and Remember that your Cavezone be never Sharp, but always Lined with double Leather at the least, for fear of Hurting him: Though the Old saying, is, A Bloody Nose makes a good Mouth; I would neither Hurt his Mouth, nor his Nose, nor anything else about him, if I could help it; and then I am sure he will have a Better Mouth, when his Nose is not Hurt.

Sakers, Dookes, or Trouse Ques, (which is all one) is a great Grace for a Leaping-Horse; for it makes him appear Plumper, and more Together, Racoursi, and makes him appear to go Higher too; therefore I would use Sakers for all Kinds of Leaping-Horses, whether for Croupadoes, Balotadoes, or Caprioles; but then the Horses Tayles must be Tied short Up, upon the Saker.

For Horses that go the Mannage de Soldat, Terra a Terra, in Corvets, or Demy-Ayres, there is nothing Handsomer, than to see a Horse with a Good Tayl Down, without anything; no Quinsel, or any-thing, but Naturally; and to see him Lay his Tayl on the Ground, is Graceful, and shewes that he Goes upon the Hanches; which is the Perfection of the Mannage.

To Beautifie their Manes before great Princes, or Persons of Quality, there is nothing more Graceful, than to Tye their Manes with several Coloured Ribbons, or all of one Colour, in many several Wayes; either Pleating their Manes, or letting them be Loose.

I never saw any Horse Go so well with Rich Saddles, as with Plain Leather Saddles, and Black Bridles: The Leather Saddles should be plain White Spanish Leather, stitcht with Silk; with Silver Nayles, and a good Black Leather Slap-Cover over it, and the Bridle Soft black Leather, and Small; by no means too Great: Two Girthes in One, to part at both Ends, like Two Girths; and a good Italian Surcingle, which is worth both the Girthes for sure Holding.

You must be very Careful, to see that nothing that is about the Horse should Hurt him; as his Saddle, Bitt, Cavezone, or any thing else: For, I assure you, as long as any thing Hurts him, he will never go Well.

No Horse goes Well in a Wind, it doth so Whisk about him, and in his Ears, and makes such a Noise, as it Diverts him from the Mannage; and so doth any new Help, or any new Thing that they are not Accustomed to: Horses are very Sensible, and Tickle; and no Strangers must come near them.

There is one Thing that is the most Uncomly; and the Disgracefullest thing a Horse can do; and that is, To Whisk his Tayl in all the Actions that he makes. The common Remedy they Use, is, To Tie his Tayl with a Quinsel; which doth Remedy that Vice, as long as it Holds: But the Best thing in the World, is, To Cut Cross the great Nerve that is under his Tayl, and then he shall never Whisk or Shake it again; and it will do him no Hurt in the World, more than when it is Cut. There is no Remedy like unto this.

A Very True PARADOX.

I Will never Put my Horses of Mannage to Soyl after they are Five Years old. I had a Barb that had a Cold, and I was Perswaded to Put him to Soyl; but when I took him from it, he was Broken-Winded. Though I never Put them, but Six or Seven dayes, to Soyl, yet I ever found them the Worst for it, both for Colds, and their Flesh being Flabby. Doth not every Body say, when you Take a Horse from Grass, That you take him Up with a Grass-Cold? And it is very True. Then these Horses of Mannage, which are extreamly Heated, and often must, of Necessity, Melt their Grease. If you give them Grass to Cool them, and Purge them (as they say) to bring it away, it being Hardened like Tallow, Grass is too Gentle to do it Effectually: But I Confess it Dissolves some small part of it; which it doth not Bring away; and that which is Dissolved, runs into their Veins, and Arteries, and makes them remain Sick Horses, so that they will never Thrive. Therefore, at the time of Soyl, let them Blood once or twice, and give them Pills of Alloes Sicatrina two Ounces, lapped up in Fresh Butter; and after that, give them Cooling Julips twice or thrice a Week, for a Fortnight, or Three weeks together; and let them Rest, or but Walk gently out, and no Grass at all: During the great Heats, ride Moderately, by no means Violently.

Horses of great Exercise must have Dry Feeding; for Moist Feeding spoyls them, and fills them full of Diseases and Corruption; therefore never give them Grass, and but very little Hay. The Method thus: Before their Water, give them but a Handful of Hay, only to make them Drink; and after their Water, another Handful of Hay, to be a Barricado between their Water, and their Oats, that they should not Shoot their Oats too soon; and then give them their Oats; and all the rest of the Day, and Night, nothing but Wheat Straw. As the Italian sayes, a Horse that is Fed with Hay, is a Horse for a Cart, he is so Foggy and Pursey; but they say, Cavallo de Palla, Cavallo de Batalla; and thus his Flesh will be as Hard as a Board, in great Lust, Wind, and Strength, and as Nervous as possible can be, and in great Health.

Excellent Clean Oats is the Best Feeding in the World; sometimes you may give a few Pease, or Hul'd Beans, which is very Good; but never any Bread, for that makes them Pursey, as we know very well by Running Horses. I never Oakland Trotting Park.

Taking advantage of a bright, beautiful morning, a representative of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN determined to see the Oakland track, which had been reputed as far superior to the Bay District one. On arriving there it took but one glance to satisfy the writer that the Oakland Park was very far ahead of the San Francisco one, in fact last Saturday it was fit to race over, without any further preparation. And what a sight meets the eye as one enters the grounds; it is not necessary that we should be told that the first horse passing the stand is an Anteeo; yes, and there goes a Director, see how gracefully he moves, black as the ace of spades, his jet coat shining brightly as the sun's rays strikes him. There goes Memo and Balkan both on a gentle jog, the drivers very careful of their precious charges, while Sam Gamble, stouter and more loquacious than ever, is urging on his new purchase, Rex, at a clinking gait. Under the direction of Mr. H. T. Hinchman, the manager, we were shown all through the stables, and a finer assortment of blood lines would be hard to find anywhere.

First and foremost on the list we find the grand old thoroughbred stallion Three Cheers. Although he is the sire of many foals, only three of his get have ever been trained, and each proved a stake winner. That of itself speaks volumns for the great producing power of this best son of imp. Hurrah. If he had received the opportunities given other first-class stallions, to-day he would rank the peer of any thoroughbred stallion in America. Several of his get are entered in the great events of "90" and "91," and it may be taken as assured that they will make a name for Three Cheers second to none. Mr. Dustin had gone to the city, but the man in charge showed us Jimmie's string, and a right royal lot they are.

It seems rather strange, but nevertheless true, that many of the men in charge of the horses knew absolutely nothing about them. This does not apply solely to the Dustin stable, but was the rule rather than the exception. A beautiful dark brown, 4-years-old, by Mambrino Wilkes, was the first shown. He is about 15.3 hands in height, and has shown a trial in 2:29¼. This speedy colt is owned by Captain Matthews, and we are told that he is expected to make a low mark for himself this year. In the next stall was a light bay colt, three years old, the property of Mr. Ariel Lathrop. This colt has been given a half mile trial in 1:14, and a severe-quarter in 32½ seconds. He is by Electioneer, dam by Don Victor, thoroughbred.

A really grand looking filly was next paraded, although only three this spring, she has the form and substance of an aged horse. She is by Director, dam Bessie, and is owned by Allen Matthew, quiet and gentle as a lamb, still the youngster can make the best of them show a lively half to beat her. Mr. Dustin owns several himself, which show up very well among them being a two-year-old by Electioneer, a two-year-old by Nephew, and a yearling by Dexter Prince, full brother to the one sold to Mr. James Golden of Boston. Gus Wilkes was moved around the track and there is no reason why he should not cut down his present record of 2:22. Among the number which drew forth favorable comment, was a full brother to Yolo Maid, owned by Mr. Creighton; this ideal pacer is six years old and is called Buttonhole to perpetuate the family name. He is a horse of great promise, and bar accident should give a good account of himself.

Mr. Allen also has in Mr. Dustin's care a seven-year-old mare by Reliance, which will shortly be placed in training; a very pretty dark brown, said to be twelve years old, completes Mr. Dustin's stable, from where we go to take a look at Richard Havey's Bonanza. This highly bred trotting stallion, by Arthurton, dam, the dam of Albert W., 2:20, by John Nelson, is as pure gaited as any on the track, and although his record is only 2:29 at present, Dick says he will chop a whole lot of that before winter sets in. The fast pacing sorrel, Haverly, was being given a constitutional in front of the sheds, accompanied by Jesse D. Carrs' five-year-old trotter Merchant, who is a full brother to Lady Helen, record 2:29½. The next stable should very aptly be called the Hall of Records, for in it is Noonday, with blood relationship to Maud S., 2:08¾; Jay-Eye-See, 2:10; Favonia, 2:15; Nutwood, 2:18¼; Wedgewood (his sire), 2:19, and his dam Noontide, 2:20½, along with any quantity of others well within the 2:30 list.

Mr. Gamble had the groom lead out this splendid animal, and if there was ever a typical horse, Noonday is the one. In conformation he is perfect, evenly balanced, and so handsome that one seems never to tire of looking at him. In color he is a dark seal brown with right hindfoot white and a small star; in height he is about 15.1½, and weighs in the neighborhood of a thousand pounds. He has no record, but when the season finishes Mr. Gamble will train him for one, and it is, to use a vulgarism, dollars to doughnuts that he beats his sire's mark. We found Mr. A. L. Hinds hard at work exercising his own horses and also those belonging to Mr. Irvin Ayres. Mr. Hinds has a splendid specimen of the Brigadier stock in Cricket, a six-year-old, dam a Signal mare, who is showing excellent trotting qualities. In the adjoining stall stands Eolian, a full brother to Gus Wilkes, 2:22, who, although he has never shown better than a 2:40 gait, can place himself within the charmed circle when necessity requires. Balkan looked as handsome as ever, and has grown in height since last season, besides filling out considerably. As is well known, this speedy colt, 2:29½, is by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Fanny Fern by Jack Hawkins, son of Boston. If it had not been for sickness, he would without doubt have made a much lower record than he did. In the next stall was another youngster, by Mambrino Wilkes, dam by Petaluma McClellan. We were next shown a dark bay called Clara P., by Mambrino Wilkes, dam by Corsican, he by imp. Corsican. This mare is six years old, and is owned by Frank Poor. We now come to "Johnny Go-Long," by Plumas, a fine large bay horse, who has the knack of falling off in flesh every now and again. Mr. Hinds assured us that in seven days Johnny fell off seventy pounds, and in four successive weeks lost altogether one hundred and thirty-five pounds.

On leaving the Ayres Stable to go and look at others, we saw Captain Hackett driving a fine looking Anteeo colt, which gives promise of fast time, the Captain handling him with the skill of an old veteran. Mr. Marcuse led out two very fine stallions for inspection, the first being Jib, by Gibralter, dam Kate Gennette, she being a daughter of Belmont and a Black Hawk mare. He is a fine Mahogany bay, 15¾ hands, and weighs about 1200 pounds. This horse received the second prize at the Oakland Fair in 1886, as best horse of all work. His stable companion is T. O. a son of Anteeo, dam the same as Jib. He is a dark bay, five years olds, 15¾ hands, and weighs considerably over 1000 pounds. At the same fair alluded to above, he received the first prize as horse of all work. They are splendid samples of the young stallions now growing up in this State, and are a credit, alike to owner and groom, for they appear to be in the very pink of condition.

A hasty call on John Rowen showed that worthy busily employed on the horses under his charge. On telling him that we would like to take a look at his stable, John led out first that grand son of Sidney, Memo, the property of Mr. James Kerr of San Francisco. He stands fully sixteen hands high, of powerful build, and is simply perfection in looks. A glossy black, relieved by both forefeet white, he is as near a picture as the eye could desire. In disposition he is kind and gentle, his action superb, and to add to his many other qualifications he can trot low down, his trial of 2:20½ as a three-year-old, stamping him as Sidney's most illustrious son. A very handsome bay, four years old, called Sid Julien, was next inspected; he is owned by Mr. Charles Willoughby, and Mr. Rowen is training him for a tour of the circuit this summer. With pardonable pride Mr. Rowen next led out his own horse, St. Nicholas, another favorite son of Sidney, who is thought very highly of by good judges, and is well worthy of the attention paid him. He is a bright bay, 15¾ hands in height, with plenty of length, and his muscular development grand. He is a young horse, being only four years old, and promises a name for himself second to none. Our attention was next called to a four-year-old filly named Gerster, owned by Mr. D. Stoddard of Oakland. She is a pacer and shows a wonderful turn of speed. Gerster is by Washington, dam by Whipple's Hambletonian. Mr. Charles Thornquest took the blankets off his little pet, Cupid, a full brother to Adonis, who looks a much better horse than his relation did when he made the remarkable time of 2:14¼. He is equally well gaited, has his distinguished brother, and may prove a faster horse. Mr. Thornquest also has in his stable a nice appearing bay filly by Linwood, he by Nutwood, dam by Bull Pup. Dr. Pardee, of Oakland, is the owner of this fine filly, and rates her very highly. Matt Storn has an eye for a good trotter, as well as being an excellent judge of thoroughbreds, and has one in Mr. Rowen's hands to train, which should prove a gem of the first water. He is by Le Grande, dam Sunny Slope Belle, she by The Moor, and out of a thoroughbred mare. Although but twenty-two months old, he shows fine speed for a youngster, and although Matt has been offered $2,000 for the colt, he refuses to sell at that figure. He is a handsome black, with three white feet and a white stripe down the face. In Mr. James McGuire's stable is to be found the bay filly Appoline by Sidney, dam Lizzie by John Netherland. Lizzie was the dam of Little Brown Jug, 2:11¾, and Brown Hal, who has a performance of 2:13 to his credit. Coming from such a producer and by such a sire, Appoline should be able to hold her own with the fastest of the young trotters, for she shows no inclination to pace. She is entered in the Occident Stakes, and will prove a formidable opponent to the other starters. Another two-year-old, in the same stable, is Pink, by Christmas, dam Lottie by Lexington, who is owned by William White, of Oakland. In the next stall are shown Mikado, a bay who looks every inch a trotter, and does not belie his appearance, for he can go a 2:24 gait without distress. He is by Marin, dam by California Patchen. Mr. Cade, of Oakland, also has in the same stable the bay colt Cade, four years old, by Munroe Chief, dam by Thad Stevens. He has not received much work as yet, but can go his mile in 2:40 readily. Mr. McGuire has a young sorrel colt by Steinway which he has only broken to harness, but like all the Steinways, he seems to revel in the sport, and may possibly develop into a first-class winner.

In Mr. Palmer's stable there are several fine individuals, a grey stallion, four years old, by Director, being especially noticeable; his dam is by May Boy. A bay gelding, by Anteeo, dam by May Boy, is five years old, and has only been leisurely jogged, his best mile so far being 2:45, that, however, being no measure of his speed. A fine appearing grey filly is Bess, by Director, dam by Paddy McGee, who Mr. Palmer is preparing for earnest work, and she shows every indication of being able to reach within the 2:30 list. The next and last of Mr. Palmers string is a gray colt, by Antevolo, dam by Paddy McGee, a nicely gaited animal, and full of promise.

It would hardly do to visit the Oakland Trotting Park without calling on that old knight of the whip, Dennis Gannon, so a call was made at his private stable, and luckily Mr. Gannon was found at home.

One of the grooms was detailed to bring out the various horses, the first shown being a three-year-old, Director Colt, jet black with white star. His first dam is by Nutwood, second dam by Alexander's Abdallah, third dam by Grey Eagle. Mr. J. Requa is the fortunate owner of this colt and also of a two-year-old, by Antevolo, dam by Nutwood. This latter is a magnificent horse, with the finest set of legs to be seen in many a day's walk. He is exceedingly well proportioned, a handsome individual, and should not disappoint his owner in the way of speed. Mr. J. B. Cole also has a neat, well-turned horse, in J. B. C., by Antevolo; he is two years old, a deep, rich brown, and has the trotting instincts to a great extent. A splendid looking two-year-old by Anteros, was then brought out and exhibited as an inbred filly, and inbred she is with a vengence. Her dam is by Ned Cahill, he by Arthurton, out of Mary Kelly; while the filly's dam is out of Mary Kelly by Ned Cahill. She is very shapely and pleasing to the eye, good disposition and gentle as a lamb. She is owned by Mr. Fortine of Oakland.

Mr. Martin Beale, also has a colt in Mr. Gannon's stable; he is a beautiful brown, five years old, by Dan Voohrees, dam Black Swan. Last but by no means least, a critical examination was made of the Electioneer stallion, Grover Clay. His is a type of beauty found in all the get of the great Palo Alto sire, and is without doubt as fine a colt as ever left that celebrated farm. He is a handsome bay, 15.3 hands high, six years old, and shows that quality which is characteristic of all of Electioneer's colts. He has much the appearance of the thoroughbred, but has superb trotting action, and notwithstanding he has had but little work, can show better than a "30" gait at any time. His first dam is Maggie Norfolk, by Norfolk; second dam by Billy Cheatham; third dam by Dorsey's Golddust. Bidding Mr. Gannon good bye for the present, we hurried back to the track where Mrs. Hinchman had a magnificent dinner arranged for the hungry scribes, to which it is needless to say, ample justice was done. A pleasant day had been spent, acquaintances formed, and notes enough taken down to warrant the writing of the above.

A Time Test.

Secretary Lawrence of the Coney Island Jockey Club is continually proposing some new feature in racing. When he first suggested the Futurity, the racing men and breeders laughed at the idea, and could not comprehend the great scheme which Mr. Lawrence had elaborated so fully on paper, still when almost 40,000 persons attended the first Futurity Stake day, and the winner received over $40,000, then it was realized that the idea was a grand one, and that Lawrence was a genius. The Realization Stakes under his fostering care, although another innovation, has already shown entries enough to warrant its being called "the three-year-old event of the year." But now another stake has been started, under the same able auspicies, which hardly looks on the face of it as equitable as those which have eminated from Mr. Lawrence's fertile imagination previously. It is called The Time Test Stakes and is so peculiar that we give the idea in full, premising that entries close April 1st.

The conditions make it a sweepstakes of $50 each, half forfeit, for horses entered by April 1st, or $100 each, half forfeit, for such as may be entered the day before the race. Here is the novel feature: If a horse has run the distance, three-quarters of a mile, any time in his career in 1:15, he is to carry 5 pounds extra over weight for age; but if he has no record of 1:17 or better, he is to be allowed ten pounds. The association to add $1,250, of which $250 goes to the second horse, and $100 to the third horse. Declarations from the stake may be made on May 15th at $10 each for the original entries. Horsemen as a usual thing are very skittish about innovations of any sort, and it is hard to tell how they will take this Time Test. As it is an all aged event, we may fully expect to see Sorrento, Los Angeles, The Bard, Firenzi, Kingston, The Faverdale Colt, and lots of the two-year-olds scrambling for the money when the bugle sounds "to the post." It strikes the writer that there should have been a clause inserted that where the aged horses had no record under 1:17, and still had fast time for a mile or over, that some penalty should attach to them. For instance, let us presume that Eolian has never beaten 1:17, and yet ran a mile last year in 1:40¼, is it fair that he should not be penalized? and yet Sorrento will have to carry five pounds extra if his owner sees fit to start him. It does not seem just to the Californian horse, not that we are speaking for horses which belong here, but it applies with equal force to Proctor Knott, Harrisburg, Rowland, Chemise, King Crab, Holiday, and scores of others that might be mentioned, these being simply written from memory. We are perfectly aware that Eolian has gone a remarkable three-quarters himself, but have simply used his name as the first that came to hand.

Some turfmen think that the great two-year-old prizes this year are to be battled for chiefly by Mr. Belmont's youngsters and Mr. Withers'. Both the Nursery lot and the Brookdale lot are said to be of remarkable merit. The partisans of the Dwyer Stable expect great things from the red and blue, although some observers have been a little disappointed in the appearance of the big troop of two-year-olds in the Dwyer Stable at Gravesend. People who saw Mr. Withers' yearlings at his farm last summer did not consider them equal in appearance and promise to the yearlings of 1887. It can be hardly possible that Brookdale can turn out two years in succession lots of the brilliancy of that of last season. If Mr. Withers should bring to the post this year another such constellation of stars as the Faverdale colt, Minion, Auricoma, the Cyclone colt, the Dawdle colt, the Majority colt and some others, he will be indeed in great luck.

give above Two Bushels of Oats a Week to every Horse, and it is Enough; for they Look extraordinary Well with it.

A Horse must ever be Empty before you Ride him, and stand some three or four Hours, both Morning, and Afternoon, upon the Watering-Bitt, to turn him from the Manger, to get him a better Appetite; which is excellent Good.

Wheat is Strengthning, but it makes a Horse Fatt at the Heart, and out of Wind; Barley they give in Italy and Spain, but it is not Our Common Barley; but that which we call Bigg: which is not an ill Feeding, but not Comparable to good Oats: But in Italy and Spain, they give Barley, because they have no Oats: Pease-Straw will make a Horse Piss red like Blood. If you follow this Method, you will ever have your Horse Well, and Sound.

Breeding for Speed and Gameness.

H. W. Peck.

It is not my intention to enlarge upon a subject that has already been handled by competent men, nor to touch upon those points which are well known by the vast majority of people who take an interest in the horse and his welfare. Many works are now upon the market, costing from fifty cents to six or seven dollars, in which the subject of the horse, his breeding, his diseases, his care and keeping, are exhaustively treated. I have read many of these works. Some of them, it seems to me, are not written by practical horsemen. The only way to acquire knowledge, at least an accurate knowledge of horses is to breed them; rear them; educate them; and handle them from colthood to maturity. Had some of these writers done this, many of their statements would bear a wide divergence from their published conclusions. In placing this modest effort before the public, I propose touching upon some things which are not found in these works. In fact, the principal things I shall dwell upon are subjects which I conceive may benefit some one who is not an fait in all that pertains to the horse. The fact that I have found out some things by experience, by accident, even, which I believe beneficial to horse fanciers, is my only apology for asking your attention to this rambling letter. It is written for the amateur and beginner, with a latent possibility that it may prove of some value to the "initiated." It has at least the merit of originality, as I am not dependent upon anybody else for my views upon horseflesh. I am of the unchangable opinion that the mare is sixty per cent of the colt. I am laying down what I believe to be a general, though not an infallible rule. I am aware that when sire and dam are coupled, that the colt, technically, is fifty per cent of each. I believe, however, that when every attribute is considered, the dam is nearer sixty per cent than fifty per cent. I believe the Arabian saying, "the mare is the vase in which the seed is nourished" to be correct. I believe I have found out that the stallion gives the outward conformation and the speed, and generally speaking that's about all. The mare gives the size, vigor and temper. She controls to a great extent the internal organs. She gives the quality which horsemen denominate "game," which can be defined as the ability to "stay out" a long and hard race, though perhaps every heat may be attended with pain. Though the horse may be sore, or tired or lame, he yet endeavors to get to the front whenever the chance offers. I do not believe there was ever a really great horse who did not have a really great mother. Her breeding may have been characterized as "unknown," but if she reared a really great colt she possessed latent qualities that produced the effect. There are instances upon record where the crossing of a mustang mare or a "Texas pony" mare with a highly bred and fast horse has resulted in a very speedy horse. If you will watch his course, however, you will find at the end of the first season's trotting he is either "done for," or gets unsteady; or if steady and reliable, he somehow fails to trot as fast the second season as he did the first; or something or other goes wrong. He attracts considerable attention during his early trotting career, but soon drops out of sight. There are but few exceptions to this rule, when they are bred this way. They don't "train on." When you see a horse lower his record one year after another, even if a very slight reduction, you can generally know that his mother was a good mare.

Many men, otherwise well informed, will take a common mare to a stallion of high breeding, with a record not far away from 2:20, and they expect the produce to be a "trotter!" Why? Because the horse can trot in 2:20 and is game and well bred! Many a man, especially the beginner, has had these bright visions at some time in his life and he well remembers the awakening.

How little by little he was forced to the conclusion that his colt was not, and never would be, a trotter. For they must go fast now to be called trotters, and to win money. Then this man, who perhaps paid $75, $100 or $150 for the service of the sire of his colt, falls to and reviles the stallion, curses the man or men who own him, and makes up his mind to breed his mare next season to a jackass. This is a truthful picture, as I have seen it exemplified.

Considered from the standpoint of profit alone, it is my humble opinion that three-quarters of the mares in this State should be bred to Cleveland Bay stallions. I am much too fond of the trotter to decry his merits, or take up the cudgel against him in any way. But I am now speaking from the standpoint of profit alone, and with a knowledge of the mares owned by the farmers throughout this county. I presume that most other counties in the State are about the same. I think I can truthfully say that we have about as well bred a lot of horseflesh in this county as can be found anywhere in this State.

The Cleveland Bays give size, good color, good action and style. A pair of half-blood Cleveland Bays can pull a carriage along the road at a 4:30 gait, and they are large and sylish. They can draw a heavy load, pull the plow, and are generally useful wherever placed. The advantages they possess over other large breeds, are that they are more active, better color, look better, have more speed, and are more hardy. With the average farmer and handler of horses, size will prove a great factor in the advantageous sale of colts and horses.

Should you wish tobreed a roadster, a horse for your own driving, should you want him courageous and fast, it will do to breed your mare Dolly, or Kitty, or Susan to a fast and staunch horse. If I had a reasonably good mare and wished to breed a high type road horse, a lasting horse, a horse that would fill the bill for a par excellence gentleman's roadster, I would rather pay anywhere from $100 to $150 for the service of such horses as Director, Anteeo, Stamboul, Woodnut, Guy Wilkes and others of their class, than give $25 for the service of a cross roads stallion, that would have to trot himself to death to show a mile in 3:15. Understand I would rather do this if I wanted a horse for my own use. Were I raising horses for profit alone I would not do it.

I simply wish to impress the beginner with the truth of the statement that a good colt must have a good mother. If you would raise a trotting colt, you must have a speedy and courageous mare. She must be bred right, and her ancestors bred right. Then you have a right to expect speed, if she be coupled with a fast sire that is bred right, and whose ancestors have inherited the ability to trot fast.

A subject not much treated of is relative to speeding a mare while carrying a foal. We will suppose you have bred a good mare to a first class horse. Say the mare can trot a 2:40 gait. Now, is it advantageous to the foal to speed the mare? My belief is that it is of advantage. I should never carry it beyond the seventh month however. I am of the opinion that with proper work of the mother, the foal can be taught to speed faster and sooner than otherwise. I have seen, to be sure, but two practical examples of this, but in both cases the colts were superior to the others from the same sire and dam, or from the same dam, when bred to other equally good stallions.

This speeding of the dam should never be carried to excess; should you be driving her single, jog her most of the time, and once or twice while out move her fast for 150 yards. After the first brush let her entirely recover breath before speeding again. A mare in foal is a very different animal from one not in foal, and should be handled with much discrimination and care. There could be nothing more cruel than driving a mare heavy with foal, so fast or so far that she be utterly exhausted. Many colts are lost by the average farmer through negligence or stupidity—the first in some instances, the second in others—in working the "pair of mares" too hard when hitched to a heavy load.

To return, however, to the subject in hand. When you have a mare of proper form, speed and breeding, and are hunting for a horse to sire a trotter, let me say this to you:

1st: Find a horse of proper conformation, with good bone and cord (I shall refer to bone and cord later on); with plenty of substance well placed—not the substance of the draft horse but of the trotter—with an intelligent head; a sloping shoulder, with the point carried well forward; a good back and well-filled loin; a well-ribbed and well-rounded barrel; a smooth, good sized rump, sloping gradually to the hock—not "out in" as horseman say, behind; with good feet. This horse will pull weight!

2d: Ascertain his breeding. What horse was his sire? Has he produced trotters? Has his dam produced a trotter? How about his grandsire? If everything regarding breeding is satisfactory, you may know that he will stay out a long race!

3d: What is his record? A developed horse is always worth more than an undeveloped one. He is more likely to sire trotters than an undeveloped horse, no matter what owners of the undeveloped kind tell you. Moreover, your colts will sell for more money, if their sire has a fast record, other things being equal. His fast record shows that he has undeniably the attribute of speed, and the ability to train on. The man with a horse without a record, that confidently tells you that his horse can equal if not surpass the performance of the other one, is either a knave or an ignoramous.

If you are satisfied with the horse's record you then will know that this stud can pull weight, can pull it a long time, and can pull it fast!! That is about as high an ecomium as can be given to any well bred horse.

If your mare is a highly bred one, it would be advisable to couple her with a horse who has in him the best element of blood she possesses. For instance, to illustrate: Suppose you had a mare sired by Whipple's Hambletonian, her dam being a running-bred mare. She should be taken to a Hambletonian horse whose dam had some thoroughbred blood in her. That is to say, she should be so bred if you carry out this theory. Suppose your mare is sired by Monroe Chief, who is a decendant of Hambletonian 10, but with most of the Hambletonian "bred out." She would cross well with any horse of good breeding. Sultan is another horse whose female progeny should nick well with any horse of good breeding. This is on account of there being no positive element in Sultan's breeding that would refuse to yield to other blood lines. While Sultan is a very highly-bred horse, he is what I term a homogeneously bred horse.

A horse of Nutwood's breeding and characteristics, or a horse of Electioneer's breeding and characteristics, impress themselves upon their offspring so strongly that the "Nutwood look" and the "Electioneer look" can be seen two generations removed. So with other horses I could name. One may be, well, as fashionably and as highly bred as another—but their prepotency may be very different, according to their breeding. But enough of that. I do not wish to enter into a disquisition on the various stallions of this State, or their individual merits. Suffice it to say that there is to-day, or was not long since, in California about fifteen stallions whose records, individual excellence, breeding, etc., cannot be duplicated in the entire United States. That is to say, fifteen I can name, which were until very lately owned in this one State. In the matter of great brood-mares, however, many of the Eastern States lead us. The time will come when this State can and will show more fine mares than any other in the Union.

In regard to the breeding problem, there is one thing I think that is too much neglected by the average breeder, especially the farmer. That is, to cross their mares with stallions that will breed out any weakness the mare may have. This has been often mentioned, but seldom heeded. If your mare is light-legged and sometimes "teeters" in the knees, she should be bred to a stallion with a stout, short-jointed leg. If she is bad over the loin, correct it in her offspring by breeding her to a horse that is perfect there. In short, try to correct everything undesirable in her by crossing with a horse that is strong where she is weak. If your mare is one of the "gummy" legged kind, i. e., whose legs puff easily, whose joints swell slightly when hard driven, whose feet feel hot after a rushing drive, don't cross her with a horse possessing the same traits or you will be seriously disappointed some day in your colt.

Let me impress upon the minds of all horse raisers the truth of the old axiom, "Like produces like or the likeness of some ancestor." Never breed to an unsound horse if the unsoundness be hereditary, no matter how valuable the horse may otherwise be. A stallion that is curbed is extremely likely to produce curbed colts, even when crossed with a mare whose legs and feet are of the best. A horse that is short from the elbow joint to the middle of the knee, and long in the cannon bone will produce colts that will readily become knee sprung, as this style of conformation favors this defect.

A horse that is short in the ankle and stands upright upon his pasterns cannot stand work on the road that a horse with larger and more sloping pasterns can, as the concussion in the first instance is far greater than the second, and concussion is the principal thing that "does up" a horse.

In closimg I wish to say a word upon that well worn subject and stumbling block to the "raw hand," viz: standard bred! Always bear in mind that every other condition being equal, a standard bred stallion is always to be preferred to a non-standard one. Remember this advice—two stallions are in your neighborhood, one standard and the other not, examine them closely. If their breeding be equally good, or nearly so, look at their respective merits. If the standard bred horse is faulty in his action; can't trot better than a four minute gait, and has been made standard by the performance of distant relatives (who will never do any good) let him alone. If the other horse is a good clean gaited horse; can show anything from a 2:30 to 3:00 gait, yet is not technically standard, on account of 3 to 4 seconds probably in some immediate ancestor he is much to be preferred to the first mentioned horse.

I do not decry the standard, but I am disgusted when I hear men prattle about the standard. Two-thirds of them could not tell what constitutes a standard bred horse! Nevertheless they concur with singular unanimity upon one point—they want nothing but standard stock! Offer these men, for instance, a mare, we will say by a standard horse, and that horse a producer! Say the mare can trot fast; show a 2:30 or 2:35 gait, and is noted as a game, fast and courageous mare. They don't want to buy her, she is not a standard. They will readily pay more money for standard bred mares that can possibly go a mile in 3:45 or four minutes, and whose sire never produced a trotter and never would. They fail to comprehend that the first mare is worth a dozen of the latter kind—even though they are standard, when it comes to dams likely to foal a trotter. The first mare will render herself standard by the best of all rules—a standard producer! Bear in mind that I am not now attacking the standard. The standard is good, but the standard list does not include all the fine and valuable stock in the United States, and while I repeat, as I have heretofore mentioned, that when the conditions are equal or similar, a standard bred mare or stallion is to be preferred, learn to judge when the conditions are equal.

I wish in closing to refer to the hackneyed expression "bone and cord." This expression is constantly used among horsemen and would-be horsemen. A man refers proudly to the fine leg his stallion has—such large bone and cord! There is no neccesity of a large bone, the cord or tendon is the only thing to be considered. I like a wide flat leg, not very large bone, but plenty of tendon. This is a much better leg than one with larger bone and less tendon. Did you ever hear of the bone giving out in a track horse or a road horse? I think not, but the tendons of the fore legs cause more trouble then all other parts of the horse put together.

Grim's Gossip.

Mr. Jesse D. Carr has sold his stallion, Old Mambrino, to some Santa Clara parties.

Mr. James Golden is now sorry that he gave up the option on Stamboul, at least the Eastern papers say so.

Six of the thoroughbreds from Palo Alto will be taken to the spring meeting of the San Jose Blood Horse Association.

Mr. Fred Hanson of Eureka, has a valuable Pescora colt which has been troubled very much with rheumatism for the past five or six weeks.

The St. Louis Republic advises its readers to place a small amount on Milton Young's horse Bootmaker, for the Kentucky Derby.

Last Saturday morning Mr. B. C. Holly of Vallejo, started East with Woodnut, to deliver him to the new owner R. Steele of Philadelphia.

Mr. M. F. Tarpey's Notidle, which is now in the stable of Senator Hearst, looks better than she ever did, and gives promise of great speed this year.

W. S. Chapman, of Fresno, made an offer $3000 for W. R. Overhalser's Oaknut, but the Petalumaite wanted $4000, and the negotiations fell through.

Mr. J. H. White, of Lakeville, has commenced work on a mile track at his ranch. It will be finished in first-class style, with all the latest improvements.

Capt. Guy E. Grosse of Santa Rosa, has had a large offer for his Anteeo stallion "Sunset," but as his book was well filled for the season the offer was refused.

Mr. J. W. Wilson, of Sacramento, has been again elected as president of the Capital Turf Club. An excellent selection, none better could have been made.

It seems to be the generally accepted theory that El Rey, brother to the Emperor and The Czar, is a better colt than either of the others at the same age.

Mr. John Shepherd of Boston has had Arab hooked double with Blondine, and is sending the pair over the snow at a gait that is somewhat surprising to the Hubites.

A gentleman writing for the New York Sun, in giving a description of Stony Ford Stock Farm, very seriously claims Messenger Duroc as the sire of Electioneer. Where ignorance, etc.

The Napa track is in splendid condition for fast work. There are quite a number of horses there now, and several applications have already been made for stall room for the fall meeting.

Mr. T. H. Griffen has had still another fine trotter added to his stable: Steineer by Steinway, dam Kity G. by Electioneer. This is fine breeding, and if any one can give him a record "Grift" will.

It is a fact, not generally known, that Frank Goodale, the jockey engaged by Mr. D. D. Withers for the season of 1889, was formerly a law clerk in the office of Gen. Roger A. Pryor of New York.

T. G. Jones took the thoroughbred stallion Three Cheers to the ranch of Mr. W. Bolts last Monday, to serve several of the fine brood mares there. The old horse is in great demand.

Mr. J. O'Kane of 767 Market street, has issued a very handsome catalogue of the various horse boots which he manufactures, gotten up in a very superior manner. Many thanks for a copy of the same.

One of the fortunate wealthy breeders of this state has asked Sam Gamble to find out what is the lowest price that will be taken for Noonday. Mr. Gamble is of the opinion that the owners will refuse to sell.

Mr. D. S. Frasier, of Petaluma, has been made a handsome offer for his three-year-old Director colt, but refused it, feeling assured that Mr. Saulsbury's words would come true, and that the son of Director will be worth $10,000.

That glorious old brood mare Alma Mater will shortly be sent to Palo Alto by Mr. Hobert, where she will be bred to Electioneer. The dam of Alcantara, Alcyone, etc., should throw a grand foal to the cover of the Premier of Palo Alto.

There is a rumor current floating around that Mr. M. Saulsbury has made an offer for Yolo Maid. The price named is a good round one, but without the authority of either Mr. Hoppin or Mr. Saulsbury, it would be impolitic to mention it.

Mr. Bud Levins has sustained a serious loss in the death of his mare Daisy S. 2:23½, who died at the Valensin stock farm, from inflamation of the bowels. Daisy S. was by Tilton Almont, 2:26, dam by Rattler. She was a fast mare as the record shows and her endurance remarkable.

The well known race mares Edelweiss by Joe Hooker—Yolone; Heliotrope by Joe Hocker—Yolone, and Yolone by Norfolk—Mary Longstreet, have been taken to Mr. H. C. Judson's ranch in Santa Clara, where they will be bred to Wildidle.

The "piano to be sold by a lady with four mahogany legs, who is going abroad in a handsome case," has been outdone. I read the other day of an order given in London for "one lady's prime saddle for a tall, slim lady all over hogskin and perfectly plain."

W. H. Wilson, Abdallah Park, Cynthiana, Ky., has sold to Mr. Robert Bonner, of New York, the bay mare Crip (dam of George Simmons record 2:37½) by Mambrino Time; first dam Bet by Regular, son of Volunteer 55; second dam by Prophet Jr., son of Prophet; third dam by Commodore.

A trotting race took place at the Bay District Track on Saturday last, the contestants being Bonanza, Hugh Patrick and Melrose. Hugh Patrick won the first heat in 2:31½, and Bonanza the last three in 2:32, 2:30, 2:30. The winner could have gone much faster if Havey had pushed him.

The weights for the Kentucky handicap are published, Terra Cotta receiving the top weight 122 pounds, Montrose and Badge 116, Los Angeles 115, and the remainder down to 90 pounds. The California mare has about three pounds too much for an early meeting, latter on she could carry it easy. Mollie McCarthy's Last is weighted at 106, Sorrento 104, Wagram 95, the two latter have a good show in and look dangerous.

John Green, the trotting horse driver and trainer, starts to-day for Helena, Montana. We commend him to Brother Pope of the Agricultural Society in Helena, who always takes good care of all strangers.

Mr. T. H. Griffen has a new planet in the pacing firmament which is called Edwin C. Last Tuesday the first quarter was paced in 33½, and the last in 33 seconds. I was very near right last week in saying that there were others to pace with Adonis, Goldleaf and Yolo Maid this year.

James Golden, who saw Sunol in her work during his recent California trip, pronounces her the finest specimen of a race-horse he ever saw, and thinks if any trotter living beats the 2:08¾ of Maud S. it will be the mare Sunol, two-year-old record 2:18.

A few weeks ago I noticed the sale of Kenilworth, formerly the property of Mayor Grant, of New York. He was taken to England and resold to go to South America. While on his way there on the steamer Advance, Kenilworth was attacked with lung fever and died. The shoes were removed and the body thrown overboard.

I had two pleasant calls this week from Mr. C. E. Needham, owner of Steve Whipple, and Mr. F. W. Loeber, owner of Whipple, Alcona and Grandissimo. Mr. Needham declares that his stallion will get a record this season low down in the "teens," while Mr. Loeber vows that the State fair is the only one that will surpass the Napa exhibition.

Here is a tip for the Suburban. Michael J. Downing, who is confined to his bed in the New York Hospital, writes to The Sporting World that for three nights in succession he has dreamed that he saw Senator Hearst's filly Gorgo pass the winning post far in front of any of her competitors. She was ridden by Hamilton, who did not have to do any work at all.

Much has been written and considerable talk indulged in with regard to Almont and his chances against the Eastern cracks this year, but I am sorry to say that it is just within the bounds of probability that he will not be taken East, as he has not developed as well as was expected. In fact, he has not grown any, and seems very much out of form.

The only thing talked about Thursday evening was the Rose sale. The remarks of the various horsemen congregated at the Palace Hotel would fill a volumn, still all were of the opinion that Eastern buyers have secured the best lot of colts and fillies ever sold at public auction, and although the prices seem high, the stock was worth every penny paid for it.

Mr. P. C. Kellogg, of New York, has made arrangements with Senator Stanford for another auction sale in New York City of a large draft from Palo Alto early in May next, says the "Mirror and Farmer." The consignment will be larger than the inaugural Palo Alto sale held at the American Institute Building three years ago, and richer breeding will be found in many of the offerings, as the blood of Electioneer, General Benton, Piedmont and others of the stud have been deeply intermingled.

The coming season promises to be one of sensations. What with Stamboul on the Coast, and the almost assured fact that he will be sent to beat the present stallion record, and the contests between Adonis, Belmont Boy and Yolo Maid, all of whom can lower their present records, the year 1889 should be one long to be remembered; and there are two other pacers, one of which is at present in this city, that can travel in the same company as the three mentioned above.

Three horses had died mysteriously in a Madrid training stable. The owners accordingly sent to Calcutta for a doctor who should be able to put a name to the disease and take measures to prevent it spreading any further. However, as when the medico arrived the natives had already eaten the deceased animals, there was not much for him to go upon. He is now awaiting the demise of the hippophagists, in order that he may make a report.

Mr. H. T. Rodman, Secretary of the Southern California Racing Club, was in town last Saturday trying to secure special rates from the railroad company for those who will transport horses to the spring meeting. I understand he secured the same allowances given last year. Such being the case, no one can grumble at the cost, as the terms are very reasonable.

Hon. Marion Biggs Jr., of Biggs Station, is building up a stable of fast horses, and within a short time will be, if he is not now, the principal breeder in Butte County. Within a few days he has purchased St. Lucas; a two-year-old by Nutwood; Hedgewood by Woodnut; Ed. B. by Brigadier, and a filly from the Rancho del Paso. Mr. Biggs has promised to send me a full pedigree of the lot, which will be published when received.

Mr. W. H. Wilson of Cynthiana, Ky., writes on behalf of Col. H. S. Russell of Boston, and says, "I wish to contradict the statement telegraphed over the country that Col. Russell offered to match Edgemark against Bell Boy. It is entirely untrue, as Col. Russell never spoke to Mr. Clark, and is not the sort of gentleman to try and boom his colt by invidious comparisons. It is also untrue that the price of Edgemark is known to the public."

The following problem has set many readers of the "Sporting World" guessing: On Wednesday last, at Clifton, a backer invested $15 on the horse Fountain at 8 to 1. His ticket called for $120 to $15. Before the race was run the odds against the horse were cut down to 4 to 1. The holder of the ticket claimed that he had won $45 before the horses started on account of the reduction in price. The question is what was the real value of the ticket before the race.

At the annual meeting of the Napa Agricultural, Horticultural and Vinticultural Association held last Saturday evening, the following Directors were elected for the ensuing year: L. L. James, F. W. Loeber, W. J. McCollum, John Even, Nathan Coombs, H. W. Crabb, G. M. Francis, R. F. Taylor, M. M. Estee. As officers the following were elected: President, L. L. James: Vice-President, F. W. Loeber; Treasurer, W. J. McCollum; Secretary, A. H. Conkling.

Our readers must not forget that entries for the Los Angeles meeting will close on March 15th. The association is one of the most liberal in the State, as is testified to by the size of the purses, and the membership consists of enthusiastic horsemen who strive by every means in their power to promote the best interests of racing. Such a society should have a bountiful support, and it is to be hoped that the entry list will be satisfactory alike to the Southern California Club and their patrons, the public.

The directors of the fair grounds at Fresno have decided to hang up a purse of $30,000 for running horses, two miles and repeat, the race to take place next Thanksgiving Day. I will give full particulars next week.

A great discussion has arisen as to what position on the Sheepshead Bay track Proctor Knott, Salvator and Galen occupied when they finished for the Futurity Stake. The dispute I fancy hinges on which is the outside and which is the inside of the course. I saw Galen finish on the side of the track which is the farthest away from the judges.

John Splan writes to Sam Gamble as follows: "I think from your long experience on the turf you will agree with me that speed is only one of the elements that it takes to make a race horse. The horses you and I rubbed in our boyhood days were noted as much for their courage as for their speed. The same state of affairs exist now. Any horse that wins a majority of his races does so as much from his bravery as by his speed. In looking back over the public performers, I find that sooner or later the faint hearted ones all fall in the soup."

F. M. Starkey has brought suit in Stockton, against George L. Wolf, Frank Wolf and David Winders, and asks for an order of Court enjoining defendants from selling the race horses Lida Ferguson, Cyclone and two others. It seems that Starkey turned over the horses to one of the Wolfs, he to train and race them for their mutual benefit. One Wolf, assigns them to the other Wolf and then Winders seems to have bought them. It is a rather badly mixed up case, in which at present it is difficult to judge who is at fault.

Reporter was a grand two-year-old last year, and on several occasions I have had occasion to tell what a cracking colt he was sure to be this season. There are others who evidently have the same opinion, for information comes from Chicago that Mr. Hankins, of the Chicago Stable, has asked Capt. Brown to put a price on the son of Enquirer. From Nashville comes the news that Mr. J. B. Haggin, of this city, has offered the Pittsburg coal Baron $10,000 for the colt, but the Captain asks $15,000. He is a cheaper horse than Sam Bryants favorite, at the same figure.

The Melbourne Sportsman says that contemporaneous with the arrival of the Hon. James White's Derby candidates, some American bred horses, the property of Mr. J. B. Haggin, will be landed in England to try conclusions with the British cracks. As our readers are aware Mr. Haggin will send no horses to England, but the rumor is current in the Antipodes. The Australian gentleman mentioned above is a most successful breeder, and he has taken six of his three-year-olds to contest for the blue ribbon of the English turf. I wish him all the luck imaginable, for he treats his American visitors in a right royal manner.

And now comes a gentle whisper from away across the Rockies that Kasson has developed wonderfully, and thrown off his sluggish propensities of last season, and furthermore, that his owner is eagerly awaiting the day when he can pit his horse against Proctor Knott. However, the same breath also bids me keep an eye on Noah Armstrong's Spokane, and I am inclined to the belief, from what I saw last season, that if this son of Hyder Ali can only get a decent start at the post, that he should make all the three-year-olds that he meets think that they had been out to a race. He was very fast last fall.

There is now a new phase given to the many arguments which have been bandied from pillar to post about Proctor Knott all winter. The latest story is, that Sam Bryant is extremely anxious to sell the gelding, and will especially prepare him for the two thousand at Nashville, try and have him win as easy as he did the Junior Champion, and then sell him to the party who will pay the most money for him. Bryant and Scoggan only received about three quarters of the amount in money which the Futurity Stake called for, the balance being in forfeits. They have sent a commission East to put an injunction on all horses whose owners have not paid.

What! you haven't heard the news? Well, it's true, Sam Gamble is going to write a book entitled ——, but I had better not tell the title, as John Splan will change the name of his book, or Charles Marvin will appropriate it for his new publication. As Sam says, "What's the good of these men writing about the trotting horse when they are only beginning to learn the business. Now, I've been at it all my life, and feel as though my experience would be worth something to the public. Grim, come over some day when you have an hour or two to spare, and we'll write a book that will kill the sale of the others, for I'll put in things they don't dare talk about."

I have received from Mr. Iwin Ayres, of the San Miguel Stock Farm, Contra Costa County, an elegant catalogue of his richly bred trotting stock, headed by the very successful stallion Mambrino Wilkes, 6083. A look through the work, at the breeding of the stock, shows the blood of Geo. Wilkes, Electioneer, The Moor, Jack Hawkins, Belmont, Nephew Hambletonian, etc., making a collection that cannot be surpassed. The catalogue has been compiled by Mr. Daniel Geary, of Wallace's Monthly, one of the most careful tabulators in the country. Mr. Ayres will gladly send a copy to any person making application.

Mr. J. B. Chase has had a severe loss in the death of his two-year-old Catherine, by Warwick, dam Mischief, who fell dead on the track at Sacramento last Saturday, while being gently exercised. The filly was in the stable of Matt Storn, and had given remarkable promise for such a youngster, and Matt has frequently told me that she would be a surprise for the knowing ones before the season was over. She had shown no signs of illness, and was considered perfectly sound. The boy was giving her an easy gallop when she suddenly stopped and fell, breaking her neck as she touched the ground. A veterinary surgeon was called in and a post mortem held, when it was discovered that heart trouble was the cause of death, that organ being almost double the usual size.

A stallion show was held at the Agricultural Park, Petaluma, last Saturday, which was a marked success. A great many horses were exhibited, and made an exceedingly good showing. Among the number especially worthy of mention, were Wilfred Pape's Mortimer by Electioneer, dam Marti; same owner's, Electio by Electioneer, dam Menette; same owner's, Polo by Alexander, sire of Alexander Button, sire of Yolo Maid 2:14; W. R. Overhalser's Oaknut by Dawn, dam Miss Brown; J. B. Hinkle's Whalebone by Inca; J. Rodeharer's Alcona Jr., by Alcona; J. Purrington's Alexander Second by Alexander; M. O'Reilly's Alto by Anteeo, dam Emma Taylor; N. R. Harris's Rollie H. by Anteeo. Several very fine draught stallions were also exhibited.

Big Betting.

Naturally a large crowd of the prominent horsemen of the country, have congregated at New York, during the past week, to attend the great sale of Californian horses which has been conducted with such marked success by Mr. Peter Kellogg. The relative merits of the best stallions have been talked about in the hotel corridors, some breeders sticking for one particular strain of blood, while others have advocated other preferences. As an outcome resulting from many warm discussions, "Counselor" Crawford of Lexington, Ky., has made a wager with Mr. L. J. Rose of $5,000 that Stamboul cannot trot a mile in 1889, in 2:12 or better. Mr. Rose jumped at the bet and a forfeit was immediately posted. Crawford is evidently after California money, for he no sooner made the Stamboul bet, than he began to tantalize John Goldsmith, about the speed of Sable Wilkes. John got up in arms at the idea of any one doubting the ability of his favorite to beat anything of his age, so another wager was made, this one being that Goldsmith bets Crawford $1000, that Sable Wilkes will trot a mile, in 1889, in 2:15 or better. Both of the matches are made play or pay. It may not be out of place to state here that the Mr. Crawford alluded to is the gentleman who commissioned Orrin A. Hickok to purchase Stamboul at $50,000. From these wagers it can be presumed that the Kentucky gentleman feels nettled at the idea of losing the celebrated Rosemeade stallion.

Suburban Tips.

In addition to those printed last week, we have received the following selections:

Captain H. B. Blagrave, horse owner and recognized authority on turf matters—At the weights, and taking into consideration the probable starters, Belvidere should land the money for Mr. Galway.

R. Porter-Ashe, breeder and owner of thoroughbreds—From what I saw of him last year, I like Judge Murray's chances.

Paddy Ryan, ex-pugilist and turf-frequenter—From what Elkwood did last year, I want to stick to him as the winner for 1889.

Judge James Mee, who every one knows—My favorite at present for the Suburban is Fitz James, with Prince Royal for a place.

Capt. S. S. Brown, of Pittsburg, the owner of many noted horses—Well, I am inclined to favor Judge Murray.

T. G. Jones, trainer and horse owner—Judge Murray should win the Suburban.

C. V. Tupper, of Santa Rosa, owner of Al Farrow, and other race-horses—It is hard work trying to pick a winner, but I like George Oyster a trifle better than the others.

E. A. DeCamp, late Secretary 6th District Agricultural Society—My favorite for the Suburban is Aurelia, with 113 pounds up.

Dan McCarty, he of Whitebat Fame—You can put me down for Judge Murray, but I wish I had Sorrento in among the middle weights.

N. J. Killip, auctioneer and pool-seller—Judge Murray beat Raceland and Los Angeles so easily last year, carrying top-weight, that his chances are as good as the best.

Richard Havey, trotting-horse owner and driver—What! Yum Yum in the Suburban? Well, I do not want to look any further for the winner.

C. H. Hinchman, manager Bay District Track—The Bard will suit me first rate.

J. Farrel—Hanover seems to me the most promising one of the lot.

D. J. McCarty, Jr., owner of thoroughbreds—Prince Royal, carrying 120 pounds, with Garrison up, looks as though he should give the others a good brush and win.

Dr. C. W. Aby, manager of the Langtry and Gebhard Stock Farms—Prince Royal with "the Snapper" up will just about get the stuff.

THE GUN.

The California Wing Shooting Club meets to-morrow, going down by the 8:30 A. M. train from Fourth and Townsend streets. The efficient secretary, Mr. Will. DeVaull, has thoroughly reorganized the club, with the assistance of Dr. S. E. Knowles and Mr. Ed. Fay, and the probabilties are that the club will asume its old-time leading place among local shooting organizations.

Messrs. W. P. Lewis and Portwarden, C. B. Smith have joined the California Wing Shooting Club. That club already has several of the rare shots and sportsmen of Stockton in its ranks, and now that Mr. Smith has added his name to to those of C. J. Haas, A. B Sperry and Frank Lane the organization will be the stronger.

Mr. George T. Mills, of Carson City, Nev., has been appointed Fish Commissioner of Nevada, greatly to the gratification of the anglers of that State. Mr. Mills is an enthusiastic sportsman, and has plenty of leisure. He has appointed Mr. Ernest Harris Deputy Commissioner, and an active administration of the important office may be expected.

A very successful rabbit drive was made at Mr. D. M. Pyle's place, Mountain View Diary, near Bakerfield, on March 3rd, Mr. Pyle was commander; Messrs. H. L. Borgwardt and C. L. Connor, assistant commanders; and Messrs. Ed. Lechner, Chris Stockton, Thomas L. Briggs and George Tibbet, captains. A barbecue was prepared by Mr. Jack Ellis. Mr. S. N. Reed writes that four thousand four hundred and twenty-eight jack rabbits were corralled and killed. There was a hole in the rabbit proof fence and fully as many escaped as were killed. Ed. Lechner accounted for three hundred and seventy rabbits and Mr. Borgwardt for nearly as many. No more exciting sport can be imagined than a rabbit drive, and it is well worth the while of eastern visitors to make the trip to Bakersfield to see one.

THE KENNEL.

The Waterloo Cup was divided, Troughend and Fullerton being the winners. In the last round Fullerton beat Herschel, and Troughend beat Danger Signal.

The selection of William Graham to judge the coming bench show is a wise one. He is as good an "all around" judge as lives, and has had a deal of experience.

Mr. J. R. Dodge, of Salinas, owner of the pointer Stella, a full sister to Mr. Will Berry's Blackbird, had the misfortune to lose Stella by death from a gunshot wound recently. The bitch was shot by mistake, in high cover, while Mr. Dodge and a friend were hunting her.

Visits.

Mr. M. W. Stackpool's Irish red setter Nora (Mike T—Lady Elcho T.) to Mr. John Stack's red setter Grouse (breeding unknown), February 14, 1889.

Sales.

Dr. A. C Davenport, Stockton, has purchased from the Glen Mohican Kennel, Tipton, Iowa, the white and liver ticked cocker spaniel dog Kute by Snip (Carlo—Beauty), out of Daisy Y (Ward dog—Josephine), whelped December 24, 1887.

A Query.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—I have a bull terrier pup that is not intended for fighting, but probably will be entered in the Bench Show. Would it be best to have her ears cut or to leave them in a state of nature? A. J.

[Custom dictates that the ears shall be cut. The querist should see Col. Stuart Taylor's terrier Kitty and have the cutting done precisely as in her case —KEN. ED.]

Pacific Kennel Club.

The club held its monthly meeting on Wednesday evening last at 419 California street, Room 19, President Wilson in the chair. After reading and approval of the minutes, Treasurer Watson made a detailed report of the finances of the club, showing a net balance of $173.42 in hand, together with a guarantee fund amounting to $300. Mr. Clarence Haight of the Committee on transportation of dogs reported that Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express had agreed to carry all dogs to and from the Show at half rate. Full fare to be paid one way and the animals returned free, upon presentation of a proper certificate that they have been on exhibition. After discussion of the qualifications and availability of several possible judges of the Show, upon motion of H H. Briggs, seconded by William Schreiber, it was ordered that William Graham of Belfast, Ireland, be engaged to judge the whole show at the figure set by him.

The committee on premium list reported a list of one hundred and four classes, prizes being $10, $5 and diploma in each class. The list was ordered printed immediately. The matter of selecting a superintendent was then taken up. Mr. Schreiber was opposed to engaging a man, until about the time of the show. He thought that the preliminary work would be done by committees of the club, and, perhaps with a little clerical assistance every thing could be done that was necessary without a superintendent, until May 1st, at which time he thought some man should be secured whose whole time would be given to the work of the show. Mr. F. C. Zimmerman thought a good superintendent could do a great deal in arousing interest in the show, and could much more than repay any salary which he might receive, by the increased receipts which would result from his work, but he did not know where such a man could be found and he therefore agreed with Mr. Schreiber.

Mr. H. W. M. Sandbach strongly favored postponing the employment of a superintendent until May 1st, at which time he thought some man of perfect sobriety and firmness enough to enable him to control the army of attendants at the pavilion should be engaged at a fair salary. He thought a special committee could handle the matter better than the club, and upon his motion Messrs. Wm. Schreiber and H. H. Briggs were empowered to select a superintendent. The secretary was directed to rent an office for the club at 624 Market Street, where it was last year.

Many letters of inquiry and requests for premium lists had been received by the secretary from a dozen different States and all parts of the Pacific Coast, an indication that the coming bench show, from May 22d to 25th, inclusive was arousing much interest, and would be highly successful.

After requesting the Executive Committee to meet at 419 California Street, Room 19, on Monday evening next, President Wilson adjourned the club.

Annual Meeting of the American Kennel Club.

The annual meeting of the American Kennel Club was held in New York city, February 21, 1889, President Belmont presiding. Present: Albany Kennel Club, W. C. Hudson. American Gordon Setter Club, F. M. Bennett. American Fox Terrier Club, Edward Kelley. American Mastiff Club, Herbert Mead. American English Beagle Club, A. D. Lewis. Cincinnatti Sportsmans Club, Percy C. Ohl. Cleveland Bench Show Association, C. M. Munhall. Hartford Kennel Club, A. C. Collins. Michigan Kennel Club, J. M. Taylor. Massachusetts Kennel Club, Robert Leslie. Maryland Kennel Club, Harry Malcolm. Mascoutah Kennel Club, James Mortimer. New Jersey Kennel Club, C. J. Peshall. New England Kennel Club, F. B. Fay. Philadelphia Club, J. H. Winslow. Rhode Island Kennel Club, N. Seabury. Richmond County Club, A. P. Vredenburgh. Rochester Kennel Club, Dr. J. P. Gray. St. Paul and Minnesota Club Kennel Club, H. F. Schellhass. St. Bernard Club, E. H. Moore. Southern Field Trial Club, J. L. Anthony. Virginia Sports Association, John S. Wise. Westminister Kennel Club, J. O. Donner.

The President—This meeting is being conducted under the by-laws, which have never been repealed. They are the old by-laws which have been in force and never have been repealed. A copy of them is in your hands.

Your Secretary begs to report that since the last annual meeting, the club has acted upon the following matters:

1st. The disqualification of the Irish setter Kenmore, for being entered in the puppy class, while over age, and the suspension of P. H. Foster and Thomas J. Farley, under Rule No. 22, for fraudulently entering said Kenmore in violation of Rule No. 2. By action of the Westminister Kennel Club, April 6, 1888. On the appeal of Thomas J. Farley to this Club, May 8, 1888, said P. H. Foster and Thomas J. Farley were disqualified forever.

2d. At a special meeting held May 1, 1888, Mr. William H. Child's resignation as President was accepted, and Mr. August Belmont, Jr., was elected to fill the vacancy.

3rd. At a regular meeting of the Executive Committee held May 8, 1888, the Hornell Kennel Club was expelled under Article 9 of the constitution.

4th. At a special meeting held July 23, 1888, the Hartford Kennel Club preferred charges against Mr. J. F. Campbell of Montreal, Canada, for substituting the Yorkshire terrier Bertie for his entry of Sir Colin, at the Westmister Kennel Club show in 1887; same was referred to a committee to investigate, which reported at the meeting of December 6, 1888, and voted to suspend said Campbell for one year, and to instruct him to return the prize won by him to the Westminister Kennel Olub. Mr. Campbell promptly returned the prize, and advised your Secretary that he would abide by the decision of the club. At this meeting the President gave his views on the plan as proposed by a circular, mailed to the delegates early in July, for the formation of an Associate Membership to the American Kennel Club, and for the publication of a monthly Kennel Gazette, and a committee was appointed to report a plan for such Associate Membership, to draft a Constitution and By-Laws to govern the same, and to report a plan for the publication of the Kennel Gazette. At this meeting Mr. Peshall moved a vote of thanks to President Belmont for his kind and generous guarantee of $5,000 per year for a term of five years against loss by this club, in its publication of the Kennel Gazette.

5th. At the regular meeting held September 12, 1888, notice was given for a general revision of the Constitution and Rules, to be acted upon at the following meeting, and a printed copy of the proposed changes were mailed to all the delegates.

6th. At a meeting held December 6, 1888, the Gordon setter question was settled by the following resolution being adopted:

"That all black and tan setters, born before January, 1889, containing not less than 62½ per cent. of black and tan blood, shall hereafter be known as the American Gordon Setter, and so registered in the stud book."

At this meeting Mr. C. T. Thompson, Philadelphia, Pa., appealed from the ruling of the Virginia Field Sports Association in the matter of a special offered at their show in Richmond, Va., for Irish setter dogs having a field trial record, his dog having such a record was not permitted to compete. This club overruled the action of the Virginia club, and sustained the appeal.

7th. Since the last annual meeting the following clubs have been admitted to membership: Stafford Kennel Club, Winsted Kennel Club, the Collie Club of America, American English Beagle Club, Richmond County Club of Augusta, Ga., St. Bernard Club of America, Maryland Kennel Club, Fort Schuler Kennel Club, Massachusetts Kennel Club, Syracuse Kennel Club, Virginia Field Sports Association, Albany Kennel Club, Washington City Kennel Club, Southern Field Trial Club, American Gordon Setter Club, Mascoutah Kennel Club, Chattahoochee Valley Ex. Co. of Columbus, Ga., Rochester Kennel Club, Columbus Fanciers Club, New England Kennel Club.

8th. The resignation of the New Haven Kennel Club and the New England Club were accepted; as before stated, the New England Kennel Club was readmitted. The resignation of the West Pennsylvania Poultry Society of Pittsburg, Pa., has been received and will be submitted at this meeting for action.

9th. Applications for membership have been received from the Toledo Kennel Club, Connecticut State Kennel Club, Rensselaer Kennel Club, Worcester Kennel Club, and South Carolina Poultry and Pet Stock Association, Charleston, S. C., and will be submitted at this meeting.

10th. Circulars requesting a ratification of the action of the delegates present at the meeting held December 6, 1888, were mailed to the absent members on December 7, 1888, and replies in the affirmative were received making the total vote 25. Nine did not reply, which makes the entire list of 34 complete.

11th. The National Dog Club appointed a committee to confer with the American Kennel Club, and the President was appointed by this club to represent it at such conference.

12th. Your Secretary begs to call your attention to the facts that the Winsted Kennel Club declines to qualify as a member; The Stafford Kennel Club never replies to any communication, and it is his opinion that no such club exists. The National Poultry and Pet Stock Association, Atlanta, Ga., never replies to any of the communications sent to them, and has never paid dues, and your Secretary would respectfully recommend that those three clubs be dropped from the list of members.

13th. Your action is desired in the cases of the Syracuse Kennel Club and St. Paul and Minnesota Kennel Club, both clubs having failed to pay for the registration fees, as required by Rule No. 2.

14th. Your Secretary begs to report that in compliance with your action, he has published the January number of the American Kennel Gazette, and congratulates the club on the support given and confidence shown by the large number of applications received for admission as Associate Members.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. P. Vredenburgh, Secretary.

Mr. Anthony—I move the adoption of the report. Motion seconded and carried.

M. Wise—I would like to say a word about the protest to the Virginia Field Sports Association. I was not present when that protest was considered, but the fact was that the gentleman, Mr. Thompson, filed a protest before our show to the effect that his bitch was eligible to a prize which we offered for the best setter dog or bitch that had run in a field trial. I was perfectly unaware, as President of the show, of any statement that he had made that he had applied in the ring, and his papers as he presented them did not show that he had made any application to do so. I was informed that the man had really presented his dog at the ring and had been really refused. The fact was not known to us at all. If he was done an injustice it was because he did not present his case right and because he did not bring the facts before us, and its appeal was considered outside the record. Matters which were not known to us would have altered our decision in the case entirely. I state this in justice to the Virginia Field Sports Association.

Mr. Vredenburgh, the Treasurer, read his report as follows:

A. P. Vredenburgh, Treasurer.

On motion, the Treasurer's report was accepted and placed on file.

Election of officers being now the order of business, Mr. J. H. Winslow, on motion, temporarily took the chair.

Mr. Anthony—I nominate as President of the American Kennel Club Mr. August Belmont, Jr., and in making the nomination I desire to say one or two words. It is very seldom that any Club is so fortunate as to have at its head a gentleman like Mr. Belmont, who has given his time, his thought and his money to carry out the desires of owners of good dogs in the United States. It is a thankless task at best to go forward and to stand as the butt of sarcasm and personalities and everything else. Leaders in all movements, however, have to submit with what grace they can. But I wish to state here that Mr. August Belmont, when he was elected President of this Club, and during the time that he has held that office, has done more than any ten men in the United States have ever done to forward the "doggy" interests in this country. He is the right man in the right place, and no change could be made which would meet, I believe, the approval of hardly a single delegate here.

Mr. Peshall nominated Mr. J. O. Donner as President.

Mr. Donner—I have already stated to Mr. Peshall that I would not have my name presented for the position of president, and he has placed my name in nomination without any authority whatever on my part. I therefore ask that he withdraw my name.

Mr. Peshall—I could not do so consistently.

The nomination of Mr. Belmont was seconded.

On motion of Mr. Vredenburgh the nominations were closed.

The President pro tem appointed Messrs. Anthony and Malcolm as tellers, who collected the ballots, and the result was announced as follows: 23 votes cast, of which Mr. Belmont received 22 and Mr. Donner 1.

Mr. Donner—I move that the election of Mr. Belmont be made unanimous and that Mr. Peshall withdraw my name

Mr. Peshall objected.

Mr. Anthony said that it would be better if the vote stood as announced, as it showed exactly how the vote stood.

Mr. Belmont was then notified of his election and conducted to the chair.

Mr. Belmont—I can only say to you in taking the chair and in accepting your election for the ensuing year, that I feel very much flattered at your expression of confidence, which I had no real reason to believe you did not feel, but at the same time naturally enough, as I have been instrumental in bringing about a number of changes in the club, and trying to the best of my ability to do for it what has seemed to me best, I, of course, feel a little anxious to be endorsed, not to serve you again if you did not desire me to, but I did want to be endorsed for what I have done during the past year. I thank you again for your expression of approval.

Mr. Peshall I desire to move, under the circumstances, that the vote be made unanimous,

Mr. Anthony—I rise to a point of order. That already has been decided and the record made. It is too late for Mr. Peshall to do that now.

The President—Nominations for vice-president are now in order.

Mr. Vredenburgh—I nominate Thomas H. Terry.

Mr. Wise—I move that the Secretary on behalf of the club be instructed to cast a ballot for Mr. Terry as vice-president.

Motion seconded and carried.

Mr. Vredenburg—As instructed I have cast a ballot for Mr. Terry as vice-president of this club.

The President—Under the new constitution it is necessary for you to appoint two members of the Advisory Committee. Before taking up that subject it will be neccessary for me to report to you on the question of my conference with the National Dog Club, and I suppose that can be disposed of. Dr. Perry came to New York and waited upon the officers of the club here, as you know. I then visited Dr. Perry in Boston and we came to an agreement covering the expression of your views on the subject, which was that the National Dog Club should abandon its rules and name and become a part of the Associate Membership. At the same time they did not feel as if they could abandon their organization entirely and break up in disorder, and without any recognition at all, they thought they would not be able to carry such a position through, yet is was deemed best to keep their club together and pass it into the Associate Membership in an organized way. I suppose under the circumstances, if they are acceptable to you at all, as they would bring in about two hundred members, they would not be satisfied with less than two delegates, or we could give them more important recognition in the club, and as a matter of courtesy I told them that if any offices were created for the Associate Members, we would recognize their present officers. I told them I did not suppose there would be any objection to that. Of course I meant on the part of the American Kennel Club. That seemed to satisfy them, and the President sent out a circular to the National Dog Club members calling a meeting for Tuesday, the 19th, to take action on the subject. That meeting was called, and the following are the conditions upon wh ch the National Dog Club will amalgamate with the American Kennel Club, and I will read that to you,

1. That the National Dog Club shall be admitted as a whole to Associate Membership in the American Kennel Club without any discrimination against any individual member.

2. That the present Secretary of the National Dog Club shall be given 30 days from the date of notification of acceptance of these conditions within which to file with the Secretary of the American Kennel Club the names of all members of the National Dog Club desiring to join the Associate Membership, and all such members shall, upon the filing of their names, together with the payment of $5 dues for each individual, thereupon become Associate Members of the American Kennel Club, with all the rights and privileges thereunto appertaining for the current fiscal year.

3. That the election of officers and delegates of the Associate Membership to the American Kennel Club shall be deferred to a meeting which shall be held at Boston during the show of the New England Kennel Club in that city.

4. That the further agreement provisionally made by Mr. Belmont, of the American Club, and Dr. Perry, of the National Dog Club, and which has been ratified by the National Dog Club, shall be ratified by the American Kennel Club.

5. That the conditions herein prescribed shall be definitely acted upon by the American Kennel Club during the current week.

Cornelius Stevenson.
M. H. Cryer.
H. W. Huntington.
Committee of the N. D. C.

The President continued: They do not mention anything about the officers at all, but the idea was to give them office (by making these alterations) in the Advisory Committee and giving them a President and one other officer.

Mr. Anthony—I move that the communication of the officers of the National Dog Club be received, and that the President be instructed to meet the gentlemen and to comply with their request upon the terms as read.

Motion seconded and carried.

The President—I will read you the proposed amendments: "To add in Article XX, second line, 'and the President of the Associate Members' and to add to Article VIII.

Sec. 1. The Associate Members shall elect by ballot at their annual meeting a President, vice-President and Secretary to serve for the ensuing year.

Sec. 2. The duties of the President of the Associate Members shall be to preside at all meetings of the Associate Members, and to serve ex-officio as a member of the Advisory Committee of the American Kennel Club.

Sec. 3. The duties of the vice-President of the Associate Members shall be to perform the duties of the President in case of absence, death or resignation of the latter.

Sec. 4. The duties of the Secretary of the Associate Members shall be to keep minutes of all meetings of the Associate Members, a certified copy of which must be filed with the Secretary of the American Kennel Club, to keep a complete list of the names and addresses of the Associate Members, etc., filed and copied correspondence on all subjects relating to his office; all of which at the expiration of his term of office must be deposited for safe keeping and the use of his successor with the Secretary of the American Kennel Club."

Mr. Anthony—I move the amendments to the constitution as read be adopted.

Motion seconded and carried by 20 votes.

The President—The election of the Advisory Committee is in order, and it is necessary to elect two members.

Messrs. J. L. Anthony and John S. Wise were nominated, and on motion the nominations were closed.

On motion they were duly elected as members of the Advisory Committee.

Nominations were then called for to constitute the Stud Book Committee.

Mr. Anthony—I move that the Stud Book Committee be composed of its two present members, as they are familiar with it, and as I understand they do their duties well. There is a third one to be added, and I nominate Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Bennett—I decline.

Mr. Lewis was nominated as the third member of the Stud Book Committee.

On motion Mr. Thomas H. Terry, Mr. H. F. Schellhass and Mr. Lewis were elected as the Stud Book Committee for the ensuing year.

The President stated that he had made arrangements to buy the American Kennel Register, because it was naturally a publication of the Gazette; that Mr. Peshall had been appointed as a Committee to wait upon the "Forest and Stream" to see whether the purchase could be made; that when he (the President) found the National Dog Club would come in he thought it would be a very desirable thing at the same time to suppress the Register, and in fact that suggestion came from Dr. Perry himself, who said he would buy the Register from the "Forest and Stream," and that the Register would then be handed over to the American Kennel Club and suppressed. A contract has been drawn up, and he thought the purchase had been made.

The President further stated that the Club could either act upon the price or they could leave it in the hands of the officers so it would not become public.

Mr. Anthony—I move that the arrangement made by Mr. Belmont individually in regard to the purchase of the American Kennel Register be ratified, and that the officers be instructed and empowered to carry out the same.

Mr. Peshall—I move to amend that motion as follows: That the matter be allowed to remain in the hands of the Presidents—the parties who have been managing it until closed.

Motion as amended, seconded and carried.

The matter of the admission of the Canadian Kennel Club was then brought up, and Mr. Robert McEwen, a member of that club, said: Our rules, I think, in spirit, are the same as yours, the only exception being to Rule 2. Our object is to obtain the recognition of the American Kennel Club. We wish to act in sympathy with you, and we are endeavoring to stir up a feeling in Canada to have a number of shows. A movement was made last September in that direction which was very successful. We would like to have our wins recognized by you, and we will of course recognize your wins, and we will also recognize your disqualifications and suspensions, and do everything we can to forward the interests of the American Kennel Club.

Mr. Anthony—I move that the matter be referred to the Advisory Committee with power to act.

Mr. Leslie—As an amendment I move that the Canadian Kennel Club be recognized, and that their request be granted by this club.

The motion as amended, seconded and carried.

On motion the annual meeting then adjourned.

QUARTERLY MEETING.

Regular quarterly meeting of Executive Committee of the American Kennel Club, held Feb. 21, 1889, President Belmont in the chair. Present: Albany Kennel Club, W. C. Hudson. American Gordon Setter Club, F. M. Bennett. American Fox Terrier Club, Edward Kelly. American Mastiff Club, Herbert Mead. American English Beagle Club, A. D. Lewis. Cleveland Bench Show Association, C. M. Munhall. Hartford Kennel Club, A. C. Collins. Massachusetts Kennel Club, Robert Leslie. Maryland Kennel Club, Harry Malcolm. New Jersey Kennel Club, C. J. Peshall. New England Kennel Club, F. B. Fay. Philadelphia Kennel Club, J. H. Winslow. Rhode Island Kennel Club, N. Seabury. Richmond County Club of Augusta, A. P. Vreedenburg. Rochester Kennel Club, Dr. J. P. Gray. St. Paul Kennel Club, H. F. Schellhass. St. Bernard Club, E. H. Moore. Southern Field Trial Club, J. L. Anthony.

On motion the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was dispensed with, as were also the Secretary and Treasurer's reports.

Mr. Bennett stated that a meeting of the Gordon Setter Club was held on Febrnary 20, 1889, and that the following resolution was adopted, which he asked be placed on the record of the American Kennel Club.

Resolved, the Gordon is a black and tan setter (with no out cross of any kind) for three generations, on side of both sire and dam, such a dog to be known as the American Gordon setter, and that dating from January 1, 1889, the dog must show the 62½ per cent. of Gordon blood to be registered as the American Gordon setter.

Moved and seconded that the resolution just read be substituted for the one passed at the previous meeting of December 6, 1888. Carried.

Mr. W. C. Hudson said he had within the last month purchased a number of red setter dogs, and among them the dog Kenmore, which dog was disqualified, as he understood, on a question of the date of its birth. Since he had become possessed of the dog he had taken pains to get the exact breeding of the dog, and he produced an affidavit made by James W. Husted on the subject. Said affidavit is as follows:

City and County of Albany } ss
State of New York. }

James W. Husted, of Westchester Co., N. Y., being duly sworn, deposes and says, he was the owner of the Irish setter bitch known as Red Lassie. That said bitch was when a pup presented to him as an imported dog. That subsequently this deponent turned said bitch over to one Farley for breeding purposes, with the understanding that he, the deponent, should have a choice of the litter. That while in said Farley's hands, said Red Lassie was on deponent's knowledge in the month of April, 1886, served by Glencho, and as the result of such service a litter of pups was brought forth by said Red Lassie, of which said litter the dog Kenmore was one, and this deponent is now the owner of a dog named Nikao from the same identical litter, and that said dog Kenmore and said dog Nikao, now owned by deponent, were both of them born on or before the thirtieth day of June, 1886. JAMES W. HUSTED.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 20th day of February, 1889. GALEN R. HITT.
Notary Public, Albany Co.

Moved and seconded that the matter be referred to the Advisory Committee with full power to act. Carried.

On presentation of credentials and on motion, the following Kennel Clubs were admitted to membership in the American Kennel Club: Connecticut State Kennel Club, Worcester Kennel Club, Rensalaer Kennel Club of Troy, Toledo Kennel Company, South Carolina Poultry and Pet Stock Association.

The Secretary reported a communication from the Massachusetts Kennel Club of Boston, stating the difficulty between that club and the Massachusetts Kennel Club of Lynn, Mass.; that the New England Kennel Club had resigned as a member of the American Kennel Club, and not having any idea that there was such a corporation in existence as the Massachusetts Kennel Club, the Lynn people had adopted that name.

Mr. Fay stated that he appeared as President of the Massachusetts Kennel Club, said club being incorporated in 1877, and never went out of existence; that they held a charter received from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and that the Lynn Kennel Club chose for its name the Massachusetts Kennel Club; that as soon as the officers were elected they notified the Lynn club by letter of their mistake and requested them to take some other name. On investigating the matter at that time he had discovered that the Lynn club was not an incorporated body; it received no charter from Massachusetts, and soon after receiving the communication referred to the officers of the Lynn club appeared before the Commissioner at the State House in Massachusetts and informed him that the old Massachusetts Kennel Club was out of existence, and asked that it be incorporated as the Massachusetts Kennel Club. The Commissioner accepted their statement and gave them that name. The speaker further said that he claimed he belonged to the original and only Massachusetts Kennel Club, and asked the American Kennel Club to take such action in the matter as they deemed best.

Mr. Leslie stated that they had changed from the Lynn Kennel Club to the name of the Massachusetts Kennel Club in good faith, supposing that the old club had gone out of existence, as it had not been heard from or recognized, nor had it held shows since 1882.

Mr. Peshall—I move that in case there are any legal proceeding taken by one of these clubs against the other, between now and the next meeting of the Executive Committee of this Club, the entire matter be referred to the Advisory Board with full power to act.

Mr. Belmont—I move as an amendment to the motion that the wins be recognized at the coming show, no matter under what name it is held.

Motion as amended seconded and carried.

On motion the resignation was accepted.

The Secretary also reported the fact that the Winsted Kennel Club had never qualified as a member of the American Kennel Club, and read a letter stating that they had withdrawn from said Club.

On motion the Winsted Club was dropped from the roll.

The Stafford Kennel Club was also stricken from the roll on motion.

The Secretary called attention to the fact that the National Poultry and Pet Stock Association of Atlanta had held a show under A. K. C. Rules, after their admission into the Club, and that they had never paid their dues or prizes.

Mr. Anthony—I move that this club be notified that if their wins and dues are not paid within thirty days of said notification, they will be dropped from the roll and thair officers disqualified.

Motion seconded and carried.

On motion of Mr. Winslow, the matter of fraudulent pedigree of the dog given by J. M. Waite, as reported by the Secretary, was left to the Stud Book Committee for report at the next meeting.

In the matter of Mr. Wiel, whose questionable actions were referred to at some length, on motion of Mr. Belmont, a committee composed of Messrs. Munhall and Lee, was appointed by the Chair to investigate the subject and report at the next quarterly meeting.

The matter of the disqualification of Mr. Farley was reported by the Secretary, who read some correspondence regarding it. It was moved and seconded that the disqualification stand. Carried.

In the matter of the disqualification of Dem O'Shea, whose letter was read by the Secretary, on motion the same course was pursued, and the verdict against him on the minutes was allowed to stand.

Mr. Anthony—I move that the Secretary and Treasurer who acted for us during the last year be reappointed for the ensuing year.

Motion seconded and carried.

Mr. Peshall thought the Advisory Committee should take steps looking to the incorporation under the laws of the State of New York of the American Kennel Club, as any person now belonging to the Club was personally liable for any indebtedness that might exist against the Club.

Mr. Belmont moved that the officers be instructed to get the opinion of counsel on the subject as to the advisability of incorporation, and then communicate that opinion to the various delegates and receive their instructions in writing on the subject, giving the officers power, in case two-thirds of the delegates favor the incorporation of the American Kennel Club, to proceed to the incorporation of the Club.

Motion seconded and carried.

The Secretary reported that the Syracuse Kennel Club and St. Paul Kennel Club had not paid the registration fees of their late show, and on motion of Mr. Anthony the secretary was instructed to communicate with said Club and inform them that if they did not settle up within sixty days they would be suspended.

Mr. Peshall gave notice that in time for the next meeting he would offer an amendment to the constitution and by laws in regard to the Kennel Gazette.

The meeting then adjourned.

One of the most interesting sights in London, Eng., to a fancier of dogs is the Dog's Home. There are always from four hundred to five hundred dogs in the Home.

Five days is the legal term of detention for lost dogs. Many are, however, kept for weeks or even months. Dogs with collars get a longer reprieve than others. Any dog of good breed is spared longer than a mongrel. Of course, among so large a gathering there must be many worthless specimens; but there are many dogs of good breeding.

About 13,000 are taken to the home yearly, of which 25 per cent are claimed or sold. Last year about 1,500 restored to their right owners, and about the same number sold, so there were about 3,000 'placed.'

"The police see an animal loafing about sometimes for days together, and then pick him up and bring him in to the Home. Some days sixty or eighty dogs reach Battersea in a day, sometimes far less; and often a dozen might be claimed, or perhaps only four.

Big powerful dogs are kept on separate chains, but they are not quarrelsome as a rule, and rarely bite the keepers. Now and then a man will get badly bitten, but as a rule not much danger on that score.

The kennels are all scrupulously clean, and the dog's benches well littered with straw, and deodorised thoroughly. They get as much to eat, in the way of Spratt's biscuits, as they can easily manage, and, poor brutes, thoroughly appreciate the good feeding.

Bitches with pups are kept in a separate building; they are often let out as foster-mothers, and their offspring destroyed. Foster-mothers, by the bye, don't seem a perfect success, for they don't lick their foster-pups, or tend them, as well as their own mothers.

To wind up, a visit should be paid to the Lethal Chamber, where a merciful end is put to the surplus stock of dogs. These are collected in a cage, covered with wire netting, and introduced to an air-tight and gas-tight chamber invented by Dr. Richardson. The chamber is closed at all parts except the front; and the cage can be slid in with great rapidity.

The narcotic vapour is produced by passing carbonic oxide over an anæsthetic mixture, composed of chloroform and bisulphide of carbon.

The moment the cage is introduced to the chamber an iron shield falls over the entrance, and hermetically closes it. The chamber is previously charged with vapour, and the full strength being immediately thereafter turned on, death ensues at once by this powerful anæsthetic. In two minutes, all is over; and to verify the fact a stethoscope communicating with the outside of the cage gives warning at once if more gas is needed.

FREE PRIVILEGES.

Santa Rosa Agricultural Park Association Grounds.

I HAVE LEASED THE ABOVE TRACK, stables and grounds, and am now prepared to receive horses, and every facility to exercise and show stock will be afforded. As an inducement I will give FREE OF CHARGE, THE USE OF TRACK, STALLS AND WATER to all horsemen who will bring their horses to this track and work them on it.

These grounds contain about 85 acres, and is undoubtedly one of the finest tracks in the State. A good boarding house in connection with the track and stables is now open.

THE

1891.

A sweepstakes for trotting colts and fillies, foals of 1888, $175 each, $25 payable on the 2d of April, 1889, which must accompany the nomination, and none will be recorded in which there is a failure to comply with this requirement, at which time the stakes will close; $25 on the 1st of January 1890; $25 on the 1st of January 1891, and $100 thirty days before the day fixed for trotting, whatever amount up to be considered forfeit, and the neglect to pay at the stipulated time incurring forfeiture of the previous payments. The race to be heats of a mile, best 3 in 5 to harness. First to receive six-ninths of the whole sum, the second two-ninths, the third one-ninth. In addition to the stakes and forfeits the proportion of the gate money, profit on pool sales, and all other sources of emolument will constitute the gross amount, to be divided in the foregoing proportions. Five or more subscribers to fill. The race to be trotted in 1891, not sooner than the 1st of August. The exact date to be fixed and announced on the 1st of April, 1891, or sooner.

Race to be governed by the Rules of the National Trotting Association. Nominations to be made to N. T. SMITH, Treasurer, S P Railroad Office, Fourth and Townsend Streets, on or before the 2d day of April, 1889. The colt must be named, the name and pedigree, so far as known, given.

Should a Pacific Coast Trotting-Horse Breeder's Association be gotten up, the above stake may be transferred to that, the Treasurer, N. T. Smith, having the power to make the transfer, and also to arrange anything else, in connection with this stake which is not expressed in the above conditions. Should it occur that Captain Smith cannot act at any time, then a majority of the subscribers still eligible to start will have the power to fill the vacancy.

Under the new trotting rules letters legibly postmarked April 1st will be eligible.

N. T. SMITH, Treasurer.

The Rosemeade Sale.

Another great sale to the credit of California, another endorsement of the claim that this State is peculiarly adapted for the breeding of fast trotters. There are other significant tokens beside the large amounts of money paid, and when a two-year-old untried colt reaches the long price of $26,000, it is manifest that there are reasons for congratulation from all the trotting horse breeders of this State.

Many people are prone to look at the prices in the same light as those of years ago regarded the tulip mania of Holland and the Morris multiculus of later date, and think that there will be a collapse. That this is not a reasonable fear can be demonstrated, and hereafter we will endeavor to show that so far as California is concerned, without foundation.

Dates Claimed.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—At a regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Sixth District Agricultural Association, held at Los Angeles, on Saturday evening, March 2d, it was decided to hold the Tenth Annual Fair from October 14th to 19th inclusive.

E. A. DECAMP, Secretary.

Dr. Proctor, of Petaluma, owner of the promising young filly Silky, now in the hands of Mr. Orrin A. Hickok, has purchased a four weeks old filly by Dawn, the dam being a well bred mare.

Rapid Calculator.

Through an oversight we have neglected to notice a very serviceable book which has been sent to this office with the compliments of the publishers of Goodwin's Turf Guide. It is really a ready reckoner, or, rapid calculator of penalties and allowances for all horses which ran in 1888. The horses are arranged alphabetically under the various amounts won, so that a person can tell at a glance how, and under what circumstances, horses were given allowances or made to carry penalties. Every horseman in the country should have a copy. They can be had from Goodwin Bros., 241 Broadway, N. Y.

Reciprocity.

Australia makes reductions in the weight of colts, foaled north of the line (which means those dating their age from the first of January) of ten pounds on two and three-year-olds, seven pounds on four-year-olds and four pounds on five-year-olds, the ages being reckoned from the first of August. Now that Australian-bred colts promise to be a prominent feature in racing on this side of the Pacific, it seems to be a fair proposition that like concessions should prevail, or at least provisions whereby the differences in actual age should be taken into consideration. Foals dropped in August and still later than that would be considered grievously handicapped if allotted the same weights as those six months older. It appears to us that a concession can be made to the mutual advantage of all the sections interested.

Closing of Stakes—Friday March 15, 1889.

That will be a busy day for those having colts to name in stakes, as will be learned from the accompanying list.

TROTTING STAKES.

STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY, SACRAMENTO.

OVERLAND CLUB, DENVER.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA CLUB, LOS ANGELES.

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY ASSOCIATION, STOCKTON.

The Los Angeles meeting is from April 8th to April 13th inclusive; Denver from May 18th to May 25th, at which time the stakes to close on the 15th inst. will be decided, and the Sacramento and Stockton events during the fairs of 1889. The advertisements furnish all the necessary information in regard to conditions, but it will not be out of place to add something in this connection.

One of the drawbacks to racing and trotting on this Coast is the lack of spring meetings, and this lack has been due more to the apathy of owners and trainers than any other cause. The excuse would be for non-participation that there were too few meetings to sanction training in the springtime, but this cannnot be claimed to be in the way this year. Los Angeles, Fresno, San Jose, San Francisco, Capital City Turf Club, Sacramento, Helena, Deer Lodge, Anaconda, Butte City and Denver, at all of which good programmes are announced. A more enjoyable trip would be difficult to arrange, commencing at Los Angeles when the town is likely to be full of Eastern visitors, and when the country is at its best. There are few days during the whole year that can be termed, with any degree of truth, unpleasant in that region, the exceptions, if exceptions there be, when summer is fully advanced, and visitors from the bay district complain of a trifle too much caloric in the atmosphere. But April is as joyous and sunny as a sybarite could desire, and the selection of that date a wise move on the part of the managers.

Fresno has advanced so rapidly in population since the track was constructed, and the surrounding country keeping up in proportion, that the city is one of the liveliest on the slope, and the country developing into a huge garden where Pomona holds supreme sway. Not entirely given to fruits and flowers, however, as alfalfa fields and wide acres in cereals attest, and the horse breeding interests are in good hands. That alfalfa can be used to advantage in rearing racing and trotting colts we now believe, and when mares, sucklings and yearlings having a run upon it and not restricted in their supply of oats, there is no question that growth will be advanced. In the many districts of California which are so well adapted for this plant the Fresno country cannot be surpassed, and with the foundation of proper strains of blood, already in a fair supply, there will be local interests which will tend greatly to the popularization of the sports of turf and track.

The Santa Clara Valley cannot be too highly extolled. Although it may be difficult to award absolute prominence to any one section of California where there are so many worthy of the highest praise, the man who does not admire that portion of which San Jose is the center, has neither æsthetic or utilitarian views. The late improvements to the track, especially the construction of an inside course, will add to the popularity of the garden city course, and induce people to train gallopers which under the old state of affairs whould go elsewhere.

The Blood Horse races will, we understand, be on the Bay District course, and as this is on the route between San Jose and Sacramento, the dates not clashing, will give the Capital Turf Club a good send off. From there "across the mountains" and the highest encomiums which can be offered are the praises uttered by those who have been there before.

The advertisements tell all the conditions, so that editorial comments on that score are unnecessary, further than to state that the classification is good and the purses liberal. That there will be a more liberal support from owners and trainers than has been awarded hitherto is nearly assured, and we hope to present in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of the 23rd inst., a list that will insure "capital sport."

The Effects of Tips on Anteeo and Antevolo.

A few days ago we received a letter from a gentleman in New York enclosing slips from a paper in which the writer stated that Anteeo's "legs show wear just as I am assured do the legs of his full brother, Antevolo. Fast work in tips did neither any good."

Our correspondence writes:

"This use of the tip in the place of the full shoe on trotting horses is, as you know, of very great importance to myself and many friends. I have tried it on all my horses with marked success, and would now feel that I was assuming considerable risk to trot horses with the full shoe shod in the orthodox manner. I cannot believe the statement made, and, therefore, would kindly ask if you will not, through the columns of your paper or otherwise, let me know the truth in the matter."

There is not a particle of truth in the statement which connects any injury to Anteeo's legs, and his being shod with tips, and as for Antevolo, when he left here there was nothing like any indications of his legs showing wear, and excepting a very slight enlargement resulting from the strain of the inside suspensory ligament of the near hind leg, his legs were in good condition. So good that a "competent veterinary surgeon testified that all that he could discover were two small windgalls on his hind ankles. It was a matter of surprise to those who saw him that he could trot in races from a yearling on and his legs remain so "clean."

When we sold Anteeo his legs and feet could not have been improved, and such was the general verdict. Not long before disposing of him, O. A. Hickok, at our request, made a critical examination, and gave a certificate as follows:

OAKLAND, CAL., March 29, 1883.

I have to-day critically examined the feet and legs of Jos. Cairn Simpson's colt, Anteeo, and hereby certify that, in my estimation, they could not be in more perfect condition.

O. A. HICKOK.

He had never worn a shoe on his front feet until the sale, but afterwards was shod in the orthodox manner, and as his feet and legs were not only sound, but entirely free from spot or blemish of any kind until after being shod with full shoes, so that if there is any ailment now, it cannot be ascribed to tips.

The above is noticed entirely to answer the request of our correspondent, who also calls attention to an answer in the same paper which, in a case of navicular arthrites, recommends a course of treatment part of which is analagous to the use of tips. Mere assertions will not be received as arguments when tips are so fully endorsed in England and other countries, that a hundred horses are thus shod to one a few years ago.

California for Horsebreeding.

While further representations of the advantages which California presents for the breeding of race horses and trotters may appear a trite tropic to some of our readers, it will always be a subject of interest to those engaged in the pursuits here, and also to those who are following the same business in other sections. "Vigilent" in a late number of the New York Spirit of the Times shows an inclination to underrate the climatic and other advantages of this Coast, and he comments in the following words:

We have no idea of running counter to the belief that California colts mature earlier than those bred in other places, a belief many others share with Mr. Allen, but we have a notion, and one we have long held, that race horses can be bred anywhere, provided you have the right blood, with good grass and water. The assumption that race horses can be bred only in certain places is "rot" and rubbish, started to sell property in those localities. We have been gravely told that Kentucky was the only State in the Union where you could breed race horses; then Tennessee, and now California. The fact is good race horses have been bred everywhere. When Mr. Welch had Chestnut Hill, in Pennsylvania, he produced more good horses than any breeder in the land. Why? Because Leamington was there. In New York we have bred Glenelg, Olitipa, Ruthless. Over in New Jersey Mr. Withers bred a lot of two-year-olds which last season swept the board. In Maryland they bred Crickmore, Holiday, Catesby, etc. In Virginia they bred Eole, St. Savior, Elkwood, Eurus, Eolian, etc. In Illinois they bred Volturno, Aztec, Aretino. As to Kentucky and Tennessee, they have bred more good ones than we can enumerate, but they have a hundred mares to every mare elsewhere. Still, it's no use talking to the public. It loves hobbies and takes up a cry without reflecting whether it is real or fictitious. In fact, the public likes to be played for fools.

While there is a good deal of solid sense in the above, the implication that our portion of the country is no better than another will not stand the test. When the claim is made that the highest class of race horses can only be bred in our section, that is absurd, but when it is modified so as to state, that given the same blood and likes numbers more good horses will be bred in Kentucky and Tennessee, than in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the statement can be substantiated by logical argument, theories supported by facts. Furthermore when the plea is entered that California excels all the places named in presenting more favorable conditions for perfecting physical powers, it does not require a great deal of space to convince those who have a fair knowledge of the difference in climate that such allegations can be sustained. There is one trouble, however, in the way. No matter how well informed a man may be, when that information is derived from other sources than actual observation, and that extending over all the seasons, he does not have a proper conception. Vigilent ascribes the panygerics on California climate and soil to "sell property," but what explanation can he offer when so many concur in laudation who have not an acre to sell and quite a number of which are non-residents? When the final resolve was made to "move" to California, we purchased every book we could find, read all the California papers which could be obtained, bored every one that had been in the country, and started on the journey with the feeling of being properly well posted. The first day was a surprise, and from the time breakfast was taken among the snowdrifts of the the Sierras until the bay of San Francisco was crossed and a late supper partaken of at the Lick House, there were successions of startling revelations.

Early in April, not a bud swelling in Chicago, the Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska prairies russet-colored and desolate snow many feet in depth in the mountains, and in the space of a few hours thereafter grain in the bloom waving in the spring zephyrs, a sea of verdure, flowers in profusion, never one of the glorious June days of Iowa more attractive. This was an augury that where vegetable life was so favored that animal existence would also be benefited. Where the products of the temperate zone flourish as they do in California, it is a substantial reason that horses should also find a congenial home, though not absolutely a sequence, but when all other conditions are favorable it would be a striking anomaly if it were found to be otherwise. A residence of one year convinced us that nothing was wanting on Nature's part, and that with an equality in procreative animals, some intelligence in breeding, rearing and training a front position was assured.

Having on many occasions given the reasons for that belief, there is scarcely any necessity for repetition, though it may not be amiss to say that our opinion was not shared by many Californians, while the giving it publicity in southern papers elicited expressions of ridicule and charges that the glamour of the "Wonderland" had upset our judgment.

Fifteen years ago, California-bred horses were little valued by those who were the main purchasers of fine and fast horses. Driving and carriage horses were imported in large numbers, and Kentucky, New York and other States had numerous representatives on this coast.

Outside of the breeding farms, it is rare to see a foreigner now, and the drives and tracks of California are the stamping ground of natives, both to the manor and manner born.

Oregon sends her quota of carriage and work horses and some of her trotters, and the specimens we have seen prove that fertile State will also take high rank as the producer of fine horses.

Thoroughly satisfied as we were of the superiority of California for horsebreeding over any country with which we were acquainted, so long ago as May 1, 1875, having then been more than a year in the State, that conclusion was partially based on theory. That has been so amply sustained by practical results, that a person so thoroughly conversant with the doings of California racehorses as Vigilant must acknowledge that if the disposal of land for breeding farms followed, that it was owing to the evidence presented and not a mere "boom" to carry by enthusiasm, that which sense failed to satisfy. Santa Anita, Rancho del Paso, Rancho del Rio and Palo Alto, have sent a full quota of turf winners, while on the tracks there have been a succession of phenomenal trotting youngsters far in excess of all other parts of the country. At home and abroad their excellence has been shown, and under conditions which made the demonstration of superior ability conclusive. But there are other uses to which California lands can be put that will warrant much larger prices than the breeding of horses will justify.

Even a limited number of mares require a good many acres to give them and their offspring room whereas a small comparative area will "support a family" when devoted to purposes which are peculiarly congenial to soil and climate, and which are restricted to localities that are so favored. Good grasses and water" are not the only requisites to ensure success in breeding and rearing racehorses. These may be found in perfection where the former is limited to a few months in the summer, where water is congealed into thick ice more than one-half of the year. Uniformity of temperature, pure air and sunshine are potent aids in physical development, and also no slight adjuncts in giving nerve force. Beneficial to colts from the time of foaling until maturity is reached, not so efficacious, perhaps, in after life though still advantageous through all the years from birth until death.

Man can modify natural drawbacks in a measure, overcome low temperature by warm stables and clothing, and still fall short of what nature has granted with so liberal a hand to California.

Rosemeade Sale.

The great sale of California bred horses began on Thurday morning at the American Institute building on Third avenue, New York city. The following list of prices paid for each is especially telegraphed by our New York correspondent. Nehushta, by Stamboul—Neluska, J. H. Schultz of Brooklyn, $5,500; half sister to Nehusta, unnamed, bought by J. H. Ferguson of New York, $4,000; brown colt of last spring, bought by Ferguson, $3,000; bay filly, granddaughter of the Moor, $900; bay colt, one-year-old, by Alcazar, and Young Josie, $1,225; bay filly, granddaughter of Minnehaha, $775. Both the last two named were bought by F. C. Fowler.

The two-year-old colt by Stamboul and Edna, was bought by C. M. Mix for $1,950; a bay colt by Stamboul and choice was bought by A. J. Welch for $3,220; a yearling colt by Stamboul was bought by J. J. Bowen of Boston for $1,100; a brown colt, one-year-old, by Alcazar, was bought by S. McMillan for $2,250.

The excitement was intense when Mascot by Stamboul, dam Minnehaha, was brought out. The first bid offered was $5,000, which was gradually raised until he was knocked down for $26,000, to the bid of D. S. Quinten of Trenton, N. J., who, it is presumed, bought the colt for Mark Daly, of Bitter Root Valley, Montana.

The brother of Mascott brought $8,500 from J. H. Schultz; a brown colt by Stamboul and Minnie Corbett, bought by J. W. Johnson of Plainfield, N. J., for $3,550; a bay colt by Alcazar and Laura Corbitt, bought by H. C. Hamilton of Philadelphia, for $2,400; bay filly by Alcazar and Unis, for $1,050, bought by John Madden of Lexington, Ky.; bay filly by Stamboul and Nellie May, for $4,100, bought by J. S. Furguson; bay filly by Stamboul and Phallacia, for $3,050, bought by J. H. Hicks of Boston; bay filly by Stamboul and Kittie Ward, for $2,950, bought by J. H. Hicks. The bay filly by Alcazar and Agnes Clark, which was advertised, died March 5th. A brown filly by Stamboul and Astrione, $6,600, bought by W. H. Crawford of Lexington, Ky.; a bay filly, by Stamboul and Lady Graves, $3,550, bought by S. Quenten; a bay colt by Stamboul and Lady Graves, $1,900, bought by W. Marks of Philadelphia; a filly by Alcazar and Fanny Wise, $1,250, bought by W. H. Lines of Rochester, N. Y.

One brown filly by Stamboul and Del Fay, brought $1,800, and was sold to James Golden of Boston for Nevins of Boston; a bay filly by Alcazar and Clara Hall, sold for $1,150, to G. H. Hicks of Boston; a bay filly by Stamboul and Topsy sold for $2,000 to D. B. Herrington of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; a bay filly by Alcazar and Gibbons, pacing mare, sold for $1,000 to J. A. Sawyer of Boston; a bay filly by Alcazar and Flower Girl, sold for $1,000 to B. C. Holly of Vallejo, Cal.; a bay filly by Stamboul and Fanny Belmont, sold for $1,450 to Scott Quinton.

In all 36 head were sold, bringing a total of $102,865. In the above only those are named which brought $1,000 or over.

Answers to Correspondents.

Enoch Yates, Santa Rosa.

Answer—Fannie Gordon, b m, foaled 1864, by Billy Cheatham; 1st dam Lawyer Mare No. 1, by imported Lawyer; 2d dam Kate Simpson by imported Leviathan; 3d dam Betsey Miller by Bertrand; 4th dam imported Jane Shore by Whisker; 5th dam Wathcote Lass by Remembrancer; 6th dam Gratitude's dam by Walnut, etc.

C. E. N.

Can you give me the pedigree of Lady Vernon, also let me know if Tom Vernon was a son of Lady Vernon?

Answer—A letter sent to Mr Josiah Sessions, of Oakland, elecits the following: Tom Vernon by Hamilton Chief, full brother to Toronto Chief, dam Lady Hamilton. There has always been a dispute as to the breeding of Lady Vernon but Mr. Sessions think she was by Engineer.

C. Cantelow.

Will you be kind enough to give me the pedigree of grey mare Maud M., foaled 1868, by Stockbridge Chief Jr., also her record and her colts if you can?

Answer.—She was by Stockbridge Chief Jr., sire of Abe Edgington, 2:23¾, her dam by California Belmont. She has a record of 2:34 made somewhere in Nevada. Mr. A. A. Allen, Fourth and Townsend Street, S. F., can tell you all about her.

Billy Lyle, Denver.

There has for many years been a dispute about the pedigree of Roache's American Star. Some two weeks ago we gave one version of it, and Sam Gamble furnished the following, claiming to know that it is correct.

Roache's American Star, sired by Durland's Bolivar, dam a small bay pacing mare by Jim Thumb, son of Tom Thumb.

H. G. Comstock.

Please give me the breeding of Venture, and by whom owned in 1877.

Answer—By California Belmont, dam Miss Mostyn by American Boy Jr. We do not know who owned him in 1877, but in 1876 he was entered in the name of Dennis Gannon. A letter addressed to that gentleman, Oakland Race track, will probably secure for you the desired information.

J. H. Chrisman.

Would you be so kind as to give me a list of Whipple's Hambletonian's get. How many in the 2:30 list.

Answer—Ajax, 2:29; Alameda Maid, 2:27½; Empress, 2:24; Graves, 2:19; Lady Blanchard, 2:26¼; Longfellow, 2:24¼; Lou Whipple, 2:26¾; Maggie C., 2:25; May Boy, 2:26; Norman 2:28¾; Olivette, 2:24; Rustic, 2:30; Westfield, 2:26¼. Hancock is given in Wallace's Year Book as by Whipple's Hambletonian, though from our information he was by Hambletonian Jr. Peacock, pacer, is by W. H.

M. J. S.

Will you please give pedigree of the sire of dam of Belmont Boy?

Answer.—See answer to C. E. N.

Ford Thomas.

Please publish full pedigree of General McClellan.

Answer—Gen. McClellan, b h, foaled 1854, by old Drew Horse, dam by Shark, son of Quicksilver. Brought to California in 1872. Had a record of 2:29.

J. G. Gerken.

To decide a bet, I will be under many obligations to you if you will kindly inform me what was the highest price obtained by Mr. Haggin last year for a yearling racer or trotter? and also, was any Pacific Coast yearling sold at a higher figure than Mr. Haggin's? Your statement will be accepted as final by both parties.

Answer.—King Thomas, a yearling, was knocked down to the bid of Mr. Lucien Appleby for $38,000. No other yearling has been sold from this coast at any such price.

To decide a dispute, please answer the following question. Is a stallion, mare or gelding that makes or has made a public record of 2:30 or better standard or not?

Answer.—Cut out the following and keep for future reference:

First—Any stallion that has himself a record of two minutes and thirty seconds (2:30) or better, provided any of his get has a record of 2:35 or better, or provided his sire or his dam is already a standard animal.

Second—Any mare or gelding that has a record of 2:30 or better.

Third—Any horse that is the sire of two animals with a record of 2:30 or better.

Fourth—Any horse that is the sire of one animal with a record of 2:30 or better, provided he has either of the following additional qualifications: (1) A record himself of 2:35 or better. (2) Is the sire of two other animals with a record of 2:35 or better. (3) Has a sire or dam that is already a standard animal.

Fifth—Any mare that has produced an animal with a record of 2:30 or better.

Seventh—The female progeny of a standard horse when out of a mare by a standard horse.

Ninth—Any mare that has a record of 2:35 or better, and whose sire or dam is a standard animal.

Races at Salinas.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman:—A good sized crowd attended the races at the Salinas track Saturday, March 2d, to witness the match trot for $500 between the two roadsters, Daisy, br m, by Brown Jug, owned by Chris. Twisselman, and Henry Clay, blk h, by Carr's Mambrino, owned by John McEntee; owners driving. Mile heats, best three in five.

In the pools Daisy sold favorite, and justified the faith of her backers by distancing Clay in the first heat, the latter acting so badly on the first turn as to lose all show for the heat. Time, 3:18.

The second race was a sweepstakes, best three in five, for roadsters, for a prize of $80. The entries were F. Cota's b m Stella; P. McCartney's s g Patch; M. Quinlan's gr h Tommy Baxter; Jas. Dwain's br h Chas. S.

The first heat was won by Tommy Baxter. Time, 3:15. The second by Chas. S. Time, 3:10¼. The third by Patch. Time, 3:10½. The fourth and fifth by Chas. S. in 3:16 and 3:10½.

WILKES PASHA.

STANDARD 2618.

Dark bay with white hind feet, 16½ hands high, bred by R. P. Pepper, of South Elk Horn Farm, Frankfort, Kentucky. Sired by Onward, 1411, record 2:25¼, trial 2:17. He by George Wilkes, 2:22, sire of sixty-five horses in the 2:30 list, ten of them with records below 2:20. First dam Fisher (dam of Clara Wilkes, 2:29¾, trial 2:25) by American Clay, 34, sire of Granville, 2:26; Maggie Briggs, 2:27; Ella Clay, 2:27½; and the dams of Executor, 2:24¼, Ruchero, 2:23½; Judge Hawser, 2:24¾; Ambassador, 2:25, and nine others in 2:30; second dam by Wilson's Snow Storm, sire of Jim Irving, 2:24; third dam by Paddle Burns, thoroughbred.

Onward, 1411, is one of the noted sires of today. In 1887 he placed seven performers in the 2:30 list, including Hourl, three-year-old record 2:19¾; while in 1888 he still further sustains his reputation by adding nine of his sons and daughters to the list. Onward combines the blood of the two great trotting families, Hambletonian 10 and Mambrino Chief 11, and derives his speed inheritance direct through the greatest son of the one family, and the greatest daughter of the other.

Onward's dam was Dolly (the dam of Director, 2:17, and Thorndale, 2:22¾), by Mambrino Chief. Dolly was one of the greatest speed-producing brood mares that ever lived. George Wilkes stands at the head of the list of sires of fast trotters with 65 performers with records of 2:30 or better, and the combination of these two great producers will breed on with absolute certainty.

WILKES PASHA will make the season of 1889 at the stables of the undersigned, at the Trancas Bridge, two miles north of Napa, on the Soda Spring Road.

TERMS,

For the season ending July 1, 1889, $35 in U. S. gold coin.

Alfalfa pasturage $4 per month; natural grass $2.50 per month.

Every attention and care will be given to mares, but no liabilities assumed for accidents or escapes.

AMBERINE.

$25. $25.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by PROMPTER No. 2405, with six weeks training at the close of a stud season, he won a stallion race of five heats, winning the last three heats and getting a record of 2:33¾; he has never been trained since.

His sire, Wilson's BLUE BULL, No. 75, has more of his progeny in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived, except it may be George Wilkes, and it is a disputed point between the two which has most.

PROMPTERS' dam, PRAIRIE BIRD, 2:28¾, is in the GREAT BROOD MARE TABLE, a proved producer, and of a family of wonderful producers, as an examination of the produce of Flaxtail mares will prove.

AMBERINE'S dam, "BONNIE," owned by G. W. Hancock, of Sacramento, is one of the best road-mares in the State; she has many times covered 50 miles on the road in five hours, and 125 miles in 17 hours. She is the dam of Daisy, yearling record, 2:38¾; her sire is John Nelson (sire of the dams of Albert W., 2:20, and Valensin, 2:...

AMBERINE is a beautiful bay, three years old, very powerfully built, 16 hands, and trotted a mile in his yearling form in 3:20, and has never been trained.

Will serve 15 outside mares at the low price of $25 the season. Should the mare not prove in foal, the money refunded or mare bred following season. Service fee payable, when I pasture the mare, at the time of her removal; but if served outside, payable at time of service.

He is full brother to DAISY; yearling record, 2:38¾ "THE BEST IN THE WORLD FOR PACING. Two-year-old trial, two miles, 5:07; last mile in 2:28.

Good pasturage for a limited number of mares only, at $5 per month. Ranch 18 miles from the City, San Pedro Valley. Horses taken down at owner's risk.

ALMONT PATCHEN.

Pacing Record 2.15.

Sire JUANITO, dam Gildey, by GLADIATOR, the sire of James H. 2:21, Rose 2:29¼, and the pacer Damiana 2:26½; second dam by HENRY BELMONT, third dam a Sir Archie mare. JUANITO is by Tilton Almont, record 2:26, dam Bernela by Signal (Single terry's Rattler), sire of Marysville Queen, wagon record 2:25, and the pacers Prussian Maid 2:19, Carrie T. 2:20¾, and Handy Andy 2:29½, second dam a mare bought of J. W. Moore of Marysville, Cal., from the Harper Stock Farm in Kentucky. Tilton Almont, 2:26, is the sire of Daisy S. 2:2 ½ and is by the gr at Almont, dam by Clark Chief. Henry Belmont is a full brother to Venture 2:27¼, being by Williamson's Belmont, dam Miss Mostyn, by American Boy, Jr., second dam Fanni Mostyn by Grey Medoc.

To his excellent blood lines Almont Patchen adds performances which show him a worthy descendant of famous families. He is a large, well-formed, rangy and stylish horse, of great power and unsurpassed staying qualities, and cannot fail to get fast and useful horses. In 1886 he started in Chico and in Sacramento in two races, winning both, making in the latter a record of 2:23.

In 1888 ALMONT PATCHEN started in eight races, winning six and coming in second in the other two. In his last race at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, he defeated Adonis and Belmont Boy, making a record of 2:15. A few days later, in private, he paced a mile in 2:13½, on same track.

Almont Patchen will make the season of '89 at the Race Track, San Jose, commencing February 1st and ending in May.

TERMS: $100 for the season, payable when mare is bred. Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month, All mares taken at owner's risk. For further particulars address,

VINELAND BREEDING FARM.

Whippleton, 1883,

STANDARD UNDER RULE 406.

The most successful stock horse in California for his opportunities. WHIPPLETON has no equal as a producer of carriage and general purpose horses. Sire of Lily Stanley, record 2:17½, dam's breeding unknown; Homestakes pacer, 2:16½, dam's breeding unknown; Flora B., 2:30, dam's breeding unknown; Cora C., three-year-old pacer, 2:33¼, dam by Nauhuc, Rachel, 2:38, dam's breeding unknown.

DESCRIPTION.

WHIPPLETON is a beautiful black, tan muzzle and flanks and exceptionally strongly made all over. He stands 17 hands high and weighs 1400 pounds. He is beyond doubt the most uniform breeder on the Coast for size, color and finish. Most of his colts are 16 hands or over, and all bay, brown or black in color. He has never sired a sorrel or white faced colt; if he does I agree to refund service money.

PEDIGREE.

WHIPPLETON, sired by Hambletonian Jr. (sire of Hancock 2:20, by Whipple's Hambletonian; dam Lady Livingston; (dam of Lady Blanchard 2:20¾, Bloomfield Maid, trial 2:22); by General Taylor (sire of dam of Wells Fargo 2:18¾, Nearea 2:24½, Bickford 2:20½, Lady Blanchard 2:26¾) and Stella 2:30, son of the Morse horse.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars, with usual return privilege.

By the great Almont (sire of Westmont, 2:15¼, Puritan, 2:16, Fannie Witherspoon, 2:16¾, Piedmont, 2:17¼, and 31 others with records better than 2:30, and grandsire of Bell Hamlin, 2:13¾) by Alexander's Aldiah (sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14), he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Alcona's dam, Queen Mary by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¼, Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½ and 4 others in 2:30 list, and sire of the dams of Piedmont, 2:17¾, Director, 2:17, Onward, 2:25¼, and many others; 24 of his sons have produced 2:30 trotters.

Almont has 38 sons that have produced 2:30 trotters, which number is only equaled by his grandsire, Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

DESCRIPTION.

Alcona is a beautiful chestnut, 16¾ hands high, and weighs 1,300 pounds. His colts possess speed, style, finish and beauty, and if they don't trot fast they command the highest price for carriage and general purpose horses. Eleven of Alcona's colts that have been sold UNTRAINED brought $7,810, an average of $710 per head.

TERMS: $35. Usual return privilege.

Grandissimo,

Sired by La Grande (son of Almont and out of Jessie Pepper by Mambrino Chief; Jessie Pepper is the dam of Iona 2:22, Alpha 2:23½, Sterling Wilkes 2:33¾, and others) dam Norma, by Arthurton (sire of Arab 2:15, Joe Arthurton 2:2 ½, etc.).

Grandissimo's dam Nourmahal (full sister to A. W. Richmond, sire of Arrow 2:13¾, Romero 2:19, and sire of Columbine, dam of Anteeo 2:16½, and Antevolo 2:19¼, at 4 years old).

DESCRIPTION.

Grandissimo is 3 years old, will make a sixteen hand horse; he is a rich mahogany bay in color and perfect in style and action. Limited to ten mares, at $50 for the season. Usual return privileges.

In case any of my horses are sold before the next season, parties breeding mares have the privilege to return them to any other stallion I have making the season at the same price. Mares kept in any manner desired. Best of pasture the year round, at $4 per month. Some choice young stallions, colts and fillies by Whippleton, for sale reasonable. Correspondence solicited.

The Electioneer Stallion

LANCELOT,

SEAL BROWN STALLION, 15½ HANDS, FOALED APRIL 15, 1881.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco, Cal.

Sire Gov. Stanford's ELECTIONEER; first dam Lizzie Harris by Comus; second dam by Arnold Harris. Comus by Gree.'s Bashaw, dam Topsey by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk. Young Bashaw by Grand Bashaw (Arabian) (182), dam Pearl by First Consul (913); g d Fancy by imp. Rockingham. Arnold Harris by Whaleboue, dam Sportsmistress by American Eclipse.

All the sons of Electioneer in the Eastern States have their books filled for the season. This is a rare opportunity to breed to Lancelot at a very low price. Lancelot has shown quarters better than a 2:30 gait, and had it not been for an accident would have had a record as low as the fastest of the sons of Electioneer.

The Nutwood Stallion

SALADIN.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco.

SALADIN, chestnut stallion, 16 hands 1 inch high; foaled April 9, 1880. By Nutwood; first dam Lady Utley Jr. by Speculation, son of Hysdyk's Hambletonian; second dam Lady Utley. Grandam of Western Girl. Record 2:27½.

NUTWOOD (record 2:18¾), half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾, by Belmont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; first dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sally Russell by Boston; third dam Maria Russell by Thornton's Rattler; fourth dam Miss Shepard by Stockholder; fifth dam Miranda by Topgallant; sixth dam by imported Diomed; seventh dam by imported Medley; eighth dam by imported Juniper. Nutwood is the sire of Felix, 2:18¾; Dawn 2:19½; Manon 2:21; Menlo 2:21¾; Nuthreaker, two years old, 2:29¾; Nutwood Jr. 2:26; Mount Vernon 2:21; Woodnut 2:16¾, and several others that have trotted under 2:30.

The Thoroughbred Stallion

Judge McKinstry,

Will make the Season of 1889, from

March 1 to July 1, at San Felipe

Rancho, near Gilroy.

PEDIGREE.

Foaled 1879, by Grinstead or Thad Stevens, dam Katy Pease; second dam Minnie Mansfield by imp. Glencoe; third dam Allegrante by imp. Young Truffle.

DESCRIPTION.

JUDGE McKINSTRY is a bright bay with black points, 15¼ hands in height, of a conformation combining power and speed. His breeding is one that cannot be excelled. The families on both sides being noted for their gameness and fleetness. Speakin of JUDGE McKINSTRY, Matt Storn, the well-known trainer, says: "He is the fastest race-horse I ever saw on the Sacramento track. He has shown me trials that were marvelous, one especially of a mile and a quarter that was ahead of the present record." He was started in several races when not in condition to run, and even then developed an amount of speed that is characteristic of the noted families from which he descends. His performances are too well known to need repetition here. Good judges of horses state positively that there can be no doubt of his sire, as he is a perfect picture of Grinstead, but rule compels us to name both sires.

TERMS: $75 payable when the mare is moved from ranch, or, $100, with the usual privilege. Good pasturage, $3 per month. Mares at owners risk. All communications must be addressed to Prince Imperial.

DESCRIPTION.—PRINCE IMPERIAL is a black horse, 15-3 hands high; weighs 1 150 pounds, and is a model of beauty, action and power.

PEDIGREE.—Sired by Black Prince, he by Dictator, own brother to Dexter, dam Daisy by Witherell Messenger, he by Winthrop Messenger, son of imp. Messenger.

MR. Peter Brandow's statement in regard to Prince Imperial: "I met A. Weske in the Park in 1887 driving the above horse, both strangers to me. I was driving a good horse, but the above horse, hitched to a phaeton, beat me easily. I followed him to find out what horse it was, and he finally allowed me to hitch him to a sulky, which I did, and drove him easily in 2:32¼. I think him one amongst the best horses in California, and firmly believe that in six months I can drive him in 220."

PETER BRANDOW.
Trainer of trotters for 25 years.

In 1881, while visiting Salt Lake City, I saw the colt Prince Imperial, and bought him for my own use, and have used him for family purposes ever since. In offering him for public service last year, not knowing anything about horses' pedigrees I made a mistake in his. I wrote to the owner of the mare in Salt Lake, Dr. S. B. Young, and he says she was by Henry Clay, brought from Kentucky by him.

Will make the season of 1888 at the farm of A. Weske, 2¼ miles from Santa Rosa on the Healdsburg road. Season commencing March 1st.

SIRE OF YOLO MAID, 2:14.

Alexander Button.

Alexander's Record, 2:31 1-4!

DESCRIPTION.

Alexander Button is a dark bay with fine flowing mane and tail; stands 15-3¾ hands high; weighs 1,200 pounds, and is of excellent disposition. When three years old he made a record of 2:28½, and when four years old, in his first race, he obtained a record of 2:26¼. Has been driven a mile in 2:16 in his four-year-old form, and has been drive a last half in 1:0 . Alexander Button is a natural trotter, inherited through the speed-lines of his ancestors, and imparts his speed to his offspring with uniform certainty Yolo Maid, as a three-year-old, paced 18 heats, never leaving her feet—carrying the world's record of 2:14. Rosie Mc, as a five-year-old, rarely ever breaks; has a record of 2:20¾. R. H. Newton's colt, with very little handling, paced a 2:16 gait, and there are several other colts that show gaits from 2 16 to 2:20. Considering that Alexander Button has never been mated with a standard-bred mare—his colts show him to be a wonderful producer—and with his breeding, and terms of service, he is the cheapest and most wonderful horse in the State.

PEDIGREE.

Alex. Button was sired by Alexander, he by Geo. M. Patchen, Jr., his dam Lady Button by Napa Rattler by Biggett's Rattler, he by Sir Henry, and he by imported Henry, dam of Biggett's Rattler by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam of Napa Rattler, thoroughbred.

TERMS: $75, payable at end of season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge. Good pasturage will be furnished at $2 per month, and due care taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability whatever assumed.

Will stand at City Stable, Woodland, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. The remainder of the time he will stand at my ranch, which is situated about 1½ miles west of Yolo station.

All mares sent to Fashion Stable, Woodland, Yolo County, will be forwarded free of charge.

LONGWORTH.

High Bred Trotting Stallion.

WILL BE FOUR YEARS OLD IN MARCH.

Dark Bay, Black Points, by Sidney.

OWNED BY A. C. DIETZ, OAKLAND.

Also the owner of Bay Stallion Ringwood, four years old, by Sidney, half brother to Longworth, which has showed trials over the Oakland Track, 2:30; quarters, in 34 seconds—2:16 gait —as a three-year old.

LONGWORTH, for finish, style and form cannot be excelled by any four-year-old horse in the State. His gait is perfect, going low to the ground, with smooth, easy motion, and has shown wonderful speed with but two month's work. As a two-year-old, he showed a 2:40 gait; as a three-year-old showed—trial—full mile over the Oakland track, 2:26; half mile, 1:10; quarters, 34 seconds; eighths, 16 seconds—a 2:18 gait.

Longworth is the result of a long line of distinguished ancestors, endowed with speed on the sire and dams' side that follows back for generations—consequently he cannot help but produce great speed.

He is half brother to the great three-year-old Adonis, record 2 14¼.

Memo, three-year-old trial, 2:20½.
Sister V., two-year-old trial, 2:32.
St. Nicholas, three-year-old trial, 2:27¼.
Ringwood, three-year-old trial, 2:30.
Miss Sidney, one-year-old trial, half mile, 1:38.
Brown colt, three-year-old trial, 2:45.
Black colt, three-year-old trial, 2:39.
Sorrel colt, two-year-old trial, quarter, 34 seconds, and a number more that have shown remarkable speed. One yearling that has shown one-eighth of a mile in 16 1-5 seconds—a 2:10 gait.

Sidney, the sire of Longworth, has a record of 2:19¾; Santa Claus, the grand sire, has a record of 2:17½; Sweetness, the grandam, record 2:21½; Strathmore, the sire of Santa Claus, has twenty-two that have trotted below 2:30; Volunteer, the sire of Sweetness, has twenty-six that have trotted below 2:30. Volunteer is the sire of St. Julian, record 2:11¾.

Longworth's first dam Grey Dale, the dam of Daisy C., Silver Threads, and grandam of Phaceola; Grey Dale by American Boy, Jr.; he by American Boy, the sire of Belmont. Second dam Grey Poll by Winfield Scott, by Edward Everett; third dam Sorrel Poll by Sir Henry; fourth dam Daughter of Printer.

Grey Dale, the dam of Longworth, has shown herself a great producer of speed through Daisy C. and Silver Threads, the sire of Phaceola.

All letters pertaining to the service of this horse should be addressed to J. J. FAIRBANKS, Oakland Alameda County, Cal.

TERMS: Fifty dollars, payable at the end of the season or sooner if the mares are taken away. Season will close June 15th, 1889. The number of mares limited to twenty-five. The best of care will be taken to insure mares with foal. Pasture $5 per month, which can be procured at the Oakland Race Track. Mares at the owners' risk, as to escapes or accidents.

The stallion will be kept at the stables of the undersigned, at the junction of San Pablo Avenue and Park Street.

NOONDAY.

No Record, Foaled 1884.

Standard No. 10,000.

THIS CELEBRATED TROTTING-BRED STALLION will be limited to 40 mares the ensuing season at Oakland Trotting Park, Oakland, Cal., commencing February 1st and ending July 1st, at $100 the season, with the usual privilege of returning the mare next season if not proving in foal. The names of his patrons will be entered on his book in order of their application. He will be limited strictly to forty mares. Pasturage at five dollars per month, hay and grain extra.

NOONDAY, sired by Wedgewood (692), record, the fourth heat, 2:19, (sire of Favonia, record, fourth heat, 2:15, and Nugget, record 2:26, he the sire of Nettie Leaf, four-year-old record 2:23¼), and five others better than 2:26.

First dam Noontide, record 2:20½, by Harold (413), sire of Maud S., record 2:08¾, Mattie Graham, 2:21¾, and 17 others in 2:30.

Second dam Midnight (the dam of Jay-Eye-See, record 2:10), by Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Maud S., 2:08¾, Nutwood, 2:18¾.

Third dam by Lexington (sire of dam of Ansel, 2:20.)

First dam (the dam of Woodford Mambrino, 2:21), by Woodford (thoroughbred son of Kosciusko), he by Sir Archy.

NOONDAY is well formed, evenly balanced and handsome; his color is dark seal brown, small star, right hindfoot white, 15 1¾ inches high, weight 975 lbs, strong back and good gaited, short and rapid, and will make a fast and game campaigner.

Breeders will please remember that this horse is not owned by me. I have only leased him for two years for the benefit of the State and breeders on account of the speedy lines and blood that this state is in need of, and no stallion now in public service can show a pedigree with such fast records as enrich the blood of NOONDAY.

I will also handle and train a few horses for gentlemen at fair terms. Address

THE WILKES STALLION

Mambrino Wilkes, 6083

(Half Brother to Harry Wilkes, 2:13 1-2.)

Sire of Gus Wilkes, 2:22; Alpheus, 2:27; Balkan 2:29½, three-year-old; John O'Brien, lapped out the winner in 2:36 as a three-year-old; H. A. W.'s Black Colt, trial 2:29 with very little work as a four-year-old.

Will remain in the future at San Miguel Stock Farm, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County.

DESCRIPTION.

MAMBRINO WILKES is a black horse, 16 hands high, and considerably longer than his height; has immense muscular development and weighs 1,260 pounds. He has the utmost symmetry of proportion and elegance of finish. No competent judge who has seen this horse has failed to pronounce him a perfect individual, and his breeding is certainly fashionable enough to satisfy the most fastidious. His colts are large, stylish and handsome, and Balkan has been pronounced by many the most stylish trotter on the turf.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by George Wilkes, dam Lady Chrisman by Todhunter's Mambrino; second dam by Pilot Jr.

Todhunter's Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, dam Ripton's dam by Hunt's Commodore, son of Mambrino, by imp. Messenger; second dam by Potomac, son of imp. Messenger.

George Wilkes sired 65 colts that have beaten 2:30. Of these 39 have average records of 2:24, 14 of 2:19 and 12 of 2:18.

TERMS.

Mares from a distance will be received at the Dexter Stables, Oakland, or Livery Stable, Martinez, the owner notifying Smith Hill, Superintendent at the farm. Good pasture and plenty of water. For the purpose of placing the service of a Wilkes within reach of breeders, the same rate will be maintained as last year, to wit, $75 for the season. Although it is not admitted thereby that this horse is inferior as a producer to the horses whose fees are placed at from $1.0 to $500.

BALKAN,

Three-year-old Record 2:29 1-2; trotting many heats faster, when he did not obtain a record.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Fanny Fern by Jack Hawkins, son of Boston; second dam S. 1. B. by Jim Crow.

It will be readily seen that this colt is from strong producing lines on both sides. Fanny Fern having produced Mollie Drew, May Queen, Onyx and Fred Arnold, all noted trotters and all by different sires.

This colt will be kept at the Oakland Trotting Park, and will be stinted to ten approved mares at $100 for the season.

The Thoroughbred Stallion

THREE CHEERS

Will make the Season of 1889 at Oakland Race Track, Oakland, Alameda County.

Pedigree.

Newminster by Touchstone (winner St. Leger 1831), dam Beeswing (winner of 34 races out of 64 starts) by Dr. Syntax (winner Doncaster Cup 1837, 40, 41, 42, the only horse that ever accomplished that feat.)

THREE CHEERS is bred in the speediest and stoutest lines. His dam, Young Fashion was the dam of Surprise, Scotland (the only horse that ever beat Asteroid a heat), Liverpool, Columbia and Bonnie Kate, the dam of Little Buttercup and the flying Bonnie Lizzie. His grandam, Fashion, was the greatest race mare of her era, defeating Boston in that historical match at four-mile heats, that is recorded as one of the greatest events in the annals of the turf. He is thoroughly sound in wind and limb, his family on both sides being noted for their exemption from curbs, spavins, roaring, or any other hereditary unsoundness. Horsemen, who can appreciate the highest type of the thoroughbred, are specially invited to inspect Three Cheers.

TERMS: $75 for the season. Mares not proving with foal can be returned the next season free of charge. Good pasturage at $5 per month. Mares cared for in any manner owners may desire, and fed on hay and grain, either or both, at reasonable rates. None but competent grooms employed, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

N. B.—Mares sent from a distance in care of J. W. Morshead City Front Stables, San Francisco, will be forwarded without delay.

ARLINGTON.

$50. TRIAL 2:26½, BY $50.

ABBOTTSFORD.

SIRE OF CONDE, 2:20.

PEDIGREE.

By Abbottsford, dam the Gillespie mare, Abbottsford by Woodford Mambrino, son of Mambrino Chief, dam Columbia by Young Columbus. This horse was brought to California by J. W. Knox, and made a record in 1883 of 2:19¾, and has always proved a great speed producer.

The Gillespie mare, by the celebrated Wilson's Blue Bull, who has probably more of his get in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived.

Arlington has as yet no record, but has shown very fast trials. He will be limited to twenty-five mares only, as he will be trained for a record immediately on the conclusion of the season.

TERMS: $25 the season, with usual return privileges. The best of attention will be given mares, but no liability assumed for escapes or accidents. Call on or address

Thoroughbred Stallion

Prince of Norfolk,

Will Make the Season of 1889, from Feb. 15th to July 1st, at Sacramento.

PEDIGREE.

PRINCE OF NORFOLK, ch c, foaled 1881, by Norfolk; 1st dam Marion by Malcolm; 2nd dam Maggie Mitchell by imp. Yorkshire; third dam Charmer by imp. Glencoe; 4th dam Betsy Malone by Stockholder; 5th dam by Potomac; 6th dam by imp. Diomed; 7th dam by Pegasus, etc. Norfolk, the unbeaten son of Lexington, is the sire of Winters, Twilight, Connor, Ballot Box, Trade Dollar, Flood, Duchess of Norfolk, Lou Spencer, the Great Emperor of Norfolk, an many others. Marion's sire, Malcolm, was one of the first horses to bring Bonnie Scotland into notice. Through the Maggie Mitchell cross comes the blood of two of the most celebrated race mares of their day, Charmer and Betsy Malone. The combined speed of these great families seem to be concentrated in the get of Norfolk and Marion, as is instanced in the case of the Emperor of Norfolk, who is a full brother to the Prince of Norfolk.

The blood lines here displayed cannot be surpassed in the world, there not being a single cross that has not been celebrated for speed and endurance, and it is fair to assume that the get of this stallion will show equally well with those of past generations.

TERMS, $50 for the season. We offer first class pasturage on our own ranch, at $4 per month and the best of care will be taken of mares sent to us, but no responsibility can be incurred. For further particulars address

W. P. TODHUNTER, Sacramento.

FOR SALE.

Thoroughbred Stallion

LEON.

Bay stallion, 16¼ hands high, foaled 1885 sired by Leinster, dam Ada A, dam of Pater Duffy, Frank Rhodes, Lizzie P., dam of Idalene Cotton, and Lady Leinster—by Asteroid. The ones that saw his race at the Oakland Fair last fall can best judge as to his racing qualities. He ran the 1⅛ miles, carrying 118 lbs, in 2:10, and galloped under the wire. The last mile he ran in 1:43¾. If not sold by Feb. 1st will make a season in the stud at Sacramento. For further particulars address

MEMO.

The Fast Trotting Stallion, the Best Son of Sidney.

Will make the Season of 1889 at the Oakland Trotting Park.

He was bred by G. Valensin at the Arno Stock Farm, Sacramento County, California; foaled spring of 1885.

PEDIGREE.

By Sidney.
First dam Flirt by Buccaneer.
Second dam Mohaska Belle by Flaxtail.
Third dam by John the Baptist.

Sidney by Santa Claus, 2:17½, his dam Sweetness, 2:21½. Strathmore, the son of Santa Claus, has 22 of his get which have trotted in 2:30 or better, up to close of 1887, several having entered since, and Volunteer the sire of Sweetness, has 26 in the same list. Buccaneer is the sire of Shamrock, two-year-old record 2:25, and of Flight, 2:29, and in him are combined the strains of Long Island Blackhawk, Vermont Blackhawk, and the dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Flaxtail figures prominently in both pacing and trotting descendants, and is the sire of the dam of Apex, 2:26, Flight, 2:29, J. H. McCormack, 2:29, and Shamrock, 2:25.

PERFORMANCES.

Memo only trotted in public in his two-year-old form, obtaining a record of 2:49, though he was close to Grandee in a race on the Bay District Track, the second heat of which was made in 2:31½, the first in 2:32. He exhibited phenomenal speed when three years old, and had it not been for a slight strain of his fore fetlock there is little question that he would have shown in public very close to the best record. On the Oakland track he was timed a mile in 2:20½, and frequently trotted quarters in from 32½ to 34 seconds.

DESCRIPTION.

He is nearly if not quite sixteen hands high, and of powerful build throughout. His color is a glossy black, with both fore-feet white and a touch of white on his off hind quarters. His disposition is all that could be desired, and his action superb.

TERMS: One hundred dollars the season, which will commence on the 5th of February and close on the 1st of July. Due care will be taken of mares, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes.

Mares taken and kept as desired by the owners, and at reasonable rates.

Pasturage at $5 per month within the track enclosure; feed first rate, and a living stream of water in the field. There is a double protection against escape, as in addition to a strong fence on the inside of the track, the gates of the outer fence are enclosed at night, which gives almost positive assurance of safety. Address

ELECTIONEER STALLION

EROS,

Standard No. 5326.

Electioneer, his sire, has more 2:20 trotters than any living horse, and more 2:30 trotters than any stallion LIVING OR DEAD.

Eros has a record of 2:29¼, made in the fifth and deciding heat against a field of eight horses in his maiden race, and with only four weeks preparation after coming out of the stud.

Progeny.

Eros had last fall but three colts trained; the oldest a three-year-old trotter, an exhibition mile during the San Jose Fair in 2:44, last quarter in 36½ seconds. A two-year-old (timed by the judges) made a mile in 2:46½, and the other two year-old in 2:47. All of these trials being made without a single skip, and none of these colts had then been handled three months from the bitting harness.

TERMS: $50 for the season, from February 1st to July 1, 1889. Due at time of service.

STALLIONS.

DIRECTOR 2:17.

DIRECTOR will stand at Pleasanton from March 1st to August 1st, 1889, for fifteen good mares more than are now booked, at $2 0 for the season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge of service to same stallion, or money will be refunded, at option of the Stock Farm Co.

Pasturage $4 per month, hay and grain extra. Accidents and escapes at owner's risk. Service fees due at time of service and must be paid, together with pasturage, etc., before mares are taken away, or a good approved note given, payable August 1st, 1889, at which date all bills must be settled

THISTLE,

Full brother to Gold Leaf, pacing record 2:15 at three years old. By Sidney, dam Fernleaf, she the dam of stallion Shamrock, trotting record at two years old, 2:25. Thistle is a large, speedy pacing colt, showing more speed than Gold Leaf at the same age, and double the speed of his sire; so if anyone wants to breed pacers, here is a chance.

Thistle will stand for seven approved mares at $100 for the season, with same conditions and return privileges as Dictator.

ANNUAL FALL MEETING.

RAISIN HANDICAP. For all ages. 1¼ mile dash. Guarantee Purse $1,000. $10 entrance. $10 May 1st, $15 June 1st, $25 July 1st. Weights will be declared August 15th and acceptance September 1st, when the other $50 is to be paid. To be run at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entrance money amounts to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the association will add 20 per cent. of amount of purse; 3 moneys, 70, 20, 10 per cent of purse. Horses winning any purse or stake of one mile or more at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $800 or over, shall carry 10 pounds extra. Horses winning a purse or stake of one mile or over at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $500 or over, to carry 5 pounds extra

Weights to be declared through BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, August 15, 1889. Entries close May 1st with the Secretary.

American Association Rules to govern.

REMARKS.

As to the Handicap Running, 1¼ mile dash, the Handicapping Committee will use due diligence in learning the performance of every horse entered, and weighting them fairly to their merits. Each entry must be accompanied by entrance money or be considered no entry. All payments not made when due the nominator forfeits all money paid in. We propose at the finish of the race the horse winning the purse, or any part of it, gets his money and not forfeit papers.

GUARANTEE PURSE.

For horses that never beat 2:30. Trotting Purse $1,000, $100 entrance, $25 May 1st, $.5 July 1st, $50 August 15th, when nominees are to be named. To be trotted at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entries amount to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the Association will add 20 per cent. of amount of stakes. Four moneys, 70, 25, 15, 10 per cent of purse.

Horses eligible at closing of entries, May 1st.

American Association rules to govern.

REMARKS.

This 2:30 class Guarantee Purse gives the party making the entry the privilege of naming any horse he sees fit the 15th day of August, having no better record than 2:30 the first day of May, irrespective of the record he gets after that date. You will see by this the nominator has almost a sure thing of getting his money back. Any nominator failing to make payments when due, forfeits all money paid in, and money must accompany entry or it will be considered no entry.

Our grounds are the finest appointed in the State being about 2½ miles from the city; horse car line running direct to the grounds.

We also have the best of box stalls for 100 horses. Hay and straw furnished to all horses entered in races free of charge. Grain can be procured on the grounds at reasonable rates.

CONDITIONS.

All trotting and pacing races, best 3 in 5, to harness, unless otherwise specified. Entrance, ten per cent on amount of purse, to accompany nomination. Any horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money.

American Association Rules to govern all trotting, pacing, and running races, but the Board reserves the right to trot heats of any two classes alternately, or to trot a special race between heats; also, to change the day or hour of any race if deemed necessary.

A horse making a walk-over shall be entitled to only one-half of entrance money paid in. When less than required number of starters appear, they may contest for entrance money paid in, to be divided as follows: 66⅔ to first, 33⅓ to second.

In all entries not declared out by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race shall be required to start.

When there is more than one entry by one person, or in one interest, the particular horse they are to start must be named by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race.

If, in the opinion of the judges, any race cannot be finished on the closing day of the meeting, it may be continued or declared off, at the option of the judges.

Non-starters in running races will be held for entrance under Rule 36.

Racing colors to be named on entries.

In trotting races the drivers shall be required to wear caps of distinct colors, which must be named in their entries.

These two last rules will be strictly enforced.

All races to be called at 2 P. M. sharp

Entries to all the above races to close with the Secretary at 11 P. M., Saturday, April 6, 1889.

LEWIS LEACH, President.

N. I. BALDWIN, Secretary.

Frank Morgan.

DESCRIPTION.

FRANK MORGAN was brought to California by Mr. S. E. Larabie of Montana. He is undoubtedly one of the handsomest stallions in the country, is a dark chestnut, about 16 hands in height, of free, easy carriage, well gaited, perfectly developed and superb in general appearance. In disposition he is all that could be desired. He has been named Frank Morgan in honor of the family from which he descends.

PEDIGREE.

FRANK MORGAN was sired by an unnamed son of Morgan General, Jr., by Morgan General, by Billy Root, by Sherman, by Justin Morgan. Dam by Romeo, by Green Mountain Morgan 2nd, by Gifford's Morgan, by Woodbury Morgan, by Justin.

FRANK MORGAN will make the season of 1889 at the Oakland Race Track, serving a limited number of mares. He is a sure and reliable foal getter, and the uniform beauty and style of his colts have shown him to be a producer of the finest class of road and carriage horses that have ever been seen in this country.

TERMS.—$40 FOR THE SEASON.

Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. The best care will be taken of all mares, but no risks for accidents or escapes. For further particulars, address or C. W. WELBY, 627 Seventeenth St., S. F., Cal.

JOHN ROWEN, Oakland Race Track,

NUTWOOD JR.,

FOR SALE OR LEASE.

This Speedy Son of the Great NUTWOOD can be Bought for $2,500, or Leased for the Season for $1000.

He is a sure foal getter, and can show as fine colts as are in the State. He earned $3,400 last year in the stud, can take care of 100 mares with ease. This is the best opportunity ever offered for any live man to make from two to three thousand dollars clear in a few months, with one of the most popular and fashionably bred horses in the land. The services of this style of horses never goes begging. His sire commands more for his stud services than any living trotting stallion. $500. He can be seen at Sacramento by calling at the address below. Other engagements prevent his owner from caring for him in the stud the coming season.

DESCRIPTION.

NUTWOOD, JR., is a mahogany bay horse, 16½ hands high, weighs 1260 pounds. Foaled April 14, 1879, bred by L. U. Shippee of Stockton, Cal.

He is a horse of powerful mold, symmetrical form and in striking resemblance to his sire, NUTWOOD.

He has never been trained but his action is faultless and his disposition most unexceptional.

PEDIGREE.

Nutwood, 2:18¾, (half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾) by Belmont (Alexander's), dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sallie Russel by Boston; third dam Maria Russell by Thornton's Rattler, etc. He is the sire of Felix, 2:19½, Manon, 2:21, Jim Mulvenna, four years, 2:22¾, Nutbreaker, yearling, 2:42½, and many other fast ones.

Belmont, by Alexander's Abdallah, dam Belle by Mambrino Chief, second dam by Brown's Bellfounder, son of Imp Bellfounder. He is the sire of Wedgewood, 2:19, and five others in the 2:30 list. Alexander's Abdallah, sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14, and others.

Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Nutwood, is also the sire of Midnight, the dam of Jay-Eye-See, 2:10, and seven in the 2:30 list.

A FINE

Mambrino Stallion

FOR SALE.

The Fashionably bred Black Stallion

HENRY CLAY,

Is by Carr's Mambrino, he by Mambrino Patchen, he by Mambrino Chief, by Mambrino Paymaster, by Imported Messenger. HENRY CLAY'S dam was sired by Taxation by Lexington, dam Black Swan by Messenger Carrol; his dam Messenger Maid, by Cooper's Bay Messenger; Swan's first dam was Katy Aubrey, by American Eclipse, second dam Buzzard, fourth dam Mary Grey by Imported Messenger.

He was foaled June 1, 1881, is jet black, stands 17¼ hands high, and weighs 1360 pounds.

At the State Fair in 1884, he took the first premium for horses for all purposes, also first premiums at the Monterey District Fairs in 1883, 1884 and 1885.

There is no more stylish horse to be found in the State, his action is perfect, and although never trained for speed he shows a remarkably fine road gait of 3 minutes. For further particulars apply to

J. McENTEE.
Gonzales, Monterey Co.

Frank Morgan.

M. S. S. LARABIE, OF MONTANA, is at present in the city, and has brought with him one of the handsomest stallions seen in many a day. He is a dark chestnut, about sixteen hands in height, of free, easy carriage, well gaited, perfectly developed and superb in general appearance. In disposition he is all that can be desired. He has been named "Frank Morgan" in honor of the family from which he descends. He is by a son of Morgan General Jr., first dam by Romeo, he by Green Mountain Morgan, the blood lines running direct on both sides to the great Justin Morgan. The stallion is at present in the hands of C. W. Welby, who feels a natural pride in handling the reins over the most magnificent carriage horse in San Francisco. —BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.

GROVER CLAY,

Bay Stallion, bred by Hon. W. W. Traylor, San Francisco. Foaled 1883. By ELECTIONEER.

First dam MAGGIE NORFOLK by NORFOLK, son of Lexington.

Second dam by BILLY CHEATHAM.

Third dam by DORSEY'S GOLDDUST.

GROVER C. is a very handsome shade of bay, 15¾ hands high, and showing as much quality as a majority of thoroughbreds. He is as square-gaited a trotter as can be, and has shown a great deal of speed for the amount of handling. Has been worked very little, though he can show a thirty gait or better whenever called upon.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars the season, payable at time of service. Proper care will be taken, but no responsibility incurred for accidents or escapes. Mares will be pastured inside of the Oakland Trotting Park, which is especially safe, having two fences which give ample security against escape. There is a never-failing stream of water which runs through the field, and the food is good.

Season commencing first of January and ending the first of July.

This is the only son of Electioneer standing in Alameda County, and the high breeding on the side of his dam is a guarantee that his colts will inherit qualities already made famous through the mixture of Electioneer and Lexington blood. Ansel, 2:20, is from a Lexington mare, and Sunol's granddam, two-year-old record 2:18, was by Lexington, both Sunol and Ansel by Electioneer, Lexington the sire of Norfolk.

OSSIDINE

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 15, 1888.

GENTLEMEN:—We have used Ossidine for the past two years and consider it invaluable for Sprung Tendons, Curbs, Ringbone and Spavins; there is nothing equals it; and for us it effected a permanent cure where firing failed, although performed by one of the most successful veterinarians on the continent. We have recommended it to others with like success, and believe it has more merit than any blister ever used.

Very respectfully yours, S. A. BROWNE & Co., Prop's.

This scientific preparation is an absolute cure for all bony or callous lumps on horses, and is a more powerful absorbent than "firing," without creating the slightest blemish. After a few applications the excrescence is so palpably reduced that even the skeptical frankly acknowledge that it is by far the most valuable outward remedy for horses ever invented.

The ONLY preparation in the world that will remove a Bone Spavin after it has become ossified.

Price $3.00 per Large Bottle,

A. P. BUSH & CO., 149 Pearl Street, Boston, Mass.

Sole Agents for Unitad States and Canada.

Owner of Eole, St. Saviour, Eolist, etc, says: I have long used it in my stables, and find it to be all that is claimed for it in removing callous and unnatural bony growths, without leaving the slightest blemish. From my experience, I most strongly recommend the use of Ossidine, and feel that it is a necessary adjunct to every stable. Yours respectfully,

LONG BRANCH, July 28, 1888. F. GEBHARD.

I must Tell you, It is not Much Meat, but the Ordering of the Diet, that Makes Horses in Health: Nay, to some Great and Ready Feeders (as they call it) you must give but a little Wheat-Straw; for else they will be as Pursey and Fatt, as Stall-Fed Oxen: Nay, some again will Eat their Litter, which is very Foul Feeding. And then the Jockeys use to put their Horses upon the Muzzle, which I like not by any Means; for many Horses grow very Sick upon it, because it doth almost Smoother them; therefore, in that case, I put on a Cavezone, and Tie it so Straight, as he cannot Eat, and then he hath his Nostrils clear for Breath, and is never Sick.

Be sure, that you never Dress your Horse until he be Cold; for until then, he will not Dress; though I have seen many Foolish Grooms offer at it, to Dispatch their Work: Nor Turn them to the Manger to their Meat, after their Exercise, until they be Cold; for, though you give them no Water, or but to Wash their Mouths, yet Eating, whilest they are Hott, makes ill Digestion.

There is nothing Conduces more to the Health of Horses, than to Keep them three or four Hours before they be Ridd, on the Watering-Bitt; and after they are Ridd, so long again on the Watering-Bitt, until they be Cool; and in the Afternoon Turn'd again on the Watering-Bitt three or four Hours.

For worms, it is good to give them Brimstone in their Oats, and to put Bay-Salt by them, which they will Lick apace; and Fenugreek, and sometimes a Spoonful of Sweet-Sallet-Oyl mingled with their Oats. But the most Soveraign Thing that ever Iknew, is Honey mingled with their Oats.

Horses of great Exercise, that have often great Heats, as Horses of Mannage have, must be Lett Blood often, and have Dry Feeding; for, Moist Feeding, and Exercise, breeds great Corruption: Cooling-Julips, and Cooling-Glisters, (which I will set down hereafter) are very Needful to Preserve their Health.

TO MAKE A HORSE.

Have

A FINE COAT.

There are but these Four things, viz.: Feeding Well, Cloathing Warmly, Many Sweats, and Dressing Well.

For Dressing, there are these things: The Curry-comb, which only fetches out Dust; the Dusting-Cloth, that takes away the Loose Dust; the Brush, that takes the Dust from the bottom of the Hair; the Hard Wisp, a little moistned, that takes out More Dust yet from him; and the Felt a little moistned, that takes out More Dust from him afterwards; but the Wett Hand, which should be last, takes not only More Dust, but a great deal of Loose Hair, which is much Better than any of the Former: After this, a Linnen Cloath to Wipe them over, and then a Wollen Cloath, and so Cloath him Up.

But, the Best of all is the Knife & Heat, which is the Scraper; for, when he is Hot, Scraping of him gets all the Sweat, and Moysture, out of him, so that he is Dry presently after, and all that Wett would turn to Dust, so there is so much Labour saved: Besides, it gets abundance of Hair from him, which the rest doth not; so that it is the most Excellent thing I Know, both to Cool a Horse, and to Make him have a Good Coat.

You must Wash his Hooffs first Clean, and then Dry them; and when they are Dry, then Anoint them; and when his Feet are Pick'd, then Stopp them with Cow-Dung.

In

In Summer he must be Leightly Cloathed in the Heats, and his Leggs and Feet all Wash't, and his Codds, and his Sheath, made Clean; for there will be a great deal of Dirt in those Places else; and his Yard made Clean, and either washed with Water or White-Wine; his Temples, Eyes, Nostrils, and Mouth, Bathed with Cold Water, in a Spunge, which will much Refresh him: Nay, to be Washed all over, and Scrap't, is excellent, both for his Coat and Health, and sometimes to be Wash't with Sope: His Mane to be Wash't and kept Clean; and sometimes to be Wash't with Sope will make it Grow; and if the Hair should Fall, then Wash it in Lee, but not too Strong, for that would fetch it Off: Dress his Mane Clean every day, and Pleat it up again, which will make it Grow very much: You must Wash his Tayl very Clean, up to the very Dock, Dock and all; and often Wett his Dock with a Spunge, not only to make his Hair lie Close, but to make it Grow; and also it doth Refresh him very much, and keeps him Cold handsomely.

But if your Horse hath a White Tayle, wash it never so clean, yet he will Dye it in his Dung and Urine, that it will be Yellow, and therefore you must Wash it very Clean with Water and Sope; and when it is Dry, put it in a Bagg, and Tie it up, and that will keep it Clean, and White.

Clip his Ears; and no more of his Mane, than for the Headstall to Lie there; and Cut his Tayl a little above his Fetlock, and Cut it every month to make it Grow. You must Dress him in as many Various Sorts with Ribbons, as there are Colours, which Beautifies him much.

He might be well Littered with fresh Rye-Straw every Night, and to have Pasterns on his Fore-Feet keeps him from much Hurt; but one Pastern on his Hinder Foot, tyed to the Piller behind him, with a Leather Rein at such a Length as he may Lie Down, doth Avoid more Mischief than you can Imagine: The Woollen Cloath must alwayes be laid upon his Buttock under his Housing Cloath; You must always have your Horses to have Hoods, and both they, and their Housing-Cloathes Lined with Cotton, or Baies, to keep them Warm.

Have good Collers, Surcingles, and Padds, and a little Rein to Tie them up to the Wall or Rack; and good Watering-Bitts, which, as I told you afore, are very Useful. And be careful, after a great Heat, that you give him no Water till Night, except only to Wash his Mouth: for it is very Dangerous, and may Spoyl him Utterly; for, a Horse will be Cool Without, when he is not Within: and the Worst is but to forbear his Meat a little, or to have a Small Body, which is much Better than to have no Horse.

Of SHOOING.

The old Saying, is, Before behind, Behind before. That is; Before, the Veins lie Behind: For, you see of his Fore-feet, there is a great Space on both sides, where there is no Nayls at the Heel: And Behind, before; for you see in his Hinder-feet, there is a great Space between the Nayls at the Toe; because the Veines lie Before, at the Toe; and the Veins lie Behind, at the Heel: and this is done for fear of Pricking him. So that the Saying, Before behind, Behind before, is very True.

You must Fitt the Shoo to the Foot, and not the Foot to the Shoo, as they do in Flanders, and Brabant; and Open his Heels as much as you can, Straight, and not Side-wayes; for that will cut away all his Heels in two or three Shooings; and the Strength of the Heels, is the Strength of the Foot. You must Cutt the Thrush handsomely too, and Pare his Foot as Hollow as you can, that the Shoo may not Press at all upon his Foot: The Shoo must come Neer to the Heel, and fit a little from it, and a little Wider than the Hooff on both Sides, to enlarge the Heel; and that the Shoo may bear his Weight, more than his Foot.

The Webb must be indifferent Broad; not too Thinn, least it should Beat into his Foot; nor so Thick, either to Tyre him, or with the Weight to Pull out the Nayls.

When the Shoo is set On, there will be much Hooff to be Cutt off at the Toe; for, it must be very Thick at the Toe, if you do not Pare him but as I have told you; and when you have Cutt it Off, then Smooth it with a File, or Rape, and thus your Horse will stand so firm, as if he had a little Polonia-Heel; and his Foot so Strong, as not only to go Boldly upon Stones, but to Break them, and never to Hurt his Feet, or Feel them: For, you will easily imagine, a Man can go much Better upon Stones with Three-Soal'd Shoes, than with Pumps. Paring a Horses Foot so Thin as they Use, is Pumps, and makes him Go upon his Heels, as Pumps doth a Man; and my Way, as I have told you, is, Three-Soal'd-Shoes, and a little Polonia-Heel.

The Nayls should be Cast in a Mould, with Round and Flatt Heads, for fear of Crossing one Legg of another to Hurt him. This for the Fore-feet.

The Hinder-Feet are to be Shod just in the same Manner as the Fore-Feet was, both for Opening the Heels, Cutting the Thrush, and Cutting off at the Toe, to leave it Thick; only the Hinder Shooes must be made Answerable to the Form of his Hinder-Feet: The Webb somewhat Broad, but the Nayles of his Hinder-Feet should be ordinary Nayls, and the Heads a little Bigger and Sharper, for Stopping, to take hold of the Earth, lest he might, with Sliding, Incord himself; the Nayls ought to be so, because a Horse of Mannage goes on the Hanches, which is most of his Hinder-Feet; and Wears his Hinder Shoes twice as Fast as his Fore Shooes: and this is the right Way of Shooing a Horse of Mannage.

A Travelling Horse must also be Shod after the same Way, but much Narrower than the Travelling-Horse, even with his Foot, and the Webb much Narrower, or else he will indanger to Lame himself, upon Ill Grounds, and to Indanger you with Falling; besides Pulling off his Shooes.

A Running-Horse's Shoes are so Narrow at the Webb, and so Thin, as they are called Plates, rather than Shooes; it is not only for Leightness, but that the Fresh Nayls, being Newly shod, may take Better hold of the Earth, to prevent Slipping: For, could the Nayls be put in without Shooes, as Even, and Regularly, it would do as Well; but that cannot be, and therefore you must have Plates for that end, which is the only end of Plates.

History of Waxy.

BY LEVI S. GOULD, IN WALLACE'S MONTHLY.

To trace the pedigree and history of this now famous mare it was necessary to start from a tradition only that she was by Lexington and was introduced into California with the remnants of a lot of horses which it was supposed came across the plains somehow—no one seemed to know exactly how, as her owner perished early in the trip and all pedigrees were lost, as were many of his animals. Beyond this there appeared to be a barrier as inpenetrable as death itself. With such slender material as a basis it seemed like an attempt to prove the identity of a will-o'-the wisp twenty-five years after it had flashed across the lowlands. Thinking that if such a conjecture had any foundation in fact the death of this man must be recorded somewhere, back files of the local papers were diligently searched day after day, without result. Finally by extreme good fortune, a file of the California Spirit of the Times of 1864 was brought to light in San Francisco, although not obtainable at the office of that publication. Fortunately this paper which had escaped all previous examinations, gave the keynote to an investigation which has continued unremittingly for many weeks, and at the expenditure of much money and thousands of miles of travel in California, Oregon, Kentucky, etc., until this veritable sorrel filly Waxy, completely identified, has been traced to the stable where she was foaled in the year 1863. The following extracts and statements, some of which are cumulative, but all valuable as collateral evidence, are referred to as furnishing the links in a perfct chain.

Extract from the California Spirit of the Times, May 14, 1864. In giving lists of the animals, the notes and explanations inclosed in brackets are my own:

"FINE STOCK COMING.—It will not be long before the energy, enterprise and means of the patrons of the turf in California and Nevada Territory, and lovers of fine stock, will have introduced as splendid a collection of horses as the most fastidious could desire.

"Three gentlemen have lately left here for the purpose of purchasing fine stock, viz: Mr. John P. Welch and John Hall, Esq., of California, and Theodore Winters of Nevada Territory.

"We have received tidings from the first of these gentlemen of the most satisfactory nature. Mr. Welch remarks, in his letter dated April 9th, to this office, that he is gathering together his stock, and would start in a few days for California. He has about thirty head, as the annexed list will show:

No. 1.—Bay mare, six years old, by imp. Sovereign, dam by Glencoe; grandam Ann Merry.
No. 2.—Bay filly, three years old, by Vandal, dam Miss Singleton by Old Denmark; grandam Bellamira by Monarch. [Advertised at the "Willows." L. S. G.]
No. 3.—Bay filly, two years old, by Mambrino Chief, dam by Commodore.
No. 4.—Bay horse, three years old, by Mambrino Chief, dam by Grey Eagle.
No. 5.—Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George, dam, (dam of Capitola) by Margrave. [See sale at Willows.—L. S. G.]
No. 6.—Bay mare, nine years old, by imp. Glencoe, dam by Rudolph; grandam Belle Anderson.
No. 7.—Bay filly, two years old, by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan by Emancipation. [This filly was owned and run by Theodore Winters, under the name of Ada C., and became the dam of Ballot Box and other noted race horses—L. S. G.]
No. 8.—Chestnut filly, four years old, by Vandal, dam by Grey Eagle; grandam Churchill.
No. 9.—Chestnut mare by Wagner. (Dam of No. 11.)
No. 10.—Bay mare by Sovereign.
No. 11.—Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George. [Son of No. 9, by Wagner. See sale at Willows.—L. S. G.]
No. 12.—Chestnut filly, three years old, by Jack Gamble, dam Betty King, by Boston. [See sale at Willows.—L. S. G.]
No. 13.—Bay mare, six years old, by imp. Sovereign, dam by Mirabeau, g andam Arabella. [See Kate, Bruce's Stud-Book, page 161.—L. S. G.]
No. 14.—Capt. Beard, b s, nine years old, by imp. Yorkshire, dam by imp. Glencoe; grandam by imp. Leviathan; great-grandam by Stockholder. [Purchased by J. P. Welch, March 14, 1864, for $110, of James H. Wood, who sold him at auction in Lexington, Ky.—L. S. G.]
No. 15.—Grey mare by Grey Eagle, dam Mary Morris, by Medoc. [Dam of Volscian, Annette, Waxy and others.—L. S. G.]
No. 16.—[Hope?], ch m. by Glencoe, dam Susette by Aratus. [This mare n v r came to California, and, if the Stud Book is to be relied upon, did not leave Kentucky. See Bruce's Stud-Book. L. S. G.]
No. 17.—Bay mare by Sovereign, dam by Grey Eagle. [The breeding of No 17 is a mistake According to the evidence I have, her dam was Mary Ellen, by Mirabeau, not by Grey Eagle. Sold to J. L. Eoff, and by him to Theo. Winters. L. S G.]
No. 18.—Chestnut filly, two years old, by Bob Johnson, dam by Brawner's Eclipse. [This was a bay filly, and was owned and run by J. L. Eoff under the name of Lilly Hitchcock—Eoff, as usual, fraudulently using the name of Lexington as her sire.—L. S. G.]
No. 19.—Chestnut filly, three years old, by Knight of St. George, dam by Grey Eagle. [This mare could not have come. She was known as Jenny H. See Bruce, Vol. 1, page 556.—L. S. G.]
No. 20.—Bay colt, one year old, by Lexington, dam by Grey Eagle. (This was Waxy, and "b c" was undoubtedly a typographical error, and should have been "sorrel or chestnut filly," instead of "bay colt." As proof, see statement of Satterthwaite, and record of Lexington's service in 1862. Also O'Hanlon, Grigsby, Weston and F. Welch's statements.—L. S. G.)
No. 21.—Chestnut colt, two years old, by Ringgold, dam Hope by Glencoe.
Nos. 22 and 23.—Pair 3:00 six-year-old trotting mares.
No. 24.—Black mare, trotter, eight years old. Time 2.50.
No. 25.—Bay gelding, trotter, five years old. Time near 3:00.
No. 26.—Bay bay for show, but not to go.

"In addition to this splendid string of thoroughbreds, Mr. Welch has purchased a number of fine saddle horses. This is the largest and most valuable shipment of horses ever made to this State. We hope all will arrive in good condition, etc."

August 13, 1864.

"MELANCHOLY DEATH.—Mr. John P. Welch, who left here several months since for Kentucky, for the purpose of purchasing fine stock for this State, died at Fort Lamarie, August 2d, being on his return. Mr. Welch was accompanied by several members of his family, and doubtless received every attention possible. The dispatch concerning the information of his death was addressed to John Anderson, of this city, but no particulars were given. Mr. Welch was a man universally respected and esteemed. He was a civil engineer by profession, and a thorough and competent one. In Oregon, where he resided for a long time, he made many warm and earnest friends, who will be pained to hear of his decease. In a few days we shall be in possession of the details of the melancholy occurrence."

October 8, 1864.

"FINE STOCK.—The Salt Lake Daily Telegraph says, under date of September 24th, that among other passings to the Pacific during the present week, was a fine band of thoroughbred mares, thirty in number, from Kentucky, where they had been purchased for Mr. John Anderson, of San Francisco, by Mr. John P. Welch of the border State, with a view of competing with the best blood in the Pacific States. Mr. Welch and two of his relatives were taken sick on the plains and died on the Sweetwater. A young man brought the stock on to the city and passed westward."

October 29, 1864.

"FINE STOCK.—We are in receipt of information from Mr. John Anderson at Austin, Reese River, Nevada Territory, which place he had reached with a large lot of blooded stock, consisting of horses and mares purchased in Kentucky. Some time since, Mr. John P. Welch, an old resident of this place, left for the Atlantic States, commissioned by Mr. Anderson to make selections for him from the finest stock which could be procured. He did so, and was on his return with a band of horses, but took sick on the way, and himself, father, and sister died at Sweetwater. Mr. Anderson was compelled in consequence to go out and meet his stock, which he did beyond Salt Lake. We are gratified in being enabled to state that, notwithstanding the untoward and melancholy circumstances attending their journey, the stock is in fine condition. Mr. Anderson left a number of head at Salt Lake for the winter, and eight head at Diamond Springs, near Austin. He is now on his way to this city with the balance, and we hope to see him in a few days."

December 17, 1864.

"In another column will be found an advertisement of a sale of thoroughbred stock which will take place at the Fair Grounds near San Jose, on Tuesday, January 3, 1865. This stock is a portion of that purchased by the late J. P. Welch, in Kentucky and Tennessee last spring, for account of John Anderson, Esq. There are ten lots—six two-year-olds, three three-year-olds, and one five-year-old, comprising the get of Revenue, Ringgold, Knight of St. George, Lexington, Jack Gamble, Vandal and Sovereign. This is the choicest and most extensive lot of stock that has yet been offered at public sale in the State. The stock is all young and desirable and of the age to be placed immediately in training."

December 31st the same paper contained another notice, of which the following is a portion: "This stock is a portion of that imported by Mr. John Anderson, and was selected by the late J. P. Welch, one of the best judges of stock ever on this coast."

January 7, 1865.

Referring to the sale at San Jose race-course the Spirit says: "It was slimly attended. The prices obtained were ruinously low. Mr. J. L. Eoff purchased the two-year-old bay filly by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan; the two-year old filly by Bob Johnson, dam by Brawner's Eclipse; and the brown mare, five years old, by Sovereign, dam Grey Eagle. Mr. W. Woodward, of this city, was also a purchaser. We will give a full list of the stock sold and prices obtained in our next issue." January 14, 1865.

No. 1.—Bay filly, two years old, by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan. (This was Ada C.—L. S. G.) Bought by J. L. Eoff...	$325.00
No. 2.—Sorrel colt, two years old, by Ringgold, dam Hope by Glencoe. (Bid in and sold at the "Willows," Feb. 10, 1866. See No. 7 in that sale.—L. G. S.) Bought by Mr. Fowler	100.00
No. 3.—Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George, dam by Wagner. Bought by Mr. Fowler	125.00
No. 4—Bay filly, two years old, by Bob Johnson, dam by Brawner's Eclipse. (This was Lilly Hitchcock, undoubtedly bred by Philip Swigert. See statement of L. Broadhead, Esq.—L. G. S.) Bought by J. L. Eoff	250.00
No. 5.—Sorrel filly, two years old, by Lexington. (This was Waxy.—L. S. G.) Bought by William Woodward	250.00
No. 6.—Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George, dam by Margrave. Bought by L. S. Ward	120.00
No. 7.—Bay gelding three years old. by Lexington, dam Nannie Clark. Bought by L. S. Ward	160.00
No. 8.—Chestnut filly, three years old, by Jack Gamble, dam Betty King. Bought by Mr. Fowler	225.00
No. 9.—Bay filly, three years old, by Vandal, dam Miss Singleton. Bought by Mr. Fowler	150.00
No. 10.—Brown mare, five years old, by Sovereign, dam by Grey Eagle. (Afterwards sold to Theodore Winters.—L. S. G.) Bought by L. S. Ward	260.00
TROTTERS AND WORK HORSES.
No. 11.—Bay trotting mare, seven years old. Bought by Mr. Fowler	275.00
No. 12.—Bay horse. Bought by L. S. Ward	75.00
No. 13.—Grey mare. Bought by L. S. Ward	110.00
Total realized	$2,425.00

"After the sale the brown mare by Sovereign was disposed of to Theodore Winters, Esq., of Nevada, on private terms. The stock purchased by Messrs. Ward and Fowler is understood to have been for account of Mr. John Anderson, who was interested in the importation with the late Mr. Welch."

March 4, 1865.

"DEAD.—The bay mare by Sovereign, dam by Grey Eagle, which was purchased by Messrs. J. L. Eoff and William Woodward at the sale of the late J. P. Welch's stock at San Jose in January, died recently by becoming mired at the ranch of Mr. Woodward, of Napa County. This mare was the dam of Grigsby's well-known horse Volscian, and would have proved a valuable addition to the brood-mares of the State. We sympathize deeply with her owners in their loss."

March 11, 1865.

"DEATH OF VALUABLE STOCK.—Our friend, Mr. John Anderson, has had hard luck with the stock purchased for him at the East, by the late John P. Welch about a year since. It had an unfortunate time in crossing the plains, consequent upon the death of Mr. Welch, and several head died during the journey. Mr. Anderson arrived from Mexico a few days since, and informs us that during his absence information was received of the death of the fine horse Capt. Beard, and a superior Lexington colt named Frank. Capt. Beard was nine years old and was by imp. Yorkshire, dam by imp. Leviathan."

December 30, 1865.

"OCEAN COURSE RUNNING MEETING—SECOND DAY.—The race was a dash of one mile and a quarter for a sweepstake of $750. The entries were Theo. Winters' bay filly Ada C.; J. L. Eoff's bay filly Lilly Hitchcock, and W. Woodward's sorrel filly WAXY. These colts were of the importation of the late J. P. Welch, and were sold at auction at San Jose last Spring, at which time this stake was entered into. The race was won cleverly by Mr. Eoff's filly in 2:24½. The winner is a beautiful animal and appropriately named after the most dashing and vivacious lady San Francisco can boast of:

Ocean Course, Wednesday, December 27, 1865.

J. L. Eoff's b f Lilly Hitchcock by Lexington, dam by Brawner's Eclipse	1
Theodore Winter's b f Ada C. by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan by imp. Emancipation	2
W. Woodward's s f Waxy by Lexington, dam unknown	3

Time, 2:24½.

"THIRD DAY.—The second race was a sweepstakes for $25 each, between the three-year-olds that ran the day previous. At the time of starting but two came to the post, Lilly Hitchcock and Ada C. The race was an easy thing for Lilly, who won it in fine style in 1:53½ and 1:56; excellent time under the circumstances."

Ocean Course, Thursday, Dec. 28, 1865.

J. L. Eoff's b f Lilly Hitchcock by Lexington, dam by Brawner's Eclipse	1 1
Theo. Winter's b f Ada C. by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan by imp. Emancipation	2 2
W. Woodward's s f Waxy by Lexington, dam unknown	Paid forfeit.

The Spirit states that Mr. John Anderson will sell Rifleman, Mary Chilton and the balance of his stock of thoroughbreds, February 10, 1866, and that they will give particulars in next issue. This stock was sold on that date at the "Willows," San Francisco, by Messrs. H. M. Newhall & Co., auctioneers.

SALE OF FINE STOCK AT AUCTION.—On account of departure, all the stock belonging to John Anderson, Esq., will be offered for sale at the Willows, near San Francisco, on Saturday, February 10, 1866, at 2 o'clock, P. M. This stock was selected in Kentucky by the late John P. Welch, with great care and regardless of expense;

No. 1.—The fine thoroughbred stallion Rifleman, ten years old, whose pedigree is well known; he is brother to Marksman, and half-brother to Norfolk. As a stock horse he has no superior.
No. 2.—Mary Chilton, nine years old, by imp. Glencoe, out of Birdcatcher's dam by Eclipse; grandam Queen Mary by Bertrand-Brimmer-Woodpecker's dam, by Buzzard-Fawn, by Craig's Alfred-Moreton's Traveller-imp. Whittington. Brimmer (sometimes called Blue Beard) was by Lamplighter, etc.
No. 3.—Grey mare by Grey Eagle, dam Mary Morris by Medoc, fourteen years old. This mare is the dam of Volscian and other celebrated race animals.
No. 4.—Black colt by Knight of St. George, dam by Wagner; three years old.
No. 5. Black colt by Knight of St. George, dam by Margrave, (the dam of Capitola and Tourist); grandam Mistletoe; three years old.
(Both the above-named colts are well broken to harness and will make a fine match team
No. 6.—Bay mare by imp. Sovereign, dam by Mirabeau; grandam Belle; six years old.
No 7.—Sorrel colt by Ringgold, dam Hope by Glencoe; grandam Susette by Aratus; three years old.
No. 8.—Bay filly by Vandal, dam Miss Singleton by Old Denmark; five years old.
No. 9.—Brown mare, six years old; good, common mare.
No. 11.—Rifleman filly; good buggy mare.
No. 12.—Chestnut mare, six years old, by Oregon Timoleon, out of a four mile race-mare from Kentucky. She is a 3:00 trotting-mare.
No. 13.—Brown mare, five years old, by Boston, dam by Grey Pilot.
No. 14.—Chestnut filly by Jack Gamble, dam Betty King by Boston; grandam Fanny King by imp Glencoe, four years old.
No. 15.—Sorrel mare by Vandal, dam by Grey Eagle; five years old.
Also, a number of the Rifleman colts.
Most of the mares were bred to and are with foal by Rifleman.
Full information in regard to above sale may be obtained at this office or upon application to John Anderson, Esq., 622 Clay Street (upstairs), from 10 to 12 A. M. H. M. NEWHALL & CO., Auctioneers.

The following prices were obtained as reported in the Spirit, viz.:

No. 1—Rifleman. Sold to J. C. Taylor	$1,600
No. 2.—Mary Chilton. Sold to A. Gamble	675
No. 3.—Grey Eagle mare, dam of Volscian. Sold to A. Gamble	340
No. 4.—Black colt, by The Knight of St. George, dam by Wagner	140
No. 5.—Black colt by the Knight of St. George, dam by Margrave	140
No. 6.—Bay mare by imp. Sovereign, dam by Mirabeau, six years	200
No. 7.—Sorrel colt, three years old, by Ringgold, dam Hope by Glencoe	225

No. 15.—Sorrel mare, by Vandal; dam by Grey Eagle	300
Also yearling colt, by Langford out of Mary Chilton (No. 2); afterward known as Thad Stevens. Sold to Alex. Gamble	220

STATEMENT OF WILLIAM WOODWARD.—"I bought Waxy at a sale of horses at San Jose Fair Grounds, January 3, 1865. She was represented to be by Lexington, but I do not remember anything more of her pedigree. J. L. Eoff and Theodore Winters each bought a filly at the same sale. After the sale we went to a saloon, and getting a little 'hot,' made a race to take place in the fall, play or pay, two hundred and fifty dollars each. I sent Waxy up to Nathan Coombs, at Napa, as he had a ranch and track there, with the expectation that he would put her in training for our race, and then forget all about the matter, being engaged in other business, and never having had anything to do with runners. About three or four weeks before the race some one spoke about it, and I went to Napa to see how Waxy was getting along, but learned to my surprise, that she had been running around and nothing had been done. She was poor, lousy, and her hair was coarse and long. Mr. Coombs said it was no use to train her, as she could not be put in any condition to race with Lilly Hitchcock or Ada C., both of which were in fine racing trim. My friends all laughed at me and ridiculed the idea of running her in such form, but it was 'play or pay,' and so I put her in the hands of Bob O'Hanlon, the only man available, to do the best he could with her. At the race she jumped away with the lead, and easily outran her competitors beyond the half; but the lack of work told in the stretch, and she was beaten home. Having no further use for a race horse, I gave her to Mr. O'Hanlon, and never saw her after. I purchased no other horses at the sale, neither did I own one with Eoff, and am at a loss to understand the article you clipped from the Spirit of the Times regarding the mireing and death of a Sovereign mare on my Napa ranch in March, 1865. It is utterly devoid of truth. Mr. Eoff sent Lilly Hitchcock to my ranch immediately after her purchase at San Jose, but a vicious bull on the place attempted to gore her, and she was taken elsewhere.

EAST OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 13. 1889."

STATEMENT OF ROB'T T. O'HANLON.—"Levi S. Gould.—Dear Sir: I was lessee of the San Jose Fair Grounds in 1864. Late in the fall of that year Mr. John Anderson, of San Francisco, brought in from the east a lot of colts, fillies and brood-mares, about fifteen in number, being the balance of the purchase of John P. Welch, who died on the plains while bringing them from Kentucky. On the 3d day of January, 1865, this stock was sold at auction at the above-mentioned Fair Grounds. Among those sold was a light chestnut or sorrel filly with small star and hind feet white to the ankles. This filly was purchased by William Woodward, of San Francisco, who some time after left her with me to train. I distinctly remember that Mr. Anderson or the auctioneer read her breeding at the sale from a small pocket memorandum book as by Lexington; dam by Grey Eagle; 2d dam by Medoc; 3d dam by Sumpter, and that she had crosses of Bertrand and Eclipse. I am positive of this, and also that her dam was a grey mare, dam of Volscian, which they had brought over with her, and am at a loss to understand why her dam was ever represented as unknown. I trained her, and she ran as Waxy one race only against Lily Hitchcock and Ada C., in the winter of 1865, at the Ocean House Track, San Francisco. After that race she was given to me by Mr. Woodward. It was my intention to train her for the next year, but she was injured in the hip in some mysterious way, and was never entered in any race thereafter to my knowledge. While in my hands she threw Alpha, by imp. Hercules, and a colt by Clint Malone, which was afterward stolen; subsequently I sold her to John Hall, of whom she was purchased by Governor Stanford. Having advised Mr Woodward to purchase the filly Waxy, I naturally took a great interest in her, and being in the race-horse business at that time, was very particular in the matters of breeding, and it is impossible that I should be mistaken in regard to the pedigree given by Mr. Anderson at the sale. R. T. O'HANLON.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 12, 1889."

STATEMENT OF JOHN WESTON.—"I came across the plains in 1864. During the trip I frequently met John P. Welch,

who was driving a lot of some thirty or more thoroughbreds selected by him in Kentucky for the California market. He died at Laramie, and afterward it was my melancholy duty to bury his sister, who died on the Sweetwater. I was not in any way connected with Mr. Welch, but was frequently with the train until its arrival at Salt Lake City, where it was met by Mr. John Anderson, of San Francisco, who furnished the money with which to purchase the stock. Mr. Anderson requested me to accompany him through to California, and I did so, assisting in the care of the horses, all of which were in a terrible condition owing to their wretched treatment after the death of Mr. Welch. Beside Mr. Anderson and myself, two younger brothers of John P. Welch came through —one named James, now dead, and the other lives, I think, in Oregon. I believe his name was Frank. I am very certain that they had a list containing the pedigrees of all the horses which their brother, John P. Welch, had in his string. After crossing the river Jordan, this side of Salt Lake City, we lost a very valuable chestnut brood-mare, which probably went to the stable of some honest Mormon. Subsequently another mare, one of the best we had, was stolen by a man who came along in the train, and was ridden away in the night. Pursuit was useless, and so we were obliged to let her go. Some others died, and we left three or four at Diamond Springs, Nev., they being unable to proceed further. Mr. Anderson desired me to go for them in the spring, but I declined. It is doubtful if any of them ever got here. The balance of the lot, some fifteen or more in number, we drove into San Jose, Cal., and left them at the Fair Grounds in charge of Mr. L. S. Ward. They were in a deplorable condition. One filly I particularly remember. She was a sorrel, with a small star and one or two white ankles behind. She was a perpetual nuisance, and many times I felt like shooting her. She would run a mile or two like the wind, obliging us to follow on our fleetest nags. She was the only SORREL FILLY in the lot, and I am very sure her dam was brought through with the train.

STATEMENT OF WILLIAM W. FOWLER.—"On or about the 3d day of January, 1865, I was requested by Mr. John Anderson, of San Francisco, to attend a sale of thoroughbred stock in which he was interested, at the San Jose Fair Grounds, and bid in quite a number of the animals for the account of Mr. Anderson, substantially as reported in the Spirit of the Times, in its issue of January 14, 1865. Mr. L. S. Ward, now dead, bid in others; and there were sales also to J. L. Eoff and William Woodward, as appears in said account. Mr. Anderson informed me that the horses were of the finest racing blood, and that Mr. Welch died in bringing them over, but I can recollect nothing of their breeding.

No. 702 Tenth St., Oakland, Cal., Jan. 13, 1889."

STATEMENT OF W. M. WILLIAMSON.—"To Levi S. Gould. —Dear Sir: I was at the sale of the horses and mares at San Jose Fair Grounds, Jan. 3, 1865, belonging to John Anderson. This stock was bought in Kentucky by John P. Welch, who died on the plains while bringing them over. I saw them often both before and after the sale. They were all in wretched condition, owing to the journey they had taken. Among them was a sorrel filly which was purchased by Wm. Woodward, who gave her, the following year, to Robert T. O'Hanlon, of this city, by whom she was bred to imp. Hercules, the produce being the bay filly Alpha, which won the great race at Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 26, 1873, beating Joe Daniels and others, the fourth heat being run in 1:45. Mr. Woodward named his filly Waxy, under which name she was run against Lilly Hitchcock and Ada C., at the Ocean House Track, San Francisco, in December, 1865, both of the above fillies having been brought to San Jose by Mr. Anderson, sold at the same time, and came across the plains with Waxy. I also remember that Achilles F. Grigsby, now of Napa Co., told me in the year 1865, that he held a power of attorney from Philip Swigert of Frankfort, Ky., to obtain the proceeds of the sale of certain stock intrusted to Mr. John P. Welch, before mentioned, and among others he stated that the Grey Eagle mare, dam Mary Morris, by Medoc, was the property of Mr. Swigert; and I am also firmly of the opinion that he told me the sorrel filly Waxy was another of Mr. Swigert's consignment.

W. M. WILLIAMSON.

SAN JOSE, Cal,, January 10, 1889."

STATEMENT OF ACHILLES F. GRIGSBY.—"Levi S. Gould.— In the year 1865 I received a power of attorney from one Philip Swigert, of Frankfort, Ky., to sell his interest in a lot of thoroughbred stock brought to California by John P Welch, who was to have a half-interest in the venture. Mr. Welch having died on the plains, the stock was bought in by John Anderson, who met it at Salt Lake, and a Mr. John Weston. I corresponded regularly with Mr. Swigert in regard to the stock and business connected therewith, and among other matters he called my attention directly to a certain sorrel filly sired by the celebrated stallion Lexington, saying at the same time that she was out of the dam of Volscian, which stallion I then owned, having bought him of Mr. Swigert in 1860. He said that her pedigree was beyond question, and that she would make me a fine brood-mare. I am certain that I am correct in this statement. This filly was sold at San Jose Fair Grounds, Jan. 3, 1865, and purchased by William Woodward. From my recollection of the correspondence between Mr. Swigert and myself, I am positive that he was the breeder of the filly in question, afterward known as Waxy. The list and pedigree of all the horses in question were entered in a small memorandum book by Mr. Welch, which, after his death, was delivered to Mr. John Anderson, who was interested financially in the venture, and in whose possession I frequently saw and had access to it in settling up the business intrusted to my charge by Mr. Swigert. I also had a list myself, sent to me by Mr. Swigert, of the lot claimed by him, of which the sorrel filly was one, but after strict search I am unable to find it. The Grey Eagle mare, dam Mary Morris, by Medoc, was one of those brought over by Welch and claimed by Swigert. She was the dam of Volscian, before mentioned. ACHILLES F. GRISBY.

WOODEN VALLEY, Cal., Jan. 8, 1889."

STATEMENT OF FRANK WELCH.—"I started across the plains in 1864. My brother John P. died at Fort Laramie, Wyo. Ter., on the 22d day of July. My father died in the Black Hills on the 27th of the same month, and my oldest sister, Mary, died at Sweetwater, on the 10th of August. My brother, James J. and myself arrived at San Jose, Cal., with seventeen horses in November, 1864. I remember the sorrel yearling filly with star in forehead and white hind feet that came through with the lot to San Jose, Cal. We had a white mare by Grey Eagle which had a sorrel filly by Lexington, that I think my brother got from David or Philip Swigert. A man named John Jackson, also a man by the name of C. Pope, came, I think, with them from Kentucky. Pope left us near Fort Laramie, and Jackson at Sweetwater. I first saw the horses at St. Louis. FRANK WELCH.

WESTMINSTER, B. C., Jan. 21, 1889."

STATEMENT OF JERRY B. WELCH.—"My brother, John P., was a civil engineer in Oregon several years prior to his residence in California. He was born near Syracuse, N. Y. His grandfather was a noted stage proprietor of the olden time in Harrisburg, Pa., where he used over three hundred horses in that line of business. John and myself owned a ranch in the Willamette Valley, Or., and becoming interested in thoroughbreds, he determined to visit Kentucky and purchase some of the best blood to be found. As a result he brought Rifleman, Mary Chilton, which was the dam of Thad Stevens, and other noted horses to Oregon. Subsequently he took them to California, and became interested with John Anderson, who furnished money to return to Kentucky for a fresh lot about the year 1863. On this trip he purchased a large lot, and while on his return died at Fort Laramie of brain fever in the spring of 1864. Such of the stock as survived were brought through to California by his younger brothers, James and Frank, who were accompanied by a man named John Weston. James is dead, but Frank is a dentist, and resides at New Westminster, B. C., Can.

JERRY B. WELCH.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 16, 1889."

STATEMENT OF L. BRODHEAD.—"Levi S. Gould.—Dear Sir: I enclose you a list of the mares bred by Mr. Philip Swigert to the stallions at Woodburn. Among them you will observe that in the year 1861 the grey mare by Grey Eagle, dam Mary Morris, was bred to Lexington, and season money paid. In 1862 the grey mare by Grey Eagle was returned to Lexington without charge, indicating she was barren in 1862. It was not positive that the grey mare was barren in 1862, as she may have taken the place of the old mare, Ann Innis. In 1863 the grey mare was not bred to Lexington, indicating that she had a foal in 1863. The Grey Eagle mare may have had a foal in 1862; but as no charge was made for the season money in 1862, the chances are she was barren in that year and bred as a return mare. In addition to the evidence above that the grey mare missed in 1862, I find a memorandum in a blank-book here, giving a list of mares that missed to Lexington from the service of 1861, and the Grey Eagle mare is in this list. * * * Satterwhite says Dick Jackson was with Welch. I think, with what you have, the pedigree of Waxy is conclusively proven, and you can get your article ready. The sooner it is published the better. I forwarded some letters to you, and I hope they gave you some additional information.

L. BRODHEAD.

WOODBURN FARM, KY., Feb. 6, 1889.

STATEMENT OF W. SATTERWHITE.—"Levi S. Gould.—Dear Sir: Below I give you a statement of all that I remember about a transaction between Philip Swigert of Frankfort, Ky., and a Mr. Welch. I was the manager of Mr. Swigert's farm from January, 1860, to January, 1865, and had charge of all his thoroughbred stock. In the spring of 1864, Mr. Swigert made a contract with Mr. Welch to let Welch have ten head of thoroughbred mares and colts to take to California, to be sold on shares. Below I give a list of those that Welch got:

No. 1.—Bay mare by Grey Eagle, dam the Churchill Mare.
No. 2.—Dark chestnut filly by Vandal, dam No. 1.
No. 3.—Grey mare by Grey Eagle, dam Mary Morris by Medoc.
No. 4.—LIGHT CHESTNUT FILLY BY LEXINGTON, DAM No. 3.
No. 5.—Chestnut mare bought by Dr. Warfield, that we call the Warfield Mare [Hope, by Glencoe (?)].
No. 6.—Colt out of Warfield Mare, No. 5, This colt was a bay, small, but very nice, one year old, and I think he was by Swigert's Lexington (he by Lexington, out of Ann Innis

"There were four others, but I cannot remember positively about them. I think there was a filly by Bob Johnson, out of a mare by Brawner's Eclipse, that we called the 'Keenon Mare.' The Vandal Filly (No. 2) was a very dark chestnut, and very handsome. I do not think she had any white markings. The Lexington filly (No. 4) was a light chestnut, with some white markings. I think both these fillies (No. 2. and No. 4) were foaled in 1863—am sure No. 4 was. My recollection is that both were yearlings in 1864. I assisted Mr. Welch in taking the stock from Frankfort to Georgetown, Ky., and did not see him afterward, but learned from Mr. Swigert that Welch died crossing the plains, and that little or nothing was realized from the venture.

W. SATTERWHITE.

EMINENCE, KY.

STATAMENT OF GEORGE MCMURTRIE.—"In the spring of 1864, being out of health, I concluded to make an overland trip to California, and started in company with John P. Welch, who was in Kentucky collecting stock for the Pacific Coast. I do not recollect of whom he purchased any of the animals. We left April 13, 1864, and drove the entire distance from Kentucky via. St. Louis and St. Joseph. There were thirty-seven horses and colts if my recollection serves me aright—many of which perished before I left them. After the death of Welch, his father and sister, I took the stage through to California, and telegraphed to John Anderson, of San Francisco, the condition of things, as I understood he was interested in the stock. A man named John Jackson, now living in Kansas City, was with us from Lexington. The stock was in charge of Welch's two younger brothers after his death—Frank and James J.

GEORGE MCMURTRIE,
CINCINNATI, Ohio. Clerk, St. James Hotel.

A careful analysis of the foregoing evidence, culled by the writer through personal interviews with all parties who have either made oral or written statements, with a single exception—that of Frank Welch, who resides in British Columbia —convinced him that there could be but one logical and reasonable conclusion, viz., that but one sorrel or chestnut filly came in the lot to San Jose, and that she was one of the Philip Swigert lot out of the Grey Eagle mare. With this thought in his mind, and a complete history of Waxy previous to entering the Palo Alto Stud, he turned his back upon the verdant and flowery slopes of the Sierras, to prove his work at "Woodburn," the resting place of the mighty Lexington. Its courteous and genial manager entertains his guests as a broad head with a broad heart only can; and so it came to pass that every assistance was rendered, and the fact was brought to light that Philip Swigert bred the Grey Eagle mare to Lexington in 1861, and returned her barren in 1862, when she was again bred to the same horse. To identify the foal of 1863 was the main question at issue. Philip Swigert, a wealthy banker and breeder of Frankfort, Ky., had been dead many years. So also was his executor, and his papers were scattered. Mrs. Swigert, a very old lady, rendered every assistance in her power, but no proof as to sex, color, or marks of the produce of that year could be found. In this dilemma it seemed as though all trace was lost; but luckily Mr. Satterwhite, who was Mr. Swigert's overseer for many years, was found, and stated that he recollected the circumstances of the Welch matter perfectly well. He states that Mr. Swigert let him have ten head of stock, and they were to be sold on shares. He says he also remembers that Mr. Swigert told him later on of the death of Welch, and that the venture was a total loss. He says he distinctly recollects that the Grey Eagle mare, out of Mary Morris by Medoc, with her yearling chestnut filly by Lexington, were in the lot taken away by Welch. Thus the identity of Waxy is established: First, through the record of sales of January 3, 1865, at San Jose, Cal. Second, through the statement of Robert T. O'Hanlon. Third, by that of A. F. Grigsby, supplemented by that of W. H. Williamson. Fourth, by that of John Weston, supplemented by that of Jerry B. Welch. Fifth, by that of Frank Welch, supplemented by that of George McMurtrie. Sixth, by the Stud Service-Book of Lexington at "Woodburn;" and, finally, by the testimony of Mr. Satterwhite, the overseer of Mr. Swigert at the time of the transaction with Welch.

Briefly summarized, Waxy was bred by Philip Swigert, of Frankfort, Ky., and foaled in 1863. With her dam she crossed the plains in 1864. As a two-year-old she was sold by auction to William Woodward, at San Jose, January 3, 1865. On the 27th day of December, 1865, at the Ocean Course, San Francisco, Cal, without proper preparation, she was beaten in a race against Lilly Hitchcock, by Bob Johnson, and Ada C., by Revenue. This was her first and only race. Mr. Woodward gave her to Robert T. O'Hanlon. In her three-year-old form she was permanently disabled by an injury to her hip, and was bred to imp. Hercules, the produce being the great race-mare Alpha. Bred again, she produced a bay colt by Clint Malone, by Owen Dale, which was stolen. O'Hanlon sold her to John Hall, of Alameda, Cal., deceased, from whom she passed into the Palo Alto stud, where she died January 24, 1882. She was a light chestnut or sorrel, had a small star on the forehead and two white hind feet. She was by Lexington, and her dam was the Grey Eagle mare, by Grey Eagle.

As a deduction from the foregoing history, the pedigree of the sorrel two-year-old filly by Lexington, sold to William Woodward by auction at San Jose, Cal., January 3, 1865, is tabulated as follows, viz:

Waxy, s m, foaled 1863 by Lexington, dam Grey Eagle mare by Grey Eagle. (See p. 496, Vol. I. Bruce's Stud-Book) second dam Mary Morris by Medoc: third dam Miss Obstinate by Sumpter; fourth dam Jenny Slamerkin by Tiger; fifth dam Paragon by imp. Buzzard. Bred by Philip Swigert, Frankfort, Ky.

1855—gr f Eagless, by imp. Glencoe. (A famous broodmare. Among her produce were the following great racers: Mary Clark by Lexington; Lizzie Lucas by imp. Australian: Steel Eyes by Planet; and Grey planet, for which August Belmont paid $10,000.—L. S. G.)
1856.—gr f by Ivanhoe, son of Boston.
1857—b c American (afterward Volscian), by Vandal. (A celebrated sire in California.)
1858—b c Native by imp. Sovereign.
1859—b f Priscella by imp. Scythian.
1860—ch f Annette by Lexington, (dam of Ansel by Electioneer.
1861—ch f Jenny H. by the imp. Knight of St. George. (A famous brood mare at "Woodburn."
1862—Missed to Lexington.
1863—s f Waxy by Lexington.
1864—Not bred.
1865—Not bred.
1866—gr f Della by Rifleman.
1867—gr f by Lodi (Gilroy Belle.)

She was sold at the "Willows," San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 10, 1866, to Alexander Gamble, who bred her, as above, to Lodi. She was again sold by auction of the effects of Alexander Gamble at Menlo Park. Cal., and purchased by James P. Sargent, of Sargent's Station, Santa Clara Co., Cal., on whose ranch she died about four years after. Mr. Sargent is of the impression that he raised three colts from her not enumerated above, from trotting-sires, but could not at the time identify them.

From the above it will be seen that Waxy was a full sister to Annette, dam of Ansel, by Electioneer.

The Chicago Horseman Contradicted.

Five weeks ago a paragraph appeared in "Grim's gossip" which has been extensively copied, and in justice to the papers who used the clipping, we deem it necessary to publish the correspondence on the subject.

BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN February 9th.

Mr. J. B. Haggin, is reported in a Chicago paper as saying, "that he had several horses still left in the American Derby, and from the present appearances and movements of two of them, either will have little trouble in beating Sam Bryant's much-talked about Procter Knott, and they'll be there when the drum taps for the start in the rich event." Mr. Haggin is a gentleman, and could not possibly use the language quoted above. He does not brag about his horses in that sort of style.

CHICAGO HORSEMAN, FEBRUARY 21, 1889.

"Mr. 'Grim,' of our San Francisco contemporary, seems too fastidious to mingle with mortals, especially the patrons and supporters of the turf. The eminently proper remarks concerning the American Derby by a California owner were strictly correct as printed, although Mr. Grim's womanly sense of propriety evidently received a severe shock because an owner expressed his opinion in his own way. Don't be too zealous, dear 'Grim.'"

OFFICE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.
FEBRUARY 27, 1889.

Mr. J. B. HAGGIN—

Dear Sir: Will you be kind enough to look over the enclosed slip which I clipped from the Chicago Horseman and reprinted in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN with my own comment thereon. Please let me know if the language attributed to you is correct. Yours respectfully,

"GRIM."

NO. 1 WEST 25TH STREET.
NEW YORK, MARCH 7TH, 1889.

GRIM—

BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN'S OFFICE.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

My Dear Sir: I have your favor of the 27th ultimo, with slip of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. In reply I beg to express my thanks for the contradiction you have made of the language imputed to me relative to my horses. You are right in stating that I never used any such. In fact, I do not remember ever to have spoken of the American Derby or the horses I have in it for 1889. Suffice it to say, if I ever did mention the subject, it was only to state that I had two or three entries in it. I need not repeat to you what you already know, that I am not in the habit of talking about my horses, and certainly not of bragging about them. Races and race-horses are too uncertain for a man of sense to do that. Repeating my thanks, I am,

Yours very truly J. B. HAGGIN.

Pacific Coast Trotters.

The following carefully compiled list comprises all the horses now in the 2:30 class, at present in California, and who are liable to start during the coming season. There may be an omission or two, and if corrections are necessary we will esteem it a favor if our readers will advise us of any changes which ought to be made. This list should be preserved by the secretaries of the various associations.

Name Claimed.

I claim the name of John H. Thompson for my two-year-old colt, by Monroe Chief, dam Eva P. by Ben Wade, foaled April 29, 1887. He is a bright bay, four white feet, star in forehead, stripe on face, and has black spots among the white hair on his pasterns.

VETERINARY.

Conducted by Thos. Bowhill, M. R. C. V. S.

Subscribers to this paper can have advice through this column in all cases of sick or injured horses or cattle by sending an explicit description of the case. Applicants will send their name and address that they may be identified. Questions requiring answers by mail should be accompanied by three dollars, and addressed to Dr. Bowhill, 1523 California St., San Francisco.

State Veterinary Society.

The quarterly meeting of the State Veterinary Association was held at the Baldwin Hotel yesterday. Hitherto the meetings have always been held in the office of the Breeder and Sportsman, but as the Society has increased in size rapidly of late, it was deemed expedient to secure larger accommodations. Dr. Thomas Maclay, of Petaluma, who was elected president at the last meeting, occupied the chair, while A. McCullum, of Sacramento, filled the position of Secretary.

Several of the members read essays on the ills which domestic animals are subject to, on the conclusion of which animated discussions were indulged in by many of the gentlemen, the papers read, forming the text for the arguments. The sanitary condition of Butchertown was a theme on which all present had more or less to say, the general opinion being that abbatoirs should be built, as in Eastern cities, and all animals inspected by veterinarians, appointed for the purpose, before the animals were killed. Many of the doctors present attested to the filthy condition of Butchertown, and strongly protested against the present arrangements, which at present are a disgrace to the city. The inaugural address of Dr. Maclay was a prominent feature of the proceedings, but as we have been promised the manuscript in full, no further mention for the present need be made of, as the entire address will be published in the Breeder and Sportsman next week.

George Warner, Springfield, Mass.

It is claimed that the feeding of oil-meal to young stock causes them to be unfertile and unprolific as breeders. Would you recommend the entire disuse of this feed for young stock intended for breeding purposes? If not, what quantity may be fed with safety to yearlings and two-year-olds?

Answer.—Overfeeding on linseed or oil-meal cake induces a septic condition of the blood. Analysis of oil-meal cake have shown that it contains over 22 per cent. of nitrogenous materials, whilst dried wheat contains only 12-47 per cent. of albuminous or nitrogenous compounds. The following is the analysis of oil-cake by Professor Johnston:

Water	10.05
Mucilage	39.10
Albumen and Gluten	22.14
Oil	11.93
Husk	9.53
Ash and sand	7.25
	100.00

Excess of nitrogenous matter producing as above mentioned a septic condition of the blood causes young stock to be unfertile and unprolific in a great degree. I would recommend your entire disuse of oil-meal, except to give your colts and fillies about two ounces of meal daily for ten days or so—every spring and fall when they are casting their coats.

Stallion Stakes.

That good all round and enthusiastic horseman, Wilfred Page Esq., of Sonoma County, sends us the following letter, which is well worth the attention of all horse owners in California. We shall be pleased to hear the opinions of those interested in the subject.

Is the National Stallion Race to die with the year of its birth? If breeders will reflect for one moment only that the starters in the last have since sold for almost unprecedented prices, it seems to me they should require no urging and would lose no time in getting up a second 'National;' or, if advisable, two of them, one free for all, the other for the 2:22 class, with Stamboul 2:14¼, Director 2:17, Sable Wilkes 2:18, Dawn 2:19½, Ansel 2:20, Albert W. 2:20, Palo Alto 2:20¼, Bay Rose 2:20½, Alcazar 2:20¼, Jim L. 2:20½ and Mount Vernon 2:21, eligible to the free for all and Menlo 2:21½, Victor 2:22½, Juno 2:23, Valensin 2:23, Alban 2:24, Shamrock 2:25, Mortimer 2:27, Jim Mulvenna 2:27¾, Carlisle 2:28¾ Albion 2:29, Eros 2:29½, Gossiper 2:29½, Balkan 2:29½, Soudan 2:30 and Memo, trial 2:20¼ with others that are a good deal faster than their records indicate, to fill the 2:22 class. California should be able, even though not a single eastern entry were made, to attract such a multitude as would dwarf last year's attendance at the 'National.'

Or, better still, if Stamboul were barred and matched against Patron or any other comers from the east, and with the additional attraction of two and three year old Stallion Colt Stakes, such a treat might be offered as has never before been witnessed in the annals of the trotting turf.

Gentlemen and breeders, let us hear from you! Don't let your best advertising card go by default!

A Talk With Matt Byrnes.

Matt Byrnes was found this morning in his cosy study, says the Sporting World. He has sold Marsac to C. W. Billings for $1,500, and Winfield to Walter Olney for $2,500. He has only one more to dispose of, and that is Guarantee. He will probably carry the rest through the season. He was speaking this morning of declaring Firenzi out of all the handicaps, and said: "Well, it was just this way. She is in the very best of health now, in fact, she was never better in her life; but she is a comparatively small mare, and the task some people would have had me ask of her, was, in my judgment, entirely too much. On last year's performances she was, of course, properly handicapped; but when you try to reduce a race-horse to a selling plater's level, by piling on weight, you are very likely to break down the race-horse. Why, she is actually asked to carry hurdle weight. It does not happen more than three or four times in a man's life that he runs across such a mare as Firenzi; in fact, he may train horses fifty years without even seeing such a one. While it may have taken him a lifetime to get such a horse, it will not take him a year to lose her—that is, if he asks impossible things of her. Then again, Firenzi is never quite as good in the spring as she is later on, and perhaps it is just as well to save her, especially as there will be no scarcity of racing. But even if there was not another meeting during the year, I would rather retire her to the stud perfectly sound than run the risk of breaking her down. She was promptly declared out of all the handicaps simply because we did not want the public to bet on her in future books when we knew that she would not start."

Byrnes says that all his horses are doing first class, but that as none of them will face the starter before the spring meeting at Jerome Park, he is not in any particular hurry. They are all ready for light work, and just as soon as the track is in condition he will have them out. He is more impressed with the improvement Salvator has made than any horse he has seen, and if the son of Prince Charlie does not turn out one of the crack three-year-olds, he will be very much disappointed. He has grown greatly during the winter and is as handsome as a picture, and, what is more, is as sound as a horse ever was.

WILKES PASHA.

STANDARD 2618.

Dark bay with white hind feet, 16½ hands high, bred by R. P. Pepper, of South Elk Horn Farm, Frankfort, Kentucky. Sired by Onward, 1411, record 2:25¾, trial 2:17. He by GeorgeWilkes, 2:22, sire of sixty-five horses in the 2:30 list, ten of them with records below 2:20. First dam Fisher (dam of Clara Wilkes, 2 29¾, trial 2:25) by American Clay, 34, sire of Granville, 2:26; Maggie Briggs, 2:27; Ella Clay, 2:27½; and the dams of Executor, 2:24½, Ranchero, 2:23½, Judge Hawser, 2:21¾; Ambassador, 2:25, and nine others in 2:30; second dam by Wilson's Snow Storm, sire of Jim Irving, 2:24; third dam by Paddie Burns, thoroughbred.

Onward, 1411, is one of the noted sires of to-day. In 1887 he placed seven performers in the 2:30 list, including Houri, three-year-old record 2:19¾; while in 1888 he still further sustains his reputation by adding nine of his sons and daughters to the list. Onward combines the blood of the two great trotting families, Hambletonian 10 and Mambrino Chief 11, and derives his speed inheritance direct through the greatest son of the one family, and the greatest daughter of the other.

Onward's dam was Dolly (the dam of Director, 2:17, and Thorndale, 2:22¾), by Mambrino Chief. Dolly was one of the greatest speed-producing brood mares that ever lived. George Wilkes stands at the head of the list of sires of fast trotters with 65 performers with records of 2:30 or better, and the combination of these two great producers will breed on with absolute certainty.

WILKES PASHA will make the season of 1889 at the stables of the undersigned, at the Trancas Bridge, two miles north of Napa, on the Soda Spring Road.

TERMS,

For the season ending July 1, 1889, $35 in U. S. gold coin.

Alfalfa pasturage $4 per month; natural grass $2.50 per month.

Every attention and care will be given to mares, but no liabilities assumed for accidents or escapes.

Grim's Gossip.

Russia, a full sister to Maud S., has dropped a foal by Electioneer.

There are two one-mile tracks and one three-quarter track on the Haggin Stock Farm.

The noted trotting mare, Fanny Witherspoon, lately gave premature birth to a pair of twins, by All So.

The Santa Clara Valley Agricultural Society will hold their annual Stallion Show, at San Jose, to-day.

The entries for the Southern California Racing Association closed yesterday. We will try to publish the list in full next week.

Matt Allen, who has charge of Senator Hearst's horses, has them further advanced in training than any other lot of horses at Sheepshead.

Parties in the East are negotiating for the fast trotting mare Geneva S., and it is altogether probable that she will change owners, the price being $15,000.

In the hundred head of horses to be sent east from Palo Alto Stock Farm, when the annual sale takes place, there will be forty of the get of Electioneer.

A three-year-old colt, half brother to Judge Murray, has been purchased for $5 000; G. H. Kernaghan was the seller, and J. G. Greener the buyer.

Robert Bonner paid a recent visit to Woodburn, and after critically examining Lord Russell expressed the opinion that properly shod, he would stand training.

Galore the imported race horse, has had a severe attack of the strangles, a sort of throat trouble, but is now much improved. A surgeon has operated upon him.

Race goers in New York hold the opinion that only the top weights will have any chance in the big spring handicaps. Nearly every turf writer believes this to be true.

During the severe gale last Wednesday night, about an eighth of a mile of the fencing around the Bay District track was blown down. The loss will approach $300.

The new owner of Marsac has changed his name to Aces Up, and it is to be hoped that with the new cognomen he may prove as fast as Four Aces, or as good a horse as Jack of Hearts.

In addition to building up a grand stock breeding establishment, Mr. J. W. Robinson, of Los Angeles, will send two trotting mares East this season, to be handled by Knap McCarty.

C. W. Billings has purchased of J. B. Haggin, the three-year-old chestnut colt Marsac, by King Ban out of Miss Miller. It is probable that he will have him ready for a race before very long.

The celebrated pacer Ubet, with his running mate, was sold last Tuesday, by Mr. John H. Erby, to K. Brown, of hotel fame, Omaha. The price is stated to be $7,500. Ubet and mate's time is 2:07½.

The New York World, in addition to devoting a column and a half to the sale of the California horses, also gives pictures of five of them, and passable portraits of Messrs. Rose, Corbett and Valensin.

Landlord Seymour, of the Russ House, was out on the road last Saturday with his magnificent four in hand. His skillful handling of the ribbons proves Mr. Seymour to be a thorough horseman.

Mr. J. B. Haggin has made 203 entries for the Monmouth Meeting. Senator Hearst having 129 entries. The Maltese Villa Stock Farm and E. J. Baldwin's entries had not been received at last accounts.

There are many who think that old Barnum will be able to face the starter once more. Since his retirement from the abominable tracks at Clifton and Guttenburg, the faithful old horse has improved wonderfully.

Gentleman interested in driving and racing are agitating the track question at Suisun. There is so much interest manifested in the matter that my correspondent writes me that it is almost bound to be successful.

Two weeks ago a gentleman advertised in the columns of this paper for the address of Joseph Matthews who formerly worked for General Bidwell at Chico. Mr. Matthews writes to say that his address is still Chico, Butte Co.

Quite a number of persons have tried to purchase Baron Wilkes, but heretofore Col. Stoner has refused all offers. A few days ago on being asked to name a price for the noted stallion he at once replied $75.000 will buy him.

Mr. G. Valensin, of Pleasanton, has purchased from W. H. Wilson of Abdallah Park, Cynthiana, Ky., the fast four-year-old Duke Simmons by Simmons, first dam by Strathmore, second dam by Clark Chief, third dam by Strader's Clay.

Mr. J. D. Spreckles of this city, has purchased from Mr. John Corbitt of Sonoma county, two colts, one four years old and the other five, both by Alexander, sire of Alexander Button, sire of Yolo Maid. The price paid is said to be $600.

My Denver correspondent writes that the horse industry is receiving more attention than ever before. At least 150 racers are wintered at the Overland Park Club now, and there are additions almost daily. The outlook for the May meeting is splendid.

Jessie Ballard, 2:25, the property of W. J. Robinson, of Los Angeles, will be bred to Stamboul within a few days, Mr. Rose having wired permission from New York. She will be the only outside mare to receive service from Mr. Hobart's late purchase.

While politics are always tabooed in the columns of this paper, I cannot help mentioning that Gen. B. F. Tracy, the newly appointed secretary of the navy, is the owner of Marshland Stock Farm; the premier stallion of which is, Mambrino Dudley, 2:19¾, sire of Crescendo, 2:24, and Gretna, 2:49½.

The St. Louis Republican speaks of the crack Californian Ganymede. It is hard to determine why the Grinstead colt should be termed "a crack," for although he started ten times last year, he only won once, and then in less than ordinary company.

All Eastern journals have a good word to say for Spokane, belonging to the Montana stable. Three months ago I warned the owners of Galen, Salvator, Proctor Knott and the Favordale colt, to watch Spokane as he is known to be very speedy.

Many have doubted the wisdom of breeding Marion last year to Joe Hooker instead of Norfolk, as has been done so many seasons, but they will be pleased to hear that the dam of the Emporer of Norfolk, etc., has this year been stinted to to old Norfolk once more.

The late Turf Congress abolished the allowance of three pounds to geldings, and yet in Australia the turf authorities are going to increase the allowance to five pounds, the object being to encourage the gelding of horses, as the country is overrun with stallions of inferior quality.

I regret to learn that Mr. J. H. Shults has lost the services of Pancoast, sire of Patron, 2:14½, through the accident that happened last June, when lightening struck the stable. Pancoast was so injured at the time, that he lost his sight, and was so paralysed that he can never do stud duty again.

A prediction was made in the gossip columns a few weeks ago, that Shelby Barnes, the noted light weight jockey, would ride for the Dwyer Bros. this season. The rumor is now verified and "Pikey" will have to answer to a second call on his services, from the owners of Hanover, Sir Dixon and Kingston.

Richard Barnes, of Salt Lake City, Utah, has been expelled from the American Trotting Association by order of the Sixth District Agricultural Association of Los Angeles; also J. Sorenson, of Portland, Oregon, with his mare Susie S. by order of the Washington Territory and Idaho Fair Association. The way of the transgressor is hard.

A grandson of Geo M. Patchen Jr., viz. Alex. Button 2:26½, sired Yolo Maid, three-year-old pacing record, 2:14! A granddaughter of Geo. M Patchen Jr. viz Glidey by Gladiator produced, Almont Patchen, pacing record 2:15! Both records were made in 1888. Where is the next stallion which can show two such creditable grandchildren in one year?

Wanted, a combination sale of California trotting bred colts and horses to take place under cover at San Francisco, between January 15th and February 15, 1890, just about the time eastern breeders wish to come and thaw out a bit. Such an institution would prove a great boom to small breeders on this coast.

Dan McCarty has returned from a two weeks trip through the Southern portion of the State. He reports breeders as being enthusiastic over the prospects, and thinks the stockmen in that section are fully alive to the merits of performers and producers. He made several important purchasers while away.

M. Saulsbury, Esq., has been asked to name a price for Direct, by a Boston gentleman. Not being anxious to sell the fast young stallion, a very large amount was named, and an expert has already examined him to see if the horse warrants the price asked. In all probability Boston will capture another of our fine trotting horses.

Col. R. H. Warfield, the well known banker of Healdsburg, was in the city during the early portion of the week, and in a lengthy conversation with the gentleman I found that he was as well posted on horse matters as he is on finance. It is to be hoped he will find time to put his shoulder to the wheel with Wilfred Page, and become one of the promoters of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association.

Jockey McLaughlin says that Ben Ali was the meanest brute he was ever astride of. "When that horse wanted to win," said he, "he was usually the best one in the race, but if he took a notion to stop I don't believe prodding him with a red-hot iron would have induced him to strike a winning gait. He was the only horse that I ever saw that really had a mind of his own. He couldn't and would not be persuaded to do his duty."

The American Cultivator, of Boston, in alluding to the sale of California horses at the late New York sale, says, "most men who went from the vicinity have been busy for some time collecting accounts and banking the funds. Many of them left with firmly set teeth and blood in their eyes, which indicates that somebody must pay a pretty stiff figure for their favorites. At this time it would be easier to attempt to tell who stayed at home than who attended the sale."

"Hark Comstock," one of the keenest students of the breeding science and a close observer of its progress, recently remarked that in selecting a sire it is wise to choose a good individual bred in fashionable lines, but it is wiser to go further and select from a strain that has produced famous animals, and thus have a relative of horses that are constantly coming into public notice.

On the 12th of last October, I saw the Illusion Stakes, mile an an eighth, heats run for, at Jerome Park, the contestants being Yum Yum and Banner Bearer. Word reaches me from New Orleans that Mr. Lamasney's horse is only now recovering from the effects of the fearful race Yum Yum gave him, and for many weeks it seemed doubtful whether Banner Beaver would ever face the starter again.

There is a gentleman in Kentucky, who in advertising his stallion (an Electioneer), states that Addie is the dam of Mannette trial 2:19¾. I should very much like to know where and under what circumstances, Mannette ever made such a trial. If it is a fact, then Mr. Wilfred Page's stallion, Eclectic, should be a rare good one, as Mannette is also the dam of Woodnut 2:16½ and Manon 2:21, (trial 2:15½).

Some of the young men in our town, says the San Leandro Reporter, who have been in the habit of speeding their horses happened to meet last week, and in a discussion which followed as to the relative merits of the horses no agreement could be reached. The outcome was that a race was proposed and the following gentlemen entered their horses and deposited twenty-five dollars with Mr. J. A. Gallett as stakeholder. Mr. Carl Iversen enters Maud S.; Mr. John Lavin of the Junction House enters Junction Maid; Mr. Frank Webber enters Modjeska, and Mr. P. Matthews enters The Little Wonder. The race will take place on Sunday, May 11th, at the Oakland Race Track, and will be for the best two heats out of three.

Mr. Craig of Sacramento is at the Grand Hotel. He has come down to purchase some fine stock about which he has been corresponding.

The New York Spirit of the Times says: "Orrin Hickok has made an assertion that he has a young pacer that can beat any pacer in the world. The Sire Brothers say that he can be accommodated by them if he will come east, and will match the pacer Gossip Jr., against him for any amount of money. This is a bona fide offer." Yes, it is to be presumed that it is bona fide, but has not Frank Van Ness also a pacer that he could enter? It might not be a bad idea for the Sire Brothers to wait until they are re-instated before they offer to make matches with gentlemen.

Space is so limited this week that it is not possible to give the odds on all the horses entered in the Brooklyn and Suburban Handicaps, as announced by Cutler and Whitney who advertise this week, but the principal horses are laid against as follows: Brooklyn Handicap, The Bard, 25: Terra Cotta, 35: Hanover, 40; Eurus, 40; Egmont, 40 Gorgo, 45; Prince Royal, 45; Raceland, 50; Exile, 50; Elkwood, 50; Belvidere, 50; the balance ranging from 60 to 150 to 1. In the Suburban; The Bard, Terra Cotta and Hanover, each 35 to 1; Eurus, 45: Egmont, Aurelia, Elkwood, Yum Yum and Gorgo, 50 each; the balance being from 55 to 150 to 1 each. Next week I shall try and give the odds laid against all the entries.

Killip & Co. announce that on Tuesday, March 26th, they will sell at public auction, various consignments of horses, consisting of Normans, Clydes and Shires. They are all pedigreed animals and warranted as represented. Farmers interested in draft horses should not let this opportunity escape to secure a first-class animal, for it is rarely that such a lot are offered at public sale. The different consignments may be seen daily at the Bay District track, where every facility to examine them will be offered by the parties in charge.

In the advertising columns, Messrs. Killip & Co., the popular firm of auctioneers, make an announcement that should arrest the attention of all who either own short horn cattle at present or who contemplate going into that most excellent breed. The splendid herd of Mr. W. H. Howard, is offered absolutely without reserve. Mr. Howard has made the San Mateo Rancho notable as a Short Horn centre, and his herd comprises many registered bulls and cows, beside fifty head of high grade cows and heifers selected from the famous milking herd of the rancho. No greater special inducements have ever been offered to purchasers, the cattle being thoroughly acclimated, and accustomed to California ranges.

Catalogues may be had either from Messrs. Killip & Co., 22 Montgomery St., San Francisco, or from Mr. W. H. Howard, 523 Montgomery St., San Francisco.

The salaries of some of the leading jockeys last year, together with the amount of money won on outside mounts, are reported as follows:

	Salary.	Outside Mounts.
Murphy	$10,000	$6,000
McLaughlin	10,000	6,000
Garrison	10,000	7,000
Hayward	7,000	3,000
Barnes	4,000	1,000
Fitzpatrick	6,000	2,000
Donahue		5,000
Shaner	7,000
Anderson	5,000	2,000
Taylor	5,000	3,000
Littlefield	5,000	5,000
Totals	$69,000	$40,000

In alluding to the great sale in New York, the Times says, Scott Quinton's purchases are for the recently established stock farm "Rosemede," near Helena, Mont., which is nominally conducted by Marcus Daly, who represents the syndicate which recently purchased Favonia for $15,000. It is understood that Mr. J. B. Haggin, the famous thoroughbred breeder, is back of the enterprise, Mr. Dily being the manager of Mr. Haggin's Anconda copper mine. Mr. Haggin, if he is the backer of the enterprise, was a large and liberal buyer, and that is perhaps the reason why Scott Quinton was able to shake off all opposition from any horse he really wanted, even that of the Brooklyn millionaire baker, John H. Shults, who bid $25,000 for Mascot, and who alone fought for the prize after Luke Broadhead, David Nevins and others dropped out, when the bids, which began at $5,000, reached $20,000.

Mr. Rose is a curiosity among horse breeders, as on three or four occasions he pointed out defects in his horses which would have escaped a casual observer, and which affected the prices of the animals considerably. In a half dozen instances he offered to buy the horses purchased at an advance of from $100 to $200, but in no case did he succeed. In the case of one filly bought by John E. Madden, he without any necessity, offered to pay all training expenses and buy her back at the sale price if she didn't prove a first-class trotter. There was an air of honesty about him that caught the public, because it was a decided novelty.

A few evenings ago I had the pleasure of viewing privately the paintings which will in a short time decorate the walls of the Baldwin Hotel. They are seven in number, and comprise the principal horses on the Santa Anita Ranch. The first is a full size portrait of the Emperor of Norfolk, in which every look of that grand horse is clearly depicted, and to add to the surroundings two of the colored lads who were with the stable last year are seen in the act of throwing "craps." A homestead scene shows the Queen Ann cottage and fish pond, with Mr. Baldwin and his daughter, Anita, in the foreground, surrounded by a pack of Mastiffs. Grisette is the leading feature in another of the pictures, with a group of famous brood mares close at hand. Volante is depicted standing in front of the "smithy," with the blacksmith in the attitude of rolling up his sleeves. Grinstead, Mr. Baldwin's especial favorite, is presented near a stable, with the stable boys exercising horses a short distance away. In the prospective we see old Baldy covered with snow, this picture being a particularly happy one in light and shadow. Los Angeles, Miss Ford, Caliente, Silver Cloud and Golish are also seen in others of the paintings, the entire lot making the most handsome collection to be seen on the Pacific Coast. The artist, Mr. H. H. Cross, of New York City, also has with him, a life size picture of Electioneer, which is pronounced by many to be a perfect gem, and it seems to the observer that at almost any moment the horse would step out from the canvas. They are an exquisite lot, and reflect great credit on the talented artist.

ATHLETICS.

An Olympic Club Announcement.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—An amateur handicap billiard tournament for members of the Olympic Club, will be held at the club rooms, commencing Monday evening, April 1, 1889.

Entries positively close Saturday evening, 23d inst.

The tournament will be divided into two classes—for first and second class players.

Two handsome prizes are offered winners of first and second place in each class.

The tables have been thoroughly renovated, and will be in first class condition.

Entries are numerous and every effort is being made to render this tournament the most successful ever given by the club.

THE GUN.

California Wing Shooting Club.

A worse day than Sunday last for pigeon shooting could not be imagined, the rain pouring heavily and the wind swishing the water into the eyes of the shooters, draggling the birds, making the footing sloppy and generally spoiling things. Nevertheless, ten thoroughbred members of the California Club went down to San Bruno, by the 10:39 train, and began the first club match of the season, among them Champion Crittenden Robinson and the two most recent accessions to the club, Messrs. Lewis and Smith. Messrs. Haas and Sperry came from Stockton solely to shoot in the match.

The ground has recently changed hands, Mr. Dick Cunningham having leased the hotel and all his lands to a newcomer, who promises all sorts of improvements, and declares an intention to cater carefully to the wants of trap shots.

Shooting began as soon as the party reached San Bruno, and progressed through five rounds when the storm became so severe as to preclude anything like satisfactory work, and the sport was suspended, to be concluded at the next regular meeting of the club, on April 14th.

Three members, Messrs. Robinson, Knowles and Haas tied on four out of five, Mr. Haas using his second barrel but once. Mr. Fay, skylarking as usual, let three escape. Mr. Sperry also allowed three birds to die out of bounds. Score:

At 12 birds. Hurlingham. For club prizes.

Robinson	1	2	0	1	1
Fay	0	0	1	2
Knowles	2	1	0	1	2
Haas	0	1	1	1	1
Sperry	1	0	0	0	1
Lewis	1	0	1	2	0
Smith	0	1	5	1	2
Osborn	1	1	0	0	w
De Vaull	0	0	2	1	w
Heeth	2	0	0	2	w

All Round Shooting.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—We have just had a regular all round shooting match here, and as such an event is of rare occurrence, I will give your readers a resume of the shooting.

As the weather has a good deal to do with all out of door sports, it is as well to state that the 26th of February was a lovely day, bright, clear, warm, and with but little wind, so that when Messrs. Z. K. Straight and A. W. DuBray, both of Walla Walla, commenced shooting, which they did at about 1:30 P. M., everything seemed favorable for the making of big scores.

The conditions of the match were as follows:

15 single live pigeons, 30 yards rise, 5 ground traps.

5 pairs live pigeons, 21 yards rise, 2 ground traps.

15 single Peoria Blackbirds, 2 traps screened 10 yards apart, Peoria bird rules.

5 pairs Peoria Blackbirds, 2 traps screened 10 yards apart, Peoria bird rules.

The match commenced with the pistol shooting, then rifle, then live birds, and last the Peorias, and the scores were as follows:

PISTOL.

Straight, out of possible 125 points	94

RIFLE.

Du Bray, out of possible 125 points	119
Straight, out of possible 125 points	119

SINGLE LIVE PIGEONS.

Du Bray	1	0	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	0	1	1—13
Straight	1	0	1	1	0	1	1	1	0	1	0	1	1	0	1—10

DOUBLE LIVE PIGEONS.

Du Bray	10	10	10	11	10—6
Straight	11	10	01	01	00—5

SINGLE PEORIA BIRDS.

Du Bray	1	1	1	1	1	0	1	1	1	0	1	0	0	0	1—10
Straight	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	0	1	1—14

DOUBLE PEORIA BIRDS.

Straight	10	11	11	11	10—8

Total number of points—Du Bray 266, Straight 250.

One word as to the pigeons. Out of the fifty birds shot at there was not one that was anything but a clipper, while at least eight out of ten were either straight away zig zag going drivers or right quarterers. The writer frankly confesses that he never saw as many hard birds, for at the opening of the trap the birds darted out, never getting more than a couple of feet off the ground; and had they been made up of steel springs and electricity, it is doubtful if they could have whizzed along any faster. Each man on the singles lost one dead out of bounds. The double bird shooting was poor, but it must be remembered that with such bird cork-screws it is extremely hard to kill them all. These birds had all been shot at frequently were all old ones and had been cooped only a few hours before the match.

The Peorias were thrown full force and medium low going from 50 to 55 yards, so these also were rather lively to catch up and considering the little practice Mr. Straight has had on such birds, his shooting was certainly remarkable.

The match throughout was conducted in an orderly manner, and many of our best citizens witnessed the shooting, while it was freely admitted that as an all round shoot nothing of its kind had ever been seen here before.

Both men used Smith & Wesson revolvers, Winchester single shot 32-20-115 rifles and Parker 12 gauge shot guns in which latter they shot the justly celebrated Selby Standard Cartridges so that their battery and ammunition were as efficient as this world can produce as to accuracy, reliability and effectiveness all the way through, and it will be many a long day before we have as pleasant and enjoyable an affair of this kind again. GAUCHO.

WALLA WALLA, March 2, 1889.

The Blue Rock Club.

The club will hold its first monthly competition for the season of '89, at Adams Point this afternoon, beginning at 2 P. M. Visitors should go to the boat house at Lake Merritt in Oakland, from whence they will be carried to Adams Point by a steam launch. The club has been in existence two years, and its meetings have invariably been occasions of much pleasure. The match to-day is at twenty single Blue Rocks and five pairs.

Succeeding matches will be shot on Saturday, April 13th., at ten single Blue Rocks, Hurlingham, and ten pairs on Saturday, May 16th.

The officers of the club for the year are president, J. O. Cadman; vice-president, W. E. Mayhew; captain, Dr. S. E. Knowles; Major, S. I. Kellogg.

It is especially requested that the Secretaries of the trap shooting clubs will send the official scores made during the coming season. It is the desire of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN to present perfectly accurate resumes of all sportsman's events, and there can be no better authorities than the recording officers of the clubs. Scores and reports should reach this office not later than Wednesday.

Mention has often been made of the art work of Mr. E. W. Moore, the champion amateur shot of the Northwest and one of the truest sportsmen of the country. Mr. Moore's crayons of scenes in the field and of noticeable dogs are very fine, but he has recently outdone all previous efforts by securing several photographs of friends in the act of shooting swans and canvas backs over decoys near Portland. The pictures tell a story that every sportsman must read with interest, and they have beside, much value because they show the approved method of making blinds and setting out decoys.

THE KENNEL.

The official organ of the English Kennel Club, the Kennel Gazette, in the last issue says: "Mr. John Lee Bulled has entered into partnership with Mr. Le Bruette, of Jefferson, Wis., U. S. A., and their dogs are being shown and run in Field Trials on both sides of the Atlantic in the name of the firm. Mr. Bulled has just shipped to his partner, from Glasgow, by a steamer specially chartered for carrying horses, a strong team of dogs. This includes the pointers Molton Baron, Witheridge Sambo, Devon Betty, and Devonshire Belle; the blue belton Devonshire Fan, a brace of American Gordon setters, Devon Grouse and Devon Mona; the greyhound bitches Carmine and Legal Coin, and three puppies by Molton Baron—Village Star. As some of the bitches are in whelp the consignment is an important one. Some pointers and setters entered for our Field Trials by this firm will leave for Wisconsin immediately after the running."

Mr. John White, of Bridgeport, Conn., who has for many years been in the service of Mr. F. R. Hitchcock and other distinguished sportsmen as a dog trainer, recently proved that he possessed a tenderness of spirit and a delicacy of fancy hitherto unsuspected. About Mr Hitchcock's pointer Tammany which died recently, John White writes:

First to welcome, and foremost in the chase.
His deeds, record; his memory, crown with fame,
Ye canine sons, arise! commemorate his name.
Faithful to his master, and ever true was he,
For him alone he lived and sought for victory;
And from many a well-known champion's son
The honors of the day he won;
If ever beyond this life there be
A place where all our friends we'll see,
Then, Lord of all the planets seven,
Let me have old Tom to hunt in Heaven.

Sale.

Messrs. Frasher & Adkinson, Los Angeles, have sold to Mr. O. Morgan, Los Angeles, the stone-gray mastiff Napoleon, whelped January 8, 1889, by Wellington—Cassandra.

From Los Angeles.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—I think it will hardly be possible for us to condition our mastiffs for the Pacific Kennel Club show. The recent whelping of Cassandra has put her much out of form. We will, however, make every endeavor to have some entries, and since you hold out your hand for a shake in so kind a spirit, we will be present anyhow.

I would like to know the price of the American Kennel Stud Book referred to in your last issue, and where I can get it. I shall write you notes about all of the good dogs owned in this vicinity as soon as I have seen them.

LOS ANGELES, March 11, 1889. ANDREW ADKINSON.

[The A. K. C. Stud Book costs $2 per volume, and may be had on application to A. P. Vredenburgh, Secretary A. K. C., 44 Broadway, N. Y. The better way to secure forthcoming volumes is to join the A. K. C. as an associate member, and receive the "Kennel Gazette" and Stud Book upon the payment of $5 annual dues.—KEN. ED.]

Pacific Kennel Club.

The Executive Committee of the Pacific Kennel Club met at 419 California street last Monday night to hear reports of the sub-committees appointed to arrange various details of the dog show to be given from May 22d to 28th at Mechanic's Pavilion.

The Committee on Premium List reported that the list, together with accompanying entry blanks, would be ready next Saturday, and would be sent to all fanciers on the Pacific Slope within two weeks.

On suggestion of Mr. Briggs a class for Airedale terriers was added to those already listed, and prizes of $5 and diplomas ordered.

The committee to select a superintendent, Messrs. Schreiber and Briggs, reported in favor of E. H. Williams, and he was chosen to fill the place.

It was ordered that no dog be received at the show unless provided with a suitable, strong, plain leather collar and chain of strength sufficient to hold the animal beyond possibility of breaking.

Letters from James Mortimer of New York, and John M. Tracey of New Haven, were read, in which the writers intimated their willingness to judge at the club show, but pleading previous engagements.

Mr. Briggs was appointed a special committee to arrange for supplies of food for the dogs during the show.

Chairman Haught and Messrs. H. R. Brown, H. W. M. Sandbach, William Scheiber and T. J. O'Keeffe spoke encouragingly of the prospects for a good show, and said they were sure more than 500 dogs would be shown, besides a full exhibit of poultry and pigeons.

Occidental Coursing Club.

The annual meeting of the Occidental Coursing Club was held on Wednesday evening last at 324 Montgomery Street, President S. O. Gregory in the chair.

Treasurer Abbot, in making his annual report, said that twelve months ago the club had about twenty members, all of them coursers of the better sort, whose interest was in sport simply, and not in any pecuniary advantage which might result from connection with coursing. The club had held three meetings, all of which had been successful, whether considered in point of attendance or in the excellence of the dogs which were entered. The club had demonstrated the possibility of giving thoroughly good meetings without the pool box or saloon accompaniments. In spite of the great expenditures, the club was solvent and in a much better condition every way than a year ago. A peculiarity of the field meetings had been the very large number of ladies present, all of whom had enjoyed the excitement.

His cash statement was as follows:

Balance on hand March 13, 1888, $9.85; received for entrance fees and dues during the year, $196.50; Expenditures—Stamps and stationery, $5.30; printing, $30 50; sundries, including prizes, etc, $156 90; total, $192.70. Balance on hand March 12, 1889, $13.05.

Messrs. T. J. Cronin, R. E. Wilson, John M. Adams and F. C. Zimmerman were elected to membership.

On motion of Mr. Abbot the by-laws of the club were so changed as to make the initiation fee $5 in place of $1, the sum hitherto paid.

The resignation of Dr. J. M. Sharkey from active membership was offered and accepted and that gentleman was elected to honorary membership in recognition of his lifelong devotion to coursing.

The prizes won at the meeting on February 22d were then presented by President Gregory.

The owner of the winner, Pat Molloy, received $50 and a crayon portrait of the dog. The picture was by Mr. H. Boyd, one-third of the size of the dog and a very accurate likeness.

Jas. E. Watson of the runner-up Saturday night, received $30.

It was moved by Mr. Briggs that at all future meetings crayon portraits of the winner and runner-up be ordered to form either the whole or part of the prizes offered.

The motion met with general approval, but action was deferred until the monthly meeting.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, S O. Gregory; Vice-Presidents, T. J. O'Keefe, D. W. Swain, Thomas Hinds, S. J. Milliken; Treasurer, S. L. Abbot Jr.; Secretary, J. F. Carroll; Executive Committee, H. E. Deane, H. Wormington, H. Boyd, J. E. Watson, R. E. Wilson.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, the American Field and the daily press, for full reports of all meetings and general encouragement of the club during the last year.

Stella Alive.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—I see by the last issue of your paper, that I ("J. R." which should be R. M. Dodge) had shot my bitch Stella. I am happy to say you were misinformed. Stella is well and hearty, but had the misfortune to lose her puppies. She was watched very closely, but they were never seen. I am inclined to think she ate them. Have you or any of your readers, ever heard of a bitch eating her young. There is no doubt of her having had one or more.

SALINAS. R. M. DODGE.

[We shall be pleased to receive answers to Mr. Dodge's query from such readers as may have had experience. We once owned a bitch that devoured two successive litters. KEN. ED.]

The recent successes of Colonel North, the English courser, have made his name universally known. An English writer says of him and his dogs:

"Colonel North began his coursing career at the beginning of last season, his first purchases being, we believe, the Irish puppies, Duke Macpherson, Mask Man and Mane Maid. The two latter failed to realize their early promise, but with Duke Macpherson the Colonel nearly won the Waterloo Cup at the first time of trying, for it will be remembered that the Duke won five courses before succumbing to Barnaby in the final. It was a cruel piece of luck that the dog should have died in October last, of distemper, and before he had had another chance of distinguishing himself. The other two greyhounds which reached the semi-final stage of last Waterloo Cup, Dingwall and Caterham Apostle, were both purchased by Colonel North after their prominent running, and the former, after beginning very badly for his new owner, captured the Scarisbrick Cup at Southport last week, this being the most important event that has yet fallen to the subject of our sketch.

During the present season several small stakes have been won by the dogs from the Colonel's private kennel at Eltham, which is now looked over by George Charlton, late of Redcar, and who has begun well for his employer by the beforementioned victory of Dingwall. The sensational sale at the Barbican in December will long be remembered by coursing men, and amongst others Fullerton was then knocked down at £850, Miss Glendyne at £510, Bit of Fashion at £200, and Miss Kitten at £160 to Colonel North; and these greyhounds, along with Trough End (£470) and Hunic Holloa, are all trained for their owner by Mr. Edward Dent and his henchman, Watty Ingles, at Shortflatt Tower in Northumberland The only place where the new combination has yet put in an appearance was at Kempton last month, and although the Shortflatt representatives all went down early in the Champion Stakes, Miss Kitten brought them to the end of the "City of London" Stake. Mr. Dent has been a prominent figure in the coursing world for the last eight or ten years, and has won more stake money than any other courser of our time. Princess Dagmar was under his charge when she won the Waterloo Cup. He had the dividers, Miss Glendyne, and Bit of Fashion, in 1885, and in 1886 he won outright with the former. Mr. W. J. Hope-Johnstone has acted as adviser to Colonel North in coursing matters, and it was by his sound judgment that Duke Macpherson and others were purchased.

Miss Glendyne began by dividing the Gosforth St. Leger with Mr. Gladstone's Fisherman. She then divided the Waterloo Cup with Bit of Fashion; the next year she won it. In 1887, after winning two courses, she was drawn lame, and last year, after going down before Herschel, in a poor trial, she won the purse. Bit of Fashion's best form was shown when she divided the Newmarket Champion Puppy Stakes and the Waterloo Cup as mentioned above. Fullerton had only been out once, when, after performing brilliantly, he was beaten by his fresher opponent, Greengage, in the final course of the Haydock Champion Produce Stakes last October.

A Rabbit Drive.

The rabbit drives which are resorted to to rid Kern County of the pestiferous jack rabbits, have attracted general interest and have been frequently described, but never so graphically as by Mr. Sherman, city editor of the Kern County Californian, of the drive at Mountain View Dairy last week, that charming story teller says.

The town is just awakening; but somehow not with the early morning leisure of a common day. There is haste in the bedroom, haste at the meal, hasty footsteps go to and fro, haste, even by some magic touch, is in the air. What is it; why is it? "A rabbit drive out in the country." Oho!

Four-horse farm wagons, floored in liberal width and generously supplied with alfalfa spring seats, go up and down the streets. The password is "All aboard for the rabbit drive." There is tumbling on, with fun and merriment, and one after another the loaded wains pull out for the place of general rendezvous. Vehicles of all sorts, regular, pressed and improvised, follow in rapid succession. The town is deserted, but the converging roads are filled with gay cavalcades.

Once afield, mounted commanders speedily bring order out of what seems co.fused chaos. Those who wish to drive are assigned their posts. The eager contingent which has been there before and knows the fun is ranged out afoot, in skirmish line, each man jack of them armed with about a two-foot shillelah. Now, while the commander is consulting with his eager aids, let us view the scene. A half circle of vehicles, interspersed with men and boys on foot, facing a level plain spattered with sagebrush, and, perhaps a mile off, in the dim distance, a hencoop sort of thing with wide-stretched picket wings, the goal,—and not a living thing between. "Forward" comes the word; on like clockwork moves the impatient line; the impetuous and the lazy, each after their manner, to be checked or urged by the watchful aids. Some boy—it is always a boy for the first—rattles at a thicket of sagebrush. Out comes with royal jumps a jack-rabbit. Bounding easily away for a little, the babel of sound which assails him seems to bring reflection; he scuds to the right, to the left, then drops his ears, and makes a straight shoot for a gap in the gang, dodges through, and is free and away. No time for him, speed on. Rabbits spring from every bush.

The eye, in watching one, tangles up with another and another as they criss and cross, bound ahead, swing to the right, swerve to the left, break through the ranks, and constantly increase as if by magic. By this time, even the daintiest of those who ride have felt the fervor of the chase, and all who can have dismounted and joined the eager footmen. And from the crowd there come resounding cries, like unto which was ne'er before heard on land or sea. Soon, Bunny seems to have found leaders, and the leaders have become possessed with fear, and away they rush. No more shifting and turning, but away, away from this babbling crowd of tramping human kind. And so on, to the goal they rush, crowding, jumping, scurrying, and behind them with quickening footsteps a living line, shoulder to shoulder. Teams are crowded out, the quick pace becomes a run, and now wing is joined to wing by a close column of footmen. Now the pace retards, the noise decreases, the rabbits pour into the wide-open door of the pen. "Gently now, keep quiet," and as the last rabbit enters, the nearest and quickest man closes the gate, while not a human voice is heard. But from the rabbit thousands come thousands of piping baby-cries. They are pathetic, they almost still the blood, yet every man and boy who can climb a fence gets right over into that pen and strikes away for dear life, sparing neither himself, nor his friend, nor his friend's friend. The arm is crazed, fever is in the brain, butchery is a delight. And whomsoever has not yet experienced the delirium of a rabbit drive, of him it must be said he hath not lived half a life.

Spaniel Training.

Spaniels are neglected in breeding, care and training, to a degree that is inexplicable to one who knows the wonderful susceptibility to teaching which they almost invariably manifest. There is a whole world of sport to be had with keen, obedient spaniels, and we know of no better suggestions for training than those made by Mr. D. Boulton Herrald in the current issue of our most excellent exchange Outing. Mr. Herrald is at home in writing of the breed and what he says may well be preserved and studied by those who own spaniels. He writes:

Many a dog is ruined for the field by injudicious training. With all the good intentions in the world he trains his puppy to retrieve, using a stick or a stone, and encourages him to chase the sparrows in the street, because, forsooth, he thinks that checking him would have he effect of blunting his hunting enthusiasm when on game. The result is a dog that reduces the birds to a pulp while retrieving them, and who rushes about the covert at railroad speed, hundreds of yards ahead of the gun, flushing the birds far out of range, and chasing everything he sees, until, exhausted, he is forced to return to his master and rest.

The following lines are penned especially for the benefit of the sportsman (and his name is legion) who pursues this mode of training (?) in the hope that his next spaniel, taught under the rules laid down in this article, will be at least an improvement on the one he at present owns.

Before commencing work, remember that you must always be firm but kind, and that above all things you must not lose your temper with your pupil. Never give in to the dog; always make him do what he is told. Be sure that he knows what he is being punished for when it becomes necessary to do so, and don't delay the punishment long enough for him to forget for what he is being corrected. Do not stint your praise when he does well.

The first lesson to be taught is retrieving. The nearer the puppy is to two months old the better, in my opinion, for our purpose. Some writers recommend waiting until he has lost his milk teeth and the new ones are well grown in, as they say that a dog taught to retrieve before getting rid of these first teeth is apt to be hard-mouthed in retrieving birds, etc.; but the experience of the writer has been that if properly taught, however young, the puppy will not develope that evil habit. If a youngster of any "go," he can be taught more easily at that age, though a dull one cannot be taken in hand so early.

Roll an old and soft woolen sock into a ball, then sit down and call your pupil to you. Push the ball in his face to attract his attention to it, making him try to take hold. Then, throwing it six inches away, say "Go fetch it, Jack" (as we will call him), motioning him towards it with the right hand at the same time. If he refuses to pick up the ball, go to him, and, placing it in his mouth, force him to go with you to the place you threw from, making him hold it until you have said, "dead bird!" or "dead!" Should he refuse to give up the ball, force his jaws open with the thumb and second finger of the left hand inserted at the base of the jaws, removing it with the right, saying the while, "Dead!" dead!" Never pull anything away, as he will pull too, and a nice state your partridge or duck would be in were such a proceeding permitted. He must be taught to drop whatever he is carrying when commanded to do so by voice of sign. For a sign, hold up the right hand, with the forefinger erect and the rest folded. Never let him worry nor mou h anything.

Should he pick up the ball and run away, refusing to bring it to you, take him bebind the shoulders and drag him to the place where you were sitting when it was thrown. Make him hold the ball until you get there, and then proceed as hereinbefore directed. He will soon learn this lesson. Throw the ball farther and farther as he progresses, and continue until he is perfected in it.

When he has learned to retrieve the throw ball he can be advanced a stage. Show him the ball, not letting him take it, and, saying "Dead!" place it on the ground and walk away, telling him to follow. After going a few steps, turn, and, waving the hand in the direction in which he is to go, say, "Go, seek dead!" Should he fail to understand your meaning, go back, show him the ball, and after some little distance order him to get it and then deliver it to you.

When three or four months old, if he is perfect in his other lessons, take, say, a game bird's wing, or in default of that, a fowl's, show it to him, and, putting him out or the room (I am supposing that you teach him in the house), shut the door. Then hide it where it can be easily found, and let him in, saying, "Go, seek dead!" motioning the direction in which he is to quest. Continue this for some time until he does it perfectly, hiding the wing in out of the way places about the house as he progresses.

Never let his search be a fruitless one. If he cannot find for himself, show him the hiding place, and make him fetch the wing to the place from which you sent him.

To teach the puppy to retrieve from water after he has learnt to do so on land, take him, when the water is warm, to a shelving beach. First throw his ball to the water's edge (for this work some cork shavings in it), then into the water far enough to force him to wet his feet, and so on, farther and farther, until at last he is obliged to swim. This shoul l be gone about gradually, and with extreme care, so as to give him confidence in his powers. Above all things do not throw him into water over his depth, as it will only tend to make him dislike it, and may ruin him for water retrieving altogether. It is well to make your pupil retrieve sometimes in the dark, as if only worked by daylight he is apt to depend too much on eyesight, which practice must not, of course, be tolerated for a moment.

The next lesson to be taught is "coming to heel." When you are out walking, and he is running ahead, call sharply, "Heel, Jack—heel!" forcing him behind you at the same time. Should he try to break away, tap him smartly with your whip or walking-stick, saying, "Heel! heel!" Continue this until he will come in at once when called, and thrash him if he breaks away without the order to "hie on" or "go on." To teach this, wave the hand forward while verbally giving the order, and run a few steps onward. This lesson will be easily inculcated, and it will be to him the most welcome order he has to obey.

Few spaniels in this country are trained to drop to shot or command; but presuming my reader to be desirous of giving his pupil a finished education, I will describe an easy mode of teaching it. Order him sharply to "drop!" when standing beside you, at the same time forcing him to the ground by placing the knee on his shoulders and keep him there for a few moments, saying "Drop!" drop!" Then removing your hand or foot from off him, say "Up!" making him rise. When ordering him to drop, hold your right (or left) arm erect above the shoulder, so that in time he will associate the uplifted arm with the verbal command. In due course he will drop at the signal alone. Do not allow him to get up until ordered to do so, whether you walk away and leave him or not.

Next take some firearm, a muzzle-loaded horse-pistol for choice, and, commanding him to drop by voice and sign, fire it. In time he will associate the report with the other orders to drop, and so "drop to shot."

Never weary your pupil; stop the lesson before he tires of it. Always have him alone with you when at work, as his attention must not be distracted from the matter in hand. Never deceive him. It is well to reward him now and again for good behavior with some dainty of which he is fond. Use the whip as little as possible; but when you do whip, whip soundly.

And now for the field. On arriving at the covert in which you propose beginning operations, order him in; instinct then teaches him to quest for a scent. At first allow him to range at will to put a keen edge on his appetite for the work, and do not check him when so hunting. If he goes too far away, hide carefully and make him find you without assistance from you. He will think he is lost, and be wary of going too far in future.

When he begins to enjoy his work thoroughly you can begin to curb his ranging propensities. If he runs too far, call "Close, Jack—close!" and should he persist in doing so, thrash him, repeating the while, "Close! close!" He should not be allowed to range farther than twenty or twenty-five yards from the gun.

Should he give chase to a flushed bird, shout "Ware chase, Jack!" and if he persists, call him in and thrash him, repeating the order whilst doing so. If he springs a hare and attempts to chase her, shout "Ware fur, Jack!" and call ing him to where you stand, scold and thrash him He must be broken of noticing "fur" at all hazards.

When you shoot the first bird over him, order him to "go seek dead!" motioning the direction in which it fell. If he cannot find it, go and find it for him, then pointing to it, say "Dead!" and calling him to follow, go back to where you stood at firing, and order him to get it. If he refuses to pick the bird up, put it in his mouth and force him to carry it to where you stood. Order him to put it down, and praise and make much of him, and ten to one next time he will retrieve. Use every endeavor to kill the first bird you fire at to his flush.

After this, "practice makes perfect," and the reader will in time own a dog of whose accomplishments afield he may be proud.

As will be seen by reference to the advertisement, the Pacific Coast Blood Horse Association, announces that their annual spring meeting will commence on April 20th and continue to the 27th. The programme is an exceedingly good one and has evidently been prepared with much care. Horses of all classes have a chance and as the purses are very liberal, the entries will undoubtedly be very large. We have frequently been asked when the Blood Horse Meeting would take place, but have not been able to answer authoritively until now. As there are so many horses that will have gone through the Los Angeles, Fresno and San Jose meetings, by the first date, a very large number of horses will be quartered at the track and the entries should be larger in numbers than ever before, and we shall feel sadly disappointed if such is not the case. Good weather is the only thing necessary to insure a successful meeting.

The Welcome Rain.

An Eastern "newspaper man" was a welcome visitor at the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN Wednesday, and expressed his surprise that what to him was a discomfort elicited universal approbation among the residents. A continuous downfall for a week, mud in all of the streets, grey skies in place of anticipated sunshine, gloom and sombreness in lieu of elasticity of spirits, the climate of the Hebrides where fancy pictured a dry, balmy atmosphere beyond that of the vale of Cashmere, or the most favored shores of the Mediterranean. Had his visit extended over February, when scarce a drop of rain fell, when the verdure which the November and December rains promoted became colored with russet tinges, when the roads were deep in dust, with the least knowledge of the necessities of mother earth for copious libations in order to perform satisfactorily her maternal duties, he would have had a better realization of the benefits which brought thankfulness and praise.

With the rains of the past few days come an assurance of a prosperous year, indications of the most bountiful return in every department of agriculture, horticulture, and also in natural products. In many sections where alfillerilla, wild-oats and burr clover seemed on the point of extinction, we hear of rejuvenation, and a growth of these best of all grasses for horses, especially colts, which is a surprise to those who looked for barrenness.

Just at the right time came the dispensation, and the copiousness of the grant ensures water for other purposes which are of the greatest importance. Then, too, if our friend will contrast the warmth with the snows, sleets and frosts of an Eastern March, he will see little cause for grumbling over the petty discomforts he has encountered.

The National Trotting Stallion Stake.

With the announcement from the judge's stand on the 20th of October last that Stamboul had won the National Trotting Stallion Stake, the effects did not end. Like a pebble thrown into a still pool of water, the first splash made the most noise, but also, to follow the comparison, the circles became wider and wider as they diverged from the center, not even culminating in the $50,000 paid for the winner, or the $26,000 paid for his two-year-old son. That Mr. Rose was benefited by the victory of Stamboul to an amount not less than fifty thousand dollars, is susceptible of proof, and that in adddition to the stakes and other profits accruing.

There was a great sensation when the grand young horse defeated Arab at Los Angeles, intensifying that by making the fastest time ever made by a stallion in California. He was granted to have all the races he was engaged in at his command, and that at Oakland, Sacramento, Stockton, and San Jose there would be a repetition of conquests. His second and third races came very near dethroning the idol, and though he partially recovered his prestige at San Jose, the cloud still hung over him. Woodnut had shown such decided superiority in the Grand, not only over Stamboul, but also Guy Wilkes, that had it been ordained that the two should not come together again, he would have been rated by a majority of the horse-talking public as the better of the two. There were good reasons for giving him the preference. The race he won was the fastest of the stallion series, and he not only displayed superior speed, but at the same time demonstrated that he possess endurance. As a rule public opinion trended to the idea that Stamboul was not a "dead game" horse. The races at Oakland and Sacramento had a tendency to strengthen that estimate, and his most ardent admirers were ready to acknowledge that that was his failing, though the only one which could be marked against him. His victory in the National established his supremacy over Woodnut his four heats removed the obloquy of softness, and wiped out the charges which were recorded against him.

Had that opportunity been wanting, in all probability he would have been taken home at the close of the circuit, and his victory over Old Tempus been at least postponed. Therefore, he not only turned the tables on Woodnut, but also accomplished the lowering of a record at first disputed, and then when admitted, claimed to have been made under circumstances which were so favorable that it was not likely to be repeated while Anno Domino 1888 was still on the calendar. That the horse was capable of doing even more than he had shown, does not invalidate the position that the National to him was the turning point in his fortune. From that day, when the cheers of thousands greeted his well-earned victory, he stood on a higher pedestal. Defeats were regarded as skirmishes when his whole force was not brought into engagement, the battle won, eradicating all the unfavorable expressions heretofore uttered, and placed the garland of championship around his neck. More than that. When the hurrahs resounded through the immense building when Mascott was declared sold for twenty-six thousand dollars, it was but an echo of the National reverberating from the Pacific to the Atlantic, an enlargement of the circle from the Bay District track to where the radius reached across the continent. Truly, Mr. Rose has a right to say that good came from the inception of that stake, and the breeders of trotting horses in California have all gained an advantage, if not so direct, by the good fortune of the proprietor of Rosemeade.

Driving an Engine.

There is little analogy between driving a trotter and tooling a steam engine. In England the engineer of a locomotive is called an engine driver, and following that custom we claim membership in the ranks, though our machine is stationary, and only of one horse-power at that. We have a preference for a single horse when speed is the main object, and though the second place is all that can be awarded to a pair of higher-bred trotters "hitched" to a light road wagon when a horse-picture is the study, the rig is surely entitled to that distinction. The first must be given to a fair equestrienne, mounted on a faultlessly formed thoroughbred, and with the accompaniment of verdant turf and grand old trees, and whoever will deny this estimate cannot be the possessor of æsthetic taste or a proper appreciation of beautiful combinations. While the beauty of rider and horse is enhanced by the sylvan picture, more pleasing than when the scene is laid on city streets, or among the throngs which view a race, so the pair show to better advantage on a smooth stretch of road than is offered on the still smoother track, but the single fast trotter is only in his full glory when winding up a hotly contested heat, a head or maybe a neck in advance of his competitor.

There is majestic motion in a huge Corliss engine when ponderous piston and massive balance wheel move with the ease and precision of a Dent chronometor, and there is life and animation in the little one-horse plaything as it makes 450 revolutions in sixty seconds, and sets the cog wheels on an Alert pump, rattling and clattering as it lifts a column of water of no small dimensions more than twenty feet from the well, and forces it full forty feet higher, to fall in splashes in the elevated tank. This prelude, which has the merit of being short, is the overture to answering a whole volume of questions propounded by some of our readers, and which others, who do not seek the information, are also interested in. The question is in relation to the expediency of using steam in place of windmills to elevate water, and there are few of our California farms which are not dependent on wells for the water supply, and, as a rule, employ force to raise the fluid to a height which will render it easy of distribution. Windmills are uncertain, and even in the locality where our residence is fixed, that part of Oakland east of the Golden Gate, and therefore in the direct track of the western winds, there may be many consecutive days when the dispenser of ærial currents is chary of his favors. Therefore the resolution was taken to declare absolute independence of the king of the winds, and call upon a more reliable agent, a servant who never balked or sulked when properly handled.

After due deliberation the conclusion was reached that an engine of one horse power was sufficient to draw from the well, and raise to an altitude of forty feet, water enough for household purposes, including bath, water-closets, etc., and to supply ten horses with aqueous refreshments, wash sulkies and carts, and water quite an area. Practice has demonstrated that conclusion to be correct, with margin enough to do lots of other jobs which would "come handy." But the question most frequently asked was in relation to the skill required to drive the engine, and though our experience is confined to a little more than one week, we have no hesitancy in replying that any person with average mechanical ability can do so after a few lessons. The engine consumes coal oil, which is prepared for combustion, at first by air pressure until steam is gotten up, and when that reaches twenty pounds, the vapor takes the place of air, and with no further trouble on that score, fire and water do their part. What with air pump, "diaphragm," patent lubricators, governor, valves, "petcocks," guages, and all the rest of the paraphernalia of the little motor, it has a complicated look, but as we feel that we have mastered it with one lesson from the machinist, who set it up and put it in motion, some study, and we must confess a little tribulation at times, after two warming up heats everything goes along so smoothly that there are no fears for the future. On forms where power can be used advantageously for other purposes beside raising water, it will afford effective service, and one of our main reasons for applying steam to pumping was its ready conversion to any use where that much power would answer.

No more filing and grinding of the foot surface of tips. An emery wheel attached to the lathe, and that belted to the engine, a stack of tips, far higher than those which our associate has drawn out about the Suburban, will be brought to a nicety of level in short order, making a perfect connection between horn and metal, when the foot is put in right shape. The foot surfaces of tip or shoe should be as true as it is possible to make them, and of uniform thickness. That is, uniformity in corresponding parts. The posterior metal may be thinner than that at the toe, but in that case there should be a regular taper. An emery wheel, revolving with the rapidity which will be easily obtained with an engine making 450 revolutions in a minute, will cut away the superfluous metal rapidly, and a contrivance to ensure the desired thickness being uniformly reached, will not be difficult to invent.

In this connection it will not be out of place to state, that as soon as we can spare the time to superintend the making of patterns, we shall have them made and sent to Cleveland, Ohio, where we are informed there is a foundry where malleable iron work is done. The tips which were cast at the Judson Works were the best we have used, and if these can be duplicated in Cleveland, that trouble in connection with tip-shoeing will be done away with. Hundreds of applications for specimen tips have been received, only a small portion of which could be supplied, as the blacksmith who does our work has little spare time outside of his regular business.

Outing.

Oftentimes we are disappointed in getting hold of the magazine which has the above single word head line for a title, and when a number is captured and carried home for leisurely perusal, the resolve is made that measures will be taken that there shall be no miss hereafter.

The March number, however, makes amends for the loss of several in one way, in another the regrets are intensified. It may be that those not seen were as good as that which has just been received. In that case the loss being serious, but then again there are articles which are so very interesting, that, that being left is a recompense. "Fox Hunting" by Plantagenet, Henry H. S. Pearse, is one of the pleasantest sketches of that fascinating sport that we have read for many a day. A paragraph or two will not convey a proper impression of its value as a whole, and were there space enough we should be tempted to infringe on the copyright to a greater extent, trusting that publisher and author would condone the "lifting." The author exhibits a knowledge of horsemanship as well as the possession of rare powers of description, and those who drive trotters on the road as well the track, will do well to ponder over the sentences describing the preparation for the water jump.

There has been no check yet, but just a brief pause where the fox changed his course, and hounds are driving on as if he were now only a field ahead of them. The scent is breast-high, and they have no need to stoop to it. Nor do they throw their tongues freely; the pace is too good for that. Like cavalry charging with a broad front, they carry what sportsmen call a good head. At every twist and turn there is keen rivalry for the lead, as first one and then another flashes out in front and swings to the scent like a yacht keeling over on a new tack or a swallow turning in mid-air. There is just a shrill whimper then, and the whole pack wheels to it as if at word of command. Fifteen minutes, full of more incidents than can be crowded into the hours of an ordinary day, have passed since our fox was halloa'd away. The hundreds from among whose thundering heels the tail hounds had to make hazardous way as we sped over the first broad meadow, have dwindled down to a twentieth of their number, and now we are heading straight for the sluggish brook, which is so full now that we cannot see where its slimy banks have been worn hollow by the slow curves and eddies of its summer current or the first rushes of winter floods.

> "No shallow dry ditch, with a hurdle to screen it,
> That cocktail imposture a steeple-chase brook;
> But the flood-fretted banks tell as plain, if we mean it,
> The less we shall like it the longer we look."

How that "dream of the Old Meltonian" rings in our ears as we clench our teeth hard, sit down in our saddles and ride for the brook! There are not twenty followers left with the pack now, and not more than half of them look as if they mean going.

The quiet determined horseman who negotiated that last awkward drop so cleverly (typical of the best man of any country whether in Leicestershire or the most remote provinces), is taking a line of his own, but without any sign of shirking or hesitation. At one point a light thorn fence half screens the brook, and he goes for it at that point well knowing that the roots of bushes will give him firm ground to take off from; and as to the sort of place on which he may land, he is content to take his chance. Catching firm hold of his horse's head but so lightly that there is no perceptible increase of pressure on bit or bridle, he sends an electric thrill of sympathy along the reins. A strong squeeze of the knees, just one touch of the spur, and they go at it best speed. Like a bullet the good steed flies through the screen of slender twigs, hangs a brief beat of time above the glittering water, and with just a scramble where the hollow bank gives way, is on terra firma once more. It was a yawner indeed—broad as a Lincolnshire dyke, deep enough to engulf horse and rider, and gloomy as the Styx. One fair pursuer goes at it where the huntsman leads, and, thanks to her pilot's quick eye for selecting a sound place, gets over cleverly. The other races hard at a bend where ceaseless eddies have worn a wider channel. The little teeth are clenched tightly, and every nerve in her slender frame is tingling with excitement. The gallant thoroughbred shares his feeling, and big as the effort is, he will not be balked. With nostrils dilated and quivering, eyes straining forward, and every muscle at tension, he bounds boldly forward, and rather by impetus of speed than any palpable exertion of his own, flies across the broad chasm. It is a hair's breadth too much at this point even for his superb leaping powers to compass; the hind feet drop in, but fortunately find hold on a lower submerged shelf. The rider's lithe, light figure is instinctively thrown forward, the plucky steed has his head, and by a second effort such as the underbred cocktail seldom makes, he carries his rider safely ashore, shake his dipping quarters, and a minute later is speeding on beside the pack again.

"Salmon fishing on Loch Tay" is vivid portraiture of a sport which ranks nearly as high in the "North countrie" as hunting does further to the southward, and with articles on coaching, snow-shoeing, cycling, winter shooting in Florida and others of interest, this number, which closes the thirteenth volume, is hard to excel.

Since the article was written which credits the National with a goodly share of the sums received from the sales of the Rosemeade horses, we have seen a "proof" of the suggestions of our correspondent, Wilfred Page, and heartily concur in his views. The National of last year attracted more attention abroad than any other trotting race of the year, and had it not been for the bad luck attending so many of the nominators, it would have unquestionably resulted in the greatest trotting contest of any year.

That there are plenty of Californian stallions to ensure success should the stake be gotten up, will readily be seen when our correspondent's list is perused, and were the nominations restricted to those which had records outside of 2:15, with that condition, a majority of the class named would put in an entry.

In all probability it would be a good move to reduce the stake to $500 each, as had that been the sum fixed upon last year more nominations would have been made.

But the trouble is not so much in obtaining subscribers as to induce men capable of proper management to take it in hand. The work of the first National was mainly thrown on Captain Smith. On our part it was no trifling job, as from the first there was a disposition to throw cold water upon the project, and no end to lugabrious predictions of failure. The one thousand dollar clause was incorporated to induce Eastern owners to take part, but that failing to accomplish the purpose, it will be better to suit the wishes of a majority of our own folk. The organization of a Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeder's Association will remove every obstacle, and it only requires a consensus of effort on the part of a few to succeed.

Mr. Page will be just the man to take the lead, and we shall be happy to do all in our power to assist in bringing it through. We cannot labor as assiduously as we have in the past, and we do not consider that there is the necessity that has heretofore prevailed. From soon after our arrival in California until the close of last year, we have been busily engaged in furthering the interests of "turf and track" outside of journalistic work, and now that so many are interested, it should be no great deal of trouble to perfect an organization which will be of incalculable benefit to the breeders of trotters on this coast.

Some one must take the initiatory, that person having enthusiasm enough to engage those who need a little stimulus to rouse them to exertion, and in sixty days at the furtherest the job will be done.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Marysville Stallion Show.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman:—As there seems to be no correspondent from this part of the country to your valuable paper, I most respectfully beg leave for space in its columns, for a short description of the stallion show which took place in Marysville, Saturday, March 9th.

First, I must say that the show was not patronized as it should have been, as I know of a great many good horses that did not turn out, and I consider such a show worth more to a horse than all the advertising one could do through the press.

There were fourteen in the line of march, headed by the Wilkes stallion Alpheus, owned by Mr. Irvin Ayres of Oakland, but leased for the season by F. E. Griffith of Marysville. Second was the black colt Darkness, sired by Sinner, and owned by J. P. Coates of Sutter County. Next came the celebrated sire of carriage horses, Young Challenge by Doty's Challenge, (sire of Doty, record 2:21), owned by George Ohleyer, Jr., of Sutter County, followed by the trotting horse I Wonder, a three-year-old by Alpheus, a son of the once famous Brigadier, and several others whose names I am unable to give.

I think by next year we can have as good a horse show as any place north of Sacramento, as people in this section are just beginning to get their eyes open in breeding good horses.

Yuba City, March 11, 1889.

Answers to Correspondents.

J. B. Palin.

Please give the pedigree of Algona, in your paper and oblige.

Answer.—Algona by Almont, dam Emma Kinkaid by Conscript; second dam Effie Dean by Mambrino Chief; third dam by Powell's Bertrand.

A subscriber

Please give pedigree of McCracken's Black Hawk, when he was foaled and in what State, and when was he brought to California.

Answer.—Black horse foaled 1857, by Vermont Black Hawk (David Hills) dam not traced. Bred near Utica, N. Y., and sold by a widow lady to J. G. McCracken, and taken to Stockton, California, in 1860

Subscriber.

Please inform me through your next issue the pedigree of Nellie R., and oblige.

Answer—By General McClellan Jr, dam by Sam McClellen.

J. P. Klench.

Please let me know the breeding and record of Speculation.

Answer.—Speculation b h foaled 1862, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam Martha Washington, the dam of Whipple's Hambletonian by Smith Burr's Washington, son of Napoleon. We cannot find any record for him, but he is the sire of Crown Point 2:24 and Oakland Maid 2:22.

Charles Nathan:

Please let me know the pedigree of A. T. Stewart; the one that came to this State with Altoona.

Answer.—He is not recorded in the A. T. R., but is always said to have been by Mambrino Patchen, dam by Mambrino Chief. A letter addressed to Gen. Withers will probably elicit the information whether he bred him or not.

A Subscriber.

Will you please give me pedigree of the trotting horse Smuggler through the correspondent's column of your paper? And also the pedigree of horse called Alto Rex, raised in Iowa?

Answer.—Smuggler, br h, foaled 1886, by Blanco, son of Iron's Cadmus; dam, a big pacing mare. We know nothing of the horse called Alto Rex.

DESIGNER.

Standard Trotting Stallion.

DESIGNER was sired by Director, record 2:17, half brother of Jay-Eye-See, 2:10, and Phallas, 2:13¾.

First dam May Queen by Abbottsford, record 2:19½, sire of Conde, record 2:19¾.

Abbottsford by Woodford Mambrino, record 2:21¾, and half brother to Mambrino Dudley, 2:19¾, and Pancoast, 2:21¾, the sire of Patron, 2:19½, as a three-year-old, in a third heat; five-year-old record 2:14¾.

Woodford Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¾, and of the dam of Director, 2:17, dam, the dam of Wedgewood, 2:19 sire of Favonia 2:18.

May Queen was never trained. When two years old was driven over the road for three weeks, and trotted two miles in 6 minutes, a quarter in 7 seconds, her grand dam out of a livery stable trotted a mile in 2:35.

Second dam Pacific Maid by Elmo, full sister in blood to Overman, 2:19¼, she has had but four foals, only two of them was handled very little; one trotted as a three-year-old with scarcely any work, a mile in 2:35, the last half in 1:12½, a quarter in 35 seconds; the other trotted as a three-year-old a mile in 2:28¾, quarters from 35 to 38 seconds early in the spring, with seven weeks work; if her produce had been given proper training, they would have put her amongst the great brood mares.

DESIGNER is a rich bay horse, four years old, 15¾ hands high, well formed, evenly balanced and handsome, good disposition, has a perfect gait, and shows every indication of being very fast, both through his sire and dam, he inherits extreme speed, and cannot fail to make a great producer.

Will make the season of 1889 from March 15th to July 15th, at Jefferson Stock Farm, on Scotts Lane, one mile from Santa Clara.

TERMS, $40 THE SEASON.

Due at the time of service, and must be paid before the mares are removed. Mares not proven with foal may be returned next season, if mares or horse have not changed hands.

Pasturage three dollars per month. All mares at owner's risk.

H. SCOTT.
Box 376, Santa Clara, Cal.

AMBERINE.

$25 $25.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by PROMPTER No. 2165, with six weeks training at the close of a stud season, he won a stallion race of five heats, winning the last three heats and getting a record of 2:33¾; he has never been trained since.

His sire, Wilson's BLUE BULL, No. 75, has more of his progeny in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived, except it may be George Wilkes, and it is a disputed point between the two which has most.

PROMPTER'S dam, PRAIRIE BIRD, 2:28¾, is in the GREAT BROOD MARE TABLE, a proved producer, and of a family of wonderful producers, as an examination of the produce of Flaxtail mares will prove.

AMBERINE'S dam, "BONNIE," owned by G. W. Hancock, of Sacramento, is one of the best road-mares in the State; she has many times covered 50 miles on the road in five hours, and 125 miles in 17 hours. She is the dam of Daisy, yearling record, 2:38¼; her sire is John Nelson, sire of the dams of Albert W., 2:20, and Valensin, 2:24.

AMBERINE is a beautiful bay, three years old, very powerfully built, 16 hands, and trotted a mile in his yearling form in 3:20, and has never been trained.

Will serve 15 outside mares at the low price of $25 the season. Should the mare not prove in foal, the money refunded or mare bred following season. Service fee payable, when I pasture the mare, at the time of her removal; but if served outside, payable at time of service.

He is full brother to DAISY; yearling record, 2:38¼. THE BEST IN THE WORLD FOR PACING. Two-year-old trial, two miles, 5:07; last mile in 2:25.

Good pasturage for a limited number of mares only, at $5 per month. Ranch 18 miles from the City, San Pedro Valley. Horses taken down at owner's risk.

ELECTION,

BY ELECTIONEER.

DESCRIPTION.

ELECTION is a beautiful bay, with small star in forehead. Near forefoot and pastern white; both hind feet white above ankles. He was foaled April 10, 1884, at Palo Alto, stands 15½ hands high and weighs 1075 pounds. Election was sold in his yearling form to B. R. Crocker of Sacramento, who kept him for two years and then sold him to Mr. H. J. Palmer, who placed him in charge of Wilbur F. Smith to develop. From an ordinary road gait he was made, after three months training, to trot a mile in 2:30.

PEDIGREE.

ELECTION by Electioneer, dam Lizzie H. by Whipple's Hambletonian; 2d dam Lizzie Harris by Comus, son of Green's Bashaw, sire of Josephus 2:19¾, Fred Douglas 2:20¼, and fourteen more in 2:30 or better; 3d dam by Arnold Harris.

Comus by Green's Bashaw, sire of dams of Joe Young 2:20¾, Trampoline 2:23¼, dam Topsy (dam of Iowa Chief 2:34½), sire of Corlando 2:24½, by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk, sire of Ethan Allen 2:25¼.

Green's Bashaw by Vernol's Black Hawk, son of Long Island Black Hawk. 1st dam Belle by Webber's Tom Thumb; 2d dam Chas. Kent mare, dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian by imp. Bellfounder. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam Sportmistress by American Eclipse, etc.

This fine Electioneer horse will make the season of 1889 at Woodland. Service limited to a few mares of approved breeding. Season commencing March 1st and ending July 1st.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars for the season, due at time of service Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season by paying difference in price, provided no change in ownership of horse. For further particulars address

ALMONT PATCHEN.

Pacing Record 2.15.

Sire JUANITO, dam Glidey, by GLADIATOR, the sire of James H. 2:21, Boss 2:20½, and the pacer Dandana 2:26½; second dam by HENRY BELMONT, third dam a Sir Archie mare. JUANITO is by Tilton Almont, record 2:26, dam Berlcta by Signal (Singleterry's Rattler), sire of Marysville Queen, wagon record 2:25, and the pacers Prussian Maid 2:19, Carrie T. 2:20¾, and Handy Andy 2:29¼, second dam a mare bought of J. W. Moore of Marysville, Cal., from the Harper Stock Farm in Kentucky. Tilton Almont, 2.26, is the sire of Daisy S. 2:23½ and is by the great Almont, dam by Clark Chief. Henry Belmont is a full brother to Venture 2:27¾, being by Williamson's Belmont, dam Miss Mostyn, by American Boy, Jr., second dam Fanny Mostyn by Grey Medoc.

To his excellent blood lines Almont Patchen adds performances which show him a worthy descendant of famous families. He is a large, well-formed, rangy and stylish horse, of great power and unsurpassed staying qualities, and cannot fail to get fast and useful horses. In 1886 he started in Chico and in Sacramento in two races, winning both, making in the latter a record of 2:23.

In 1888 ALMONT PATCHEN started in eight races, winning six, and coming in second in the other two. In his last race at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, he defeated Adonis and Belmont Boy, making a record of 2:18. A few days later, in private, he paced a mile in 2:13¼, on same track.

Almont Patchen will make the season of '89 at the Race Track, San Jose, commencing February 1st and ending in May.

TERMS: $100 for the season, payable when mare is bred. Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. All mares taken at owner's risk. For further particulars address,

VINELAND BREEDING FARM.

Whippleton, 1883,

STANDARD UNDER RULE 4 & 6.

The most successful stock horse in California for his opportunities. WHIPPLETON has no equal as a producer of carriage and general purpose horses. Sire of Lily Stanley, record 2:17¾, dam's breeding unknown; Homestakes pacer, 2:16¾, dam's breeding unknown; Flora B., 2:30, dam's breeding unknown; Cora C., three-year old pacer, 2:38¼, dam by Nauhuc, Rachel, 2:38, dam's breeding unknown.

DESCRIPTION.

WHIPPLETON is a beautiful black, tan muzzle and flanks and exceptionally strongly made all over. He stands 17 hands high and weighs 1400 pounds. He is beyond doubt the most uniform breeder on the Coast for size, color and finish. Most of his colts are 16 hands or over, and all bay, brown or black in color. He has never sired a sorrel or white faced colt; if he does I agree to refund service money.

PEDIGREE.

WHIPPLETON, Sired by Hambletonian Jr. (sire of Hancock 2:29), by Whipple's Hambletonian; dam Lady Livingston; (dam of Lady Blanchard 2:28¾, Bloomfield Maid, trial 2:22); by General Taylor (sire of dam of Wells Fargo 2:18¾, Nearea 2:24¾, Bickford 2:20¾, Lady Blanchard 2:26¼, and Stella 2:30, son of the Morse horse.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars, with usual return privilege.

ALCONA, 730.

By the great Almont (sire of Westmont, 2:15¾, Puritan, 2:16, Fannie Witherspoon, 2:19¾, Piedmont, 2:17¾, and 31 others with records better than 2:30, and grandsire of Bell Hamlin, 2:23¼) by Alexander's Aldalah (sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14), he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Alcona's dam, Queen Mary by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¾, Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½ and 4 others in 2:30 list, and sire of the dams of Piedmont, 2:17¾, Director, 2:17, Onward, 2:22½, and many others; 23 of his sons have produced 2:30 trotters.

Almont has 38 sons that have produced 2:30 trotters, which number is only equaled by his grandsire, Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

DESCRIPTION.

Alcona is a beautiful chestnut, 16¾ hands high, and weighs 1,300 pounds. His colts possess speed, style, finish and beauty, and if they don't trot fast they command the highest price for carriage and general purpose horses. Eleven of Alcona's colts that have been sold UNTRAINED brought $7,810, an average of $710 per head.

TERMS: $35. Usual return privilege.

Grandissimo,

Full Brother to GRANDEE. 3-year-old record 2:23 ¼ 2.

Sired by La Grande (son of Almont, and out of Jessie Pepper by Mambrino Chief; Jessie Pepper is the dam of Iona 2:22, Alpha 2:23½, Sterling Wilkes 2:23¾, and others dam Norma, by Arthurton (sire of Arab 2:15, Joe Arthurton 2:2 ½, etc).

Grandam Nourmahal full sister to A. W. Richmond, sire of Arrow 2:18¾, Romero 2:19, and sire of Columbine, dam of Antevo 2:16¾, and Antevolo 2:19¾ at 4 years old),

DESCRIPTION.

Grandissimo is 3 years old, will make a sixteen hand horse; he is a rich mahogany bay in color and perfect in style and action. Limited to ten mares, at $50 for the season. Usual return privileges.

In case any of my horses are sold before the next season, parties breeding mares have the privilege to return them to any other stallion I have making the season at the same price. Mares kept in any manner desired. Best of pasture the year round, at $4 per month. Some choice young stallions, colts and fillies by Whippleton, for sale reasonable. Correspondence solicited.

The Electioneer Stallion

LANCELOT,

SEAL BROWN STALLION, 15½ HANDS, FOALED APRIL 15, 1881.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco, Cal.

Sire Gov. Stanford's ELECTIONEER; first dam Lizzie Harris by Comus; second dam by Arnold Harris. Comus by Green's Bashaw, dam Topsey by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk. Young Bashaw by Grand Bashaw (Arabian) (182), dam Pearl by First Consul (913); g d Fancy by imp. Rockingham. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam Sportsmistress by American Eclipse.

All the sons of Electioneer in the Eastern States have their books filled for the season. This is a rare opportunity to breed to Lancelot at a very low price. Lancelot has shown quarters better than a 2:30 gait, and had it not been for an accident would have had a record as low as the fastest of the sons of Electioneer.

The Nutwood Stallion

SALADIN.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco.

SALADIN, chestnut stallion, 16 hands 1 inch high; foaled April 9, 1880. By Nutwood; first dam Lady Utley Jr. by Speculation, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian; second dam Lady Utley. Grandam of Western Girl. Record 2:27½.

NUTWOOD (record 2:18¾), half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾, by Belmont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; first dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sally Russell by Boston; third dam Maria Russell by Thornton's Rattler; fourth dam Miss Shepard by Stockholder; fifth dam Miranda by Topgallant; sixth dam by imported Diomed; seventh dam by imported Medley; eighth dam by imported Juniper. Nutwood is the sire of Felix, 2:18¾; Dawn 2:19½; Manon 2:21; Menlo 2:21¼; Nutbreaker, two years old, 2:29½; Nutwood Jr. 2:26; Mount Vernon 2:21; Woodnut 2:16¾, and several others that have trotted under 2:30.

The above stallions will make the season of 1889 at the Hoag Stables, corner 1st and B Streets, Santa Rosa.

TERMS: $40 for the season for either of the above stallions.

Pasturage $3 per month. All mares at the owners risk. Apply or address,

The Thoroughbred Stallion

Judge McKinstry,

Will make the Season of 1889, from

March 1 to July 1, at San Felipe

Rancho, near Gilroy.

PEDIGREE.

Foaled 1879, by Grinstead or Thad Stevens, dam Katy Pease; second dam Minnie Mansfield by imp. Glencoe; third dam Allegrante by imp. Young Truffle.

DESCRIPTION.

JUDGE McKINSTRY is a bright bay with black points, 15¾ hands in height, of a conformation combining power and speed. His breeding is one that cannot be excelled. The families on both sides being noted for their gameness and fleetness. Speaking of JUDGE McKINSTRY, Matt Storn, the well-known trainer, says: "He is the fastest race-horse I ever saw on the Sacramento track. He has shown me trials that were marvelous, one especially of a mile and a quarter that was ahead of the present record." He was started in several races when not in condition to run, and even then developed an amount of speed that is characteristic of the noted families from which he descends. His performances are too well known to need repetition here. Good judges of horses state positively that there can be no doubt of his sire, as he is a perfect picture of Grinstead, but rule compels us to name both sires.

TERMS: $75 payable when the mare is moved from ranch, or, $100, with the usual privilege. Good pasturage, $3 per month. Mares at owners risk. All communications must be addressed to

Prince Imperial.

DESCRIPTION.—PRINCE IMPERIAL is a black horse, 15-3 hands high; weighs 1,150 pounds, and is a model of beauty, action and power.

PEDIGREE.—Sired by Black Prince, he by Dictator, own brother to Dexter, dam Daisy by Witherell Messenger, he by Winthrop Messenger, son of imp. Messenger.

Mr. Peter Brandow's statement in regard to Prince Imperial: "I met A. Weske in the Park in 1887 driving the above horse, both strangers to me. I was driving a good horse, but the above horse, hitched to a phaeton, beat me easily. I followed him to find out what horse it was, and he finally allowed me to hitch him to a sulky, which I did, and drove him easily in 2:42¼. I think him one amongst the best horses in California, and firmly believe that in six months I can drive him in 220."

PETER BRANDOW.
Trainer of trotters for 25 years.

In 1881, while visiting Salt Lake City, I saw the colt Prince Imperial, and bought him for my own use, and have used him for family purposes ever since. In offering him for public service last year, not knowing anything about horses' pedigrees I made a mistake in his. I wrote to the owner of the mare in Salt Lake, Dr. S. B. Young, and he says she was by Henry Clay, brought from Kentucky by him.

Will make the season of 1888 at the farm of A. Weske, 2½ miles from Santa Rosa on the Healdsburg road. Season commencing March 1st.

SIRE OF YOLO MAID, 2:14.

Alexander Button.

Alexander's Record, 2:31 1-4!

DESCRIPTION.

Alexander Button is a dark bay with fine flowing mane and tail; stands 15-3¾ hands high; weighs 1,200 pounds, and is of excellent disposition. When three years old he made a record of 2:28½, and when four years old, in his first race, he obtained a record of 2:26½. Has been driven a mile in 2:16 in his four-year-old form, and has been driven a last half in 1:0-. Alexander Button is a natural trotter, inherited through the speed-lines of his ancestors, and imparts his speed to his offspring with uniform certainty. Yolo Maid, as a three-year-old, paced 18 heats, never leaving her feet—carrying the world's record of 2:14. Rosie Mc, as a five-year-old, rarely ever breaks; has a record of 2:20¾. R. H. Newton's colt, with very little handling, paced a 2:16 gait, and there are several other colts that show gaits from 2:16 to 2:20. Considering that Alexander Button has never been mated with a standard-bred mare—his colts show him to be a wonderful producer—and with his breeding, and terms of service, he is the cheapest and most wonderful horse in the State.

PEDIGREE.

Alex. Button was sired by Alexander, he by Geo. M. Patchen, Jr., his dam Lady Button by Napa Rattler, by Biggett's Rattler, he by Sir Henry, and he by imported Henry, dam of Biggett's Rattler by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam of Napa Rattler, thoroughbred.

TERMS: $75, payable at end of season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge. Good pasturage will be furnished at $2 per month, and due care taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability whatever assumed.

Will stand at City Stable, Woodland, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. The remainder of the time he will stand at my ranch, which is situated about 1½ miles west of Yolo station.

All mares sent to Fashion Stable, Woodland, Yolo County, will be forwarded free of charge.

LONGWORTH.

High Bred Trotting Stallion.

WILL BE FOUR YEARS OLD IN MARCH.

Dark Bay, Black Points, by Sidney.

OWNED BY A. C. DIETZ, OAKLAND.

Also the owner of Bay Stallion Ringwood, four years old, by Sidney, half brother to Longworth, which has showed trials over the Oakland Track, 2:30; quarters, in 34 seconds—2:16 gait —as a three-year old.

LONGWORTH, for finish, style and form cannot be excelled by any four-year-old horse in the State. His gait is perfect; going low to the ground, with smooth, easy motion, and has shown wonderful speed with but two month's work. As a two-year-old, he showed a 2:40 gait; as a three-year-old showed—trial—full mile over the Oakland track, 2:26; half mile, 1:10; quarters, 34 seconds; eighths, 16 seconds—a 2:08 gait.

Longworth is the result of a long line of distinguished ancestors, endowed with speed on the sire and dams' side that follows back for generations—consequently he cannot help but produce great speed.

He is half brother to the great three-year-old Adonis, record 2 14¾.

Memo, three-year-old trial, 2:20½.
Sister V., two-year-old trial, 2:32.
St. Nicholas, three-year-old trial, 2:27¼.
Ringwood, three-year-old trial, 2:30.
Miss Sidney, one-year-old trial, half mile, 1:38.
Brown colt, three-year-old trial, 2:40.
Black colt, three-year-old trial, 2:39.
Sorrel colt, two-year-old trial, quarter, 34 seconds, and a number more that have shown remarkable speed. One yearling that has shown one-eighth of a mile in 16 1-5 seconds—a 2:10 gait.

Sidney, the sire of Longworth, has a record of 2:19¾; Santa Claus, the grand sire, has a record of 2:17½; Sweetness, the grandam, record 2:21½; Strathmore, the sire of Santa Claus, has twenty-two that have trotted below 2:30; Volunteer, the sire of Sweetness, has twenty-six that have trotted below 2:30. Volunteer is the sire of St. Julian, record 2:11¾.

Longworth's first dam Grey Dale, the dam of Daisy C., Silver Threads, and grandam of Phaceola; Grey Dale by American Boy, Jr.; he by American Boy, the sire of Belmont. Second dam Grey Poll by Winfield Scott, by Edward Everett; third dam Sorrel Poll by Sir Henry; fourth dam Daughter of Printer.

Grey Dale, the dam of Longworth, has shown herself a great producer of speed through Daisy C. and Silver Threads, the sire of Phaceola.

All letters pertaining to the service of this horse should be addressed to J. J. FAIRBANKS, Oakland, Alameda County, Cal.

TERMS: Fifty dollars, payable at the end of the season or sooner if the mares are taken away. Season will close June 15th, 1889. The number of mares limited to twenty-five. The best of care will be taken to insure mares with foal. Pasture $5 per month, which can be procured at the Oakland Race Track. Mares at the owners' risk, as to escapes or accidents.

The stallion will be kept at the stables of the undersigned, at the junction of San Pablo Avenue and Park Street.

NOONDAY.

No Record, Foaled 1884.

Standard No. 10,000.

THIS CELEBRATED TROTTING-BRED STALLION will be limited to 40 mares the ensuing season at Oakland Trotting Park, Oakland, Cal., commencing February 1st and ending July 1st, at $100 the season, with the usual privilege of returning the mare next season if not proving in foal. The names of his patrons will be entered on his book in order of their application. He will be limited strictly to forty mares. Pasturage at five dollars per month, hay and grain extra.

NOONDAY, sired by Wedgewood (692), record, the fourth heat, 2:19, (sire of Favonia, record, fourth heat, 2:15, and Nugget, record 2:26, he the sire of Nettie Leaf, four-year-old record 2:23½), and five others better than 2:26.

First dam Noontide, record 2:20½, by Harold (413), sire of Maud S., record 2:08¾, Mattie Graham, 2:21¼, and 17 others in 2:30.

Second dam Midnight (the dam of Jay-Eye-See, record 2:10), by Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Maud S., 2:08¾, Nutwood, 2:18¾.

Third dam by Lexington (sire of dam of Ansel, 2:20.)

Wedgewood, by Belmont (64), sire of Nutwood, 2:18¾.

First dam (the dam of Woodford Mambrino, 2:21), by Woodford (thoroughbred son of Kosciusko), he by Sir Archy.

NOONDAY is well formed, evenly balanced and handsome; his color is dark seal brown, small star, right hindfoot white, 15 1¾ inches high, weight 975 lbs; strong back and good gaited, short and rapid, and will make a fast and game campaigner.

Breeders will please remember that this horse is not owned by me. I have only leased him for two years for the benefit of the State and breeders on account of the speedy lines and blood that this State is in need of, and no stallion now in public service can show a pedigree with such fast records as enrich the blood of NOONDAY.

I will also handle and train a few horses for gentlemen at fair terms. Address

THE WILKES STALLION

Mambrino Wilkes, 6083

(Half Brother to Harry Wilkes, 2:13 1-2.)

Sire of Gus Wilkes, 2:22; Alpheus, 2:27; Balkan 2:29½, three-year-old; John O'Brien, lapped out the winner in 2:36 as a three-year-old; H. A. W.'s Black Colt, trial 2:29 with very little work as a four-year-old.

Will remain in the future at San Miguel Stock Farm, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County.

DESCRIPTION.

MAMBRINO WILKES is a black horse, 16 hands high, and considerably longer than his height; has immense muscular development and weighs 1,260 pounds. He has the utmost symmetry of proportion and elegance of finish. No competent judge who has seen this horse has failed to pronounce him a perfect individual, and his breeding is certainly fashionable enough to satisfy the most fastidious. His colts are large, stylish and handsome, and Balkan has been pronounced by many the most stylish trotter on the turf.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by George Wilkes, dam Lady Chrisman by Todhunter's Mambrino; second dam by Pilot Jr.

Todhunter's Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, dam Ripton's dam by Hunt's Commodore, son of Mambrino, by imp. Messenger; second dam by Potomac, son of imp. Messenger.

George Wilkes sired 65 colts that have beaten 2:30. Of these 39 have average records of 2:25, 14 of 2:19 and 12 of 2:18.

TERMS.

Mares from a distance will be received at the Dexter Stables, Oakland, or Livery Stable, Martinez, the owner notifying Smith Hill, Superintendent at the farm. Good pasture and plenty of water. For the purpose of placing the service of a Wilkes within reach of breeders, the same rate will be maintained as last year, to wit, $75 for the season. Although it is not admitted thereby that this horse is inferior as a producer to the horses whose fees are placed at from $150 to $500.

BALKAN,

Three-year-old Record 2:29 1-2; trotting many heats faster, when he did not obtain a record.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Fanny Fern by Jack Hawkins, son of Boston; second dam S. F. B. by Jim Crow.

It will be readily seen that this colt is from strong producing lines on both sides. Fanny Fern having produced Mollie Drew, May Queen, Onyx and Fred Arnold, all noted trotters and all by different sires.

This colt will be kept at the Oakland Trotting Park, and will be stinted to ten approved mares at $100 for the season.

The Fast Trotting Stallion

JIM L.

RECORD 2:20 1-2, made at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, November 1888.

DESCRIPTION.

JIM L was foaled May 14, 1881. He is a chestnut sorrel, stands 16 hands high, and weighs 1200 pounds.

PEDIGREE.

JIM L was sired by Dan Voorhees (record 2:28½), dam Grace by Uncle Sam, out of Kit (or the Chloroform mare). Dan Voorhees was sired by General McClellen, by North Star, dam Black Swan (record 2:28½) by David Hill (858), by Vermont Black Hawk (5), dam by Liberty, son of Bishop's Hambletonian; dam a Morgan mare by Ethan Allen.

PERFORMANCES.

JIM L trotted three races in 1887, and closed a season with a record of 2:30½. In 1888 he trotted five races and gained a record of 2:20½ at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, on October 24th, in the first heat of a race in which the other starters were Junio, Allo, Ha Ha and Argent.

He has shown quarters at a 2:15 gait; is a FAST AND RELIABLE TROTTER, and is possessed of a remarkable amount of "bottom." He has served two seasons in the stud, is a sure foal getter, and has a number of promising colts.

TERMS.

Forty dollars for the season, $25 for single service. Mares sent from a distance will be properly cared for at reasonable terms, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes. Good pasturage furnished at $2.50 per month.

THREE CHEERS

Will make the Season of 1889 at Oakland Race Track, Oakland, Alameda County.

Pedigree.

Hurrah by Newminster (winner St. Leger 1851), dam Jovial by Bay Middleton (winner Derby 1836.)

Newminster by Touchstone (winner St. Leger 1831), dam Beeswing (winner of 54 races out of 64 starts) by Dr. Syntax (winner Doncaster Cup 1835, 40, 41, 42, the only horse that ever accomplished that feat.)

THREE CHEERS is bred in the speediest and stoutest lines. His dam, Young Fashion was the dam of Surprise, Scotland (the only horse that ever beat Asteroid a heat), Liverpool, Columbia and Bonnie Kate, the dam of Little Buttercup and the flying Bonnie Lizzie. His grandam, Fashion, was the greatest race mare of her era, defeating Boston in that historical match at four-mile heats, that is recorded as one of the greatest events in the annals of the turf. He is thoroughly sound in wind and limb, his family on both sides being noted for their exemption from curbs, spavins, roaring, or any other hereditary unsoundness. Horsemen, who can appreciate the highest type of the thoroughbred, are specially invited to inspect Three Cheers.

THREE CHEERS is the sire of Almont, Applause and Why Not, the only three of his get ever trained, and all are stake winners.

TERMS: $75 for the season. Mares not proving with foal can be returned the next season free of charge. Good pasturage at $5 per month. Mares cared for in any manner owners may desire, and fed on hay and grain, either or both, at reasonable rates. None but competent grooms employed, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

N. B.—Mares sent from a distance in care of J. W. Morshead City Front Stables, San Francisco, will be forwarded without delay.

Thoroughbred Stallion

Prince of Norfolk,

Will Make the Season of 1889, from Feb. 15th to July 1st, at Sacramento.

PEDIGREE.

PRINCE OF NORFOLK, ch c, foaled 1881, by Norfolk; 1st dam Marion by Malcolm; 2nd dam Maggie Mitchell by imp. Yorkshire; third dam Charmer by imp. Glencoe; 4th dam Betsy Malone by Stockholder; 5th dam by Potomac; 6th dam by imp. Diomed; 7th dam by Pegasus, etc. Norfolk, the unbeaten son of Lexington, is the sire of Winters, Twilight, Connor, Ballot Box, Trade Dollar, Flood, Duchess of Norfolk, Lou Spencer, the Great Emperor of Norfolk, an many others. Marion's sire, Malcolm, was one of the first horses to bring Bonnie Scotland into notice. Through the Maggie Mitchell cross comes the blood of two of the most celebrated race mares of their day, Charmer and Betsy Malone. The combined speed of these great families seem to be concentrated in the get of Norfolk and Marion, as is instanced in the case of the Emperor of Norfolk, who is a full brother to the Prince of Norfolk.

The blood lines here displayed cannot be surpassed in the world, there not being a single cross that has not been celebrated for speed and endurance, and it is fair to assume that the get of this stallion will show equally well with those of past generations.

TERMS, $50 for the season. We offer first class pasturage on our own ranch, at $4 per month and the best of care will be taken of mares sent to us, but no responsibility can be incurred. For further particulars address

Finely Bred Trotting Stallion

ARLINGTON.

$50. TRIAL 2:26½, BY $50.

ABBOTTSFORD.

SIRE OF CONDE, 2:20.

PEDIGREE.

By Abbottsford, dam the Gillespie mare, Abbottsford by Woodford Mambrino, son of Mambrino Chief, dam Columbia by Young Columbus. This horse was brought to California by J. W. Knox, and made a record in 1883 of 2:19½, and has always proved a great speed producer.

The Gillespie mare, by the celebrated Wilson's Blue Bull, who has probably more of his get in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived.

Arlington has as yet no record, but has shown very fast trials. He will be limited to twenty-five mares only, as he will be trained for a record immediately on the conclusion of the season.

TERMS: $50 the season, with usual return privileges. The best of attention will be given mares, but no liability assumed for escapes or accidents. Call on or address

FOR SALE.

Thoroughbred Stallion

LEON.

Bay stallion, 16¼ hands high, foaled 1885 sired by Leinster, dam Ada A, dam of Pater Duffy, Frank Rhodes, Lizzie P.—dam of Idalene Cotton, and Lady Leinster—by Asteroid. The ones that saw his race at the Oakland Fair last fall can best judge as to his racing qualities. He ran the 1¼ miles, carrying 118 lbs, in 2:10, and galloped under the wire. The last mile he ran in 1:43¾. If not sold by Feb. 1st will make a season in the stud at Sacramento. For further particulars address

MEMO.

The Fast Trotting Stallion, the Best Son of Sidney.

Will make the Season of 1889 at the Oakland Trotting Park.

He was bred by G. Valensin at the Arno Stock Farm, Sacramento County, California; foaled spring of 1885.

PEDIGREE.

By Sidney.
First dam Flirt by Buccaneer.
Second dam Mohaska Belle by Flaxtail.
Third dam by John the Baptist.

Sidney by Santa Claus, 2:17¾, his dam Sweetness, 2:21½. Strathmore, the son of Santa Claus, has 22 of his get which have trotted in 2:30 or better, up to close of 1887, several having entered since, and Volunteer the sire of Sweetness, has 26 in the same list. Buccaneer is the sire of Shamrock, two-year-old record 2:25, and of Flight, 2:29, and in him are combined the strains of Long Island Blackhawk, Vermont Blackhawk, and the dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Flaxtail figures prominently in both pacing and trotting descendants, and is the sire of the dam of Apex, 2:26, Flight, 2:29, J. H. McCormack, 2:29, and Shamrock, 2:25.

PERFORMANCES.

Memo only trotted in public in his two year-old form, obtaining a record of 2:49, though he was close to Grandee in a race on the Bay District Track, the second heat of which was made in 2:31½, the first in 2:32. He exhibited phenomenal speed when three years old, and had it not been for a slight strain of his fore fetlock there is little question that he would have shown in public very close to the best record. On the Oakland track he was timed a mile in 2:20¼, and frequently trotted quarters in from 32½ to 34 seconds.

DESCRIPTION.

He is nearly if not quite sixteen hands high, and of powerful build throughout. His color is a glossy black, with both forefeet white and a touch of white on his off hind quarters. His disposition is all that could be desired, and his action superb.

TERMS: One hundred dollars the season, which will commence on the 5th of February and close on the 1st of July. Due care will be taken of mares, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes.

Mares taken and kept as desired by the owners, and at reasonable rates.

Pasturage at $5 per month within the track enclosure, feed first rate, and a living stream of water in the field. There is a double protection against escape, as in addition to a strong fence on the inside of the track, the gates of the outer fence are enclosed at night, which gives almost positive assurance of safety. ELECTIONEER STALLION

EROS,

Standard No. 5326.

Electioneer, his sire, has more 2:30 trotters than any living horse, and more 2:30 trotters than any Stallion LIVING OR DEAD.

Eros has a record of 2:29¼, made in the fifth and deciding heat against a field of eight horses in his maiden race, and with only four weeks preparation after coming out of the stud.

Dam Sontag Mohawk, dam of Sallie Benton (four-year-old record 2:17¼), Sontag Mohawk by Mohawk Chief, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

Progeny.

Eros had last fall but three colts trained; the oldest a three-year-old trotter, an exhibition mile during the San Jose Fair in 2:34, last quarter in 36½ seconds. A two-year-old (timed by the judges) made a mile in 2:16½, and the other two-year-old in 2:47. All of these trials being made without a single skip, and none of these colts had then been handled three months from the butting harness.

TERMS: $50 for the season, from February 1st to July 1, 1889. Due at time of service.

Pasturage, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes. Apply to

STALLIONS.

DIRECTOR 2:17.

DIRECTOR will stand at Pleasanton from March 1st to August 1st, 1889, for fifteen good mares more than are now booked, at $200 for the season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge of service to same stallion, or money will be refunded, at option of the Stock Farm Co.

Pasturage $4 per month, hay and grain extra. Accidents and escapes at owner's risk. Service fees due at time of service and must be paid, together with pasturage, etc., before mares are taken away, or a good approved note given, payable August 1st, 1889, at which date all bills must be settled

THISTLE,

Full brother to Gold Leaf, pacing record 2:15 at three years old. By Sidney, dam Fernleaf, she the dam of stallion Shamrock, trotting record at two years old, 2:25. Thistle is a large, speedy pacing colt, showing more speed than Gold Leaf at the same age, and double the speed of his sire; so if anyone wants to breed pacers, here is a chance.

Thistle will stand for seven approved mares at $100 for the season, with same conditions and return privileges as Dictator.

ANNUAL FALL MEETING.

RAISIN HANDICAP. For all ages. 1¼ mile dash. Guarantee Purse $1,000. $10 entrance, $10 May 1st, $15 June 1st, $25 July 1st. Weights will be declared August 15th and acceptance September 1st, when the other $50 is to be paid. To be run at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entrance money amounts to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the association will add 20 per cent of amount of purse; 3 moneys, 70, 2½, 10 per cent of purse. Horses winning any purse or stake of one mile or more at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $800 or over, shall carry 10 pounds extra. Horses winning a purse or stake of one mile or over at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $500 or over, to carry 5 pounds extra.

Weights to be declared through BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, August 15, 1889. Entries close May 1st with the Secretary.

American Association Rules to govern.

REMARKS.

As to the Handicap Running, 1¼ mile dash, the Handicapping Committee will use due diligence in learning the performance of every horse entered, and weighting them fairly to their merits. Each entry must be accompanied by entrance money or be considered no entry. All payments not made when due the nominator forfeits all money paid in. We propose at the finish of the race the horse winning the purse, or any part of it, gets his money and not forfeit papers.

GUARANTEE PURSE.

For horses that never beat 2:30. Trotting Purse $1,000, $100 entrance, $25 May 1st, $.5 July 1st, $50 August 15th, when horses are to be named. To be trotted at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entries amount to more than $.000 it shall be added to the purse, and the Association will add 20 per cent. of amount of stakes. Four moneys, 40, 25, 15, 10 per cent of purse.

Horses eligible at closing of entries, May 1st.

American Association rules to govern.

REMARKS.

This 2:30 class Guarantee Purse gives the party making the entry the privilege of naming any horse he sees fit the 15th day of August, having no better record than 2:30 the first day of May, irrespective of the record he gets after that date. You will see by this the nominator has almost a sure thing of getting his money back. Any nominator failing to make payments when due, forfeits all money paid in, and money must accompany entry or it will be considered no entry.

Our grounds are the finest appointed in the State, being about 2½ miles from the city; horse car line running direct to the grounds.

We also have the best of box stalls for 100 horses. Hay and straw furnished to all horses entered in races free of charge. Grain can be procured on the grounds at reasonable rates.

CONDITIONS.

All trotting and pacing races, best 3 in 5, to harness, unless otherwise specified. Entrance, ten per cent on amount of purse, to accompany nomination. Any horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money.

American Association Rules to govern all trotting, pacing, and running races, but the Board reserves the right to trot heats of any two classes alternately, or to trot a special race between heats; also, to change the day or hour of any race if deemed necessary.

A horse making a walk-over shall be entitled to only one-half of entrance money paid in. When less than required number of starters appear, they may contest for entrance money paid in, to be divided as follows: 66⅔ to first, 33⅓ to second.

In all entries not declared out by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race shall be required to start.

When there is more than one entry by one person, or in one interest, the particular horse they are to start must be named by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race.

If, in the opinion of the judges, any race cannot be finished on the closing day of the meeting, it may be continued or declared off, at the option of the judges.

Non-starters in running races will be held for entrance under Rule 36.

Racing colors to be named on entries.

In trotting races the drivers shall be required to wear caps of distinct colors, which must be named in their entries.

These two last rules will be strictly enforced.

All races to be called at 2 P. M. sharp.

Entries to all the above races to close with the Secretary at 11 P. M., Saturday, April 6, 1889.

LEWIS LEACH, President.

N. I. BALDWIN, Secretary.

Frank Morgan.

DESCRIPTION.

FRANK MORGAN was brought to California by Mr. S. E. Larabie of Montana. He is undoubtedly one of the handsomest stallions in the country, is a dark chestnut, about 16 hands in height, of free, easy carriage, well gaited, perfectly developed and superb in general appearance. In disposition he is all that could be desired. He has been named Frank Morgan in honor of the family from which he descends.

PEDIGREE.

FRANK MORGAN was sired by an unnamed son of Morgan General, Jr., by Morgan General, by Billy Root, by Sherman, by Justin Morgan. Dam by Romeo, by Green Mountain Morgan 2nd, by Gifford's Morgan, by Woodbury Morgan, by Justin.

FRANK MORGAN will make the season of 1889 at the Oakland Race Track, serving a limited number of mares. He is a sure and reliable foal getter, and the uniform beauty and style of his colts have shown him to be a producer of the finest class of road and carriage horses that have ever been seen in this country.

TERMS.—$40 FOR THE SEASON.

Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. The best care will be taken of all mares, but no risks for accidents or escapes. For further particulars, address

Stanford Stakes

A sweepstakes for trotting colts and fillies, foals of 1888, $175 each, $25 payable on the 2d of April, 1889, which must accompany the nomination, and none will be recorded in which there is a failure to comply with this requirement, at which time the stakes will close; $25 on the 1st of January 1890; $25 on the 1st of January 1891, and $100 thirty days before the day fixed for trotting, whatever amount up to be considered forfeit, and the neglect to pay at the stipulated time incurring forfeiture of the previous payments. The race to be heats of a mile, best 3 in 5 to harness. First to receive six-ninths of the whole sum, the second two-ninths, the third one-ninth. In addition to the stakes and forfeits the proportion of the gate money, profit on pool sales, and all other sources of emolument will constitute the gross amount, to be divided in the foregoing proportions. Five or more subscribers to fill. The race to be trotted in 1891, not sooner than the 1st of August. The exact date to be fixed and announced on the 1st of April, 1891, or sooner.

The stakes for 1892 will close January 2, 1890. $25 entrance.

Race to be governed by the Rules of the National Trotting Association. Nominations to be made to N. T. SMITH, Treasurer, S. P. Railroad Office, Fourth and Townsend Streets, on or before the 2d day of April, 1889. The colt must be named, the name and pedigree, so far as known, given.

Should a Pacific Coast Trotting-Horse Breeder's Association be gotten up, the above stake may be transferred to that, the Treasurer, N. T. Smith, having the power to make the transfer, and also to arrange anything else, in connection with this stake which is not expressed in the above conditions. Should it occur that Captain Smith cannot act at any time, then a majority of the subscribers still eligible to start will have the power to fill the vacancy.

Under the new trotting rules letters legibly postmarked April 1st will be eligible.

N. T. SMITH, Treasurer.

BONANZA.

This Highly Bred Trotting Stallion

Will make the season of 1889 at the OAKLAND TROTTING PARK, commencing Feb 5th, and extending to July 1st.

TERMS.

$40 for the season. Due care taken to prevent accidents and escapes, but no responsibilities assumed. Mares kept in any manner desired and at reasonable rates. Pasture inside of the Oakland track at $5 per month.

PEDIGREE.

Bonanza was bred by A. Waldstein of San Francisco,

BY ARTHURTON.

His dam, the dam of Albert W., record 2:20, by John Nelson. He is one of the purest gaited trotters imaginable, and his record of 2:29 is no measure of his speed. He is nearly 16 hands, a very handsome shade of chestnut, and of commanding form.

Address,

RICHARD HAVEY,

PEREMPTORY SALE

—OF—

English Shire, Clydesdale and Norman

STALLIONS, and

CLYDESDALE MARES,

At 1 P. M., TUESDAY, March 26, 1889,

—AT—

Bay District Track.

By direction of Mr. J. Trestrail we will offer his consignment of THOROUGHBRED CLYDESDALE STALLIONS and MARES, comprising eight head. These are the most superior lot of Clydes ever imported to California.

We are also instructed by Mr. Morgan, of Cheyenne, to dispose of his consignment, consisting of four ENGLISH SHIRE STALLIONS and four NORMAN STALLIONS. These horses have been selected expressly for this market and are in every way desirable animals.

THIS WILL FORM THE MOST EXTENSIVE SALE OF STALLIONS THAT HAS EVER TAKEN PLACE IN CALIFORNIA.

The horses are now at Bay District Track and may be seen at any time previous to sale.

GROVER CLAY,

Bay Stallion, bred by Hon. W. W. Traylor, San Francisco. Foaled 1883. By ELECTIONEER.

First dam MAGGIE NORFOLK by NORFOLK, son of Lexington.

Second dam by BILLY CHEATHAM.

Third dam by DORSEY'S GOLDDUST.

GROVER C. is a very handsome shade of bay, 15¾ hands high, and showing as much quality as a majority of thoroughbreds. He is as square-gaited a trotter as can be, and has shown a great deal of speed for the amount of handling. Has been worked very little, though he can show a thirty gait or better whenever called upon.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars the season, payable at time of service. Proper care will be taken, but no responsibility incurred for accidents or escapes. Mares will be pastured inside of the Oakland Trotting Park, which is especially safe, having two fences which give ample security against escape. There is a never-failing stream of water which runs through the field, and the food is good.

Season commencing first of January and ending the first of July.

This is the only son of Electioneer standing in Alameda County, and the high breeding on the side of his dam is a guarantee that his colts will inherit qualities already made famous through the mixture of Electioneer and Lexington blood. Ansel, 2:20, is from a Lexington mare, and Sunol's granddam, two-year-old record 2:18, was by Lexington, both Sunol and Ansel by Electioneer, Lexington the sire of Norfolk.

OSSIDINE

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 15, 1888.

GENTLEMEN:—We have used Ossidine for the past two years and consider it invaluable for Sprung Tendons, Curbs, Ringbone and Spavins; there is nothing equals it; and for us it effected a permanent cure where firing failed, although performed by one of the most successful veterinarians on the continent. We have recommended it to others with like success, and believe it has more merit than any blister ever used.

Very respectfully yours, S. A. BROWNE & Co., Prop's.

This scientific preparation is an absolute cure for all bony or callous lumps on horses, and is a more powerful absorbent than "firing," without creating the slightest blemish. After a few applications the excrescence is so palpably reduced that even the skeptical frankly acknowledge that it is by far the most valuable outward remedy for horses ever invented.

The ONLY preparation in the world that will remove a Bone Spavin after it has become ossified.

Price $3 00 per Large Bottle,

Owner of Eole, St. Saviour, Eolist, etc, says; I have long used it in my stables, and find it to be all that is claimed for it in removing callous and unnatural bony growths, without leaving the slightest blemish. From my experience, I most strongly recommend the use of Ossidine, and feel that it is a necessary adjunct to every stable. Yours respectfully,

NUTGROVE is a beautiful bay, 15½ hands, and is one of the finest appearing young horses in the State. He took the first prize for best two-year-old standard-bred horses at Oakland in 1888, also first prize at the State fairs in the same class. He has been worked for speed but a little, but showed quarters in 38 to 40 seconds. His dam took first prize for standard mare at the Oakland Fair, and also took first prize at the State Fair, 1888, for best mare of any age or breed. For further particulars apply to

SUNOL---Two-Year-Old Record 2:18.

Sunol.

This may with great propriety be called the Sunol number, so much space being occupied with matter which derives its peculiar interest from the connection it has with by far the fastest trotting two-year-old which has yet appeared.

For that reason we republish her picture, and have taken the capital description written by Leslie E. McLeod, associate editor of Wallace's Monthly in preference to original matter.

Having been written for and published in the Monthly does not lessen its value to our readers, and when the present controversy is taken into consideration it is better that Mr. McLeod should dilate on her, "As a whole, Sunol is a striking, finished, racy, looking mare of marked quality" than that the editor of this paper should have presented these eulogies.

While it does not invalidate the claim to high breeding that some coarseness appears, it certainly strengthens it when the form approximates that which is regarded typical of the best specimens of the breed, and for our part we should prefer that the animal expected to trot fast should show the "speedy conformation" than an undisputed inheritance of the bluest blood in the land.

Many will point to her irritability and difficulty to break as due to the high blood in her veins, and as the Electioneers are, in a great majority of cases, the most docile and easily broken, that fault is derived from the dam. But we should attribute it to the Benton cross rather than the Lexington—Grey Eagle, and as we never heard a like complaint made of Ansel or his colts, that position is in a measure sustained, as the dam of Ansel was a sister to Waxy.

Taken as whole and Mr. McLeod's vivid portraiture represents what might have been expected from the breeding with the excepections mentioned, and is corroborative of the claim, so thoroughly established, that she is a grandaughter of Waxy.

Electioneer has furnished many stars in the juvenile trotting-world, but none has attracted the attention that is being showered upon Sunol, the great two-year-old. She is generally regarded as the brightest star in her sire's radiant cluster, she has increased the value of a whole family manifold, and in the light of her glory they enjoy reflected fame. Her performance is perhaps the most wonderful on record; and though, in view of the uncertainties of the turf, it is idle to speculate upon the future, she has perhaps as good a chance, if it is not destroyed, of surpassing the record of Maud S. as any animal now before the public. Be that as it may, her prominence is already great enough to warrant us in giving a somewhat particular account of her. She was bred at Palo Alto, and was got by Electioneer, out of Waxana, by Gen. Benton. Waxana's dam was Waxy, a racing-bred mare, whose exact blood-lines, at the present writing, have not been satisfactorily traced, but she is reputed to be by Lexington. Waxana is a large chestnut mare of excellent form, a handsome, expressive head, and of general marked character. Sunol has developed into a filly that, if she had no reputation, would attract notice for her peculiar shape and rare finish. She has as exquisitely handsome a head and neck as ever was striven for on the painters' canvas. The beautiful lines on which they are chiseled, and their delicate finish, make Sunol's fore-features imperial in their beauty.

The shoulder is prominent, running obliquely to a rather low and smoothly-turned wither that is carried well back. Her depth through the heart region and the formation of the chest give the requisite lung and heart capacity. It is in her rear formation that the peculiarity exists. She is remarkably "high behind." There appears a greater proportionate difference in her height at the withers and over the quarter than the figures show, or than we ever observed in any other animal. She is 15.2 hands high forward and 16 hands high behind. We have always considered this the most favorable formation for speed—have never admired prominent withers; and the form of Maud S., Sunol, and many others, bear out the preference. Electioneer is himself on this order of structure. Sunol is just slightly inclined to be roach-backed, but she is closely and strongly coupled. The lower line of her barrel is, one might say, harmonious with her back. That is, it runs high at the flank; and while she is not light-waisted, still she has the most greyhoundish appearance imaginable in a horse. Her croup is rather short, and the incline of the quarter is sharp, and the slope very noticeable. The pacing conformation is here closely approached. The combined length of the quarter and leg is exceptional. If you draw a line from the point of the hip to the whirl-bone, from there to the stifle, and thence to the hock, we think the aggregate length of the lines forming these angles will much exceed, in proportion to other parts, a similar measurement of any horse we have ever seen. The quarters are muscular, the legs stout and strong to the hocks and knees, which are faultless, and the cannons are rarely-good. The pasterns are not unusual in length or slope, and the foot is a good average one.

As a whole, Sunol is a striking, finished, racy-looking mare of marked quality. In temperament she is excessively nervous, and, indeed, quite irritable. She was exceedingly hard to break, and has not yet reached a point where she could exactly be recommended as a model family driver. When she came directly under Mr. Marvin's care in November, 1887, hitching the high-strung youngster to a sulky was a contract that called for about two hours of good-tempered patience. She was worked easy, with occasional short brushes through the winter, but never was around the track except in a jog until she went to Los Angeles late in July, preparatory to her race with Vesolia on August 5th. Through the time intervening before that race she was given four different miles, the fastest being in 2:33½. She trotted the second heat of the race in 2:25, but the crowd pretty nearly made her nervous ladyship frantic. In all her work she didn't trot more than six or eight miles more until she went in 2:18 at the Bay District track. The Palo Alto trotters do not exhaust themselves by great efforts in moon-light trials. The track was good, but not as fast as it once was. Mr. Orrin Hickok, who drove the running prompter, stated to the visitor that for the first three-quarters Marvin was "talking her back," and that if there was any drive it was in the finish. Marvelous as the trial was, Mr. Marvin believes that had it been postponed a week longer, and had she been rated a little faster in the first half, the two-year-old mark would be closer to 2:16 than 2:18.

Notwithstanding her sensitive nerves, Sunol has no disposition to break when trotting. She has an easy, stealing gait, tucking her hind legs well up under her, and going very close. She carries the lightest of shoes and no toe-weights. The toe-weight has no place among the appliances used in educating trotters at Palo Alto. Sunol is now sound and clean as a dollar, to all appearances; and though it is possible she has not the flight of Manzanita, whose capacity was equal to a quarter in thirty seconds, unless she has some of the ill-fortune that prevented that great mare acquiring a record that would adequately measure her speed, the prospect is rosy for the daughter of Waxana heading the roll of the Electioneers with a very low figure.

Fine Horses Sold.

Two San Joaquin County trotters started last evening for the East, says the Stockton Independent, having been purchased by Eastern horsemen for breeding purposes. Both were from the stock breeding establishment of Mayor Shippee and are by his famous horse Hawthorne. One of them is the famous mare Tempest, who has a record of 2:19½. She is six years old, without fault or blemish, and weighed yesterday 1,170 pounds. She is without doubt the best trotting mare ever bred in the San Joaquin valley, and her old owner says that she is improving steadily, and would, if kept on the track, get very low down in the teens before long. Her ultimate destination is not known, but she has been purchased for export, and will be taken abroad to improve the breed of trotters in some foreign land.

The other is Red Thorn, also by Hawthorne and own brother to Moses S. He is a dark bay stallion sixteen hands high and although he has no record has shown 2:20 in private. He has been purchased by W. E. Campbell, who bought Motion last season, and will go to Kansas. He will go on the Kansas circuit during the coming season and will then be used for breeding purposes. The price paid for the animals was $5,000 each, and the day after Mr. Shippee had made the sale of Tempest by wire he received an offer of $6,000 for her. The purchaser could have had an advance of $1,000 on his bargain before she left the depot.

A Strange Complaint.

A complaint which is creating much comment because of its novelty, says the New York Times, as well as its evidence of common sense on the part of a trainer, is that of "Matt" Allen, who trains Senator Hearst's stable of racers. Contrary to all other trainers, his complaint is because Mr. Lawrence did not put enough weight on Glen Echo in the Suburban. He tells a "Spirit of the Times" writer that he would have been better satisfied with 110 pounds than he is with the 95 pounds allotted his horse. Why? "Because," he says, "the colt has got a will of its own, and it takes a strong boy to ride him, if I could have got him weighted at 110 pounds I could have put Hamilton up, and he would do better with him than a 95-pound boy could."

That shows Allen to have a remarkably level head. There have been more horses ruined by trusting them to inexperienced boys than one can count in a day. Age and experience are needed to make good jockeys. Barnes, Taylor and Penny are about the only light weights who have judgment enough to ride a race-horse, and they are all born jockeys. A man who owns a good horse needs to have weight enough assigned him to enable an at least partially matured boy to ride him, and 90-pound boys are, as a rule, only fit for exercise work, and hardly fit for that. A good second-class horse, with McLaughlin, Garrison, or Hayward in the saddle, is from 7 to 10 pounds better than with the best of a whole barnfull of light-weight jockeys, with the exception of perhaps a half dozen that might be named.

The preceding table represents the breeding record to date of Geo. M. Patchen Jr., 2:27, otherwise known as California Patchen. I think I venture but little in saying that any man who to-day owns a son of either Electioneer, Sultan, Guy Wilkes or Director, would be more than satisfied did he feel assured that under circumstances and with opportunities similar to Geo. M. Patchen Jr.'s, his stallion would make as good a showing as the above.

A more intelligible way of conveying the information contained in the table would read as follows: Geo. M. Patchen Jr., 2:27, has produced nine sons and daughters with records from 2:18¾ to 2:28¾. Of these five from dams of unknown breeding; two from running bred dams; one from a Gen. Taylor trotting bred mare, and one from

Three daughters that produced four trotters with records from 2:17¾ to 2:29, and one daughter that produced a two-year-old with record of 2:31½.

Eight sons, all of them from dams of unknown or doubtful breeding, that have produced sixteen trotters and pacers with records from 2:17½ to 2:30, and the dams of four with records from 2:15 to 2:30.

Three grandsons that have produced four horses with records from 2:14 to 2:26½.

Furthermore the table shows that the blood of Geo. M. Patchen Jr. nicked with Electioneer, has produced Susie, two-year-old record, 2:31½; with Nutwood's, Maggie E. 2:19¾, and Jim Mulvenna, 2:27¾; with Speculation's Crown Point, 2 24, sire of Valensin, 3-year-old record 2:23, and Hancock, 2:29; with Tilton Almont's, Almont Patchen, pacer, 2:15; with Nephew's, Voucher, 2:22; with Mambrino Rattler's, Reliance, 2:22½, and with Nap. Rattler's, Alex. Button, 4-year-old record 2:26¼, and sire of Rosie Mc, 2:20¾, and Yolo Maid, pacing record as three-year-old, 2:14. The latter a Patchen—St. Clair nick, which has electrified the trotting and pacing turf as much in its way as did the Electioneer and St Clair nick that produced Wildflower, 2-years-old, 2:21, and Manzanita, 4-years-old, 2:16.

If one were to-day even to ask the owners of these Hambletonian and Mambrino stallions how many Patchen mares they have in their studs, the great majority would answer "None, and I don't want any; they are no good, and even if I thought they were, they are not fashionable, so I don't want them." Yet the chances are ten to one that each one of these breeders has from three to a dozen mares sired by Williamson's Belmont, or by a son of his, and is looking for a record breaker in each colt that these mares drop.

Let us see whether their chances of getting trotters from this the leading thoroughbred trotting strain on this Coast are greater than though they pinned their faith to a Patchen.

Belmont's (Williamson,s) one and only representative in the 2:30 list is Venture: 2:27½; neither the latter nor any other son has achieved as much. Belmont's daughter, Jenny Shepherd, dam untraced, bred to Alexander, 2:31¼ (a son of Geo. M. Patchen Jr.,) produced Nelly Patchen, 2:27¼ (seventh heat), and bred to Gen. McClellan (another unfashionable), threw Flora Shepherd, 2:30. The rest of the producing mares credited to Belmont are in the s t b class, and s t b's nowadays do not count. Harry Belmont, a full brother, if I be not mistaken, to Venture, sired Lady Suffolk, dam of Rustic, 2:30, and Norman, 2:28¾. Owen Dale, a third son is credited with an s t b daughter, dam of Brushy John, 2:27; a second daughter produced to the cover of Carr's Mambrino, Lady Ellen, 2:28, dam of Ella by Electioneer, record at two years, 2:33½; at four years, 2:29; whilst a third daughter when coupled with Geo. M. Patchen Jr. produced Susie, 2:26¼, dam of Suisun, also by Electioneer, record at two years, 2:31½. Belle Echo, 2:20, by Echo, and Joe Arthurton, 2:20½, by Arthurton, are by long odds the fastest get of producing dams of the Belmont family, but unfortunately sufficient proof has not as yet been forthcoming to induce Mr. Wallace to respectively record these mares otherwise than as s t b by Belmont and s t b by Langford.

Gov. Stanford has for several years been, and is yet, I believe, using Don Victor, a full brother to Owen Dale, upon many of his mares bred deeply in trotting strains, and is crossing the produce so obtained back onto Electioneer, Belmont, Nephew, etc. The result, I have not the slightest doubt, will be that in the near future this son of California Belmont will figure more or less prominently as a sire of producing dams. Great Scott! Might not a Patchen or even a McClellan under similar circumstances and with similar assistance, become a formidable rival even to Mambrino Patchen and Pilot Jr.?

To compare Belmont's value as a trotting progenitor with Geo. M. Patchen Jr.'s were to attempt an absurdity. The breeding records as above given speak for themselves. I cannot, however, do less than call attention to one remarkable feature which this examination has brought to light, and that is, that putting aside his s t b daughters, the greatest speed developed by the immediate produce of a Belmont mare has been when Geo. M. Patchen Jr., or one of his sons, was the sire, and the same result, as far as comparable, has been obtained when this developed produce has been bred in into the third generation. We have for instance: Owen Dale mare—Lady Ellen, 2:28—Ella, 2-year-old record 2:33½. Owen Dale mare—Susie, 2:26½—Suisun, 2-year-old record 2:31½. In the Lady Ellen instance the grandam was by Belmont, sire of Owen Dale, and great grandam by Red Brick, son of Bertrand. In Susie's case the Belmont cross was omitted, and the grandam was by Red Brick, son of Bertrand; both Ella and Suisun were bred and foaled at Palo Alto. Both of them were dropped in the same yeer, and both of them trained and driven to their records by one and the same man. If it be advanced that Azmoor, 2:20¾, whose grandam was Belmont, had a faster record, then I shall claim that 2:31½ for a two-year-old is a better mark than 2:20¾ for a six-year-old. I find no direct produce of Electioneer and a Belmont mare in the list, Am I not, under the circumstances, somewhat justified in claiming that better trotting results may be obtained by breeding these Belmont mares to a Patchen, and stubing their produce to Electioneer, etc., than breeding to Electioneer direct?

But Patchens are not fashionable, it is said. Well, neither were Sultans a very few years back; and how fashionable was Electioneer when Gov. Stanford purchased him? I have heard it stated or have somewhere read, that when Gov. Stanford bought his stallions he had no such expectations from Electioneer as he looked for from Mohawk Chief. If this be true as it is undoubtedly true of the slight estimation in which Sultan and his get were held by the people of this coast, as compared to other trotting families, why may we not yet find what by careful selection may prove, the most valuable as it is the most instinctively trotting outcross that we have on this coast for our Hambletonian-Mambrino stallions. I have heard the best of trainers and the shrewdest of breeders condemn the Electioneer, the McGregors and the Kentucky Princes; but, the Electioneers, the McGregors, and the Kentucky Princes have come to the front all the same.

The Patchens Jrs., are not fashionable; they are not the best family of trotters either on this coast or elsewhere. This and more, I am ready to admit, yet I very much doubt if there be a dozen stallions on the records who, with much greater advantages and far less prejudices to contend against, can make a season's showing such as Geo. M. Patchen Jr. did in 1888, when a sire, Ben Ali, trotted in 2:22 and tapped Maggie E. in 2:19¾; a grandson, Charley C., trotted in 2:25½; a daughter's produce, Maggie E., trotted in 2:19¾; a granddaughter's produce, Economy, trotted in 2:30; another granddaughter's produce, Almont Patchen, paced in 2:15; a great grandson, Johnny Hayward, trotted in 2:28; a great granddaughter, Rosie Mac, trotted in 2:20¾; and another great grandaughter, Yolo Maid, at three years of age paced in 2:14.

I do not wish to be understood as decrying the Belmonts or any other line of thoroughbreds; much less would I condemn the efforts and experiments of Gov. Stanford and other wealthy breeders in converting thoroughbreds into trotters. I heartily hope indeed that they may succeed in raising the thoroughbred to the standard and usefulness of the trotter, for a more worthless price of horseflesh than a running horse that will not or cannot run quite fast enough to win, it is hard to conceive. It is a matter of congratulation, indeed, that these gentlemen of ample means are devoting their time, money and energy to the purposes named and are practically converting a portion of their breeding establishments into horse colleges and experimental stations. It will, however, be time enough for the smaller fry to follow in the footsteps of these gentlemen, when Ansel, Azmoor, Palo Alto and stallions similarly breed shall, when crossed upon half and half bred mares, show a little of the ability to produce such trotters as their all trotting bred sire does from undiluted thoroughbreds. In the meantime, I believe that the farmer and small breeder generally will meet with greater success, and make more (or lose less) money by adhering to the old breeding principle, "that like begets like or the likeness of some ancestor;" and consequently to breed trotters, he had far better select a trotting bred dam and breed her to a trotting bred horse even though either or both be Patchens, than rush blindly where hundreds of much greater experience still fear to tread.

If the table which precedes these remarks indicates anything, it certainly proves that the trotting instinct transmitted by old Geo. M. Patchen 2:23, to his lineal descendants on the eastern side of the Rockies, is quite as, if not, more potently exhibited in his progeny on this coast through Geo. M. Patchen Jr. 2:27. Then Geo. M. Patchen's own and his sons and daughters have been crossed with the cream of fashionably bred trotting stallions, producing such flyers as Belle Hamlin, 2:13¾, Adele Gould, 2:19; Domestic, 2:20½, etc., etc.; whilst on this coast his son Geo. M. Patchen Jr., unaided by 'fancy' strains breeds in through the male line, to Rosie Mc., 2:20¾; Almy, 2:17½: Yolo Maid, (p) three years old, 2:14; and through the female issue, when touched by 'bits' of fashion, produces Voucher 2:22, Maggie E. 2:19¾ and Almont Patchen (p) 2:15.

A four-year-old record of 2:26½ to his own credit and at eleven years of age bringing to the wire one daughter, five years old, in 2:20¾, and another, three years old, in 2:14, stamps Alexander Button, grandson of Geo. M. Patchen Jr., not only as a colt trotter himself, but as a begetter of exceptional and extremely early speed. Whether this precocious attribute was inherited from his sire or from his dam, matters not; it is there; he has, to, say the least, not lost it by reason of being sired by a Patchen Jr., and it is evidently firmly enough engrafted in his system to admit of his transmitting it, combined with his own gameness and race-horse qualities. Here then is a Patchen outcross that no breeder of the very choicest of Hambletonian-Mambrino's need fear to introduce into the veins of his blue-blooded matrons. I only hope that the same State pride which induced one man to pay a fabulous price for Stamboul for the purpose of preserving his services to the credit and benefit of the trotting horses of this State, may not be caught napping in others when the shrewd and appreciative eyes of eastern breeders are cast upon this great son of "only a Patchen."

FOLIO.

Prejudice.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—When we look back over the history of the world and see how prejudice has retarded every human advancement, and how people have deprived themselves of benefits and blessings for long years before they could shake off the sloth and lethargy of habit, we are amazed, and complacently think that we live in a more fortunate age, and think that in the enlightenment of the nineteenth century, prejudice will find no lodgment in intelligent minds, and that any and all papers are prepared to give studious and fair consideration to any proposition claiming to be in the interest of human progress and advancement. But unhappily, prejudice is as obstinate and unreasoning as it was in the days when it was a crime to say that the world moves.

When we reflect that the predilections of horsemen for some particular family has no better foundation generally than an early formed partiality for some member of that family, or, still worse, when it is but the borrowed opinion of some horse sharp, whose opinions are in furtherance of his interests, it is astonishing that no after argument or demonstration can move them.

These men never change and were it not for new men coming forward with minds unbiased by early impressions, there would be no progress. From my inability to handle my own horses, and lack of capital to employ it done, I have considered the policy of forcing some sales, and getting a portion of the stock into hands that would give them an opportunity, and wrote to one of the best posted horsemen on the coast, whose opinion, usually, has much weight with breeders asking his assistance.

In reply he says, "I have already talked to some monied men and assured them that your mares would bring speed and early speed, but they have answered we like block heads, 'no Blue Bull in mine.' But that is the way with Californians, they never appreciate a good horse, or a good mare, until he is sold or dies. I see by your catalogue that you have 'good goods'—a grand lot of mares, and the day will come when these breeders will see that I am telling the truth."

This is an assumption that I have nothing but Blue Bulls, when the fact is that there is no blood, recognised by any breeders as trotting blood, that I do not possess. And as for the present standing of the Blue Bulls among well informed people, these men who sneer at them only betray their own ignorance of the present status of this great family.

In the east, where the Blue Bulls are best known, and where they have passed through the probationary period of detraction, and reached the stage of just appreciation, the old and groundless prejudice against them no longer exists. The editor of Dunton's Spirit of the Turf writes: "A few years ago, the writer who championed the use of thoroughbred blood in the trotter was stigmatised as a crank. When we took up the cause of the Blue Bulls, we were "another." To-day, however, there is but one man who has "gall" enough to declare against a mixture of thoroughbred blood, and there is not one who is fool hardy enough to stand in the road and attempt to oppose the rapid march of the great army of Blue Bulls.

The history of horse-breeding has always been the same. Any new family, with merit enough to dispute popular favor with the old, and to jeopardize invested capital, has been met with distraction and calumny, as was signally shown not so very long ago, in the case of another pacing family—the Pilots, now standing on the very topmost round of fame.

Mr. Broadhead, Mr. Alexander's superintendent, writes: "Woodburn, for, years, was the only friend the Pilots had, and without her fostering care the blood would now be an unknown element in trotting pedigrees. We were loyal to it in the face of the severest criticism the public could bestow—a refusal to buy any animal that bore the name of Pilot Jr. in any of its crosses."

Comparing Blue Bull with the now famous Pilot Jr., so able a writer as J. H. Wallace says: "Blue Bull was a greater horse than ever Pilot Jr. was, and his blood lines are just as well known and just as valuable. Then why should not the daughters of Blue Bull make brood-mares as much greater than Pilot Jr.?" Again he says: "This great horse should have been called Napoleon, for, in all equine history, no horse has won his way to so eminent a position. * * * The fact still remains that this once despised pacer was, considering his opportunity, the most remarkable trotting progenitor the world has produced. * * * Some of his descendants will outstrip any that have yet been before the public."

This prediction is already being verified. Roy Wilkes, out of a mare by Blue Bull, made last season the fastest record for a five-year-old stallion, and the fastest record for a pacing stallion in a race. This horse's "bull-dog tenacity" is dwelt upon with great fervor, and the writer says: "If a gamer race-horse ever took the word from a judge's stand, I would like to look upon that horse."

Should it be proven, as it has been published, that Blue Bull is by the race-horse Wagner, and out of a mare by Pilot Jr., you would never again hear, even in California, the old slander and falsehood that the Blue Bulls are less game than the Hambletonians.

I wish to put myself on record as predicting that the time is not remote when the Blue Bulls will stand higher as an outcross for Hambletonians than the Pilots, and their revilers will be among the first to shout, "I told you so!" If any one cares to know the reason of my faith (for I have a reason), I will be pleased to send him on application one of my catalogues in which I have gathered together some interesting and convincing statistics on the value of pacing blood in a trotting pedigree.

In my stock I have all the fashionable trotting elements, in addition to pacing blood, which has accomplished so much in other hands (independantly, and as an outcross), but without receiving due credit. If, where the pacing cross occurs in my pedigrees, it was written "unknown" instead of Blue Bull, or Flaxtail, or Tom Hal, or Tuckaho, the pedigree would be fashionable and purchasers numerous, but the quickening pacing element, worth more than any other single line as a speed producer, frightens and deters purchasers who don't read and can't think, and who have just emerged from some other business with plenty of money, a love for the horse, but no knowledge of him except what they have picked up from track bums, who are supposed to know all about horses because they don't know anything else.

We have seen what Pilot pacing blood, crossed upon Hambletonian blood, did in the production of Maud S.—the fastest mare in the world—and what Capt. Walker pacing blood did in the production of Harry Wilkes'—the fastest son of George Wilkes—and what St. Clair pacing blood did in the production of Manzanita—the fastest of Electioneer's get.

Now let us see what Flaxtail and Tuckaho pacing blood (combined in Buccaneer) crossed in the same way, has done at the very first opportunity. The turf journals of the country are loud in just praise of the "phenomenal young stallion Sidney." Sidney has just five colts with records. Four of these are out of three of my pacing-bred Flaxtail and Buccaneer mares, and but one out of forty or more "fashionable" trotting-bred mares.

To make these trotting bred mares the equals of my pacing bred ones, as speed producers, they should have had fifty-three in place of one with records. M. W. WILKS.

Waxy's Pedigree as Shown by Mr. Gould, and As it Is.

The interest in the pedigree of Waxy grows out of the fact that she was the grandam of the famous Sunol, two-year-old record 2:18, and that she has been represented to have been a thoroughbred daughter of Lexington. Last January we received a letter from Mr. L. S. Gould, of Boston, then in California, advising us that he was investigating the history and pedigree of Waxy. We know Mr. Gould's capacity for that kind of work, and we gave him every encouragement to go forward, to look out for the facts and gladly let the theories take care of themselves, and we would publish the results of his labors. We have not restricted him in space nor eliminated a single sentence of what he has prepared for the public, all of which appears in another place in this number.

The written or printed statement of the facts, made on the spot and at the time the event occurred, is the final and only authoritative evidence in cases of this kind. If there are discrepancies in the statements then made and put upon record we must reconcile them as best we can; but we cannot accept an unsupported recollection of the color, age or sex of a colt of a quarter of a century ago against the color, age and sex of that colt written down at the time. To remember what age a certain colt was twenty-five years ago, unless the fact can be fixed by some other event that can be remembered, is practically impossible without reference to the record made at the time or soon after the colt was foaled.

The history of the case and of the evidence that was contemporaneous with the events may be briefly stated. John P. Welch a civil engineer of experience and prominence in his profession, came to Kentucky early in the spring of 1864 for the purpose of selecting and taking across the plains to California a certain number of horses, most of which were thoroughbreds. From his professional training he was capable of observing carefully, and noting correctly what he observed. When he had completed his selections and gathered his horses together, he sent on to the California Spirit of the Times what we may consider a complete list or invoice of the animals he started with. This is the first piece of evidence Mr. Gould has unearthed in the column of the California Spirit of the Times. The second is the list of sales of animals arriving and sold in California, and the third is the proof of the age of Waxy in 1865. The different items of proof as recorded twenty-five years ago, constitute the "original records" on which the whole case rests.

Mr. Gould's contention is that Waxy was by Lexington, out of Mr. Swigert's Grey Eagle mare, and she out of Mary Morris by Medoc, etc. He claims he has proved his contention, and this is what we will now examine. In its issue of December 17, 1864, the Spirit of the Times refers to an advertisement in its columns of ten head of the Welch invoice to be sold at San Jose, and describes them as follows: "Six two-year-olds, three three-year-olds, and one five-year-old, etc." It will be observed that no yearlings are advertised. The sale took place January 3, 1865, and in the list of ten head sold we find the following as reported by Mr. Gould himself.

No. 5.—Sorrel filly, two years old, by Lexington. (This was Waxy—L. S. G.) Bought by William Woodward. $250.

As Waxy was two years old in December, 1864, she must have been foaled in 1862. It appears, from Mr. Woodward's statement that after the sale was over they all "got pretty hot," and then and there a race was made between three of the two-year-old fillies just bought, to come off in December following. And here we give the summary of that race

Wednesday, December 27, 1865.—Sweepstakes for three-year-olds; $250 entrance; half forfeit. Closed with three entries. Mile and a quarter.

J. L. Eoff's b f Lilly Hitchcock by Lexington, dam by Brawner's Eclipse 1
Theo. Winters' b f Ada C. by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan by imp. Emancipation 2
W. Woodward's ch f Waxy by Lexington, dam unknown 3
Time, 2:24½.

This is the full and official form in which that race was recorded; and by reference to page 20 it will be seen that Mr. Gould gives the race but omits the caption, which shows beyond all peradventure that these three fillies were all the same age and all foaled in 1862. It is unfortunate that Mr. Gould failed to see this caption "for three-year-olds," for we feel sure if he had seen it he would not have insisted that Waxy was foaled in 1863. The original evidence that Waxy was foaled in 1862 is threefold: First, she was so advertised; second, she was so sold, and third she so ran.

If, then, Waxy was foaled in 1862, as we have fully demonstrated, was she out of Philip Swigert's Grey Eagle mare? This question is answered by "original records" also, furnished by Mr. L. Brodhead at Woodburn Farm. [See page 23] He says: "The Gray Eagle mare may have had a foal in 1862, but as no charge was made for the season money in 1862, the chances are she was barren that year and bred as a return mare. In addition to the evidence above that the Grey mare missed in 1862, I find a memorandum in a blank-book here, giving a list of mares that missed to Lexington from the service of 1861, and Grey Eagle mare is in this list." This settles the question; and to make it still more emphatic, we will say the italics are Mr. Brodhead's.

It is said of the Hon. Tim Campbell, who, at this writing, represents a district of this city in Congress, that while he was privately pushing some scheme among his fellow-members that had a good fat "divide" in it, he was met with the objection that the whole scheme was unconstitutional. To this Tim replied, "What signifies the constitooshun as betwixt friends?" So, the adherents of Mr. Gould's theory will have to exclaim, "What signifies a year's time in the age of a two-year-old chestnut filly as betwixt friends?"

There is one very remarkable feature in this investigation as presented by Mr. Gould, and that is the astounding fact that all the parties interviewed could remember a certain chestnut filly in the band, but couldn't remember anything else. Whether these men's minds are differently constituted from other men's, so that they could identify that particular filly, or whether there was something in the way of asking the questions that elicited the particular answers the interviewer desired, we must leave to the judgment of others. Take, far example, the statement of W. Satterwhite, on page 24, and we have a fine example of what coaching will do. He understood that a light chestnut filly was needed, and she must come out of the Grey Eagle mare, and he was able promptly to fill the order and write it down in capital letters. Mr. Satterwhite, like very many of his class, when the glory of a pedigree hailing from "Old Kaintuck" is at stake, is able to remember anything or forget anything that may be required. Everybody will see that these recollections, or "statements," as they are called, when running contrary to the original records of the case, are not worth an honest pinch of snuff for a cart-load.

Now that we have shown Mr. Gould's contention to be not only unsound in its proofs but absolutely impossible in fact, there still remain some interesting points of inquiry about this mare Waxy. That our readers may get a clear comprehension of just what started from Kentucky and just what reached California, we will here give, in parallel columns, Mr. Welch's invoice as he made it himself and without any guess-work added to it twenty-five years afterward, and what came of the animals that got through, as well as some that died on the way:

INVOICE OF HORSES TAKEN TO CALIFORNIA, 1864, BY JONH P. WELCH.	ANIMALS THAT REACHED CALIFORNIA, DIED ON THE WAY, OR NOT ACCOUNTED FOR
No. 1.—Bay mare, six years old, by imp. Sovereign; dam by Glencoe; grandam Ann Merry.
No. 2.—Bay filly, three years old, by Vandal; dam Miss Singleton, by Old Denmark; grandam Bellamira, by Monarch.	Bay filly, three years old, by Vandal; dam Miss Singleton. Mr. Fowler, $150.
No. 3.—Bay filly, two years old, by Mambrino Chief; dam by Commodore.
No. 4.—Bay horse, three years old, by Mambrino Chief; dam by Grey Eagle.
No. 5.—Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George; dam (Capitola's dam) by Margrave.	Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George; dam by Margrave. L. S. Ward, $120.
No. 6.—Bay mare, nine years old, by imp. Glencoe; dam by Rodolph; grandam Belle Anderson.
No. 7.—Bay filly, two years old, by Revenue; dam Sally Morgan, by Emancipation.	Bay filly, two years old, by Revenue; dam Sally Morgan. J. L. Eoff, $325. [This was Ada C.]
No. 8.—Chestnut filly, four years old, by Vandal; dam by Grey Eagle; grandam Churchill.	Sorrel mare, five years old, by Vandal; dam by Grey Eagle. Sold at the "Willows" for $300.
No. 9.—Chestnut mare, by Wagner.
No. 10.—Bay mare, by Sovereign.

No. 19.—Chestnut filly, three years old, by Knight of St. George; dam by Grey Eagle.
No. 20.—Bay colt, one years old, by Lexington; dam by Grey Eagle.	[This is the only colt by Lexington in the invoice. Mr. John Anderson, who furnished the money for this venture, in speaking of the animals lost, enumerates "the fine horse, Capt. Beard, and a superior Lexington colt named Frank." This must have been No. 20 of the invoice.]
No. 21.—Chestnut colt, two years old, by Ringgold; dam Hope, by Glencoe.	Sorrel colt, two years old, by Ringgold; dam Hope, by Glencoe. Mr. Fowler, $100.
Nos. 22 and 23.—Pair 3:00 six-year-old trotting mares.	Bay trotting mare, seven years old. Mr. Fowler, $275.
No. 24.—Black mare, trotter, eight years old. Time, 2:50.
No. 25.—Bay gelding, trotter, five years old. Time near 3:00.
No. 26.—Bay mare for show but not to go.	Sorrel filly, two years old, by Lexington, price $250. [This is Waxy, and she has no place in the invoice. She was foaled 1862, and her reputed dam was barren that year.]
	Bay gelding, three years old, by Lexington; dam Nannie Clark. Sold to Wm. Woodward, price $160. [This gelding is not to be found in the invoice.]

When we compare this invoice, carefully made out twenty-five years ago, in brief form, by a man of thoroughly trained capacity, with the same as corrected (?) and annotated by Mr. Gould, we have the very finest specimen of audacity in attempting to change records to suit theories that we have ever met with in a long lifetime. To borrow a figure from the trotting-course, Mr. Gould seems to have so much running-foolishness in his theories that the very first dash he goes headlong into the fence. At No. 20 he finds a "bay colt one year old, by Lexington, dam by Grey Eagle," as written down by Mr. Welch; but when the same animal reaches California in December of the same year it has been transformed into a chestnut filly, two years old. This wonderful transformation of color, age and sex is really startling, but no more startling than the introduction of the statements of a number of gentlemen to prove it. As this bay colt was the only colt in the band by Lexington, and as Mr. Anderson says "a superior Lexington colt named Frank" died on the plains, we have no difficulty in determining with great safety just what became of the bay colt without having to accept his miraculous transformation into a two-year-old chestnut filly.

Mr. Achilles F. Grigsby is made to say on page 22 that "The list and pedigrees of all the horses were entered in a small memorandum-book by Mr. Welch, which, after his death, was delivered to Mr. John Anderson, who was interested financially in the venture, and in whose possession I frequently saw and had access to it in settling up the business intrusted to me by Mr. Swigert." In this part of Mr. Grigsby's statement we have a great deal of confidence, for to leave such a memorandum was just what a careful man like Mr. Welch would do; and that it should pass into the hands of Mr. Anderson, financially interested in the venture, would be entirely natural. Indeed, we have no doubt that such a memorandum existed, and probably still exists, and that Mr. Anderson used it as the original authority in preparing the pedigrees for the sale of the stock. Now, where is this memorandum? If found in the memorandum, she would there have a dam, and not have been sold as by Lexington, "dam unknown." In those days, mares without pedigrees were not bred to Lexington. If Waxy had been brought from Kentucky, her dam would have been shown on the memorandum-book just as the dams of all the others were there shown. With the memorandum-book in his hand, would Mr. Anderson have allowed this filly alone to be sold as "dam unknown?" It is evident, therefore, that the pedigree of Waxy was not to be found in the memorandum made by Mr. Welch; and it follows, then, that if not in that memorandum, she never saw Kentucky, and did not belong to the original band.

The facts in Mr. Woodward's experience with her as a racemare seem to confirm the theory that her pedigree was not only partly but wholly unknown. When started in the sweepstakes for three-year-olds in 1865, it was found she could not run even a little bit, and her owner was so utterly disgusted with her failure to make even a reputable show of speed that he gave her away to Bob O'Hanlon on the spot, and that was her first and last appearance as a running mare. The story that she got crippled the next year and never was trained again for that reason is one of the old-fashioned "fakes" that were used twenty-five years ago to cover up a failure just as they are to-day.

In conclusion we must beg the pardon of our readers for giving so much space to a question so easily and so definitely settled. That Waxy was foaled in 1862 there can be no shadow of doubt, as shown by her sale and her racing records. That her reputed dam, Swigert's Gray Eagle mare, was barren in 1862 is shown beyond all question or cavil by the records of Woodburn Farm. Here the main question ends; but where did Waxy come from and what was her breeding are questions that still remain unsettled. There is no evidence that she ever saw Kentucky, so far as the records of the events are concerned; but circumstances point strongly to the theory that she was put into the sale at San Jose and given as a daughter of Lexington, "dam unknown, merely to help out a disastrous venture. Nothing but the memorandum-book of Mr. Welch, which was doubtless in the hands of Mr. Anderson, can settle this point, and until that book is produced we must continue to write the breeding of Waxy as "unknown." That the pedigrees of all the others should have been preserved and this one alone lost is quite beyond the belief of any intelligent man.

History of Waxy.

BY LEVI S. GOULD, IN WALLACE'S MONTHLY.

To trace the pedigree and history of this now famous mare it was necessary to start from a tradition only that she was by Lexington and was introduced into California with the remnants of a lot of horses which it was supposed came across the plains somehow—no one seemed to know exactly how, as her owner perished early in the trip and all pedigrees were lost, as were many of his animals. Beyond this there appeared to be a barrier as inpenetrable as death itself. With such slender material as a basis it seemed like an attempt to prove the identity of a will-o'-the wisp twenty-five years after it had flashed across the lowlands. Thinking that if such a conjecture had any foundation in fact the death of this man must be recorded somewhere, back files of the local papers were diligently searched day after day, without result. Finally by extreme good fortune, a file of the California Spirit of the Times of 1864 was brought to light in San Francisco, although not obtainable at the office of that publication. Fortunately this paper which had escaped all previous examinations, gave the keynote to an investigation which has continued unremittingly for many weeks, and at the expenditure of much money and thousands of miles of travel in California, Oregon, Kentucky, etc., until this veritable sorrel filly Waxy, completely identified, has been traced to the stable where she was foaled in the year 1863. The following extracts and statements, some of which are cumulative, but all valuable as collateral evidence, are referred to as furnishing the links in a perfct chain.

Extract from the California Spirit of the Times, May 14, 1864. In giving lists of the animals, the notes and expianations inclosed in brackets are my own:

"Fine Stock Coming.—It will not be long before the energy, enterprise and means of the patrons of the turf in California and Nevada Territory, and lovers of fine stock, will have introduced as splendid a collection of horses as the most fastidious could desire.

"Three gentlemen have lately left here for the purpose of purchasing fine stock, viz: Mr. John P. Welch and John Hall, Esq., of California, and Theodore Winters of Nevada Territory.

"We have received tidings from the first of these gentlemen of the most satisfactory nature. Mr. Welch remarks, in his letter dated April 9th, to this office, that he is gathering together his stock, and would start in a few days for California. He has about thirty head, as the annexed list will show:

No. 1.—Bay mare, six years old, by imp. Sovereign, dam by Glencoe; grandam Ann Merry.

No. 2.—Bay filly, three years old, by Vandal, dam Miss Singleton by Old Denmark; grandam Bellamira by Monarch. [Advertised at the "Willows."—L. S. G.]

No. 3.—Bay filly, two years old, by Mambrino Chief, dam by Commodore.

No. 4.—Bay horse, three years old, by Mambrino Chief, dam by Grey Eagle.

No. 5.—Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George, dam, (dam of Capitola) by Margrave. [See sale at Willows.—L. S. G.]

No. 6.—Bay mare, nine years old, by imp. Glencoe, dam by Rudolph; grandam Belle Anderson.

No. 7.—Bay filly, two years old, by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan by Emancipation. [This filly was owned and run by Theodore Winters, under the name of Ada C., and became the dam of Ballot Box and other noted race horses—L. S. G.]

No. 8.—Chestnut filly, four years old, by Vandal, dam by Grey Eagle; grandam Churchill.

No. 9.—Chestnut mare by Wagner. (Dam of No. 11.)

No. 10.—Bay mare by Sovereign.

No. 11.—Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George. [Son of No. 9, by Wagner. See sale at Willows.—L. S. G.]

No. 12—Chestnut filly, three years old, by Jack Gamble, dam Betty King, by Boston. [See sale at Willows.—L. S. G.]

No. 13.—Bay mare, six years old, by imp. Sovereign, dam by Mirabeau, grandam Arabella. [See Kate, Bruce's Stud-Book, page 161.—L. S. G.]

No. 14.—Capt. Beard, b s, nine years old, by imp. Yorkshire, dam by imp, Glencoe; grandam by imp. Leviathan; great-grandam by Stockholder. [Purchased by J. P. Welch, March 14, 1861, for $110, of James H. Wood, who sold him at auction in Lexington, Ky.—L. S. G.]

No. 15.—Grey mare by Grey Eagle, dam Mary Morris, by Medoc. [Dam of Volscian, Annette, Waxy and others.—L. S. G.]

No. 16.—[Hope?], ch m, by Glencoe, dam Susette by Aratus. [This mare never came to California, and, if the Stud-Book is to be relied upon, did not leave Kentucky. See Bruce's Stud-Book. L. S. G.]

No. 17.—Bay mare by Sovereign, dam by Grey Eagle. [The breeding of No 17 is a mistake According to the evidence I have, her dam was Mary Ellen, by Mirabeau, not by Grey Eagle. Sold to J. L. Eoff, and by him to Theo. Winters. L. S G.]

No. 18.—Chestnut filly, two years old, by Bob Johnson, dam by Brawner's Eclipse. [This was a bay filly, and was owned and run by J. L. Eoff under the name of Lilly Hitchcock—Eoff, as usual, fraudulently using the name of Lexington as her sire.—L. S. G.]

No. 19.—Chestnut filly, three years old, by Knight of St. George, dam by Grey Eagle. [This mare could not have come. She was known as Jenny H. See Bruce, Vol. 1, page 556.—L. S. G.]

No. 20.—Bay colt, one year old, by Lexington, dam by Grey Eagle. (This was Waxy, and "b c" was undoubtedly a typographical error, and should have been "sorrel or chestnut filly," instead of "bay colt." As proof, see statement of Satterthwaite, and record of Lexington's service in 1862. Also O'Hanlon, Grigsby, Weston and F. Welch's statements.—L. S. G.)

No. 21.—Chestnut colt, two years old, by Ringgold, dam Hope by Glencoe.

Nos. 22 and 23.—Pair 3:00 six-year-old trotting mares.

No. 24.—Black mare, trotter, eight years old. Time 2.50.

No. 25.—Bay gelding, trotter, five years old. Time near 3:00.

No 26.—Bay bay for show, but not to go.

"In addition to this splendid string of thoroughbreds, Mr. Welch has purchased a number of fine saddle horses. This is the largest and most valuable shipment of horses ever made to this State. We hope all will arrive in good condition, etc."

August 13, 1864.

"Melancholy Death.—Mr. John P. Welch, who left here several months since for Kentucky, for the purpose of purchasing fine stock for this State, died at Fort Lamarie, August 2d, being on his return. Mr. Welch was accompanied by several members of his family, and doubtless received every attention possible. The dispatch concerning the information of his death was addressed to John Anderson, of this city, but no particulars were given. Mr. Welch was a man universally respected and esteemed. He was a civil engineer by profession, and a thorough and competent one. In Oregon, where he resided for a long time, he made many warm and earnest friends, who will be pained to hear of his decease. In a few days we shall be in possession of the details of the melancholy occurrence."

October 8, 1864.

"Fine Stock.—The Salt Lake Daily Telegraph says, under date of September 24th, that among other passings to the Pacific during the present week, was a fine band of thoroughbred mares, thirty in number, from Kentucky, where they had been purchased for Mr. John Anderson, of San Francisco, by Mr. John P. Welch of the border State, with a view of competing with the best blood in the Pacific States. Mr. Welch and two of his relatives were taken sick on the plains and died on the Sweetwater. A young man brought the stock on to the city and passed westward."

October 29, 1864.

"Fine Stock.—We are in receipt of information from Mr. John Anderson at Austin, Reese River, Nevada Territory, which place he had reached with a large lot of blooded stock, consisting of horses and mares purchased in Kentucky. Some time since, Mr. John P. Welch, an old resident of this place, left for the Atlantic States, commissioned by Mr. Anderson to make selections for him from the finest stock which could be procured. He did so, and was on his return with a band of horses, but took sick on the way, and himself, father, and sister died at Sweetwater. Mr. Anderson was compelled in consequence to go out and meet his stock, which he did beyond Salt Lake. We are gratified in being enabled to state that, notwithstanding the untoward and melancholy circumstances attending their journey, the stock is in fine condition. Mr. Anderson left a number of head at Salt Lake for the winter, and eight head at Diamond Springs, near Austin. He is now on his way to this city with the balance, and we hope to see him in a few days."

December 17, 1864.

"In another column will be found an advertisement of a sale of thoroughbred stock which will take place at the Fair Grounds near San Jose, on Tuesday, January 3, 1865. This stock is a portion of that purchased by the late J. P. Welch, in Kentucky and Tennessee last spring, for account of John Anderson, Esq. There are ten lots—six two-year-olds, three three-year-olds, and one five-year-old, comprising the get of Revenue, Ringgold, Knight of St. George, Lexington, Jack Gamble, Vandal and Sovereign. This is the choicest and most extensive lot of stock that has yet been offered at public sale in the State. The stock is all young and desirable and of the age to be placed immediately in training."

December 31st the same paper contained another notice, of which the following is a portion: "This stock is a portion of that imported by Mr. John Anderson, and was selected by the late J. P. Welch, one of the best judges of stock ever on this coast."

January 7, 1865.

Referring to the sale at San Jose race-course the Spirit says: "It was slimly attended. The prices obtained were ruinously low. Mr. J. L. Eoff purchased the two-year-old bay filly by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan; the two-year old filly by Bob Johnson, dam by Brawner's Eclipse; and the brown mare, five years old, by Sovereign, dam Grey Eagle. Mr. W. Woodward, of this city, was also a purchaser. We will give a full list of the stock sold and prices obtained in our next issue."

January 14, 1865.

No. 1.—Bay filly, two years old, by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan. (This was Ada C.—L. S. G.) Bought by J. L. Eoff...	$325.00
No. 2.—Sorrel colt, two years old, by Ringgold, dam Hope by Glencoe. (Bid in and sold at the "Willows," Feb. 10, 1866. See No. 7 in that sale.—L. G. S.) Bought by Mr. Fowler	100.00
No. 3.—Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George, dam by Wagner. Bought by Mr. Fowler	125.00
No. 4—Bay filly, two years old, by Bob Johnson, dam by Brawner's Eclipse. [This was Lilly Hitchcock, undoubtedly bred by Philip Swigert. See statement of L. Broadhead, Esq.—L. G. S.) Bought by J. L. Eoff	250.00
No. 5—Sorrel filly, two years old, by Lexington. (This was Waxy.—L. S. G.) Bought by William Woodward	250.00
No. 6.—Black colt, two years old, by Knight of St. George, dam by Margrave. Bought by L. S. Ward	120.00
No. 7.—Bay gelding three years old. by Lexington, dam Nannie Clark. Bought by L. S. Ward	160.00
No. 8.—Chestnut filly, three years old, by Jack Gamble, dam Betty King. Bought by Mr. Fowler	225.00
No. 9.—Bay filly, three years old, by Vandal, dam Miss Singleton. Bought by Mr. Fowler	150.00
No. 10.—Brown mare, five years old, by Sovereign, dam by Grey Eagle. (Afterwards sold to Theodore Winters.—L. S. G.) Bought by L. S. Ward	260.00
TROTTERS AND WORK HORSES.
No. 11.—Bay trotting mare, seven years old. Bought by Mr. Fowler	275.00
No. 12.—Bay horse. Bought by L. S. Ward	75.00
No. 13.—Grey mare. Bought by L. S. Ward	110.00
Total realized	$2,425.00

"After the sale the brown mare by Sovereign was disposed of to Theodore Winters, Esq., of Nevada, on private terms. The stock purchased by Messrs. Ward and Fowler is understood to have been for account of Mr. John Anderson, who was interested in the importation with the late Mr. Welch."

March 4, 1865.

"Dead.—The bay mare by Sovereign, dam by Grey Eagle, which was purchased by Messrs. J. L. Eoff and William Woodward at the sale of the late J. P. Welch's stock at San Jose in January, died recently by becoming mired at the ranch of Mr. Woodward, of Napa County. This mare was the dam of Grigsby's well-known horse Volscian, and would have proved a valuable addition to the brood-mares of the State. We sympathize deeply with her owners in their loss."

March 11, 1865.

"Death of Valuable Stock.—Our friend, Mr. John Anderson, has had hard luck with the stock purchased for him at the East, by the late John P. Welch about a year since. It had an unfortunate time in crossing the plains, consequent upon the death of Mr. Welch, and several head died during the journey. Mr. Anderson arrived from Mexico a few days since, and informs us that during his absence information was received of the death of the fine horse Capt. Beard, and a superior Lexington colt named Frank. Capt. Beard was nine years old and was by imp. Yorkshire, dam by imp. Leviathan."

December 30, 1865.

"Ocean Course Running Meeting—Second Day.—The race was a dash of one mile and a quarter for a sweepstake of $750. The entries were Theo. Winters' bay filly Ada C; J. L. Eoff's bay filly Lilly Hitchcock, and W. Woodward's sorrel filly Waxy. These colts were of the importation of the late J. P. Welch, and were sold at auction at San Jose last Spring, at which time this stake was entered into. The race was won cleverly by Mr. Eoff's filly in 2:24½. The winner is a beautiful animal and appropriately named after the most dashing and vivacious lady San Francisco can boast of:

Ocean Course, Wednesday, December 27, 1865.

J. L. Eoff's b f Lilly Hitchcock by Lexington, dam by Brawner's Eclipse 1
Theodore Winter's b f Ada C. by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan by imp. Emancipation 2
Time, 2:24½.

"Third Day.—The second race was a sweepstakes for $25 each, between the three-year-olds that ran the day previous. At the time of starting but two came to the post, Lilly Hitchcock and Ada C. The race was an easy thing for Lilly, who won it in fine style in 1:53½ and 1:56; excellent time under the circumstances."

Ocean Course, Thursday, Dec. 28, 1865.

J. L. Eoff's b f Lilly Hitchcock by Lexington, dam by Brawner's Eclipse 1 1
Theo. Winter's b f Ada C. by Revenue, dam Sally Morgan by imp. Emancipation 2 2
W. Woodward's s f Waxy by Lexington, dam unknown .... Paid forfeit.

December 30, 1865.

The Spirit states that Mr. John Anderson will sell Rifleman, Mary Chilton and the balance of his stock of thoroughbreds, February 10, 1866, and that they will give particulars in next issue. This stock was sold on that date at the "Willows," San Francisco, by Messrs. H. M. Newhall & Co., auctioneers.

Sale of Fine Stock at Auction.—On account of departure, all the stock belonging to John Anderson, Esq., will be offered for sale at the Willows, near San Francisco, on Saturday, February 10, 1866, at 2 o'clock, P. M. This stock was selected in Kentucky by the late John P. Welch, with great care and regardless of expense;

No. 1.—The fine thoroughbred stallion Rifleman, ten years old, whose pedigree is well known; he is brother to Marksman, and half-brother to Norfolk. As a stock horse he has no superior.

No. 2.—Mary Chilton, nine years old, by imp. Glencoe, out of Birdcatcher's dam by Eclipse; grandam Queen Mary by Bertrand-Brimmer-Woodpecker's dam, by Buzzard-Fawn, by Craig's Alfred-Moreton's Traveller-imp. Whittington. Brimmer (sometimes called Blue Beard) was by Lamplighter, etc.

No. 3.—Grey mare by Grey Eagle, dam Mary Morris by Medoc, fourteen years old. This mare is the dam of Volscian and other celebrated race animals.

No. 4.—Black colt by Knight of St. George, dam by Wagner; three years old.

No. 5. Black colt by Knight of St. George, dam by Margrave, (the dam of Capitola and Tourist); grandam Mistletoe; three years old.

(Both the above-named colts are well broken to harness and will make a fine match team

No. 6.—Bay mare by imp. Sovereign, dam by Mirabeau; grandam Belle; six years old.

No 7.—Sorrel colt by Ringgold, dam Hope by Glencoe; grandam Susette by Aratus; three years old.

No. 8.—Bay filly by Vandal, dam Miss Singleton by Old Denmark; five years old.

No. 9.—Brown mare, six years old; good, common mare.

No. 11.—Rifleman filly; good buggy mare.

No. 12,—Chestnut mare, six years old, by Oregon Timoleon, out of a four-mile race-mare from Kentucky. She is a 3:00 trotting-mare.

No. 13.—Brown mare, five years old, by Boston, dam by Grey Pilot.

No. 14.—Chestnut filly by Jack Gamble, dam Betty King by Boston; grandam Fanny King by imp Glencoe, four years old.

No. 15.—Sorrel mare by Vandal, dam by Grey Eagle; five years old.

Also, a number of the Rifleman colts.

Most of the mares were bred to and are with foal by Rifleman.

Full information in regard to above sale may be obtained at this office or upon application to John Anderson, Esq., 622 Clay Street (upstairs), from 10 to 12 A. M. H. M. Newhall & Co., Auctioneers.

The following prices were obtained as reported in the Spirit, viz.:

No. 1—Rifleman. Sold to J. C. Taylor	$1,600
No. 2.—Mary Chilton. Sold to A. Gamble	575
No. 3.—Grey Eagle mare, dam of Volscian. Sold to A. Gamble..	340
No. 4.—Black colt, by The Knight of St. George, dam by Wagner	140
No. 5.—Black colt by the Knight of St. George, dam by Margrave	140
No. 6.—Bay mare by imp. Sovereign, dam by Mirabeau, six years	200
No. 7.—Sorrel colt, three years old, by Ringgold, dam Hope by Glencoe	225
No. 14.—Chestnut filly, by Jack Gamble, dam Betty King	160
No. 15.—Sorrel mare, by Vandal; dam by Grey Eagle	500
Also yearling colt, by Langford out of Mary Chilton (No. 2); afterward known as Thad Stevens. Sold to Alex. Gamble..	220

Statement of William Woodward.—"I bought Waxy at a sale of horses at San Jose Fair Grounds, January 3, 1865. She was represented to be by Lexington, but I do not remember anything more of her pedigree. J. L. Eoff and Theodore Winters each bought a filly at the same sale. After the sale we went to a saloon, and getting a little 'hot,' made a race to take place in the fall, play or pay, two hundred and fifty dollars each. I sent Waxy up to Nathan Coombs, at Napa, as he had a ranch and track there, with the expectation that he would put her in training for our race, and then forget all about the matter, being engaged in other business, and never having had anything to do with runners. About three or four weeks before the race some one spoke about it, and I went to Napa to see how Waxy was getting along, but learned to my surprise, that she had been running around and nothing had been done. She was poor, lousy, and her hair was coarse and long. Mr. Coombs said it was no use to train her, as she could not be put in any condition to race with Lilly Hitchcock or Ada C., both of which were in fine racing trim. My friends all laughed at me and ridiculed the idea of running her in such form, but it was 'play or pay,' and so I put her in the hands of Bob O'Hanlon, the only man available, to do the best he could with her. At the race she jumped away with the lead, and easily outran her competitors beyond the half; but the lack of work told in the stretch, and she was beaten home. Having no further use for a race horse, I gave her to Mr. O'Hanlon, and never saw her after. I purchased no other horses at the sale, neither did I own one with Eoff, and am at a loss to understand the article you clipped from the Spirit of the Times regarding the mireing and death of a Sovereign mare on my Napa ranch in March, 1865. It is utterly devoid of truth. Mr. Eoff sent Lilly Hitchcock to my ranch immediately after her purchase at San Jose, but a vicious bull on the place attempted to gore her, and she was taken elsewhere.

William Woodward.

East Oakland, Cal., Jan. 13. 1889."

Statement of Rob't T. O'Hanlon.—"Levi S. Gould.—Dear Sir: I was lessee of the San Jose Fair Grounds in 1864. Late in the fall of that year Mr. John Anderson, of San Francisco, brought in from the east a lot of colts, fillies and brood-mares, about fifteen in number, being the balance of the purchase of John P. Welch, who died on the plains while bringing them from Kentucky. On the 3d day of January, 1865, this stock was sold at auction at the above-mentioned Fair Grounds. Among those sold was a light chestnut or sorrel filly with small star and hind feet white to the ankles. This filly was purchased by William Woodward, of San Francisco, who some time after left her with me to train. I distinctly remember that Mr. Anderson or the auctioneer read her breeding at the sale from a small pocket memorandum book as by Lexington; dam by Grey Eagle; 2d dam by Medoc; 3d dam by Sumpter, and that she had crosses of Bertrand and Eclipse. I am positive of this, and also that her dam was a grey mare, dam of Volscian, which they had brought over with her, and am at a loss to understand why her dam was ever represented as unknown. I trained her, and she ran as Waxy one race only against Lily Hitchcock and Ada C., in the winter of 1865, at the Ocean House Track, San Francisco. After that race she was given to me by Mr. Woodward. It was my intention to train her for the next year, but she was injured in the hip in some mysterious way, and was never entered in any race thereafter to my knowledge. While in my hands she threw Alpha, by imp. Hercules, and a colt by Clint Malone, which was afterward stolen; subsequently I sold her to John Hall, of whom she was purchased by Governor Stanford. Having advised Mr Woodward to purchase the filly Waxy, I naturally took a great interest in her, and being in the race-horse business at that time, was very particular in the matters of breeding, and it is impossible that I should be mistaken in regard to the pedigree given by Mr. Anderson at the sale. R. T. O'HANLON.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 12, 1889."

STATEMENT OF JOHN WESTON.—"I came across the plains in 1864. During the trip I frequently met John P. Welch, who was driving a lot of some thirty or more thoroughbreds, selected by him in Kentucky for the California market. He died at Laramie, and afterward it was my melancholy duty to bury his sister, who died on the Sweetwater. I was not in any way connected with Mr. Welch, but was frequently with the train until its arrival at Salt Lake City, where it was met by Mr. John Anderson, of San Francisco, who furnished the money with which to purchase the stock. Mr. Anderson requested me to accompany him through to California, and I did so, assisting in the care of the horses, all of which were in a terrible condition, owing to their wretched treatment after the death of Mr. Welch. Beside Mr. Anderson and myself, two younger brothers of John P. Welch came through—one named James, now dead, and the other lives, I think, in Oregon. I believe his name was Frank. I am very certain that they had a list containing the pedigrees of all the horses which their brother, John P. Welch, had in his string. After crossing the river Jordan, this side of Salt Lake City, we lost a very valuable chestnut brood-mare, which probably went to the stable of some honest Mormon. Subsequently another mare, one of the best we had, was stolen by a man who came along in the train, and was ridden away in the night. Pursuit was useless, and so we were obliged to let her go. Some others died, and we left three or four at Diamond Springs, Nev., they being unable to proceed further. Mr. Anderson desired me to go for them in the spring, but I declined. It is doubtful if any of them ever got here. The balance of the lot, some fifteen or more in number, we drove into San Jose, Cal., and left them at the Fair Grounds in charge of Mr. L. S. Ward. They were in a deplorable condition. One filly I particularly remember. She was a sorrel, with a small star and one or two white ankles behind. She was a perpetual nuisance, and many times I felt like shooting her. She would run a mile or two like the wind, obliging us to follow on our fleetest nags. She was the only SORREL FILLY in the lot, and I am very sure her dam was brought through with the train.

JOHN WESTON.

No. 1000 Market St., San Francisco, Cal, Jan. 10, 1889."

STATEMENT OF WILLIAM W. FOWLER.—"On or about the 3d day of January, 1865, I was requested by Mr. John Anderson, of San Francisco, to attend a sale of thoroughbred stock in which he was interested, at the San Jose Fair Grounds, and bid-in quite a number of the animals for the account of Mr. Anderson, substantially as reported in the Spirit of the Times, in its issue of January 14, 1865. Mr. L. S. Ward, now dead, bid-in others; and there were sales also to J. L. Eoff and William Woodward, as appears in said account. Mr. Anderson informed me that the horses were of the purest racing blood, and that Mr. Welch died in bringing them over, but I can recollect nothing of their breeding.

WILLIAM W. FOWLER.

No. 702 Tenth St., Oakland, Cal., Jan. 13, 1889."

STATEMENT OF W. M. WILLIAMSON.—"To Levi S. Gould.—Dear Sir: I was at the sale of the horses and mares at San Jose Fair Grounds, Jan. 3, 1865, belonging to John Anderson. This stock was bought in Kentucky by John P. Welch, who died on the plains while bringing them over. I saw them often both before and after the sale. They were all in wretched condition, owing to the journey they had taken. Among them was a sorrel filly which was purchased by Wm. Woodward, who gave her, the following year, to Robert T. O'Hanlon, of this city, by whom she was bred to imp. Hercules, the produce being the bay filly Alpha, which won the great race at Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 26, 1873, beating Joe Daniels and others, the fourth heat being run in 1:45. Mr. Woodward named his filly Waxy, under which name she was run against Lilly Hitchcock and Ada C., at the Ocean House Track, San Francisco, in December, 1865, both of the above fillies having been brought to San Jose by Mr. Anderson, sold at the same time, and came across the plains with Waxy. I also remember that Achilles F. Grigsby, now of Napa Co., told me in the year 1865, that he held a power of attorney from Philip Swigert of Frankfort, Ky., to obtain the proceeds of the sale of certain stock intrusted to Mr. John P. Welch, before mentioned, and among others he stated that the Grey Eagle mare, dam Mary Morris, by Medoc, was the property of Mr. Swigert; and I am also firmly of the opinion that he told me the sorrel filly Waxy was another of Mr. Swigert's consignment,

W. M. WILLIAMSON.

SAN JOSE, Cal., January 10, 1889."

STATEMENT OF ACHILLES F. GRIGSBY.—"Levi S. Gould.—In the year 1865 I received a power of attorney from one Philip Swigert, of Frankfort, Ky., to sell his interest in a lot of thoroughbred stock brought to California by John P. Welch, who was to have a half-interest in the venture. Mr. Welch having died on the plains, the stock was bought in by John Anderson, who met it at Salt Lake, and a Mr. John Weston. I corresponded regularly with Mr. Swigert in regard to the stock and business connected therewith, and among other matters he called my attention directly to a certain sorrel filly sired by the celebrated stallion Lexington, saying at the same time that she was out of the dam of Volscian, which stallion I then owned, having bought him of Mr. Swigert in 1860. He said that her pedigree was beyond question, and that she would make me a fine brood-mare. I am certain that I am correct in this statement. This filly was sold at San Jose Fair Grounds, Jan. 3, 1865, and purchased by William Woodward. From my recollection of the correspondence between Mr. Swigert and myself, I am positive that he was the breeder of the filly in question, afterward known as Waxy. The list and pedigree of all the horses in question were entered in a small memorandum book by Mr. Welch, which, after his death, was delivered to Mr. John Anderson, who was interested financially in the venture, and in whose possession I frequently saw and had access to it in settling up the business intrusted to my charge by Mr. Swigert. I also had a list myself, sent to me by Mr. Swigert, of the lot claimed by him, of which the sorrel filly was one, but after strict search I am unable to find it. The Grey Eagle mare, dam Mary Morris, by Medoc, was one of those brought over by Welch and claimed by Swigert. She was the dam of Volscian, before mentioned. ACHILLES F. GRISBY.

WOODEN VALLEY, Cal., Jan, 8, 1889."

STATEMENT OF FRANK WELCH.—'I started across the plains in 1864. My brother John P. died at Fort Laramie, Wyo. Ter., on the 22d day of July. My father died in the Black Hills on the 27th of the same month, and my oldest sister, Mary, died at Sweetwater, on the 10th of August. My brother, James J. and myself arrived at San Jose, Cal., with seventeen horses in November, 1864. I remember the sorrel yearling filly with star in forehead and white hind feet that came through with the lot to San Jose, Cal. We had a white mare by Grey Eagle which had a sorrel filly by Lexington, that I think my brother got from David or Philip Swigert. A man named John Jackson, also a man by the name of C. Pope, came, I think, with them from Kentucky. Pope left us near Fort Laramie, and Jackson at Sweetwater. I first saw the horses at St. Louis. FRANK WELCH.

WESTMINSTER, B. C., Jan. 21, 1889."

STATEMENT OF JERRY B. WELCH.—"My brother, John P., was a civil engineer in Oregon several years prior to his residence in California. He was born near Syracuse, N. Y. His grandfather was a noted stage proprietor of the olden time in Harrisburg, Pa., where he used over three hundred horses in that line of business. John and myself owned a ranch in the Willamette Valley, Or., and becoming interested in thoroughbreds, he determined to visit Kentucky and purchase some of the best blood to be found. As a result he brought Rifleman, Mary Chilton, which was the dam of Thad Stevens, and other noted horses to Oregon. Subsequently he took them to California, and became interested with John Anderson, who furnished money to return to Kentucky for a fresh lot about the year 1863. On this trip he purchased a large lot, and while on his return died at Fort Laramie of brain fever in the spring of 1864. Such of the stock as survived were brought through to California by his younger brothers, James and Frank, who were accompanied by a man named John Weston. James is dead, but Frank is a dentist, and resides at New Westminster, B. C., Can.

STATEMENT OF L. BRODHEAD.—"Levi S. Gould.—Dear Sir: I enclose you a list of the mares bred by Mr. Philip Swigert to the stallions at Woodburn. Among them you will observe that in the year 1861 the grey mare by Grey Eagle, dam Mary Morris, was bred to Lexington, and season money paid. In 1862 the grey mare by Grey Eagle was returned to Lexington without charge, indicating she was barren in 1862. It was not positive that the grey mare was barren in 1862, as she may have taken the place of the old mare, Ann Innis. In 1863 the grey mare was not bred to Lexington, indicating that she had a foal in 1863. The Grey Eagle mare may have had a foal in 1862; but as no charge was made for the season money in 1862, the chances are she was barren in that year and bred as a return mare. In addition to the evidence above that the grey mare missed in 1862, I find a memorandum in a blank-book here, giving a list of mares that missed to Lexington from the service of 1861, and the Grey Eagle mare is in this list. * * * Satterwhite says Dick Jackson was with Welch. I think, with what you have, the pedigree of Waxy is conclusively proven, and you can get your article ready. The sooner it is published the better. I forwarded some letters to you, and I hope they gave you some additional information.

WOODBURN FARM, KY., Feb. 6, 1889.

STATEMENT OF W. SATTERWHITE.—"Levi S. Gould.—Dear Sir: Below I give you a statement of all that I remember about a transaction between Philip Swigert of Frankfort, Ky., and a Mr. Welch. I was the manager of Mr. Swigert's farm from January, 1860, to January, 1865, and had charge of all his thoroughbred stock. In the spring of 1864, Mr. Swigert made a contract with Mr. Welch to let Welch have ten head of thoroughbred mares and colts to take to California, to be sold on shares. Below I give a list of those that Welch got:

No. 1.—Bay mare by Grey Eagle, dam the Churchill Mare.
No. 2.—Dark chestnut filly by Vandal, dam No. 1.
No. 3.—Grey mare by Grey Eagle, dam Mary Morris by Medoc.
No. 4.—LIGHT CHESTNUT FILLY BY LEXINGTON, DAM No. 3.
No. 5.—Chestnut mare bought by Dr. Warfield, that we call the Warfield Mare [Hope, by Glencoe (?)].
No. 6.—Colt out of Warfield Mare, No. 5, This colt was a bay, small, but very nice, one year old, and I think he was by Swigert's Lexington (he by Lexington, out of Ann Innis

"There were four others, but I cannot remember positively about them. I think there was a filly by Bob Johnson, out of a mare by Brawner's Eclipse, that we called the 'Keenon Mare.' The Vandal Filly (No. 2) was a very dark chestnut, and very handsome. I do not think she had any white markings. The Lexington filly (No. 4) was a light chestnut, with some white markings. I think both these fillies (No. 2. and No. 4) were foaled in 1863—am sure No. 4 was. My recollection is that both were yearlings in 1864. I assisted Mr. Welch in taking the stock from Frankfort to Georgetown, Ky., and did not see him afterward, but learned from Mr. Swigert that Welch died crossing the plains, and that little or nothing was realized from the venture.

W. SATTERWHITE.

EMINENCE, KY.

STATAMENT OF GEORGE MCMURTRIE.—"In the spring of 1864, being out of health, I concluded to make an overlandf trip to California, and started in company with John P. Welch, who was in Kentucky collecting stock for the Pacific Coast. I do not recollect of whom he purchased any of the animals. We left April 13, 1864, and drove the entire distance from Kentucky via. St. Louis and St. Joseph. There were thirty-seven horses and colts if my recollection serves me aright—many of which perished before I left them. After the death of Welch, his father and sister, I took the stage through to California, and telegraphed to John Anderson, of San Francisco, the condition of things, as I understood he was interested in the stock. A man named John Jackson, now living in Kansas City, was with us from Lexington. The stock was in charge of Welch's two younger brothers after his death—Frank and James J.

GEORGE MCMURTIE,
CINCINNATI, Ohio. Clerk, St. James Hotel.

A careful analysis of the foregoing evidence, culled by the writer through personal interviews with all parties who have either made oral or written statements, with a single exception—that of Frank Welch, who resides in British Columbia—convinced him that there could be but one logical and reasonable conclusion, viz., that but one sorrel or chestnut filly came in the lot to San Jose, and that she was one of the Philip Swigert lot out of the Grey Eagle mare. With this thought in his mind, and a complete history of Waxy previous to entering the Palo Alto Stud, he turned his back upon the verdant and flowery slopes of the Sierras, to prove his work at "Woodburn," the resting place of the mighty Lexington. Its courteous and genial manager entertains his guests as a broad head with a broad heart only can; and so it came to pass that every assistance was rendered, and the fact was brought to light that Philip Swigert bred the Grey Eagle mare to Lexington in 1861, and returned her barren in 1862, when she was again bred to the same horse. To identify the foal of 1863 was the main question at issue. Philip Swigert, a wealthy banker and breeder of Frankfort, Ky., has been dead many years. So also was his executor, and his papers were scattered. Mrs. Swigert, a very old lady, rendered every assistance in her power, but no proof as to sex, color, or marks of the produce of that year could be found. In this dilemma it seemed as though all trace was lost; but luckily Mr. Satterwhite, who was Mr. Swigert's overseer for many years, was found, and stated that he recollected the circumstances of the Welch matter perfectly well. He states that Mr. Swigert let him have ten head of stock, and they were to be sold on shares. He says he also remembers that Mr. Swigert told him later on of the death of Welch, and that the venture was a total loss. He says he distinctly recollects that the Grey Eagle mare, out of Mary Morris by Medoc, with her yearling chestnut filly by Lexington, were in the lot taken away by Welch. Thus the identity of Waxy is established: First, through the record of sales of January 3, 1865, at San Jose, Cal. Second, through the statement of Robert T. O'Hanlon. Third, by that of A. F. Grigsby, supplemented by that of W. H. Williamson. Fourth, by that of John Weston, supplemented by that of Jerry B. Welch. Fifth, by that of Frank Welch, supplemented by that of George McMurtrie. Sixth, by the Stud Service-Book of Lexington at "Woodburn;" and, finally, by the testimony of Mr. Satterwhite, the overseer of Mr. Swigert at the time of the transaction with Welch.

Briefly summarized, Waxy was bred by Philip Swigert, of Frankfort, Ky., and foaled in 1863. With her dam she crossed the plains in 1864. As a two-year-old she was sold by auction to William Woodward, at San Jose, January 3, 1865. On the 27th day of December, 1865, at the Ocean Course, San Francisco, Cal, without proper preparation, she was beaten in a race against Lilly Hitchcock, by Bob Johnson, and Ada C., by Revenue. This was her first and only race. Mr. Woodward gave her to Robert T. O'Hanlon. In her three-year-old form she was permanently disabled by an injury to her hip, and was bred to imp. Hercules, the produce being the great race-mare Alpha. Bred again, she produced a bay colt by Clint Malone, by Owen Dale, which was stolen. O'Hanlon sold her to John Hall, of Alameda, Cal., deceased, from whom she passed into the Palo Alto stud, where she died January 24, 1882. She was a light chestnut or sorrel, had a small star on the forehead and two white hind feet. She was by Lexington, and her dam was the Grey Eagle mare, by Grey Eagle.

As a deduction from the foregoing history, the pedigree of the sorrel two-year-old filly by Lexington, sold to William Woodward by auction at San Jose, Cal., January 3, 1865, is tabulated as follows, viz:

Waxy, s m, foaled 1863 by Lexington, dam Grey Eagle mare by Grey Eagle. (See p. 496, Vol. I. Bruce's Stud-Book) second dam Mary Morris by Medoc: third dam Miss Obstinate by Sumpter; fourth dam Jenny Slamerkin by Tiger; fifth dam Paragon by imp. Buzzard. Bred by Philip Swigert, Frankfort, Ky.

1855—gr f Eagless, by imp. Glencoe. (A famous broodmare. Among her produce were the following great racers: Mary Clark by Lexington; Lizzie Lucas by imp. Australian: Steel Eyes by Planet; and Grey planet, for which August Belmont paid $10,000.—L. S. G.)
1856.—gr f by Ivanhoe, son of Boston.
1857—b c American (afterward Volscian), by Vandal. (A celebrated sire in California.)
1858—b c Native by imp. Sovereign.
1859—b f Priscella by imp. Scythian,
1860—ch f Annette by Lexington, (dam of Ansel by Electioneer.
1861—ch f Jenny H. by the imp. Knight of St. George. (A famous brood mare at "Woodburn."
1862—Missed to Lexington.
1863—s f Waxy by Lexington.
1864—Not bred.
1865—Not bred.
1866—gr f Della by Rifleman.
1867—gr f by Lodi (Gilroy Belle.)

She was sold at the "Willows," San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 10, 1866, to Alexander Gamble, who bred her, as above, to Lodi. She was again sold by auction of the effects of Alexander Gamble at Menlo Park, Cal., and purchased by James P. Sargent, of Sargent's Station, Santa Clara Co., Cal., on whose ranch she died about four years after. Mr. Sargent is of the impression that he raised three colts from her not enumerated above, from trotting-sires, but could not at the time identify them.

Oakland Canoe Club.

It blew a gale all last Sunday, and many of the canoes were out enjoying the fun. On Saturday the Flirt and Tocfa were out with passengers, and had a fine spin up to the basin and back. Most of the canoes carried full sail on Sunday notwithstanding the high wind, and a lot of very pretty racing was done. Frolic, Mystic and Gypsy were as usual hard at it on all points of the wind, and the little Iris also distinguished herself, making it warm for the largest canoes. The day ended with an amusing catastrophe to the Commodore, who, in jibing right opposite the boat-houses, turned turtle, and was swept under the railroad bridge. He was immediately pulled out and his canoe hauled ashore, neither much the worse for the ducking. A good many of the members are already making preparations for summer trips, the Sacramento River being the most favored at present, though San Diego, Lake Tahoe and the Columbia River, Oregon, are all talked of. Several new members have lately joined, and the club will again have to talk of enlarging the house if it continues.

NO. 1—THE CALIFORNIA AUTUMN STAKES.

A SWEEPSTAKES FOR TWO-YEAR OLDS (foals of 1888) to be run at the State Fair of 1890. $50 each, h f, or only $10 if declared on or before January 1st; or $15 by May 1, 1890. Declarations void unless accompanied by the money; with $500 added, of which $100 to second; third to save stake. Winners of any stake race to carry three pounds; of two or more, five pounds extra. Maidens allowed five pounds. Three-quarters of a mile.

No. 2.—THE CALIFORNIA ANNUAL STAKE.

A SWEEPSTAKES FOR TWO-YEAR-OLDS (foals of 1888), to be run at the State Fair of 1890. $100 each, h f, or only $10 if declared on or before January 1st; $15 by May 1st, or $25 August 1, 1890. Declarations void unless accompanied by the money; with $600 added, of which $150 to second; third to save stake. Winner of Autumn Stakes to carry seven pounds extra; winner of any other stake to carry three pounds; of two or more, seven pounds extra. Maidens allowed five pounds. One mile.

FOR 1891.

NO. 3.—THE CALIFORNIA BREEDERS' STAKE.

A SWEEPSTAKES FOR THREE-YEAR-OLDS (foals of 1888), to be run at State Fair, 1891. $100 each, h f, or only $10 if declared January 1st; $15 May 1st, or $25 August 1, 1891. Declarations void unless accompanied by the money; with $600 added, of which $150 to second, $100 to third. Winner of any stake race in 1890, of the value of $1,000, to carry five pounds; of two or more, ten pounds extra. Maidens allowed five pounds. One mile and a quarter.

NO. 4.—THE PRESIDENT STAKE.

A SWEEPSTAKES FOR THREE-YEAR-OLDS (foals of 1888), to be run at the State Fair of 1891. $100 each; of which $5 must accompany the nomination; $10 payable January 1, 1891, $15 January 1, 1890; $20 May 1, 1890; the remaining $50 the day of race. Payments not made as they become due forfeits money paid in, and declares entry out, $750 added. The entire stakes and $500 of the added money to winner; $150 to second; $100 to third. Winner of Breeders' stake to carry seven pounds; any other three-rear-old stake of the value of $1,000, five pounds; if two or more, seven pounds. Maidens allowed five pounds. One mile and a half.

Entries to close August 1, 1889.

The new rules of the State Agricultural Society, 1889, will govern running races; they require starters in stake races to be named the night before, and in purse races entries not declared out by 6 o'clock the night before to start. They are as near the American Jockey Club rules as it is possible to make, omitting only such provisions that would be inoperative on this coast. The new standard of weights were adopted, which is simply a four pounds addition to all age weights, but requires two-year-olds when running in their class to carry 118, and three-year-olds 122 pounds.

The society are considering the proposition of giving a regular spring meeting for thoroughbreds, and it is probable that at their next meeting a full list of rich stakes will be opened for 1890 and 1891.

Colors Claimed.

SANTA CLARA CO., Cal.

A friend writes me from New York that all reports to the contrary notwithstanding, that French Park is all right and that John Hyland, the trainer, expects wonders from the great unbeaten. Aurelia is far and away the best of the Haggin lot at present. Byrnes is pushing the mare to get her in fix for the spring handicaps. Hanover is training on well, and Frank McCabe hopes to have him fit to start for the Brooklyn. All of the two-year-olds in Senator Heart's stable are looking well, but of the older contingent Gorgo looks the best, and her chances for the earlier events seem rosy. San Simeon is thought favorably of by some, but he is not as far advanced as his stable companion Gorgo. Tom Needham says that Wheeler T. will get a special "prep." for the Brooklyn, and that Terra Cotta will start sure for the Suburban. Egmont in the same stable is coming on well.

Grim's Gossip.

Otago, New Zealand, has a jockey, and a successful one at that, that wears a cork leg.

Jockey McLaughlin reports that he has reduced himself to 128 pounds, and is in excellent health.

It is expected that Beautiful Bells will have another foal within a few days, as usual by Electioneer.

D. J. McCarty has purchased two beautiful shetland ponies, and made a present of them to his daughter.

The well know breeder J. I. Case, of Racine, Wisconsin, is at present stopping at the Hollenbeck in Los Angeles.

During the coming racing season, Budd Doble will campaign the late purchase of Col. H. S. Russell, Edgemark.

There is a story going the rounds that Robert Bonner is negotiating for the pacer Johnston 2:06¼ for a road horse.

A. W. Glaas has purchased from John Trestrail a fine Clydesdale Stallion (imported), the price paid being $1,200.

In a hurdle race, at Rosehill, Australia, on the 4th of last month, the winner, Ayreshire, was ridden by a Chinese boy named Suey.

Dr. L. Herr, of Lexington, has sold the well-known stallion Allendorf by Onward, dam Alma Mater, to W. C. France, the price being $25,000.

The stallion exhibition announced for last Saturday, at San Jose, had to be postponed on account of the weather, but will take place to-day.

Mentor, the winner of the last Melbourne Cup, has gone wrong and will never race again. Something the matter with one of his legs.

The new firm of bookmakers are doing a land office business. Egmont, Terra Cotta, Aurelia, San Simeon and Wheeler T., have all found backers.

Senator Stanford is expected back from Washington about the 15th of next month. Senator Hearst will probably arrive within a day or two.

Theo. Winters thinks that if Terra Cotta wins a race or two in the West, and shows good form afterwards, that his chances are good for the Suburban.

Jockey McLaghlin will not have time to visit the coast this spring. He has already joined the Chicago Stable and is trying to reduce his averdupois.

Terra Cotta, Prince Royal, Gorgo, the Dwyer horses, Egmont, The Bard and Judge Murray are being liberally backed for the Brooklyn and Suburban Handicap.

The New York Times is authority for the statement that Mr. Hobart has been offered $75,000 for Stamboul, but refused, saying the horse was not for sale at any price.

The trotting horse boom has run into futures. W. H. Wilson has sold to S. A. Brown, of Kalamazoo, a colt in embryo by Sultan, dam Belle Brasfield, 2:20, for the sum of $2,500.

I will take it as a favor if any of my readers can give me the name of the breeder of a bay mare called Gracie, which trotted through this State in 1875, '76 and '78. She has a record of 2:37¾.

Mr. L. U. Shippee, of Stockton, has bred three of his broodmares to St. Savior, and three others to Greenback. Col. H. I. Thornton will also breed the well-known race mare Narcola to Greenback.

Mr. W. Corbett is reported as saying in the East, that Sable Wilkes will be compaigned this year against all stallions, and that he is not afraid of starting him against Stamboul. He will probably have a chance.

The Consolidated Bookmakers of San Francisco have been awarded the privilege of offering the odds at the forthcoming meeting at San Jose. Whitehead and Co. will in all probability be accorded the pool-selling.

Mr. C. F. Langley, of Salinas, has purchased from Mr. Reardon, of San Francisco, the bay stallion Blue Gown by Gus. He will be taken to Mr Langley's farm in San Miguel Canon. The price paid was $1,500.

I learn from Sydney, N. S. W., that a match race will be arranged to take place between the trotting horses Huon and Leithamstead for $2,500 or $5,000 a side. From this far distant point it looks as though Huon should win.

It is reported in several Eastern journals that Mr. L. J. Rose will withdraw from the ranks of the breeders, his many other interests in Los Angeles requiring so much of his time that he cannot devote the attention necessary to the horse business.

D. J. McCarthy will take his family back East this year, and "Joe" has promised me that he will send a letter each week detailing the doing of all the Californian stables. Joe is a bright writer and will send many items which will be of interest to our readers.

The nominations for the Great Eclipse Stakes, for two-year-olds, with $10,000 added, which the New York Club makes a feature, has closed with 210 entries. E. J. Baldwin makes 8, Senator Hearst 6, J. B. Haggin 3 and D. J. McCarty and Brother 2.

There are eight horses in the new stable, lately completed for Senator Stanford at Washington. Money has not been spared on the structure, and it is one of the finest equine establishments in the country. In the stable are Mrs. Stanford's well matched black team which excites the admiration of all who have seen them.

A half brother to Mr. Newton's Australian colt by Epigram, was sold at public auction at Sydney lately, for $3,600. At the same sale, 17 head of trotting horses were sold, the highest price being paid for a colt by Childe Harold, dam Violetta, which realized $3,350. Another by the same sire, dam Kentucky Maid, brought $1,200. The 17 averaged $588 each.

Quite a number of papers in speaking of Sorrento say that he is the only living horse that has twice gone three-quarters in 1:15 and carried 115 pounds. That is not correct, once to his credit is all that can be claimed.

Dr. Klench, of Santa Rosa, has sent me a splendid article on broken winded horses, which will be published next week.

C. V. Tupper has removed his race horses from the Santa Rosa track to the one at San Jose, to be ready for the races there next week

Visitors to P. J. Shafter's farm at Olema, have, one and all, a good word to say for Old Rustic, and that prince of good horses, Prince of Marin.

B. C. Holly, of Vallejo, purchared at the Kellogg combination sale, on Tuesday last, the trotting stallion Mountain Boy, for which he paid $6,100.

I asked Tom Hazlett, a few days ago, if he was going take his string to Los Angeles, and was told he would go to San Jose instead, as the expenses would be much less.

Goliah the favorite in the Kentucky Derby two years ago was lately put in charge of Ed. Storms to train for steeplechasing, but showed such good work that it was decided to return him to flat racing.

A winter book has been opened at Balimore on the Volunteer Handicap. Fresno is made the favorite at 15 to 1. As he carries 122 pounds, when such good ones as Fides, Brussels and Gypsey Queen only have 110 up, it seems a hard matter for him to win.

It is currently reported in horse circles that a gentleman named Gifford, living in San Diego, has a young stallion which can trot three heats in better than 2:15. The horse has no record, so the story goes, and will be taken East this year and campaigned on the big circuit.

T. H. Griffen has had two new horses added to his string this week, one being Patch Allen by Geo. M. Patchen Jr., dam an Ethan Allen mare; the second one is by Albert W. Both of these are fine looking horses, and should make a mark for themselves this season.

O. A. Hickok has accepted the challenge issued by the Sire Bros. to pace Gossip against Adonis conditionally. He offers to make the match, provided the sires will send their horse to this coast, and he will allow them one thousand dollars for expenses. This brotherhood of expelled owners may possibly accept Mr. Hickok's proposition.

A case of "Welshing" is reported from the Jersey tracks. A firm of bookmakers, who term themselves the Boston book, had a man at the head of the business named Lynch, who proved a plunger, and laid long odds against old Bill Daly's Osceola, who won the race. When the event finished, Mr. Lynch could not be found, and now his clients are mourning for their losses.

Starter Caldwell said to a reporter the other day: "Do you know that jockeys are the ones to blame for a straggling start, and very often by deliberately trying to get left? In a field of sixteen horses I have known as many as seven jockeys who maneuvered to get left when the flag fell, thus getting an excuse for not winning, while the blame is put on the starter."

The San Jose Blood Horse Association has a long advertisement in this week's issue announcing their spring meeting. The entries have been so large, and the horses entered so well known, that a highly successful meeting is beyond question. The officials have worked hard to insure a grand success, and the public will appreciate the efforts that have been made on its behalf by a liberal attendance.

When the car load of horses were sent East under the care of J. W. Knox, among the many high classed ones was a yearling filly by Norval, dam American Girl, daughter of Toronto Sontag and Laura Keene by Hambletonian, which had been purchased by Col. R. P. Pepper. On the arrival of the car at Chicago, the filly was found to be sick and was laid off there, without any benefit, however, as the filly died last Thursday week.

The Sporting World says that the Hearst stable is now without a light weight jockey, Narvice, who has held that position, having been sent home last week. He is a Spanish boy, and his people wrote on to Allen, asking for fifty per cent of the boy's wages in advance, and the rest they would take as it became due, not leaving enough to clothe the boy. Allen considered that, under the circumstances, it would be an injustice to the boy to keep him, so he has sent him home.

A few days ago, I saw Edwin C. A. Pacer owned by W. S. Johnson, of Carson City, Nevada, which promises to be one of the bright, shining lights of the 1889 season. He is being handled by T. H. Griffien, at the Bay District Track, and has developed a wonderful turn of speed for a green horse, several quarters having been shown in 33 seconds. Many good judges predict a wonderful future for the colt, and if good work and steady application can make a record for him, Mr. Griffien will do it.

About two weeks ago a suggestion was made in these columns that a combination sale, held in San Francisco, would be a good thing for the small breeders of the State. Messrs. Kellip & Co., announces this week that they will hold such a sale in May, giving ample opportunity for all to send in their entries. This sale will be exclusively for pedigreed stock, and should prove very successful. To enable the promoters to get up their catalogue in good season, those contemplating sending consignments should send in entries as soon as possible. Any information desired in addition to what is stated in the advertisement will be cheerfully given by Killip & Co.

Mr. C. J. Hamlin, at the California sale, replied to a query: "Bully! Glorious! That's what I think of the sale, my young friend. And let me press upon your mind that the trotter is booming. He should boom. He's an American institution and the Americans love him. They will continue to love him and buy him, and pay big prices for him when the right kind are offered. And this love won't easily die out. It won't in years, mark the prediction. The trotter is King! That's why I have said 'bully' and 'glorious' about this sale, and the result justify the expressive words."

Mr. Judson H. Clark writes: "We have placed Bell Boy in the stud for 1889 to fulfill his engagements. He has fifty mares booked to him this season. My experience with stallion for the past twenty-five years has taught me that a horse cannot do himself nor his patrons justice by keeping him in trotting condition and using him in the stud at the same time hence Bell Boy will not trot any races this season The price paid for him was a large one, but we feel that it is a good investment, and were prepared to pay at least $60,000 for him before surrendering to other bidders."

Who Knows This Horse.

The following letter is taken from an Eastern journal. If any of our readers can give the desired information, please forward to this office:

"I would be obliged if you would ask your California readers to tell what they know about Washtenaw Chief (2:29), son of Hill's Black Hawk. He is given in Mr. Chester's work as making a record of 2:29 at Rome, N. Y., in September, 1865. If this be true, and I have no reason to doubt it, he should be a standard horse, and his stock be entitled to registration as such. I understand that he was taken across the plains by a man from Kentucky, together with a horse called Bellfounder.

"I want to know the history of this horse, both before he went to California and afterwards, so that I may have him registered. When he was in California he was bred at Moody's ranch to a mare from California Belmont, her dam being by St. Clair. The produce was the bay mare Lady Hoag, that John Splan brought East with Rarus. She could, and did, trot in 2:17 in California, and at Seneca Falls she trotted a half-mile to a skeleton wagon weighing 110 pounds in 1:08, on a half-mile track, so you see she narrowly escaped being a good one. Her tendons gave out before she was driven to a record, and she is the dam of the colt that my mare was bred to last season, the sire of the colt being Jerome Eddy, 2:16¼. The horse was called Niagara, I believe, in California, and was in the possession of a man named Alexander Gamble."

We have to congratulate our friends of the Sonoma and Marin District Agricultural Association, on the magnificent list of entries which they have obtained for their Stake races, those restricted to the District being especially well patronized. The free-for-alls have not been neglected, and it will be a pleasure to see the large audiences which will be present to see the Queen of the two-year-olds start in her three-year-old form. We venture the prediction that there will be larger numbers turn out to witness the contests of 1889, then were ever known since the Association started.

VETERINARY.

Conducted by Thos. Bowhill, M. R. C. V. S.

Subscribers to this paper can have advice through this column in all cases of sick or injured horses or cattle by sending an explicit description of the case. Applicants will send their name and address that they may be identified. Questions requiring answers by mail should be accompanied by two dollars, and addressed to Dr. Bowhill, 1523 California St., San Francisco.

Inaugural Address of Dr. Maclay Before the Veterinary Association.

GENTLEMEN: In the first place it is my duty to acknowledge the honor you have conferred on me by electing me your President, and to thank you for such a mark of respect. In the second place it is my duty to do all I can to benefit this Association, and, if possible, to render its meetings more interesting and useful, creating and diffusing amongst my professional brethren a more cheerful and hopeful spirit, as well as a more ardent desire in the pursuit of laudable veterinary objects. Are we not told in that best of all books to take fast hold of instruction? Let her not go; keep her, for she is thy life. I only regret that a certain gentleman representing a Senatorial district of this State, and who I am credibly informed, in the course of his remarks opposing the passage of what was known as the William's Veterinary Bill, made the exceedingly broad statement that all veterinary surgeons were nothing more nor less than veterinary cranks, and that a veterinary surgeon was nothing but a man who had not the ability to become a medical man. I only regret, I repeat, that the gentleman is not with us to-day, as it is more than probable, I think, that he might receive such instruction as would better fit him to hold his Senatorial chair, and enable him to advisedly pass judgment in the future upon matters pertaining to the sanitary and quarantine measures which should govern and protect the live-stock interests of this State. Although not indorsing the Williams bill, this Association cannot but regret that without the personal acquaintance of a single one of its members, and without even so much as enquiring into the professional standing either here or elsewhere of the members of this Association, this member of the California Legislature should see fit to use such discourteous if not defamatory language to the veterinary profession at large.

The art of medicine is one whether applied to man or the lower animals. The laws of life are the same in both, the method by which those laws are to be investigated are the same for the veterinarian as for the physician, and the co-operation of the one with the other in research is of the greatest importance. It is a common and most justifiable thing to speak of medicine as a noble profession. As a general rule, men call it so, because its mission is to save life, which is a fine thing to do. Undoubtedly the importance which attaches to human life invests with importance the profession which seeks to guard and prolong it. The veterinarian occupies himself with the same laws of life, and though his department does not include the care of life as exhibited in man, there are often human interests committed to him of very great importance.

Veterinary medicine must have come into existence as soon as man began to domesticate the inferior animals; and that this took place at a very remote era is amply proved by the remains of the horse, the ox, the goat, the dog, etc., being found in ancient tumuli, lake-dwellings, and caves intermingled with the bones of primeval man. It is also established by the fact that among all the members of the Aryan race, the names of the domestic animals still bear the marks of a common origin at that distant pre-historic period, when, before their separation into Greeks, Celts, Goths, Sclavs, Hindoos, Persians, the common ancestry dwelt together and spoke the same language in northern India.

From the Greek writers we can see that the veterinary art was studied in ancient Egypt. From thence it would seem to have passed into Greece, where the great care bestowed on the breeds of cattle, and particularly the horses and hunting dogs, and the great success with which that care was rewarded, incontestably prove that the veterinary profession had at least made great progress as an art.

From the notices of Greek writers we see that many treatises existed on the diseases of domestic animals—that by Hippocrates, a celebrated physician of Cos, was deemed the best. We must regret that most of them have been lost, yet anyone who reads Xenophon's work on the horse cannot fail to see that he lived in an age when the veterinary art had been carefully studied. During the flourishing period of the Roman Empire, veterinary medicine made great progress, as might be expected among a people eminently practical, whose vast military establishment required continued remounts for the cavalry service, and who were unweariedly employed in improving the breeds of domestic animals. The awful catastrophe in the history of the human race known as the fall of the Roman Empire, and the night of darkness that followed, have deprived us of the greater part of ancient literature. Among other losses we have to deplore that of many works on veterinary medicine, the names of whose authors alone remain. Yet enough remains to show how carefully the art had been studied, and what progress it has made toward the dignity of a science. Upon this subject I would refer to the treatises of Marcus Plato, of Terrentius, Varro, of Columella, of Palladius, Vegetius, and the fragrant Gargilius Martialis—all of which directly or indirectly deal with the veterinary art. The celebrated work of the elder Pliny—Plinius Major—on natural history may also be consulted as throwing light on the veterinary medicine of his day; so also may the philosophic poem of Lucretius—De Rerum Natura. Every one has seen the earlier work of Virgil, in which in immortal verse he treats of the breeding and rearing of cattle and horses among the other cares of the husbandman. Many have wondered how a poet should know so much of such a subject. The wonder abates when we find it recorded by Donatus that, after completing a course of medicine and mathematics, the youthful poet studied veterinary surgery for a considerable time, was employed in the stables of Agustus Cæsar, and was first brought under the notice of that emperor by his skill in the art. On the fall of the Roman Empire, veterinary medicine, like other departments of science, ceased to be cultivated, and for a long period fell into the position of a handicraft, in which smiths, shepherds or herdsmen empirically practised such treatment as tradition taught or experience suggested. It was about this time that the blacksmith or farrier came to the front and began to assert himself as the great depository of the veterinary art. In classic antiquity, horses were not usually shod with iron; and even when metal was used for that purpose, it was commonly fastened to the hoof, not with nails, but with thongs or thatchel like a sandal. It was among the barbaric hordes which overran the Roman Empire, that the iron shoe fastened with nails, came in vogue much about the same time that the tree saddle with stirrups was invented. How much obvious improvement in the equestrian art should not have been earlier adopted, is one of those curious facts in the history of mankind that have never been fully explained. The fact is certain that the classic languages of antiquity contain no words for horse, shoes, saddles or stirrups in their modern sense. Now the saddle throughout the middle ages—at least when used for military purposes—was formed of steel or iron, and was consequently the work of the smith. To the smith also belonged the forging of an iron shoe and the driving of the nails. The last operation as we all know, required no small skill, and the smith often caused injuries to the hoof, which he had to do his best to cure. About the same time, also, the use of the actual cautery became common, and from these combined causes it is easy to see how the farrier came to be regarded as an authority in veterinary medicine. Nor were the ancient farriers the rude blacksmiths into which they ultimately degenerated. They were the forgers of armour, both defensive and offensive, at a time when that art was much more highly cultivated than it has ever been since the invention of gunpowder. They were men often of great attainments in metallurgy and chemistry.

As time wore on a great change took place in the military art. The armies of Greece and Rome had been mainly composed of a highly disciplined infantry. With the institution of chivalry, this (about the ninth century) was entirely changed. The strength of the medieval armies came to consist almost entirely of heavy cavalry, in which man and horse were completely covered with defensive armour, so that the medium weight to be carried by the knightly charger was no less than 420 pounds. A peculiar kind of horse called a "destrier" and now lost was required for this purpose, combining great strength with still greater enery, not, indeed, for speed, but for rapid evolution, so that the knight might wield his heavy lance and battle axe wish advantage in close combat. These horses were procured at vast expense in Spain and Italy; and, when procured, were subjected to an elaborate training of years, until they obeyed the slightest movement of wrist or heel, and played nearly as important a part in the melee as did their riders. This severe training and the exertion they had to make on service, subjected them to continual strains and diseases; but as their value was great, every means of prevention of cure was eagerly sought after. The practice of covering the horse in every part with defensive armour also drew after it important consequences. His ears were cropped out close to the head to permit the covering of mail to fit closely; and for the same reason his tail was not docked but dug out close to the croup. Moreover this heavy panoply of iron exposed the horse to alternate sweats and chills that proved highly destructive. Such things necessite some knowledge of surgery and medicine, and here came in the important part played by the riding-masters or marshals of the day. It was the profession of these gentlemen to procure and train such horses, and afterwards to direct their treatment. Hence they carefully studied the nature and constitution of the horse, and generally possessed the highest degree of veterinary skill known at the time. In Spain, Italy, France and Germany riding schools called academies were established. Some of them obtained a world-wide celebrity. Numerous works on the manage, that is, military riding, emanated from them, and to each was always attached a treatise on the veterinary art. In so high estimation was this combination of riding master and veterinary surgeon held, that it was exercised by the highest of the military nobles. It is a very significant fact that the French word "mareschal," which denotes the highest military officer in France originally meant a veterinary surgeon, and is still used as the name of the farrier. With the introduction of gunpowder, chivalry was extinguished, heavy cavalry fell into disuse, and the armies of Europe came to consist mainly of infantry. This revolution brought about the decline of the old mareschals with all their science and traditions, and that art which kings and nobles had loved to teach fell into the hands of obscure practitioners with little more science than that possessed by a huntsman or trainer for the turf.

The Marquis of Newcastle, whose celebrated work appeared about 1667 (and is now appearing in the weekly issues of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of San Francisco), was the last of the military riding masters; and though after his time his humbler brethren made a gallant struggle to maintain their ancient renown, they steadily declined and the science of the riding school gave way to that of the turf. The result of this was that the veterinary art was fast passing into the hands of blacksmiths, now no longer armourors and was in danger of tumbling from a profession to a trade.

Coincidentally, however, with the decline of the professors of military equitation, arose the first pioneers of the science of veterinary surgery, properly so called. In Italy as early as 1618, appeared the work of Carlo Ruini, on the diseases of the horse, profusely illustrated with superb engravings. This was followed in France by the "Grand Mareschal Francois," a work of great erudition. Soon after appeared "Le Parfait Mareschal" by Sollysel, and this was translated into English or rather Scotch by Sir William Hope. From that time numerous treatises appeared all over Europe, all having for their object to rescue the veterinary art from obscurity, and bring it into the form of a science.

Several of these writers, such as Gibson, Bracken, La Fosse and Osmed were medical men of eminence. They did much to free the veterinary art from blind empiricism. Yet their practice and prescriptions, though vast improvements on those of their day, are tinged with cruelties puerilities at which an ordinary strapper would now stand amazed. At this we need not be astonished. Those were the days when medicine and surgery, even as applied to the human patient, were of such a kind that we do not marvel that so few were cured, but that any one escaped alive from the hands of the learned faculty.

At length, as ordinary medicine began to improve veterinary science followed in its wake. In Italy some veterinary colleges of which little is known were in existence in the beginning of the last century. But it was not till 1761 that the first veterinary college was founded in France, at Lyons, under the well known Bourgelat. This was followed by the now celebrated school of Alfort, founded in 1766. In 1792, the veterinary college of London was founded, Charles Visl de Sainbel and Delabere Blaine being the first professors of it; and the work of the latter, which has passed through numerous editions, is still highly prized. Since then veterinary colleges have been formed in every European capital and in many of the principal cities. In Canada there are two, and in the United States of America there are at least seven colleges, where veterinary medicine and surgery are taught.

Veterinary medicine has now reached a position to which even in the most brilliant days of Greece and Rome it certainly never attained. It is no longer a mere art; it has become a science, and a science of vast range and vast importance. It has passed out of the range of empiricism. Its professors are no longer content to do or prescribe what they have seen done or prescribed before. They wish to know the reason of the practice they adopt; they wish to interrogate nature by experiment and observation; they seek to collect and arrange facts over the widest areas and by every variety of means, and they labor to evolve from the material so collected, the concealed laws or tenors of action by which nature may be supposed to work. They do not reject theory but they insist on bringing the most plausible theories to the test of experiment. Unlike their predecessors, they do not compel fact to square with a favorite theory; they regard theory as valuable only when it harmonizes with and serves to explain facts. There is in the present day a circumstance that at once extends the bounds of veterinary science, and gives it an importance never felt before. You are all aware of the modern theory of evolution based on what is termed natural selection or survival of the fittest in the continued struggle for existence. Its most ardent and advanced votaries claim for this theory the real explanation, not of the origin of creation, as some have supposed, but of the origin of species; in other words the real cause of the various types of life heretofore and now existing on the earth. I cannot say that I am a convert to this notion. I do not think that the ascertained facts are sufficient basis to support the vast theory which is attempted to be reared on them. But whether I am right or not in this view, one thing, I think has been clearly established, and that is, that among all the vertebrates man included, the materials, organs, and structure of the body are so connected in accordance with some under lying plan or law, that all are in strict analogy, and are only adaptations of one common set to the wants and requirements of each separate species.

This adaptation appears to be brought about by the processes of development, as though the great Creator had utilized certain typical organs for every purpose comprised within the benificient scheme of animal life. Thus, to take two of the most divergent instances—the horse and man—the stifle joint of the horse is the analogue of the human knee, the hock of the heel, the single toe on which the horse walks is the analogue of the central digit in the human hand or foot, the other digits being represented in the existing horse by the splint bones which in the equine species carried hoofs, and in still earlier forms appear to have reached the typical number of five.

These, and thousands of similar analogues, do not to my mind prove community of origin, but they prove unity of plan and strongly point to this, that if ever the science of life and curative medicine are to be prosecuted in an exhaustive and effectual manner, it must be by comparative anatomy, comparative physiology, comparative science, in short, universally. Veterinary science has thus assumed vast importance and has come into line with human medicine and surgery.

Neither of these two sciences can hereafter stand apart. The veterinarian has much to learn from the medical man, and the medical man from the veterinarian. Indeed the time cannot be far distant when for all the higher purposes the two provinces of medical science must coalesce.

We have at our colleges, gentlemen who are eminent, who have distinguished themselves as scientific men—men devoted to their profession, and who are most anxious to make their students clever veterinary surgeons. All this we are proud of; but are we who are general practitioners, who are equally anxious to see our noble profession advance, to stand still with folded arms and leave it all for them to do? I maintain that it is the bounden duty of each man to act well his part. Although I respect and reverence a cultured and scientific man, I must at the same time tell you that others, not so favored by being possessed of high scientific attainments, can, and, as history proves, have, investigated and grasped difficult problems, thrown light upon obscure subjects, and assisted to clear away mists which have obscured for centuries some great grand truth. It may be that such a one has been placed in favorable circumstances, had extensive opportunities afforded him, and, possessing an enquiring mind, he has perceived cause and effect in a clearer light than other men have been able to do, and has seized hold of a great truth which all other men have failed to understand. We must recognize the fact that there is a vast difference in different individuals in the intensity of intellectual effort. Some men have a sensitive appreciation, and are impelled by an irresistible longing to seek out a better remedy. What I am endeavoring to lead your mind to is this, viz.: that any one of you, although you may not have any pretentions to high scientific attainments, may happen to be placed in favorable circumstances and have extensive opportunities to clear up some perplexing and vexed question in reference to the nature and treatment of some particular disease, and by a proper application of your intelligence you may render a signal service not only to our noble profession, but to mankind at large, by recording it. Remember an avaricious man is like the barren, sandy soil of the desert, which sucks in all rain and dews with greediness, but yields no fruitful herbs or plants for the benefit of others. In considering the origin of disease, the investigations of Pasteur seem to have proved that we may now with certainty reason in the belief that not only are organized substances really found in great abundance in the atmosphere, but that they are the cause of some hitherto entirely mysterious phenomena, putrefaction included.

Chemists when they have examined products of putrefaction, have found sulphuretted hydrogen, carburetted hydrogen, and carbanic acid, nitrogen, amonia, acetic acid, lactic acid, buytric acid, and numerous uncertain bodies having no activity, and to all appearances, utterly incapable of producing those prodigious results that are found when the force begins to work that produces those fatal diseases which decimate our flock and herds. That organic matter, the debris of living bodies, exists in the air can be shown by incontestible proofs. It may be recognized by the sources and made evident by the scientific processes of the chemist. It has been rendered almost certain by Pasteur that fermentation and purefaction do not go on without the presence of organisms, and most likely living organs. Pasteur first gave the substances duties to perform, giving, in fact, a finish to the inquiry up to this stage, viz.: that putrefaction and fermentation are begun only when there are present bodies in the air which are not gases or vaporous, but solids, and have an organic structure and are living; so it will be seen, whenever there is a deficiency in ventilation in a stable there will be an accumulation of organic particles originating in organic functions, mainly the act of respiration and perspiration, injurious to health, and ultimately to life, they being direct poison to the animal frame. These statements are not new, but they are sufficiently important and interesting to be worthy of recapitulation. We are evidently opening up rapidly and satisfactorily a new era of sanitary science in respect of a knowledge which is calculated to guard us against the road of infection.

It appears to me that the time is fast approaching when all doubt or uncertainty as to the existence of any particular disease will be cleared up with unerring certainty by demonstrating the existence of the particular or individual micrococci, or bacteria, or bacillus, which the microscope will at once detect in the sputa or excretions, or in the blood.

Pedigree of Waxy, Grandam of Sunol.

The article contributed by Levi S. Gould of Boston to Wallace's Monthly, we did not see before it was copied, the intention being to defer comments to this week. On Friday morning our associate informed us that Mr. Wallace had completely demolished the fabric which Mr. Gould had raised with so much care after thousands of miles of travel and weeks of research, and there was a mournful tone, approaching lugubriousness, as he gave the information. We told him not to give up so readily, that Mr. Wallace was a skillful advocate, and in a case in which near crosses of thoroughbred blood in fast trotters were the issue, he was "dead sure" to present the side he fancied in the most favorable light. While we endeavor to be candid, we will also admit a proneness, on our part, to emulate his example, and therefore, in this controversy it may be as well to accept his argument, which is given on another page, and ours as the opinions of partisans, leaving the reading public to announce the verdict. In order that nothing may be wanting, the evidence which Mr. Gould has collected is republished, and the doubling of the space occupied is necessary so that one number of the paper will contain the whole of the testimony and the arguments thereon.

It is, of course, fair to introduce collateral testimony, though in the main, we will take Mr. Gould's statement as sufficient proof. The republication of the matter given last week, and length of our article are so manifestly necessary to give a proper understanding, that apologies are not required, the whole matter being of great interest to the breeders of trotters.

Mr. Wallace takes Mr. Gould's "history" as the basis of his plea, his strongest points being made on the compiler's opinions and assertions outside of the evidence gathered. In the very first sentence Mr. Gould is in error, and the claim that "it was necessary to start from tradition only that she was by Lexington," contrary to his own showing. The letter of A. F. Grigsby, dated January 8, 1889, states that she was bred by Philip Swigert, and that she was by Lexington and from the dam of Volscian. That of R. T. O'Hanlon, the trainer of Waxy, and subsequently her owner, says that "I distinctly remember" that her breeding at the sale was given as Mr. Grigsby said. All of the evidence obtained here was to that effect, and if it were corroborated in Kentucky any reasonable man would acknowledge that the chain was complete. The second mistake made by Mr. Gould was in assuming that the bay colt, one year old, by Lexington, dam by Grey Eagle," was Waxy. That was in order to connect the list as published in the California Spirit of the Times May 14, 1864, with subsequent sales, whereas it is evident that the list was incomplete, and it was more than likely that the Lexington—Grey Eagle mare filly was added after that was sent. That there were changes is beyond question, as some of the animals named did not leave Kentucky. Mr. Wallace lays great stress on the discrepancy between the published list and the accounting thereafter, and as will be seen, by referring to his argument, gives it extra force by placing them in a double column, and calls attention to the fact that the only colt by Lexington in the list Mr. Anderson reported dead. This effectually disposes of Mr. Gould's supposition that a typographical error transformed a sorrel filly into a bay colt. Had that list been furnished by Mr. Welch after he left Kentucky, the absence of Waxy would have been fatal. But preceding the published list is the following words:

"We have received tidings from the first of these gentlemen (Mr. Welch) of a most satisfactory nature. Mr. Welch remarks, in his letter dated April 9th to this office, that he is "gathering together his stock," and would start in a few days for California."

Now the transaction between Mr. W. and Philip Swigert was a venture on the part of the last named, and mainly on his risk, and the filly and others might have have been added after the letter of April 9th was written. The testimony of Mr. Grigsby settles the point that Mr. Swigert did send a Lexington filly out of the dam of Volscian, and all who know Mr. Grigsby do not need to be informed as to his trustworthiness. But there is another fact which will strengthen this position.

R. T. O'Hanlon sold Waxy to John Hall under the pedigree of by Lexington, dam by Grey Eagle, etc.

Mr. Hall bought stock of Mr. Swigert and Mr. Alexander the same year, and was doubtless well informed in relation to the horses which were sent here at the time of his visit to Kentucky. Then the evidence is so strong in establishing the fact that Waxy started from Kentucky and was landed in San Jose, that the most captious objector will be compelled to admit that it is proved beyond any doubt.

W. Satterwhite testifies that he had charge of P. Swigert's thoroughbreds from January, 1860, to January, 1865, and that among the ten head which Mr. Swigert consigned to Mr. Welch, was a light chestnut filly by Lexington and that he was sure she was foaled in 1863. Frank Welch joined the party at St. Louis, and he testifies that "we had a white mare by Grey Eagle, which had a sorrel filly by Lexington. John Weston tells that he frequently met John P. Welch on the journey and assisted in taking charge of the stock by the request of John Anderson, accompanying them to San Jose. He further says that there was only one sorrel filly in the lot, and therefore there could not be any chance to confound Waxy with another, and the only opportunity for substituting an inferior animal was before Mr. Weston first saw her.

We have a straight forward account of the departure of the Lexington—Grey Eagle mare filly from Mr. Swigert's place, and that dam and filly were with the train when Frank Welch joined it at St. Louis. Mr. Weston completes the chain by delivering the filly to Mr. Ward on the San Jose Fair Grounds. From that time until her death at Palo Alto, there is no dispute.

We will not insult the good sense of our readers by offering any further arguments on this point, as every link is in place, though we are surprised that so complete a record has been established.

In the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of January 6th, in an article relating to the pedigree of Waxy, there were paragraphs which have proved to be true prophesy. After alluding to the difficulties in the way, we wrote, "even after the search had been rewarded by the discovery of a history of the purchase and transfer to California, of the man or men who sold them in Kentucky, the description and sale in our papers, all being in harmony, this would not be received as full evidence by those who are determined to follow the steps of the old Scotchman who proudly boasted, I wunna be convinced."

There is a point, however, which we will solicit our readers to give careful attention to. Mr. Wallace claims that she was sold "as by Lexington, dam unknown. If he can find a single sentence to corroborate that outside of the advertisement of the sale, he will do what is beyond our power, and the advertisement does not say so, but merely curtails the notice to a statement of her sire. But R. T. O'Hanlon expressly says, "I distinctly remember that Mr. Anderson or the auctioneer read her breeding at the sale from a small pocket memorandum book as by Lexington, dam by Grey Eagle, second dam by Medoc; third dam by Sumpter and that she had crosses of Bertrand and Eclipse." That our readers will agree with us that there was not a single fact furnished by the evidence to warrant the charge that Waxy was sold as from an unknown dam, there is not a shadow of doubt, and that irrespective of beliefs in the efficacy of thoroughbred blood in fast trotters. The point of second importance in Mr. Wallace's opinion is that the invoice does not show that any filly by Lexington was contained in the Welch gathering, and the "specimen of audacity" Mr. Gould exhibited by changing "bay colt" into "sorrel filly" warranted the objector in giving it prominence. When the whole testimony is given careful consideration, the absence of Waxy in the list published in the California Spirit of the Times does not have any bearing on the subject at issue. It is such a trivial omission that, as has been stated previously, without the foolish move on the part of Mr. Gould, it would not have been given a particle of weight. The letter received by the Spirit was written "a few days" before the start for California, and, of course, subject to change. Hope and Jenny H. were included in the list and did not come. Waxy and the bay gelding, three years old by Lexington, dam Nannie Clark not in the invoice, came and were sold. In sending ten head of horses to be disposed of in California, Mr. Swigert would naturally be governed by what he considered his interests. As shown by Mr. Grigsby's letter, he valued the filly highly and that was a proper estimate as the Lexingtons in 1864 were gaining a high name, though previous to 1863, they were under a cloud. Sue Lewis, though defeated in the big race at St. Louis, gave proof that she was the superior of the victress and that her defeat was owing to a combination which a 3 in 5 race rendered effective. Further reflection changed his mind, and as Mr. Welch in all probability was too busily engaged in preparing for the start to write letters, the only object being to give the information to the editor of the California Spirit of the Times, that Hope and Jenny H. were left behind, Waxy and the three-year-old Lexington colt added to the invoice. At that time horse matters were not given the publicity which now prevails and the country was in the throes of revolution. All kinds of horses were hazardous property in Kentucky, and Mr. Swigert had "a right" to think that there was less risk in sending them to California than keeping them at home.

In 1863, we accompanied a friend to Kentucky, bought the highest-priced colt, by Knight of St. George from Miriam, at Woodburn, for $1000; a son of Lexington and Bell Lewis for $250, and a Ruric filly for a comparatively small price. Norfolk was offered for $800, Asteroid for $1,000. The colts purchased had to be sent across the country to Cincinnati, and the spring of 1864, was if anything more gloomy. What was more likely then than an owner should take advantage of the opportunity to send at the last moment, valuable animals beyond the reach of conscription or theft, youngsters being no more exempt than older horses. But the invoice has little bearing against positive evidence that subtractions and additions were made after the original bill was sent.

And now we come to Mr. Wallace's strongest argument and the one which marked the down fall of our confrere's hopes. That was the age of Waxy. That the Grey Eagle mare was barren in 1862, is beyond any doubt. Had the "sorrel filly" been a three-year-old when she ran in the race with Ada C. and Lilly Hitchcock in December, 1865, she would not have been by Lexington from that Grey Eagle mare. Mr. Wallace claims "That the original evidence that Waxy was foaled in 1862 is three fold: First, she was so advertised; second, she was so sold; and third, she so ran." Mr. Wallace certainly does not find this three-ply-cord of evidence in the matter furnished by Mr. Gould. In that the reference to the advertisements says that there are six two-year-olds, three, three-year-olds and one five-year-old.

As the sale was to take place on the third day of January, Ada C., Lilly Hitchcock and Waxy would rank as two years old when sold, and as the report of the sale was published on January 14th, had they been three years old, according to turf law, it would have been so recorded. If such a caption as Mr. Wallace adds to the races was part of the original report, there is no excuse for Mr. Gould withholding it, but there is no question in our mind that the compiler records it just as it was found. The only place that gives this information is in that which follows "Third Day," as follows, "The second race was a sweestakes of $25 each between the three-year-olds that ran the day previous." We shall prove that there were several mistakes in the matter copied from the Spirit, and will now give proof outside of that furnished by Mr. Gould which will sustain the position established by the evidence of Grigsby, Satterwhite, O'Hanlon and others. Ada C., Lilly Hitchcock, and Waxy were of the same age. There is no evidence at hand regarding the age of Lilly Hitchcock further than the statement copied, but by referring to the American Stud Book, Vol. 3, page 27, it will be seen that ADA C. WAS FOALED IN 1863.

In fixing the date of the birth of Ada C. in 1863, there is no chance for quibbles of any kind. Dolly Morgan, an own sister to Ada C, was foaled in 1862, so that there is no chance to call the correctness of the American Stud Book in question. As will be learned from Volume 3d of the Stud Book, page 90, Dolly had a numerous progeny, and was well known in Kentucky. Had there been a blank for 1862 for Sally Morgan, the same as there is in the Grey Eagle mare, it might have been an error.

There was a feature in connection with Mr. Gould's investigation which we could not comprehend, that being the evident determination to keep everything as secret as possible. Mr. Lathrop gave us some information, and the only time we saw him after Mr. G. was employed he imparted the knowledge he had obtained, but expecting to see Mr. Gould soon after we did not pay the attention that would have been given, had the reticence of Mr. Gould been forseen, as the supposition was that he could not have any object in concealing the evidence, and that he would communicate all that he had learned. In place of that he appeared to be loth to answer any questions in regard to the pedigree of Waxy, and when in this office mainly taken up with studying the American Stud Book. An offer to accompany him in a visit to William Woodward was partially accepted, though the appointment was not kept, and from then we were aware that Mr. Gould had resolved to keep secret whatever evidence he discovered. This, of course, he had an undoubted right to do, but the methods of a detective seeking to arrest a criminal, did not appear to us at all appropriate in a case of this kind. In all probability the motive was to prevent publication of any portion of it until he had the whole article ready for the magazine he was preparing it for, but this could have been accomplished by a request not to print any intelligence he communicated until his article appeared. Had this been the course and the letters received, and extracts from the Spirit, with his annotations shown, we could have warned him of the danger incurred. Such grievous blunders were sure to be taken advantage of by Mr. Wallace, even slight lapses in the logic of arguments presented sufficient to give the veteran editor the eagerly desired chance to bring the whole into discredit, but when it came to such palpable errors as were made, and above all claiming that a bay colt which, by his own proofs had died before Waxy was sold to be that filly, so gross a mistake that we cannot understand how it was made. Mr. Wallace charges that Satterwhite was "coached." There are far stronger indications that Mr. Gould was induced to pursue a course which would throw discredit on a case, and the testimony gathered by him so garbled as to bring doubts where a proper presentation would have procured a favorable verdict without the jury leaving the box. But according to law precedents, Mr. Wallace cannot impeach his own witness. In the February number of the Monthly appeared the following:

WAXY, THE GRANDAM OF SUNOL.—Our remarks about the wonderful filly Sunol, in the December number, and the development of the fact that the breeding of Waxy (her grandam) was uncertain and practically unknown, has stirred up quite a commotion among the fumblers in the "thoroughbred" ranks. A performance of Alpha, a reputed daughter of Waxy, has been pointed out; and if Alpha was really a daughter of Waxy, it makes the presumption very strong that Waxy had at least a large share of running-blood. Still no one has attempted to tell us by whom she was bred or what was her real origin. Fortunately, we have a very careful and competent man at work on this pedigree, and he has received specific instructions to trace and determine her history in California, let the facts lead where they may. We want the truth, and will have it in the end, no difference what theory it fits or what it does not fit. Facts first, and then theories. In the next number we hope to be able to publish the whole matter.

While it may appear rather harsh to call the work of that "careful and competent man" "the finest audacity," after such an endorsement, the charge, perhaps, was warranted. But if the facts had led in another direction, had Mr. Gould favored the theory which ignores thoroughbred blood, there would not have been a word of adverse criticism. The facts did not fit the theories which the "careful and competent man" was expected to promulgate, and hence in place of throwing out his annotations and opinions these are made the cause for doing away with the facts.

A synopsis of the facts collected by Mr. Gould shows: First, that the Grey Eagle mare, the dam of Volscian, Annette, and Waxy was bred to Lexington in 1862, and that the produce was a filly, foaled 1863, afterwards known as Waxy, and that the breeder was P. Swigert of Frankfort, Kentucky. Second, that the filly was started in 1864 by Mr. Swigert in charge of J. P. Welch, who died on the journey, and taken to San Jose by John Anderson and John Weston, and sold to William Woodward. Third, that the identification was fully established without a possible chance for substitution. As there has never been any dispute regarding subsequent events, nor any denial that Waxy was the grandam of Sunol, there is no necessity for carrying the investigation further. A good deal might be added corroborative, for instance, that the offspring of Lexington and the Grey Eagle mare was never heard of in Kentucky after the horses in Mr. Welch's charge left that State. That Waxy in the only race she ran showed more speed than her competitors, but was unable to keep it up owing to lack of condition, and that when bred to imp. Hercules the produce was the best race horse that horse ever got.

Since the above was written we learned where the California Spirit of the Times which Mr. Gould quoted from was to be found viz., in the Mechanics' Institute, San Francisco, and our associate Mr. Waugh detailed to make an examination, when greatly to our surprise it was found to justify the charge made by Mr: Wallace that Mr: Gould "omitted the caption." Surprising in more ways than one. Professing to give a faithful transcript of the record that should have been incorporated, and by what means Mr: Wallace learned that it was left out is another mystery which can only be explained on the hypothesis that Mr. Gould imparted the information to the editor of the Monthly. That is the only copy for that year, known to exist and if Mr. Wallace obtained his information from that he must either have derived it from Mr. Gould or directed some one to discover the volume which Mr. Gould does not give the clew to its hiding place further than to state that: "Finally, by extreme good fortune, a file of the California Spirit of the Times of 1864, was brought to light in San Francisco, although not obtainable at the office of that publication." The mystery deepens and why such an indefinite description was chosen in place of an accurate location, is a conundrum which is not easily solved.

We may be wrong in thinking the cue was given by Mr. Gould, and probably are, as the associate editor of Wallace's Monthly, Mr. McLeod, has been here for some time and he may have learned the whereabouts of the file in the same way that we did, that being from the gentleman who accompanied Mr. Gould to the Institute.

Monday last we met William Woodward in San Francisco, and he thought that the fillies were three-year-olds, and when told to the contrary he replied that he thought them small for their age, especially his own filly Waxy.

It certainly seemed that when the advertisement and summary agreed in making the contestants three years old, that the discovery that Waxy was a year younger was an effectual estoppel to her claims to be a daughter of the mare which produced Volscian. Even then the testimony would overcome the objection, as it is too strong to be upset by what could readily be a mistake. But when another of the fillies is shown by equally as strong proofs to have been a year younger than the papers gave her age, every fair-minded man will agree with us that the published statements and general impressions were erroneous in lieu of casting doubts on the pedigree.

We are of the opinion that the error came from Mr. Welch sending to the California Spirit of the Times a letter which was not definite, and that the person who had the turf department of that paper in charge, in the attempt to add ages made the mistake. This is not presented as an argument, as there is no necessity for conjecture when there are absolute proofs. Then again, there are numerous precedents, one of which is of late date, and made by the owner and breeder. In the Realization Stakes of 1890 appear the names of The Czar and Don Jose, whereas they should be in that of 1889. If twenty-five years from now some one should run across that list and claim that it be given precedence over the Stud Book, supported by additional testimony, it would be on a par with accepting the Spirit's acts and synopsis of races and throwing out far weightier proofs. Suppose that Mr. Winters should produce these two colts to run in that stake, what a row would result. The Emperor of Norfolk would be involved, as in that case it would be shown that he was only a year older than The Czar, and, consequently, had been running a year over his true age.

A disagreement between the English Stud Book and Racing Calendar in the case of Bloomsbury, who won the Derby in 1836, led to a lawsuit involving, not only the stakes, but immense sums wagered on the race, and had it not been that the Calendar was supported by the testimony, the verdict would have been against him.

The difference was more trivial than an error of a year in the age, as in the Stud Book the paternity was divided between Tramp and Mulatto, the Racing Calendar giving Mulatto as the sire. There is not space enough at present to show the inaccuracies in the matter copied from the Spirit, but in one case Mr. Gould errs in ascribing to the late James L. Eoff the change of the sire of Lilly Hitchcock from Bob Johnson to Lexington. Few horsemen paid as little attention to pedigree as Eoff, though whenever we heard him tell anything in relation to the race, it was to laugh over winning with a filly, the breeding of which was inferior to both the others.

Wallace's Year-Book, Volume IV.

We are just in receipt of Wallace's Year-Book of trotting and pacing, bringing everything down to the close of 1888. It is handsomely bound in uniform style with Vol. III. The growth of the trotting-interest is shown here very plainly in the growth of this volume. Last year it contained 424 pages, and this year it contains 488 pages. It is called a "Year-Book," but it is far more than that. We find that the performances of the past year, exclusive of the indexes, only occupy 184 pages, leaving the balance of the space to be filled up with the cream of all the performances of all the years since trotting commenced.

The great table of 2:30 horses under their sires has grown to 124 pages. This table gives the pedigree and best record of each sire; then follows a list of his progeny with their best records; then a list of his sons that have 2:30 performers, with the number belonging to each; and then a list of the produce of his daughters, with their best records. This table itself is a grand epitome of all past trotting experiences, not only showing what each horse has done as a progenitor, but all what his family has done and is doing in transmitting the instinct and ability to trot.

The table of great brood-mares is expanded and improved. The material for perfecting such a table has been left in obscurity until a recent period, but from what Mr. Wallace has done in the past, the attention of breeders has been directed to the value of producing lines of dams, and now everybody is looking in that direction. As the book was only received in time for this short notice before the paper went to press, extended comments, such as are eminently its due, will be deferred. This much can be said, however, that to every breeder of trotters it is an indispensable part of the venture, and can scarcely be dispensed with by any one who is engaged in the business. Not only breeders as owners, trainers, in fact, everyone who has the least fance for trotting horses, will find it so valuable that ten times the sum it costs, $2.50, would not tempt them to part with it. For a frontpiece there is a likeness of Mr. Wallace, which is so strikingly faithful as to be startling. Address all orders to Wallace's Monthly, No. 280 Broadway, New York City, N. Y.

The well known Australian race horse, Sardonyx, has had one of his knees smashed and a shoulder splintered. His owner, Mr. Andrew Town, will probably have him killed.

In a Hurry.

A few days ago, we resolved to make a trip covering a journey of several thousand miles, and, consequently, since the inception of the notion have been more than ordinarily busy. In addition to our usual work, there have been carpenters, plumbers and painters engaged, and improvements, differing from the common plan which entailed personal supervision. A friend remarked a few days ago that, doubtless, we were lost without horses, and when informed that ten were still on hand, everyone of them requiring especial attention, he was somewhat surprised. The visit will necessarily be a flying one, and a month the longest time we can afford.

This will not effect the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, as our associates will be ready to render any required assistance, and attend to whatever is requested in their respective lines.

The Year Book.

Partly a misnomer, partially correct is the title to the most comprehensive book in the library of trotting-horse breeding or trotting sports. A history of what can be termed really fast trotting from first to last, and a synopsis of the genealogies of those which have earned a place in its pages. A short notice apart from this appears, and the first impression was that a postponement was necessary in order to do any justice to the subject. But as we rapidly turned over the leaves, glancing at a well known name in one place, attracted by low figures in another, though remarks, at all commensurate with the requirements, must still be deferred the temptation to add a little more, must be gratified. Those who have studied the former volumes will discover, after a few minutes search, that complete as that of last year was, this is better at every point, and in every respect an improvement.

To point to one involves a general analysis of the contents, and to do that will require far more time and space than can be given now. Were the merits generally known, the edition, however large, would be sold in a few days, as everyone having the least fondness for the American sport, and who had $2.50 to spare, could not rest until he became the owner.

Had Mr. Wallace done nothing further in the way of advancing trotting sport than to publish these year books, he would deserve the thanks of every one interested in it; could he have overcome his antipathy to the royal line so as to have given the race, which is the foundation of speed just recognition in connection with fast trotting, bronze and marble statues of him should adorn every trotting park in the country. It may be as well, and that the situation and Mr. Wallace's opposition be of eventual benefit.

Although six letters are needed to give the initials of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association the benefits following the organization will be in a larger proportion than six capital letters bear to the whole alphabet, and as will be learned from an advertisement Mr. Wilfred Page has consented to act as Secretary, pro tem. From what we learn there is little room to doubt that the project will be carried to a successful issue, and we feel like congratulating those who are so deeply interested.

While breeders are more interested than any other class in establishing an association which will be of vast importance to the breeding and rearing of trotters on this Coast, all people which have a fondness for track sports are concerned in whatever has a tendency to promote the interests at stake, and which will also tend to the elimination of what is reprehensible in the management of trotting events. There cannot be any doubt regarding the standing which the proposed association will secure from the outset. There are so few of the breeders of California which have given occasion for coming under the tongue of evil report, so few that the breath of suspicion has tainted, that it may be claimed that there are no exceptions, and hence the material is ready to construct an imposing edifice.

There are many who are worthy and well qualified to fill the offices that a choice will alone be troublesome from the difficulty in selecting from the abundance, and as there will not be a great deal of labor attached to any of the offices excepting that of Secretary, we trust that there will be no hesitation in accepting the places to which the convention names.

In a conversation with Mr. Page he advanced the argument that the Secretary should be a resident of San Francisco or Oakland, and while willing to serve pro tempore and do the work until the organization is perfected, that his residence being at some distance from where, in all probability, the meetings will be held, would be a drawback in the future. It is of far greater importance that the Secretary should have the welfare of the society so deeply at heart that unrewarded labor will not deter him from doing everything in his power, and this quality we feel absolutely assured Mr. Page possesses. Joined to this are all the other qualifications, and while we would have the utmost reluctance to express preferences for the other officials, there is not the least hesitation in "going on record" that in our opinion Mr. Page is not only the right man for the place, but that there is no one of our acquaintance so well adapted for the position.

We have been intimately associated with this kind of work for so many years, that we should be a fairly competent judge of the requirments necessary, and shall have every confidence that with Mr. Page for permanent Secretary, victory will result.

Notices will be sent to enough of those who should "take hold" to ensue sufficient numbers to inaugurate the society when the convention is held on April 3rd. Once under way and there is little danger thereafter, though there is danger that should the present attempt fail, it will be some time before another trial will be made.

Fresno News.

As each number of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN comes to hand it is read here with much interest, but not finding any news from this lively little burg I thought a few items from this section might interest your readers. There are quite a number of well bred and speedy horses owned here, several of them being quartered at the race track. I was surprised, on a recent visit to the fair grounds, to see the large number of horses in training, there being fully 60 now there, most of them well forward in their preparation. On making enquiries I learned that there had only been four days this winter on which horses could not be exercised; even then, however, they could get walking exercise under the sheds, the place being admirably fitted up, in fact much better than the majority of tracks in this State. The stabling is of the very best, stalls large and roomy, with deep sheds in front of each; the track has been newly graded and recovered with loam, which makes it as safe as any track in California. There is also a fine two story club house, that cost $11,000; it is presided over by the well known horseman, F. B. Baldwin, formerly of Buffalo, N. Y., who at one time drove Belle Hamblin, 2:13¾, Sherman 2:23, Orient 2:24 and many others. He is a thorough horseman himself and fully understands the wants of the fraternity. He is the general manager of the track and keeps things in apple pie order. At the stables I found Mike Kelly, trainer for Mr. R. Porter Ashe, who very kindly allowed me to inspect his string, and a grand looking lot they are. They all look in good fettle, and if appearances are not deceptive they will, overy one of them, earn brackets, before they are taken East. There are eight head in training as follows:

Mozart, b g, 6, Flood—Moselle.
Ellwood, ch g, 6, Norfolk—Ballinette.
Flood Tide, b h, 3, Flood—Lady Evangeline.
Ryland, b c, 3, Shannon—imp. Goula.
Geraldine, c m, 4, Grinstead—Cousin Peggy.
Mirope, c f, 2, Joe Hooker—Consolation.
Abdiel, b c, 2, Jacko—Cousin Peggy.
Joaquin, b c, 3, Norfolk—Irene Harding.

Mr. S. N. Straube has a large stable of trotters under the direction of John Donahoe, who takes delight in showing off their good points to appreciative spectators. Among the number are Lela S., 2:31½, White Ash, 2:48, Apex, 2:26, and Pasha, 2:36. Congressman, 2:32 is owned by Hon. J. A. Lauditt who also has a lot of youngsters, the get of such good sires as Nephew, Steinway, Alcona Clay and Apex. His colts are all well bred and individually look in prim condition, and as several of them are entered in stakes to be trotted this fall, you may expect to hear from them again. Mr. Straube at his fine farm has over a hundred of as fine bred mares as it is possible to buy, many of them being extremely fashionable and are considered "gilt-edged." Mr. Henry McHugh has a public trotting stable here and is highly esteemed by resident horse owners. That "Mac" understands his business is evident to any one who pays a visit to this genial trainer, and that he has many admirers is evinced in the fact that he has such a large number of horses under his care. I noticed among others the chestnut stallion Daybreak, four years old, he by Dawn, dam Gazelle, 2:27; 2d dam Nettie Bennett by Belmont. This is a magnificent young horse and is possessed of considerable speed, he having shown a full mile last year over a slow track in 2,31, in which he trotted the last quarter in 35 seconds.

If nothing goes wrong with him this season, Mr. McHugh feels confident that he can touch the "20" mark before 1890 rolls around. He is owned by J. R. Jones, of the Park House, where, by the way, all the boys congregate to read the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN immediately on its arrival. Mac also has in his stable a great three-year-old by Nephew, dam by Sedgewick; bay stallion Oregon Boy by Alcona, dam Liuania by Almont. This latter horse, owned by Geo. H. Bernard, stands 17 hands, weighs 1,400 pounds, and can pull a wagon a quarter in forty seconds. Mr. A. T. Jackson has a brown stallion which he calls El Captain, 2:48, by Nutwood, dam by Sir Charles. He has shown a very promising trial and it is known that he can beat 2:30, whenever occasion requires. He also owns the bay gelding Ed 2:26¼, and a bay gelding by Alexander that can trot in the neighborhood of 2:40. I was much pleased with a two-year-old colt by Dexter Prince, that gives every indication of being a grand individual, Mr. Jackson being of the opinion that he should win many races this fall. Andy Brase has three horses under his charge Dixie, a pacer having a record of 2:32. Sir Charles is a Wildidle colt, dam by Norfolk, of fine appearance, and one that will make the up country horses do fast time to beat him. The lost one is named Lady Anna. she is by Hubbard, her dam being a Joe Daniels mare. Dr. Edwards has a stable of trotters, the principal one being Wormwood, 2:25. The Doctor is a skillful hand with the reins, and the youngsters under his care are improving rapidly. Mr. P. Simpson has a couple of mares which he is jogging, one being by Pilot Mambrino, the other by Abbottsford. Several gentlemen do not keep their horses at the track, having private stables, Chas. Bamers being one of them. He owns the stallion Waterford, 2:27, by Abbottsford, dam Softly by Speculation. Of course, as you are aware, we will have a spring meeting beginning April 16, and continuing four days. The association have hung up $3,600 in purses, and everything points toward a grand success. Visiting horsemen may rest assured that nothing will be left undone that will tend toward making the visit a pleasant one, and they are sure of receiving the best of treatment.

Please let me know in your next, (1) Who bred Woodpecker? (2) Where was he foaled? (3) Who was his last owner? (4) Where did he die?

Answer. (1) Mr. Tarlton. (2) Kentucky. (3) and (4) we do not know.

James A. Lemon.

Answer.—Herodian, b h foaled 1882 by Belvidere, dam Hattie Sparks by Sweepstakes; second dam by Young Washington; third dam by American Star.

A Subscriber.

Please give record, if any, of McCracken's Black Hawk? Was he standard, and under what rule? Have any of his get ever trotted in 2:30 or better?

Answer.—Black Hawk had no record. He is standard under rule 4. Sisson Girl, by Black Hawk, has a record of 2:28½.

J. A. A. Robinson.

Will you kindly let me know in your next issue, what are the performances of Prince Royal and Eolian, and the odds against each in the Brooklyn and Suburban Handicaps. Also, what is the distance to be run in each instance.

Answer.—Prince Royal started as a two-year-old, ten times, winning three races; last year as a three-year-old, he started sixteen times, winning eleven. The odds at present against him are, Brooklyn Handicap, 30 to 1; Suburban, 40 to 1. Eolian started as a three-year-old in twenty-two races, winning once; as a four-year-old, he started twenty-eight times, winning sixteen; as a five-year-old he went to the post six times, winning twice. He is not entered in the Brooklyn, but the odds against him for the Suburban are 50 to 1. Both races are a mile and a quarter.

Search both Mane and Tayl well with your Finger, and Anoynt the Place with this Unguent. Take Quick-Silver, and Tryed Hoggs Grease; the Quick-Silver being first Mortified with Fasting-Spittle: Incorporate them very well Together, till the Hoggs Grease be of a perfect Ash Colour, and Anoynt the Sorrance therewith, every day; holding a Hott Barr of Iron neer, to cause the Ovntment to Sink in, and in three or four Dayes thus carefully Dressing him, he will be Well.

This is a very Good Receipt, and I have often used it: But I would Advise you, First, to Lett him Blood, a good Quantity, both in the Neck and Tayl.

TO CAUSE the HAIR

TO GROW AGAIN.

Take the Dung of a Goat, newly made; ordinary Honey, Allom, and the Blood of a Hogg; the Allom being first made into Fine Powder. Boyl all these Together, and Rubb, and Anoynt the Places therewith every day, and it will Cause the Hair to come Again apace. This is special Good.

I use to Preserve my Horse's Manes, making them very Clean from all Filth and Dust with the Brush; then Wash them with a little Sope: And having Wash'd out the Sope, Pleat them up in great Pleats, and Undo them every Day, Pleat them again; and this will make them Grow wonderfully: For, their Manes being Loose, they are apt to Break, especially when they are Ridd, by Reason of the Bridle, Cavezone Reins, and Hand, that Rubbs against them: Therefore, but upon high Dayes, let their Manes be always Pleated.

Their Tayls should be always kept Clean, and Wash't with Sope sometimes, but wash't Clean every Day; and when they are Dry, Comb'd out carefully, for fear of Breaking the Hair: Let his Dock be Wetted with a Spunge often in a Day, which will both make it Grow, and make the Hair to lie Even; and his Tayl Cutt every month, which will both make it Grow, and grow Thick. To Observe the time of the Moon, is but an old Foppery; but to let him Blood in the Tayl, is very Good.

Now you must understand, That what you take many times for Dust in his Mane, are little Worms, which Eat the Roots of the Hair away: This is easily Known from Dust; because, if the Hair Falls, you may be very Sure they are Wormes.

The Cure is thus: Make a pretty strong Lie, and Wash his Mane with it once a Day, and he will be Cured; but you must take heed, that the Lie be not too Strong; for, if it be, That alone will Burn all the Hair of his Mane off: So the Cure will be Worse than the Disease.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CRAB ORCHARD, KY., March 3, 1889.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—If allowed to make a selection for the Suburban, I should say Drumstick will be first or second, and Jacobin will be the contending horse. Drumstick has the best of it at the weights. He is a much underrated horse. The Bard, great as he is, cannot carry the difference and beat either of the two.

Your readers all know clever Ed. Hopper, Secretary at Latonia, or know of him, for he gets acquainted with everybody everywhere; and everybody likes Ed. Well, Ed was recreating at Crab Orchard Springs a year or so ago; and here he met a character—Crab Orchard has a character. The man is an "All Over Horseman," race, trotting, and, to use his own language, "A reg'lar Vit" (for veterinary). He sought Ed, and found him enjoying a pure Havana on the piazza at the hotel, and succeeded in luring Ed to take a drive with him. The "Vit" had obtained a horse to drive to a cart from a farmer here, assuring the farmer that he had a buyer for him at a handsome price. Poor Ed was the intended victim. After seating Ed in the cart and taking the lines himself, he drove to the old race-course—all the while talking Ed blind, telling his own prowess and superiority in training racers, trotters and 'docter'n'' ailing horses. Around the track he drove at a rattling pace, and assured Ed that the horse was, a short time before, the wildest unbroken horse on the continent, but was now "the safest and kindest driver in the world—fit for a man to trust his family with." When they reached the stand he drew up to point out Wagner's grave, and while at a standstill, lesped out, jerking the lap-cover with him, and threw the lines on the ground, to demonstrate the safety of the roadster, and growing more and more enthusiastic as he continued, he rushed up to the off-side of the horse and gave the lap-cover a pop at him. Poor Ed! Like Cassabianca, "Oh, where was he?" The way that gelding went the first quarter 'round that track with the cart and Ed, no one but Ed can do justice to. As soon as the panting little fat "Vit" could get to the pieces of his cart, he assisted the main portion of Ed to collect his disabled, disfigured body to a shade to rest while he went to town for an ambulance and doctor to set the broken bones and stitch up the numerous cuts and bruises.

As soon as Ed was able to leave his bed, he was told the "Vit" was to call on him, and to avoid committing murder, he took the first train to Latonia, where all who want to enjoy his favor, carefully avoid all reference to the "Vit" driver at Crab Orchard. As it is sometime yet until the Latonia races, and I am not likely to see Ed until then, you may use the above brief but true account of his ride at C. O. Springs.

L. M. LASLEY.

Theodore Winters, of California.

"You say lots of inquiries come in asking who Theodore Winters is," mused the turfman so well posted in the affairs of the Pacific Coast. "I don't wonder at it, as the gentleman never races East nowadays, and I think since the day he ran the Duchess of Norfolk for the Illinois Derby of 1882 his colors have not been seen this side the Rockies; so I'll give you a little idea of the man:

"Mr. Winters has been dubbing around the slope ever since I knew anything about the people of that section—kind of a speculator, you know, and could sell you anything from a knitting needle to a locomotive. Well, he had lots of money 'way back at the time when Norfolk was such a grand race-horse, and offered Mr. Alexander $15,000 for the horse. You've heern tell of the story, surely, how, when Alexander was laughed at by friends for giving $15,000 for Lexington, blind as he was and his racing days over, he retorted: 'Boys, I'll sell a son of his'n for more money than that.' Well, when Winters said $15,000 for Norfolk, Alexander replied: 'Press it just $1 and he is yours,' and the Californian complying, Mr. Alexannder had made good his word and sold the son for just 100 cents more'n he had given for the sire.

"Norfolk was taken to the breeding farm of his owner at Winters, Yolo County, Cal., thence to Sacramento, where he most likely is to-day. He has shown many good colts and fillies, among them Duchess of Norfolk and King of Norfolk, but crowned his achievements with that great race-horse, the Emperor of Norfolk, first-class as a two-year-old and invincible at three, as his victories, chief of which was the American Derby—proved, that is, against horses of his own age.

"What kind of a man is Winters personally? A mighty tough and crusty old fellow, I assure you, with a reputation for the most sterling integrity. Course some people say he's hard, and I've known when, at an early day, from his farm in Washoe City, Nev., he carted in garden truck, hay, etc., over the twelve miles to Virginia City and charged big prices, and used to get $20 a cord for wood; but what o' that? I b'lieve any man has got a right to squeeze people, leastwise that's what the monopolists all get credit for bein' smart fur, ain't it? The old fellow was smart enough to work the irrigation scheme and get the dirt to produce, anyhow, and made sort of a dairy farm outer the place.

"Any other horse bred by him of account? Say, boy, what's matter? Don't you know he bred Mollie McCarthy, that little piece of horseflesh, all steel, that just eat up the ground, not 'pearin' to be goin' a bit and just gallopin' everything else to death? Yes, Mollie was his'n, and in her he had a race nag whose like never was, I swow, and I don't bar your Blink Bonnie either, ef she did win the Epsom Derby.

"Great-bred one? No, I guess not; here's her pedigree: By Monday, out of Hennie Farrow. Monday was owned by Francis Morris (father of John A., who has just built the new race-track at Westchester, N. Y.) and was sired by Colton (he by Lexington), dam Mollie Jackson, by Vandal. Great blood that; and a son of Monday, Joe Hooker, was the sire of that big sprinter Jim Renwick, who could mow down everything at five-eighths, and was a cunning mug at that, never getting off unless he had a shade the best of the start, and always stood sideways on the mark, looking out that no horse broke ahead of him. Mollie raced against Ten Broeck at Louisville, July 4, 1878, and nobody'll ever know whether she could have won or not—lots of scolly-foxing about that race, I always thought, and some green folks handling things—but at three miles she was certainly goin' easy, while at four she was outside the flag.

"E. J. Balwin was her owner on that day, he having bought her from Mr. Winters at Omaha, the mare being en route from San Francisco to Chicago. Then Old Lucky took her up to a stock farm Illinois and laid her off till fall, then sent her to St. Paul, where the poor thing couldn't run a leetle bit and made us fellers weep, for we put up money on her against such a field of 'crabs' as started, with the greatest confidence, for class, my boy, is a great thing in racing.

"Then Mollie went back to California and wintered down at the ranch at Los Angeles. Reports were to the effect that she'd never be worth a dollar again as a race nag, and when at the 'Frisco spring races she appeared it looked like the reports were true for she showed as poor as a crow; hair all turned the wrong way, and a general look was about her from ear to fetlock that 'ud make a man wish to club old Baldwin for starting her in such condition. But when the home-stretch was made by the horses that started with her in a long-distance race, I stared, rubbed my eyes and stared again, for there, creeping away from the others with that matchless low stride, was Mollie McCarthy. She ran home untouched, winning easily, and for the first time we knew that there might be something about E. J. Baldwin beside mere luck. I tell you he made a big haul that day, getting at least 10 to 1 for his money. They knocked me out soon hereafter, and I wasn't at Chicago the day Mollie won the Garden City cup, but I know Baldwin killed 'em that day, too.

"So you see that Theo Winters is a man worth talking about, for he bred the three animals which made the biggest racing sensations ever known in Chicago, viz. Duchess of Norfolk, Mollie McCarthy, and the Emperor of Norfolk." —Reins and Whip.

CALIFORNIA

Trotting-Horse Breeders' Association.

All persons interested in the breeding of trotting horses are cordially invited to meet the undersigned at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, at 7:30 P. M., on Wednesday, April 3, 1889,

For the purpose of organizing the above named association, and to take such steps as may be needful to arrange for the holding during the coming fall of the second NATIONAL STALLION AND COLT STAKES, and for the perpetuation thereof, as well as for the STANFORD COLT STAKES, under the auspices and management of the CALIFORNIA TROTTING HORSE BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION.

It is hoped and desired that every breeder in the State will be present IN PERSON. Such as favor and will join the organization, but cannot POSSIBLY attend this inaugural meeting, are requested to communicate by mail with the Secretary pro tem. to address below given, up to March 31st; after that address Palace Hotel up to day of meeting, Palo Alto by Ariell Lathrop, J. H. White, Irvin Ayres, M. F. Tarpey.

THE GUN.

Mr. Frank J. Bassford contemplates a sealing trip into Alaskan waters just for novelty's sake. He had better win the Selby medal before he goes, or he may lose the advantage gained by having won it twice already.

The California Wing Shooting Club will meet at San Bruno, to-morrow, to complete the scores begun on March 10th, and left unfinished because of the storm. The grounds at San Bruno have been refitted under direction of Secretary Will DeVaull, and are in first rate condition. Visitors should take the 8:30 A. M. train from Fourth and Townsend streets.

Mr. Joe Bassford writes that he has had a good day with the geese on the plains near Elmira, in company with a San Francisco friend. He dug holes for blinds, and as fast as geese were killed they were set up as decoys. One hundred and thirty-six fat birds, honkers, white geese and brant, rewarded the hunters. Mr. Bassford inquires about the pheasants acclimated in Oregon, whether they are Chinese or Japanese birds, whether they lie to a dog, and what sort of country they thrive in. We hope some of our readers will answer the queries.

From the Knights of the Trigger.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The Annual Meeting of the Knights of the Trigger, of Kern County, will be held at the Club Rooms of the Association on Saturday, April 6th, at 8 o'clock P. M. At this meeting officers will be elected for the ensuing yeary, reports will be received and the business of the fiscal year completed, therefore, it is heartily desired that each member be present.

The officers of the Association feel that the Knights have been instrumental in doing much good in our county, and with the experience of the past they hope to profit in the future, and at the annual meeting in 1890 make a much better showing than they are able to do at this time, and earnestly request the co-operation of the members to assist in fulfilling the objects for which the organization was created.

A. T. LIGHTNER, Secretary.

BAKERSFIELD, March 20, 1889.

ROD.

A party headed by Joseph M. Bassford Jr., leaves on April 10th for the South Fork of Feather river. The leader writes: "I want trout and bacon. Am going to have them, too."

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—Please inform me through your next issue whether I will be subject to fine or not for fishing trout Sunday, March 31, 1889. SUBSCRIBER.

[If you take, catch or kill any speckled trout, brook or salmon trout, or any variety of trout in California on March 31st, you will be guilty of misdemeanor and subject to fine. We sympathize with you in the desire to wet a line, but it cannot rightly be done before Monday, April 1st.—ED.]

Chat About Trout.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—A trout fisher's propensity to talk of his experience in luring the smartest of all fish to take a hook and cut short his trout life to adorn a tale, or grace a table, is notorious. Few of them, however, care to go to the trouble of putting their thoughts on paper. They rather prefer to have a quiet sitting of fellow anglers, and relate their stories with such adornments and variations as the character of the company and their mutual expressions suggest. Among the few, who are equally fond of fishing and writing, are Isaac Walton, Petronella, and (a great ways behind) your humble correspondent. This much for a friendly greeting; now for a social chat with all the lovers of nature and truth, as they are found in the pursuit of the trout. The rains have come in abundance and swelled the mountain streams, opening a way from the sea to the trout region, for that portion of the salmon family that alternate between the great sea and the cool spring brooks of the coast range. This much mooted question seems to be settled in the affirmative, though a few lovers of the art still doubt the migration and change of habit of the trout, and sententiously ask what become of the immigrants, for they are never seen going down the stream, and clinch the matter by saying that going back is an impossibility, as the streams cease running to the sea early in the summer. We might as well deny that great schools of salmon go up the Columbia two thousand miles, and sometimes crowd the streams, because we do not know how or when they go back, for it is proved beyond a doubt, that the trout or salmonoid mentioned, lie in wait along the sand bars or estuaries that form in summer across the outlets of the mountain streams, awaiting the breaking through of the winter floods, that they may reach their spawning grounds. We will merely suggest the idea, that, finding themselves shut off from the sea by the intervening dry channels, they make the best of the situation and adapt themselves to the changed circumstances. While waiting for their winter journey they are often caught by hundreds, making quite a showing among the fish of the markets. When the streams are opened they are soon found on the riffles of the lower falls, and, later still higher up in the mountains. As many as one hundred and fifty have been taken from one riffle in a single day. We hear the same story from other creeks running into the Santa Clara Valley. Some have already been seen in the Saratoga Creek. The Pajaro river is notorious for the big trout that are caught in company with the salmon. A catch of a dozen weighing from one to three pounds each is not uncommon. When these first arrive they have silver sides and bellies, and a back of beautiful steel blue. Their heads are smooth and handsome, with a vastly different expression from those of the trout family that have spent their lives in battling for life with the coons, snakes and other vermin, that like to partake of the delicate flesh of the brook trout. The difference is much like that between a country raised boy and a city toughy. One has the rounded face and the plump lips that indicate plenty, peace and innocence; the other has the shrunken face and the lean, and, perhaps, hawkbilled jaws that indicate a constant struggle with adverse conditions. we beg pardon of the trout for this most extraordinary comparison. We only mean that he is a victim to circumstances. In his last estate he is about as elusive to the angler as a city hoodlum is to the average policeman.

Soon after the arrival of the trout his silver sides give away to a somber hue, flecked with spots which soon assume the well known scarlet tinge. His back becomes the color of the bed of the stream in which he locates. On a clear sandy bottom he is a granite gray; in a dark stream bound with mossy rocks in the shadow of great redwoods he becomes nearly black, clearly an adaptation of color to circumstances. An exposure to the light an hour or two will reduce all to the same color.

It is a fact worthy of notice that the schools are generally found in the portions of the stream that have a tight, rocky bottom, where there is open running water all summer, while above and below the water runs though deep channels of gravel.

It is possible that the young fry, unlike most of the salmon family, remain a year on or near their spawning beds. If as Professor Agassiz asserts, there are fourteen varieties on this Coast, they are the evolution of necessities, an adaptation of habits to the peculiar character of California brooks, that run a vigorous stream in the mountains to be lost in the dry gravelly levels that are channels of the winter torrents. This letter so far contains some facts and some hypothetic cases, which the writer hopes may lead to a better understanding of trout habits.

If there is doubt about the history of the trout there is none, whatever, about the facts that he is here, and that the streams of the Santa Cruz mountains furnish excellent sport, and that the season for the lawful fishing is near at hand. The word lawful suggests that hundreds are, and have been catching them at any time, regardless of the law, notwithstanding each life sacrificed carries in its body the germ of thousands of others. The general violation of the law is much to be regretted. Happily the trout during their spawning period are not greedy for food, otherwise the whole family would soon be exterminated. Let us hope that the wisest and best of the race attend strictly to business during the season for propagating their species, taking no hooks, however luring, until this important matter is provided for. Certainly the genuine lover of the sport does not care to fill his basket with lean, flabby and sickly trout that in the struggle of being unhooked and put into the basket, will smear his hand with seminal fluid or fish eggs. The trout are then feeble, have little game in them, and are unfit for the table. It is not presumed that this article will reach that class of sportsmen? or the writer would have been tempted to use some epithets more forcible than eloquent.

As usual the Los Gatos last season furnished some excellent fishing, though no large fish were hooked, nor were large baskets made. The largest of the season was caught near the old Forbes mill, and was some eighteen inches long. He had five or six hooks in his mouth, which, however, did not trouble him much, for he felt himself every inch a king, and made a big fight, and even when landed exhibited prodigious strength, breaking away time and again from his captors. A large number weighing a pound or more were taken. This size will give the man who holds the rod a few minutes of intense pleasure.

Speaking of hooks one would think that a Carlisle hook of spring steel in a trout's digestive apparatus would give him some trouble, but it seems otherwise. The writer has several times found them in this situation. A trout of moderate size, if unskillfully handled when he is hooked, will often free himself, especially if there are rocks, roots or logs in the stream. The hook does not remain long in the mouth but passes along to the stomach, where it is soon digested or corroded, becoming a little rusty and harmless affair. The gut snell outlasts the hook, but that is also soon gotten out of the way. A torn mouth, however, for want of surgical skill among the fish leaves a lasting deformity. Old fishermen often examine the stomachs of their captures to see what they are feeding on. As many as thirty different things are sometimes found, red ants, willow caterpillars, grasshoppers, lady bugs, millers and larvae of various kinds of water bugs being common. Sometimes a bee or wasp will be found entombed, but the most astonishing thing was mashed potatoes. I do not think he had been stopping at a first class hotel. This fellow had probably taken lunch with some mince pie party.

It is a little curious that the angleworm so commonly used for bait, is seldom found in their stomachs. Your correspondent once found in a trout's stomach a multitude of little hollow horn-shaped shells. An examination of the rocks of the brook near showed a great number of them, the hollow containing a bright green worm, which undoubtedly was a greedy morsel to the trout, else he would not have swallowed so many of the indigestible hard clay coverings. A green bodied fly in that region proved a great killer.

If any of our readers have murderous designs on the trout of this part of the world, we would advise them to fix the time of their visit not earlier than the first of May, when the trout will have recovered from the effects of spawning, and established themselves in their summer homes, ready to be interviewed. Then they will go their length out of the water for a tempting fly and will otherwise prove satisfactory. Furthermore the high water will naturally delay fishing. If these few disjointed thoughts and recollections prove acceptable you may hear from me again when fishing can be conscientiously indulged in.

STALLIONS.

DIRECTOR 2:17.

DIRECTOR will stand at Pleasanton from March 1st to August 1st, 1889, for fifteen good mares more than are now booked, at $2 0 for the season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge of service to same stallion, or money will be refunded, at option of the Stock Farm Co.

Pasturage $1 per month, hay and grain extra. Accidents and escapes at owner's risk. Service fees due at time of service and must be paid, together with pasturage, etc., before mares are taken away, or a good approved note given, payable August 1st, 1889, at which date all bills must be settled

THISTLE,

Full brother to Gold Leaf, pacing record 2:16 at three years old. By Sidney, dam Fernleaf, she the dam of stallion Shamrock, trotting record at two years old, 2:25. Thistle is a large, speedy pacing colt, showing more speed than Gold Leaf at the same age, and double the speed of his sire; so if anyone wants to breed pacers, here is a chance.

Thistle will stand for seven approved mares at $100 for the season, with same conditions and return privileges as Dictator.

DESIGNER.
Standard Trotting Stallion.

DESIGNER was sired by Director, record 2:17, half brother of Jay-Eye-See, 2:10, and Phallas, 2:13¾.

First dam May Queen by Abbottsford, record 2:19¾, sire of Conde, record 2:19½.

Abbottsford by Woodford Mambrino, record 2:21½, and half brother to Mambrino Dudley, 2:19¾, and Pancoast, 2:21¾, the sire of Patron, 2:19¾, as a three-year-old, in a third heat; five-year-old record 2:14¾.

Woodford Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¾, and of the dam of Director, 2:17, dam, the dam of Wedgewood, 2:19 sire of Favonia 2:15.

May Queen was never trained. When two years old was driven over the road for three weeks, and trotted two miles in 6 minutes, a quarter in 7 seconds, her grand dam out of a livery stable trotted a mile in 2:35.

Second dam Pacific Maid by Elmo, full sister in blood to Overman, 2:19¼, she has had but four foals, only two of them was handled very little; one trotted as a three-year-old with scarcely any work, a mile in 2:35, the last half in 1:12½, a quarter in 35 seconds; the other trotted as a three-year-old a mile in 2:29¾, quarters from 35 to 33 seconds early in the spring, with seven weeks work; if her produce had been given proper training, they would have put her amongst the great brood mares.

DESIGNER is a rich bay horse, four years old, 15½ hands high, well formed, evenly balanced and handsome, good disposition, has a perfect gait, and shows every indication of being very fast, both through his sire and dam, he inherits extreme speed, and cannot fail to make a great producer.

Will make the season of 1889 from March 15th to July 15th, at Jefferson Stock Farm, on Scotts Lane, one mile from Santa Clara.

TERMS, $40 THE SEASON.

Due at the time of service, and must be paid before the mares are removed. Mares not proven with foal may be returned next season, if mares or horse have not changed hands.

Pasturage three dollars per month. All mares at owner's risk.

H. SCOTT.
Box 376, Santa Clara, Cal.

AMBERINE.

$25. $25.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by PROMPTER No. 2305, with six weeks training at the close of a stud season, he won a stallion race of five heats, winning the last three heats and getting a record of 2:33¾; he has never been trained since.

His sire, Wilson's BLUE BULL, No. 75, has more of his progeny in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived, except it may be George Wilkes, and it is a disputed point between the two which has most.

PROMPTERS' dam, PRAIRIE BIRD, 2:28¾, is in the GREAT BROOD MARE TABLE, a proved producer, and of a family of wonderful producers, as an examination of the produce of Flaxtail mares will prove.

AMBERINE'S dam, "BONNIE," owned by G. W. Hancock, of Sacramento, is one of the best road-mares in the State; she has many times covered 50 miles on the road in five hours, and 125 miles in 17 hours. She is the dam of Daisy, yearling record, 2:38¾, her sire is John Nelson, sire of the dams of Albert W., 2:20, and Valensin, 2:23.

AMBERINE is a beautiful bay, three years old, very powerfully built, 16 hands, and trotted a mile in his yearling form in 3:20, and has never been trained.

Will serve 15 outside mares at the low price of $25 the season. Should the mare not prove in foal, the money refunded or mare bred following season. Service fee payable, when I pasture the mare, at the time of her removal; but if served outside, payable at time of service.

He is full brother to DAISY: yearling record, 2:38¾. THE BEST IN THE WORLD FOR PACING. Two-year-old trial, two miles, 5:07; last mile in 2:28.

Good pasturage for a limited number of mares only, at $5 per month. Ranch 18 miles from the City, San Pedro Valley. Horses taken down at owner's risk.

This horse will stand in San Francisco, San Mateo, or Alameda Counties. Owned by

ALMONT PATCHEN.
Pacing Record 2.15.

Sire JUANITO, dam Glidey, by GLADIATOR, the sire of James H. 2:21, Boss 2:20¾, and the pacer Damiana 2:26¼; second dam by HENRY BELMONT, third dam a Sir Archie mare. JUANITO is by Tilton Almont, record 2:26, dam Bericia by Signal, Singleterry's Rattler, sire of Marysville Queen, wagon record 2:45, and the pacers Prussian Maid 2:19, Carrie T. 2:20¾, and Handy Andy 2:20¾, second dam a mare bought of J. W. Moore of Marysville, Cal., from the Harper Stock Farm in Kentucky. Tilton Almont, 2:26, is the sire of Daisy S. 2:24½ and is by the great Almont, dam by Clark Chief. Henry Belmont is a full brother to Venture 2:27¼, being by Williamson's Belmont, dam Miss Mostyn, by American Boy, Jr., second dam Fannie Mostyn by Grey Medoc.

To his excellent blood lines Almont Patchen adds performances which show him a worthy descendant of famous families. He is a large, well-formed, rangy and stylish horse, of great power and unsurpassed staying qualities, and cannot fail to get fast and useful horses. In 1886 he started in Chico and in Sacramento in two races, winning both, making in the latter a record of 2:23.

In 1888 ALMONT PATCHEN started in eight races, winning six, and coming in second in the other two. In his last race at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, he defeated Adonis and Belmont Boy, making a record of 2:18. A few days later, in private, he paced a mile in 2:13¼ on same track.

Almont Patchen will make the season of '89 at the Race Track, San Jose, commencing February 1st and ending in May.

TERMS: $100 for the season, payable when mare is bred. Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. All mares taken at owner's risk. For further particulars address,

VINELAND BREEDING FARM.

Whippleton, 1883,
STANDARD UNDER RULE 4 & 6.

The most successful stock horse in California for his opportunities. WHIPPLETON has no equal as a producer of carriage and general purpose horses. Sire of Lily Stanley, record 2:17½, dam's breeding unknown; Homestakes pacer, 2:16½, dam's breeding unknown; Flora B., 2:30, dam's breeding unknown; Cora C., three-year old pacer, 2:33¾, dam by Nauduc, Rachel, 2:38, dam's breeding unknown.

DESCRIPTION.

WHIPPLETON is a beautiful black, tan muzzle and flanks, and exceptionally strongly made all over. He stands 17 hands high and weighs 1400 pounds. He is beyond doubt the most uniform breeder on the Coast for size, color and finish. Most of his colts are 16 hands or over, and all bay, brown or black in color. He has never sired a sorrel or white faced colt; if he does I agree to refund service money.

PEDIGREE.

WHIPPLETON, sired by Hambletonian Jr. (sire of Hancock 2:20), by Whipple's Hambletonian; dam Lady Livingston; (dam of Lady Blanchard 2:26¾, Bloomfield Maid, trial 2:22); by General Taylor (sire of dam of Wells Fargo 2:18¾, Nearea 2:24½, Bickford 2:29¼, Lady Blanchard 2:26¾) and Stella 2:30, son of the Morse horse.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars, with usual return privilege.

ALCONA, 730.

By the great Almont (sire of Westmont, 2:15¼, Puritan, 2:16, Fannie Witherspoon, 2:16¼, Piedmont, 2:17¼, and 31 others with records better than 2:30, and grandsire of Bell Hamlin, 2:13¾) by Alexander's A dallah (sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14), he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Alcona's dam, Queen Mary by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¼, Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½ and 4 others in 2:30 list, and sire of the dams of Piedmont, 2:17¼, Director, 2:17, Onward, 2:22¼, and many others; 23 of his sons have produced 2:30 trotters.

Almont has 38 sons that have produced 2:30 trotters, which number is only equaled by his grandsire, Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

DESCRIPTION.

Alcona is a beautiful chestnut, 16¼ hands high, and weighs 1,300 pounds. His colts possess speed, style, finish and beauty, and if they don't trot fast they command the highest price for carriage and general purpose horses. Eleven of Alcona's colts that have been sold UNTRAINED brought $7,810, an average of $710 per head.

TERMS: $35. Usual return privilege.

Grandissimo,
Full Brother to GRANDEE. 3-year-old record 2:23 1-2.

Sired by La Grande (son of Almont, and out of Jessie Pepper, by Mambrino Chief; Jessie Pepper is the dam of Iona 2:22, Alpha 2:23½, Sterling Wilkes 2:33¾, and others) dam Norma, by Arthurton (sire of Arab 2:15, Joe Arthurton 2:20½, etc.).

Grandam Nourmahal, full sister to A. W. Richmond, sire of Arrow 2:14¾, Romero 2:19, and sire of Columbine, dam of Anteeo 2:16¾, and Antevolo 2:19¼, at 4 years old).

DESCRIPTION.

Grandissimo is 3 years old, will make a sixteen hand horse; he is a rich mahogany bay in color and perfect in style and action. Limited to ten mares, at $50 for the season. Usual return privileges.

In case any of my horses are sold before the next season, parties breeding mares have the privilege to return them to any other stallion I have making the season at the same price. Mares kept in any manner desired. Best of pasture the year round, at $4 per month. Some choice young stallions, colts and fillies by Whippleton, for sale reasonable. Correspondence solicited.

For further information send for circular or call at farm (one mile south of St. Helena.

ANNUAL FALL MEETING.

RAISIN HANDICAP. For all ages. 1¼ mile dash. Guarantee Purse $1,000. $10 entrance. $10 May 1st, $15 June 1st, $25 July 1st. Weights will be declared August 15th and acceptance September 1st, when the other $50 is to be paid. To be run at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entrance money amounts to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the association will add 20 per cent. of amount of purse; 3 moneys, 70, 20, 10 per cent. of purse. Horses winning any purse or stake of one mile or more at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $800 or over, shall carry 10 pounds extra. Horses winning a purse or stake of one mile or over at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $500 or over, to carry 5 pounds extra.

Weights to be declared through BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, August 15, 1889. Entries close May 1st with the Secretary.

American Association Rules to govern.

REMARKS.

As to the Handicap Running, 1¼ mile dash, the Handicapping Committee will use due diligence in learning the performance of every horse entered, and weighting them fairly to their merits. Each entry must be accompanied by entrance money or be considered no entry. All payments not made when due the nominator forfeits all money paid in. We propose at the finish of the race the horse winning the purse, or any part of it, gets his money and not forfeit papers.

GUARANTEE PURSE.

For horses that never beat 2:30. Trotting Purse $1,000, $100 entrance, $25 May 1st, $25 July 1st, $50 August 15th, when horses are to be named. To be trotted at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entries amount to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the Association will add 20 per cent. of amount of stakes. Four moneys, 40, 25, 15, 10 per cent of purse.

Horses eligible at closing of entries, May 1st.

American Association rules to govern.

REMARKS.

This 2:30 class Guarantee Purse gives the party making the entry the privilege of naming any horse he sees fit the 15th day of August, having no better record than 2:30 the first day of May, irrespective of the record he gets after that date. You will see by this the nominator has almost a sure thing of getting his money back. Any nominator failing to make payments when due, forfeits all money paid in, and money must accompany entry or it will be considered no entry.

Our grounds are the finest appointed in the State, being about 2½ miles from the city; horse car line running direct to the grounds.

We also have the best of box stalls for 100 horses. Hay and straw furnished to all horses entered in races free of charge. Grain can be procured on the grounds at reasonable rates.

CONDITIONS.

All trotting and pacing races, best 3 in 5, to harness, unless otherwise specified. Entrance, ten per cent on amount of purse, to accompany nomination. Any horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money.

American Association Rules to govern all trotting, pacing, and running races, but the Board reserves the right to trot heats of any two classes alternately, or to trot a special race between heats; also, to change the day or hour of any race if deemed necessary.

A horse making a walk-over shall be entitled to only one-half of entrance money paid in. When less than required number of starters appear, they may contest for entrance money paid in, to be divided as follows: 66⅔ to first, 33⅓ to second.

In all entries not declared out by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race shall be required to start.

When there is more than one entry by one person, or in one interest, the particular horse they are to start must be named by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race.

If, in the opinion of the judges, any race cannot be finished on the closing day of the meeting, it may be continued or declared off, at the option of the judges.

Non-starters in running races will be held for entrance under Rule 36.

Racing colors to be named on entries.

In trotting races the drivers shall be required to wear caps of distinct colors, which must be named in their entries.

These two last rules will be strictly enforced.

All races to be called at 2 P. M. sharp

Entries to all the above races to close with the Secretary at 11 P. M., Saturday, April 6, 1889.

LEWIS LEACH, President.

N. I. BALDWIN, Secretary.

Frank Morgan.

DESCRIPTION.

FRANK MORGAN was brought to California by Mr. S. E. Larabie of Montana. He is undoubtedly one of the handsomest stallions in the country, is a dark chestnut, about 16 hands in height, of free, easy carriage, well gaited, perfectly developed and superb in general appearance. In disposition he is all that could be desired. He has been named Frank Morgan in honor of the family from which he descends.

PEDIGREE.

FRANK MORGAN was sired by an unnamed son of Morgan General, Jr., by Morgan General, by Billy Root, by Sherman, by Justin Morgan. Dam by Romeo, by Green Mountain Morgan 2nd, by Gifford's Morgan, by Woodbury Morgan, by Justin.

FRANK MORGAN will make the season of 1889 at the Oakland Race Track, serving a limited number of mares. He is a sure and reliable foal getter, and the uniform beauty and style of his colts have shown him to be a producer of the finest class of road and carriage horses that have ever been seen in this country.

TERMS.—$40 FOR THE SEASON.

Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. The best care will be taken of all mares, but no risks for accidents or escapes. For further particulars, address

THE

Stanford Stakes

1891.

A sweepstakes for trotting colts and fillies, foals of 1888, $175 each, $25 payable on the 2d of April, 1889, which must accompany the nomination, and none will be recorded in which there is a failure to comply with this requirement, at which time the stakes will close; $25 on the 1st of January 1890; $25 on the 1st of January 1891, and $100 thirty days before the day fixed for trotting, whatever amount up to be considered forfeit, and the neglect to pay at the stipulated time incurring forfeiture of the previous payments. The race to be heats of a mile, best 3 in 5 to harness. First to receive six-ninths of the whole sum, the second two-ninths, the third one-ninth. In addition to the stakes and forfeits the proportion of the gate money, profit on pool sales, and all other sources of emolument will constitute the gross amount, to be divided in the foregoing proportions. Five or more subscribers to fill. The race to be trotted in 1891, not sooner than the 1st of August. The exact date to be fixed and announced on the 1st of April, 1891, or sooner.

The stakes for 1892 will close January 2, 1890. $25 entrance.

Race to be governed by the Rules of the National Trotting Association. Nominations to be made to N. T. SMITH, Treasurer, S. P. Railroad Office, Fourth and Townsend Streets, on or before the 2d day of April, 1889. The colt must be named, the name and pedigree, so far as known, given.

Should a Pacific Coast Trotting-Horse Breeder's Association be gotten up, the above stake may be transferred to that, the Treasurer, N. T. Smith, having the power to make the transfer, and also to arrange anything else, in connection with this stake which is not expressed in the above conditions. Should it occur that Captain Smith cannot act at any time, then a majority of the subscribers still eligible to start will have the power to fill the vacancy.

Under the new trotting rules letters legibly postmarked April 1st will be eligible.

N. T. SMITH, Treasurer.

THREE CHEERS

Will make the Season of 1889 at Oakland Race Track, Oakland, Alameda County.

Pedigree.

Hurrah by Newminster (winner St. Leger 1851), dam Jovial by Bay Middleton (winner Derby 1836.)

Newminster by Touchstone (winner St. Leger 1831), dam Beeswing (winner of 53 races out of 64 starts) by Dr. Syntax (winner Doncaster Cup 1837, 40, 41, 42, the only horse that ever accomplished that feat.)

THREE CHEERS is bred in the speediest and stoutest lines. His dam, Young Fashion was the dam of surprise, Scotland (the only horse that ever beat Asteroid a heat), Liverpool, Columbia and Bonnie Kate, the dam of Little Buttercup and the flying Bonnie Lizzie. His grandam, Fashion, was the greatest race mare of her era, defeating Boston in that historical match at four-mile heats, that is recorded as one of the greatest events in the annals of the turf. He is thoroughly sound in wind and limb, his family on both sides being noted for their exemption from curbs, spavins, roaring, or any other hereditary unsoundness. Horsemen, who can appreciate the highest type of the thoroughbred, are specially invited to inspect Three Cheers.

THREE CHEERS is the sire of Almont, Applause and Why Not, the only three of his get ever trained, and all are stake winners.

TERMS: $75 for the season. Mares not proving with foal can be returned the next season free of charge. Good pasturage at $5 per month. Mares cared for in any manner owners may desire, and fed on hay and grain, either or both, at reasonable rates. None but competent grooms employed, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

N. B.—Mares sent from a distance in care of J. W. Morshead City Front Stables, San Francisco, will be forwarded without delay.

Thoroughbred Stallion

Prince of Norfolk,

Will Make the Season of 1889, from Feb 15th to July 1st, at Sacramento.

PEDIGREE.

PRINCE OF NORFOLK, ch c, foaled 1881, by Norfolk; 1st dam Marion by Malcolm; 2nd dam Maggie Mitchell by imp. Yorkshire; third dam Charmer by imp. Glencoe; 4th dam Betsy Malone by Stockholder; 5th dam by Potomac; 6th dam by imp. Diomed; 7th dam by Pegasus, etc. Norfolk, the unbeaten son of Lexington, is the sire of Winters, Twilight, Conner, Ballot Box, Trade Dollar, Flood, Duchess of Norfolk, Lou Spencer, the Great Emperor of Norfolk, an many others. Marion's sire, Malcolm, was one of the first horses to bring Bonnie Scotland into notice. Through the Maggie Mitchell cross comes the blood of two of the most celebrated race mares of their day, Charmer and Betsy Malone. The combined speed of these great families seem to be concentrated in the get of Norfolk and Marion, as is instanced in the case of the Emperor of Norfolk, who is a full brother to the Prince of Norfolk.

The blood lines here displayed cannot be surpassed in the world, there not being a single cross that has not been celebrated for speed and endurance, and it is fair to assume that the get of this stallion will show equally well with those of past generations.

TERMS, $50 for the season. We offer first class pasturage on our own ranch, at $4 per month and the best of care will be taken of mares sent to us, but no responsibility can be incurred. For further particulars address

W. P. TODHUNTER, Sacramento.

Finely Bred Trotting Stallion

ARLINGTON.

$50. TRIAL 2:28½; BY $50.

ABBOTTSFORD.

SIRE OF CONDE, 2:20.

PEDIGREE.

By Abbottsford, dam the Gillespie mare, Abbottsford by Woodford Mambrino, son of Mambrino Chief, dam Columbia by Young Columbus. This horse was brought to California by J. W. Knox, and made a record in 1883 of 2:19¾, and has always proved a great speed producer.

The Gillespie mare, by the celebrated Wilson's Blue Bull, who has probably more of his get in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived.

Arlington has as yet no record, but has shown very fast trials. He will be limited to twenty-five mares only, as he will be trained for a record immediately on the conclusion of the season.

TERMS: $50 the season, with usual return privileges. The best of attention will be given mares, but no liability assumed for escapes or accidents. Call on or address

LEON.

Bay stallion, 16¼ hands high, foaled 1885 sired by Leinster, dam Ada A, dam of Patsy Duffy, Frank Rhodes, Lizzie P.—dam of Idalene Cotton, and Lady Leinster—by Asteroid. The ones that saw his race at the Oakland Fair last fall can best judge as to his racing qualities. He ran the 1¼ miles, carrying 118 lbs, in 2:10, and galloped under the wire. The last mile he ran in 1:43¾. If not sold by Feb. 1st will make a season in the stud at Sacramento. For further particulars address

MEMO.

The Fast Trotting Stallion, the Best Son of Sidney.

Will make the Season of 1889 at the Oakland Trotting Park.

He was bred by G. Valensin at the Arno Stock Farm, Sacramento County, California; foaled spring of 1885.

PEDIGREE.

By Sidney.
First dam Flirt by Buccaneer.
Second dam Mohaska Belle by Flaxtail.
Third dam by John the Baptist.

Sidney by Santa Claus, 2:17¾, his dam Sweetness, 2:21¼. Strathmore, the son of Santa Claus, has 22 of his get which have trotted in 2:30 or better, up to close of 1887, several having entered since, and Volunteer the sire of Sweetness, has 26 in the same list. Buccaneer is the sire of Shamrock, two-year-old record 2:25, and of Flight, 2:29, and in him are combined the strains of Long Island Blackhawk, Vermont Blackhawk, and the dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Flaxtail figures prominently in both pacing and trotting descendants, and is the sire of the dam of Apex, 2:26, Flight, 2:29, J. H. McCormack, 2:29, and Shamrock, 2:25.

PERFORMANCES.

Memo only trotted in public in his two-year-old form, obtaining a record of 2:39, though he was close to Grandee in a race on the Bay District Track, the second heat of which was made in 2:31½, the first in 2:32. He exhibited phenomenal speed when three years old, and had it not been for a slight strain of his fore fetlock there is little question that he would have shown in public very close to the best record. On the Oakland track he was timed a mile in 2:20¾, and frequently trotted quarters in from 32½ to 34 seconds.

DESCRIPTION.

He is nearly if not quite sixteen hands high, and of powerful build throughout. His color is a glossy black, with both fore-feet white and a touch of white on his off hind quarters. His disposition is all that could be desired, and his action superb.

TERMS: One hundred dollars the season, which will commence on the 5th of February and close on the 1st of July. Due care will be taken of mares, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes.

Mares taken and kept as desired by the owners, and at reasonable rates.

Pasturage at $5 per month within the track enclosure; feed first rate, and a living stream of water in the field. There is a double protection against escape, as in addition to a strong fence on the inside of the track, the gates of the outer fence are enclosed at night, which gives almost positive assurance of safety. ELECTIONEER STALLION

EROS,

Standard No. 5326.

Electioneer, his sire, has more 2:20 trotters than any living horse, and more 2:30 trotters than any stallion LIVING OR DEAD.

Eros has a record of 2:29½, made in the fifth and deciding heat against a field of eight horses in his maiden race, and with only four weeks preparation after coming out of the stud.

Progeny.

Eros had last fall but three colts trained; the oldest a three-year-old trotter, an exhibition mile during the San Jose Fair in 2:40, last quarter in 36½ seconds. A two-year-old trained by the judges; made a mile in 2:46½, and the other two year-old in 2:47. All of these trials being made without a single skip, and none of these colts had then been handled three months from the bitting harness.

TERMS: $50 for the season, from February 1st to July 1, 1889. Due at time of service.

WILKES PASHA.

STANDARD 2618.

Dark bay with white hind feet, 16½ hands high, bred by R. P. Pepper, of South Elk Horn Farm, Frankfort, Kentucky. Sired by Onward, 1111, record 2:25¾, trial 2:17. He by George Wilkes, 2:22, sire of sixty-five horses in the 2:30 list, ten of them with records below 2:20. First dam Fisher (dam of Clara Wilkes, 2:29¾, trial 2:25) by American Clay, 34, sire of Granville, 2:26; Maggie Briggs, 2:27; Ella Clay, 2:27½; and the dams of Executor, 2:24½, Ranchero, 2:23½; Judge Hawser, 2:21½; Ambassador, 2:21, and nine others in 2:30; second dam by Wilson's Snow Storm, sire of Jim Irving, 2:22; third dam by Paddie Burns, thoroughbred.

Onward, 1411, is one of the noted sires of to-day. In 1887 he placed seven performers in the 2:30 list, including Hourl, three-year-old record 2:19¾; while in 1888 he still further sustains his reputation by adding nine of his sons and daughters to the list. Onward combines the blood of the two great trotting families, Hambletonian 10 and Mambrino Chief 11, and derives his speed inheritance direct through the greatest son of the one family, and the greatest daughter of the other.

Onward's dam was Dolly, the dam of Director, 2:17, and Thorndale, 2:22¾), by Mambrino Chief. Dolly was one of the greatest speed-producing brood mares that ever lived. George Wilkes stands at the head of the list of sires of fast trotters with 65 performers with records of 2:30 or better, and the combination of these two great producers will breed on with absolute certainty.

WILKES PASHA will make the season of 1889 at the stables of the undersigned, at the Trancas Bridge, two miles north of Napa, on the Soda Spring Road.

TERMS,

For the season ending July 1, 1889, $35 in U. S. gold coin.

Alfalfa pasturage $4 per month; natural grass $2.50 per month.

Every attention and care will be given to mares, but no liabilities assumed for accidents or escapes.

The Electioneer Stallion

LANCELOT,

SEAL BROWN STALLION, 15½ HANDS, FOALED APRIL 15, 1881.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco, Cal.

Sire Gov. Stanford's ELECTIONEER; first dam Lizzie Harris by Comus; second dam by Arnold Harris. Comus by Green's Bashaw, dam Topsey by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk. Young Bashaw by Grand Bashaw (Arabian) (182), dam Pearl by First Consul (913); g d Fancy by imp. Rockingham. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam Sportsmistress by American Eclipse.

All the sons of Electioneer in the Eastern States have their books filled for the season. This is a rare opportunity to breed to Lancelot at a very low price. Lancelot has shown quarters better than a 2:30 gait, and had it not been for an accident would have had a record as low as the fastest of the sons of Electioneer.

The Nutwood Stallion

SALADIN.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco.

SALADIN, chestnut stallion, 16 hands 1 inch high; foaled April 9, 1880. By Nutwood; first dam Lady Utley Jr. by Speculation, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian; second dam Lady Utley. Grandam of Western Girl. Record 2:27½.

NUTWOOD (record 2:18¾), half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾, by Belmont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; first dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sally Russell by Boston; third dam Maria Russell by Thornton's Rattler; fourth dam Miss Shepard by Stockholder; fifth dam Miranda by Topgallant; sixth dam by imported Diomed; seventh dam by imported Medley; eighth dam by imported Juniper. Nutwood is the sire of Felix, 2:18¾; Dawn 2:19¾; Manon 2:21; Menlo 2:21¼; Nutbreaker, two years old, 2:29¾; Nutwood Jr. 2:26; Mount Vernon 2:21; Wood nut 2:16¾, and several others that have trotted under 2:30.

The above stallions will make the season of 1889 at the Hoag stables, corner 1st and B Streets, Santa Rosa.

TERMS: $40 for the season for either of the above stallions.

Pasturage $3 per month. All mares at the owners risk. Apply or address,

The Thoroughbred Stallion

Judge McKinstry,

Will make the Season of 1889, from

March 1 to July 1, at San Felipe

Rancho, near Gilroy.

PEDIGREE.

Foaled 1879, by Grinstead or Thad Stevens, dam Katy Pease; second dam Minnie Mansfield by imp. Glencoe; third dam Allegrante by imp. Young Truffle.

DESCRIPTION.

JUDGE McKINSTRY is a bright bay with black points, 15¾ hands in height, of a conformation combining power and speed. His breeding is one that cannot be excelled. The fam lies on both sides being noted for their gameness and fleetness. Speakin of JUDGE McKINSTRY, Matt Storn, the well-known trainer, says: "He is the fastest race-horse I ever saw on the Sacramento track. He has shown me trials that were marvelous, one especially of a mile and a quarter that was ahead of the present record." He was started in several races when not in condition to run, and even then developed an amount of speed that is characteristic of the noted families from which he descends. His performances are too well known to need repetition here. Good judges of horses state positively that there can be no doubt of his sire, as he is a perfect picture of Grinstead, but rule compels us to name both sires.

TERMS: $75 payable when the mare is moved from ranch, or, $100, with the usual privilege. Good pasturage, $3 per month. Mares at owners risk. All communications must be addressed to

Prince Imperial.

DESCRIPTION.—PRINCE IMPERIAL is a black horse, 15-3 hands high; weighs 1 150 pounds, and is a model of beauty, action and power.

PEDIGREE.—Sired by Black Prince, he by Dictator, own brother to Dexter, dam Daisy by Witherell Messenger, he by Winthrop Messenger, son of imp. Messenger.

Mr. Peter Brandow's statement in regard to Prince Imperial: "I met A. Weske in the Park in 1887 driving the above horse, both strangers to me. I was driving a good horse, but the above horse, hitched to a phaeton, beat me easily. I followed him to find out what horse it was, and he finally allowed me to hitch him to a sulky, which I did, and drove him easily in 2:-2¼. I think him one amongst the best horses in California, and firmly believe that in six months I can drive him in 220."

PETER BRANDOW.
Trainer of trotters for 25 years.

In 1881, while visiting Salt Lake City, I saw the colt Prince Imperial, and bought him for my own use, and have used him for family purposes ever since. In offering him for public service last year, not knowing anything about horses' pedigrees I made a mistake in his. I wrote to the owner of the mare in Salt Lake, Dr. S. B. Young, and he says she was by Henry Clay, brought from Kentucky by him.

Will make the season of 1888 at the farm of A. Weske, 2½ miles from Santa Rosa on the Healdsburg road. Season commencing March 1st.

SIRE OF YOLO MAID, 2:14.

Alexander Button.

Alexander's Record, 2:31 1-4!

DESCRIPTION.

Alexander Button is a dark bay with fine flowing mane and tail; stands 15-3¾ hands high; weighs 1,200 pounds, and is of excellent disposition. When three years old he made a record of 2:28¾, and when four years old, in his first race, he obtained a record of 2:26¾. Has been driven a mile in 2:16 in his four-year-old form, and has been driven a last half in 1:0 . Alexander Button is a natural trotter, inherited through the speed-lines of his ancestors, and imparts his speed to his offspring with uniform certainty. Yolo Maid, as a three-year-old, paced 18 heats, never leaving her feet—carrying the world's record of 2:14. Rosie Mc, as a five-year-old rarely ever breaks; has a record of 2:20¾. R. H. Newton's colt, with very little handling, paced a 2:16 gait, and there are several other colts that show gaits from 2:16 to 2:20. Considering that Alexander Button has never been mated with a standard-bred mare—his colts show him to be a wonderful producer—and with his breeding, and terms of service, he is the cheapest and most wonderful horse in the State.

PEDIGREE.

Alex. Button was sired by Alexander, he by Geo. M. Patchen, Jr., his dam Lady Button by Napa Rattler by Biggett's Rattler, he by Sir Henry, and he by imported Henry, dam of Biggett's Rattler by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam of Napa Rattler, thoroughbred.

TERMS: $75, payable at end of season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge. Good pasturage will be furnished at $2 per month, and due care taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability whatever assumed.

Will stand at City Stable, Woodland, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. The remainder of the time he will stand at my ranch, which is situated about 1½ miles west of Yolo station.

All mares sent to Fashion Stable, Woodland, Yolo County, will be forwarded free of charge.

LONGWORTH.

High Bred Trotting Stallion.

WILL BE FOUR YEARS OLD IN MARCH.

Dark Bay, Black Points, by Sidney.

OWNED BY A. C. DIETZ, OAKLAND.

Also the owner of Bay Stallion Ringwood, four years old, by Sidney, half brother to Longworth, which has showed trials over the Oakland Track, 2:30; quarters, in 34 seconds—2:16 gait —as a three-year old.

LONGWORTH, for finish, style and form cannot be excelled by any four-year-old horse in the State. His gait is perfect; going low to the ground, with smooth, easy motion, and has shown wonderful speed with but two month's work. As a two-year-old, he showed a 2:40 gait; as a three-year-old showed—trial—full mile over the Oakland track, 2:26; half mile, 1:10; quarters, 34 seconds; eighths, 16 seconds—a 2:08 gait.

Longworth is the result of a long line of distinguished ancestors, endowed with speed on the sire and dams' side that follows back for generations—consequently he cannot help but produce great speed.

He is half brother to the great three-year-old Adonis, record 2:14¾.

Gold Leaf, three-year-old record, 2:15.
Memo, three-year-old trial, 2:20¾.
Sister V., two-year-old trial, 2:32.
St. Nicholas, three-year-old trial, 2:27¼.
Ringwood, three-year-old trial, 2:30.
Miss Sidney, one-year-old trial, half mile, 1:38.
Brown colt, three-year-old trial, 2:40.
Black colt, three-year-old trial, 2:39.
Linda, one-year-old trial, one quarter, 40 seconds.
Sorrel colt, two-year-old trial, quarter, 34 seconds, and a number more that have shown remarkable speed. One yearling that has shown one-eighth of a mile in 16 1-5 seconds—a 2:10 gait.

Sidney, the sire of Longworth, has a record of 2:19¾; Santa Claus, the grand sire, has a record of 2:17½; Sweetness, the grandam, record 2:21½; Strathmore, the sire of Santa Claus, has twenty-two that have trotted below 2:30; Volunteer, the sire of Sweetness, has twenty-six that have trotted below 2:30. Volunteer is the sire of St. Julian, record 2:11¼.

Longworth's first dam Grey Dale, the dam of Daisy C., Silver Threads, and grandam of Phaceola; Grey Dale by American Boy, Jr.; he by American Boy, the sire of Belmont. Second dam Grey Poll by Winfield Scott, by Edward Everett; third dam Sorrel Poll by Sir Henry; fourth dam Daughter of Printer.

Grey Dale, the dam of Longworth, has shown herself a great producer of speed through Daisy C. and Silver Threads, the sire of Phaceola.

All letters pertaining to the service of this horse should be addressed to J. J. FAIRBANKS, Oakland Alameda County, Cal.

TERMS: Fifty dollars, payable at the end of the season or sooner if the mares are taken away. Season will close June 15th, 1889. The number of mares limited to twenty-five. The best of care will be taken to insure mares with foal. Pasture $5 per month, which can be procured at the Oakland Race Track. Mares at the owners' risk, as to escapes or accidents.

The stallion will be kept at the stables of the undersigned, at the junction of San Pablo Avenue and Park Street.

NOONDAY.

No Record, Foaled 1884.

Standard No. 10,000.

THIS CELEBRATED TROTTING-BRED STALLION will be limited to 40 mares the ensuing season at Oakland Trotting Park, Oakland, Cal., commencing February 1st and ending July 1st, at $100 the season, with the usual privilege of returning the mare next season if not proving in foal. The names of his patrons will be entered on his book in order of their application. He will be limited strictly to forty mares. Pasturage at five dollars per month, hay and grain extra.

NOONDAY, sired by Wedgewood (692), record, the fourth heat, 2 19, (sire of Favonia, record, fourth heat, 2:19, and Nugget, record 2:26, he the sire of Nettie Leaf, four-year-old record 2:23¾), and five others better than 2:26.

First dam Noontide, record 2:20½, by Harold (413), sire of Maud S., record 2:08¾, Mattie Graham, 2:21¾, and 17 others in 2:30.

Second dam Midnight (the dam of Jay-Eye-See, record 2:10), by Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Maud S., 2:08¾, Nutwood, 2:18¾.

Third dam by Lexington (sire of dam of Ansel, 2:20.)

Fourth dam by imp. Glencoe (sire of the grandam of Favonia, 2:15), sire of the sire of the dam of Arrow, 2:13½.

Wedgewood, by Belmont (61), sire of Nutwood, 2:18¾.

First dam (the dam of Woodford Mambrino, 2:21), by Woodford (thoroughbred son of Kosciusko), he by Sir Archy.

NOONDAY is well formed, evenly balanced and handsome; his color is dark seal brown, small star, right hindfoot white, 15 1¾ inches high, weight 975 lbs, strong back and good gaited, short and rapid, and will make a fast and game campaigner.

Breeders will please remember that this horse is not owned by me. I have only leased him for two years for the benefit of the State and breeders on account of the speedy lines and blood that this State is in need of, and no stallion now in public service can show a pedigree with such fast records as enrich the blood of NOONDAY.

I will also handle and train a few horses for gentlemen at fair terms. Address

THE WILKES STALLION

Mambrino Wilkes, 6083

(Half Brother to Harry Wilkes, 2:13 1-2.)

Sire of Gus Wilkes, 2:22; Alpheus, 2:27; Balkan 2:29½, three-year-old; John O'Brien, lapped out the winner in 2:36 as a three-year-old; H. A. W.'s Black Colt, trial 2:29 with very little work as a four-year-old.

Will remain in the future at San Miguel Stock Farm, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County.

DESCRIPTION.

MAMBRINO WILKES is a black horse, 16 hands high, and considerably longer than his height; has immense muscular development and weighs 1,260 pounds. He has the utmost symmetry of proportion and elegance of finish. No competent judge who has seen this horse has failed to pronounce him a perfect individual, and his breeding is certainly fashionable enough to satisfy the most fastidious. His colts are large, stylish and handsome, and Balkan has been pronounced by many the most stylish trotter on the turf.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by George Wilkes, dam Lady Chrisman by Todhunter's Mambrino; second dam by Pilot Jr.

Todhunter's Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, dam Ripton's dam by Hunt's Commodore, son of Mambrino by imp. Messenger; second dam by Potomac, son of imp. Messenger.

George Wilkes sired 65 colts that have beaten 2:30. Of these 39 have average records of 2:23, 11 of 2:19 and 12 of 2:18.

TERMS.

Mares from a distance will be received at the Dexter Stables, Oakland, or Livery Stable, Martinez, the owner notifying Smith Hill, Superintendent at the farm. Good pasture and plenty of water. For the purpose of placing the service of a Wilkes within reach of breeders, the same rate will be maintained as last year, to wit, $75 for the season. Although it is not admitted thereby that this horse is inferior as a producer to the horses whose fees are placed at from $150 to $500.

BALKAN,

Three-year-old Record 2:29 1-2; trotting many heats faster, when he did not obtain a record.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Fanny Fern by Jack Hawkins, son of Boston; second dam S. T. B. by Jim Crow.

It will be readily seen that this colt is from strong producing lines on both sides. Fanny Fern having produced Mollie Drew, May Queen, Onyx and Fred Arnold, all noted trotters and all by different sires.

This colt will be kept at the Oakland Trotting Park, and will be stinted to ten approved mares at $100 for the season.

PEREMPTORY SALE

—OF—

English Shire, Clydesdale and Norman STALLIONS, and

CLYDESDALE MARES,

At 1 P. M., TUESDAY, March 26, 1889,

—AT—

Bay District Track.

By direction of Mr. J. Trestrail we will offer his consignment of THOROUGHBRED CLYDESDALE STALLIONS and MARES, comprising eight head. These are the most superior lot of Clydes ever imported to California.

We are also instructed by Mr. Morgan, of Cheyenne, to dispose of his consignment, consisting of four ENGLISH SHIRE STALLIONS and four NORMAN STALLIONS. These horses have been selected expressly for this market and are in every way desirable animals.

THIS WILL FORM THE MOST EXTENSIVE SALE OF STALLIONS THAT HAS EVER TAKEN PLACE IN CALIFORNIA.

The horses are now at Bay District Track and may be seen at any time previous to sale.

GROVER CLAY,

Bay Stallion, bred by Hon. W. W. Traylor, San Francisco. Foaled 1883. By ELECTIONEER.

First dam MAGGIE NORFOLK by NORFOLK, son of Lexington.

Second dam by BILLY CHEATHAM.

Third dam by DORSEY'S GOLDDUST.

GROVER C. is a very handsome shade of bay, 15¾ hands high, and showing as much quality as a majority of thoroughbreds. He is as square-gaited a trotter as can be, and has shown a great deal of speed for the amount of handling. Has been worked very little, though he can show a thirty gait or better whenever called upon.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars the season, payable at time of service. Proper care will be taken, but no responsibility incurred for accidents or escapes. Mares will be pastured inside of the Oakland Trotting Park, which is especially safe, having two fences which give ample security against escape. There is a never-failing stream of water which runs through the field, and the food is good.

Season commencing first of January and ending the first of July.

This is the only son of Electioneer standing in Alameda County, and the high breeding on the side of his dam is a guarantee that his colts will inherit qualities already made famous through the mixture of Electioneer and Lexington blood. Ansel, 2:20, is from a Lexington mare, and Sunol's granddam, two-year old record 2:18, was by Lexington, both Sunol and Ansel by Electioneer, Lexington the sire of Norfolk.

OSSIDINE

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 15, 1888.

GENTLEMEN:—We have used Ossidine for the past two years and consider it invaluable for Sprung Tendons, Curbs, Ringbone and Spavins; there is nothing equals it; and for us it effected a permanent cure where firing failed, although performed by one of the most successful veterinarians on the continent. We have recommended it to others with like success, and believe it has more merit than any blister ever used.

Very respectfully yours, S. A. BROWNE & Co., Prop's.

This scientific preparation is an absolute cure for all bony or callous lumps on horses, and is a more powerful absorbent than "firing," without creating the slightest blemish. After a few applications the excrescence is so palpably reduced that even the skeptical frankly acknowledge that it is by far the most valuable outward remedy for horses ever invented.

The ONLY preparation in the world that will remove a Bone Spavin after it has become ossified.

Price $3.00 per Large Bottle,

A. P. BUSH & CO., 149 Pearl Street, Boston, Mass.

Sole Agents for Unitad States and Canada.

Owner of Eole, St. Saviour, Eolist, etc, says; I have long used it in my stables, and find it to be all that is claimed for it in removing callous and unnatural bony growths, without leaving the slightest blemish. From my experience, I most strongly recommend the use of Ossidine, and feel that it is a necessary adjunct to every stable. Yours respectfully,

LONG BRANCH, July 28, 1888. F. GEBHARD.

NUT GROVE.

By GROSVENOR, he by ADMINISTRATOR, he by RYSDYK'S HAMILTONIAN.

First dam Lady Nutwood by Nutwood 600; second dam Lady Mac, standard, by American Boy; third dam a thoroughbred mare imported from Australia.

NUTGROVE is a beautiful bay, 15¼ hands, and is one of the finest appearing young horses in the State. He took the first prize for best two-year-old standard-bred horses at Oakland in 1888, also first prize at the State fairs in the same class. He has been worked for speed but a little, but showed quarters in 38 to 40 seconds. His dam took first prize for standard mare at the Oakland Fair, and also took first prize at the State Fair, 1888, for best mare of any age or breed. For further particulars apply to

When a horse is OVER-RIDDEN,
To COMFORT HIM.

Take a Pinte of Sweet Milk, and put three Yolks of Eggs beaten into it; then make it Luke-warm, and then put in three Penny-worth of Saffron, and one Penny-worth of Salletoyle, which is Two or Three Spoonfulls, and give it the Horse, in a Horn: You may give him near a Quart of Milk. This is an Excellent Drink.

Honey is the most Excellent Thing in the World, both for the Lungs, a Cold, and to Open all Obstructions, putting one good Spoonful into his Diet, and so to Continue this Medicine for a pretty time. I have Known it Recover a very Pursey Horse.

Horses of Great Exercise, or that are Over-Heated, and have great Fire in their Bodies, must be Lett Blood often; nay, Twice or Thrice within a few Dayes, one after another: and still Lett Blood, until you see Good Blood comes: To let such a Horse Blood in the Mouth, and then Rubb his Mouth with Salt, and let him Eat his Blood, is an Excellent thing. But you must Purge him Well, that his Grease may come away; for, Horses of Great Exercise would else be always Foundered in the Body, and then they will never Thrive until that Melted Grease be brought Away.

The Best Purge, is one Ounce and a half of Aloes Sicatrina, Lapt up in Butter, and made into two Pills, and so give it your Horse after he hath Rested awhile, then give him this Following and Refreshing Drink, which is the best Julip in the World:

Take Mel Rosatum, or Honey of Roses, Conserves of Damask Roses. Conserve of Burrage. Sirrup of Violets. Of each four Ounces.

Burrage Water. Endive Water. Suckory Water. Bugloss Water. Plantine Water. Of each Half a Dutch Pint, which is near as much as an English Quart.

Then you are to Use both these Conserves and Waters, Thus:

Put all the Conserves into a Morter, and Beat them, or Pownd them together, and then Mix them by Little and Little, with the Waters, till they be well Mixt together; and then give them all together in a Horn, to the Horse, without Straining: Do not give it Cold by any means. Hott Sirrup of Lemmons added to it, is very Good: Give it twice or Thrice a Week for a Fortnight at least, and let the Horse Rest afterwards.

Feed your Horse all the time of this great Heat within him, with Wheat-Brann amongst his Oats, and Wash them in a little Beer, if he likes it. This Brann is the Best thing in the World to get-Out his Belly, and to Moisten him, because it Dries up all Superfluous Humours which Heat him: In his Water, when you Water him, put also Wheat-Brann into it, and let him Eat of that Brann also. This is most Excellent; and will not only Cool him, and Moisten him, but also Loosen his Skin, if he be Apt to be Hide-Bound, which all Heat doth.

Lettuses are very good to Cool him; Suckory Roots, or Endive Roots, are all one. To Boyl Suckory Roots in his Water is very Good, and Purslane, to give it him now and then to Eat, is also very Good: To Sprinkle his Hay with Water, and to give him Radishes to make him Piss, will Cool him. And let them have no Violent Exercise, until he be Recovered, but gentle Walking.

TO
COOL and REFRESH a HORSE.

Give him Carrots with his Oats, or upon his Watering-bitt; Apples is Excellent, and so Muskmellons, or the Skins of them: To wash his Oats in small Beer, is also very Excellent.

A Receipt of the Cooling-Julip, or Diet-Drink, that Doctor Davison doth give in Feavers.

Take Barley Water two Pints: Of Sirrup of Violets two Ounces: Of Sirrup of Lemmons one Ounce: Mix them together, and use this Water to Quench their Thirst.

A Julip for Feavers to Bind the Body, if it be Loose.

Take one Ounce of Ivory, and one Ounce of Harts-Horn; Raspe them, and put them in three Paris-Pints of Water, and let them Boyl together, until the Half be Consumed; then strain it through a Cloth: And put to this Liquor, four Ounces of the best Juce of Barberies, and one Ounce and a half of Sirrup of Pomgranets. This is to be Used to Cool.

These are Excellent for Feavers in Horses as well as Men: only you must give a Third, or a Fourth Part more to Horses, since they have Stronger Bodies; else the Disease is all one, and the Remedy is all one: And this Method will Cure both Man and Horse; and all other Wayes are Pernicious to them Both, which is either Physick that Purges, or Hott-Cordials; only when he is Cured, then a Purge, as I said before, to take away the Dreggs that Remain; and no more.

A Cooling-Portion which is most Excellent.

Take a Quart of Whey, and four or five Ounces of Sirrup of Violets, and four or five Ounces of Cassia, and a little Manna; and this will both Cool, and Purge Gently, and is a most Excellent Remedy for Horses of Great Exercise.

To take the very same at the other End, will do much Good to Cool the Bowels; and is a very rare, and soveraign Cooling Glister.

All these Cooling things are most Excellent for Horses of Great Exercise, which are Over-Heated, and Surfeited with Riding, so you give them First the Purge of Aloes, to bring Away their Grease.

Here Ends the First Part.

THE SECOND PART.

Of Riding, and Dressing Horses upon the GROUND.

There is no Man can Make or Dress a Horse Perfectly, that doth not exactly Understand all the Natural Paces, and Actions of a Horses Leggs, in every one of them; and all the Actions of his Leggs, made by Art.

It is a General Rule, That Art must never be against Nature; but must follow Nature, and set her in order.

Of The NATURAL PACES.

First. Of a Horse upon his Walk. The Action of his Leggs in that Motion, Is, Two Leggs in the Ayre, and Two Leggs upon the Ground, at the same Time moved Cross, Fore-Legg and Hinder-Legg Cross, which is the True Motion of a Slow Trott.

Secondly. In a Trott. The Action of his Leggs, is, Two Leggs in the Ayre, and Two Leggs upon the Ground, at the same time moved Cross; Fore and Hinder Legg Cross; which is the Motion of his Leggs a Swifter Walk: For, in a Walk, and a Trott, the motion of the Horse's Leggs are all One, which his Leggs makes Cross, Two in the Ayre Cross, and Two upon the Ground Cross, at the same time; Fore-Legg and Hinder-Legg Cross; and every Remove Changes his Leggs Cross; as those that were upon the Ground Cross, are now pull'd up in the Ayre Cross. And this is the Just Motion of a Horse's Leggs in a Trott.

Thirdly. For an Amble, he Removes both his Leggs of a Side: As for example; Take the Farr-Side, he removes his Fore-Legg, and his Hinder-Legg, of the same Side at one time, whilst the other Two Leggs of the Near-Side stand still; and when those Leggs are upon the Ground which he first Removed, at the same Time they are upon the Ground the other Side; which is, The Near-Side removes Fore-Legg and Hinder-Legg on that Side, and the other Leggs of the Farr-Side stand still.

Thus an Amble Removes both his Leggs of a Side, and every Remove Changes Sides; Two of a Side in the Ayre, and Two upon the Ground at the same time. And this is a Perfect Amble.

Fourthly. A Gallop is another Motion: For, in a Gallop he may Lead with which Fore-Legg you Please; but then the Hinder-Legg of the same Side must Follow it, I mean when he Gallops Straight Forwards; and then this is a perfect Gallop.

But to Understand what is Meant by his Fore-Legg Leading, and his Hinder-Legg on the same side Following; that Fore-Legg is thus. As for Example: If the Farr-Fore-Legg Lead, by that Fore-Legg Leading, is meant, That Fore-Legg must be Before the other Fore-Legg alwayes, and the Hinder-Legg to follow it on the same Side; which Hinder-Legg must alwayes be Before the other Hinder-Legg: And this is a True Gallop.

But now to Shew you, that the Motion of a Gallop is thus: The Horse Liffts Both his Fore-Leggs up at a Time, in that Action that I told you, which is one Legg before the other; and as his Fore-Leggs are Falling, I say before they Touch the Ground, his Hinder-Leggs in that Posture I formerly told you, Follow his Fore-Leggs, being once All in the Ayre at one Time; for as his Fore-Leggs are Falling, his Hinder-Leggs Moves at the same Time, and then he is All in the Ayre: For, How is it Possible else, that as a Horse is Running, he should spring Forward twice his Length, were not the Motion of a Gallop a Leap froward?

And this Description is most True both in the Motion and Posture of a Horse's Leggs, when he Gallops: In the Soft and Slow Gallop it is hardly Perceived, though it be True; but in Running, where the Motion is more Violent, it is easily Perceived: for there it is Plain; you shall see all his Four Feet in the Ayre at one time, (Running being but a Swift Gallop); for the Motion and Posture of his Leggs are all one. But you must Remember, that Galloping upon Circles, the Horse alwayes ought to Lead with his Two Leggs, within the Turn; Fore-Legg, and Hinder-Legg within the Turn. And this is a True Gallop.

Fifthly. When a Horse Runns, the Motion he makes, and the Action of his Leggs, are all One with a Gallop; only a Swifter Motion, which you may call a Swift Gallop; and a Gallop a Slow Running: And this is the Truth of the Motion of Running.

Now I must Tell you of that which every body Speaks of, and no body Tells what it is: For, they say, a Horse may Gallop with the wrong Legg Before, which is Impossible. For, if the Hinder-Legg of the same side Followes, it is a Right Gallop; so that rather it is the wrong Legg Behind. But that which they call the wrong Legg Before, is Thus a True Gallop, if that Legg which Leads Before, is Follow'd by the Hindsr-Legg of the same Side; and as the Horse Falls with his two Fore-Leggs, his Hinder-Leggs Follow them, before his Fore-Leggs touch the Ground; so that at that very time all the Horse's Four Leggs are in the Ayre, and it is a Leap forward. That which they call the Wrong Legg Before, is this, When the horse is upon the Motion, in the Swiftness of a Gallop, he Changes his Leggs Cross; which is the Action of a Trott, two Leggs in the Ayre, and two upon the Ground; and that is so Contrary to a Gallop, and is such a Cross Motion, as makes the Horse ready to Fall, and this is one Way of that which they call, The Wrong Legg Before.

Another Way is this, That when the Horse is upon the Action of a Gallop, as I told you before, in the Swiftness of a Gallop, where he should keep alwayes Two Leggs of a side Forward, he Changes Sides every time, Fore-Legg and Hinder-Legg of a Side; and Changing Sides every time, that is

The Greatest of Great Brood Mares Not In "The Table."

Wallace's Year Book contains a table of great brood mares, which to breeders is practically the most valuable and instructive portion of this noble work.

It seems somewhat singular, however, that in making his conditions of admittance thereto, so deep a student of the science of breeding as Mr. Wallace undoubtedly is, should have drawn the line so as to have shut out in probably many other instances than the one I shall write, what he himself frequently cites as the most potent proof of an inbred and inherent trotting instinct, vig.: the ability not only to produce speed in the second generation, but the power to transmit that speed through the second into the third and later generations.

A great sire, for instance, when crossed upon an ordinary mare, may produce great speed in the offspring; but if this offspring fails to breed on, it is pretty good evidence, almost any breeder will admit, that the cold blood in the dam has neutralized that which should rightfully be the attribute of the offspring in as great or a greater degree than it was in either sire or dam, and most certainly than it was in the dam.

Under Mr. Wallace's conditions there are admitted to this table, (1) All mares that have two or more performers with records of 2:30 or better; (2) All mares that have produced one such performer, and another son or daughter that has sired or produced a 2:30 performer.

A mare, therefore, who produces two 2:30 performers is entitled to rank as a great brood mare, whether these performers or their sisters and brothers prove their ability to breed on, or whether they absolutely fail so to do. On the other hand, had Sentinel for instance, failed to make a record of 2:29¼, his great dam Lady Patriot, dam also of Goldsmith's Volunteer, of Green's Hambletonian, and of Marksman, would have found no place in this table.

Green Mountain Maid to the cover of Messenger Duroc, has produced six performers in the 2:30 and better; to the embrace of Rysdyk's Hambletonian she has produced Electioneer, who has no record, but is the sire of thirty-nine performers in 2:30 and better. If all these sons and daughters were placed under the hammer to-morrow, does any breeder doubt that Electioneer, old as he is, would bring more than all the rest of them put together? If I be right in my presumption that he would, then it must be because he has so signally proved himself able to impress speed proclivities on his sons, and will in all probability be as uniformly successful in transmitting his speed-producing powers to them also; hence his greater value is not based on his own speed, but upon the proof that he can transmit speed.

A careful search through the great broodmare' table in the latest edition of the Year Book shows that it contains the names of 337 mares; of these 89 have each produced one producing sire; 25 have each two producing sires; six have each three producing sires; whilst two have succeeded in placing to their respective credits four producing sires, and none has exceeded this number.

Old Dolly by Mambrino Chief has to the cover of such noted sires as Geo. Wilkes, Dictator and Alexander's Abdallah, and to that of the less noted Bald Chief, produced Onward, Director, Thorndale and John F. Payne, who have sired 22 performers in 2:30 or better. Lady Patriot by Young Patriot bred thrice to Rysdyk's Hambletonian and once to Thorndale (the son of Old Dolly) produced Goldsmith's Volunteer, Green's Hambletonian, Sentinel and Marksman, the sires of thirty-six performers in 2:30 or better. The sires of these producing ones would have and did earn renown regardless of the progeny that came from their copulation with these two great broodmares; they, therefore, are entitled to full one-half of the credit that has inbred to these great mares through the speed producing powers of the latter's sons.

In the instance that I propose to place before my readers, however, there are no such favoring or favorable circumstances. I find but one solitary 2:30 performer credited to the sire that was coupled with this great unhonored broodmare, and only one instance in which he figures as the sire of a producing dam, which will later on be again referred to.

Is it not fair then, under these circumstances, if the fruit of this 'one shot' sire and this unnamed dam have any merit to claim that she is entitled to the most, if not all of it? especially when a second copulation produces similar results, and a third and fourth repetition of the mating promise to follow in the wake of those that preceded them.?

I doubt, indeed, if a more conspicuous illustration can be found of the value of a great dam and the potency of her transmissive powers than is instanced in the progeny of Lady Benton by Gray's Hambletonian, when coupled with Jim Scot 836, son of Rich's Hambletonian, what she might have done and proved if bred to these renowned stallions that covered Old Dolly and Lady Patriot, we can only surmise.

As here before stated, Jim Scott never got but one 2:30 performer, (Ed White 2:27) and aside from the four full brothers out of Lady Benton, he has sired no sons that have proved producers to date. He is the sire of the dam of Daisy Queen 2:30, who was got by his son Sir Walter Scott (he out of Lady Benton).

Major Benton, "another son of Jim Scott and Lady Benton," sired Gov. Benton 2:24¼ and the latter's dam was by Gen. Benton, a "third sire of the same sire and dam."

Jefferson Prince, the fourth son of this oft mated couple, has sired four performers with records from 2:19¼ to 2:30, and one of his sons, Boxer, record 2:33¼, has during the season just passed, placed a performer to his credit in Emma W., 2:29¼.

The most noted, probably because the most favorably located son of this great dam, is Gen. Benton 1755, record 2:34½, who died last year at Palo Alto in his twentieth year. He figures as the sire of the first four-year-old to beat 2:18; Sallie Benton, 2:17¾, and of Bonnie, 2:25, and Spry, 2:28¾, at a like age. His three-year-old representatives in the list are Lord Byron, 2:29, and The Seer, 2:29. Aside from these he sired five aged trotters with records of 2:29 and better, and from Prussian Maid (pacer), 2:19, he produced the pacer Russian Boy, 2:26¼. In addition to the above, Gen. Benton has two sons, Bentonian and Little Eastern, who have respectively bred on to Sonnett, 2:24½, and Blanche, 2:30.

Nobody will deny that even this would prove Gen. Benton a worthy son of so great a dam; but the brightest feathers he has placed in the old matron's cap have not as yet been mentioned. In serving the dam of Rexford, three-year-old record, 2:23, he has added to his own and his dam's fame not a little, and he has simply rendered that fame imperishable through his daughter Waxana, the dam of that queen of colts, if not of all trotters, the PEERLESS TWO-YEAR-OLD FILLY SUNOL, 2:18.

The record of this great dam then is, that she has four times been bred to a sire who confessedly has no right to great pride of ancestry, and but for Lady Benton, could have had no hope for renown through his posterity. She has to his cover produced from full brothers, who have transmitted speed to seventeen performers iu 2:30 and better, and she is already represented in the fourth generation by seven performers in the 2:30 list.

Is not Lady Benton entitled to at least a place in a table of the greatest of great brood-mares?

I have frequently wondered where Gen. Benton got his speed producing qualities, and must acknowledge that even after tabulating and studying his pedigree it is impossible to otherwise than feel surprise at his remarkable success in the stud.

So habitual, indeed, has it become to trace everything speedy to Rysdyk's Hambletonian and Mambrino Chief, that it seems almost absurd at this late day to look for anything of exceptional merit descended from Messenger other than through these two great sires.

Gen. Benton does not once trace to either of them, yet his blood lines, through every channel but one, run not only once but repeatedly to the sire, grandsire or great grandsire of one of the other or of both (as the case may be), whilst both sire and dam trace through their respective dams' sires to imp. Diomed.

His sire, Jim Scott, as has already been shown, produced one 2:30 performer in Ed White, 2:27, and the dam of Daisy Queen, 2:30.

Jim Scott's sire, Stubtail, sired three mares that became the dams of six 2:30 performers.

Lady Benton's great grandsire, on his sires side, Andrus' Hambletonian, sired Princess, 2:30 (dam of Happy Medium, 41 in 2:30), and the dam of Joker, 2:22½. He also sired Hough's Hambletonian, sire of Spotted Colt, 2:25½.

Old Abdallah's produce, of course, every breeder knows.

I do not find another sire or dam of speed in the whole pedigree, and must confess to considerable hesitation whence to place Gen. Benton's speed inheritance, but am inclined to give the bulk of the credit to Lady Benton's sire, Gray's Hambletonian, he being the son of a half brother of Princess, 2:30, dam of Happy Medium, and out of a half sister of the same mare's sire. It is a slender thread upon which to hang a conclusion, but blood will tell, and the blood that was instrumental in producing so great a campaigner and so celebrated a producing dam as Princess, 2:30, might confidently be expected to crop out elsewhere, especially when brought in contact with and fortified by that of so near a descendant of Bush Messenger, which, as Wallace's Register tells us, was a very fast trotter in his day, and was one of the finest of all the sires of Messenger.

FOLIO.

Gombault's Caustic Balsam.

We have heard so many favorable comments about this well known remedy from breeders on this Coast that the temptation cannot be resisted to reprint the following from Dunton's Spirit.

The king of veterinary remedies is Gombault's Caustic Balsam. Had it no other testimonial than a single one we could name, even that would be enough to commend it to all who would ask questions about it. But its best recommendation is the skillful and intellectual practitioners in the veterinary profession. But apart from them, its own intrinsic merit has wedged its way into the golden opinions of the highest class of horsemen as well. It is, therefore, our pleasant task to speak of Caustic Balsam in the very highest praise. It is not in our power to increase its true value, of course, but it may be our office to so call attention to it that some may possibly hear who had never before heard of or tried Gombault's Caustic Balsam. It is not our custom to speak of any article of commerce without good cause for doing so; and while Gombault's Caustic Balsam needs no word from us, yet the world is all the time being peopled and it would be strange, indeed, if some should not be born in 1888 who would in due time learn, through us or some other medium, Gombault's Balsam was the best of all counter irritants. Quacks are numerous and men are right in giving them a "wide berth," and he who takes our advice will not have anything to do with them. But when the best practitioners in the world rise up, and with one voice declare in favor of a remedy which has compelled recognition by its own merit, men cannot afford to give it the go-by.

At last Mr. D. D. Withers has named the Faverdale colt, but the name is not a happy one, Silvertail being in no way distinctive of either sire or dam.

Tips For The Trotters.

A METHOD OF SHOEING HORSES THAT IS GROWING IN FAVOR.

Light Plates Instead of the Old-Fashioned Shoe—Diseased Feet Cured by the New Method—Kitty Patchen's Speedy Recovery—Opinions of a Shoewright and Others.

Among the problems which have engaged the attention of horsemen the world over is how best to protect the equine foot, and at the same time interfere in the least possible way with the natural condition of that valuable member. In America, where the harness horse has been brought nearer to perfection in gait and speed than anywhere else, the subject of shoeing has been carefully studied, and, as a result, many of the difficulties arising from old-time methods have been successfully overcome. From the heavy draught horse to the fast roadster or racing trotter, there has been a general improvement in the fashioning and appliance of foot gear, so that to-day there is a vast difference between the crude mass of iron used by the Arabs and Moors in the middle ages, and the neatly turned pieces of steel or iron now forged by the expert horseshoers of the United States.

Since races came in vogue the care of the animal's foot has been more closely studied than when the horse was simply a beast of burden, and the famous drivers of the last quarter of a century have achieved much of their success by giving special attention to shoeing the flyers they trained and drove. The late Dan Mace, whose preeminence as a reinsman earned him the soubriquet of the Wizard of the Sulky, was one of the first professional drivers to make a close study of this subject, and his quick perception enabled him to see where many of the evils resulting from old methods of making and nailing on the shoe could be remedied. He was the first prominent driver to apply toe weights, whose use has done much to correct imperfections in the gait of the trotter and enabled Maud S. to attain to the unparalleled speed of a mile in 2:08¾. Other famous whips, such as Hickok of California, Doble of Chicago, Murphy of New York, Goldsmith of Orange County, and John Splan of everywhere, have followed in Mace's footsteps, and included sho ing in the curriculum of their professional course.

But with all the improvement, the vice-like character of the orthodox shoe remains, and many a promising trotter has broken down when on the threshold of a brilliant career by reason of his inability to wear the iron band which has been considered indispensable to his education and devolopment.

Even those who have not given the subject any consideration can see at a glance that the immovable piece of metal on the horse's foot hinders the natural growth of the outer shell or wall which covers and protects the delicate mechanism that enables the animal to attain his flight of speed. This cramping of the wall or crust brings about numerous diseases, the most prevalent of which is that known as contraction. In its natural state the horse's foot is nearly round, and slightly wider than it is long. Shoeing has the effect of changing this natural shape by elongating the hoof and by keeping the heel from spreading, causing the contraction above referred to, the bete noir of every horseman and the chief enemy of every horse that has worn shoes.

Other common ailments from the same cause are corns, produced by the pressure on the heel, and quarter cracks, which result from the bursting or splitting of the wall of the foot owing to the unusual thinness of the horn, which being bound by the shoe is not strong enough to withstand the pressure from within. It is claimed by many practical horsemen that a radical remedy has been found for these and kindred diseases that come from the stereotyped method of shoeing. This is the use of what are known as tips, which are nothing more than shoes without heels. Tips in a crude form have been in use for a long time, and were probably employed as a protection to horses that were turned out to graze, and designed to prevent the front of the hoof from breaking off in the pasture. The wild horse is constantly on the move, and the hoof is thus worn down proportionate to its growth, but the domesticated animal is less active, and even unbroken colts require to be looked after to see that the feet do not grow too long. Close observers found that when a horse had become so crippled from shoeing that he could no longer be driven, the quickest remedy was to remove the shoes, tack on a light plate or tip, and give the animal a rest. Nature soon worked a cure when there was no iron band to cramp the contracted heel, and the horse was restored to usefulness. Further experiment showed that these tips could be utilized for every-day wear when the horse was in harness, and with good results. Gradually the use of tips has been tested and investigated, until to-day there are many horsemen who have discarded the old-time shoe entirely, and use nothing but tips.

For racing purposes the tip has also been tested, and with results claimed to be satisfactory. Joseph Cairn Simpson, editor of the San Francisco BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, is the acknowledged pioneer in adapting tips to the trotting racehorse. Mr. Simpson is a veteran breeder and trainer of trotters, and in common with his fellow turfmen used the regulation shoe covering the foot to the heel. Some years ago his attention was attracted to the use of tips, and he began to experiment with them on his own horses, both runners and trotters. The result of his investigations, extending over a period of about fifteen years, is told in a book published by Mr. Simpson, entitled "Tips and Toe Weights." The most notable instances of Mr. Simpson's success with tips are the turf performances of the two stallions Anteeo and Antevolo, bred by him from Electioneer, out of his mare Columbine, by A. W. Richmond, dam Columbia, by the famous thoroughbred racer Bonnie Scotland. Both Anteeo and Antevolo were shod with tips as colts, and their entire development and training were conducted with no other protection for their feet. In 1885 Mr. Simpson's efforts were crowned with two fast performances by the horses, when Anteeo, then six years old, trotted a mile in 2:16¼, and Antevolo made a record of 2:19½ in his four-year-old form.

One of the most valuable results of Mr. Simpson's investigation was the improvement made by him in the application of the tip. At first it was placed on the foot, like the shoe, and tapered or feathered to a point to keep the hoof as level as possible. In this form the healthy growth of the frog and natural shape of the foot were retained, but it was almost impossible to balance the horse properly, and there was an undue strain on the tendons. Mr. Simpson tells how he got over this drawback to his pet hobby as follows: "I make the tip of nearly a uniform thickness, a majority of them having a quarter of an inch of metal, which was filled square. A shoulder was cut in the wall, and so much of the sole as the width of the web required, and all back of the shoulder was left full, and rounded with a file to protect the edge."

Since the first adoption of this method of letting in the tip till it is level with the uncovered part of the foot there has been another improvement, namely, the cutting of the ends to a point, or diagonally, as shown in the illustration of the tip worn by Antevolo when he made this record. The original tip is in the possession of Mr. E. T. Bedford of the Thomas & Bedford Company, Pearl street. Mr. Bedford is an enthusiastic lover of the trotting horse, and has given a great deal of attention to the subject of shoeing. After an experience extending over several years with various kinds of shoes, he has become a convert to the use of tips, and uses nothing else.

"In the spring of 1886," said Mr. Bedford to a reporter of the Sun recently, "I purchased the chestnut mare Kitty Patchen by Jeb Stuart. She had won several races, and in 1884 made a record at Boston of 2:21¼. In 1885 the mare was campaigned again, but with no success, owing to the bad condition of her feet. Her trainer, A. J. Feek of Syracuse, said she had bruised her heel, and she was then shod with the ordinary shoe, with a pad and sponge between the shoe and foot.

"When I purchased Kitty Patchen," continued Mr. Bedford, "her feet were in a terrible condition. What with the fever produced by contraction and the result of constant soaking, her hoofs were so brittle that they could be broken with the finger and thumb, and the mare suffered with corns, and stood with her feet forward in an unnatural position. At first I had her shod with bar shoes, which relieved the corns temporarily by removing the pressure. As the hoof grew out the trouble returned, and I resolved to try what the use of tips would do. I followed Mr. Simpson's instructions, and Kitty found instant relief; the corns disappeared, the hoof resumed its natural consistency, and instead of a cripple, I soon had a trotter free from lameness. To-day the mare has as good feet as any horse in my stable, and I believe she can go faster than when she was on the turf. Late last fall, on election day, in fact, I drove her a half mile to wagon in 1:11½, and a mile to a road cart in 2:24¾. With a light driver, but over regulation weight, she trotted a mile to sulky in 2:21¾, which is within half a second of her best race record, and that with no preparation. These trials were all done in tips, and at Norwalk, Conn., 1886, Kitty trotted publicly in 2:26½, winning a five-heat race, and again in 1887 took part in a long race on the same track, and was second to the winner, Hugh McLaughlin, after getting two heats."

"Wherein do you think tips are chiefly to be preferred to shoes?" was asked.

"Because they give a horse the use of the whole foot," replied Mr. Bedford, "sole, frog and horn, thus enabling the natural elasticity to be fully exerted. I believe they tend to make a horse trot more squarely and keep the gait natural. I know that in Kitty Patchen's case boots were discarded after she was shod with tips, and her gait improved visibly."

"Would you do away entirely with the regulation shoe?"

"Most assuredly. My own experience convinces me that for trotters and roadsters tips are the thing. I drive my horses over all kinds of roads, and their feet keep in perfect condition. I have observed, also, that many draught horses in New York and Brooklyn wear tips, and they are noticeable for the good condition of their feet. If you will examine the horses used by the Havemeyer Sugar Refinery, for instance, you will see that they do their heavy work in tips."

Mr. Bedford mentioned other instances of road horses that had found relief from disabled feet by the same method.

Among the smiths of the metropolis that make and nail shoes on fine road horses and trotters George Staples is probably the most famous. Staples is a New Englander, who was for many years the foreman of Dan Mace's well-known shop on upper Broadway. Though now in his seventy-fifth year, Staple continues actively at work and has charge of an establishment on Forty-eighth street, near Broadway. This veteran knight of the forge has shod some of the famous trotters living and dead, and looked after Maud S.'s feet when W. H. Vanderbilt owned her.

When asked his opinion of tips, Mr. Staples said: "They are a very good thing, but few people know anything about them. No, I don't shoe many of the trotters that come here with tips. I know of one or two that use them, Mr. Nicholas Housman's gray mare Lizzie Almont being one. Yes, the old style of shoe causes contracted feet, corns, and other troubles. I can manage the corns quite easily, if the horse comes regularly, by cutting away the heel slightly to take off the pressure. For contracted feet I use a spring, invented by Mr. Mace, to expand the heel, and this helps to keep the foot in its natural condition. I scarcely think tips will supersede shoes, for they do not suit all kinds of feet in my opinion."

Mr. Saples then selected a shoe that had been used on the forward foot of a fast trotter, from which the cut used to illustrate the modern style of shoe was made.

"You will notice," he remarked, "that there has been a great improvement in making shoes of late years. Instead of the great load of iron that was once the regulation style, the shoe is much lighter and steel is greatly used nowadays. Then, again, we do not cut the foot down as formerly but the sole and frog are left in a natural condition. I suppose in some parts of the country they adhere to old methods yet, but here in New York we have learned by experience to interfere as little as possible with the natural condition of the foot."

A horse with contracted feet was waiting to be treated, and Mr. Staples proceeded to give the reporter a practical illustration of how he shod to cure the disease. He also exhibited a toe weight recently invented by him, which was fastened on a model foot to which was nailed an equally model shoe. An application has been made for a patent on this improved toe weight, the chief excellence of which consists in a rubber buffer between the weight and the hoof, and the plan of counter sinking the set screw which holds the weights in place.

An inquiry at some of the large boarding stables near the Park showed that here and there tips have been used with satisfactory results, especially where a horse has been made lame by the full-length shoe. John J. Quinn, 124th street, near Seventh avenue, said that he had used tips on trotters with success, but he did not think they would do for steady driving on the rough avenues. "The fast mare Old Maid, who trotted at Fleetwood in 2:21¾ some four years ago, on a wager to beat 2:22, was shod with tips," said Mr. Quinn, "and I think Johnny Murphy has used them on some of the horses he has trained."

D. B. Herrington manager of the Hudson River Driving Park and stock farm, owned by Jacob Ruppert, at Poughkeepsie, was in the city recently, and when asked what he thought of using tips for racing replied." I have not given them sufficient trial to test their use in a race, but I have tried them with good results as a cure for corns and quarter cracks. Some years ago I used those with ends drawn out or tapered to a point but have not tried those set in the hoof after the Simpson method."

W. C. Trimble, of Newburgh, is one of the best known of the old-time trainers in the East, and has had many successful campaigners through the summer circuit. He, too, has been experimenting with tips, and has become a strong advocate of their use. He first used them on a big bay gelding named Jim Brooker, who had made a record of 2:44¼ in 1885, and had afterward broke down from terrible quarter cracks that developed whenever he was put in training. The horse was sent to Mr. Trimble, who substituted tips for the troublesome shoes, and the trotter's feet healed up in a wonderfully short time. The veteran turfite considers tips a valuable boon to the horse suffering from ailments caused by wearing shoes.

A notable instance where tips are worn by a modern star of the trotting turf is that of the grey gelding Jack 2:19¼, the Chicago crack that stood at the head of the Grand Circuit winners for 1888. Jack is remarkably pure gaited and could go barefooted if necessary. Budd Doble used tips of about four ounces weight on Jack in his races last year, and the horse kept improving all the time, gradually lowering his record from Cleveland to New York, where he made his fastest mark in the Fleetwood Stake.

In the book published by Joseph Cairn Simpson he advocates the doing away of the old method of weighting the trotters to balance him by adding to the shoe, and claims that better results can be obtained by the use of the toe weight in conjunction with the tip. It is contended by turfmen that one ounce of weight on the toe is equivalent to from one and a half to three ounces on the sole of the foot, though some trotters will not go level or fast with toe weights, and must be balanced by weight in the shoe or distributed about the foot in leather weights pockets. Others require the toe weights, which give the balancing medium in the smallest compass.

As yet the use of tips is naturally looked on with conservatism by many horsemen, and like all other innovations it contines to be subjected to criticism and open opposition. In the face of the undeniable fact that there has been comparatively little advance made in the general methods of shoeing and valuable horses are still ruined by unskilful and ignorant smiths, any plan that will obviate the present difficulties that attend the use of the ordinary shoe deserves a full and impartial trial. The question as to the utility of tips for racing purposes is really a secondary one compared with the greater benefit that will follow any plan whereby the carriage and draught horse may be kept freer from the numerous disabilities of foot and limb which continue to be a serious drawback to their commercial value and term of usefulness.

Death of Susie S.

It is with feelings of sympathy for the owner, that we have to announce the death of the well known race mare Susie S, by Marmaduke, dam Pirouette, which occurred at Sacramento, on Friday morning, March 22nd. It seems that the horses were out as usual exercising, and taking the customary gallops, when one of the Australian colts, owned by Senator Hearst, became fractious, the boy who was riding losing all control of him, and the horse ran into Susie S, injuring her so severely that she only lived a few hours. Sammy Cooper was riding Susie S., Lloyd being on the Hearst colt, and when the shock occured, Cooper was thrown from the mare sustaining several injuries, his collar bone being broken and it is supposed he was hurt internally. Lloyd received a bad shaking up, but at present writing seems none the worse for the jar. Mr. A. Y. Stevenson was the owner of Susie S., and it is said that only a short timn ago, he had been offered $5,000 for the mare; whether the figure given be correct or not, the loss is a serious one to Mr. Stevenson, as the mare was in fine condition and he confidently expected to win many of the early spring events with her.

Winter Books.

We find in numerous exchanges lists of the prices laid against the Suburban and Brooklyn Handicap entries. Throughout the West there is a strong disposition to back Badge for the Suburban, in fact so much so that layers of the odds have closed their books against the McClellan & Roche horse. A large sum has been forwarded to this city to place on Badge, and consequently the odds have been cut down from 65 to 25. In and around New York Gorgo and Judge Murray have the call, all the boys around the Hearst Stable having placed small sums on the filly, with additional sums on Judge Murray as a saving clause. The odds given at present by the local bookmakers, Messrs. Cutler and Whitney, are as follows:

TEHAMA COUNTY.

10,378 27-100 Acres.

Township 25 N, Range 7 W, Mt. Diablo Meridian.

This township lies on the eastern slope of the COAST RANGE of mountains, and from 13 to 20 miles west from RED BLUFF, the county seat of TEHAMA COUNTY. The field notes of the U. S. Surveyor who laid out this township, says: "This township is well adapted for grazing, as it affords pasturage for large herds of cattle. It is well watered by the various tributaries of ELDER CREEK. It is also very valuable for its timber, which consists of a heavy growth of yellow and sugar pine, spruce, and cedar." There is a heavy undergrowth of chaparral, chemical and manzanita." The even sections are in most instances government land, so that the parts most valuable as adjuncts to this range might easily be secured at government price, namely $2.50 per acre for single quarter sections.

In Section 9, coal was discovered recently by some herders, but nothing has been done to develop the mine, although samples which have been tested show the coal to be of excellent quality.

We are assured that a Railroad heading for the Coast, and running through the COAST RANGE timber belt will be built very near this ranch. Price for the whole, consisting of 10,378 27-100 acres, will be $35,000.

the action of an Amble, which is Two Leggs of a Side in the Ayre, and Two Leggs of the other Side upon the Ground at the same Time, and Changing Sides every Time This Action of an Amble, upon the Swiftness of a Gallop, Differs so much from the Action of a Gallop, as it makes the Horse ready to Fall: And these two, the Action of a Trott, and the Action of an Amble, upon the Swiftness of a Gallop, is that which their Ignorance calls, The Wrong Legg Before.

It is True, that though a Horse do Gallop Right, which is his Hinder-Legg to Follow his Fore-Legg on the same Side; yet if he be not Accustomed to that Side, he will Gallop neither so Nimbly, nor so Fast, as with that Side he is Accustomed to Lead withal: For, it is just as a Left-Handed, or a Right-Handed Man; Custom having a very great Power over Man and Beast: Else, when the Horse Gallops Forward, never so little a Gallop, his Hinder-Leggs go beyond the Print of his Fore-Leggs, and that Legg that he Leads withal. For Example; If the Inward Fore-Legg Lead, the Inward Hinder-Leg Follows; so those are Prest, and his Outward Leggs at Liberty: So that in the Action he makes, his Outward Fore-Legg is set to the Ground first, and is at Liberty; that's one Time: And when his Inward Fore-Legg, which is Prest, and Leads, makes a Second time; that's Two: And then his Outward Hinder-Legg, which is at Liberty, is set Down; that's Three times: And then his Inward Hinder-Legg, which is Prest, and Leads, is set Down; and that makes a Fourth time. So that a Gallop Forward is 1, 2, 3, and 4, which is the just Action and Time of a Gallop forward, and is a Leap forward. Now upon Circles, his Croup Out upon a Gallop, he must alwayes Lead with his Inward Leggs to the Turn, and strikes Over but sometimes; not so much, but that the Action of the Gallop is all One; which is 1, 2, 3, and 4, and a Leap forward.

At San Jose Race Track.

One becomes tired of the monotony of office life, albeit the many callers at the office of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN tend to relieve what would otherwise be too much of a sameness for any ordinary mortal to stand. Last Friday afternoon, while trying to wade through the authorities to establish the pedigree of a brown horse which had been sold to Sam Daniels, of Chico, in 1867, a little urchin came in with a note of which the following is a copy:

"DEAR SIR: Can you let me know the name and pedigree of a bay mare that was brought to this State from Kentucky in either 1871 or '72." A CONSTANT SUBSCRIBER.

The Daniels' horse had well nigh distracted the writer, but a perusal of the above note set him fairly off his wits, so for fear some one would call and desire the breeding of the dam of Vermont Black Hawk or a full pedigree of Shanghai Mary, it was determined that a visit be paid to the runners at San Jose, and so relieve the mind, for a few hours at least, of the ever present subject of pedigrees. There is probably no short ride in the world that equals for variety of views and scenery the one that can be taken from the Fourth and Townsend Streets station to the Garden City. Although a stock of periodicals had been laid in to pass the time away while travelling, not one of them was even opened, for as section after section was passed, new and beautiful pictures were presented to the eye, forming a grand kaliediscopic effect that was perfectly enchanting. No wonder that the residents of Santa Clara County are filled with pride, they have just reason to be, for a more charming country cannot be found anywhere.

On arriving at our destination, a bus was found in waiting, to take us to that home of horsemen, the Lick House, kept by C H. Corey, the owner of Almont Patchen, 2:15, and other good ones. Before long we were deep in horse-talk, which finally culminated in Mr. Corey saying, "Well, all right, I authorize you to announce that I am willing to go into a sweepstakes of $500 or $1,000 each, free to the world, open for either trotters or pacers, and have the race take place over the track that will give the most added money. I think I have the fastest pacer on earth, and am not afraid to have him go in any company." Now here is a chance for the owners of Adonis, Yolo Maid, Gold Leaf, Johnson, U Bet and all the other fast ones, to prove which has the fastest and best of the side wheelers, for it is hardly presumable that the owners of Stamboul and Patron desire to enter in such company.

On Saturday morning, at an early hour, a visit was paid to the track to see the thoroughbreds go through their paces, and catch the time of the quarters, halves and miles.

Mr. C. V. Tupper has his noted horse Al Farrow looking well and seemingly anxious for a brush, and for a stable companion to the famous sprinter has Guido by Double Cross, dam Aurora by Thad Stevens. This is a fine finished colt and full of promise; his breeding is good, and he should prove a great bread winner for the stable. The experienced trainer, Cy Mulkey, has quite a string of the Babb Stable under his control, and has them all looking in fine fettle. Rosa Lewis is a much improved mare, and from her trial should prove a hard one to beat.

The Kelly and Samuels stable, containing Ed McGinnis, Welcome, Lucifer and others, are doing good work, Welcome especially showing up in fine form. The Elmwood Stable, owned by Mr. Boots, have half a score of useful horses, all of which appear fit to race for a man's life; Nabeau, Nerva and Installation being especially good. Mr. Boots Jr., or Charley, as he is more familiarly called by his intimates, has worked indefatigably on behalf of the new association, and if it is not a success, the fault will not lie at his door. J. Reavey is training a couple of fair appearing ones, one of them being Vidette, formerly owned by Capt. S. S. Brown, of Pittsburg. W. L. Appleby, and who does not known Billy, is looking after a few select ones, the best of the string being Wild Oats, a fine, shapely colt, by Wildidle, dam Mary Givens. White Cloud, noted for the surprises he springs on the public, was never as fit to race as just at present, and Mr. Appleby is confident that the old pinto will again earn his oats this year.

During the afternoon a stallion show was given by the Agricultural Park Association, which was a complete success. There were fully 500 persons present, most of them there to select suitable horses for service, and the man who could not find what he wanted must be fastidious indeed. Paraded up and down in front of the grand stand was the blood of Nutwood, Electioneer, Abbottsford, Sultan, George Wilkes, Mambrino Patchen, Hambletonian, Belmont, in fact all the fashionable lines were fully represented, and the draft horse was not neglected by any means, for there was an abundance of Clydesdale, Norman and Percheron stock on view. A walk around the stables revealed several which were not publicly paraded, three of which are worthy of individual mention. Mambrino Jr. 1789 A. T. R. is a grand looking dark brown horse, with black points, standing 15½ hands in height, was bred by the noted horseman, Dr. L. Herr, of Lexington, Ky., and has the most esteemed lineage, his ancestors figuring in every first class pedigree of the present day. This magnificent individual was brought to California by J. D. Carr, of Salinas, but has not had the opportunities afforded his illustrious relations, or beyond question he would stand in reputation, the peer of any stallion in the State. Mr. Carr lately sold Mambrino Jr. to Mr. G. P. Bull, of San Jose, an intelligent breeder, who will only have his horse serve highly approved mares, and as the number is limited to fifteen, those who desire the Mambrino blood should make immediate application. Mambrino Jr. is by Mambrino Patchen, dam by Mambrino Chief, the family from which has sprung Jerome Turner, 2:15½, Lady Mack, 2:15¼, Guy Wilkes, 2:15¼, Patron, 2:14¼, Axtell, two-year-old record, 2:23, Bermuda, 2:22, Rosa Wilkes, 2:18½, and scores of others, all well known and in the "30" list.

The breeders of Santa Clara are to be congratulated on the advent into their section of this notable horse, and it is only a short-sighted policy that will stand in the way of having the best bred mares in the State sent to this best bred son of Mambrino Patchen. A few stalls away is to be seen Mr. Frank Burke's Electioneer stallion Eros. Comment is hardly necessary in this case, as Eros has had the benefit of good mares, and already classes as one of California's first class sires. The get of this famous young stallion are celebrated for their finished trotting action, two of his colts last season having trotted in 2:46½ and 2:47 as two-year-olds, although less than three months from the bitting harness. One of his colts can at present beat 2:30, and in all probability more than one of them will enter the charmed circle before the close of 1889.

Down at the other end of the grounds can be found the great pacing stallion Almont Patchen, whose wonderful races last year stamped him as one of the best in the country. He is a beautiful seal brown in color, stands over sixteen hands in height, and is as handsome a horse as one could wish to see. He is by Juanito, dam Glidey by Gladiator, who was the sire of such good ones as James H. 2:21, Boss 2:29¼, and Damiana 2:26¼. Juanito is by Tilton Almont 2:26, who was the sire also of Daisy S. 2:23¾. This shows that Patchen Almont is well bred on both sides, consequently it is no surprise that this horse has shown such fast time. During 1888 he started in eight races winning six, and was second in the other two, gaining a record for himself of 2:15. Quite a number of breeders have taken advantage of his presence at San Jose and sent mares to his service, but Mr. Corey has allowed none but the best to be sent to him, having rejected several whose pedigrees were not just what they might be.

The New Association.

The by-laws, rules and regulations of the National Half-Mile Track and Agricultural Fair Association are now in the possession of all the associations and half-mile tracks which it was possible at this time to reach. All mendacious criticism of them will avail nothing in the future. The very limited number of associations which have come in contact with the adverse and ignorant references to the rules, made in advance of their publication by one journal only, will now discover the almost absolute falsity of all that was said, and will make up their minds accordingly. Each copy of the rules was accompanied by a plain, straightforward, unanswerable statement by the officers and Board of Governors. A statement the truth of which will be recognized and vouched for by the managers of every half-mile track and fair association throughout the country. It is the utterance of men whose words will be received with respect and attention, no matter what views may be entertained with regard to the association they represent. They are able and skillful business men, incapable of being swerved by malevolent purpose. If the statement they make can be answered and the facts set forth sucessfully gainsayed let it be done. No amount of clatter about attacks on the National Trotting Association—its value as a controlling force—its swift punishment and check of unlawful impulse—will have the least weight with managers of half-mile tracks and fair associations who have fresh in their minds the most atrocious miscarriage of justice in the reinstatement by the present Board of Review of three of the most notorious offenders that ever were placed at the bar to plead. Had these men, who had their guilt atoned, violated civil law as they did turf law, each one would have been serving a term in the penitentiary. The voluntary statement under oath of one of these men before the Board of Review was listened to with amazement by the public. High-class horse journals like the Kentucky Stock Farm, and other of equally high character, notwithstanding their partiality for the National Trotting Association, could not refrain from criticising the action of the board in these particular instances. At the last meeting of the National Trotting Congress, J. C. Sibley, representing a half-mile track and fair association, made an appeal for the consideration of some method which would afford greater protection against the evil of "ringing," which he said, on remote interior half-mile tracks has grown to appalling dimensions. The majority listened with apathetic indiffence and no one as much as replied. When the same gentleman, at the Lancaster convention spoke half an hour on the same subject, he had an audience that knew he uttered the truth with every word, and it appreciated and applauded his position. With one, or possibly two exceptions, not a word was spoken at the Lancaster convention inimical to the interests or value of the National Trotting Association. The sentiment and expression was simply that it did not seem disposed, in the revision of its laws, to harken to the demand of the county agricultural associations, and in codifying the rules the main point in view was to have them framed so that membership in the National Trotting Association could be maintained if desired.—[Newark (N. Y.) Sunday Call.

Cranky Horses.

Isaac Murphy in an interview was asked to name the most unreliable horse he had ever ridden. Said he:

"Jim Douglass was a good representative of this class, and Miss Ford was hard to down. Jim Douglass would run kindly, however, whenever he got started, while Miss Ford was just the reverse, as she would stop right in the middle of a race when you thought she was a sure winner. Tom Barlow was another hard horse to ride. Whenever he came to a turn he would always want to leave the track. But Miss Ford, I believe, taking it all and all, was the worst of the bad lot. Nothing could induce her to try when she once concluded to stop, and she was all the more remarkable from the fact that she would quit when running easy as often as when fully extended. In fact she has a mind of her own, and neither punishment nor coaxing had any effect upon her. Perhaps she made as many Christians as any animal on the turf in recent years, as her in and out running was enough to make the easy losing bettor forsake the race track and join the church; or, if it hadn't that effect, it was likely to send such, or even the best balanced minds, to the asylum. She broke many a good fellow.

"Of course, like every jockey, my career has been full of surprises, but when I won the American Derby in 1886, at Chicago, on Silver Cloud, I can safely say I was never more surprised in my life. I was running in the ruck on the backstretch when the notion just struck me I would send him to the front if that was possible, as neither Mr. Baldwin nor Mr. McClelland, the trainer, had any idea he had the ghost of a chance to win, nor did I think so. As I raised on him I drew the whip and struck him twice, and before the other jockeys could realize it, I was 10 lengths in the lead. They at once set sail for us, but Silver Cloud was a race-horse, at least that day, and drawing away at every stride, won one of the easiest of races by a dozen lengths or more. The bookmakers cleaned up everything on that race, as I honestly believe there wasn't $25 bet on Silver Cloud, while Ben Ali, Blue Wing and several of the other starters were heavily backed."

Advertising Notes.

Combs' Sale of Short-Horns.

Messrs. Killip & Co., Auctioneers, at 22 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, kindly send this week a catalogue of the pure-bred Short-Horn cattle, to be sold at Agricultural Park, Sacramento, on Thursday, April 4th. Mr. Joseph Combs, of Linneus, Mo., is a breeder of advanced ideas and most ample means. His cattle are unexceptionable in breeding, and all of those now offered are either recorded or sent for record in Vols. 34 and 35 of the Short-Horn Book of Pedigrees. The cattle are offered without reserve, and are choice.

If the man who makes two blades of grass to grow where only one before appeared is a benefactor, why should not one who brightens lowering skies, lifts care as if by magic, dispels doubts and fears, and nerves up to the best possible endeavors be equally held in esteem? And who does these things so surely as he who provides ample store of clean, bright, naturally fermented champagne, such as the Perrier-Jouet offered, by that insouciant citizen of the world, Mr. Wilfred B. Chapman, at 123 California Street, City?

Trainer James Golden states that Charley Marvin is aging fast, owing to hard work. There are eleven trainers at Palo Alto, superintended by Marvin, who generally rides as many miles in the sulky every day as any of them, in spite of the protests of the manager of the Palo Alto establishment. Mr. Golden learned that the sales of horse stock from Palo Alto last season aggregated about $200,000. Ex-Gov. Stanford's stallion Gen. Benton, sire of Sally Benton (2:17¼) and other fast ones, died several months ago.—Cultivator.

Grim's Gossip.

A magnificent picture of the Emperor of Norfolk has been hung in the bar room of the Baldwin Hotel.

The noted race mare Bessie June has been bred to Strachino at Dr. Norwood's farm, near Lexington, Ky.

There is a rumor current in San Jose, that Mr. Frank Burke has been offered $17,000, for his Electioneer stallion Eros.

Messrs. Corbett and Valensen have returned from their trip East, and a note tells us that Mr. Rose has arrived at Los Angeles.

J. Cairn Simpson, of Oakland, has purchased from B. C. Wright, of Hopland, Cal., a bay or brown yearling filly, by a son of imp. Kelpie, dam Avola by Alhambra.

A yearling filly, purchased by W. H. Wilson, of Cynthiana, Ky., at the Corbett sale in New York, died in Kentucky, about a week ago. The filly was by Guy Wilkes, dam by Del Sur, and cost $1,210.

Bob Campbell, Lucky Baldwin's trainer, reports that Volante has entirely recovered from his injuries received East last year, and is as great a race horse as he ever was. He will race this season undoubtedly.

The eight horses purchased by Mr. Valensin at Lexington, Ky., last week, have arrived at Pleasanton, all in good condition. An effort will be made to see them during the coming week, and a full description of them will be given.

The race horses in training owned by Maj. B. G. Thomas will be sold in New York April 3. The string consists of Ban Adonia, Ban Flag, Ban Lassie, Chaplet, Lady Pulsifer, Lady Reel, Lady Winkle, Lavandula, Miss Rowell, Quesal, Watch Me.

On last Saturday night, March 23d, Night Hawk, by imp. Haddington, lost a colt by imp. Darebin. It is not known whether the mare stepped on the colt after the birth or not. Night Hawk will be bred to St. Savior this year.

Fred Carillo, the jockey informs me that he has been engaged by John Mackey to ride for the Haggin Stable, on the Eastern courses this year. Carillo is looked upon as being a first class rider, and should make the best of them, fear him before the season is over.

Dr. T. W. Harris, of Eugene City, Oregon, bought during the week from B. C. Wright, of Hopland, Cal., a brown colt by Antevolo, dam Lady Del Sur by Del Sur, second dam by Clark Chief, third dam a thoroughbred mare by Captain Beard. The price paid was $650.

There was sold on Tuesday afternoon from Palo Alto Stock Farm, the four-year-old filly Belle Monte by Electioneer, dam Monte Belle by Mohawk Chief. The mare was bought by C. W. Kemble of Philadelphia, the purchase price being $5,000. While Belle Monte has no record, still she can beat 2:25 with ease.

Mr. J. H. Shutts, of Parkville, Long Island, has lost his noted stallion, Pancoast by Woodford Mambrino, dam Vicara by Harold. It will be remembered that when Mr. Shults' barn was struck by lightening a few months ago Pancoast was severly injured from which he never recovered.

Readers who consult the advertising columns, and all who are wise do so—can do the BREEEER AND SPORTSMAN a signal service when writing to advertisers, if they will mention the paper. It is little trouble, and may be of great benefit. It is but justice both to publishers and to advertisers.

Some of the boys at the San Jose Race Track, had considerable fun last Saturday, chaffing a prominent Sacramento trainer about one of his horses, that lost his pedigree in crossing a river. That is almost as bad as the pedigree of a prominent California horse, which reads, second dam, pedigree lost on account of fire.

Mr. Hankins has just contracted for the services of the light-weight jockey, George Covington, and his brother, "Little Major." This makes five jockeys that will be in his employ this year—McLaughlin and Levy, heavy-weights; the two Covingtons and Van Buren, light-weights. Van Buren was brought up in the service of the Dwyer Bros.

I had a call a few days ago from the veteran horseman Mr. Josiah Sessions, of Oakland, who has just as keen an eye as ever for a good youngster, and he says that without exception the finest yearling he has ever beheld is the colt owned by Albert Marsh, of Dublin, Alemeda County. The colt is by Antevolo, dam by Ulster Chief.

I had a very pleasant call a few days ago from Mr. D. J. Murphy, of Santa Clara Co. He speaks enthusiastically of the progress made by the new Blood Horse Association, and predicts a successful spring meeting. Mr. Montgomery, of San Jose, tells me that if the meeting is a go, financially, the Directors will give two regular meetings each year.

San Benito Advance says: A match race has been made between King's "Chas. K." and Clayton's "Fred Grant" for $500 a side. The race will be best three in five, and will take place about the middle of September. S. E. Kent is backing "Chas. K." and Clay's horses has a number of admirers who are willing to stake their shekels upon him.

The following law, recently enacted at Sacramento, is important to horse and cattle breeders who are endeavoring to secure improved strains of blood: "Every person who shall, by any false or faudulent pretense, obtain from any club, association, society or company organized for the purpose of improving the breed of cattle, horses, sheep, swine, or other domestic animals, a certificate of registration of any animal in the herd register, or any other register of any such club, association, society or company, or a transfer of any such registration, and any person who shall for a legal consideration give a false pedigree of any animal, with intent to mislead, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

A genius, who doesn't believe that 13 is such an extremely unlucky number after all, has figured out a few things in relation to the much-talked-of Proctor Knott. Thus he was foaled on the 13th of the month, his sire Luke Blackburn, having 13 letters in his name. He was No. 13 on the sale catalogue, and was bought by Samuel W. Bryant for himself and George Scoggan, each of whom have 13 letters in their names. Shelby P. Barnes, the jockey who rode him to victory in both the Junior Champion and Futurity Stakes, has 13 letters in his name, and in each race he defeated 13 horses. It will also be found that there are 13 letters in both Champion Stakes and Futurity Stakes.

The Fair Ground Association, of Fresno, decided on last Monday night to announce that they would give a purse of $20 000 for a two-mile and repeat race over their track, on next Thanksgiving Day. The entrance fee has been fixed at ten per cent of the purse, and the horse need not be named until three days before the race. The money will be divided in three parts, but what proportion has not been stated.

I have received a dispatch from Budd Doble in which he tells me that his horses will be taken East, from Los Angeles early in April. The stable will have room for several more horses, so if any of our California breeders desire to send horses East to train in the Doble string, early application must be made to J. H. Starr, Agricultural Park, Los Angeles.

In an interview Isaac Murphy recalled the long list of great horses he has ridden, including such celebrities as Luke Blackburn, Falsetto, Kingstone, Checkmate, Fortuna, Glenmore, Volante, Gen. Harding, Leonatus, Modesty, Lizzie Dwyer, Freeland, etc., but he said of all those great turf lights Emperor of Norfolk was in his opinion the best, and he was firm in the belief that no better horse has as yet trodden the American turf.

Trotting horse breeders, who do not join the projected association, will meet with little sympathy when they hereafter growl at the management of the circuit meetings. The proper channel for all requests or complaints will lie through the association, and there is little doubt but that if the latter proves a representative body, their recommendation will receive respectful consideration at the hands of managers of fairs and race meetings.

The following is the full pedigree of the fine stallion Simmocolon, lately purchased by G. Valensin in Kentucky. Simmocolon by Simmons, record 2:28, dam Colon by Strathmore; second dam Coral by Clark Chief 89; third dam Cassia, (dam of Calliban No. 394, sire of C. A. Clay, 2:18, Cyclone, —:23½ and Coast, 2:26¼) by Cassius M. Clay Jr. 22. Mr. Valensin has purchased this young stallion to cross on his Sidney fillies and others that he thinks will nick well with the blood of Simmocolon.

A carload of horses was shipped last Tuesday by W. H. Wilson, of Cynthiana, Ky., to G. Valensin, of Pleasanton, Cal. They comprised Simmocolon, by Simmonds, dam by Strathmore; three-year-old mare by Dictator, dam by Mambrino Time; three-year-old red Wilkes, dam by Curtis, Hambletonian; two-year-old by Allendorff, dam by Orange Blossom; two-year-old Wilkes Boy, dam by Mambrino Time; seven-year-old Strathmore, dam by Alexander's Abdallah Second.

The citizens of Fresno have taken hold of the two-mile and repeat race suggestion with a vim that is bound to insure success. A few days ago Mr. W. L Ashe started out to canvas for $5,000, and in a very short time secured $1,000 of the needed amount. The society will guarantee a purse of $20,000 if the Fresnoites will contribute $5,000. There is hardly any question now but that the race will be given on next Thanksgiving day. Since the foregoing was written the entire amount has been contributed.

W. H. Wilson, Abdallah Park, Cynthiana, Ky., has sold to C. A. Durfee, of Los Angeles, Cal., the following: Black yearling colt Duke Simmons by Simmons, record 2:28; first dam Crip by Mambrino Time 1686; second dam Bitt by Regular, son of Volunteer 55. This colt is a full brother to Geo. Simmons 9694. Bay filly (yearling) by Kaiser 2200, son of Geo. Wilkes 2:22; first dam by Comet (son of Bidwell's Almont Jr.); second dam Lady H. by Strader's Hambletonian; third dam by Halsey's Hambletonian; fourth dam by Seeley's American Star 14. Bay yearling filly by Kaiser 2200, (sire of Geo. Wilkes,) dam Miss Smally by Indianapolis, record 2:21.

In regard to talk about Jockey Garrison riding for his father-in-law's horses this season, the Sportsman says: "Some people are flustered over the question as to whether the Snapper will ride Mr. Belmont's or Mr. McMahon's horses in the spring handicap. He will ride Mr. Belmont's horses whenever he can get to the weights, and he will ride for no other stable in any race in which Mr. Belmont has a horse entered. The master of the maroon and red will pay the Snapper a larger salary than he ever received before, and he proposes to get the worth of his money. Garrison himself declares that he has no interest in the McMahon stable at all."

At a meeting of the Third District Agricultural Society, held in Chico last Saturday, the following officers were elected: Dr. C. C. Mason, President; W. A. Shippee, Vice-President, and Jo. D. Sproul, Secretary. Directors Mason, Shippee, Hendricks, Billups, Merrill and Garner were present. The Chronicle-Record says that it was decided to give $1,000 more in purses this coming season than at any previous one, and the programme will be far more attractive in various ways. About $6,000 will be divided into purses. The exact date of the Fair has not been fixed. The enterprising citizens of Willows have offered the Directors $2 500 to hold the Fair in that town, but it is not likely that Chico will allow it to be taken away.

Every breeder in the State owning a stallion and raising and developing or selling his colts should join the California Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, and attend its initial meeting on April 3rd, next. The colt stakes given by similar institutions in the East are confined to the get of stallions owned by members of the Association, and it may be decided to follow a similar course in California, with such exceptions as shall be necessary to admit of Eastern bred colts being pitted against the California productions. California breeders, however, who decline to join and assist in keeping up the organization, have no right to expect that a similar courtesy shall be extended to the get of their stallions. The best and safest way is for all breeders to stand in and lend a hand to help themselves.

Last Tuesday afternoon Messrs. Killip & Co. sold at public auction at the Bay District Track, thirteen head of heavy draft stallions, comprising imported Normans, Clydes and Shires. The following prices were obtained: Trojan 4129 E. S. B. was bought by A. Smith for $1010. Littleport Squire 4533 went to the bid of W. Dunphy for $600. Weston Squire, a dark chestnut stallion was secured by T. A. Hyde, price $900. A Normon Percheron called Lochiel, was knocked down to T. H. Meyer for $310, while Theon, an imported French Norman Percheron was purchased by Mr. Dunphy for $600. The same gentleman also bought a fine four-year-old stallion of the same breeding for $1,350, there being sharp bidding for this individual. D. S. Murphy of San Jose got three Clyde mares, Princess Maud, Burnside Mary and Heather Bell which cost him $3,450. Stirling Maggie going to C. L. Taylor for $380. Of the Clyde horses C. T. Howland got Viceroy for $800. W. Whitmore, Emulator for $710, while Haverlock goes to Petaluma as the property of A. L. Whitney for $500.

Foals of 1889.

At Lakeville, Cal. The property of Wm. Bhyler.

March 13th, bay filly, both hind ankles white, star in forehead, by Three Cheers, dam Belle of the Lake by Wheatley; mare bred back to Three Cheers

At San Rafael, Cal. The property of Thos. G. Jones & Co.

March 9th, sorrel filly, white stripe in face by Three Cheers, dam Dairy Maid by Shannon, mare bred back to Three Cheers.

At Poplar Grove Breeding Farm, near Fresno, Cal. The property of S. N. Stranbe.

March 22d, bay filly by Clovis, dam Flora by Echo.

At San Miguel Stock Farm, Cal. Property of Irvin Ayres.

Bay horse colt, black points, no white, by Mambrino Wilkes 6083, dam Narka by Nephew; second dam by Chieftain; third dam the dam of Goldnote

News From Spokane Falls, W. T.

As spring is now upon us the flowers are in bloom and the festive trotters "snuffs the battle from afar." After the necessary and beneficial let up, which this latitude compels in a measure, I thought a few notes, from this greatest of all northwestern cities, might not be uninteresting to your readers. One of the finest trotting tracks in the world is situated here, and is now being put in first class shape for the present season, everything indicating that it will be an extremely lively one. There is a superabundant degree of life and energy displayed by our citizens, money is plenty, and no people can beat them for love of a good horse, their favorite weakness being the trotter. For the instruction and information of horsemen in California, who are sure to visit this place when its great resources are better known, I will mention the names of a few of our wealthy and prominent men who love, own, or intend to own fast trotters. Two members of the real estate firm of A. A. Newbery & Co. are Mr. Newbery and Lane Gillman, who both own some good ones; R. Clark, Esq., owns Bishop Hero, who won a long drawn out race of six or seven heats on the Montana circuit last year, and got a record of 2:27½. He is by Bishop, 1688, dam Lida Kendall, by Hero of Thorndale, 549, and if the promise he shows now is fulfilled, he will be a hard horse to beat in his class. Mr. McIver will handle him this season in his races. Billy Wilson, one of the solid men of this place owns Little Frank, but he is by no means little, as he stands fully 17 hands in height, and is a trotter beyond question, for although his best mark is 2:36, he can move much faster, and if he does not knock his present record all hollow, Mr. Wilson will lose lots of money over his favorite. A young man name Fleming, who has quite a local reputation among horsemen hereabout, is handling Little Frank and also a horse called Wooco by Kisber, who is reported to be very fast. Mr. Dan Drumheller, who has been here ever since the "woods were burned," a whole-souled, genial gentlman, has made as much money here as anybody, and that is saying a good deal, as we have some very wealthy men in Spokane Falls; well Mr. Drumheller owns a fine filly by Bedouin, a son of Sultan. She is two years old and moves and looks like a good one. Her owner is one of the directors of the Fair Association here, and takes an active interest in all matters appertaining thereto, his excellent judgment, being of great assistance to his co-workers. Mr. Ross, of Ross Park, has a grand appearing horse, that came from East of the Rockies somewhere, and although without a record is showing up very fast for a "dark one," as he has shown frequent quarters in 33 seconds. Last year, the gentlemen comprising the Fair Association, had a beautiful cup made, to be trotted for by the members, the conditions being that it should be won three times before becoming the property of the holder. In the contest that occured for the cup, Mr. James Wardner, a wealthy mine owner, proved the winner, and naturally felt proud of his victory. It is rumored now that whover wins it this year will have to cut a mark so low, that he may be proud of his record for all time, and as Mr. Wardner naturally feels reluctant to give up the beautiful emblem, after having it in his possession, he may possibly purchase a first-class animal, if speed enough to win, can be shown him. Dr. Powell Reeves has several well bred youngsters, all of whom will be placed in training shortly. This gentleman shipped a very fine mare by Commodore Belmont, a few days ago, to Pleasanton, California, to be bred to Sidney. The doctor will in all probability, start an extensive breeding farm in this neighborhood before long, and from his experience and judgment should make it a success. I am handling a few trotters for personal friends, notwithstanding I am engaged in other business, but when one has grown frosty in the work, it is hard to give it up entirely and I must confess it makes me feel young once more, when I take a spin behind a good one.

L. B. LINDSEY.

Mr. L. J. Rose is reported as saying in New York that his highest expectations did not run beyond $60,000 for his Eastern consignment, and he would have been well satisfied with $50,000, instead of which he received about $118,000.

ATHLETICS.

The Acme Athletic Club of Oakland gave an exhibition on Thursday evening last that was largely attended. Secretary Geo. B. Fox is working hard to push his Club into prosperity, and seems to be succeeding admirably.

Olympic Ladies' Night.

A most successful evening of gymnastic exercises was offered to the lady friends of the Olympic Club at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday evening last, under the guidance of that splendid financier and marvellously magnetic man, President William Greer Harrison. The club is fast advancing to a commanding position both in mere number of members and in club spirit and energy.

The entertainment was directly under management of vice-President R. P. Hammond and Captain Walter A. Scott, and it is much to the credit of these gentlemen that the long programme was carried through without waits or heaviness. The juvenile exercises were of most interest, but all of the numbers were of high merit.

Olympic Club Announcements.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—It is the intention of the Board of Directors to hold Grand Boxing and Wrestling Tournaments for amateurs, every two or three months, in the Olympic Club.

The next Grand Boxing Tournament will begin on May 6th, 1888. For this event the Board has appropriated the sum of one thousand dollars, to be expended in prizes.

The First Grand Wrestling Tournament will begin about July 8th, 1889. The Board being very desirous of encouraging members to take an active interest in boxing and wrestling, in addition to giving these tournaments (open to all amateurs) has authorized the leader to expend monthly the sum of two hundred dollars in prizes for Boxing and Wrestling Trial Contests, (open to members only.)

These Trial Contests will begin on April 15, 1889, with a "Wrestling Night," and the Board hopes the members will do all in their power to make these monthly meetings a success.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Directors held March 14th, 1889, the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That no member of the Club, without the consent of the Board of Directors, shall take part in any exhibition, or entertainment where professional pugilists are engaged. Any infraction of this rule shall be deemed conduct unbecoming a gentleman. W. E HOLLOWAY, Secretary.

From the San Francisco Turn Verein.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The San Francisco Turn Verein has decided to send a team of four of its best men to compete for prizes in athletics and gymnastics at the national meeting of the North American Turner Bund, to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, next June. The gymnastics will consist of a series of difficult exercises upon horizontal and parallel bars, long and side vaulting horse. The athletics will consist of high broad jumping, pole vaulting, putting the 37 pound shot, and rope climbing. The extra event will be a 300 yards run, broad jump, hop step and jump, high jump, javelin throwing, wrestling, lifting heavy weights, swiming, etc, The competitors most likely to be chosen are John T. Schuster, Philip Gretsch, Arthur Kelter, and Clement J. Schuster. The quartette have already commenced training, and if they continue to train in the future as in the past they should make a good showing against their eastern bretheren. The society will give a grand gymnastic exhibition for defraying part of the traveling expenses the latter part of April, upon which occasion the best amateur athletes and gymnasts will assist.

March, 25, 1889. LOUIS HINZ, Secretary.

THE KENNEL.

Dog owners are requested to send for publication the earliest possible notices of whelps, sales, names claimed, presentations and deaths in their kennels, in all instances writing plainly names of sire and dam and of grandparents, colors, dates and breed.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—I would suggest to the Bench Show Committee of the P. K. C., an "Aged Class," it being a prize for the best aged dog or bitch of any recognized breed, age to be ten or more years; age and condition to be considered in judgment. I think that such a competition has never been opened, and it may induce some to show well preserved dogs. FRED A. TAFT.

TRUCKEE, March 20, '89.

By the steamship Belgic, which sailed for Japan on March 20th, two pointer bitches were sent to Japanese purchasers. They were whelped on October 19th, 1888, and by Scout Croxteth, 6277 A. K, C. S. B., out of Romp P. 3750 A. K. R. Both were of good size, good lookers, and creditable to their breeder Senator T. J. Pinder.

The interest in and demand for Chesapeake Bay dogs is increasing, and it is a pleasant fact to record, for the reason that through carelessness there was danger of extinction of the breed. The latest development is the formation of a Chespeske breeding kennel by those veterans and experts Dr. H. H. Smith of Malvern, Iowa, and Mr. Geo. E. Poyneer of Williamsburg, same State. Mr. Poyneer has selected a number of the best bitches in the country, and the breeding will be done in accord with his judgment, while Doctor Smith will have charge of the kennel which will be located at Malvern, Iowa, where there is ample opportunity to work and break the dogs.

The premium list of the Second Annual Dog Show under the auspices of the Pacific Kennel Club, has been issued. For the present year the club has decided to add a poultry and pigeon annex, both of which will doubtless attract many visitors. In most of the dog classes the prizes are $10, $5 and diploma. The list of specials is already large and very many have been received which could not be published because they were sent in so late. Copies may be had on application at the club's office, 624 Market St., S. F. Such specials as are sent in will be mentioned in a circular which will accompany the premium list, or may be had at the same office. Under the administration of President Ramon E. Wilson, the club is prospering, and indications favor a very fine show.

The London Shooting Times, quoting the note recently published by us from Mr. James E. Watson, of this city, about his pointer Old Black Joe, mixes our Watson up with Mr. James Watson, of Philadelphia, who judged at the last Pacific Kennel Club Show. The Shooting Times does not at all fancy the latter Watson, and at every opportunity hauls him over the coals, but it really can have no antipathy to the San Franciscan, and could not have had him in mind when it made the editorial remark to which we except, and which is as follows:

"This is a downright 'nailer' Jimmy. Now, with your proofs. If you did not know the age of your dog, what right had you to run him in the San Francisco Derby? This is what people will ask you to account for."

Mr. H. Boyd, whose drawings of horses have often been used in this paper, is as fond of delineating dogs, and has recently done some very fine work of that sort. A picture of Mr. Keating's greyhound Pat Molloy, winner of the O. C. C. Birthday Stake, is on exhibition at No. 21 Kearny Street, and should be seen by all members of the Occidental Coursing Club.

Another bit of work by the gifted artist is a souvenir of the last Pacific Coast Field Trial Club's field trials at Bakersfield. It is in the form of a little portfolio of twelve large photographs of the leading dogs with a cover on which appear many miniature photographs of scenes during the trials. The pictures are full of spirit and of great interest to sportsmen, particularly one which shows Mr. Nick White, of Sacramento, right in the act of reporting the trials. The symmetrical form of the reporter is shown at length. The style of note-book which he uses can be seen, and the drawn features, moving lips, scratching pencil, fiercely intent eyes and generally wrapt manner characteristic of that accomplished son of Plumbago, make his counterfeit presentment so like as to be startling.

Sales.

J. B. Martin, 1157 Folsom Street, San Francisco, Cal., has sold ——, white with tan spot on head, fox-terrier dog. whelped January 16, 1889, by Regent Jock out of Beatrice (Champion Bacchanal—Blemton Arrow) to Geo. W. Ford, Esq., Santa Ana, Cal.

CORRECTION.

Correction of the American Kennel Club minutes, of meeting of Feb. 21, 1889.

The American Field Trial Club was dropped from the list of membership, for non-payment of annual dues.

A. P. VREDENBURGH, Secretary.

SUSPENSIONS.

March 13, 1889.

To the Secretary of the American Kennel Club:

Take notice that the Bench Show Committee of the Westminster Kennel Club has suspended Fred. P. Jordan, Brooklyn, N. Y., under Rule XXXV., for writing an insulting and obscene communication.

F. R. HITCHCOCK, Secretary W. K. C.

March 18, 1889.

To the Secretary of the American Kennel Club:

Pursuant to Rule XXXV. of the Bench Show Rules I confirm the suspension of Fred P. Jordan, Brooklyn, N. Y., by the Westminster Kennel Club, waiting the action of the American Kennel Club at its next meeting.

AUGUST BELMONT, Jr., President American Kennel Club.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS.

Amendments to the Rules and Regulations of the American Kennel Club, proposed by Mr. J. L. Anthony:

Amend Rule XII., by striking out on the fourth line the words "the regularly appointed," and all thereafter, and insert:

"Any owner who shall exhibit or cause to be exhibited any dog that has any contagious disease, or any veterinary who fails to make a personal examination of all dogs arriving at a show and before they are benched, and permits the benching of any dog so afflicted, shall be forever disqualified.

Add to Rule XXVIII., on the fifth line, after the word held, "the date of the closing of the entries, which shall not be changed or extended without at least a week's public notice. Any violation of this rule shall be punishable by a fine of $100 for first offence, $200 for the second and expulsion for the third; and all prizes awarded to any dogs entered after the closing shall be withheld;" also strike out the word "there" before the word officials in the fifth line, and insert the word "the." A. P. VREDENBURGH, Secretary.

From Mr. F. W. Dunn.

The fears of those who organized the Pacific Coast Field Trial Club, lest success should not attend their efforts, were in a great measure dispelled when the judge chosen for the initial trials began his work. Up to that time, nearly unknown to local sportsmen, he very soon established himself in their hearts, and more intimate acquaintance only increased their regard for their shrewd but kindly and courteous judge.

When Mr. Dunn was taken sick about three years ago, and was removed from Nevada to New Orleans, it was thought that his days of activity were numbered in units, but the change benefitted him, and in time he regained a portion of his strength. No tidings have come from him for several years until on Monday last, when a breezy and characteristic epistle was received, dated at Birmingham, Alabama, and the letter-head showing that Mr. Dunn was President of the Birmingham Jockey Club. Our valued friend writes: "You will no doubt be surprised, and yet I hope glad, to hear from your old friend. Well, I am still living. Quit railroading, and as you will see by this letter-head, got where I belong—in with the boys. My health is quite good, much better than when you knew me, but not first class. It is so long since I have heard from the Bassford's, Pa Bennet, Post, White, or any of those dear old Californians, that I don't know whether this will find any of them kicking—if they are alive I know some of them must be. I have done well, and am in a way to do even better."

Occidental Coursing Club.

At an executive meeting of the club held on Monday evening last, at 21 Kearny St., there were present, President Gregory and Messrs. J. F. Carroll, H. Boyd, Thomas J. O'Keeffe, H. E. Deane, J. E. Watson, H. Wormington and Dr. Sharkey.

The chief question of the evening was as to what arrangements could be made for future meetings of the club. The proprietors of Newark Park had shown a disposition to treat the club rather cavalierly and the cost of holding meetings at that place was too great.

Mr. O'Keeffe thought that the club was entitled to more consideration at the hands of the park owners, and he was convinced that if the club paid $2 or $2.50 per course, and took the railroad rebate, the burden of expense would be made slight. Mr. Carroll remarked that if the club would permit the park owners to sell pools, hares would be furnished for nothing, but he did not see how they could permit pool selling without changing its constitution and by-laws.

President Gregory said that Mr. Shea was anxious to have the club run its meetings at Newark, but Shea naturally desired to receive the utmost possible sum for he use of the grounds, and sometimes permitted his desire to make him extortionate. After considerable discussion it was decided to reject all propositions thitherto made and Messrs. Carroll, Deane and Boyd were appointed a committee to confer with Mr. Shea and secure the best possible terms for the club meeting to be held on Decoration Day.

Pacific Kennel Club.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Pacific Kennel Club was held at 21 Kearny Street last Tuesday night, President R. E. Wilson in the chair, and Messrs. J. M. Adams, William Schreiber, Clarence A. Haight, E H. Williams, Col. S. O. Gregory, Dr. Thos. Bowhill, James E. Watson, and H. H. Briggs being present.

After reading and approval of the minutes of the preceding meeting, Treasurer Watson reported having expended $318.35 since the last meeting, and a balance on hand of $109.07.

Mr. Schreiber suggested that the reports of the Treasurer should show more in detail the precise condition of the club as to possible receipts in the way of dues and from other sources of revenue in order that the Executive Committee might be better able to calculate with reference to incurring expenses from time to time.

A letter from a Philadelphian named H. Andrews was read, in which he stated his desire to bring 110 dogs from the East to the May dog show, and requesting the influence of the club to secure special rates of freight. Mr. Schreiber thought the offer was not bona fide, and he thought the club should offer no special inducements unless Mr. Andrews could furnish references, and would communicate the names and breeds of the dogs which he intended to bring. President Wilson could not see how 110 dogs could be brought in one car. Dr. Bowhill was sure one car would suffice, and thought the club might properly permit the entrance of the dogs at one-half the regular entry fee.

Mr. Haight could not see that the presence of the dogs would be a very great attraction, and he thought that to invite such an entry would work injustice to local owners on whom the burdens incident to the show must fall.

On motion of Mr. Schreiber it was ordered that premium lists be sent to Mr. Andrews, and that he be requested to send full particulars about the dogs and what he desires, but that no special inducements be offered at the present time.

Mr. J. M. Adams thought it an unwise precedent to establish to offer any large special sums to Eastern owners, and he preferred to have all owners placed on the same basis.

Col. Gregory said that aside from the mere matter of winning the prizes, he thought the presence of a draft of fine dogs from good Eastern kennels would afford Californians a valuable opportunity to institute comparisons, and to learn what good dogs really are. It was ordered that the premium lists be printed immediately and sent out to dog owners throughout the Pacific Coast.

THE GUN.

The postponed March match of the Blue Rock Club, will be shot at Adams' Point this afternoon, rain or shine. Members will take the 1:15 o'clock boat, narrow gauge to 14th St., Oakland, thence by omnibus to the grounds.

The fourth match for the Selby Smelting and Lead Co.'s Standard Challenge Medal and cash prizes, will be shot at Adams Point, Lake Merritt, Oakland, on Saturday, April 6, 1889, commencing at 10 A. M., under the auspices of the Blue Rock Club of San Francisco.

A sportsman of the real old Kentucky sort is pervading the neighborhood of the Grand Hotel in the person of Mr. Thos. Barnes, nominally a traveller in the interest of the "James Pepper" brand of highly ozonized spirits, but in fact a peripatetic story-teller and thoroughly good fellow, whose real aim seems to be to spin most extraordinary yarns and tell highly spiced anecdotes of all the noted sportsmen of America, of whom he seems to know every one.

The Gun Club.

The March meeting was held at Klinknerville, near Golden Gate Station, Berkeley, on Saturday last. Every thing was favorable and a successful meeting resulted. Mr. Jellett had the only clean score and except Mr. J. K. Orr with 10, was the only man who scored more than nine. Even such reliables as Mr. Fred Butler, Mr. Will Golcher, Mr. Will Wattles, Mr. John M. Kilgarif and Mr. Al Havens failing to get into double figures.

The new ground was voted a good one, except that a mass of trees and shrubbery made the back ground so dark that it was difficult to see low flying dark birds.

At 12 birds, Hurlingham. For club prizes.

Classification of club members for 1889. Eighty-five per cent. class: A. F. Adams, W. J. Fox, C. B. Gould, C. W. Kellogg, C. D. Laing, W. E. Mayhew, F. H. Putzman, J. O. Cadman, W. J. Golcher, S. J. Kellogg, S. E. Knowles, J. B. Maynard, F. B. Norton, H. Tubbs.

Seventy-five per cent. class: Henry Babcock, W. G. Crandall, A. Johnson, M. A. Newell, A. Schwerin, R. T. Bell, C. D. Harris, W. S. Kittle, F. R. Noyes, T. Schwerin, W. S. Wattles.

Sixty-five per cent. class: S. L. Abbot, Jr., A. A. Dewing, G. Leviston, H. Melle, J. A. White, S. G. Beaver, H. D. Hawks, W. Leviston, W. D. Melvin, W. Schreiber.

Prizes will be distributed at the end of season upon the basis of the aggregate scores made during the season in any six matches, and in order to compete for prizes members will be required to shoot in six of the seven matches.

Any member may shoot in a higher class than that in which he may have been placed.

Absentees may shoot up, but only at a regular club match, and will not be allowed to shoot up more than one delinquent score at any one match.

Springfield Notes.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—Some of the finest rifle shooting ever done in this country with a military rifle was done in this city the past week by T. B. Wilson and L. T. Farnsworth. Both used the regulation Springfield rifle and ammunition at 200 yards off hand. Mr. Wilson made the wonderful score of 91 out of a possible 100 on the Standard Hinman target. At 500 yards, prone, Mr. L. T. Farnsworth shot 21 consecutive shots and made 20 bulls eyes his eleventh shot being a very close four at 8 o'clock. Had it been on the Creedmoor target instead of the Eliptical, he would undoubtedly have had a run of 21 bulls eyes. The individual shots were as follows:

At 200 yards, Springfield military rifle, offhand. Standard American target.

T. B Wilson.....10 9 9 9 10 9 8 10 10 7—91

At 500 yards, prone position, Springfield military rifle.

Five members of the militia of this city have been selected as member of the rifle team that Major J. P. Frost will take to England the coming summer. There are three vacancies yet to be filled, and they will not be filled until several competitions have been held. SPRINGFIELD.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 23, 1889.

Alameda County Club.

A good deal of fine shooting characterized the initial meeting of the Alameda County Sportsman's Club held at Adams' Point Saturday afternoon last. Doctor Knowles scored 12 in the main match and 20 out of 22 in the day. Major Kellogg trailed him closely, getting 11. Mr. Osborne had bad luck and got but 8, a lower figure than usually appears for him. The President, Mr. W. W. Haskell, won the leather medal fairly, but those who regard his seven as an index to his ability, will reckon without their host.

At 12 birds, Hurlingham. For club prizes.

California Wing Shooting Club.

After a postponement necessitated by the stormy weather, the club met at San Bruno, on March 24th, for its first trap shoot of the season, and passed a day in sport of the most enjoyable sort. The spring weather was of the balmiest and the green hills and flower-starred meadows, made the day's outing a rich treat to all senses.

The club went down by the 10:30 train, the earlier one no longer stopping at San Bruno. There was no wind, but the pigeons were so fresh and good, that they averaged hard birds. The attendance was not so great as it should have been when the attractions offered are considered.

The California Club numbers many of the best shots in the State, including the champion Mr. Crittenden Robinson. Its meetings are invariably conducted with the utmost decerum and are as enjoyoble for ladies as can be.

San Bruno is by common consent the best pigeon shooting ground in the State, and in the opinion of Mr. S. A. Tucker, about as good as any in the country. The old time proprietor, Mr. Dick Cunningham, recently gave up the management of the resort to Mr. Fred Eisele, and the latter is catering finely for those who patronized his beautiful place. Thirteen members entered for last week's match, a very favorable showing. All of them were experts of the first class and it may be of interest to note the guns and loads selected by them for that crucial test of a gun, use at the traps.

Dr. S. E. Knowles, whose learning in all matters relating to guns and ammunition is probably greater than that of any other local expert, used a 16 bore hammerless Gruner, weighing nine pounds, one ounce. His shells were a three-inch Kynoch in the right and paper in the left, of the same length. The loads were 3¼ drams of Dupont's Summer Shooting Powder, No. 3, and 1¼ oz. of No. 6, Chilled shot. Dr. Knowles gives as reasons for the peculiar gun and loads used, the fact that he gets more even results and less recoil than with any other gun and loads. His 16 bore patterns evenly and is a hard hitter. When asked why he did not use Schultze, the answer was, that he had seen and done good work with it, but that he was so much at home with black powder that he did not care to learn to shoot over again in order to become expert with the Schultze. His best score with the 16 bore is 20 straight birds, Hurlingham style, 28 yards rise.

Mr. Osborne of the club, a comparatively new hand at the traps, but a steady and very fine shot, uses a Scott hammerless choked, 12 bore, weighing 8 lbs., 4 oz. He shoots 45 grains of Schultze in each barrel, and 1¼ oz. of No. 7 chilled shot, loads his own shells and finds no difficulty in getting fairly on his birds with the Schultze. Mr. Robert Liddle shoots an 8 lbs. 12 bore built by himself, full choked, and a very trim weapon. His loads are 3½ drams of Hazard Ducking No. 3, with 1¼ oz. of Chilled 8's in the right and 7's in the left. Mr. Liddle, some years ago, was a crack at the traps but years of patient devotion at his bench have dimmed his eyes a little and some of his birds get too far from the traps before he is on them.

Mr. J. K. Orr, who shot with the club by invitation, had with him a handsome Holland and Holland, 12, cylinder in the right and modified cylinder in the left. The gun weighed but 6 lbs., 14 oz and with 45 grains of Schultze in the right, and 3¼ drams of Flectric in the left, the ounces of 8's and 7's set the gun back too sharply for comfort and made the shooter flinch so much as to quite spoil his score, although all of his birds were cut. Secretary Will De Vaull, as trim a shot as is in the club, used a 9 lbs. 10 oz. 10 bore Parker, with 26 inch barrels 4½ drams of the Hazard and 1¼ oz. of 7's and 6's loaded by the Selby Company. The gun is full choked and is a killer in the hands of its deft owner.

Mr. Ed. Fay, the man of many guns, all of them of the rarest beauty and excellence, was on hand with a Scott hammerless just nished to his order. The gun is a 12, and weighs 8 pounds, a beauty to look at and a good to kill. His loads were 3½ drams of Hazard Ducking No 4, five wads, and 1¼ ounces of chilled 7's. Mr. Fay shot behind his birds at first, but soon pulled himself together and did brilliant work, Mr. Orr used the gun a little, scoring eleven straight with it.

Mr. A. B. Sperry of Stockton, of physique fitting him to endure any amount of heavy work at the traps, shot an L. C. Smith hammerless 10 bore of fine finish, and an extraordinary powerful arm. In the right barrel 56 grains of Schultze and 1¼ ounces of soft 8's. In the left 4 drams of Electric and the same quantity of soft 7's. Mr. Sperry is rather too fond of permitting his birds to get to long range and then deliberately cutting them down. His scores would be improved if he would be quicker with his first barrel.

Port Warden C. B. Smith, shooting a 10 pound, 10 bore Greener hammer gun, and 4¼ drams of F. F. G. powder, with 1¼ ounces of 8's and 7's, is a hard man to beat. Of herculean frame and a splendid field shot, his is as imperturbable at the traps as Tucker, and is very precise in his work.

Mr. Crittenden Robinson, to whom it really seems to make little difference what gun he uses, in so far as influencing his scores is concerned, shot his 10 bore Scott hammerless weighing 9½ pounds, with 4 drams of Dupont No. 2, and 1¼ ounces of 8's and 7's soft shot. The gun has recently been overhauled by the Scotts in Birmingham, and is a very effective arm. It has has won a good many thousand dollars for its unsurpassable owner.

Mr. C. J. Haas of Stockton, of nervous temperament and prone to headaches when shooting, used a 7½ pound hammerless Sneider 12 bore, with 3½ drams of Electric, and 1¼ ounces of 8's and 7's. The light gun shakes him up with such heavy charges, but he usually manages to get well into the money, and is beside, when at the trap, a picture of what a shot should be in position and handling his gun.

Mr. Robert Meilly, slight in frame, but all muscle, shot a 7½ pound, 12 bore Colt hammerless of very fine finish His loads were 3 drams of F. F. F. G., and ⅞ ounces of 8's and 7's. The great driving power of the loads was many times shown by clean kills at very long range.

Mr. Lewis used a Parker 12 bore that weighed 8 pounds 14 ounces, and with 4 drams of black power and 1⅛ ounces of 7's, his work was superbly good. The loads were rather heavy, but he stood up well, and but for hard luck in losing three birds out of bounds would have been an eleven man. Like Mr. Sperry he fancies experimenting at 50 or 60 yards, and some of his birds were stopped clean at almost incredible distances.

There was no delay during the day, and all of the shooting was finished in time to return to the city by the 4 o'clock train.

At 12 birds, Hurlingham, score to count as the first of the season.

"T. P. A." Again.

Those who read the unique hunter's letter from "T. P. A," which was published a few weeks ago, will be pleased to hear from the veteran again. In a letter recently sent to Mr. De Wolf of this city, "T. P. A." says: "Since writing you I hurt my hand badly, and although it is better it is somewhat swollen and painful yet. It will in time recover, so that I can use it, but I know one thing, it has lost me the winter's trapping. That means at least fifty or sixty dollars a month. I was getting the hang of the business and catching beaver when I cut my hand. Beaver hides are worth from three to six dollars each, so you see that one a day would make me living wages, besides the fun which is at least ten dollars per day more. I will tell you how I happened to find the beaver nest. I had heard there were beaver up above Callahan's, and had hunted two days but could not find where they were. I was then eight miles above Callahan's, near Mr. Parker's, east of my place. I had given up finding beaver, and started home across the mountains on foot, with twelve beaver traps on my back, besides my gun and outfit and some bait, thinking I would set traps for cat and fox. I had got to the top of the first high range, when, looking out, up jumped a whaling big buck about 400 yards away and went off like the wind. I had not time to lay down my pack, but just turned old 45—60 loose. She travelled a little the swiftest and caught the buck on the front foot as I found when I got to where the deer stood when I fired. Following along the track, I saw the buck down the hill and my old hound Tuts saw him at the same time. Didn't he want to go though? He made a break to pass me and made a grab at him, catching him by the collar and sat down and held him. I knew the buck would lie down. Soon he laid down but in a place where I could not get to him, so I let old Tuts go. He did not tarry long. I sat still to see the fun. I could see the deer lying down in open ground all the time, and the dog going so swiftly down the hill toward him, that when he got to the deer he went clear over him, missed his grab I suppose, and went rolling over and over down the hill. This gave the deer a chance to get up, which he availed himself of very quickly, but it was no use. Tuts was there again. Then they had it rough and tumble, first one and then the other on top for about a quarter of a mile. All this time I was sitting enjoying the sport. All of this was on a steep side hill. Finally the dog and deer reached a little flat place, and by mutual consent called the thing a draw, faced each other, about ten yards apart, and each held up a flag of truce They stood eying one another until I came down within about 60 yards and was unlimbering 45—60 to shoot the deer in the head—when, all at once he whirled and away he went and the dog after him, but I could not shoot for fear of hitting Tuts. As Tuts turned to go I saw blood dropping from his sides and knew that the deer had horned him. The wounds slowed the dog so that he could only run about as fast as the deer, but could not bring him to bay until they had run a mile, when the deer was bayed in a deep pond of water, where the dog kept him until I came to him. Just as I came near, old Tuts thought he must be up and doing, and jumped into the pond, a trick that came near doing him up, because the deer could stand on the bottom, while the dog had to swim, and the buck soon got Tuts against the bank and was horning the life out of him, when I came up and put my rifle nearly against the vicious old buck's head and blazed away. Tuts had six holes in his sides, several going into the cavity, but as the deer's head dropped the dog jumped on top of him and shook him until I pulled them ashore. He was a very large buck and had the nicest head I have seen, and that is a good many. This pond of water was a beaver dam, and the beaver house was within twenty feet of where I pulled the deer out. I went to Mr. Sweets and got a wagon to haul my deer, then tramped back to the top of the mountain to where I had dropped my traps, and finally got all my stuff and the game home all right. I shall clean out those beaver as soon as my hand gets anything like sound again, and will write you what luck I have."

Capital Turf Club.

As noted elsewhere, the nominations in the stakes and entries in the purses of the Capital Turf Club will close on Monday next, April first. There are many reasons why there should be a full return to the call for entries, and that the spring meeting of 1889 be accorded a support which will ensure it being the best ever held.

The club, if we are not mistaken, is the oldest racing and trotting association in the State, and has held its meetings under difficulties which would have discouraged people who lacked a trifle of the spirit and game of the Sacramento folk. There is nothing lacking for the comfort and "entertaiment of man and horse." Tracks and adjuncts the best of any in the State, and second to none in point of necessary equipments to the best of the East. Easy of access, and centrally situated, the transfer of horses from any part of the State is easy of accomplishment.

At the time when the meeting is held, May 6th to 10th inclusive, it is well worth a journey from the far East to spend a week in Sacramento. That city, always beautiful, is at its best during April and May, and a finer combination of climatic luxuries is difficult to find in any other country.

Several other points could be made, the chief of which is that the Capital Turf Club has the knack of securing the service of the very best men for officers, and peculiarly fortunate in the choice for 1889. To people who know them, no other recommendation is necessary than to refer to their names in the programme, and the advertisement will give all the information needed about classes, conditions, etc.

Colt Stakes—Santa Rosa.

Santa Rosa was doubly unfortunate in regard to the advertisement of the colt stakes for the fall meeting of this year. In the first place the date of closing was left out of the copy, and when that was corrected the number of insertions were curtailed so as not to include the most important dates. The man who has charge of the "business" of the paper has not had experience enough to know that an essential was ommitted in the instructions sent, and followed directions literally. As the ad. was marked "out" in the issue of last week, there has been time to rectify it, and in order to give as great publicity as possible, it is represented on the "editorial page." That will show that there are stakes for two and three-year-old which are free for all, and the usual number of district races, all of which are made more pleasant with a liberal amount of "added money."

Santa Rosa is one of the many beautiful towns which California can show, and is a favorite place for our horse folks to visit. The track is one of the best, and from the reports of every one who has visited it, the lessee, Mr. N. B. Sanborn, is keeping it in capital condition:

No. 1—For Two-Year-Olds—Free for all; $40 entrance, of which $10 must accompany nomination; $10 May 15th, $10 July 1st, and $10 ten days before the commencement of the meeting; $200 added.

No. 2—For Three-Year Olds—Free for all; $80 entrance, of which $20 must accompany nomination; $20 May 15th, $20 July 1st, and $20 ten days before the commencement of the meeting; $300 added.

No. 3—For Yearlings—Comprising the following counties: Sonoma, Napa, Solano, Marin, Lake, Colusa, Yolo and Mendocino; $40 entrance, of which $10 must accompany nomination; $10 May 15th, $10 July 1st, and $10 ten days before the commencement of the meeting; $100 added.

No. 4—For Two-Year-Olds—District comprising same counties as race No. 3. $50 entrance, of which $10 must accompany nomination; $10 May 15th, $15 July 1st, and $15 ten days before the commencement of the meeting; $200 added.

No. 5—For Three-Year-Olds—District comprising same counties as race No. 3. $50 entrance, of which $10 must accompany nomination; $10 May 15th, $15 July 1st, and $15 ten days before the commencement of the meeting; $300 added.

These races will be so placed on the programme that those entering in the District Stakes, may also contest in the free for all.

In all stakes failure to make payments as they become due, forfeits entry and money paid in. Five to enter, three or more to start. Money in each stake divided a follows: To winning colt, 60 per cent. of stake and added money; second colt 30 per cent., and third colt 10 per cent.

San Jose.

There is sure to be a gala time in San Jose from to-day, Saturday, March 30th, until the next week comes to a close. Never before in the turf history of the "Garden City" has there been such a list of entries when numbers are the test, and it is safe to assert that never before such an array of talent.

Eighteen races to be decided in four days, Saturday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and on the off days a person must be woefully dyspeptic, stomach and brain both disturbed, who fails to enjoy himself between times. We use the masculine gender, as the ladies who attend the races have such a keen appreciation of the beautiful, that were the non-racing days more numerous, weariment or worriment by them will not be entertained.

Although we have little personal knowledge of what the race-horses are doing, wonderful accounts reach this office of their performances, and as will be learned from the history which our associate gives of a trip he made last Saturday, he feels justified in endorsing Dame Rumor to quite an extent. His description does away with the necessity of conjectural remarks on the horses engaged, and, as is well known, we are not prone to make predictions which are denominated "tips."

The only advice of that kind we feel like offering our readers is to confine their speculations to amounts which can be lost without serious detriment to their finances, and depend more on the blind goddess than the utterances of the smart chaps who are always ready to "pick a sure winner."

Closing April 6th., San Francisco, Fresno.

While there will be time, after the receipt of our next number, for people not too far away from San Francisco, to make nominations and entries for the Spring Meeting of the P. C. B. H. A., for the Spring Meeting of the Fresno Association, as the day of publication is the date of closing, April 6th, it will not be advisable to wait until then. As the secretary of the P. C. B. H. A. has his desk in our office, residents of San Francisco and vicinity can put the business off, but those who depend upon the mail to carry their communications to either place should attend to it in time. There is no question that the meeting of the Blood-Horse, which will be held on the Bay District Course, April 20th, 23d, 25th and 27th, will receive attention from those who have horses to engage, and we trust that Fresno will have the same good fortune. There is little danger if those who are the most interested will "take hold" and second the Fresno Association as they should. It is conceded that the track, and all of the other adjuncts of a race course, are of the best and certainly the public spirit of the citizens has been exhibited in a way which ensures any project which can be effected by them will be carried to a successful termination. There is not the least hazard in predicting that with the co-operation of owners and trainers, Fresno will rank high in equine sports, and be one of the main points in spring and fall circuits.

Disappointed.

As announced in the paper of last week we intended to start on a trip to the East Saturday. Informed at the ticket office on Tuesday that Friday would be in time to obtain tickets, that very essential part of the business was deferred until that day. Friday morning's paper brought the intelligence that for the first time since the "Golden Gate Special" had been running, it would go out with a full complement of passengers, every berth section, and drawing room being engaged. It was that train or none. Every hour had been counted and to meet the demand a slower rate would not do. There were other reasons for choosing the special, the most weighty, however, being the saving of time. Thursday at 1:25 P. M., the schedule said, would land us in Philadelphia, and as we learned that Mr. Steele's place was only eight miles from the city, by 3 o'clock we could greet Antevolo. Much as we would be gratified to meet Mr. Steele, Mr. Eckstein and others in the city of brotherly love, candor compels the admission that the horse was a prominent feature in the picture which Hope put on the canvas. By commencing at the further end of the journey, if it be permitted to call the starting poirt where nearly half of the journey was accomplished, there was a better chance of getting back in the allotted time. Philadelphia, New York, Northern Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Chicago, Iowa, more than seven thousand miles to travel, and at least a thousand people which it would be imperative to shake hands with, and return in a lunar month, necessitated a high rate of speed, when so many breaks were inevitable, and hence the ordinary line was voted too slow for the occasion.

Apart from the necessity of making the most of 28 days, or that part of it which is taken up with railway progression, there is a fascination in going fast. The only occasion when the speed is greater than we admire is when accompanying some one who shows a lack of skill in the truly American art of driving a fast trotter, and insists on showing his talent as a whip in a way that is not only dangerous to the occupants of the vehicle but abusive to the poor animal which is unfortunate enough to have him holding the reins.

Then, too, being on a traveling hostelry, all the comforts of a first-class hotel, and a goodly share of the luxuries of life enjoyed while "anihilating space," had been so vividly portrayed in imagination, that to come down from the high horse and accept the usual humdrum, was altogether too prosaic for our mood.

If we could not go on the route blazed, none other would answer, and so the journey was postponed, and in place of taking the risks of March and April discomforts which are sure to be encountered in portions of the country embraced in the chart of our trip, stay in the land of sushine and flowers, and make choice of the baling month of June, or still later when the Eastern forests are resplendent in the colors which the grand artist, King Frost has given. Before the "rolling prairies" in Iowa were marred by buildings, plowed fields and fences, a June landscape was especially beautiful. When the Indian summer comes there is a glory in sky and land in nearly all sections of the East which is well worth a trip from this side of the continent to see, but for every day in the year, those of February, March and April, particularly the slopes on either side of the bay of San Francisco, are the most attractive dwelling place.

Off for Trout.

The first day of April may have been ordained for the enjoyment of others than those who invariably spend it on some well known stream, but certain it is that to none but the angler does the day come year after year, so longed for, and so fraught with high hopes and fond anticipations. Five long months of wintry desuetude suffice to stiffen wrists, dim eyes and blunt the faculties which must all be exercised in their fullsst and best development, if the utmost success is to attend the fisher, but the blear months cannot deaden the pleasures of memory nor rob each coming opening day of one item of its allurements. Tackle grows finer year by year, and flies multiply apace, with now and then a good one of recent pattern, so that much time must be devoted to preparation for the day of days.

Sage deliberation is essential in determining the precise bit of water to fish;

The party must be judiciously selected, lest a cross-grained person self deluded into the belief that one of such a temperament can really be an angler, should by chance become a nuisance to the company.

Long discussions as to how necessary impediments may be reduced in bulk and weight fill many hours, and profitably. But at last this Saturday is at hand when but twenty-four hours stint the angler from the creek that has been jabbering away to the Ousels and Kingfishers, and gossiping along down to the sea without human companionship since October. To all readers who can truly claim deference to right and the law, and who have not defiled themselves by unreasonable fishing, we wish the best of weather, keen fish, full baskets and happy hearts on Monday next.

Closing of Stakes.

There are a number of stakes, nominating to which must be made before another number of this paper goes to press.

On Monday next, April 1st., the Colt Stakes of the Sonoma County Agricultural Park Association, the San Jose Colt Stakes for the Fall Meeting of 1889, and the stakes and purses of the Capital Turf Club, will close.

On Tuesday, April 2d, the Stanford Stakes must be attended to, and next Saturday, April 6th, the Pacific Coast Blood Horse Association, and the Fresno Fair Association close both purses and stakes.

There is little necessity for arguments in relation to making nominations in Colt Stakes, as the benefits to be derived are generally acknowledged by breeders of thoroughbreds and trotters, but there is a requirement for keeping it before them, although the repetition may seem tiresome to those who "never forget."

There are always "sleepers," and among this class we can be catalogued. The stakes at Sacramento and Stockton which closed on the 15th inst., were first in our remembrance only a few days before, and even on the 14th., we were aware of the near approach of the time. Our thoughts were so completely absorbed by other affairs than "horse matters" that it was 11:30 P. M., when it was realized that was the day, too late to reach telegraph office, and back to bed with a feeling approaching disgust at such palpable carelessness. After this experience, we desire to impress on the minds of our readers more thoroughly than ever, the advantages of not waiting until the last moment, and our advice is to write nominations and entries when this notification is received on Saturday, and should it be held politic to avoid the last moment of closing, the letter can be left unsealed until Monday.

While there are few of our California breeders who do not realize the importance of naming colts in stakes, the proportion of breeders, owners and trainers which underrate the importance of spring meetings is altogether too large. These men will claim that there are not sufficient inducements to the horses in training in California, the most serious obstacle being a practical restriction to the "Fall Circuit." Were they to extend their countenance to early meetings as fully as their interest should prompt them to exhibit, in a short time there would be gatherings rivalling the autumnal displays. In lieu of Los Angeles, Fresno, San Jose, the Blood-Horse and the Capital Turf Club occupying the whole ground there would be a succession of events, with scarcely interval enough to prepare for the fairs.

The San Jose programme elicited a fair response, and we sincerely trust that those which are yet to close will show a like liberal spirit on the part of those who control the horses. The main fault lies with the trotting division, and could the harness folks be induced to throw off their apathy and second the efforts of the directors, one-half as enthusiastically as they might, spring racing and trotting in California will occupy a prominent position in the calenders.

Horse Portraiture.

The portrait of Sunol in last week's issue seems to justify, if not actually call for, some remarks on horse portraiture. The general public can have little idea of the difficulties in the way of those who desire to reinforce written descriptions of horses with conscientious description in words must always fail to convey the idea of form that is conveyed in a glance at an accurate portrait. On the other hand there is that which the portrait cannot wholly tell, and which the letter-press must supply. To turn out a good piece of work the artist and the writer must be a "matched team." If the writer has not the natural eye for form, and fails to grasp and express the salient points in the horse's make-up, and the artist be a master, or vice versa, the one will give the pen picture the lie. There are ten men who can adequately describe the form of a horse to one who can even passably delineate that form. What the reason may be I cannot say, but certainly horse portraiture is a branch of art that has been left far behind in the general march of progress. True, the average drawing of the present is far above the best attempts of the olden time in the line of portraying race horses, but yet the horse portrait of to-day that at all approximates a fair and faithful delineation is a variety among a legion of abortions. It is not pleasant to reflect, that while we have numbers of artists who can, with true and masterful pencil, transfer to paper in striking faithfulness and reality, cattle, dogs, sheep, fowls, and all the lower tribes of animal nature, the horse, "the noblest Roman of them all," must submit to have his divinely beautiful form persistently libelled in "art."

Even more surprising than that, as a rub, artists are at sea on the horse, is the fact that the camera, which is supposed to be as incapable of a lie as was the Father of His Country, can be so manipulated that the work of the photograph is often little less atrocious than the masterpieces of the farmer's boy on the stable walls. Possibly no horse has been as often photographed as the grand old hero of Palo Alto—Electioneer—yet not only is there not as far as I am aware, an even fair portrait of him extant, but of a dozen or more alleged photographs seen, there is only one that the writer could recognize as a picture of Electioneer and that was taken by an amateur. I recently saw portraits taken by a San Francisco photograper of national reputation, of Electioneer, Sunol, Manzanita and Hinda Rose. There were certain marks by which the Electioneer photo might be distinguished by one very closely acquainted with the horse, but though there is not a very great resemblance between the three famous mares, to tell which of the pictures was meant for Sunol, which for Hinda Rose, and which for Manzanita was to me a mystery more hopelessly impenetrable than that shrouding the name of a man who assaulted the late William Patterson. It is well to be uncharitable to the artists, and that is the reason why the sins of the photographers are mentioned as in a measure palliating those of the "draughtsmen."

I do not wish to take a wholly pessemistic view of the case, or to declare that "all is vanity" in equine art. No one admires more warmly, or more readily appreciates the masterly work of Whitney, Schultz and Palmer than the writer. They each have a distinctive style of their own, and though each has his mannerisms, to the credit of everyone of them are horse portraits that are faithful works of art. With all respect and deference to all other artists, for faithfulness, fidelity, and striking originality, Frank Whitney must be awarded the palm. He does not stick in any groove, but surpasses himself continually, and his work alone is sufficient ground for the belief that equine art will yet reach the standard required, if indeed his work has not already reached it. His portraits have not the monotonous sameness that destroys all faith in the correctness of the many pictures we see; his horses are horses, his mares are mares, and his foals are foals. He preserves in each horse he draws the distinctive individuality that marks him from other horses, and gives him a character of his own. I have had little opportunity to judge of Mr. Boyd, the California artist's work, but justice must concede his portraits considerable merit. Though there is a similarity in form and posture between his portraits of different animals (showing that he sometimes loses the individual in his ideal), and there are, too, occasional anatomical lapses in his work. The pictures of Sunol and Mambrino Wilkes are the best of Mr. Boyd's sketches that I have seen. That of Sunol is very good with two exceptions—the wither is too high, and the head carried too high. Among photographers, Schreiber of Philadelphia, easily ranks first.

The common error of the artist is endeavoring to make a horse appear not what he is, but what (in their minds) he should have been. They try to improve upon Nature, and departing from its lines, convict themselves in unnatural imaginings. They try to improve the style, heighten the finish, and gloss over the plain features, and in doing it utterly lose the character that would have made the picture recognizable. Not to be behind in "improvements" the photographer "touches up" the negative, puts a lie, figuratively speaking, in the camera's mouth, and makes the finished picture an eye-trap, a delusion and a snare. A fair knowledge of external anatomy is necessary to the artist, but if the photographer would stick to the lines that fall through the lens, he could not err. Picture the horse just as he is, and no one could complain. The persistent endeavors of the artists and photographers to improve upon nature, and substitute ideals and shams for honest portraitures, has well-nigh destroyed faith in all equine pictures. Let us have the truth though the heavens fall.

LESLIE E. MACLEOD.

CORRESPONDENCE.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—In "Grim's Gossip" in a recent issue of your paper, there is a suggestion that is pregnant of great good to the State. It is there proposed, for the benefit of small breeders, that a "combination sale take place in 1889, between January 15th and February 15th, (and let it be annual thereafter), just about the time that Eastern breeders wish to come and thaw out a bit."

A home market for this class of breeders is more than a "boon;" it is necessary, without which they must relinquish breeding and turn their attention to some other industry. This would be a misfortune to the large, as well as the small breeder. There can be no rivalry between the two classes—no more than between the wholesale and retail merchant.

The large breeder derives his greater profit from the sale of animals for breeding purposes, for which the small breeder is his customer. The large breeder can develop a portion of his stock to show their quality, which will enable him to sell the remainder, undeveloped, at prices the small breeder cannot hope to get for precisely the same blood. He can also ship East for a market. The small breeder cannot afford the outlay to develop, nor can he ship East. There are many lovers of a horse, road riders and business men, who cannot afford the prices of the large breeder, but who can and will pay the prices that will remunerate and satisfy the breeder who is at no expense to develop his stock, and the indulgence made possible by these lower prices will extend the taste to those who, but for this, would seek some other amusement, and their example and influence would be lost to the interest. But there are not yet enough of this class in California to sustain the breeders already embarked in the business, and there must be found an outlet for the surplus or the business must languish.

It is not to be expected that a first sale will be a complete and satisfying success. Such enterprises are not born full fledged, but if those to be beneficial take to the plan and send in good stock in sufficient numbers, and are not discouraged by low prices at the first sale, it is likely to grow into a permanent and reliable market, at paying prices for our surplus trotters, and rescue the industry from its present depressed condition. The Eastern man can buy enough cheaper here to nearly pay the expense of the trip on a single animal, and after a few annual sales, you may hear in the frozen East something like this, as Harry and Tom sit toasting their shins and drinking their hot scotch, "I say, old boy, lets take a run out to California," and "thaw out a bit," get a button hole bouquet and buy us a roadster."

If the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, with its usual devotion of time and talent to the horse interest, will take hold of this matter, and enlist the co-operation of the enterprising auction firm of Kilip & Co.. I think there can be gotten together a lot of young trotters, that in number and quality, will put the scheme of a combination sale on a solid basis, and prove an annual winter attraction to Eastern horsemen.

M. W. HICKS.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—I am informed by Mr. C. E. Needham that there is an error in my catalogue, viz., the claim that his horse Steve Whipple is by Bonner. Mr. Needham says that his horse was sired by Chrisman's Hambletonian. I have no information on the subject, (the error having been made by the compiler, in New York,) but presume that Mr. Needham is correct, and take this method of correcting the error, in order that his statement and advertisements may not seem to be contradicted. I remark, in justice to the compiler, that Bonner and Chrisman's Hambletion are both sons of Whipple's Hambletonian therefore the error is one very likely for one to fall into. IRVIN AYRES.

AMBERINE.

$25 $25.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by PROMPTER No. 2465, with six weeks training at the close of a stud season, he won a stallion race of five heats, winning the last three heats and getting a record of 2:33¾; he has never been trained since.

His sire, Wilkes's BLUE BULL, No. 75, has more of his progeny in the 2.30 list than any horse that ever lived, except it may be George Wilkes, and it is a disputed point between the two which has most.

PROMPTERS' dam, PRAIRIE BIRD, 2:28¼, is in the GREAT BROOD MARE TABLE, a proved producer, and of a family of wonderful producers, as an examination of the produce of Fluxtail mares will prove.

AMBERINE'S dam, "BONNIE," owned by G. W. Hancock, of Sacramento, is one of the best road-mares in the State; she has many times covered 50 miles on the road in five hours, and 125 miles in 17 hours. She is the dam of Daisy, yearling record, 2:38¾; her sire is John Nelson, sire of the dams of Albert W., 2:21, and Valensin, 2:20.

AMBERINE is a beautiful bay, three years old, very powerfully built, 16 hands, and trotted a mile in his yearling form in 3:20, and has never been trained.

Will serve 15 outside mares at the low price of $25 the season. Should the mare not prove in foal, the money refunded or mare bred to following season. Service fee payable, when I pasture the mare, at the time of her removal; but if served outside, payable at time of service.

He is full brother to DAISY; yearling record, 2:38¾. THE BEST IN THE WORLD FOR PACING. Two-year-old trial, two miles, 5:07, last mile in 2:28.

Good pasturage for a limited number of mares only at $5 per month. Ranch 8 miles from the City, San Pedro Valley. Horses taken down at owner's risk.

This horse will stand in San Francisco, San Mateo, or Alameda Counties. Owned by

ELECTION,

BY ELECTIONEER.

DESCRIPTION.

ELECTION is a beautiful bay, with small star in forehead. Near forefoot and pastern white; both hind feet white above ankles. He was foaled April 10, 1884, at Palo Alto; stands 15½ hands high and weighs 1075 pounds. Election was old in his yearling form to B. R. Crocker of Sacramento, who kept him for two years and then sold him to Mr. H. J. Palmer, who placed him in charge of Wilbur F. Smith to develop. From an ordinary road gait he was made, after three months training, to trot a mile in 2:30.

PEDIGREE.

ELECTION by Electioneer, dam Lizzie H., by Whipple's Hambletonian; 2d dam Lizzie Harris, by Comus, son of Green's Bashaw, sire of Josephus 2:19¾, Red Douglas 2:20¾, and fourteen more in 2:30 or better; 3d dam by Arnold Harris.

Comus by Green's Bashaw, sire of dams of Joe Young 2:20¾, Trampoline 2:23¾, dam Topsy (dam of Iowa Chief 2:21¾), sire of Corisande 2:21¾, by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk, sire of Ethan Allen 2:25¾.

Green's Bashaw by Vernol's Black Hawk, son of Long Island Black Hawk. 1st dam Belle by Webber's Tom Thumb; 2d dam Chas. Kent mare, dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian by imp. Bellfounder. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam Sportmistress by American Eclipse, etc.

This fine Electioneer horse will make the season of 1889 at Woodland. Service limited to a few mares of approved breeding. Season commencing March 1st and ending July 1st.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars for the season, due at time of service. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season by paying difference in price, provided no change in ownership of horse. For further particulars address

J. L. CARRIGAN, Agent.
Knight's Landing.

DESIGNER.

Standard Trotting Stallion.

DESIGNER was sired by Director, record 2:17, half brother of Jay-Eye-See, 2:10, and Phallas, 2:13¾.

First dam May Queen by Abbottsford, record 2:19¾, sire of Conde, record 2:19¾.

Abbottsford by Woodford Mambrino, record 2:21¾, and half brother to Mambrino Dudley, 2:19¾, and Pancoast, 2:21¾, the sire of Patron, 2:19¾, as a three-year-old in a third heat; five-year-old record 2:14¾.

Woodford Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¾, and of the dam of Director, 2:17, dam, the dam of Wedgewood, 2:19 sire of Favonia 2:15.

May Queen was never trained. When two years old was driven over the road for three weeks, and trotted two miles in 6 minutes, a quarter in 7 seconds, her grand dam out of a livery stable trotted a mile in 2:35.

Second dam Pacific Maid by Elmo, full sister in blood to Overman, 2:19¾, she has had but four foals, only two of them was handled very little; one trotted as a three-year-old with scarcely any work, a mile in 2:35, the last half in 1:12½, a quarter in 35 seconds; the other trotted as a three-year-old a mile in 2:29¾, quarters from 35 to 38 seconds early in the spring, with seven weeks work; if her produce had been given proper training, they would have put her amongst the great brood mares.

DESIGNER is a rich bay horse, four years old, 15¾ hands high, well formed, evenly balanced and handsome, good disposition, has a perfect gait, and shows every indication of being very fast, both through his sire and dam, he inherits extreme speed, and cannot fail to make a great producer.

Will make the season of 1889 from March 15th to July 15th, at Jefferson Stock Farm, on Scott Lane, one mile from Santa Clara.

TERMS, $40 THE SEASON.

Due at the time of service, and must be paid before the mares are removed. Mares not proven with foal may be returned next season, if mares or horse have not changed hands.

Pasturage three dollars per month. All mares at owner's risk.

ALMONT PATCHEN.

Pacing Record 2.15.

Sire JUANITO, dam Gildey, by GLADIATOR, the sire of James H. 2:21, Boss 2:20½, and the pacer Damiana 2:26¼; second dam by HENRY BELMONT, third dam a Sir Archie mare. JUANITO is by Tilton Almont, record 2:36, dam Benicia by Signal (Singleterry's Rattler), sire of Marysville Queen, wagon record 2:25, and the pacers Prussian Maid 2:19, Carrie T. 2:20½, and Handy Andy 2:20½, second dam a mare bred of J. W. Moore of Marysville, Cal., in the Harper Stock Farm in Kentucky. Tilton Almont, 2:26, is the sire of Daisy S. 2:22½ and is by the gr. at Almont, dam by Clark Chief. Henry Belmont is a full brother to Venture 2:27¼, being by Williamson's Belmont, dam Miss Mostyn, by American Boy, Jr., second dam Fanny Mostyn by Grey Medoc.

To his excellent blood lines Almont Patchen adds performances which show him a worthy descendant of famous families. He is a large, well-formed, rangy and stylish horse, of great power and unsurpassed staying qualities, and cannot fail to get fast and useful horses. In 1886 he started in Chico and in Sacramento in two races, winning both, making in the last one a record of 2:23.

In 1888 ALMONT PATCHEN started in eight races, winning six, and coming in second in the other two. In his last race at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, he defeated Adonis and Belmont Boy, making a record of 2:15. A few days later, in private, he paced a mile in 2:13½, on same track.

Almont Patchen will make the season of '89 at the Race Track, San Jose, commencing February 1st and ending 1st May.

TERMS: $100 for the season, payable when mare is bred. Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. All mares taken at owner's risk. For further particulars address,

VINELAND BREEDING FARM.

Whippleton, 1883,

STANDARD UNDER RULE 4 & 6.

The most successful stock horse in California for his opportunities. WHIPPLETON has no equal as a producer of carriage and general purpose horses. Sire of Lily Stanley, record 2:17; dam's breeding unknown; Homestakes pacer, 2:16½, dam's breeding unknown; Flora B., 2:30, dam's breeding unknown; Cora C., three-year-old pacer, 2:23½, dam by Nanbee, Rachel, 2:38, dam's breeding unknown.

DESCRIPTION.

WHIPPLETON is a beautiful black, tan muzzle and flanks, and exceptionally strongly made all over. He stands 17 hands high and weighs 1100 pounds. He is beyond doubt the most natural breeder on the Coast for size, color and finish. Most of his colts are 16 hands or over, and all bay, brown or black in color. He has never sired a sorrel or white faced colt, if he does I agree to refund service money.

PEDIGREE.

WHIPPLETON, sired by Hambletonian Jr. (sire of Hancock 2:20, by Whipple's Hambletonian; dam Lady Lexington, dam of Lady Blanchard 2:24¼, Bloomfield Maid, trial 2:22; by General Taylor (sire of dam of Wells Fargo 2:18¾, Nearea 2:20¾, Bickford 2:20¾, Lady Blanchard 2:26¾) and Stella 2:30, son of the Morse horse.

The Electioneer Stallion LANCELOT,

SEAL BROWN STALLION, 15½ HANDS, FOALED APRIL 15, 1881.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco, Cal.

Sire Gov. Stanford's ELECTIONEER; first dam Lizzie Harris by Comus; second dam by Arnold Harris. Comus by Grey's Bashaw, dam Topsey by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk. Young Bashaw by Grand Bashaw (Arabian) (182), dam Pearl by First Consul (913); g d Fancy by imp. Rockingham. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam sportsmistress by American Eclipse.

All the sons of Electioneer in the Eastern States have their books filled for the season. This is a rare opportunity to breed to Lancelot at a very low price. Lancelot has shown quarters better than a 2:30 gait, and had it not been for an accident would have had a record as low as the fastest of the sons of Electioneer.

The Nutwood Stallion SALADIN.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco.

SALADIN, chestnut stallion, 16 hands 1 inch high; foaled April 9, 1880. By Nutwood; first dam Lady Utley Jr. by Speculation, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian; second dam Lady Utley. Grandam of Western Girl. Record 2:27½.

NUTWOOD (record 2:18¾), half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾, by Belmont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; first dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sally Russell by Boston; third dam Maria Russell by Thornton's Rattler; fourth dam Miss Shepard by Stockholder; fifth dam Miranda by Topgallant; sixth dam by imported Diomed; seventh dam by imported Medley; eighth dam by imported Juniper. Nutwood is the sire of Felix, 2:18½; Dawn 2:19½; Manon 2:21; Menlo 2:21¾; Nutbreaker, two years old, 2:29½; Nutwood Jr. 2:26; Mount Vernon 2:21; Woodnut 2:16¾, and several others that have trotted under 2:30.

The Thoroughbred Stallion Judge McKinstry,

Will make the Season of 1889, from

March 1 to July 1, at San Felipe

Rancho, near Gilroy.

PEDIGREE.

Foaled 1879, by Grinstead or Thad Stevens, dam Katy Pease; second dam Minnie Mansfield by imp. Glencoe; third dam Allegrante by imp. Young Truffle.

DESCRIPTION.

JUDGE McKINSTRY is a bright bay with black points, 15¾ hands in height, of a conformation combining power and speed. His breeding is one that cannot be excelled. The family lies on both sides being noted for their gameness and fleetness. Speakin of JUDGE McKINSTRY, Matt Storn, the well-known trainer, says: "He is the fastest race-horse I ever saw on the Sacramento track. He has shown me trials that were marvelous, one especially of a mile and a quarter that was ahead of the present record." He was started in several races when not in condition to run, and even then developed an amount of speed that is characteristic of the noted families from which he descends. His performances are too well known to need repetition here. Good judges of horses state positively that there can be no doubt of his sire, as he is a perfect picture of Grinstead, but rule compels us to name both sires.

TERMS: $75 payable when the mare is moved from ranch, or, $100, with the usual privilege. Good pasturage, $3 per month. Mares at owners risk. All communications must be addressed to

Prince Imperial.

DESCRIPTION.—PRINCE IMPERIAL is a black horse, 15-3 hands high; weighs 1 150 pounds, and is a model of beauty, action and power.

PEDIGREE.—Sired by Black Prince, he by Dictator, own brother to Dexter, dam Daisy by Witherell Messenger, he by Winthrop Messenger, son of imp. Messenger.

Mr. Peter Brandow's statement in regard to Prince Imperial: "I met A. Weske in the Park in 1887 driving the above horse, both strangers to me. I was driving a good horse, but the above horse, hitched to a phaeton, beat me easily. I followed him to find out what horse it was, and he finally allowed me to hitch him to a sulky, which I did, and drove him easily in 2:22½. I think him one amongst the best horses in California, and firmly believe that in six months I can drive him in 220."

PETER BRANDOW.
Trainer of trotters for 25 years.

In 1881, while visiting Salt Lake City, I saw the colt Prince Imperial, and bought him for my own use, and have used him for family purposes ever since. In offering him for public service last year, not knowing anything about horses' pedigrees I made a mistake in his. I wrote to the owner of the mare in Salt Lake, Dr. S. B. Young, and he says she was by Henry Clay, brought from Kentucky by him.

Will make the season of 1888 at the farm of A. Weske, 2½ miles from Santa Rosa on the Healdsburg road. Season commencing March 1st.

SIRE OF YOLO MAID, 2:14.

Alexander Button.

Alexander's Record, 2:31 1-4:

DESCRIPTION.

Alexander Button is a dark bay with fine flowing mane and tail; stands 15-3¾ hands high; weighs 1,200 pounds, and is of excellent disposition. When three years old he made a record of 2:28½, and when four years old, in his first race, he obtained a record of 2:26½. Has been driven a mile in 2:16 in his four-year-old form, and has been drive a last half in 1:0 . Alexander Button is a natural trotter, inherited through the speed-lines of his ancestors, and imparts his speed to his offspring with uniform certainty. Yolo Maid, as a three-year-old, paced 18 heats, never leaving her feet—carrying the world's record of 2:14. Rosie Mc, as a five-year-old, rarely ever breaks; has a record of 2:20¾. R. H. Newton's colt, with very little handling, paced a 2:16 gait, and there are several other colts that show gaits from 2:15 to 2:20. Considering that Alexander Button has never been mated with a standard-bred mare—his colts show him to be a wonderful producer—and with his breeding, and terms of service, he is the cheapest and most wonderful horse in the State.

PEDIGREE.

Alex. Button was sired by Alexander, he by Geo. M. Patchen, Jr., his dam Lady Button by Napa Rattler by Biggett's Rattler, he by Sir Henry, and he by imported Henry, dam of Biggett's Rattler by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam of Napa Rattler, thoroughbred.

TERMS: $75, payable at end of season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge. Good pasturage will be furnished at $2 per month, and due care taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability whatever assumed.

Will stand at City Stable, Woodland, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. The remainder of the time he will stand at my ranch, which is situated about 1½ miles west of Yolo station.

All mares sent to Fashion Stable, Woodland, Yolo County, will be forwarded free of charge.

LONGWORTH.

High Bred Trotting Stallion.

WILL BE FOUR YEARS OLD IN MARCH

Dark Bay, Black Points, by Sidney.

OWNED BY A. C. DIETZ, OAKLAND.

Also the owner of Bay Stallion Ringwood, four years old, by Sidney, half brother to Longworth, which has showed trials over the Oakland Track, 2:..0; quarters, in 34 seconds—2:16 gait —as a three-year old.

LONGWORTH, for finish, style and form cannot be excelled by any four-year-old horse in the State. His gait is perfect; going low to the ground, with smooth, easy motion, and has shown wonderful speed with but two month's work. As a two-year-old, he showed a 2:40 gait; as a three-year-old showed—trial: full mile over the Oakland track, 2:26; half mile, 1:10; quarters, 34 seconds; eighths, 16 seconds—a 2:08 gait.

Longworth is the result of a long line of distinguished ancestors, endowed with speed on the sire and dams' side that follows back for generations—consequently he cannot help but produce great speed.

He is half brother to the great three-year-old Adonis, record 2:14¼.

Gold Leaf, three-year-old record, 2:15.
Memo, three-year-old trial, 2:20¾.
Sister V., two-year-old trial, 2:32.
St. Nicholas, three-year-old trial, 2:27¼.
Ringwood, three-year-old trial, 2:30.
Miss Sidney, one-year-old trial, half mile, 1:38.
Brown colt, three-year-old trial, 2:40.
Black colt, three-year-old trial, 2:39.
Linda, one-year-old trial, one quarter, 40 seconds.
Sorrel colt, two-year-old trial, quarter, 34 seconds, and a number more that have shown remarkable speed. One yearling that has shown one-eighth of a mile in 16 1-5 seconds—a 2:10 gait.

Sidney, the sire of Longworth, has a record of 2:19¾; Santa Claus, the grand sire, has a record of 2:17½; Sweetness, the grandam, record 2:21½; Strathmore, the sire of Santa Claus, has twenty-two that have trotted below 2:30; Volunteer, the sire of Sweetness, has twenty-six that have trotted below 2:30. Volunteer is the sire of St. Julian, record 2:11¾.

Longworth's first dam Grey Dale, the dam of Daisy C., Silver Threads, and grandam of Phaeeola; Grey Dale by American Boy, Jr.; he by American Boy, the sire of Belmont. Second dam Grey Poll by Winfield Scott, by Edward Everett; third dam Sorrel Poll by Sir Henry; fourth dam Daughter of Printer.

Grey Dale, the dam of Longworth, has shown herself a great producer of speed through Daisy C. and Silver Threads, the sire of Phaeeola.

All letters pertaining to the service of this horse should be addressed to J. J. FAIRBANKS, Oakland Alameda County, Cal.

TERMS: Fifty dollars, payable at the end of the season or sooner if the mares are taken away. Season will close June 15th, 1889. The number of mares limited to twenty-five. The best of care will be taken to insure mares with foal. Pasture $5 per month, which can be procured at the Oakland Race Track. Mares at the owners' risk, as to escapes or accidents.

The stallion will be kept at the stables of the undersigned, at the junction of San Pablo Avenue and Park Street.

NOONDAY.

No Record, Foaled 1884.

Standard No. 10,000.

THIS CELEBRATED TROTTING-BRED STALLION will be limited to 40 mares the ensuing season at Oakland Trotting Park, Oakland, Cal., commencing February 1st and ending July 1st, at $100 the season, with the usual privilege of returning the mare next season if not proving in foal. The names of his patrons will be entered on his book in order of their application. He will be limited strictly to forty mares. Pasturage at five dollars per month, hay and grain extra.

NOONDAY, sired by Wedgewood (692), record, the fourth heat, 2:19, (sire of Favonia, record, fourth heat, 2:15, and Nugget, record 2:26, he the sire of Nettie Leaf, four-year-old record 2:23¼), and five others better than 2:26.

First dam Noontide, record 2:20½, by Harold (413), sire of Maud S., record 2:08¾, Mattie Graham, 2:21¾, and 17 others in 2:30.

Second dam Midnight (the dam of Jay-Eye-See, record 2:10), by Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Maud S., 2:08¾, Nutwood, 2:18¾.

Third dam by Lexington (sire of dam of Ansel, 2:20.)

Fourth dam by imp. Glencoe (sire of the grandam of Favonia, 2:15), sire of the sire of the dam of Arrow, 2:13½.

Wedgewood, by Belmont (64), sire of Nutwood, 2:18¾.

First dam (the dam of Woodford Mambrino, 7:21), by Woodford (thoroughbred son of Kosciusko), he by Sir Archy.

NOONDAY is well formed, evenly balanced and handsome; his color is dark seal brown, small star, right hindfoot white, 15 1¾ inches high, weight 975 lbs., strong back and good gaited, short and rapid, and will make a fast and game campaigner.

Breeders will please remember that this horse is not owned by me. I have only leased him for two years for the benefit of the State and breeders on account of the speedy lines and blood that this State is in need of, and no stallion now in public service can show a pedigree with such fast records as enrich the blood of NOONDAY.

I will also handle and train a few horses for gentlemen at fair terms. Address

THE WILKES STALLION

Mambrino Wilkes, 6083

(Half Brother to Harry Wilkes, 2:13 1-2.)

Sire of Gus Wilkes, 2:22; Alpheus, 2:27; Balkan 2:29½, three-year-old; John O'Brien, lapped out the winner in 2:36 as a three-year-old; H. A. W.'s Black Colt, trial 2:29 with very little work as a four-year-old.

Will remain in the future at San Miguel Stock Farm, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County.

DESCRIPTION.

MAMBRINO WILKES is a black horse, 16 hands high, and considerably longer than his height; has immense muscular development and weighs 1,250 pounds. He has the utmost symmetry of proportion and elegance of finish. No competent judge who has seen this horse has failed to pronounce him a perfect individual, and his breeding is certainly fashionable enough to satisfy the most fastidious. His colts are large, stylish and handsome, and Balkan has been pronounced by many the most stylish trotter on the turf.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by George Wilkes, dam Lady Chrisman by Todhunter's Mambrino; second dam by Pilot Jr.

Todhunter's Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, dam Ripton's dam by Hunt's Commodore, son of Mambrino, by imp. Messenger; second dam by Potomac, son of imp. Messenger.

George Wilkes sired 65 colts that have beaten 2:30. Of these 39 have average records of 2:24, 14 of 2:19 and 12 of 2:18.

TERMS.

Mares from a distance will be received at the Dexter Stables, Oakland, or Livery Stable, Martinez, the owner notifying Smith Hill, Superintendent at the farm. Good pasture and plenty of water. For the purpose of placing the service of a Wilkes within reach of breeders, the same rate will be maintained as last year, to wit, $75 for the season. Although it is not admitted thereby that this horse is inferior as a producer to the horses whose fees are placed at from $150 to $500.

BALKAN,

Three-year-old Record 2:29 1-2: trotting many heats faster, when he did not obtain a record.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Fanny Fern by Jack Hawkins, son of Boston; second dam S. F. B. by Jim Crow.

It will be readily seen that this colt is from strong producing lines on both sides. Fanny Fern having produced Mollie Drew, May Queen, Onyx and Fred Arnold, all noted trotters and all by different sires.

This colt will be kept at the Oakland Trotting Park, and will be stinted to ten approved mares at $100 for the season.

PEDIGREE.

JIM L was sired by Dan Voorhees (record 2:23½), dam Grace by Uncle Sam, out of Kit (or the Chloroform mare). Dan Voorhees was sired by General McClellen, by North Star, dam Black Swan (record 2:28½) by David Hill (858), by Vermont Black Hawk (5), dam by Liberty, son of Bishop's Hambletonian; dam a Morgan mare by Ethan Allen.

PERFORMANCES.

JIM L trotted three races in 1887, and closed a season with a record of 2:30¼. In 1888 he trotted five races and gained a record of 2:20½ at the Bay District Track, San Francisco, on October 24th, in the first heat of a race in which the other starters were Junio, Allo, Ha Ha and Argent.

He has shown quarters at a 2:15 gait; is a FAST AND RELIABLE TROTTER, and is possessed of a remarkable amount of "bottom." He has served two seasons in the stud, is a sure foal getter, and has a number of promising colts.

TERMS.

Forty dollars for the season, $25 for single service. Mares sent from a distance will be properly cared for at reasonable terms, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes. Good pasturage furnished at $2.50 per month.

THREE CHEERS

Will make the Season of 1889 at Oakland Race Track, Oakland, Alameda County.

Pedigree.

Sired by imported Hurrah, first dam Young Fashion by imported Monarch; second dam Fashion by imported Trustee; third dam Bonnets o' Blue by Sir Charles; fourth dam Reality by Sir Archy; fifth dam by imported Medley; sixth dam by imported Centinel, etc. (See Bruce's American Stud Book, Vol. 1, page 432.)

Hurrah by Newminster (winner St. Leger 1851), dam Jovial by Bay Middleton (winner Derby 1836.)

Newminster by Touchstone (winner St. Leger 1831), dam Beeswing (winner of 54 races out of 64 starts) by Dr. Syntax (winner Doncaster Cup 1827, 40, 41, 42, the only horse that ever accomplished that feat.)

THREE CHEERS is bred in the speediest and stoutest lines. His dam, Young Fashion was the dam of Surprise, Scotland (the only horse that ever beat Asteroid a heat), Liverpool, Columbia and Bonnie Kate, the dam of Little Buttercup and the flying Bonnie Lizzie. His grandam, Fashion, was the greatest race mare of her era, defeating Boston in that historical match at four-mile heats, that is recorded as one of the greatest events in the annals of the turf. He is thoroughly sound in wind and limb, his family on both sides being noted for their exemption from curbs, spavins, roaring, or any other hereditary unsoundness. Horsemen, who can appreciate the highest type of the thoroughbred, are specially invited to inspect Three Cheers.

THREE CHEERS is the sire of Almont, Applause and Why Not, the only three of his get ever trained, and all are stake winners.

TERMS: $75 for the season. Mares not proving with foal can be returned the next season free of charge. Good pasturage at $5 per month. Mares cared for in any manner owners may desire, and fed on hay and grain, either or both, at reasonable rates. None but competent grooms employed, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

N. B.—Mares sent from a distance in care of J. W. Morshead City Front Stables, San Francisco, will be forwarded without delay.

THE MAGNIFICENT TROTTING STALLION

Herodian, 3337,

Will make the Season of 1889 at SALINAS CITY for the very low price of $30.

PEDIGREE.

HERODIAN, b h, foaled 1882, by Belvidere, dam Hattie Sparks by Sweepstakes; 2d dam by Young Washington; 3d dam by American Star.

TERMS.

This incomparable stallion will serve approved mares at $30 each. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season, if I still own the horse. For further particulars address

JAMES DELANY.

Salinas City, Monterey Co., Cal.

Thoroughbred Stallion

Prince of Norfolk,

Will Make the Season of 1889, from Feb 15th to July 1st, at Sacramento.

PEDIGREE.

PRINCE OF NORFOLK, ch c, foaled 1881, by Norfolk; 1st dam Marion by Malcolm; 2nd dam Maggie Mitchell by imp. Yorkshire; third dam Charmer by imp. Glencoe; 4th dam Betsy Malone by Stockholder; 5th dam by Potomac; 6th dam by Imp. Diomed; 7th dam by Pegasus, etc. Norfolk, the unbeaten son of Lexington, is the sire of Winters, Twilight, Connor, Ballot Box, Trade Dollar, Flood, Duchess of Norfolk, Lou Spencer, the Great Emperor of Norfolk, an many others. Marion's sire, Malcolm, was one of the first horses to bring Bonnie Scotland into notice. Through the Maggie Mitchell cross comes the blood of two of the most celebrated race mares of their day, Charmer and Betsy Malone. The combined speed of these great families seem to be concentrated in the get of Norfolk and Marion, as is instanced in the case of the Emperor of Norfolk, who is a full brother to the Prince of Norfolk.

The blood lines here displayed cannot be surpassed in the world, there not being a single cross that has not been celebrated for speed and endurance, and it is fair to assume that the get of this stallion will show equally well with those of past generations.

TERMS, $50 for the season. We offer first class pasturage on our own ranch, at $4 per month and the best of care will be taken of mares sent to us but no responsibility can be incurred. For further particulars address

STALLIONS.

DIRECTOR 2:17.

DIRECTOR will stand at Pleasanton from March 1st to August 1st, 1889, for fifteen good mares more than are now booked, at $200 for the season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge of service to same stallion, or money will be refunded, at option of the Stock Farm Co.

Pasturage $4 per month, hay and grain extra. Accidents and escapes at owner's risk. Service fees due at time of service and must be paid, together with pasturage, etc., before mares are taken away, or a good approved note given, payable August 1st, 1889, at which date all bills must be settled

THISTLE,

Full brother to Gold Leaf, pacing record 2:15 at three years old. By Sidney, dam Fernleaf, she the dam of stallion Shamrock, trotting record at two years old, 2:25. Thistle is a large, speedy pacing colt, showing more speed than Gold Leaf at the same age, and double the speed of his sire; so if anyone wants to breed pacers, here is a chance.

Thistle will stand for seven approved mares at $100 for the season, with same conditions and return privileges as Director.

Thoroughbred Stallion

LEON.

Bay stallion, 16½ hands high foaled 1885 sired by Leinster, dam Ada A, dam of Patsy Duffy, Frank Rhodes, Lizzie P.,—dam of Idalene Cotton, and Lady Lenore—by Asteroid. The ones that saw his race at the Oakland Fair last fall can best judge as to his racing qualities. He ran the 1⅛ miles, carrying 118 lbs, in 2:10, and galloped under the wire. The last mile he ran in 1:43¼. If not sold by Feb. 1st will make a season in the stud at Sacramento. For further particulars address

MEMO.

The Fast Trotting Stallion, the Best Son of Sidney.

Will make the Season of 1889 at the Oakland Trotting Park.

He was bred by G. Valensin at the Arno Stock Farm, Sacramento County, California; foaled spring of 1885.

PEDIGREE.

By Sidney.
First dam Flirt by Buccaneer.
Second dam Mohaska Belle by Flaxtail.
Third dam by John the Baptist.

Sidney by Santa Claus, 2:17½, his dam Sweetness, 2:21¼. Strathmore, the son of Santa Claus, has 22 of his get which have trotted in 2:30 or better, up to close of 1887, several having entered since, and Volunteer the sire of Sweetness, has 26 in the same list. Buccaneer is the sire of Shamrock, two-year-old record 2:25, and of Flight, 2:29, and in him are combined the strains of Long Island Blackhawk, Vermont Blackhawk, and the dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Flaxtail figures prominently in both pacing and trotting descendants, and is the sire of the dam of Apex, 2:26, Flight, 2:29, J. H. McCormack, 2:29, and Shamrock, 2:25.

PERFORMANCES.

Memo only trotted in public in his two-year-old form, obtaining a record of 2:49, though he was close to Grandee in a race on the Bay District Track, the second heat of which was made in 2:3 ½, the first in 2:3[illegible]. He exhibited phenomenal speed when three years old, and had it not been for a slight strain of his fore fetlock there is little question that he would have shown in public very close to the best record. On the Oakland track he was timed a mile in 2:20¾, and frequently trotted quarters in from 32 s to 34 seconds.

DESCRIPTION.

He is nearly if not quite sixteen hands high, and of powerful build throughout. His color is a glossy black, with both fore-feet white and a touch of white on his off hind quarters. His disposition is all that could be desired, and his action superb.

TERMS: One hundred dollars the season, which will commence on the 5th of February and close on the 1st of July. Due care will be taken of mares, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes.

Mares taken and kept as desired by the owners, and at reasonable rates.

Pasturage at $5 per month within the track enclosure; feed first rate, and a living stream of water in the field. There is a double protection against escape, as in addition to a strong fence on the inside of the track, the gates of the outer fence are enclosed at night, which gives almost positive assurance of safety. ELECTIONEER STALLION

EROS,

Standard No. 5326.

Electioneer, his sire, has more 2:30 trotters than any living horse, and more 2:30 trotters than any stallion LIVING OR DEAD.

Eros has a record of 2:29½, made in the fifth and deciding heat against a field of eight horses in his maiden race, and with only four weeks preparation after coming out of the stud.

Dam Sontag Mohawk, dam of Sallie Benton (four-year-old record 2:17¾). Sontag Mohawk by Mohawk Chief, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

Progeny.

Eros had last fall but three colts trained; the oldest a three-year-old trotter, an exhibition mile during the San José Fair in 2:34, last quarter in 36½ seconds. A two-year-old (timed by the judges) made a mile in 2:16½, and the other two-year-old in 2:47. All of these trials being made without a single skip, and none of these colts had then been handled three months from the bitting harness.

TERMS: $50 for the season, from February 1st to July 1, 1889. Due at time of service.

Pasturage, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes. Apply to

WILKES PASHA.

STANDARD 2618.

Dark bay with white hind feet, 16½ hands high, bred by R. P. Pepper, of South Elk Horn Farm, Frankfort, Kentucky. Sired by Onward, 1411, record 2:25¼, trial 2:17. He by George Wilkes, 2:22, sire of sixty-five horses in the 2:30 list, ten of them with records below 2:20. First dam Fisher (dam of Clara Wilkes, 2:20¾, trial 2:25) by American Clay, 34, sire of Granville, 2:28; Maggie Briggs, 2:27; Ella Clay, 2:27¾, and the dams of Executor, 2:24½, Ruichero, 2:23¾; Judge Hawser, 2:24¼; Ambassador, 2:2[illegible], and nine others in 2:30; second dam by Wilson's Snow Storm, sire of Jim Irving, 2:22; third dam by Paddle Burns, thoroughbred.

Onward, 1411, is one of the noted sires of to-day. In 1887 he placed seven performers in the 2:30 list, including Hourl three-year-old record 2:19¾; while in 1888 he still further sustains his reputation by add ng nine of his sons and daughters to the list. Onward combines the blood of the two great trotting families, Hambletonian 10 and Mambrino Chief 11, and derives his speed inheritance direct through the greatest son of the one family, and the greatest daughter of the other.

Onward's dam was Dolly (the dam of Director, 2:17, and Thorndale, 2:22¾), by Mambrino Chief. Dolly was one of the greatest speed-producing brood mares that ever lived. George Wilkes stands at the head of the list of sires of fast trotters with 65 performers with record of 2:30 or better, and the combination of these two great producers will breed on with absolute certainty.

WILKES PASHA will make the season of 1889 at the stables of the undersigned, at the Trancas Bridge, two miles north of Napa, on the Soda Spring Road.

TERMS,

For the season ending July 1, 1889, $35 in U. S. gold coin.

Alfalfa pasturage $4 per month; natural grass $2.50 per month.

Every attention and care will be given to mares, but no liabilities assumed for accidents or escapes.

Weights will be declared August 15th and acceptance September 1st, when the other $50 is to be paid. To be run at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entrance money amounts to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the association will add 20 per cent of amount of purse; 3 moneys, 70, 20, 10 per cent of purse. Horses winning any purse or stake of one mile or more at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $800 or over, shall carry 10 pounds extra. Horses winning a purse or stake of one mile or over at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $500 or over, to carry 5 pounds extra.

Weights to be declared through BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, August 15, 1889. Entries close May 1st with the Secretary.

American Association Rules to govern.

REMARKS.

As to the Handicap Running, 1¼ mile dash, the Handicapping Committee will use due diligence in learning the performance of every horse entered, and weighting them fairly to their merits. Each entry must be accompanied by entrance money or be considered no entry. All payments not made when due the nominator forfeits all money paid in. We propose at the finish of the race the horse winning the purse, or any part of it, gets his money and not forfeit papers.

GUARANTEE PURSE.

For horses that never beat 2:30. Trotting Purse $1,000, $100 entrance, $25 May 1st, $25 July 1st, $50 August 15th, when horses are to be named. To be trotted at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. Horses eligible at closing of entries, May 1st.

American Association rules to govern.

REMARKS.

This 2:30 class Guarantee Purse gives the party making the entry the privilege of naming any horse he sees fit the 15th day of August, having no better record than 2:30 the first day of May, irrespective of the record he gets after that date. You will see by this the nominator has almost a sure thing of getting his money back. Any nominator failing to make payments when due, forfeits all money paid in, and money must accompany entry or it will be considered no entry.

Our grounds are the finest appointed in the State being about 2½ miles from the city; horse car line running direct to the grounds.

We also have the best of box stalls for 100 horses. Hay and straw furnished to all horses entered in races free of charge. Grain can be procured on the grounds at reasonable rates.

CONDITIONS.

All trotting and pacing races, best 3 in 5, to harness, unless otherwise specified. Entrance, ten per cent on amount of purse, to accompany nomination. Any horse distancing the field will only be entitled to first money.

American Association Rules to govern all trotting, pacing, and running races, but the Board reserves the right to trot heats of any two classes alternately, or to trot a special race between heats; also, to change the day or hour of any race if deemed necessary.

A horse making a walk-over shall be entitled to only one-half of entrance money paid in. When less than required number of starters appear, they may contest for entrance money paid in, to be divided as follows: 66⅔ to first, 33⅓ to second.

In all entries not declared out by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race shall be required to start.

When there is more than one entry by one person, or in one interest, the particular horse they are to start must be named by 6 P. M. of the day preceding the race.

If, in the opinion of the judges, any race cannot be finished on the closing day of the meeting, it may be continued or declared off, at the option of the judges.

Non-starters in running races will be held for entrance under Rule 36.

Racing colors to be named on entries.

In trotting races the drivers shall be required to wear caps of distinct colors, which must be named in their entries.

These two last rules will be strictly enforced.

All races to be called at 2 P. M. sharp

Entries to all the above races to close with the Secretary at 11 P. M., Saturday, April 6, 1889.

Frank Morgan.

DESCRIPTION.

FRANK MORGAN was brought to California by Mr. S. E. Larabee of Montana. He is undoubtedly one of the handsomest stallions in the country, is a dark chestnut, about 16 hands in height, of free, easy carriage, well gaited, perfectly developed and superb in general appearance. In disposition he is all that could be desired. He has been named Frank Morgan in honor of the family from which he descends.

PEDIGREE.

FRANK MORGAN was sired by an unnamed son of Morgan General, Jr., by Morgan General, by Billy Root, by Sherman, by Justin Morgan. Dam by Romeo, by Green Mountain Morgan 2nd, by Gifford's Morgan, by Woodbury Morgan, by Justin.

FRANK MORGAN will make the season of 1889 at the Oakland Race Track, serving a limited number of mares. He is a sure and reliable foal getter, and the uniform beauty and style of his colts have shown him to be a producer of the finest class of road and carriage horses that have ever been seen in this country.

TERMS.—$40 FOR THE SEASON.

Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. The best care will be taken of all mares, but no risks for accidents or escapes. For further particulars, address

A sweepstakes for trotting colts and fillies, foals of 1888, $175 each, $25 payable on the 2d of April, 1889, which must accompany the nomination, and none will be recorded in which there is a failure to comply with this requirement, at which time the stakes will close; $25 on the 1st of January 1890; $25 on the 1st of January 1891, and $100 thirty days before the day fixed for trotting, whatever amount up to be considered forfeit, and the neglect to pay at the stipulated time incurring forfeiture of the previous payments. The race to be heats of a mile, best 3 in 5 to harness. First to receive six-ninths of the whole sum, the second two-ninths, the third one-ninth. In addition to the stakes and forfeits the proportion of the gate money, profit on pool sales, and all other sources of emolument will constitute the gross amount, to be divided in the foregoing proportions. Five or more subscribers to fill. The race to be trotted in 1891, not sooner than the 1st of August. The exact date to be fixed and announced on the 1st of April, 1891, or sooner.

The stakes for 1892 will close January 2, 1890. $25 entrance.

Race to be governed by the Rules of the National Trotting Association. Nominations to be made to N. T. SMITH, Treasurer, S. P. Railroad Office, Fourth and Townsend Streets, on or before the 2d day of April, 1889. The colt must be named, the name and pedigree, so far as known, given.

Should a Pacific Coast Trotting-Horse Breeder's Association be gotten up, the above stake may be transferred to that, the Treasurer, N. T. Smith, having the power to make the transfer, and also to arrange anything else, in connection with this stake which is not expressed in the above conditions. Should it occur that Captain Smith cannot act at any time, then a majority of the subscribers still eligible to start will have the power to fill the vacancy.

Under the new trotting rules letters legibly postmarked April 1st will be eligible.

N. T. SMITH, Treasurer.

GROVER CLAY,

Bay Stallion, bred by Hon. W. W. Traylor, San Francisco. Foaled 1883. By ELECTIONEER.

First dam MAGGIE NORFOLK by NORFOLK, son of Lexington.

Second dam by BILLY CHEATHAM.

Third dam by DORSEY'S GOLDDUST.

GROVER C is a very handsome shade of bay, 15¾ hands high, and showing as much quality as a majority of thoroughbreds. He is as square-gaited a trotter as can be, and has shown a great deal of speed for the amount of handling. Has been worked very little, though he can show a thirty gait or better whenever called upon.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars the season, payable at time of service. Proper care will be taken, but no responsibility incurred for accidents or escapes. Mares will be pastured inside of the Oakland Trotting Park, which is especially safe, having two fences which give ample security against escape. There is a never-failing stream of water which runs through the field, and the food is good.

Season commencing first of January and ending the first of July.

This is the only son of Electioneer standing in Alameda County, and the high breeding on the side of his dam is a guarantee that his colts will inherit qualities already made famous through the mixture of Electioneer and Lexington blood. Ansel, 2:20, is from a Lexington mare, and Sumol's granddam, two-year old record 2:18, was by Lexington, both Sumol and Ansel by Electioneer, Lexington the sire of Norfolk.

The Gillespie mare, by the celebrated Wilson's Pine Bull, who has probably more of his get in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived.

Arlington has as yet no record, but has shown very fast trials. He will be limited to twenty-five mares only, as he will be trained for a record immediately on the conclusion of the season.

TERMS, $50 the season, with usual return privileges. The best of attention will be given mares, but no liability assumed for escapes or accidents. Call on or address

OSSIDINE

Results obtained at the well-known Kalamazoo Farm.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 15, 1888.

GENTLEMEN:—We have used Ossidine for the past two years and consider it invaluable for Sprung Tendons, Curbs, Ringbone and Spavins; there is nothing equals it; and for us it effected a permanent cure where firing failed, although performed by one of the most successful veterinarians on the continent. We have recommended it to others with like success, and believe it has more merit than any blister ever used.

Very respectfully yours, S. A. BROWNE & Co., Prop's.

This scientific preparation is an absolute cure for all bony or callous lumps on horses, and is a more powerful absorbent than "firing," without creating the slightest blemish. After a few applications the excrescence is so palpably reduced that even the skeptical frankly acknowledge that it is by far the most valuable outward remedy for horses ever invented.

The ONLY preparation in the world that will remove a Bone Spavin after it has become ossified.

Price $3.00 per Large Bottle,

Owner of Eole, St Saviour, Eolist, etc, says; I have long used it in my stables, and find it to be all that is claimed for it in removing callous and unnatural bony growths, without leaving the slightest blemish. From my experience, I most strongly recommend the use of Ossidine, and feel that it is a necessary adjunct to every stable. Yours respectfully,

NUT GROVE.

By GROSVENOR, he by ADMINISTRATOR, he by RYSDYK'S HAMILTONIAN.

First dam Lady Nutwood by Nutwood 600; second dam Lady Mac, standard, by American Boy; third dam a thoroughbred mare imported from Australia.

NUTGROVE is a beautiful bay, 15½ hands, and is one of the finest appearing young horses in the State. He took the first prize for best two-year-old standard-bred horses at Oakland in 1888, also first prize at the State fairs in the same class. He has been worked for speed but a little, but showed quarters in 34 to 40 seconds. His dam took first prize for standard mare at the Oakland Fair, and also took first prize at the State Fair, 1888, for best mare of any age or breed. For further particulars apply to

OF A TROT.

A Trott is the Foundation of a Gallop: The Reason is, A Trott being Cross, and a Gallop both Leggs of a Side; When you Trott him Fast, beyond the Power of a Trott, it forces him when his Inward Fore-Legg is Up, to set Down his Outward Hinder-Legg so suddenly, as to make his Inward Hinder-Legg to Follow his Inward Fore-Legg, which is a True Gallop. And thus a Trott is the Foundation of a Gallop.

A Gallop is the Foundation of Terra a Terra, for the Actions of the Horses Leggs are all one; Leading with the Fore-Legg within the Turn; and Following that Legg with his Hinder-Legg within the Turn; only you Stay him a little more on the Hand in Terra a Terra, that he may go in Time.

An Amble, being a Shuffling Action, I would have Banish't the Mannage; for the Horse Removes both his Leggs of a Side, and Changes sides every Remove; which is so Contrary to the Mannage, as can be: But if you make him to Gallop, whereas upon a Trott, you Trott him Fast to take his Gallop, you must upon the Amble Stay him upon the Hand to take his Gallop.

A True DESCRIPTION Of all the NATURAL & ARTIFICIAL MOTIONS. A Horse can Make.

First, for Terra a Terra, the Horse alwayes Leads with the Leggs within the Turn, like a Gallop; his two Fore-Leggs up, and as they are Falling, his two Hinder-Leggs Follow; and at that time, all his Four Leggs are in the Ayre; so that it is a Leap forward; the same upon Demy-Vaults; for it is all but the Action of Terra a Terra. Now when the Horse's Croup is In, whether upon a little Gallop, or Terra a Terra, here his Hinder-Leggs are alwayes Short of his Fore-Leggs, because his Croup is In; but if it be Le petit Gallop, his Action is still 1, 2, 3, & 4; because it is a Gallop. But in Terra a Terra, the Action is but two a 1 & 2 pa: ta: like a Corvet, but only prest Forward: A Corvet is a Leap Upward, and Higher; and Terra a Terra a Leap Forward, and Lower; and his Inward Leggs that Lead more before his Outward Leggs, being another Action than a Corvet.

Secondly, Corvets, a Demy-Ayre, a Groupado, a Balatado, or a Capriol, are all but a Leap Upward; for all his Four Leggs are in the Ayre, as his Fore-parts are Falling. And there are no more ARTIFICIAL MOTIONS than These two; Terra a Terra and these Ayres last-mentioned.

The Ordering of the CAVEZONE MY WAY, And the Operation and Use of it.

Take one of the Reins, which must be Long, and a little Ring at one End, and put the other End into that Ring, and so put it about the Pommel, and then put the rest Down by the Fore-Bolster of the Saddle under your Thigh; and the rest of the Rein put through the Ring on the same Side of the Cavezone, and so bring it Back again, either to be in your Hand, or Tie it to the Pommel Straight; and do the same with the other Rein in All things, as I told you with This.

The Cavezone is to Stay, to Raise, and to make the Horse Leight; to Teach him to Turn, to Stop, to Firm his Neck, to Assure and Adjust his Head, and his Croup, without Offending his Mouth, or the place of the Curb; and also to Supple and Help his Shoulders, and his Leggs and Feet Before.

Therefore I would Use it to all Horses whatsoever; for they will go much better with the Bitt alone, having their Mouth preserved, and made so Sensible, as they will be Attentive to all the Motions of the Hand: So that there is nothing for the Exercise of the Mannage like it, with a Canon A la Pignatel, the Branches A la Conestable, and the Cavezone together: But then the Cavezone must be My Way, as I Told you; and that doth so Supple them, and is so Right, as it makes all Horses whatsoever, if you Work them upon their Trott, Gallop. Stopping, and Going Back, with Passeger, and Raising them as you Ought, and according to the Rules of Art: For this makes them Subject to the Sense of Feeling, which is the Sence we ought to Work on; to Feel the Hand, and to Feel the Heels, which is All; and not to the Sense of the Sight, which is the Routin of the Pillars, or the Sense of Noise, which is the Routin of Hearing, but only the Sense of Feeling, and only of those two Places, which is the Mouth and the Sides. Seeing is all the Art when they Teach Horses Tricks, and Gambals, like Bankes's Horse; and though the Ignorant Admire them, yet those Persons shall never Teach a Horse to Go Well in the Mannage. There are many Things in the Sense of Feeling, which are to be Done with so great Art, Witt, and Judgement, and require so great Experience of the several Dispositions of Horses, that it is not every Man's Case to be an Horse-man, as it is to make a Dogg or a Horse Dance: But I am Contented to let the Ignorant Talk, and Think what they will, for I am not Concerned with their Folly.

The Cavezon's inward Rein tyed short to the Pommel My Way, is Excellent to give a Horse an Apuy, and Settle him upon the Hand, and make him Firm, and his Head Steady: So it is Excellent for a Horse that is too Hard on the Hand; for the Cavezon's Rein being alwayes within the Turn tyed very Straight to the Pommel, keeps him from Resting too much on the Bitt, which makes him Leight, and Firm on the Hand. The Inward Cavezone's Rein tied short to the Pommel, is Excellent also to Supple a Horse's Shoulders, which is the Best thing that can be; for it gives Apuy where there is none, and where there is too much Apuy, it takes it away, and Supples his Shoulders extreamly, which is an Excellent thing; it also makes a Horse Gallop very Right, with his Leggs, as also his Leggs very Right for Terra a Terra; for it Lengthens his Leggs within the Turn, and Shortens his Leggs without the Turn, which is Right as it should be. So it is Good for Working his Shoulders in all Kindes, and his Croup last, Legg and Rein of a Side, as also to Work Legg and Rein Contrary, in all Kinds of several Lessons. And this is the Rarety of Tying the inward Cavezone's Rein short to the Pommel.

The Cavezone (My Way) works Powerfully upon the Nose, and so hath the greater Pull to give the Horse the greater Ply and Bent, being the part the Farthest off from your Hand. And this Ply, or Bent, is from his Nose to his Withers, which is to Bend his Neck, and Works too on the Shoulders, this is to Bent into the Turn; it Pulls his Head down too, and makes him Look into the Turn; his Head being pulled Down when he is Prest, puts him more upon the Hanches. This is done with the Inward Rein of the Cavezone pulled Hard, and Straight, and so tied to the Pommel, which keeps it at a Stay, and is Stronger than ones hand, and hath the same Operation as I told you Before; but when it is Tied to the Pommel, it still keeps the right Bent of the Horse, and then I Work upon the Bitt, either with the Reins Separated with Both my Hands, or else in my Left Hand only when he is thus Bent: When I would Passeger him, his Croup in, Large or Narrow, then I Help with the Outward Rein of the Bridle; because it is upon the Action of a Trott, and that is Cross; and therefore must have his Leggs Free without the Turn, to Lap over his Inward Leggs; and when he is thus Tied with the Inward Cavezone's Rein, if I would have him to go Le petit Gallop, his Croup In, or Terra a Terra, then I Help with the Inward Rein of the Bridle, my Hand on the Outside of his Neck, and my Knuckles towards his Neck, to put him on the Outside of the Turn: but Le petit Gallop sometimes on the Inside, because it is a Gallop, as the Outward Rein puts him on the Inside of the Turn; all this is with his Croup in. If to Trott or Gallop D'une piste, Large or Narrow Circles, the Inward Cavezone's Rein still Tyed to the Pommel, then I Help with the Inward Rein, and inward Legg, or Outward Rein to Narrow him Before: If the Piroite, with the outward Rein; if Demy-Voltoes upon Passadoes, the Outward Rein; For all Leaps, the Outward Rein; for Corvets and Demy-Ayres, the Outward Rein; for Corvets Backward, the outward Rein; for Corvets Forward, the outward Rein; for Terra a Terra, in his Length, the inward Rein; And so Passadoes, the inward Rein. So, Stopping, and Going Back, the inward Rein. All these with the Inward Rein of the Cavezone Tyed straight to the Pommel, which is the Best thing in the World, and then Help with the several Reins of the Bridle, as Occasion offers you, and as I have Told you for all these several things. So that the Inward Cavezon's Rein Tyed to the Pommel, or else in your Hand, is, For All things whatsoever; Croup, In or Out; Trott, Gallop, Passager; all Ayres, Stopping, Going Back, Passadoes; or anything in the World that is in the Mannage: For without it no Horse can be Perfectly Drest, in any Kind, to have the Ply of his Neck, and to Supple his Shoulders, to Look into the Turn, to have his Leggs go Right, as they Ought to do in all Actions; his Body rightly Bent, to be part of the Circle he goes in, and Bent that Way. So it is All in All for every Thing, every Ayre, and every Action the Horse can make.

The Cavezone being upon the Nose, preserves the Horse's Mouth, and Barrs, and place of the Curb; and it is so Effectual, as it will Dress a Horse without the Bitt, which the Bitt shall never Do without the Cavezone; for the Barrs and the Curb are too Tender: Besides, the Reins of the Bitt can never give him the Ply, nor Bend him Enough, nor Supple his Shoulders, because it is so Near you, and Works upon the Barrs and the Curb; which cannot Bend him possibly so, as that upon his Nose, because the Branches of the Bitt are so Slow, and the Barrs and the Curb so Low, that there is not Room enough to Pull as with a Cavezone, that is so much Higher; and hath so much Room to Pull, and pulls and Plyes him, all from his Nose to his Shoulders, when the other can do little more than Pull his Musle, and his Head, and goes no further: The Cavezone's Rein within is for every Thing, the Bitt otherwise.

To Supple his Shoulders, you must Help with the Outward Rein, and to Stay his Outward Shoulder with the Inward Rein; which hath not near the Force the Cavezone's Rein hath for every Thing: Therefore Use it in All things, and with all Horses, Colts, Half-Diest Horses, Ready Horses, Young, Middle-Age, Old, and every Horse, and all Horses; for there is no Dressing Horses without it, and with it you will Dress all Horses whatsoever, and of what Disposition soever; Weak, Middle-Strength, or Strong, and Reduce all Vices with it; and when you Use the Bitt, they will go much the Better, for having been wrought Continually with the Cavezone.

Observations about the Cavezone, about the Ply, or Bending the Horse's Shoulders into the Turn. And in What Place the Cheeks of the Bitt then Are, or Where they Rest.

When the Inward Rein of the Cavezone is Tyed hard to the Pommel, and you Pull the Inward Rein of the Bridle, his Neck Bends so much into the Turn, whether upon Large Circles, his Croup Out, or his Croup In, as then Cheek of the Bitt, that is next the Turn, is Beyond the Inside of his Neck or Shoulder, and the Outward Cheek, removed according to the distance of the Cheeks, which is much more than the midst of his Neck: and this Ply Supples his Neck and Shoulders Extreamly, makes him Look into the Turn; Head, Body, Leggs, and all going most Justly, as they Ought to Do, whether his Croup In, or Out. And this is the Quintessence of the Mannage; and without this no Horse can be Drest Perfectly, or can Go Justly in any Kind, either upon the

J. D. Forbes.

I have the stallion Silver King in the stud, and his mane is coming out. After his exercises he breaks out in blotches, from the size of a pea up to the size of a walnut, mostly about the head, neck and thighs. Will you please give me advice what to do?

Answer.—I would advise the following treatment: Prepare well with soft bran mashes; then give 1½ pints of raw linseed oil; then give the following powders once a day.

Sublimed sulphur	1 ounce.
Nitrate of potash	1 ounce.
Powdered Gentian Root	½ ounce.
Aniseed	½ ounce.

Mix and make eight powders. Sig. Give one powder daily in soft food.

If no good results are obtained, call in a competent veterinary surgeon.

Broken Wind or Heaves in Horses.

[By Dr. J. P. Kleuch, Veterinary Surgeon, Santa Rosa.]

Some time last October, there appeared in a public paper an article, written by Dr. Buzard about the causes of lung diseases in draught horses, which, in my opinion, tends to give the farmer such erroneous ideas concerning the nature and the causes of these complaints, that I resolved to correct his remarks. Dr. Buzard will, I have no doubt, accord me this privilege, as his printed writings are public property and, as such are subject to criticism. As the article is presumed to be written for the benefit of the Agricultural class, I will say that the greatest majority of the farmers in California never owned a broken-winded horse; that, very exceptionally, we meet a horse affected with the heaves, and whenever such is the case, we will find it in the hands of a Gypsy, a Chinaman, a poor peddler or gardner. Moreover, all persons who have been dealing in horses for fifteen or twenty years, firmly deny the existence of heaves in this State.

Dr. Buzard writes, "some authors consider the affection to be of the nature of asthma, and trace it to the derangement of the stomach, which influences the pneumo-gastric nerve, and through it the functions of the lungs, to which organs the nerve distributes some of its branches. Whether this view is correct or not, there can be no doubt that stomach disease is closely concerned with the difficulty of breathing, and certain kinds of food are known to have a tendency to cause broken wind. The injurious effects of turning horses out to grass (particularly when no grain is allowed them) most horsemen are well aware of, a method of treatment which often causes considerable injury to respiratory organs."

Some kinds of food have been accused, many years ago, of producing the heaves, like timothy hay, red clover and other leguminosae; but I never could find any evident proofs of the same; in fact, the rumor is as old and false as the one which credits assafœtida with being a sure preventive against glanders and farcy.

The authors cannot and never will agree upon the influence of the pneumo-gastric nerve in the causation of the heaves. This nerve is getting too much credit for its actions on the diseases of stomach and lungs; this point might be considered in a strictly theoretic argument; but practical experience will always pronounce against it. The heaves and broken wind are an emphysema of the lungs as a sequel to chronic pneumonia; both indicate directly a great modification in the structure or tissue of the lungs entirely independent of any nervous influence. This nervous action might be admitted in the asthma which is indicated by different symptoms externally. There is only a superficial similarity of symptoms in heaves and asthma which often causes one to be mistaken for the other. It is very true, that asthma can be found in horses with "advanced heaves," but not necessarily, for a good many horses have the heaves without the asthma. Heaves constitute a blemish for life, while asthma can be modified by therapeutic means.

Who ever heard of horses being injured in the lungs while in pasture? Dr. Buzard is certainly not much acquainted with the ways of the California farmers; for all farmers, in this State, turn their horses out the very day after they have finished sowing grain in the winter; and on the first of June, when they take those horses home again to feed them on grain for work in the harvest, they find that every horse and mule, old and young, has improved in wind, in legs, in general condition, in every part of the body; they all return from pasture, healthier, better and more valuable animals than before. No livery keeper ever thought, when sending his old, stiffened, half crippled horse to pasture, that he would get a broken winded animal home again. All family horses, physicians steeds and even the precious nags of the horse doctors are renovated all over the body by a good run at grass without having any grain. I knew a man in Iowa, who bought in Dubuque several carloads of broken winded horses for from twenty-five to forty dollars, shipped them to Western Iowa to break wild prairies, feeding his horses all the summer on grass; and at the end of the season his land was broken, his horses had improved in wind and were sold to neighbors for $100 each. Whoever heard of a Texas pony having broken wind? He is the worst used horse in America; he travels every day many miles without any grain, eats only grass and many days very little of that. He might be so poor that he hardly has the power to carry his man, be he a State ranger, a cowboy, or a Mexican Vaquero; he has very thin muscles, but very good lungs and a sound heart.

But Dr. Buzard in explaining how this effect is produced, says, "that the total change of food from a highly concentrated form of nutriment to a succulent provender, would cause indigestion and induce irritation of the lining membrane of the stomach, leading to diseases of the lungs from the continuity of the nerve supply."

I must say that it is just the reverse that would find application to his theory; for a horse when coming from pasture, must be fed grain gradually and carefully; if too richly fed of a sudden, he would be subject to indigestion, with all its various complications, and even skin disorders, but never, no never, a disease of the lungs. A succulent provender, like green grass, is easy to digest, and allays any possible irritation of the secreting glands of the lining membrane throughout the whole alimentary canal whose function has been overtaxed in digesting grain for a long time. A soothing juice is lubricating the whole intestinal surface and brings into the blood a refreshing, cooling element; its easy digestibility, (not indigestibility or irritancy) is so well understood by every man and child that they never fail to give a sick animal a handful of green grass, and the poor creature will gratefully stretch out his lips to grasp it, while he would refuse, a highly concentrated form of nutriment, because it is irritating and difficult to digest.

What are the possible causes of irritation of the lining membrane in the stomach? The introduction of purgatives, caustics, freezing or burning agents, or overloading of the stomach with too rich or indigestible food, might produce a more or less serious disease of that organ, complicated even with brain fever or founder. The animal might die but the lungs will be free from any affection directly connected with the complaint in the stomach.

I cannot conceive how the influence of the pneumo-gastric nerve can affect the lungs when the stomach is diseased. This nerve has a centrifugal action; it carries the sensations from the brain to the heart, lungs, stomach and even the bowels. The sensations in the stomach are received by the great sympathic nerve, and only partly by the pneumo-gastric nerve through its mixed fibres, and are transmitted to the solar plexus, thence to the spinal marrow which reacts immediately in a reflex manner. We can notice that in all cases of colic without exception. If the pneumo-gastric nerve were the only conductor of these sensations, it would at the same time influence the action of the heart, or produce roaring, or cause obstruction in the bronchial tubes and stagnation in the lungs. Practical experience does not mention a single case of indigestion manifested by scouring or constipation, or meteorization, where the lungs were simultaneously injured. It is, therefore, impossible to admit that a light irritation of the stomach or rather a gastric disorder, (embarras gastrique) would seriously affect the lungs, when they are proved to remain uninjured in such cases, where the stomach disease is of a grave character.

Dr. Buzard again says, "or it may be suggested that the total change of habit, the sudden cessation of exercise and the consumption of a watery diet, would be attended with general debility of the system and relaxation of the muscular tissues, both of the internal and external parts of the respiratory system. A debilitated state of the muscular and elastic tissues of the air tubes would be followed by overdistention, and the relaxed state would then become permanent."

It is well known to every horseman that horses are soft when leaving the pasture, but that does not constitute debility. I have never seen a poor horse in rich pasture unless he was diseased; green feed does not constitute a watery diet. But suppose that exercise in a rich green pasture would cause general debility, we would find different effects from those given by Dr. Buzard; a watery, debilitating diet would produce anasarca and dropsy in all its forms, which would cause death, while the respiratory organs would be in perfect order relatively. The irrationality of this theory of the watery diet causing a disease of the lungs, can best be refuted by practical observation. How could sick animals live and recuperate after a long debilitating affection, taking nothing but water, and consuming their own fat? Human pathology teaches us that man can live on water for four, five or six weeks, and the lungs remain sound. The great faster Tanner consumed only water for 44 days, and his lungs have been very good ever since. These remarks apply equally to the horse.

Again Dr. Buzard says: "That horses which are employed in draught work are more exposed to injury from the consumption of coarse and innutritious food, and as a natural consequence, broken wind is more common among them than among animals which are more carefully tended in the stable and supplied with food of the best quality. To get an idea of the extent to which broken wind or heaves is prevalent among draught horses, it is only necessary to devote a short time to the examination of a number of working horses used for agricultural purposes."

The causes of the heaves and the effects of coarse food are rather badly mixed up in these remarks. If we consider straw as coarse and innutritious food, the whole argument loses its value; for on the sandy land in Stanislaus county many farmers have no hay and feed straw all the time, still not one broken-winded horse is found in the whole county. We all know that in the Western States the farmers turn out during the winter their horses and mules around a straw stack, and in all certainty would not do so if that straw would cause the heaves. There is not one broken-winded mule on the American continent, although this most abused of all animals is fed the coarsest food that can be found. Still the pneumo-gastric nerve has the same influence as in the horse.

Without pretending that some horses, or some breeds of horses were more subject to become broken-winded than others, I will nevertheless state that I generally observed that defect amongst common lymphatic horses, with broad, round ribs and large bellies, especially when they attained the age of nine and ten years and over. Such horses and old mares in foal, are liable to get the heaves in the cold winter countries, when they are kept in the stable for five or six months, having no exercise and are tied up to a manger always full of hay, whether clean or dusty.

Old chronic lung diseases must always be suspected to exist in horses affected with broken wind. The heaves can exist without the chronic lung disease, but all chronic lung diseases have necessarily the symptoms of the heaves, that is the jump in the flank. They are two different diseases, although they have this symptom in common; for on post mortem examination the chronic pneumonia shows evident pathological lesions—an organized pulmonary tissue, while in the heaves we find only a structural defect—emphysema. Cases of old pneumonia can be found only in those countries where the winter is cold and severe, because the inflammation of the lungs often terminates in hepatization and later into induration, which causes a broken wind forever. But here in California I have never found a single case of old chronic pneumonia or broken wind, for the reason that in this climate pneumonia, if not checked on the start, generally ends in gangrene. There are, in my opinion, very few instances where the pneumonia assumes a clear, distinct, inflammatory character.

Chronic bronchitis, with hypersecretion of mucus, whether due to inhaling of dust or a change of temperature, will often cause short wind and even the regular heaves.

Various tricks are often resorted to in order to hide the symptoms from an innocent purchaser, such as bleeding and the opening of the bowels; then arsenic and nox vomica, cordials and tonic stimulants, tending to improve the action of the digestive organs. Clear, rich feed in small quantities, and especially turning the horses into a green pasture. Some give digitalis for one or two days, knowing well its effect in diminishing the action of the heart; while others more cunning yet, endeavor to ease the bowels by making a fistula in the rectum near the anus. Such experts as wish to detect the disease, will feed the horse on dry hay, and in two or three days the symptoms of the heaves become very clear.

The treatment of the heaves needs no further mention, as the tricky ways of the wicked horse traders give full information about that subject. Besides no pretension can be made to effect a cure; it is an unsoundness for life, and can be alleviated for a few days for the benefit of some dishonest transaction.

A Glenlivet Race.

An article in another column tells about "Whisky Jane," and in giving this story of another horse in which whisky plays a prominent part, it is hoped that our reader will not suppose we have stepped down and out from our position as horse journalists, to that of catering for the liquor trade. The following good story was written by that Prince of good fellows, Captain T. B. Merry, of Portland, Oregon, and first appeared in the Melbourne Sportsman:

Nobody ever went to Long Branch, Saratoga, or Coney Island, without seeing the eccentric Dr. James Cattanach, veterinary surgeon of New York, whose love for a glass of Glenlivet whisky is proverbial. The old doctor is a very canny Scot and close at a bargain, but those who have paid him domiciliary visits will agree with me that he is a prince among hosts. The story I am about to relate concerns a horse that is now coming to the front as a sire in America. His name is Lelaps, got by Leamington, out of the imported mare Pussy by King Tom.

Pardon the disgression if I say that Leamington was, in my belief, the greatest stallion ever imported into America. True, he got many of his best races from daughters of Lexington, our greatest native sire, but it must be remembered that nearly half of Lexington's best racers came from the daughters of Glencoe, another imported horse that won both the Two Thousand Guineas and Goodwood Cup in 1834. Leamington was not a horse of the type of Plenipotentiary, Bay Middleton, Flying Dutchman or Ormonde. He belonged to that mighty breed of weight-carriers represented in the performances of Rataplan, Isonomy, Barcaldine, Harkaway and Kettledrum; and it is doubtful if he was not as good as the best of them. He stood two seasons in Kentucky, where he begot the long and illustrious roll of conquerors, headed by Longfellow, Lyttelton, Lynchburg, Hamburg, Rhodamanthus, Golden Gate, Lucifer, Blazes and Olitips. On his return to the Atlantic shores he got Parole and Iroquois, winners of the Chester Cup of 1880, and the Derby and St. Leger of 1881. When it comes down to a high type of beauty coupled with an extraordinary turn of speed and ability to carry weight, I question if any stallion ever conferred such signal benefits upon his adopted home.

Doctor Cattanach had never been to Kentucky, in spite of all the fascinating stories he had heard from Price M'Grath and Doctor Underwood about the beautiful women and lovely farms in the blue-grass State. But at length he read an advertisement that eight colts and seven fillies by Leamington were to be sold at auction as yearlings. He packed his trunk for Bourbon County, and in due time arrived at Frank Harper's. The day of sale came, and with it a furious lot of buyers, for Parole and Susquehanna were winning in every direction, and the blood of Leamington was considered a very good thing to have in a horse. Everything went at fabulous prices till at last the auctioneer pulled out a mean-looking little runt of a colt, black as the ace of spades, and said: "How much for this black kitten?"

The bidding, which had run into the big thousands on the other colts, dropped down very tamely as Lelaps was led forward. It crept up slowly by tens and fifteens until 585 dols. was reached, and then the autumn air became redolent with the fumes of Scotch whisky as a voice called out:

"Six hundred!"

Everybody looked towards the new bidder, but no one offered to go above it, and the colt became Cattanach's property. He won two small events, but invariably "squeaked" when he struck good company. At last the Doctor entered him for the Morrissey Stakes at Saratoga, of $500 each for starters, with $50 forfeit. There were twenty-six nominations and six starters, among them Aaron Pennington, very much such a looking horse as Cranbrook; B. F. Carver, the gamest little grey horse that ever peeped through a bridle; Shylock, the best of all Lexington's second-class sons, then in his tenth year; and the hitherto unbeaten Vera Cruz, the great black gelding from Tennessee. Betting ran in pools as follows: Vera Cruz 500 dols, Pennington 300 dols, Carver 250 dols, Shylock 100 dols, and Lelaps 20 dols.

Just before the start for the race the old Doctor was seen to approach the colt and turn the neck of a pint bottle into his throat. The colt went off for his "preliminary" canter, and then came back to face the starter. The bookies were laying 20 to 1 against him as old Cattanach poured another pint of the "Grampian Dew" down his neck. Feakes vaulted lightly into the saddle and down went the flag to a start which left Lelaps at the rear of his horses. Feakes sat him like a Centaur, however, and at a mile and a half Carver had deprived Shylock of the lead. From here out the battle was ended so far as Shylock was concerned, but the heroic struggle up the stretch will never be forgotten by those who saw Lelaps dash under the wire a neck in front of Carver with Pennington's nose on the grey horse's saddle. The time was 3:34, and old Miles I'Anson swears it was the greatest race he ever saw. After the race Lelaps was sold to Capt. B. G. Thomas, of Lexington, Ky., and has since become a favorite sire. His daughter, Pearl Jennings, was quite as good a mare as Miss Woodford, up to a mile.

And now in the hospitable old farrier's mansion in New York, in the bleak and dreary winter nights, when the kettle sings songs over the anthracite fire, and the old Doctor whittles the lemon peel into the tumblers, he loves to tell the story of how the handsomest, and at the same time the most cowardly, horse he ever saw was transformed into a game and heroic conqueror by the brew of Glenlivet. Little Carver is long since dead, and big Aaron Pennington, the handsomest chestnut that ever wore silk (as M'Grath thought, although I never agreed with him) is consigned to obscurity somewhere in Arkansas.

A visit to the Bay District a day or two ago, revealed two promising horses being worked out, one of which a trotter owned by Mr. McGary, of this city, impressed me favorably. He is called Carbon, by Gov. Stanford, dam Kate Dudley. He is six years old, and worked out a mile nicely in 2:34, giving Mr. Hughes' Electioneer colt all he could do to keep with him. I also saw a three-year-old colt by Alexander Button, dam by Ohio Bellfounder pace three heats the first in 2:35, the second 2:34¾ and the third in 2:30 even. He is an exceedingly well gaited colt, and was accompanied in his exercise by the pacer Little Hopes. The last half of the last mile was made in 1:12. This fellow will bear watching. He is in the stable of T. H. Griffen.

Ground, or in Ayres; nor possibly do any thing Right upon the Circles, or Voltoes without it.

I Told you this was, with the Cavezone, the inward Rein Tyed so short to the Pommel, as Pulls in his Head and Neck so much, that it makes the inward Cheek of the Bitt very much within his Neck, on the Inside of the Turn; because the Cavezone Works on his Nose, and not on his Barrs, or Curb, at all; and that's the Reason the Inward Cheek of the Bitt comes so much beyond his Neck on the Inside of the Turn.

Of The OPERATION
CAVEZONE.

The Cavezone is another Business than the Bitt; for the Bitt Works upon the Barrs, and the Curb, and hath two Cheeks whereunto the Reins are Fastened on both Sides the Horse's Neck; and the Bitt is in his Mouth. and the Curb is under his Chin; and these Low, especially the Branches: But the Cavezone is upon his Nose, which is much Higher, and Works only there, without Mouth or Curb. Well then, the Cavezone being Tyed according to My Fashion, though it be to the Girths, if you Pull it Cross his Neck, with an Oblique Line, your Hand on the Outside of the Turn, your Knuckles towards his Neck, it Pulls his Head Up a little, and Works the same Effect, for the Bending his Neck, as the Bitt doth, but much more; because you have a greater Pull, the Cavezone being upon his Nose; and, being further off you than the Bitt, he is Bent the more; because you have more power to Pull.

Consider, that when the Inward Rein of the Cavezone is Tyed to the Pommel, it is the same Oblique Line that the other was, when you had it in your Hand, only a little Shorter, and hath the same Operation in every Thing, and pulls up his Head a little; but now, if you have it in your Hand, and hold it on the Inside of the Turn, and pull it Hard, and Low, then you pull Down the Horse's Head, and he brings in his Outward Shoulder, which is good in Large Circles, either upon Trotting, or Galloping, or upon Passager, for the Reasons I Told you before; so that the Cavezone, and the Bitt, Differ so much in their Operative Working, that when you Pull the Cavezone a little High, it puts Up the Horse's Head; and when you Pull the Bitt High, and Hard, it Pulls down his Head; and when you hold the Cavezone Low, and on the Inside of the Turn, and pull it Hard, it Pulls Down the Horse's Head; and if you hold your Hand Low with the Bridle, it gives his Head Liberty, for the Reasons aforesaid.

Now you see, that the Cavezone, and the Bitt, Differ in their Working very much; so great is the Difference betwixt the Nose and the Mouth. It is True, that the Inward Cavezone's Rein tyed to the Pommel, is so Rare a Thing, and so Effectual, as you may almost Work as you List, with the Bridle; the Cavezone still doing the Business; and when one comes to Work with the Bridle alone, one may easily be Deceived; except he hath all those Considerations, the Excellency of the Cavezone, thus Tied, may Deceive him, when he comes to Work with the Bitt alone.

There are Three several Helps with the Inward Cavezone's Rein in your Hand: The first Help, is, To pull In his Outward Shoulder; the second Help, with it, is, To pull in his inward Shoulder; and the third Help, with it, is, To Stay his Shoulders.

Orrin A. Hickok and Adonis.

Orrin Hickok has well been called the Talleyrand of the trotting turf, says the Breeder's Gazette. As a manager of affairs in his particular line it is doubtful if the bright-eyed little man who dresses so nattily and speaks so quietly ever had an equal, and when he brings a horse to the post and has put his money on the animal's chances the people are sure to see a good performance. Just now Crrin is in the lists with the pacer Adonis, and if reports are true he has in him a world-beater Each season sees Hickok with a good stable of horses, and among the lot there is pretty certain to be some one animal fit to take a shy at the best in the country. Last season and the year before it was Arab. This horse, although he had beaten 2:20 before coming into Hickok's hands, was not very highly thought of by "the talent" on the Pacific Coast, and the people who owned him had so little confidence in his ability to improve or make a good showing in the free to all class through the Eastern Circuit that they put him up at auction. Hickok had watched Arab in his races, concluded that he would "do," and as a result advised a couple of his friends to buy the horse, which they did, and the public knows how Arab came East two seasons and won far more than his cost price, the deal being concluded last winter when he was sold as a road horse to Mr. John Shepard of Boston for more money than was paid for him by the Hickok syndicate. With Arab out of his stable, Hickok was obliged to look around for some sensational trotter or pacer, and has secured Adonis, that made a record of 2:14½ last season, being then three years old. With this fellow Hickok offers to make a race for $5000 a side against any pacer in the country. Of course the Sire Brothers, who are always ready to make races on paper, but seldom get any further in the matter, were ready to reply to the Californian's defi, saying that they would pace Gossip Jr. against Adonis if Hickok would pace the race at Detroit or Cleveland. But Hickok, as above stated, is a diplomat, and in his challenge he had taken pains to say that if the race was made it must be paced in California, as he was not coming East this season, and as the Sire Brothers are equally certain that they are not going West the chances for a contest between Adonis and Gossip Jr. are not very bright. It has been suggested by some people that inasmuch as Hickok has offered to allow any competing horse from the East $1,000 for expenses, or in other words to bet its owner $5,000 to $4,000, the challenge might be accepted by A. L. Davis of this city, who owns the pacer Roy Wilkes, about the best sidewheeler on the turf last season with the exception of Johnston. People who know Mr. Davis, however, do not think that he will go across the American continent for a race with a horse that is certainly the equal of his own in speed, as he is as fond of a good thing as the next man and very little inclined to take chances. At present Roy Wilkes is advertised to make a season in the stud, but of course after that is over he could be shipped to California and shaped up for a race in the fall. The fact that none of the California stables are to come East this season shows that trotting on the Pacific Coast is on the increase, and with the addition of numerous tracks in Montana and Oregon quite a number of circuits can be formed, thus giving the trotters and pacers a chance to keep busy all the season. When the expense of a trip across the continent is taken into consideration it will be seen that unless a man has an absolute winner and the purses are larger than at present there is no money in making the trip.

The Races at San Jose.

The opening day of the San Jose Blood Horse Association was a decided success so far as the racing went, the attendance not being up to expectations when the excellence of the programme was taken into consideration.

Five races with entries which gave indications of the closest of contests all through, and which, as the result proved, was not a disappointment. The course was in admirable order, the late improvements having corrected whatever was faulty, and though, perhaps, a trifle slower than when at its best in previous years, the difference so slight that it did not figure prominently in the calculation and was far outweighed by the added "safety" due to greater elasticity.

The day was admirable. San Jose can claim, with a due regard to candor, of a climate which is as nearly perfect as can be found in any section of California, and further praise would be a superfluity as the old duke of Newcastle puts it. A clear sunshiny day from the time the sun glistened over the tops of the eastern range of mountains until it sank below those which separate the "Happy Valley" from the grand Pacific. Scarcely any breeze and the slight haze which enveloped the western sky towards the close of the afternoon, added to the beauty of the scene, curtaining the setting sun with its diaphonous drapery so that while its brilliancy was toned there were added charms.

Had the residents of San Jose seconded the efforts of the managers of the association by "turning out" as they do at fall fairs, the success of San Jose as a spring racing point, would be fully established. This cannot be expected, however, so long as the track is degraded by Sunday racing and other contests of a questionable character, as no matter how well managed, in other respects, the taint will be there, and the breach of propriety be a hindrance which cannot be overcome without an absolute estoppal of reprehensible practices.

The first race on the card was a dash of five furlongs. In that, nine horses appeared, and though the fame of Geraldine made her a strong favorite, it was conceded that with all the glory of her Eastern achievements, were she slightly "off," there was almost a certainty of defeat. Whitecloud had supporters, Al Farrow was strongly fancied, and Tom Daly was thought by a few enthusiasts to hold the second place at his disposal. Bogus, too, was known to be one of the speedy division, but the handsome filly was the choice of a majority of the experts. It is no easy task to start nine "short horses" on an equality, and that is so essential in a race of five furlongs that Donathan, who occupied the position, had a perplexing job. For nearly an hour there were futile attempts, Al Farrow being the most troublesome of the lot. As a rule, he would rush from a rear position in advance of all the others, after which, galloping a couple of hundred yards, he had a decided antipathy to going back. At last a fair start was made, the whole field being closely bunched at the half mile pole, Geraldine and Whitecloud neck and neck, and leading the others a few feet. From that point, however, Geraldine mended her pace, and in the next furlong was a clear length in the lead, and from that to the finish it was palpably evident that her chances would not be jeopardized.

But it was a grand struggle among the others. White Cloud and Al Farrow desperately contending; Tom Daly, though crowded somewhat between the others and the fence, well up. As Geraldine went across the winning score, White Cloud was two lengths behind, and when he came to the line, Al Farrow was within a few inches of his nose. Tom Daly was also close, the others not far away. The time of the five furlongs was 1:02, and it looked as though Geraldine could have knocked the best part of a second off.

The second race was mainly notable from the good example set by Palo Alto. There were two starters from that stable, Geoffrey and Faustine with Installation and Glen Ellen for competitors. A little poolselling at the rate at $25 on Palo Alto to $7 on the others; in the books Geoffrey the favorite at 4 to 5, Faustine at 8 to 5, 8 to 1 against Installation and 15 to 1 against Glen Ellen.

The distance was seven-eighths of a mile, which brought the starting point on the first turn. With this difficulty even the start was not long delayed, and with a fair run off to all.

Faustine and Glen Ellen made a lively pace after the flag fell, especially after passing the quarter-pole as the back stretch was covered in 24½ seconds, with so little difference between them at that point that it was hard to determine which had the best of it, Geoffrey and Installation several lengths behind, the last named dropping hopelessly back beaten while Geoffrey closed the gap when rounding the turn and at the "head" of the homestretch his head was on the hip of Glen Ellen. The filly appeared to be somewhat cramped for room between the Palo Alto colts, dropping back so that Geoffrey had a fair chance at his stable companion.

From that point home one of the most spirited dual contests ever witnessed ensued.

Both jockeys rode as though life depended on their exertions and the colts responded gamely, every inch stubbornly fought.

Faustine led a short neck at the trotting distance and the backers of the handsome filly shouted madly as she still had a head the best of it, when within a few feet of home.

Vain hope, in the last two strides Geoffrey reached the farthest and at the critical point he scored a victory by half a head. He wore winkers so that it seemed he had still more of an advantage but it is certain the difference could have been guaged without opening a pocket rule.

The race gave great satisfaction. Spectators who did not know that both colts belonged in the same stable were hugely gratified, the division were pleased to "run out" irrespective of ownership.

Betting—7 to 10 Geoffry, 7 to 5 Faustine, 15 to 1 Glen Ellen, 8 to 1 Installation.

The third race unfortunately gave rise to some bitter feelings owing to a mistake made in the placing, but, happily, after due consideration was awarded, and the matter fairly understood, the ultimate verdict of the judges was admitted to be correct.

It was a dash of a mile, the starters Jou Jou, Mozart, Rosa Lewis, Nabeau, Al Farrow, Brutus, Jack Brady and Laura Gardner, the position at the start being as their names are written.

Brutus was the favorite in the betting, but why he should be so in such a field of horses was difficult to account for.

His trainer, Henry Walsh, declared that the colt was overrated, and though a good, and eminently a fast colt in such a field as he had to meet there was no cause for such decided favoritism. The start was also against him as he was lengths back when the flag fell and though so far as could be told from his winning he could not have won under more favorable circumstances, at it was, he was beaten at the outset. It was a grand race, however, especially from the three-quarter pole home.

The pace was fast and five of the horses were never far apart from the stand, there was an alignment of noses clear across the track, and when within one hundred yards of home, anyone of four could be reasonably expected to win. These were Al Farrow, Laura Gardner, Jack Brady and Mozart, and though the first named, Al Farrow, held the pride of place, winning by a good neck, Laura Gardner, Jack Brady and Mozart, were so closely locked that a few inches embraced the difference between them all.

In making the first announcement the judges placed Mozart second, but being convinced this was an error, Laura Gardner was given second and Jack Brady third. The time, 1:43.

The fourth race was a stake for two-year-olds, dash of half a mile, and a trio of wonderfully good colts answered the call. Palo Alto, as in the three-year-old, started two, Pliny and Racine, the first Double Cross to appear in a race being Guido.

Of course Palo Alto was a decided favorite, and justly so, as the pair showed to be in admirable order. But had it been known generally that Guido could run the half mile with 110 pounds up something inside of 49½ this early in the spring, more money would have been lost on him than was ventured. Racine had run three-eighths of a mile in a false start, and when the start was given both of the others had the best of it over him. Guido and Pliny "hustled" around the turn at a great rate, most of the watches marking inside of twenty-four seconds, and though that was too good to be kept up, there was endurance enough to finish the half in 49¼, Pliny beating Guido a neck, Racine a couple of lengths in the rear.

The closing race of the day was another dash of a mile for all ages, and again the spectators were treated to so close a finish that hearts of backers were beating wildly at the trembling of the scale. It was Welcome, Nerva; Nerva, Welcome. Nerva, however, eventually winning the plaudits by a short neck over Welcome, Lady Helen a good third. Time, 1:44.

SECOND DAY.

When the train arrived from San Francisco on Monday evening, it was easily seen that greater interest was manifested than on Saturday, the racing of the first day having given some indication as to the relative strength of the various stables. After supper the large billiard room of the Lick House was well filled with those who prefer to patronize the pool-box, and Auctioneer Whitehead was not long in getting to work. The following is about a fair average of the pools sold:

First race—Geraldine $50, Jack Brady and Tom Daly (sold as a stable) $10, White Cloud and Jou Jou $6 each, Vinco $2.

Second race—Racine and Pliny (stable) $60, Guido $6, Mirope $4.

Third race—Al Farrow $40, Welcome and Ed McGinnis (stable) $20, Wild Oats $16, Brutus $15, Mozart $15, Nebeau $6.

Fourth race—White Cloud $40, Bogus $12, Nerva $8, Johnny Gray $4, Ito $2.

Tuesday morning opened up cloudy, but that did not prevent a much larger attendance from going to the track than was present on the opening day. Five bookmakers were present to accommodate the betting public, in addition to the pool sellers. Taken as a whole, the races were very good, there being many close finishes. For the first event, five starters came to the post, Geraldine being the great favorite.

When the flag fell White Cloud had a slight advantage, with Geraldine close on her flank, and before half a furlong was gone over, the balance were strung out like a procession. When the head of the stretch was reached, a hard struggle ensued between White Cloud and Geraldine. The filly outlasted the gelding, however, and came under the wire winner by a length, Tom Daly being a close third. The following is the

For the Motor Stakes only four faced the starter, and as a natural consequence the Palo Alto entries had the warmest support, after their splendid performance on Saturday. Immediately on being sent off, Racine took the lead, but Guido kept him going, and for a short time it looked as though the Double Cross colt would prove the victor, but Racine was in magnificent form and won by a short length. Pliny does not seem as though he relished such fast company, but may show up better at the Bay District track. Mirope needs more preparation to become a winner, but he is of the improving kind, and will be heard from later on.

The University Stakes brought out the older contingent, and this was a really enjoyable contest, several of the horses being so evenly matched that it was hard to tell until almost the finish, who had the best handicap. On the send off Al Farrow immediately took the lead, but at the quarter Hazlett let out a link with Welcome, and took the commanding position, being pushed by Mozart for the lead. The rider of Farrow evidently knew the calibre of his mount for he contented himself with third place, the balance bringing up the rear in straggling order. On nearing the three-quarter pole Narvice gave Al Farrow his head, and the son of Connor was but a few seconds in gaining the head of his field once more. It was now a fight for second place between Welcome and Mozart, and the former would not be denied, he finishing second to Al Farrow, with the aged representative of the Maltese Villa Stable a good third. The balance were certainly outclassed at the weights.

The fourth and last race of the day brought out a field of good horses, the pinto White Cloud being selected to carry the bulk of the public money. Bogus was a strong second favorite, many fancying he could go the short distance fast enough to beat Mr. Appleby's nomination. The first heat was fiercely fought from start to finish, White Cloud, Bogus and Johnny Gray striving for the premier position, but White Cloud was in better fettle than the others and won the heat, but by a neck only, Johnny Gray coming in second. A claim of foul was lodged with the judges by the owner of Bogus, it being claimed that Gray ran in on his horse and thus prevented Bogus from getting the place. The judges saw fit to place Gray in third place and gave Bogus second. In the second heat White Cloud got off in the lead and was never headed, although hardly pressed by Bogus, who again got second place.

THIRD DAY.

The cloudy and threatening weather, beyond question kept many from going to San Jose Thursday, that would otherwise have attended. The bookmakers were present in force, much to their own regret, for they were hammered unmercifully by a few of the fortunate ones, who thought they had a good thing and worked it for all it was worth.

The opening race of the day had four starters in a six furlong heat contest, the strong favorite being Jack Brady. The start was delayed a long time by the unruly conduct of Elwood, but who when the flag fell had the best of the send off by half a length, Jack Brady being in second place. The favorite very soon passed the Maltese Villa entry, and at the quarter had for a contestant, Lady Helen, who tried to displace the leader, but the pace was too hot, she could not keep it up, and Nerva finally passed her, gaining the second place, Jack Brady winning the first heat in the excellent time of 1:16. The Elmwood stable had Nerva in exceedingly good form, and intended to win the race with the mare, but had underrated the speed of Brady slightly, and could not win, although the second heat was a ding dong race from start to finish. When the word was given Brady and Nerva were off together nose and nose, the relative positions being kept up to within two lengths of the wire, when Hazlett seemed to lift his mount in first, but by the scantest of heads.

SUMMARY.

First race - Selling Purse of $200 for all ages; entrance $10, or $5 if declared out night before the race, to the second horse. The winner to be sold at auction for $1,000. If for less, two pounds to be allowed for each $100 below. Six furlong heats.

A welter weight race was the next thing on the card, for which there were four starters, the talent selecting Hello as the probable winner, and the gelding did not disappoint his supporters. A good start was effected, Alfarata having a very slight advantage, the other three close on her flank. The same position was maintained to the quarter where Hello made a spurt and got the lead, which he maintained to the end. Alfarata vainly tried to overhaul the chestnut, but the speed was lacking, although the willingness was evident to all.

SUMMARY.

Second race—Purse $200, light welter weights, for all ages. Entrance $10, or $5 if declared out night before the race, to the second horse. Maidens of three years old allowed ten pounds; if 4 years old fifteen pounds; if 5 years old or over, 20 pounds. Seven furlongs.

The Almedan Stakes, one mile and a furlong, next claimed attention, and as Palo Alto had two entries, it followed as a matter of course that they carried the major part of the money in the books. At the start Faustine rushed to the fore, Wild Oats, Geoffrey and Glen Ellen following in the order named. At the three-eighths Faustine fell back, Wild Oats taking the lead, with Geoffrey coming rapidly up. The latter was held well in hand until three-quarters had been run, when both of the Palo Alto entries were given their heads, and a hot race ensued between the pair, Geoffrey winning by a short length from his stable companion, Wild Oats third.

SUMMARY.

Third Race—Almedan Stakes. For three-year-olds; of $25 each, $10 forfeit, or only $5 if declared out by April 1st, with $250 added, of which $100 to the second and $50 to the third; winner of the Vendome S ake to carry five pounds extra. One mile and a furlong.

The last race of the day was an upset for the pencillers, who thought from the previous day's running that they had the speed of the various horses down to a fine point. A few knowing ones plunged on Mozart, driving the price from 15 to 1 down to 6 to 1, and were well paid for their investments. When the flag fell, Welcome took the lead with Jou Jou, and Brutus as close companions. Jou Jou soon passed to the front going at a high rate of speed, but the old horse could not keep it up for when challenged by Brutus and Laura Gardner, he fell back to the rear. When the pack turned into the homestretch Mozart came away with a burst of speed that the balance could not keep up with, and the old bay gelding won by a length and a half, Laura Gardner being second and Brutus third.

Harmless Wire Fencing.

Baling rope it has been said, holds California together. The saying might, with vergo for wit, have been true in earlier years, but recently wire fencing has been the universal binder, and it is within the knowledge of all that some forms of the fencing have, while effective in confining stock, yet worked much injury. Mr. A. J. Robinson of 26 Beale street, city, advertises this week a new sort of wire fencing that is chicken proof, rabbit proof, and proof against anything else. It makes the best possible kennel enclosures, and is sold so cheaply as to enable all to use it. For breeders of horses and cattle it recommends itself on the ground of safety, strength and cheapness.

Grim's Gossip.

Hon. L. U. Shippee, of Stockton, was in town several days this week.

P. Garrett, owner of Wallace G., has sold his speedy trotter to parties in Salt Lake City for $6,000.

The title of "White Hat Dan" is applied to D. J. McCarty, of San Francisco, by many sporting reporters.

The St. Louis books are now full on Badge, Clay Stockton, Judge Murray, Prince Royal, Terra Cotta and Wary.

Cary Culver, of Denver, has a Percheron weighing 1900 pounds, that can trot half a mile in a minute and a half.

"The two days cyclone" is the way in which Eastern papers speak of the late California horse sale in New York.

The fencing at the Bay District track, which was blown down two weeks or more ago by the gale, has been re-built.

The queen of brood mares Alma Mater, is expected to drop a foal within two weeks to Wilton, when she will be bred to Electioneer.

Johnnie Campbell, part proprietor of the Berverwyck stable, has closed a contract with Jockey Stevenson to ride for him for the next five years.

It will be news to the friends of Joe Narvice to know that he has been sent to his home in Mexico. At least so says the Eastern newspapers.

The fast racing mare Repetta, owned by the Matlock Bros. of Pendleton, Or., has been bred to Leone, he by Leinster, dam Ada A. by Asteroid.

It is a rather strange fact that the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN which is mailed on Friday night, rarely ever gets to the Bay District track before Monday afternoon.

Adonis will be brought from the Palo Alto Farm within a few days, he having had all the rest necessary for him preparatory to beginning the campaign of 1888.

Mr. Allen, to whom Mr. W. Corbett lately sold seven gilt edged fillies, has given the owner of San Mateo Stock Farm, the privilege to trot two of the youngsters during the coming season.

Mr. Hobart emphatically denies that he has been offered $75,000 for Stamboul, but says he was asked to place a price on the stallion, when he replied that Stamboul was not for sale.

In addition to other horses bought, a telegram states, that Mr. B. C. Holly, of Vallejo, has also purchased the three-year-old stallion Happy Prince, by Bayonne Prince, dam Belle Medium.

Mr. O. H. Lockhart of Los Angeles, has purchased from W. H. Wilson of Cynthiana, Ky., the bay stallion Cannon Ball, 2 years old, by Simmons, 2:28, dam Gurgle, 2:20, by Pocahontas Boy.

The trotting horse Billy Lyle, formerly owned in this city, but now the property of Mr. Kendrick, Denver, Col., has been fired and will be given a rest until the late summer campaign opens up.

Mat Storn is of the opinion that his mare Glen Ellen should have been given the place, in the seven furlong race last Saturday at San Jose. He claims that she was fouled by the Palo Alto entry.

M. McManus has removed his trotters from the Bay District to the Oakland Park. O. A. Hickok, P. Brandow and T. H. Griffin will remain with their horses at the track during the Blood Horse Meeting.

Dispatches have been published throughout the country that Bessie June had arrived in Kentucky and was to be bred. The mare is still in Frank McCabe's hands at the Brooklyn track and in active training.

A wealthy gentleman has commissioned Driver Griffen to purchase a trotting horse that can beat 2:20. The advertisement says that a mare is preferred. Any one having such an animal can find a ready purchaser.

In the Oakwood Stakes at Chicago, Laura Gardner will have to carry 108 pounds, Jack Brady 106, and Flood Tide 100. For the Great Western Stakes, the imposts are, Los Angeles 116, Laura Gardner 107, and Spokane 102.

It is being whispered about among the knowing ones in New York, that it is the intention of the Hearst stable to send Glen Echo for the Suburban, in preference to Gorgo or San Simeon. The report lacks confirmation, however.

A curious incident took place at the Anteuil (France) meeting a few weeks ago. Baron Finot's Pantin, ridden by Barker, started to walk over for the Prix Glycine, (Steeplechase), but the horse fell, and the race had to be declared void.

Mr. Valensin tells me that he is offered a guarantee of a certain number of mares, for Sidney, at $500, the season, if he would send his great sire to Kentucky in 1890. It is just possible, that his figure will be that next year, in California.

Senator Hearst has been adding to his possessions, having lately bought over 400 acres in the neighborhood of Pleasanton, from R. M. Fitzgerald. On the newly acquired land, a race track will be laid out, and the entire farm turned into an immense breeding establishment.

Mr. R. H. Farmer now has charge of the stallion Longworth, which is standing in Oakland, and he desires all persons who have been corresponding with J. J. Fairbanks in regard to the service of the stallion, to re-write to him, care of Dietz Opera House, Oakland, Alameda Co.

I received word last week, but too late for that issue of the paper, that the brood mare Explosion dropped on the 25th, at Rancho Del Paso, a filly foal which is a full sister to the famous Dew Drop, being by Falsetto. The youngster is brown in color and marked the same as her famous sister.

I had a very pleasant call last Monday from N. I. Baldwin, the energetic Secretary of the Fresno Agricultural Park Association. He reports that the day has not been set for the $20,000 race this fall, but it will be selected upon his finding out what will be the best date for the horsemen. Several entries have already been promised for the event, and there is no doubt that the scheme will be a great success. Mr. Baldwin also states that there will be four days racing at the same time, irrespective of the annual fair.

M. R. Bissell, of Grand Rapids, Mich,, who lately purchased a half interest in Anteeo, for $15,000, died at his home, week before last, aged 46 years. He was a warm and enthusiastic lover of the horse and had a large number of friends among the breeders of the country.

Aurelius gives this very sensible advice: "Don't be a 'stud-hoss man,' and say that your animals are the only good ones and every one else's are bad. Such a course marks you a 'plug,' and injures you more than the other fellow."

Joe Crabb of Walla Walla, who has been spending a few months in San Francisco, started home last week. His health is much improved, and he goes back more determined than ever that there shall be square racing whenever he has a say.

I saw the veteran, Fred Collier, selecting ten stalls at the Bay District track a few days ago for the Theodore Winters string, and he says they have a world beater among them. Wonder if he means El Rio Rey? for I know that the brother of the Emperor of Norfolk is as fast as the wind.

I saw the pacer Edwin C. worked out a mile last Saturday in 2:25½; the last half was made in 1:08, and the last quarter in 33 seconds. It will be a surprise to many if he does not reach a 2:15 mark during the present year. Mr. Griffen thinks he is one of the most promising colts he has ever handled.

M. Saulsbury, Esq , started for the East on the Golden Gate special last Saturday evening. Business interests required his presence at Washington, but he will return to look after the Pleasanton Stock Farm in about three weeks. In the meantime Andy McDowell will welcome any visitors to the home of Director.

Mr. W. Armstrong, a well known horseman of Romeo, Mich., who has been spending several weeks on the slope, returned to his home on Saturday last. "Billy" has a host of friends on the Pacific Coast who will gladly welcome him if he comes back to make San Francisco his home, as is currently reported he will do.

D. J. McCarty has purchased the trotting mare Nellie Burns, from Dr. Burns and will be taken East with the balance of the consignment. She is by Milliman's Bellfounder, dam by Whipple's Hambletonian. The mare has a colt at her side by Guy Wilkes, and is now in foal to Le Grande. Price not given.

Mr. William Easton, of New York, has received orders from E. J. Baldwin to prepare for a sale of Santa Anita yearlings and two-year-olds, some time in May. Bred as they are, Grinstead, Rutherford, etc., and from Glenelg, Monarchist and other choicely bred mares, they should command large prices, especially now when California raised youngsters are in such demand.

Mr. Baldwin says he has not made up his mind positively to retire from the racing business, but may possibly do so, as his diversified interests are so many that he cannot pay the attention to the stable, which it actually needs. He will still keep on as a breeder however, and he expects that his fifty choice mares will enable him to hold an annual sale.

All horsemen are preparing for the spring meetings, and none more so, than Harry McLaughlin, who is getting all the carriage stalls in order for the reception of guests during the forthcoming Blood Horse races. Harry has even fixed up his room at the entrance to the track, his trophys of the chase, and horse pictures giving it a much improved appearance.

I was pleased to hear from Secretary Culver, of the Blood Horse Ass ciation, that at the coming meeting Australian bred horses will have the following allowances made them: Two and three-year-olds eight pounds, four-year-olds five pounds, and five-year-olds three pounds. This is as it should be, and now I hope the Turf Congress will follow suit.

The declarations for the City handicap to be run at Jerome Park number 14, as follows: Firenzi, 128 pounds; Hanover, 128; Prince Royal, 123; Eolian, 121; Raceland, 120; Taragon, 115; Bella B. 114; Defaulter, 114; George Oyster, 108; Now or Never, 108; Falconer, 107; Larchment, 106; Indolence, 100; and Chickahominy, 100.

My old friend, Noah Armstrong, is jubilant over the prospects of his Hyder Ali colt, Spokane, and predicts great things for him. The turf writers at Memphis say that he is doing the best work of any horse of his years, and shows great form. He seems to be the idol of the track, and everybody, jockeys, stable boys, in fact the whole army of turf people, are "stuck on Spokane."

Florilla, a chestnut filly by Rutherford, out of Savannah, died very suddenly at Baldwin's stable at Santa Anita on Monday last. Florilla was a very promising two-year-old, and was very forward in her work, being entered for the Rodman scramble, which comes off next Monday at Los Angeles. She was also entered largely in Eastern two-year-old events.

Sam McMillan says that he thinks he has made the best purchase of his life in the Guy Wilkes colt Derby, out of the producer Norma. He was offered $3,500 for him and only paid $1,100. Mr. McMillan does not want to sell, as he has sent him to Milburn Stock Farm, in Mercer County, Pa., where he is to take the place of Gov. Stanford, who will be handled by Cope Stinson for a record.

Dr. R. Watkins, the veterinary dentist, has returned to San Francisco after a twenty-three days visit to Palo Alto. The trip was not altogether one of pleasure, as he operated on the teeth of 337 horses. Among other operations performed was the removal from a mare's cheek of a stone about two inches in length and three-quarters of an inch in width, which had grown between the inner and outer walls of the cheek.

A paragraph is floating about to the effect that the Messrs. Dwyer are going to pay Isaac Murphy $1,000 more than Baldwin paid him last year, which was $10,000 to ride for them this year. Philip Dwyer says this is not so; that he will not pay Murphy any such exorbitant salary, but will merely have him as a jockey to call on when Taylor, who will be his chief jockey, would be forced to carry too much dead weight.

McCurdy's Hambletonian 1644, A. T. R., died on the 22nd. of last month, from cramp colic. He was foaled in 1874, by Harold, dam Belle (dam of Belmont) by Mambrino Chief. He was the sire of Lulu Hambletonian, 2:27; Miss McCurdy, 2:28¾; McEwen, 2:25½; Red Fern, 2:27¾. Bred by A. J. Alexander of "Woodburn," Ky. He was sold to W. L. McCurdy, who has since owned him. He was valued at $20,000.

Among trotting horsemen in San Francisco, it is generally acknowledged that Adonis is the best pacer in the world today. If his owner thinks the same way, there should be little trouble in arranging a Sweepstakes, for in addition to Almont Patchen, whose owner, Mr. Corey, is anxious to join in such a race, there would be Yolo Maid, Gold Leaf and Johnson to participate. Let the match be made by all means and determine the relative merits of the pacers.

A telegram was sent to this coast, some ten days ago, stating that Pancoast was dead. Mr. Shults, the owner of this well-known sire, has sent out the following: The information is far from being correct, as the sire of Patron is to-day doing and feeling better than at any time since he was struck by lightning last June. He is jogged every day on the miniature track in the main barn at Parkville Farm, and has already been led to two mares this season.

The irrepressible Sire Bros. say they cannot agree to come to California with Gossip Jr., and pace against Adonis in accordance with the liberal offer made them by O. A. Hickok, because time will not permit, but they are willing to arrange a match, the race to take place at either Detroit or Chicago. Before the season is well advanced they will be willing to go anywhere, for it does not look as though they were going to be reinstated.

The great combination sale advertised by Killip & Co., is exciting a great deal of interest, and already many large entries are promised. Two or three interested parties, have advised a postponement, so the promoters now select the 14th of May instead of the 9th. Too much stress cannot be laid on the great importance of the sale to the breeders of California, and it is therefore urged strongly upon all prospective buyers or sellers, that they assist Messrs. Killip & Co. in this undertaking.

The trotting horsemen are fixing up their quarters at Agricultural Park and are getting ready to train their steeds in the regular way as soon as the track is dry enough—probably next week, says the Petaluma Argus. The boys have been driving on the roads for several months and are becoming anxious to do some fast work. The present track is as good as any in the State for summer and fall work, but is a conspicuous failure in wet weather. Some day an inside track will be built and covered with sand for winter use. We must have it if it does come high.

C. T. Boots was driving along the Alameda about 7 o'clock Monday evening in a cart with two friends, says the San Jose Mercury, when the horse he was driving became frightened, and in turning upset and threw its occupants to the ground. Boots caught his leg in the side of the cart and narrowly escaped serious injury from the kicks of the frightened animal being pinned on the ground. S. G. Tompkins noticed his perilous position and managed to extricate him therefrom, at the same time assisting to capture the horse. Boots escaped with numerous bruises, while one of his friends was stunned for a few minutes, but soon recovered.

I have received a letter from W. H. E Smith, of Rohnerville, Cal., in which he blames me for not mentioning Poscoro Hayward, as the sire of Sable Hayward, when Mr. Corbett sold his seven fillies at private sale. Mr. Smith probably overlooked what was said about the sale in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, as Mr. Corbett was too busy getting ready to go East, so we copied it from the Call and gave due credit. Mr. Smith also says that our compiler left out the name of Poscoro Hayward out of the 2:30 list of Californian horses, but it is greatly to the credit of the gentleman who devoted so much time to the list, that this is the only one left out of the compilation as far as heard from. Secretaries will please take notice that Poscoro Hayward has a record of 2:23½. It should also be stated that Patchen in the same list should be credited to Henry B. Patchen instead of Geo. M. Patchen Jr.

A strange feature in connection with the Kentucky handicap has developed. The Chicago stable entry included Egmont and Macbeth, as the stable books show. When the handicap weights appeared, it was stated in a Louisville paper that the two horses had been declared. George Hankins, the owner, and B. J. Johnson, the trainer for the stable, were the only persons who legally could declare Egmont and Macbeth. Mr. Hankins says neither one did so. He wrote to Col. M. Lewis Clark, March 3, for information as to why the two horses had not been assigned weights, and a few days afterward sent a similar letter of inquiry to the handicaper, Mr. Bruce. No reply was returned by either. Both have since been written to again, but no reply has been received. The owner of the big stable is naturally very much exercised about the affair, and it would seem that an explanation is in order from the officers of the Louisville Jockey Club.

The Los Angeles Tribune says there are a couple of gentlemen in that city, who missed the flood tide which leads on to fortune. Less than two months ago these two gentlemen were offered Rosemeade,—the ranch,—all the trotters, including Stamboul, Alcazar, Harvester, Mascot, Vesolia and all the brood mares, for $200,000. Mr. Rose needed money at that time and was willing to sell the famous breeding farm for that sum. He who hesitates is lost, and that is why these two Los Angeles gentlemen missed making a quarter of a million of dollars. Stamboul sold for $50,000, and at a public sale at New York City forty youngsters brought $120,000, and Vesolia and several brood mares sold, brought the total amount up to $190,000. These gentlemen, if they had been venturesome, would have had Rosemeade and all the brood mares, minus forty youngsters, for a paltry $10,000. The Stamboul and Alcazar youngsters now on the ranch should realize $100,000 by a sale next year, while the new comers this year will be worth that amount in 1891.

"Folio" hazards the prediction that during the coming fall circuit in California there will be witnessed the greatest four-year-old contest that ever took place. Gossiper 2:22½, Direct 2:23, and Grandee 2:23¼ will, barring accidents, meet in company with Moses S. 2:29½, Balkan 2:29½, and others as yet unknown to record fame. If asked to name the winners, he says he would unhesitatingly hazard his reputation as a prophet and select Grandee 2:23¼, sire of LeGrand. Direct 2:23, was a rare good one last year, and if report speaks truly, he is even better now; Gossiper 2:22½ (against time), which latter won the race, however, has very discreetly been kept dark, but that will not affect his speed; others of slower records and lesser fame are no slouches; but in the opinion of 'Folio,' Grandee has never yet been extended. Folio does not care to mark the time to be made, but says that if he were superintendent at Palo Alto he would want to be looking up a four-year-old nag that could knock a notch or two off Manzanita's 2:16 record.

Hanford Stallion Show.

At various places in the State, stallion shows have been held lately, and too much cannot be said in favor of them, as the intelligent breeder wishes to see the individual, and cannot spare the time, in many instances, to visit fifteen or twenty different localities to examine the horses, but he will spare one day when they can be viewed collectively. The most successful meeting of the kind ever held in the southern part of the State took place at Hanford, Tulare County, on last Monday, there being no less than sixty-three stallions paraded. The exhibition included imported Norman, Clyde and Cleveland bay horses, standard trotting bred stallions, thoroughbred and grade stallions.

The many beautiful horses were much admired by the large concourse of persons present, and many mares were booked during the day. To add to the general interest, many mares with their foals were also shown, thus proving to those desirous of information what the different sires could do. To enliven the scene, the Hanford Brass Band discoursed sweet music, and were highly complimented on their proficency. The horse-breeding interest in that neighborhood is a very large one, and the meeting of Monday is bound to result beneficially to all concerned.

ATHLETICS.

A Benefit to Mr. A. H. Lean.

To-night, at the Standard Theatre, a benefit will be tendered to Mr. A. H. Lean, well known as a wrestler and general athlete. Mr. Lean's willingness at all times to assist at similar events for his friends, has enabled him to offer a long and lively programme of boxing wrestling and other exercises, which should attract a large audience.

THE KENNEL.

Dog owners are requested to send for publication the earliest possible notices of whelps, sales, names claimed, presentations and deaths in their kennels, in all instances writing plainly names of sire and dam and of grandparents, colors, dates and breed.

Mr. Thos. Slipper, of Eugene, Oregon, offers, through the advertising columns, some fox-terrier puppies, for the breeding of which he avouches. Mr. J. B. Martin, of this city, owns a terrier from Mr. Slipper's kennel, and speaks well of it.

In answer to a request for his notions about what tricks should be taught a "trick dog" and how they should be judged, that veteran trainer and successful exhibitor Mr. Fred A. Taft of Truckee, writes:

Yours of 30th received; nothing necessary to answer except about "trick dogs" I have none to show. Have taken enough on Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. Old Uncle "Dorr" will be at the P. K. C. show on exhibition only, unless there is a veteran class. Now, as to tricks, the more a dog can do amusing the people, the better; but the judgment should be, in the class of tricks, whether or not it is play, or that the dog has got to do cheerfully what he is told to. There are lots of simple tricks that will amuse the people, and at the same time are the easiest to teach. Have a trick class, and if you can't find any one else to judge it (I don't want it), I will do so free of expense, and afterwards may give an exhibition of the old "veteran."

Whelps.

Mr. James E. Watson's black pointer Black Bess, whelped March 28th, seven, three dogs, to owner's Old Black Joe.

A litter of puppies by Old Black Joe was recently presented to Mr. Watson by his pointer Black Bess, the welfare of which will be noted with pleasure by all pointer fanciers. Black Joe was a grand dog, and we hope may be reproduced in his progeny.

Mr. W. S. Kittle's pointer Donna Drab (Vandevort's Don—Drab) whelped, March 31st, five, two dogs, to Mr. E. W. Briggs Climax (Bang Bang—Bellona).

Pacific Kennel Club.

The monthly meeting for April, was held at the office of President R. E. Wilson, 419 California street, last night, the president in the chair, and Messrs. Wm. Schrieber, H. R. Brown, Jas. E. Watson, Clarence A. Haight, J. F. Carroll, Thos. J. O'Keeffe and H. H. Briggs, present.

After approval of the minutes of the preceding meeting, the treasurer, Mr. Watson, reported $121.07 on hand, after the payment of something like $400 in bills.

Mr. R. K. Gardner, of San Francisco, was elected to membership.

A letter from Mr. William Graham, of Belfast, Ireland, accepting the position of judge of all classes of dogs at the coming show.

A letter from Mr. Elliott Smith, resigning as delegate of the Pacific Kennel Club, to the A. K. C., was read and accepted.

The matter of selecting a substitute for Mr. Smith was deferred to the next meeting.

Most of the evening was spent in discussing various details of the coming dog show.

Cropping.

It is not improbable that the English Kennel Club will forbid cropping the ears of any dogs exhibited at its bench shows.

At a meeting held on March 8th., strong ground against the practice was taken by Mr. J Sidney Turner, Mr. Percy C. Reid and others.

Mr. Turner described the cruelty of the practice which in his opinion caused great suffering—not so much the actual operation, but afterwards, when the unhealed ears had to be pulled about and rubbed to make them stand up properly. He further stated that the only breeds that would be affected were Great Danes, Bull terriers, Irish terriers, Black and Tan terriers and Yorkshire terriers, but that he might dismiss the last named, as in their case it did not much matter for show purposes whether they were cropped or not. With regard to Irish terriers and Black and Tan terriers the general feeling among owners of these breeds was that cropping should be stopped, and, in fact, both the Irish Terrier Club and the Black and Terrier Club had taken steps to abolish the custom. Therefore, it was only as concerning Great Danes and Bull terriers that the matter had to be considered, and no doubt the owners and breeders of these two breeds would be against his resolution, but that in their case it was only a matter of fashion, and if the custom was abolished they would then be bred with good ears. He also referred to the rounding of hound's ears, which, he states, was only resorted to in the case of foxhounds, as staghounds and harriers had their ears left in a natural state, and added that he believed in the case of foxhounds it was only resorted to for giving a level look to a pack, and not for any purposes of utility, as he maintained that Nature in her work never erred, and that the natural ear was less liable to be damaged by thorns and briars than a short rounded ear, which would offer more resistance. He then referred to the loose skin generally of the feline race, which by its yielding nature could not be ripped open by the claws like the tighter skin of other animals which offered more resistance, as a proof as his argument. He finally stated he did not consider the docking of tails cruel, and as to rounding ears, although not so cruel as cropping, he should like to see it done away with as a useless practice.

Kennel Management.

In these days when distemper seems to reign without let or hinderance, kennel owners may profit by a few hints about the management of their dogs in kennel, and those who conduct public kennels should lose no opportunity to get information which may enable them to stop the disorders which for six months past have had their own dire ways. The man who owns but one dog is not always successful in raising him, despite the time and means at command, while he who controls a dozen or more seems to be lucky, these days if he can conduct a moiety of them to doghood without chorea, deafness, canker or other ordinary sequels to puppyhood. Some of the best and most practical hints that have appeared recently are made by Vigil who has written much of interest in a kennel way, some of his best articles having been printed in the English Kennel Gazette, the journal after which the American publication is patterned. Although the management of kennels is a subject which has often been written about, it is a remarkable fact that very few indeed of the many, where valuable dogs are kept, can be said to be really well managed. To this may be traced the numerous disappointments of which owners of dogs are so often complaining, probably blaming others for the cause which, if looked for in the right direction, would be found at home. Given that the animals are in good health and condition when they are placed in their kennels, and that these are not soiled with any contagious disease, there is no reason why dogs should not be kept as free from ailments and get through the natural duties of life as well as other domestic animals which are kept for the use and pecuniary benefit of man.

It is seldom, however, that this very desirable end is obtained, want of judgment in the arrangements of the kennels, insufficient exercise, improper feeding, and inattention to the grooming of dogs tend to produce skin disease, canker, worms, etc.; their constitutions become weakened, puppies die, and those who looked forward to deriving pleasureable recreation in their leisure hours become disgusted, and so many would be breeders and exhibitors are lost sight of for ever. Prevention is better than cure is an old adage which particularly applies in connection with the subject under consideration.

To keep dogs in good condition and health the proper plan is to follow the laws of nature which apply to the carnivora in the natural state as far as is possible in the artificial position in which necessity has ordered the regulations of large kennels in the present day. Biscuits and other foods of the same description are all very well as a supplementpry adjunct to flesh, which should be made the principal food. As a proof of this feed a dog on biscuits and he will run to every dust heap and rummage for any filth in the shape of animal matter that he can find; but let him have a fair amount of good wholesome cooked or raw meat, and he will invariably show his disgust for the garbage which he finds in the receptacle for the household refuse.

By condition we do not mean fat; condition means muscular development from the tip of the nose to the end of the stern. This is brought on by giving meat in a fair proportion as food, and enables the animal to produce healthy progeny. Fat, on the other hand, leads to an unhealthy state of existence, the generation of all kinds of diseases, and the ultimate decay of the subject. How many dogs alike valuable from a pecuniary point of view and for stud have been consigned to an early death from the ignorance of their owners, through the mistaken idea that a dog suffering from skin disease should not have meat.

In speaking of skin disease we mean eczema. Ordinary mange is easy to eradicate; the application of a dressing to destroy the animalculæ on the body of the animal and then of some powerful disinfectant used throughout the kennel is all that is required; but eczema is more difficult to deal with, and ninety times out of a hundred instead of withholding meat it should be given in larger quantities. Yet one repeatedly hears that eczema has been caused by too much meat having been given. Some people contend that flesh must not be used because it makes dogs smell, often attributing the fusty aroma which ascends from a dog and is caused by a debilitated state of health to what is called high feeding, when it is in reality quite the reverse. Meat forms muscle, farinaceous food produces fat; the combination of the two, however, makes a suitable food for dogs. Some people feed their dogs entirely on flesh; in fact, one of the oldest and most respected judges in days gone by, when he kept a large kennel of sporting dogs used to hang up a carcase of flesh and let his dogs go to it when they liked.

To improper feeding may be traced most of the ills to which puppies are heirs, the digestive organs become weakened, when rickets and worms soon follow. The latter, the greatest pests of the canine race, are doubtless indirectly the cause of more deaths in puppies than even distemper, but they are greatly helped by bad feeding. When a puppy is thriving worms do not obtain so strong a hold, but in a weakly puppy they increase and multiply to an alarming extent. It may be said that the presence of the worm causes the emaciation. True, after they had once become established; but if a well-fed and thriving whelp has the same number of worms to start with as one that is badly fed and weakly, the parasites will increase to a much greater extent in the latter, whilst in the former they will sometimes be voided without the assistance of a vermifuge.

One of the most important items in the managememt of kennels is to take every precaution to guard against the generation of worms. One never knows where the ova are to be found; they may be in the ground, in the railings, amongst the bedding, or on the bodies of the dogs. Every time a dog is seen to lick another there is a possibility that this parasite is being swallowed into the body. And this brings us back to the best materials of which to build the kennels and yard for the latter. Nothing is better than asphalt. The tar in the composition is not only hateful to parasites, but a good disinfectant. It is curious to note that whenever tar is used in kennel the inmates always do will, which reminds us of an old-fashioned supposed prevention of distemper, that of putting a small quantity of Stockholm tar daily on to the noses of puppies. We do not know whether this ever did any good, but is is certain that tar, if it were not so sticky, is the best coating for the boards and railings of kennels. A plentiful supply of clean and dry wheat straw is another great factor towards the comfort and health of dogs. If changed often enough and given liberally they need no further grooming, except that in passing the brush over their coats the ova of parasites may be removed, which is not to be thought lightly of when it is considered necessary by doctors that children should wash their hands after stroking a dog. It may not generally be known that both mange may be contracted and worms obtained in this way by the human subject.

On the management of the brood bitch when about to have her puppies often depends the life or death of both the mother and her offspring. It is at this period that warmth is an absolute necessity. One has only to consider what the effect upon newly-born puppies must be when they find themselves turned out of warm quarters on to the cold and often very wet bed of straw. The warmth of the mother's body, if in an open bench, is not enough under the circumstances, more particularly as she is often distressed with the throes of labor and cannot keep her little charges close up to her. It is, therefore, better to make her a little tent or covered box so that the warmth emitted from her body cannot escape. Those who have sent dogs in cases by railway will have noticed the heat which comes from the boxes when they are first opened, and will so understand how a modification of that is advantageous when puppies are first born. When a foster mother is made use of the best time to change the puppies is just after they are born, before they have been licked. Almost all foster mothers will at once take to an unlicked puppy. When, however, the whelps are able to run about it is better not to keep them very warm, as they are more liable to take cold should they get into a draught. Give them a warm bed to go to, but let them have the chance of getting as much fresh air as they like, for as they are begun with so they must be gone on with. We have often seen youngsters rolling about in the wet grass thriving better than others that have been kept in the dry: they should always, however, have a dry bed to run to.

It often happens that old dogs will soil their beds, and this applies to puppies also. When this is the case put the water and the feeding pan in a corner of the bench. Dogs are very particular in this respect and always select the furthest point from their food.

ROD.

A Trout Query.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman:—I send you a specimen of trout that differs so radically from anything I have ever seen before as to excite my curiosity greatly. Is it a mere "sport" or freak, or is it a new variety, or is it a hybrid? The peculiarities that I note are in the shape of the head, the round, sardine-shaped body, flat back and very peculiar swayback. These peculiarities were much more distinctly marked in a larger one, that was unfortunately thoughtlessly sacrificed to sportsman's appetites. About five per cent of the catch were similar to this. I find that these points are not so easily seen as when the fish came fresh from the water, but I think you will have no difficulty in distinguishing them. H. C. Campbell.

San Francisco, April 2, '89.

[We are obliged by Mr. Campbell and have consulted several authorities, without satisfactory results. The fish sent, a four-inch, half-ounce specimen, is probably a young steelhead. The peculiarities in shape may be due to habit. Fish living in slack water are not so deep as those compelled to struggle against a current, are more sardine like. Mr. Campbell does not say where the fish was taken, an important fact. We should be pleased to receive his surmises about the fish.—Ed.]

THE GUN.

Doctor C. W. Aby, manager of the Langtry and Gebhardt rancho's in Lake County, is in the city professedly for the purpose of settling certain reflections made upon his expertness with the shotgun by Mr. Matt Storn. Mr. Storn admits that the Doctor can kill 82 snipe straight, but denies his ability to go on killing them for four days without a miss.

This afternoon at Adam's Point, a match for the championship of Central California at Blue Rocks, represented by the Selby medal will be shot. The present holder Mr. F. J. Bassford has been challenged by Mr. A. B. Sperry, of Stockton, and others will enter. Those going over on the 1 o'clock boat will be in time.

Mr. S. A. Tucker, agent for the Parker Bros., gunmakers, of Meriden, Conn., is in the city on his semi-annual business visit. He will remain until Friday next when he will leave for Sacramento, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Salt Lake, Denver and Minneapolis, reaching the latter city for the tournament on May 21st. Mr. Tucker reports trade first-rate, particularly in the hammerless guns recently offered by the Messrs. Parker Bros. Tucker is as fat, sleek, keen and jolly as ever.

Mr. Harvey McMurchy' sp'endid shot, delightful companion, handsome man, successful gun salesman, and agent for Mr. L. C. Smith of Syracuse, N. Y., reached San Francisco on Tuesday last. The annoyances of incessant travel do not in the least mar or ruffle our friend and he bears evidence of success in placing the splendid productions of Mr. Smith. Mr. McMurchy has promised to give us some inside information about the Smith gun that will interest our readers next week. He is meeting an increased demand for the guns, and those who bought last year speak in the highest terms of the wearing and shooting qualities of the arms.

Death of W. P. Willard.

On Monday last, at his apartments in the Pacific Union Club, Mr. William Patton Willard died, the cause given being heart disease. He had lived in San Francisco for many years, and been prominent in mining circles and as a general business man. Although fifty-two years old, his life bad been so regular, and his devotion to field sports so marked that in physique and carriage as well as in manner and spirits he seemed nearer thirty than fifty. Mr. Willard ever since reaching majority has been identified with shooting and fishing interests and organizations. His summers were passed in angling for trout and salmon, and during the winter he shot ducks persistently. He was a fine angler, a good shot, a courteous man, a true friend, and will be mourned by a circle of admirers as wide as the Pacific Slope.

Blue Rock Club.

Adam's Point, pretty as a picture in its setting of verdure clad hills and sparkling lake, was made noisy on Saturday afternoon last by fourteen members of the Blue Rock Club, one of the strongest and best officered shooting organizations on the Coast. President John O. Cadman, despite his poor score is a fine shot, and is also a genial, attractive man who cannot but bring strength and life to the club. Major S. I. Kellogg, Secretary, although more noted as a rifle shot, is fast marching into recognition as an expert with the shot gun and the Selby ammunition which he represents. The directors are all active sportsmen and fond of the club. The meeting of Saturday last was the first of the season and the large number of entries augurs well for the season. The time is not far distant when 13 out of 20 was thought to be a good score at Blue Rocks, but on Saturday more than half the entries exceded that number at singles, while at the pairs the work was of very high order.

Dr. Knowles and Major Kellogg tied on 25 total for the day, with Mr. Norton close behind 24, and A. F. Adams 23. The score was:

At 20 single Blue Rocks and 5 pairs. International rules. Club Handicap.

The Parker Hammerless.

Sportsmen have heard from time to time that the Parker Bros., gun makers at Meriden, Conn., were soon to issue a hammerless gun, and conjecture has been general about what the gun would be in system and as to its general desirability. The hammer guns hitherto made by the firm have become established as staples, being uniformly of high class as to workmanship, hang, wearing quality and shooting power. The general opinion in consequence has been that when the firm did issue a Hammerless, the gun would maintain the reputation of the makers, but the gun itself, recently put on the market, will surprise and please any practical shot who will be at pains to examine one. So many new but simple variations from the conventional Hammerless systems, appear that the gun may fairly be said to be new. The reputation and sale of the Parker gun are due largely to the efforts of Mr. S. A. Tucker, now in San Francisco. Mr. Tucker's personal fitness to represent a gun firm is unquestionable. Beside being a superb shot, he is a thorough student of guns and gunnery, and always alert to learn of any little alteration or change in principle which may be of advantage to the Parker.

The firm is also fortunate in having as head of its gun factory a genius in mechanics, Mr. Charles A. King. Perfectly unassuming, and not easy to draw out, he is nevertheless a compendium of gun lore, and always actively engaged in the invention of new machinery and in maintaining rigidly the average perfection in the Parker guns, which must undergo his inspection before they leave the factory.

The new gun really embodies the combined ideas of Mr. King and Mr. Tucker, representatively the manufacturer and the user. In profile the gun is handsome. The fore-end merges into the action in an unbroken line, which continues in a free sweeping line to the toe.

There is no suggestion of surplus wood or iron, the stock being particularly clean from every point of view, while the frame suggests the Anson and Delly, but is lighter and more trim. The fitting and finish are excellent, the former being unexceptionable, and the letter both tasty and finely executed. The gun feels well in the hands, and is quite as well balanced as need be. Mere outline, while not to be overlooked, is however, not of the greatest importance, and in the gun under mention, its beauty while great, will impress the student less than the solid sensible way in which the lock mechanism is applied. A simple screw driver is the only tool necessary to strip and assemble the gun. Every working part is attached to solid iron, and none to wood, a fact which insures the positive action of the gun in any climate, cold, warm, dry or humid.

The main springs used are spirals, a radical departure, but one which can be sustained in principle and which is being adopted by some of the heaviest manufacturers, and will in time be used by all. The action of the spiral springs is quick, they stand four or five times longer than the V spring and are more pleasant to handle.

A pair of springs precisely like those used in the Parker was subjected to cramping and tripping similar to that received in using the gun, and each spring withstood 350,000 repetitions of the operation without injury. So sure is Mr. King of the superiority of the springs that the Messrs. Parker guaranteed them for twenty-five years.

But one cocking lever or slide used, in place of the two ordinarily seen, and in the Parker the cocking slide moves upon the bottom of the frame and not through holes bored in the action. It can readily be reached to clean and oil it, is amply strong, and works smoothly and easily. The play of the cocking slide is 5-32 of an inch, that only being the extent to which it is necessary to cramp the spiral main springs to secure the sharp stroke of the plunger which characterizes the gun. A check hook of the simplest and strongest form prevents possible injury to joints in the handling of careless men, although the cocking principle alone would operate as a check hook in ordinarily careful hands.

The plunger and striker are one piece, and the plunger when tripped and let fall against the frame, as when the gun is discharged strikes it on a broad face of solid steel, avoiding all possibility of bruising either frame or plunger and making it possible to snap the gun when unloaded, at will without danger of injury in any way. The frame and bolting mechanism are the same as in the old reliable Parker hammer guns, and the lug bearings are all broad and as carefully forged and fitted as long experience, most approved machinery and vigilant supervision can insure.

A point about the gun that will favorably impress every one is that the barrels can be detached and replaced whether the gun be cocked or not, thus avoiding the necessity of cocking it before putting the barrels on, and making it unnecessary to carry a cocking key. Another sound merit lies in the fact that the gun cannot be accidentally discharged before being fully closed.

Not a few accidents have occurred at the trap because excited men, in going to the score would not fully close their guns, but could, nevertheless, pull them off, and have the powder blow back into their faces. Taken all in all, it is a good, sensible, safe, sound, workmanlike and beautiful weapon, a credit to American ingenuity and taste.

Notes from Mexico.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—It may not be uninteresting to some of your readers to peruse this attempt of a novice to lay before them an account of the trials and tribulations a "Gringo" meets with in his efforts to turn an honest penny in this land of the "cactus, rattle-snake and eagle." We are sometimes allured away from home and friends by the glowing accounts of money easy made by playing, mind against matter with the natives here, and being one of those I will give you my experience. This State is probably the most Americanized of any in this sister Republic, and with due respect to the enterprise transferred here, I do not believe there is one per cent of the Gringos who come here that carry back so much lucre as they bring in. However, the glamor that is thrown around life by the traditions of this country, brings some one almost every day. As in my case, one strikes the border with a slight idea of the language and customs. At Nogales, the border town lying one-half in Arizona and half in Mexico, the railroad depot is built on the line. (There is no Neuwal strip.) The Mexican citizens have preserved a space of thirty feet between the line of their buildings and the territorial line. But the enterprising American has built his buildings right up to the line so that when he is indoors he is in "Uncle Sam's" domain and steps out into Mexico. This is convenient for trade in dutiable goods such as cigars, liquor, etc. One man has his cigar stand in Mexico, but the saloon in Arizona. We can get a first-class Vera Cruz cigar, by the box retail, at seven dollars per hundred, the same kind in San Francisco would cost not less than fifteen dollars. Where you figure gold at 35 per cent premium, and buy the Mexican cigar for their money, smoking is cheap. I send you a sample (but do not guarantee that it will not be changed en route). Enroute south from Nogales, we get in the train in Arizona, and when time is up for the train to leave the Mexican custom officials signify their readiness to have the train pulled over the line, then the fun commences by the entrance into the car of a troop of inspectors and guards, I have crossed several times and never saw less than seven. They come along and size you up, apparently, the first two are observers and direct the followers what to inspect. Paw over your linen, go through your blankets, look wise, say "esta bueno" and you conclude you are passed. Pretty soon another one comes along with pasters to attach to the baggage. The man after him has the gum to stick them with, and on the way back through they give you a parting glance with a good day greeting. Usually between every station you have the travelling guard, two or three in number come through the cars with their eyes about them, (I presume to see if you are comfortable, as I have never yet seen them get on to anything,) but you are liable to have to show up again at any time. If you have anything dutiable, you have to have what is termed a gier; a custom house receipt for the property. If you have not got it with you, (presuming you had one). Your stuff is confiscated, and you may as well let it go for the expense in regaining it is more than it is worth. The customs and internal revenue duties are very high, quite a number of imported articles having to pay 100 per cent and over on invoice valuation. This government is apparently run for the benefit of itself and dependents, including a large number of Custom House brokers, whose charge for the least service is not less than $2.50.

Everything is taxed in this country but land. If you sell anything to go out of the municipal district in which you are you have to get the gier above referred to. The Government has an export duty on bullion of about eleven per cent., and an ad-valorem duty on ores, and I think was the originator of the expression used by a prominent railroad freight agent in California, i. e, "Charge all the traffic will bear." As a consequence in the shipment of bullion, either dust or bricks, all sorts of devices are resorted to to avoid the duty. As I am not a bullion producer, I do not know the methods, but may learn later on. I know of one case where a man en route from his mill to where he was to get his gier, with a valuable silver brick, was pounced on and report says that was the last of his interest in the brick aforesaid. He should have got his gier first. As to a matter of conscience the average citizen is entirely guiltless. He has none about his clothes, never had, and does not want any. If you want to avail yourself of his services or his property. do not let him know you are in a hurry, or all the excuses in the calendar will be brought to bear on the proposition that it is necessary to pay five or ten times what the service is worth ordinarily. If you want to buy a mule or a horse you must be looking for cattle, and vice versa, or they will double up on you sure. The only way to do business at a reasonable rate is to have a whole lot of time at your disposal and await your opportunity. The citizens here are in a chronic condition of "hard-up." It is no unusual thing to pay 25 to 40 per cent. per month interest on small loans, I presume the rate is warranted by the not over reliable security. For instance if a man gets seed at the planting time, he pays 100 per cent. when harvest comes. Take wheat for instance planted in December and harvested in May. If the debtor through failure of crops or scarcity of money cannot pay, then he must pay 300 per cent. in corn which comes in later, and if he fails to liquidate when corn comes in, then he must double up again and pay in beans. It does not take long in that way to wind a man up. The animals used here for work purposes—horses, mules and asses—are the worst looking lot you can imagine. They take the gad from the word go and browse for a living. Hay is not made here at all, and corn is used as feed. At the present time there is an abundance of green feed, as during this winter there has been more rain than any season in the last 20 years. Native cattle can be bought for six and eight dollar per head, but lard is 27 cents per pound, coffee 37 cents, salt 3½ cents, and native bacon (good strong stuff) 25 to 40 cents. Prices are not bad for those who can pay, but it is rough on the lower strata. How they exist, God knows, I don't. Their necessities are few. I have seen them with so few clothes on that it made me cold to look at them, when the thermometer was down to 30 and 35 degrees. Yet when night comes they lie down on a dry hide with a single serape (blanket) about them, and I presume pray for the coming of the sun to warm them. In Hermosilo I have seen them late at night leaning against the adobe walls, made hot by the sun during the day to keep warm, and by way of nourishment eating sugar cane. It grows plentifully. That kind of life is not one to create an arduous desire for bodily toil, and as for mental they ain't on it, less than 10 per cent. of the inhabitants can either read or work. This screed might be continued, but I fear I tire you, so adios.

Dixon Driving Park Programme.

The Directors of the Dixon Driving Park Association announce in the advertising columns that they will give a meeting at their track on May 1st and 2d. The six races consist of running, trotting and pacing, and as the purses are very liberal for a minor association, it would not be surprising if the entry list proved correspondingly large. As the entries close on Wednesday, April 10th, those intending to enter should do so at once.

Remember the entries close to-day, for the Pacific Blood Horse Association, and also for the Fresno Meeting.

Announcement.

Having sold my interest, one half, in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN to the company under the name of which it has been published, I desire to make more than a brief announcement of the fact. There is little necessity for giving the reasons which induced withdrawal, though there is such an intimate connection between readers and editor that it seems proper to make an explanation.

The case is somewhat similar to making a long visit to warm friends, and cutting it short, long before the time fixed upon for departure, and which will be readily seen would entail explanations if not apologies. For nearly seven years, and with slight intermissions, I have labored in a field which presented many attractions, not a few annoyances. Not the first work of that kind, as for fourteen years I have been connected with the turf journalism of California, and I trust pardon will be granted for claiming, egotistical though it may appear, that my labor has not been valueless, especially in attracting attention to the superiority of soil and climate of the Pacific Coast for breeding, rearing and training fast and fine horses. My first predictions of success and which have been so fully sustained, were received with incredulity at home elicited ridicule abroad, and now that the "horse world" endorses the old-time views, that portion of my work may be said to have been accomplished. Still further back, so far in the not "dim and misty past" as to make me in reality an "old man" in years, if not in feelings, the advocacy of the value of thoroughbred blood in fast trotters has been earnestly followed. While not with the pronounced results, that have been a natural sequence when there was such a basis as the climatology of this coast to build upon, I feel that the work of a third of a century has not been lost.

Notwithstanding the obstacles which still encumber the route there are good reasons for the belief that in the future those who advocate the claims of "royal blood" to recognition in the composition of the chief equine favorite of the American people, will find a smoother track than the earlier apostles had to travel upon and that the natural course of events will add an accumulation of proofs which will carry conviction to any mind in which there is a single crevice left unobstructed by the cement of prejudice. California has done more already than any other State to elucidate the problem, and though Kentucky can point to the most brilliant stars in the trotting firmament, resulting from the second cross from a thoroughbred dam, when immature age is given a place in the calculation, the same remove from a "strictly thoroughbred" grandam has produced more wonderful results, and when the first generations are compared this State is far in the lead. That victory has been gained by a determination to break the shackles of unbelief which ignorance and prejudice have forged, and in giving due attention to natural laws, which compel acquiescence, if anticipated results follow. A fair trial was given on one breeding farm, carrying theory into practice, experiments then, established facts now, lessons which carry conviction, conjectured signs changed into plainly marked figures, proof that the world does turn on its axis, though a thousand inquisitiors attempt to prove that it is stationary.

No fears now of the ultimate result, the cause battled for in a thirty year's war is on safe ground, a forlorn hope once, an army potential in equipments and ready for effective warfare now.

Though occupying an inferior place in my affections to that awarded the race which is surely the highest type of equine form, I have had another principle to fight for which is of still greater importance than the best combination of blood in the composition of fast trotters.

That is the system of protecting the feet of horses, which I have partially introduced, and have persistently advocated for nearly the whole period of my life in California. While jibes, sneers and witticisms were freely expended in meeting the arguments on the subjects heretofore alluded to, in the case of "A Natural and Plain Method of Horse Shoeing," when arguments and ridicule failed, abuse was called upon as an auxillary, and the most despicable methods employed to bring the system into disrepute. This is not a general charge, though perfectly applicable in one instance.

Every owner is interested in a more rational treatment of the feet of horses, and those animals which have to perform duties that necessitate metal protection to the horn are affected. Now after further years of thorough trial, so far as experiments could be conducted with only a few horses to experiment upon, I have the gratification to know that the system has made such headway that there are supporters enough to continue the practice. Thus another of the controversies I have been so intimately connected with, occupies safe ground, and there is little fear of ultimate victory.

The first day of July, 1882, the first number of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN was published, so that the seven years of apprenticeship will come to an end in a short time. Those who are aware of the tribulations attending the launching of a new craft on the sea of journalism, will appreciate the satisfaction I feel that the long voyage has ended in reaching a safe port. While there was any doubt of ultimate success, there was a determination to stick to the colors, but now that the vessel is so handsomely equipped and well appointed throughout, the old pilot may be permitted to sit on a headland and admire the trim craft perpared to meet any storm which may arise.

There is a pleasure in "horse" journalism to an enthusiast in equine matters, though of all kindred pursuits it is the most trying. Although a very large proportion of breeders are men of intelligence and entertain broad views there are a few of so jealous a disposition, of such carping proclivities, fault finding, that there is no comfort or satisfaction in having anything to do with them.

That this class will gradually overcome this "faulty action," there is little doubt, and then the pleasure of writing of horses will far exceed the perplexities.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

The Dam of Homestakes.

In all books of authority one can find Homestake, 2:16½, by Whippleton, dam untraced. Mr. F. W. Loeber has received from D. S. Frasier, of Petaluma, (who formerly owned Whippleton) the following letter, which speaks for itself:

PETALUMA, March 24, 1889.

F. W. LOEBER, ESQ.

Dear Sir: Yours of the 19th in regard to the breeding of Homestake received. Homestake was sired by Whippleton, dam a brown mare, bred by Mr. E. Eaton, then of Petaluma, now of San Francisco. The mare was sired by Ben Franklin, a son of imp. Lawyer; g d a large brown mare, whose breeding was unknown. The mare had three foals by Whippleton, while at my place, the first a brown colt foaled March 7, 1879; the second a black filly foaled April 30, 1880, which died; the third a brown colt called Homestake, foaled April 17, 1881. I shipped the mare and colt with some others that John Mackey bought for Geo. Hearst, to Mr. Hearst's San Luis Obispo Ranch. Very truly yours,

D. S. FRAISER.

The Breeder's Association.

The following excellent report of the meeting of the trotting horse breeders is taken from the Chronicle and as it covers all the salient points is taken in its entirety.

Parlor A of the Palace Hotel was thronged last evening with persons interested in the breeding of trotting horses. The meeting was called to order by Wilfred Page, and Ariel Lathrop was elected temporary president.

Mr. Lathrop explained that the object of the meeting was to form the nucleus of a trotting-horse breeders' association in California.

J. C. Simpson advocated immediate organization, and proposed J. H. White as president.

Some of those present thought that the election of a president was too premature. They considered the meeting should be of an informal character, and that at the most a committee should be appointed to select and suggest the names of permanent officers.

G. W. Hancock moved as an amendment to Mr. Simpson's motion that a Board of Directors be first selected and be empowered to elect their president. The association, he argued, should be confined to genuine breeders.

L. U. Shippee thought organization should be effected with deliberation in order to make the movement a success. There were from 100 to 150 breeders on the coast who might be induced to join if the association were started right. The better plan would be to have a committee select names for permanent officers and report in two week's time, and in the meantime fix the amount of initiation fee and allow no one to have a voice in the arrangements who did not pay.

Mr. Simpson said it appeared to him that an effort would be made to form a clique in the association so that a few leading breeders might be benefitted.

Mr. Shippee said such an idea was erroneous. A breeder with only a couple of horses had as potent a voice as one owning hundreds.

The amendment was lost on a show of hands, and Mr. White was elected President in accordance with Simpson's motion. Captain N. T. Smith was elected Treasurer, and Wilfred Page Secretary.

The following then signed the roll-call of the new association: A. L. Bancroft, L. U. Shippee, O. A. Hickok, J. H. White, E. Topham, A. Weske, Wilfred Page, Fred W. Loeber, E. P. Heald, Thomas Bonner, J. C. Riordon, W. Corbitt, M. W. Hicks, G. W. Hancock, T. C. Snider, Wilber F. Smith, A. E. Clawson, J. J. Evans, H. J. Palmer, J. A. Goldsmith, G. Valensin, Leland Stanford, Ariel Lathrop, Samuel Gamble, S. N. Straube, D. McCarty, H. W. Crabb, W. S. Hobart, E. J. Miller Jr., N. T. Smith, J. C. Simpson, A. T. Hatch.

The Chair appointed the following committees who will report at the next meeting to be held April 19th: Rules and By-laws—Messrs. Shippee, Hancock, Gamble, Page and Smith. Committee to nominate directors—Messrs. Shippee, Lathrop and Simpson.

It was explained that the objects of the association were to further in every way the best interests of trotting horse breeding in California. The initiation fee was fixed at $25.

Mr. Page sends us an advertisement about the next meeting, which will take place on the 19th inst., but as the forms with advertisements had gone to press it will have to be left over until next week. However, we wish to impress upon our readers the importance of every breeder on the Pacific Coast joining the organization. You cannot afford to let this opportunity slip of joining a body that is working for your interests. Send in your name at once to Wilfred Page, Esq., Penn's Grove, Sonoma County, or to this office, when it will be forwarded to the Secretary.

An Iron Wind Mill.

An innovation upon the time honored windmills of Don Quixote, and the not less extraordinary machines of like motive power which the forefathers used, is the apparently slight, but really strong and serviceable Iron Turbine windmill advertised elsewhere in this paper by Messrs. P. P. Mast & Co., 31 Market street, city. The mill is the most powerful, durable, cheap and effective combination for raising water that is known. Its working parts are on broad bearings, nicely fitted and practically everlasting The frame is of ample strength, and the mill itself is readily moved, very powerful and easily managed. In windmills and irrigating canals lies the future of an empire in the great central valley of California, and the Iron Turbine will certainly become popular.

Answers to Correspondents.

Answers for this department MUST be accompanied by the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, but as proof of good faith. Write the questions distinctly, and on one side of the paper only. Positively no questions will be answered by mail or telegraph.

W C. Chisholm, Windsor.

I dropped you a postal card last week seeking a little information, and was surprised at not getting an answer in Saturday's paper. Please give me the breeding of the horse called Gen. Taylor, and also his record, if any?

Answer.—We received no postal card such as you say was sent. Gen. Taylor, gr h, foaled 1847, got by the Morse horse, dam Flora, not traced. Brought to California in 1854, where he trotted 30 miles against time, in harness, and won in 1 hr. 47 min. 59 seconds. He also beat New York 10 miles, to wagon, in 29:41½. His best mile record in harness is 2:48; to saddle, 2:44.

Geo. W. Pettied.

I have a valuable horse; he has a small quarter crack. Is it curable? If so, how?

Answer.—Yes. Pare away the upper part of the crack from its coronary attachment—either cut it out on a V shape or clasp it, and apply a mild blister to the coronet. Put on a three-quarter shoe. THOS. BOWHILL, M.R.C.V.S.

Whisky Jane.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—Seeing by all the sporting papers that they give the dam of "Whisky Jane" as by "Illinois Medoc" the dam of "Sam Purdy," I had intended for some time to give a little of the history of "Whisky Jane" and what I know about her, as it might be of some interest to your readers. She was bred in this (Greene) County and there never was a horse that stood in Greene County by the name of Illinois Medoc, as far back as fifty or sixty years. Now Whisky Jane was bred by a man by the name of Jackson, who has been dead several years, who sold her to James Amos, of this county, who took her to California, and sold her to William Morehead, of Sacramento, Cal. Mr. Jackson bred two mares. One to a pacing horse called Pete Whetstone. Pete Whetstone belonged to John Williams, of St. Louis, whom you were acquainted with. The other mare was bred to Champion Blackhawk, and was said to be by Hill's Black Hawk. Those mares produced two fillies and Whisky Jane was one of those fillies, but by which horse we never could find out. She looked from her size and appearance, like she might have been by Champion Blackhawk, but there is nothing certain about which horse she was by. Now I suppose it would not be out of place to inform you how Jane, came by her name. Mr. Morehead kept a stable in Sacramento; he was an odd kind of a man and he kept the mare down town at his stable. He used to send the mare up to the track at Sacramento by a man of the name of Jim. I do not just now remember Jim's surname. He came to the track to exercise her, and the boys there, in 1864, got very curious to know whether the "little mare" could trot any or not and if I am not mistaken Mr. John Mackey was at the track at the time, John B. Craft, a trainer (Yankee Smith) and myself. We came to the conclusion to find out whether she could trot any or not and as Jim liked his dram in the morning when he came to the track and the balance of us was not much behind him, our plan was for first one to treat and then another, until Jim began to feel pretty good, and then we made a bet among ourselves that she could not trot in 3:10; she made it in about (as well as I can remember) in 2:58, but before she got through she made another mile in 2:46. A butcher, William Armstrong, happened in on the track and saw what was going on, drove down town and told Mr. Morehead and he immediately drove up and found the mare standing outside. He came in and found the boys taking another drink on the performance of Jane. He singled out Jim and gave him a kick remarking "my mare [illegible]" Then and there she was named Whisky Jane, and went by that name from that out. I had some sale horses that I took to San Francisco to sell and Mr. Morehead wan ed me to take his mare and sell her also, but I refused, and when I got there stopped at George Bank's stable on Market St., where I made the acquaintance, through George Bank, of Mr. Erwin Davis, to whom I sold a little roan horse to go to the pole with a horse called Pat Morgan, and after trying them they did not drive well together, so I told him about Whisky Jane. He studied about it for a day or two, and finally wanted me to go back and get the mare for him. I instead, wrote to Mr. Moorehed. He brought her down and we sold her to Mr. Davis, to drive with Pat Morgan. The price was $600. As near as I can recollect now, this is my knowledge of Whisky Jane, and I expect there are many in California who would remember this circumstance when reminded of it. I think Mr. Frank Malone would remember it. This is a little old, but never the less it is true. C. DOYLE.

CARROLLTON, Illinois, March 24, 1889.

Points About Horses.

A horseman says there are certain marked points in a good horse. You can see breadth and fullness between the ears and eyes. You couldn't hire that mare to act mean or hurt anybody. The eye should be full, and hazel is a good color. I like a small, thin ear, and want a horse to throw his ears well forward. Look out for the brute that wants to listen to all the conversation going on behind him. The horse that turns back his ears till they almost meet at the points, take my word for it, is sure to do something wrong. See that straight, elegant face. A horse with a dashing face is cowardly, and a cowardly horse is usually vicious. Then I like a square muzzle, with large nostrils, to let in plenty of air to the lungs. For the under side of the head, a good horse should be well cut under the jowl, with jaw bones broad and wide apart under the throttle.

"So much for the head," he continued.

"The next thing is the build of the animal Never buy a long legged, stilty horse. Let him have a short, straight back and a straight rump, and you've got a gentleman's horse. The withers should be high and the shoulders well set back and broad; but don't get them too deep in the chest. The fore leg should be short. Give me a pretty straight hind leg, with the hock low down, short pastern joints, and a round mulish foot. There are all kinds of horses, but the horse that has these points is almost sure to be sightly, graceful, good-natured and serviceable.

A Well Told Story.

In this world all things must change, and the spell of weather which has rendered Kentucky the habitation of blue and discontented humanity has vanished like a summer cloud, and the sun once more smiles upon the face of the earth. We eagerly embrace the first seasonable opportunity to resume our visits to the various stud farms which form the basis of the material prosperity of this region. Early this morning J. W. Knox called for us, and we drove out behind Monarch Rule, 2:24½, to see the renowned Anteeo. Mr. Knox has located at the Metcalf Farm, and Anteeo will be the stud companion of Artillery, 2:21½. Our acquaintance with Mr. Knox dates back almost to our first recollection of trotting-horses, and was formed in a peculiar manner. There was to be a trotting meeting at Grand Rapids, Mich., where we then resided. A friend of ours had written from Pittsburg saying that a yellow stallion would appear at that meeting, that he was unknown, could trot in 2:25, and was called Nutwood. Our informant also said he was owned by a shrewd gentleman who would not show him up until he was ready to win, but advised us to say nothing and watch the indicator. On Monday morning of the race week we went to the track to see the horses moved, and quietly watched the advent of Nutwood. We saw on the track a large chestnut stallion, jogging sleepily around the track, never moving faster than a 3:00 gait, and then disappearing from the track. No one was timing him, and no one seemed to notice him. That night Frank Shaw, the old-time pool-seller, mounted the rostrum and preceded to sell the horses down. Little Sam, a local favorite, owned and driven by B. C. Holly, was the favorite, and the horses were sold out briskly until at the end of the list he called Nutwood. No one seemed to know him, but we heard a still, small voice say two dollars. There was no dispute or competition, and Nutwood was sold for two dollars. The same process was repeated with the same result, and we looked to see what manner of man was the purchaser, and discovered a quiet, modest man of medium size, standing partially concealed by a large pillar. Once again the pool was sold, and when Nutwood was called the same bid was made. Mr. Knox said two dollars, and we quietly held up three fingers. This seemed to surprise Shaw but he cried the bid and Mr. Knox said four, while we replied by holding up five fingers, and as there was no further competion we became the happy possessor of a Nutwood pool. This process was repeated three times, and we quietly changed our position until we stood next to Mr. Knox. When the third pool was sold to us he said: "I see you are buying Nutwood pools. What do you know about him?" We replied that we knew he was well bred, and could trot in 2:25. The term well bred and our mention of his speed seemed to astonish him, and he said, "How much of it do you want?" We replied: "Not much, and certainly do not wish to interfere with an owner." He said, "Thank you; tell me how many you want and I will get them for you cheaper than if we bid against each other. We thanked him, handed him our card and said: "When you are through, if you will get us four or five we will esteem it a favor." Well, the race was trotted, Splan was in it and some other noted drivers, and Little Sam after winning two heats, was a great favorite. In the first two heats Nutwood was nowhere, but in the third, when he passed under the wire first in a jog, there was astonishment in the grand stand and consternation in the camp of the betting fraternity. Nutwood won with ease, and in the evening Mr. Knox remarked to us: "I have a pretty good horse; I did not wish to uncover him here, but the boys left me out and I had to win it." It was in this race Nutwood first beat 2:30. It is a little singular that in that race Nutwood should have defeated Mr. Holly, the man who, in 1888, owned and trotted his best son to a fast record, made $20,000 out of his trotting qualities, and sold him for $32,000 to Robert Steel of Philadelphia. Nutwood was then unknown, but to day he stands at a fee of $500 the season, and is the sire of twenty-five performers with records from 2:15 to 2:30. Mr. Knox practically bred Nutwood, as at a visit to Woodburn he said to Mr. Broadhead: "If you will breed that gray mare to Belmont I will give you $500 for the foal at weaning time." The gray mare was Miss Russell, now the dam of Maud S., 2:08¾, and Nutwood was the foal.

The Electioneer Stallion LANCELOT,

SEAL BROWN STALLION, 15½ HANDS, FOALED APRIL 15, 1881.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco, Cal.

Sire Gov. Stanford's ELECTIONEER; first dam Lizzie Harris by Comus; second dam by Arnold Harris. Comus by Grec'n Bashaw, dam Topsey by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk. Young Bashaw by Grand Bashaw (Arabian) (182), dam Pearl by First Consul (913); g d Fancy by imp. Rockingham. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam Sportsmistress by American Eclipse.

All the sons of Electioneer in the Eastern States have their books filled for the season. This is a rare opportunity to breed to Lancelot at a very low price. Lancelot has shown quarters better than a 2:30 gait, and had it not been for an accident would have had a record as low as the fastest of the sons of Electioneer.

The Nutwood Stallion SALADIN.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco.

SALADIN, chestnut stallion, 16 hands 1 inch high; foaled April 9, 1880. By Nutwood; first dam Lady Utley Jr. by Speculation, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian; second dam Lady Utley. Grandam of Western Girl. Record 2:27½.

NUTWOOD (record 2:18¾), half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾, by Belmont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; first dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sally Russell by Boston; third dam Maria Russell by Thornton's Rattler; fourth dam Miss Shepard by Stockholder; fifth dam Miranda by Topgallant; sixth dam by imported Diomed; seventh dam by imported Medley; eighth dam by imported Juniper. Nutwood is the sire of Felix, 2:18¾; Dawn 2:19½; Manon 2:21; Menlo 2:21¼; Nutbreaker, two years old, 2:29¾; Nutwood Jr. 2:26; Mount Vernon 2:21; Woodnut 2:16¾, and several others that have trotted under 2:30.

The above stallions will make the season of 1889 at the Hoag stables, corner 1st and B Streets, Santa Rosa.

TERMS: $40 for the season for either of the above stallions.

The Thoroughbred Stallion Judge McKinstry,

Will make the Season of 1889, from March 1 to July 1, at San Felipe Rancho, near Gilroy.

PEDIGREE.

Foaled 1879, by Grinstead or Thad Stevens, dam Katy Pease; second dam Minnie Mansfield by imp. Glencoe; third dam Allegrante by imp. Young Truffle.

DESCRIPTION.

JUDGE McKINSTRY is a bright bay with black points, 15¾ hands in height, of a conformation combining power and speed. His breeding is one that cannot be excelled. The families on both sides being noted for their gameness and fleetness. Speaking of JUDGE McKINSTRY, Matt Storn, the well-known trainer, says: "He is the fastest race-horse I ever saw on the Sacramento track. He has shown me trials that were marvelous, one especially of a mile and a quarter that was ahead of the present record." He was started in several races when not in condition to run, and even then developed an amount of speed that is characteristic of the noted families from which he descends. His performances are too well known to need repetition here. Good judges of horses st te positively that there can be no doubt of his sire, as he is a perfect picture of Grinstead, but rule compels us to name both sires.

TERMS: $75 payable when the mare is moved from ranch, or, $100, with the usual privilege. Good pasturage, $3 per month. Mares at owners risk. All communications must be addressed to

Prince Imperial.

DESCRIPTION.—PRINCE IMPERIAL is a black horse, 15-3 hands high; weighs 1,150 pounds, and is a model of beauty, action and power.

PEDIGREE.—Sired by Black Prince, he by Dictator, own brother to Dexter, dam Daisy by Witherell Messenger, he by Winthrop Messenger, son of imp. Messenger.

Mr. Peter Brandow's statement in regard to Prince Imperial: "I met A. Weske in the Park in 1887 driving the above horse, both strangers to me. I was driving a good horse, but the above horse, hitched to a phaeton, beat me easily. I followed him to find out what horse it was, and he finally allowed me to hitch him to a sulky, which I did, and drove him easily in 2:32¼. I think him one amongst the best horses in California, and firmly believe that in six months I can drive him in 220."

PETER BRANDOW.
Trainer of trotters for 25 years.

In 1881, while visiting Salt Lake City, I saw the colt Prince Imperial, and bought him for my own use, and have used him for family purposes ever since. In offering him for public service last year, not knowing anything about horses' pedigrees I made a mistake in his. I wrote to the owner of the mare in Salt Lake, Dr. S. B. Young, and he says she was by Henry Clay, brought from Kentucky by him.

Will make the season of 1889 at the farm of A. Weske, 2½ miles from Santa Rosa on the Healdsburg road. Season commencing March 1st.

SIRE OF YOLO MAID, 2:14.

Alexander Button.

Alexander's Record, 2:31 1-4:

DESCRIPTION.

Alexander Button is a dark bay with fine flowing mane and tail; stands 15-3¾ hands high; weighs 1,200 pounds, and is of excellent disposition. When three years old he made a record of 2:28¾, and when four years old, in his first race, he obtained a record of 2:26¾. Has been driven a mile in 2:16 in his four-year-old form, and has been drive a last half in 1:0 . Alexander Button is a natural trotter, inherited through the speed-lines of his ancestors, and imparts his speed to his offspring with uniform certainty. Yolo Maid, as a three-year-old, paced 18 heats, never leaving her feet—carrying the world's record of 2:14. Rosie Mc, as a five-year old, rarely ever breaks; has a record of 2:20¾. R. H. Newton's colt, with very little handling, paced a 2:16 gait, and there are several other colts that show gaits from 2:16 to 2:20. Considering that Alexander Button has never been mated with a standard-bred mare—his colts show him to be a wonderful producer—and with his breeding, and terms of service, he is the cheapest and most wonderful horse in the State.

PEDIGREE.

Alex. Button was sired by Alexander, he by Geo. M. Patchen, Jr., his dam Lady Button by Napa Rattler by Biggett's Rattler, he by Sir Henry, and he by imported Henry, dam of Biggett's Rattler by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam of Napa Rattler, thoroughbred.

TERMS: $75, payable at end of season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge. Good pasturage will be furnished at $2 per month, and due care taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability whatever assumed.

Will stand at City Stable, Woodland, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. The remainder of the time he will stand at my ranch, which is situated about 1½ miles west of Yolo station.

All mares sent to Fashion Stable, Woodland, Yolo County, will be forwarded free of charge.

LONGWORTH.

High Bred Trotting Stallion.

WILL BE FOUR YEARS OLD IN MARCH.
Dark Bay, Black Points, by Sidney.
OWNED BY A. C. DIETZ, OAKLAND.

Also the owner of Bay Stallion Ringwood, four years old, by Sidney, half brother to Longworth, which has showed trials over the Oakland Track, 2:30; quarters, in 34 seconds—2:16 gait —as a three-year old.

LONGWORTH, for finish, style and form cannot be excelled by any four-year-old horse in the State. His g it is perfect; going low to the ground, with smooth, easy motion, and has shown wonderful speed with but two month's work. As a two year-old, he showed a 2:40 gait; as a three-year-old showed—trial—full mile over the Oakland track, 2:26; half mile, 1:10; quarters, 34 seconds; eighths, 16 seconds—a 2:08 gait.

Long sort is the result of a long line of distinguished ancestors, endowed with speed on the sire and dams' side that follows back for generations—consequently he cannot help but produce great speed.

He is half brother to the great three-year-old Adonis, record 2:14¼.

Gold Leaf, three-year-old record, 2:15.
Memo, three-year-old trial, 2:20¼.
Sister V., two-year-old trial, 2:32.
St. Nicholas, three-year-old trial, 2:27¼.
Ringwood, three-year-old trial, 2:30.
Miss Sidney, one-year-old trial, half mile, 1:38.
Brown colt, three-year-old trial, 2:40.
Black colt, three-year-old trial, 2:39.
Linda, one-year-old trial, one quarter, 40 seconds.
Sorrel colt, two-year-old trial, quarter, 34 seconds, and a number more that have shown remarkable speed. One yearling that has shown one-eighth of a mile in 16 1-5 seconds—a 2:10 gait.

Sidney, the sire of Longworth, has a record of 2:19¾; Santa Claus, the grand sire, has a record of 2:17½; Sweetness, the grandam, record 2:21¼; Strathmore, the sire of Santa Claus, has twenty-two that have trotted below 2:30; Volunteer, the sire of Sweetness, has twenty-six that have trotted below 2:30. Volunteer is the sire of St. Julian, record 2:11¾.

Longworth's first dam Grey Dale, the dam of Daisy C., Silver Threads, and grandam of Phaeeola; Grey Dale by American Boy, Jr.; he by American Boy, the sire of Belmont. Second dam Grey Poll by Winfield Scott, by Edward Everett; third dam Sorrel Poll by Sir Henry; fourth dam Daughter of Printer.

Grey Dale, the dam of Longworth, has shown herself a great producer of speed through Daisy C. and Silver Threads, the sire of Phaeeola.

All letters pertaining to the service of this horse should be addressed to J. J. FAIRBANKS, Oakland, Alameda County, Cal.

TERMS: Fifty dollars, payable at the end of the season or sooner if the mares are taken away. Season will close June 15th, 1889. The number of mares limited to twenty-five. The best of care will be taken to insure mares with foal. Pasture $5 per month, which can be procured at the Oakland Race Track. Mares at the owners' risk, as to escapes or accidents.

The stallion will be kept at the stables of the undersigned, at the junction of San Pablo Avenue and Park Street.

THIS CELEBRATED TROTTING-BRED STALLION will be limited to 40 mares the ensuing season at Oakland Trotting Park, Oakland, Cal., commencing February 1st and ending July 1st, at $100 the season, with the usual privilege of returning the mare next season if not proving in foal. The names of his patrons will be entered on his book in order of their application. He will be limited strictly to forty mares. Pasturage at five dollars per month, hay and grain extra.

NOONDAY, sired by Wedgewood (692), record, the fourth heat, 2:19, (sire of Favonia, record, fourth heat, 2:15, and Nugget, record 2:26, he the sire of Nettle Leaf, four-year-old record 2:23¾), and five others better than 2:26.

First dam Noontide, record 2:20½, by Harold (113), sire of Maud S., record 2:08¾, Mattie Graham, 2:21¼, and 17 others in 2:30.

Second dam Midnight (the dam of Jay-Eye-See, record 2:10), by Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Maud S., 2:08¾, Nutwood, 2:18¾.

Third dam by Lexington (sire of dam of Ansel, 2:20.)

Fourth dam by imp. Glencoe (sire of the grandam of Favonia, 2:15), sire of the sire of the dam of Arrow, 2:13½.

Wedgewood, by Belmont (64), sire of Nutwood, 2:18¾.

First dam (the dam of Woodford Mambrino, 2:21), by Woodford (thoroughbred son of Kosciusko), he by Sir Archy.

NOONDAY is well formed, evenly balanced and handsome; his color is dark seal brown, small star, right hindfoot white, 15 1¾ inches high, weight 975 lbs, strong back and good gaited, short and rapid, and will make a fast and game campaigner.

Breeders will please remember that this horse is not owned by me. I have only leased him for two years for the benefit of the State and breeders on account of the speedy lines and blood that this State is in need of, and no stallion now in public service can show a pedigree with such fast records as enrich the blood of NOONDAY.

I will also handle and train a few horses for gentlemen at fair terms. Address

THREE CHEERS

Will make the Season of 1889 at Oakland Race Track, Oakland, Alameda County.

Pedigree.

Sired by imported Hurrah, first dam Young Fashion by imported Monarch; second dam Fashion by imported Trustee; third dam Bonnets o' Blue by Sir Charles; fourth dam Reality by Sir Archy; fifth dam by imported Medley; sixth dam by imported Centinel, etc. (See Bruce's American Stud Book, Vol. 1, page 432.)

Hurrah by Newminster (winner St. Leger 1851), dam Jovial by Bay Middleton (winner Derby 1836.)

Newminster by Touchstone (winner St. Leger 1831), dam Beeswing (winner of 54 races out of 64 starts) by Dr. Syntax (winner Doncaster Cup 1887, 40, 41, 42, the only horse that ever accomplished that feat.)

THREE CHEERS is bred in the speediest and stoutest lines. His dam, Young Fashion was the dam of Surprise, Scotland (the only horse that ever beat Asteroid a heat), Liverpool, Columbia and Bonnie Kate, the dam of Little Buttercup and the flying Bonnie Lizzie. His grandam, Fashion, was the greatest race mare of her era, defeating Boston in that historical match at four mile heats, that is recorded as one of the greatest events in the annals of the turf. He is thoroughly sound in wind and limb, his family on both sides being noted for their exemption from curbs, spavins, roaring, or any other hereditary unsoundness. Horsemen, who can appreciate the highest type of the thoroughbred, are specially invited to inspect Three Cheers.

THREE CHEERS is the sire of Almont, Applause and Why Not, the only three of his get ever trained, and all are stake winners.

TERMS: $75 for the season. Mares not proving with foal can be returned the next season free of charge. Good pasturage at $5 per month. Mares cared for in any manner owners may desire, and fed on hay and grain, either or both, at reasonable rates. None but competent grooms employed, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

N. B.—Mares sent from a distance in care of J. W. Morshead, City Front Stables, San Francisco, will be forwarded without delay.

THE WILKES STALLION

Mambrino Wilkes, 6083

(Half Brother to Harry Wilkes, 2:13 1-2.)

Sire of Gus Wilkes, 2:22; Alpheus, 2:27; Balkan 2:29¾, three-year-old; John O'Brien, lapped out the winner in 2:36 as a three-year-old; H. A. W.'s Black Colt, trial 2:29 with very little work as a four-year-old.

Will remain in the future at San Miguel Stock Farm, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County.

DESCRIPTION.

MAMBRINO WILKES is a black horse, 16 hands high, and considerably longer than his height; has immense muscular development and weighs 1,260 pounds. He has the utmost symmetry of proportion and elegance of finish. No competent judge who has seen this horse has failed to pronounce him a perfect individual, and his breeding is certainly fashionable enough to satisfy the most fastidous. His colts are large, stylish and handsome, and Balkan has been pronounced by many the most stylish trotter on the turf.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by George Wilkes, dam Lady Chrisman by Todhunter's Mambrino; second dam by Pilot Jr.

Todhunter's Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, dam Ripton's dam by Hunt's Commodore, son of Mambrino, by imp. Messenger; second dam by Potomac, son of imp. Messenger.

Mambrino Chief by Mambrino Paymaster, by Mambrino, by imp. Messenger.

George Wilkes sired 65 colts that have beaten 2:30. Of these 39 have average records of 2:24, 14 of 2:19 and 12 of 2:18.

TERMS.

Mares from a distance will be received at the Dexter Stables, Oakland, or Livery Stable, Martinez, the owner notifying Smith Hill, Superintendent at the farm. Good pasture and plenty of water. For the purpose of placing the service of a Wilkes within reach of breeders, the same rate will be maintained as last year, to wit, $75 for the season. Although it is not admitted thereby that this horse is inferior as a producer to the horses whose fees are placed at from $150 to $500.

BALKAN,

Three-year-old Record 2:29 1-2; trotting many heats faster, when he did not obtain a record.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Fanny Fern by Jack Hawkins, son of Boston; second dam S. 1. B. by Jim Crow.

It will be readily seen that this colt is from strong producing lines on both sides Fanny Fern having produced Mollie Drew, May Queen, Onyx and Fred Arnold, all noted trotters and all by different sires.

This colt will be kept at the Oakland Trotting Park, and will be stinted to ten approved mares at $100 for the season.

MEMO.

The Fast Trotting Stallion, the Best Son of Sidney.

Will make the Season of 1889 at the Oakland Trotting Park.

He was bred by G. Valensin at the Arno Stock Farm, Sacramento County, California; foaled spring of 1885.

PEDIGREE.

By Sidney,
First dam Flirt by Buccaneer,
Second dam Mohaska Belle by Flaxtail.
Third dam by John the Baptist.

Sidney by Santa Claus, 2:17½, his dam Sweetness, 2:21½. Strathmore, the son of Santa Claus, has 22 of his get which have trotted in 2:30 or better, up to close of 1887, several having entered since, and Volunteer the sire of Sweetness, has 26 in the same list. Buccaneer is the sire of Shamrock, two-year-old record 2:25, and of Flight, 2:29, and in him are combined the strains of Long Island Blackhawk, Vermont Blackhawk, and the dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Flaxtail figures prominently in both pacing and trotting descendants, and is the sire of the dam of Apex, 2:26, Flight, 2:29, J. H. McCormack, 2:29, and Shamrock, 2:25.

PERFORMANCES.

Memo only trotted in public in his two-year-old form, obtaining a record of 2:49, though he was close to Grandee in a race on the Bay District Track, the second heat of which was made in 2:33½, the first in 2:32. He exhibited phenomenal speed when three years old, and had it not been for a slight strain of his fore fetlock there is little question that he would have shown in public very close to the best record. On the Oakland track he was timed a mile in 2:20½, and frequently trotted quarters in from 32s to 34 seconds.

DESCRIPTION.

He is nearly if not quite sixteen hands high, and of powerful build throughout. His color is a glossy black, with both fore-feet white and a touch of white on his off hind quarters. His disposition is all that could be desired, and his action superb.

TERMS: One hundred dollars the season, which will commence on the 5th of February and close on the 1st of July. Due care will be taken of mares, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes.

Mares taken and kept as desired by the owners, and at reasonable rates.

Pasturage at $5 per month within the track enclosure; feed first rate, and a living stream of water in the field. There is a double protection against escapes, as in addition to a strong fence on the inside of the track, the gates of the outer fence are enclosed at night, which gives almost positive assurance of safety. Address

ELECTIONEER STALLION

EROS,

Standard No. 5326.

Electioneer, his sire, has more 2:30 trotters than any living horse, and more 2:30 trotters than any stallion LIVING OR DEAD.

Eros has a record of 2:29¼, made in the fifth and deciding heat against a field of eight horses in his maiden race, and with only four weeks preparation after coming out of the stud.

Dam Sontag Mohawk, dam of Sallie Benton (four-year-old record 2:17¾). Sontag Mohawk by Mohawk Chief, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

Progeny.

Eros had last fall but three colts trained; the oldest a three-year-old trotter, an exhibition mile during the San Jose Fair in 2:31, last quarter in 36½ seconds. A two-year-old (timed by the judges) made a mile in 2:16½, and the other two year old in 2:47. All of these trials being made without a single skip, and none of these colts had then been handled three months from the bitting harness.

TERMS: $50 for the season, from February 1st to July 1, 1889. Due at time of service.

Pasturage, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes. Apply to

WILKES PASHA.

STANDARD 2618.

Dark bay with white hind feet, 16¼ hands high, bred by R. P. Pepper, of South Elk Horn Farm, Frankfort, Kentucky. Sired by Onward, 1411, record 2:25¼, trial 2:17. He by George Wilkes, 2:22, sire of sixty-five horses in the 2:30 list, ten of them with records below 2:20. First dam Fisher (dam of Clara Wilkes, 2:20¾, trial 2:25) by American Clay, 34, sire of Granville, 2:28; Maggie Briggs, 2:27; Ella Clay, 2:27½; and the dams of Executor, 2:24½, Ruchero, 2:23½; Judge Hawser, 2:24¾; Ambassador, 2:25, and nine others in 2:30; second dam by Wilson's Snow Storm, sire of Jim Irving, 2:26; third dam by Paddie Burns, thoroughbred.

Onward, 1411, is one of the noted sires of to-day. In 1887 he placed seven performers in the 2:30 list, including Hourl three-year-old record 2:18¾; while in 1888 he still further sustains his reputation by adding nine of his sons and daughters to the list. Onward combines the blood of the two great trotting families, Hambletonian 10 and Mambrino Chief 11, and derives his speed inheritance direct through the greatest son of the one family, and the greatest daughter of the other.

Onward's dam was Dolly (the dam of Director, 2:17, and Thorndale, 2:22½), by Mambrino Chief. Dolly was one of the greatest speed-producing brood mares that ever lived. George Wilkes stands at the head of the list of sires of fast trotters with 65 performers with records of 2:30 or better, and the combination of these two great producers will breed on with absolute certainty.

WILKES PASHA will make the season of 1889 at the stables of the undersigned, at the Trancas Bridge, two miles north of Napa, on the Soda Spring Road.

TERMS,

For the season ending July 1, 1889, $35 in U. S. gold coin.

Alfalfa pasturage $4 per month; natural grass $2.50 per month.

Every attention and care will be given to mares, but no liabilities assumed for accidents or escapes.

VINELAND BREEDING FARM.

Whippleton, 1883,

STANDARD UNDER RULE 4 & 6.

The most successful stock horse in California for his opportunities. WHIPPLETON has no equal as a producer of carriage and general purpose horses. Sire of Lily Stanley, record 2:17½, dam's breeding unknown; Homestakes pacer, 2:16½, dam's breeding unknown; Flora B., 2:30, dam's breeding unknown; Cora C., three-year-old pacer, 2:33¼, dam by Naubuc, Rachel, 2:38, dam's breeding unknown.

DESCRIPTION.

WHIPPLETON is a beautiful black, tan muzzle and flanks, and exceptionally strongly made all over. He stands 17 hands high and weighs 1400 pounds. He is beyond doubt the most uniform breeder on the Coast for size, color and finish. Most of his colts are 16 hands or over, and all bay, brown or black in color. He has never sired a sorrel or white faced colt; if he does I agree to refund service money.

PEDIGREE.

WHIPPLETON, sired by Hambletonian Jr. (sire of Hancock 2:29), by Whipple's Hambletonian; dam Lady Livingston; (dam of Lady Blanchard 2:26¼, Bloomfield Maid, trial 2:22); by General Taylor (sire of dam of Wells Fargo 2:18¾, Nearea 2:23½, Bickford 2:29½, Lady Blanchard 2:26¼) and Stella 2:30, son of the Morse horse.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars, with usual return privilege.

ALCONA, 730.

By the great Almont (sire of Westmont, 2:15¼, Puritan, 2:16, Fannie Witherspoon, 2:16¼, Piedmont, 2:17¼, and 31 others with records better than 2:30, and grandsire of Bell Hamlin, 2:13¼) by Alexander's A dallah (sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14), he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Alcona's dam, Queen Mary by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¼, Woodford Mambrino, 2:21¾ and 4 others in 2:30 list, and sire of the dams of Piedmont, 2:17¼. Director, 2:17, Onward, 2:25¼, and many others; 23 of his sons have produced 2:30 trotters.

Almont has 38 sons that have produced 2:30 trotters, which number is only equaled by his grandsire, Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

DESCRIPTION.

Alcona is a beautiful chestnut, 16¾ hands high, and weighs 1,300 pounds. His colts possess speed, style, finish and beauty, and if they don't trot fast they command the highest price for carriage and general purpose horses. Eleven of Alcona's colts that have been sold UNTRAINED brought $7,810, an average of $710 per hea .

TERMS: $35. Usual return privilege.

Grandissimo,

Full Brother to GRANDEE. 3-year-old record 2:23 1-2.

Sired by La Grande (son of Almont, and out of Jessie Pepper by Mambrino Chief; Jessie Pepper is the dam of Iona 2:22, Alpha 2:23½, Sterling Wilkes 2:33¾, and others) dam Norma, by Arthurton (sire of Arab 2:15, Joe Arthurton 2:2 ¼, etc).

Grandam Nourmahal, (full sister to A. W. Richmond, sire of Arrow 2:13¾, Romero 2:19, and sire of Columbine, dam of Anteeo 2:16¾, and Antevolo 2:19¼ at 4 years old),

DESCRIPTION.

Grandissimo is 3 years old, will make a sixteen hand horse; he is a rich mahogany bay in color and perfect in style and action. Limited to ten mares, at $50 for the season. Usual ret rn privileges.

In case any of my horses are sold before the next season, parties breeding mares have the privilege to return them to any other stallion I have making the se ison at the same price. ELECTION,

BY ELECTIONEER.

DESCRIPTION.

ELECTION is a beautiful bay, with small star in forehead. Near forefoot and pastern white; both hind f et white above ankles. He was foaled April 10, 1884, at Palo Alto. Stands 15½ hands high and weighs 1075 pounds. Election was sold in his yearling form to B. R. Crocker of Sacramento, who kept him for two years and then sold him to Mr. H. J. Palmer, who placed him in charge of Wilbur F. Smith to develop. From an ordinary road gait he was made, after three months training, to trot a mile in 2:30.

PEDIGREE.

ELECTION by Electioneer, dam Lizzie H. by Whipple's Hambletonian; 2d dam Lizzie Harris by Comus, son of Green's Bashaw, sire of Josephus 2:19¾, Fred Douglas 2:20¾, and fourteen more in 2:30 or better; 3d dam by Arnold Harris.

Comus by Green's Bashaw, sire of dams of Joe Young 2:20¾, Trampoline 2:23¾, dam Topsy (dam of Iowa Chief 2:31¼), sire of Corisande 2:24½, by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk, sire of Ethan Allen 2:25½.

Green's Bashaw by Vernol's Black Hawk, son of Long Island Black Hawk, 1st dam Belle by Webber's Tom Thumb; 2d dam Chas. Kent mare, dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian by imp. Bellfounder. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam Sportmistress by American Eclipse, etc.

This fine Electioneer horse will make the season of 1889 at Woodland. Service limited to a few mares of approved breeding. Season commencing March 1st and ending July 1st.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars for the season, due at time of service Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season by paying difference in price, provided no change in ownership of horse. For further particulars address

J. L. CARRIGAN, Agent.

ANNUAL FALL MEETING.

In addition to the regular racing programme to be given at this meeting, the following Guarantee Stakes are announced:

RAISIN HANDICAP. For all ages. 1¼ mile dash. Guarantee Purse $1,000. $100 entrance. $10 May 1st, $15 June 1st, $25 July 1st. Weights will be declared August 15th and acceptance September 1st, when the other $50 is to be paid. To be run at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entrance money amounts to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the association will add 20 per cent. of amount of purse; 3 moneys, 70, 20, 10 per cent. of purse. Horses winning any purse or stake of one mile or more at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $800 or over, shall carry 10 pounds extra. Horses winning a purse or stake of one mile or over at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $500 or over, to carry 5 pounds extra.

Weights to be declared through BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, August 15, 1889. Entries close May 1st with the Secretary.

American Association Rules to govern.

REMARKS.

As to the Handicap Running, 1¼ mile dash, the Handicapping Committee will use due diligence in learning the performance of every horse entered, and weighting them fairly to their merits. Each entry must be accompanied by entrance money or be considered no entry. All payments not made when due the nominator forfeits all money paid in. We propose at the finish of the race the horse winning the purse, or any part of it, gets his money and not forfeit papers.

GUARANTEE PURSE.

For horses that never beat 2:30. Trotting Purse $1,000, $100 entrance, $25 May 1st, $.5 July 1st, $50 August 15th, when horses are to be named. To be trotted at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entries amount to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the Association will add 20 per cent. of amount of stakes. Four moneys, 40, 25, 15, 10 per cent of purse.

Horses eligible at closing of entries, May 1st.

American Association rules to govern.

REMARKS.

This 2:30 class Guarantee Purse gives the party making the entry the privilege of naming any horse he sees fit the 15th day of August, having no better record than 2:30 the first day of May, irrespective of the record he gets after that date. You will see by this the nominator has almost a sure thing of getting his money back. Any nominator failing to make payments when due, forfeits all money paid in, and money must accompany entry or it will be considered no entry.

Our grounds are the finest appointed in the State being about 2½ miles from the city; horse car line running direct to the grounds.

We also have the best of box stalls for 100 horses. Hay and straw furnished to all horses entered in races free of charge. Grain can be procured on the grounds at reasonable rates.

AMBERINE.

$25. $25.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by PROMPTER No. 2105, with six weeks training at the close of a stud season, he won a stallion race of five heats, winning the last three heats and getting a record of 2:33¾; he has never been trained since.

His sire, Wilson's BLUE BULL, No. 75, has more of his progeny in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived, except it may be George Wilkes, and it is a disputed point between the two which has most.

PROMPTERS' dam, PRAIRIE BIRD, 2:28¾, is in the GREAT BROOD MARE TABLE, a proved producer, and of a family of wonderful producers, as an examination of the produce of Flaxtail mares will prove.

AMBERINE'S dam, "BONNIE," owned by G. W. Hancock, of Sacramento, is one of the best road-mares in the State; she has many times covered 50 miles on the road in five hours, and 125 miles in 17 hours. She is the dam of Daisy, yearling record, 2:38¼; her sire is John Nelson, sire of the dams of Albert W., 2:20, and Valensin, 2:24.

AMBERINE is a beautiful bay, three years old, very powerfully built, 16 hands, and trotted a mile in his yearling form in 3:20, and has never been trained.

Will serve 15 outside mares at the low price of $25 the season. Should the mare not prove in foal, the money refunded or mare bred following season. Service fee payable, when I pasture the mare, at the time of her removal; but if served outside, payable at time of service.

He is full brother to DAISY; yearling record, 2:38¼. THE BEST IN THE WORLD FOR PACING. Two-year-old trial, two miles, 5:07; last mile in 2:24.

Good pasturage for a limited number of mares only, at $5 per month. Ranch 18 miles from the City, San Pedro Valley. Horses taken down at owner's risk. This horse will stand in San Francisco, San Mateo, or Alameda Counties. Owned by 1891.

Stanford Stakes

A sweepstakes for trotting colts and fillies, foals of 1888, $175 each, $25 payable on the 2d of April, 1889, which must accompany the nomination, and none will be recorded in which there is a failure to comply with this requirement, at which time the stakes will close; $25 on the 1st of January 1890; $25 on the 1st of January 1891, and $100 thirty days before the day fixed for trotting, whatever amount up to be considered forfeit, and the neglect to pay at the stipulated time incurring forfeiture of the previous payments. The race to be heats of a mile, best 3 in 5 to harness. First to receive six-ninths of the whole sum, the second two-ninths, the third one-ninth. In addition to the stakes and forfeits the proportion of the gate money, profit on pool sales, and all other sources of emolument will constitute the gross amount, to be divided in the foregoing proportions. Five or more subscribers to fill. The race to be trotted in 1891, not sooner than the 1st of August. The exact date to be fixed and announced on the 1st of April, 1891, or sooner.

The stakes for 1892 will close January 2, 1890. $25 entrance.

Race to be governed by the Rules of the National Trotting Association. Nominations to be made to N. T. SMITH, Treasurer, S. P. Railroad Office, Fourth and Townsend Streets, on or before the 2d day of April, 1889. The colt must be named, the name and pedigree, so far as known, given.

Should a Pacific Coast Trotting-Horse Breeder's Association be gotten up, the above stake may be transferred to that, the Treasurer, N. T. Smith, having the power to make the transfer, and also to arrange anything else, in connection with this stake which is not expressed in the above conditions. Should it occur that Captain Smith cannot act at any time, then a majority of the subscribers still eligible to start will have the power to fill the vacancy.

Under the new trotting rules letters legibly postmarked April 1st will be eligible.

N. T. SMITH, Treasurer.

STALLIONS.

DIRECTOR 2:17.

DIRECTOR will stand at Pleasanton from March 1st to August 1st, 1889, for fifteen good mares more than are now booked, at $2 0 for the season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge of service to same stallion, or money will be refunded, at option of the Stock Farm Co.

Pasturage $4 per month, hay and grain extra. Accidents and escapes at owner's risk. Service fees due at time of service and must be paid, together with pasturage, etc., before mares are taken away, or a good approved note given, payable August 1st, 1889, at which date all bills must be settled

THISTLE,

Full brother to Gold Leaf, pacing record 2:15 at three years old. By Sidney, dam Fernleaf, she the dam of stallion Shamrock, trotting record at two years old, 2:25. Thistle is a large, speedy pacing colt, showing more speed than Gold Leaf at the same age, and double the speed of his sire; so if anyone wants to breed pacers, here is a chance.

Thistle will stand for seven approved mares at $100 for the season, with same conditions and return privileges as Dictator.

GROVER CLAY,

Bay Stallion, bred by Hon. W. W. Traylor, San Francisco. Foaled 1883. By ELECTIONEER.

First dam MAGGIE NORFOLK by NORFOLK, son of Lexington.

Second dam by BILLY CHEATHAM.

Third dam by DORSEY'S GOLDDUST.

GROVER C. is a very handsome shade of bay, 15¾ hands high, and showing as much quality as a majority of thoroughbreds. He is as square-gaited a trotter as can be, and has shown a great deal of speed for the amount of handling. Has been worked very little, though he can show a thirty gait or better whenever called upon.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars the season, payable at time of service. Proper care will be taken, but no responsibility incurred for accidents or escapes. Mares will be pastured inside of the Oakland Trotting Park, which is especially safe, having two fences which give ample security against escape. There is a never-failing stream of water which runs through the field, and the food is good.

Season commencing first of January and ending the first of July.

This is the only son of Electioneer standing in Alameda County, and the high breeding on the side of his dam is a guarantee that his colts will inherit qualities already made famous through the mixture of Electioneer and Lexington blood. Ansel, 2:20, is from a Lexington mare, and Sunol's granddam, two-year-old record 2:18, was by Lexington, both Sunol and Ansel by Electioneer, Lexington the sire of Norfolk.

Thoroughbred Stallion

Prince of Norfolk,

Will Make the Season of 1889, from Feb. 15th to July 1st, at Sacramento.

PEDIGREE.

PRINCE OF NORFOLK, ch c, foaled 1881, by Norfolk; 1st dam Marion by Malcolm; 2nd dam Maggie Mitchell by imp. Yorkshire; third dam Charmer by imp. Glencoe; 4th dam Betsy Malone by Stockholder; 5th dam by Potomac; 6th dam by imp. Diomed; 7th dam by Pegasus, etc. Norfolk, the unbeaten son of Lexington, is the sire of Winters, Twilight, Connor, Ballot Box, Trade Dollar, Flood, Duchess of Norfolk, Lou Spencer, the Great Emperor of Norfolk, an many others. Marion's sire, Malcolm, was one of the first horses to bring Bonnie Scotland into notice. Through the Maggie Mitchell cross comes the blood of two of the most celebrated race mares of their day, Charmer and Betsy Malone. The combined speed of these great families seem to be concentrated in the get of Norfolk and Marion, as is instanced in the case of the Emperor of Norfolk, who is a full brother to the Prince of Norfolk.

The blood lines here displayed cannot be surpassed in the world, there not being a single cross that has not been celebrated for speed and endurance, and it is fair to assume that the get of this stallion will show equally well with those of past generations.

TERMS, $50 for the season. We offer first class pasturage on our own ranch, at $4 per month and the best of care will be taken of mares sent to us, but no responsibility can be incurred. For further particulars address

Frank Morgan.

DESCRIPTION.

FRANK MORGAN was brought to California by Mr. S. E. Larabee of Montana. He is undoubtedly one of the handsomest stallions in the country, is a dark chestnut, about 16 hands in height, of free, easy carriage, well galted, perfectly developed and superb in general appearance. In disposition he is all that could be desired. He has been named Frank Morgan in honor of the family from which he descends.

PEDIGREE.

FRANK MORGAN was sired by an unnamed son of Morgan General, Jr., by Morgan General, by Billy Root, by Sherman, by Justin Morgan. Dam by Romeo, by Green Mountain Morgan 2nd, by Gifford's Morgan, by Woodbury Morgan, by Justin.

FRANK MORGAN will make the season of 1889 at the Oakland Race Track, serving a limited number of mares. He is a sure and reliable foal getter, and the uniform beauty and style of his colts have shown him to be a producer of the finest class of road and carriage horses that have ever been seen in this country.

TERMS.—$40 FOR THE SEASON.

Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. The best care will be taken of all mares, but no risks for accidents or escapes. For further particulars, address

OSSIDINE

Results obtained at the well-known Kalamazoo Farm.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 15, 1888.

GENTLEMEN:—We have used Ossidine for the past two years and consider it invaluable for Sprung Tendons, Curbs, Ringbone and Spavins; there is nothing equals it; and for us it effected a permanent cure where firing failed, although perfo med by one of the most successful veterinarians on the continent. We have recommended it to others with like success, and believe it has more merit than any blister ever used.

Very respectfully yours, S. A. BROWNE & Co., Prop's.

This scientific preparation is an absolute cure for all bony or callous lumps on horses, and is a more powerful absorbent than "firing," without creating the slightest blemish. After a few applications the excrescence is so palpably reduced that even the skeptical frankly acknowledge that it is by far the most valuable outward remedy for horses ever invented.

The ONLY preparation in the world that wil' remove a Bone Spavin after it has become ossified.

Price $3.00 per Large Bottle,

Owner of Eole, St Saviour, Eolist, etc, says; I have long used it in my stables, and find it to be all that is claimed for it in removing callous and unnatural bony growths, without leaving the slightest blemish. From my experience, I most strongly recommend the use of Ossidine, and feel that it is a necessary adjunct to every stable. Yours respectfully,

Curious and True Obſervations about the Working of the Bitt Alone, which being not Truly Considered, no Man can Work with the Bitt as he Ought to do.

But to Work only with the Reins of the Bridle, which Work upon the Bitt, is another Business; for now I consider what the Bitt is, which is another Engine, that Works upon the Horse's Barrs, and the Curb; and the two Branches are like Leavers to Work on those two Places: as the Reins pull the Cheeks, either the inward Cheek or the outward Cheek; The Barrs, and the place of the Curb, is much Lower than his Nose, on which the Cavezone Works; and the Rings where the Reins of the Bridle are fastned, at the Ends of the Cheeks, are much Lower than the Barrs, or the Curb; but as the Cheeks are pull'd by the Reins of the Bridle, so doth the Bitt Work upon the Barrs, or the Curb, accordingly.

As for Example: On the Right Hand, the Reins separated in both your Hands, if you pull the inward Rein from his Neck on the inside, then you pull the Inward Cheek into the Turn, and then the Mouth of the Bitt goes Out, and Presses the Horse on his Barrs, without the Turn; and makes the Horse Look Out of the Turn, and Presses the Curb on the Outside, and must of Necessity do so; for when the Cheeks are pulled In, the Mouth of the Bitt must go out: For of what Side ſoever the Cheeks are pulled, the Mouth of the Bitt goes ſtill contrary to the Cheeks, and muſt do ſo in all Reaſon; the Bitt being an Inſtrument that is Made ſo to do, and it cannot be Otherwiſe.

The ſame Operation it hath for the Left Hand: if you pull the Inward Rein from his Neck, the Mouth goes ſtill Contrary to the Cheek; the Cheek goes Inward, and the Mouth goes Outward, and the Horſes Leggs are Preſt on the Inſide of the Turn; therefore in Terra a Terra, the Reins Separated in both my Hands, I pull the Inward Rein beyond his Neck, my Knuckles towards his Neck, which pulls the Inward Cheek to me, and then the Mouth goes Contrary; that is, The Cheek is put from the Turn, and the Mouth bends into the Turn, and the Horſe Looks into the Turn as he ſhould do, and the Horſes Leggs preſt on the Outſide of the Turn, on the Left Hand: The Inward Rein pull'd thus, hath the ſame Operation; your Hand being on the Outſide of his Neck, and your Knuckles towards his Neck, pulls the Inward Cheek from the Turn, and the Mouth Mouth of the Bitt goes into the Turn, alwayes Contrary, and cannot be Otherwise; it Presses the Horse on the Inside of the Barrs, and on the Inside of the Curb, and so Looks into the Turn; and his Leggs are Prest on the Outside of the Turn, which is Proper for Terra a Terra. And thus Working with the Bitt, Produces many Excellent things, for Terra a Terra, as I have particularly set down afore.

OF THE
Working with the Outward Rein of the Bridle.

Now let us Consider the Working with the Outward Rein of the Bridle, What Operation that hath on the Barrs, Curb, and Cheeks; Which Cheeks Governs Barrs and Curb: As for Example; Going on the Right Hand, I turn my Hand on the Inside of his Neck, this pulls the Outward Rein; pulling the Outward Rein, pulls the Outward Cheek to me; then of Necessity it must put the Mouth of the Bitt from me, and Presses the Horse on the Outside of the Barrs, which is on the Outside of the Turn, and so presses him on the Out-side of the Curb, and so the Horses must Look on the Outside of the Turn; and all this is, Because the Cheeks are pull'd to you on the Outside; therefore the Mouth of the Bitt must go From you; still Contrary, and never Fails, nor Cannot: For, it is impossible it should work Otherwise; but it is True, That it Supples, and brings in his Shoulders. The Reason is this, The Horse's Leggs are Prest on the Inside of the Turn, and then he must needs bring in his Shoulders, though he is Prest to Look Out of the Turn. The same thing is for the Left Hand, and the same Reasons for every Thing, working with the Outward Rein of the Bridle. Thus the Bitt and Reins are truly Anatomized, which never was before: The Outward Rein doth well for the Piroite, and so for Demy-Voltoes upon Passadoes.

OF THE
The Working the Bitt when the Horse goes Straight Forward.

When the Horse goes straight Forward, either Trotting, Galloping, or upon Corvets, if you Hold your Hand Low, it Presses more upon the Barrs, than the Curb, because the Cheeks of the Bitt are not pull'd so much to you, or to the Neck of the Horse; and therefore the Curb is not Straightned so much, and so the Horse is at more Liberty, and his Head a little Higher: But when you hold your Bridle-Hand a little Higher, and pull it up to you, then the Curb works more, and pulls Down the Horse's Head; the Reason is plain; for when you pull the Cheeks Hard, and Up, then you pull the Mouth of the Bitt Down; and so the Horse's Head, because it works hard on the Curb: For it is most True, That when the Cheeks of the Bitt are pull'd Up, the Mouth goes Down, and Straightens the Curb, the Hand being High; and when the Cheeks are not pull'd Hard, then the Curb is Slackt, and the Horse's Head at more Liberty; for the pressure of the Barrs and Curb, Depends upon the Cheeks; for when the Cheeks goe Up, the Mouth of the Bitt goes Down; and when the Cheeks of the Bitt goe Down, the Mouth of the Bitt goes Up. This is the Operation, and the Effects, of the Bitt.

Of Another Operation of the Bitt.

I must Tell you, That the Cheeks lie Slope to you, and the Reins more Slope, before they come to your Hand; so the Bitt cannot Press very much on the Horse, being so far from the Perpendicular-Line: and as the Cheeks are pull'd Up, the Mouth goes Down; and as the Cheeks goe Down, the Mouth goes Up; alwayes Contrary.

The Perpendicular-Line, is, When you Thrust your Hand Forward just Perpendicular, to the End of the Cheeks, and so pull it up Hard, and it Works extreamly upon the Curb, which is to pull his Head Down. This I never Use; but thought fit to Tell you what it is, and the Effects of it.

OF THE
Operation of the two Reins Separated in both Hands.

I Told you, the Inward Rein prest the Horse on the Outside of the Turn, and made him Look into the Turn. And I told you, the Outward Rein prest the Horse on the Inside of the Turn, and made him Look out of the Turn; and for Passager, he must be prest on the Inside, and therefore to be Help't with the Outward Rein: But to make him Look into the Turn, I Help with the Inward Rein too; So I Help with both Reins in Passager: the Inward Rein to make him Look into the Turn, and the Outward Rein to bring in his Outward Shoulder, and to Press him on the Inside, for many Reasons that I have already exprest.

TO Work with the Bridle in the Left Hand Only.

OF THE Operation of the Outward Rein of the Bridle.

For the Right Hand, you must turn up your Little Finger; and as you put it up, put it a little on the Inside of the Turn; but you must bring in your outward Shoulder at the same time: And for the Left Hand, turn up your Little Finger, and your Thumb down as you did before; and at the same time put it on the Inside of the Turn, and bring in your outward Shoulder moderately.

THE
Reins being both in your Left Hand, HOW To Work them Both at One Time for PASSAGER.

For the Right Hand, Put your Hand on the Outside: and for the Left Hand, put your Hand without his Neck on the Inside of the Turn, and that Pulls and Works the outward Rein. So now you see, on both Hands, How you can perfectly Work both Reins at one time, which is the Quintessence of Passager; the Reasons I have told you afore.

A Visit to the Guenoc Stock Farm.

After many disappointments we at last succeeded in paying a visit to Mr. Frederic Gebhard's Guenoc Stud Ranch. The road to the ranch from Middletown is through the most picturesque valleys and mountain passes. The bright coloring of spring flowers gives the landscape a most beautiful and pleasing effect.

Arriving at the ranch we met Dr. Aby, the manager, and started for the stables at once. We went prepared to see some handsome horses, but words fail me to properly portray our surprise when imp. Greenback was led out of his stall. A more powerful horse we have seldom seen; of a rich dark brown color, and stands 16¼ hands high. As he walks he gives one the idea that the earth is to common for him; standing on the soundest of feet and legs that would make a sculptor marvel, flat and broad, every turn denoting strength and activity. His muscles are simply perfection, standing out in bold relief, and at the same time put on, with an evenness that is unapproachable, every movement displaying the most remarkable development of muscular power. His shoulders are broad and well put on; neck strong and arched, and attached to it is one of the most intelligent of heads; broad between the eyes, with slightly Roman nose; eyes of the best. There is hardly room on his back for an ordinary ten-pound saddle. I cannot help but think this horse is bound to play an important part in the future of California thoroughbreds.

St. Savior, the full brother to the mighty Eola (who was lost in the Shobola Glen wreck last summer) was led out, and as this royally bred and most kingly race-horse walked out by us, we could not help raising our hats as to some great and mighty being. He is nearly 17 hands high, and weighs close to 1,300 pounds. A most glorious bay, with star and stripe on nose; both hind feet white. As the sun shone on his velvet coated skin, we were compelled to acknowledge that we had never seen a more beautiful, powerful or grander looking thoroughbred. His right fore leg still shows the rupture caused in the mighty struggle with Rataplan in the Emporium of 1884, which was the only time he was beaten in his racing career.

The Saint is a Leamington all over, very evenly put together, though some might think him a bit leggy, and yet when his great length of barrel is taken into consideration, his proportions are most even. We shall have to leave a more minute description of this horse to a more fluent and stronger pen than we possess, for the lofty grandeur of the horse beggars description.

"How have the California public or rather breeders, treated you in regard to patronage," we asked Dr. Aby.

"Very well, far beyond my expectations," was the reply. "It was so late when I got the horses to the ranch, (Feb. 4th,) that I really did not expect more than four or five mares, and those I had been promised for the Saint before I went East in December for him. But seeing the necessity for another good horse, I had a look at every stallion for sale, with the view of replacing the lost Eole. Imp. Greenback so far outclassed all the others that I at once closed for him, and while I do not claim that he is the best horse in the world, I think with judicious handling and some good mares, he will not be a disgrace to the ranch, nor to California. He has sired many good horses on the other side, was a race horse himself, with a very high turn of speed, and with his faultless individuality I cannot but be very proud of him, and only ask a fair show to prove my convictions are right."

"How do you like Lake Co. for breeding?" was our next question to the Dr.

"Well, as it is now, it is rather inconvenient to get mares to the ranch, but when once here, they seem to take on a pound of flesh a day, and as for climate it can not be excelled."

"Does it not get very hot?"

"Oh, yes, 100 degrees sometimes, but it gets hotter all over the State. We are right under the mountain, as you see, and when the thermometer begins to raise the mares and foals can go under the large oaks or up the canyon and have plenty of nice, cool water, with nothing to molest them until the cool of the evening, when they go back to the succulent grass on the meadows."

"It must keep you busy looking after the business, does it not?"

"Well, rather, though as you see I do not lose any weight. (Lake Co. is a poor place to loose weight.) There was no fencing on the ranch. The roads have been miserable all winter, and the county is too stingy to fix them. So I have had great difficulty in getting lumber. I am using redwood posts and have to haul them twenty miles, but I think it will pay, as the fence is good for fifteen years. I have enough paddocks for our present use, but will continue to improve as soon as I get through harvest."

"How many mares have you so far, Dr?"

"Of our own, do you mean?"

"Yes."

"Nine."

"How many visitors to the Harem?"

"Twenty-eighth, and sever more engaged."

"How many mares do you give each horse?"

"Twenty mares each are all I will allow them to serve, as it was so late when they got here. We did not have time to season them properly."

"Then you think a stallion needs preparations."

"Just as much as a horse to run, though of a different kind. He does not want to be drawn so fine, but he should not be beefy by any means. A horse, as well as a man, must take an interest in what he is doing, to do it well."

"Do you intend to increase your stud?"

"Yes, we shall always take a good mare at a reasonable price, but I do not believe in a mare just because she has a long pedigree. I want some of the families that produce race horses."

"You think that Mr. Gebhard has entered the breeders' arena to stay?"

"He will stay, and at any distance. Had we not had the misfortune to lose Eole, and got nearly killed myself, the ranch would have been far more advanced that it is, but with my small army I hope to accomplish a good deal before I have to stop for harvest. Our fences are as substantial as the rockwalls of Kentucky, and it will not be long before I hope to have established the Guenoc Stud, and have made it to California, what Woodburn is to Kentucky—the first in it's State."

"Do you intend to train and run your colts?"

"I cannot say yet. But will patronize home institutions if we do."

"Will you build a track?"

"Yes; just as soon as the meadow is dry enough to plow will commence on it. As you see, this lot in front of the house will make a beautiful course, and I can use the porch for a grand stand."

"How about water for summer use?"

"I have water piped to the dwelling from a fine spring and there is another spring just up the mountain which can be utilized. The water can be brought from the lake if necessary, besides I have every indication that we can get artesian water. The ranch could not have been in a worse condition. There is so much to be done, I hardly know where to commence. I hope to show you a very different looking farm in a twelfth month from now."

The stallions and mares are in the pink of condition. The pastures are very fine, as the altiliree and native meadow grasses are nearly knee high. The Doctor says he will make preparation for fifty mares for 1890. I think he will have applications for more than fifty, as there are too many good mares in the state to allow such grand horses to get off with so small a number.

Mr. Gebhard deserves success, for it took considerable nerve to locate in such an unknown county as Lake, and besides, his selections of blood to lay the foundation of a breeding farm could not be improved upon. With sons of Eolus and War Song, Dollar and Music, he has the best blood of America and old England. How can such breeding be a failure? We shook hands and bade the Doctor good-bye, feeling that the Guenoc Stud Farm is one of the nicest places to spend a day in California. "PILGRIM."

CORRESPONDENCE.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The breeding of superior horses is no longer an experiment in California. The sales in New York, in Kentucky, and elsewhere in the East during the past year and within a few weeks have amply attested the high appreciation in which turfmen hold California bred horses, and the performances and records of many of the favorite strains from California breeding farms, fully warrant the opinion which is entertained of them. It is not too much to say that among the foremost in the pursuits and delights of the turf the belief is strong that to California will come the glory of lowering the record, of placing Maud S. similarly as her wonderful performance has placed Dexter; and if the trotter shall ever make the mile in two minutes, it will be a California bred horse that will so astound the sporting world.

The development of the horse for speed in California has been most gratifying and is almost marvelous. From the Hudspeth colt which won against the Pico horse early in 1850, to the Emperor of Norfolk, is a stride akin to that Peytona measured in contrast with the step of a Clydesdale, and the championship of the track in the days of Tom Battelle's New York and Pat Hunt's Lady Mac a trifle under three minutes was their best compared with Electioneer and Stamboul, the Wilkeses and Bentons, and others of this day, rank as the four minute roadsters ranked with such "flyers" of that period as Lady Suffolk, Oneida Chief, Confidence and Americus. Even the roadsters now find fair reckoning in the 2:40 class, and the trotter not inside the 2:20 class is accounted slow.

This gratifying result has beer wrought by care, judgment and skill, through noble pride, judicious selection, unstinted expenditure toward securing thorough blood, and wise discrimination in choosing localities most favorable to the purpose. But beyond all these human agencies exist the unparalleled conditions of soil and climate which endow California, and will maintain the State first in rank in the breeding of horses for speed and endurance.

The sagacious and beneficial examples of Winters and Coombs, splendidly improved upon by Stanford and Haggin, Rose, Corbett and Baldwin, have already been followed by other breeders all over the Coast, and put to such advantage by patrons of the turf in practical measure, that to front place, have come the lines of the Simpson Antes—Anteeo, Antevolo and more in the 2:20 class; Hambletonians, Mambrinos, Clays, Buttons, McClellans, Morgans, Nutwoods, Bentons, Wilkeses, Patchens, Sultans, and others in the same class, and scores of different blood, noted lines and prideful record.

Throughout the State, and indeed everywhere on the Coast greater pride and increased attention are the tokens of the better intelligence developed in the breeding of superior horses. There is money in it, and with this as an encouragement, besides the pleasure and ambition of ownership, greater and more extended impetus is given to the breeding of thoroughbreds and the better strains and grades. From the famous breeding farms of Palo Alto, Rancho del Paso, Rosemead, Santa Anita, San Mateo, Winters', and the less noted, selections are made for stocking private farms in nearly every county of the State, and as years pass these develop into prominence agreeably as they produce. Locality, as to conditions of soil and and climate, will unquestionably have much to do with results. But individual pride, nature and purpose is the moving, actuating quality.

Sonoma County was regarded in the early years of the State the most favored portion for agricultural and stock breeding pursuits, at least as the full equal of Santa Clara, and much superior to Los Angeles. It was in Sonoma that the Hudspeth colt, the winner of the first big race, for $10,000 in the State, was bred from Kentucky stock, and the Pico horse, which lost the race was the fastest of the native California breed, bred in Los Angeles. Of late years Sonoma had to her boast McClellan and Button and some of the Belmont and Patchen stock, but until the purchase of Anteeo, some even of the better breeders and turfmen could not be brought to the appreciation that "there is big money in it." Many thought the purchasers of Anteeo at $10,000, had parted with their judgment as well as their money. His record since of 2:16½, but more than his turf performances, his very profitable use in the stud, and last, his sale in Kentucky for $25,000, wrought the marked change in opinion which has its demonstration in the high prices at which Anteeo colts are eagerly sought by men who know a fine colt when they see one; and further, in the impetus to go into breeding of valuable horses which is observable in different portions of the county.

Among these stock-breeding farms is the Rose Dale Farm, less than a mile from the beautiful city of Santa Rosa, a delightful drive from the railroad stations of the Southern Pacific on the Donahue line. The farm itself is a handsome "bunch" of meadows and hill lands, luxuriant pastures, with constant flowing water of unceasing streams. The buildings are neat and capacious, and the fences in good condition. Grand trees of forest species afford ample shade. But it is the stock that chiefly attracts. In the stables are Daly, Kingcraft and Laurel Dale; in the pastures run the several mares, with their young foal; in the enclosure are yearlings, colts and fillies.

Daly is a magnificent deep bay, 16 hands, of 1150 pounds weight, of splendid action, strong points, fine head, intelligent eyes, and gentle disposition. He was sired by Stanford's General Benton, dam Dolly, and bred at the Palo Alto farm; was foaled April, 1883. His colts show high promise. Kingcraft is one of Anteeo's handsome sons, foaled February, 1885, and has the color and marks of his great sire, a dark bay of 15½ hands. His dam was Nancy by General McClellan, dam Old Nancy. Similar to Daly in disposition, Kingcraft is free from fault in handling, and is of superb carriage, of admirable action; in short, he is a beauty. Laural Dale is another of the sons of Anteeo, dam Danville Maid; a handsome brown, 15¾ hands, and of powerful sinewy frame and limbs. He has good action and will make a trotter if signs and tokens do not fail. The Rose Dale stud will be added to in good time. Of the yearlings, one attracts the attention at first look, as he bears every token of speed and staying qualities. They all look well and please the eye and fancy of the turfmen. Among them are sons and daughters of Daly and of the sire of Anteeo, of General McClellan, of Wilkes and Clay, of Messenger and Mambrino's handsome colts, pretty fillies, the dams likely to look upon. Rose Dale is a spot the admirer of horses will delight to visit.

Now Rose Dale and other similar breeding farms in Sonoma county are the consequence of this better and intelligent development in the breeding of superior horses, which is to advance California to highest rank in this line of pastoral pursuits. Kentucky has her "blue grass" region. California is a wealth of "blue grass," with the most favorable climate for the general condition of the horse and the kindliest soil for the formation of the compact, firm, healthful foot, with springy frog, of any habitable land blessed with enlightenment known to mankind. It is not brag; it is the declaration drawn from demonstration. J. O'M.

SANTA ROSA, April 9, 1889.

Big Jim and His Record.

There are just two ways of doing a thing, the right way and the wrong way, and it seems that the gentlemen who advised Mr. Clawson about giving Big Jim a record have on two occasions led the owner off in the wrong direction, instituted a bar against a good horse and given him no record. It is now several weeks ago that Big Jim was trotted around the Bay District track and obtained an ostensible record of 2:29¼, but owing to the many objections made, it was determined to trot him once more and place him within the magic circle, and last Saturday afternoon was the day appointed to make the trial. So that there could be no exceptions taken this time, a race was announced between D. J. McCarthy's St. David, T. H. Griffen's Little Hope, and L. E. Clawson's Big Jim. On Friday night Mr. McCarty was called to Fresno, and there was no person in authority who could start his horse, so Mr. Griffen worked Little Hope out two heats, by which time Mr. Clawson appeared with Big Jim. It was then decided that the Clawson horse should be sent for a record, so three judges were appointed as follows: A. J. Allen, John Hawes and Dr. J. P. Clinton, the timers being O. A. Hickok, W. B. Bradbury and C. H. Hinchman. The judges gave the word and away went the two speedy animals. The quarter was reached in 40½ seconds, the half in 1:17, and from this point out Jim proved what he could do by coming the last half in 1:12¾, again making the mile in exactly the same time as on the former occasion. The drivers came back and receiving sanction from the judges drove their horses to the stable, and that ended the record making, Mr. Hinchman saying that the horse according to rules was allowed three attempts, but as he had accomplished the performance in the first heat it was not necessary to start again. Mr. Marvin, it seems, has promised to give Mr. Clawson a colt whenever Big Jim goes into the 2:30 class and that is the reason these attempts have been made. Now there is no reasonable doubt but what the gelding can trot in 2:25 or 26, but it will have to be in accordance with the rules, and not on the "say so" of every one who fancies that he knows what constitutes a 2:30 performer. The rules under which Mr. Wallace registers those entitled to enter the 2:30 list is as follows:

Section 1. Performances against time must be for a consideration and strictly to rule. They must take place during the usual hours, at a regular meeting of a reputable Association, and the Judges and Timers must be appointed by the officers of that Association. Any running or gain by breaking will vitiate the performance. All performances of this class shall be reported directly to the Trotting Register under such requirement of evidence as may be prescribed by the Board of Censors, and they shall not be accepted nor pass into the tables until they are approved by that Board.

Sec. 2. Where there is a contest against other horses, either real or simulated, with one or more heats in 2:30 or better, and the compiler of the Trotting Register has reasonable doubt as to the accuracy or honesty of the time announced, he shall furnish to the parties in interest such outline of required evidence as the Board of Censors may agree upon, and the acceptance of such performance shall depend upon the approval of said Board.

Sec. 3. Hereafter records secured against time, so far as possible, will be indicated by a distinctive mark.

Now to the point. Big Jim came under the wire half a length ahead of Little Hope, and won the heat, but the other two heats necessary to constitute a race was not trotted. "Yes, that is correct; we give into that, but we were only going for a record," say the friends of Mr. Clawson. Granted, but if such is the case, what other races took place on the track that same day, so as to constitute a regular meeting of the association, as the rules require.

Gentlemen, get your records in a regular manner, and then there will be none of this bother and trouble. We are just as anxious as the owner of Big Jim to see his horse get the record, for his dam's sake, but the rules will have to be lived up to, or you will have to bear the brunt of the objections that will constantly arise to face you. Remember the cases of "Whips" and "Carlisle," trotted over the same track, which were rejected, owing to the same irregularity which confronts Mr. Clawson now.

The Bard, winner of the Melbourne cup in 1866, died a short time ago in Australia. He was a noted race horse in his day, and ran in the colors of John Tait, Esq., at that time the most influential member of the Australian turf.

OF THE

Use of the Two Reins of the Bridle.

You must Help with the Outward Rein of the Bridle in the Pirsite, because his Foreparts are Straightned, and his Hinderparts at Liberty; so you must Help with the Outward Rein of the Bridle for Demy-Voltoes, and in Passadoes by a Wall; because his Fore-parts are Straightned, and his Hindes-parts at Liberty, being but Half a Piroite; so you must Help with the Outward Rein of the Bridle, in Corvets Backward upon a Straight Line, his Fore-parts being Straightned; and his Hinder-parts at Liberty, because they Lead: So you must Help with the Outward Rein of the Bridle, in all Leaps, Croupadoes, Balotadoes, and Capriols; either Forward or upon Voltoes; because his Fore-parts are Straightned, and his Croup at Liberty, or else he could not Leap.

For Terra a Terra, you must Help with the Inward Rein of the Bridle; because then his Hinder-parts are Straightned, and his Fore-parts Inlarged; so with the Inward Rein for Demy-Voltoes, because his Hinder-parts are Straightned, and his Fore-parts Inlarged: But in Corvets upon Voltoes, the Outward Rein, because his Hinder-parts are Subjected, and his Fore-parts Inlarged, and so forward; in Corvets with the Outward Rein, because there his Hinder-parts are Subjected, and his Fore-parts are Inlarged, and at Liberty to go Forward, because they Lead.

That Dog Again.

When will Superintendents of tracks begin to learn that dogs are dangerous animals on a speeding course, life and property being constantly in danger when they are allowed to roam at large while horses are being worked. The following telegram from Los Angeles is a case in point:

Geneva S., the celebrated $15,000 trotting mare, by Abdallah Mambrino, who has a record of 2:19¼, had a miraculous escape from serious injuries this morning. The mare was getting rubbed after a speed trial, when a dog ran under her legs and scared her. She got her leg caught in a wheel and bolted off, knocking down her trainer. She galloped out of the park and was picked up several hours later with the sulky all broken and a broken shaft rubbing against her side. It is believed that Geneva S. is not severely injured, although she is badly scratched.

Racing at San Jose.

The San Jose Blood Horse Association wound up their first meeting last Saturday, in brilliant style. The weather was exceptionally fine, just warm enough, with the faintest suspicion of a breeze, while the track, which had been improving every day, was at its best, having been worked into good order and was very fast.

San Jose, and Santa Clara County generally, displayed a total lack of interest in the proceedings throughout, and were noticeable only by their absence. It is to be hoped that at their next meeting the local horsemen will turn out in strong order and thus show that they appreciate the strenuous exertions which are being made to improve and encourage the breeding of thoroughbred horses in their county, and thus foster a profitable source of income to the breeders and would-be breeders in California. San Francisco as usual, furnished nearly the whole of the spectators, many of whom went down by the earlier trains and had a look at the beauties of San Jose before racing began.

Some time previous to the regular races, Boots' Vinco and Storn's Kildare, both four year-olds, were given a trial of three-quarters of a mile, two light stable boys riding, Vinco easily beating Kildare in 1:17½. Boot's gelding will bear watching, for if not outclassed he will win a sprint soon, as he won very handily at the finish. Kildare seemed stale and must probably require a rest by now, for he has been worked about a year, and worked hard at that.

The fields were small in nearly every instance, but quality is better than quantity, and we had plenty of the former.

The first race brought out a field of five, all well known performers, and the talent at once pitched on Al Farrow, making him favorite, and backing him from evens down to 1 to 2.

Mr. Tupper and Brown were confident, Brown saying before the race that they would have to beat 41 sure before they beat him.

Geraldine was backed for a little stable money at 7 and 8 to 5, while the general public backed her pretty freely on the strength of her running earlier in the meeting, though it was at a much shorter distance; there was little or no money for any of the rest, Brady being backed lightly for a place.

When the flag fell, after a long delay caused by Al Farrow, who was very fractious at the post, Geraldine jumped off one length in front of the favorite and going very fast increased her lead to two lengths at the lower turn, and at the half and three-quarters had about two and a half lengths the best of it, directly they got into the homestretch Narvice quickened Al Farrow up and riding hard got up to Geraldine's girths at the drawgate, and gradually wore her down in a punishing race won by a neck, both were ridden clean out, Brady being a bad third.

Had it been possible to steady Geraldine in the earlier part of the race and save her for the finish, she probably would have won, but it is well known that she is so head strong that she cannot be held in. When the time was announced 1:40, Mr. Tupper was the recipient of many congratulations on the phenomal time made by his horse, Mr. Ashe saying that he should never grumble at being beaten in time like that. The timers were W. L. Appleby, Jas. Boyd and Ariel Lathrop (superintendent and manager of Palo Alto stock farm).

Al Farrow's performance ranks as one of the best in the world equalling as it does Stuyvesant's record of 1:40 at Sheepshead Bay in 1887, with 111½ pounds up and only a quarter of a second behind Ten Broeck's famous mile, 1:39¾ in Louisville, with 110 pounds up. But while Tenbroeck was a five-year-old and ran against time on a specially prepared track, Al Farrow and Stuyvesent both made theirs in an actual race and though Al Farrow is a year older than Stuyvesant was when he made his record, the difference between spring and fall form ought to counter-balance it.

In the next race there was very little betting Racine being deemed a certain winner, and was booked at 1 to 3, Guido and Pliny at 6's, Mirope at 20 to 1. Guido was heavily back at 4 to 5 for a place, and Pliny had a strong following at evens.

When the flag fell Pliny was two lengths behind the leaders Guido and Racine. At the quarter Guido was just in front of Racine and kept there to the half when Racine had his head loose Ned and went away from him winning easily by two lengths. Pliny was hard ridden for second place.

The Gentlemen's race came next and had three entries, Mr. Williams riding Black Pilot, Mr. Fallon, Ito, and Delmas, Elwood.

The gentlemen jocks were turned out in very unracing looking costumes. One in trousers and another in cloth leggings instead of boots.

There was no betting on Black Pilot, the books offering 3 to 1 and 4 to 1 against Elwood and 10 against Ito.

Elwood spoilt the start as usual, attempting to get everywhere or anywhere, but never trying to go down the middle of the track to the starter, and was ultimately left at the post, though it seemed that Mr. Delmas listened to the crowd—who thought it was not a start—instead of watching the flag. Anyway, Elwood was stopped, and his rider, who is a Philadelphia, well known as a winner at Rockaway and several Eastern steeplechase meetings, was very much chagrined over it.

The race, if it could be called one, was very simple, for Mr. Fallon, on Ito, soon had a seven or eight lengths lead, and riding his horse's head off, was easily beaten by Tom Williams, who rode a very patient race on Pilot.

In the Mt. Hamilton Stakes, Laura Gardiner was backed down to 4 to 5, Mozart being at threes, Brutus fours, and Wild Oats at 8 to 1. Wild Oats made most of the running, followed by Brutus and Laura Gardiner, to the three-quarters, when Laura Gardiner made her effort, and coming away won easily. Brutus and Mozart had a hard race for second place, which the former obtained by a bare length.

As the Novelty race did not come off, the Consolation Stake was now run. Rosa Lewis had a slight call in the pools, and in the books was 2½ to 1, while Ed McGinnis and Jou Jou were at threes, all well backed. Of the rest, Glen Ellen was fairly well backed for a place. Tom Daly and Jou Jou made the running to the three-quarters, when Daly had enough, and Jou Jou led into the straight, when McGinnis came through, with Glen Ellen closing up fast.

McGinnis challenged Jou Jou, and after a severe punishing finish, won by a longish head, Glen Ellen and Jou Jou a dead heat for second place. It was a very close race, and had Glen Ellen come sooner, she would possibly have won.

Time, 1:40.

Hello, 95, and Nerva, 82, also ran.

Book-betting: 1 to 2 Al Farrow, 8 to 5 Geraldine, 15 to 1 Jack Brady, 20 to 1 Nerva and Hello.

After a long delay caused by Al Farrow who worked himself into a regular lather, refusing to do anything but spin round for some time, the flag was finally dropped with Geraldine a length in advance of the favorite, going round the turn she increased her lead to two lengths, Al Farrow clear of the remainder. Geraldine passed the quarter in 25, the half in 49½, still a good two lengths ahead, and at the three-quarters in 14½, was about 2½ lengths ahead of Al Farrow, Brady third, but evidently out of the race. On turning into the home stretch Narvice began to urge Al Farrow and gradually closing the gap caught her, and in a whipping finish running as true as steel beat her out a neck, Brady a bad third, the balance nowhere.

Second Race—Lick House Stakes, for two-year-olds; $25 each, $10 forfeit, or $6 if declared by April 1st, with $200 added; of which $75 to second and $25 to third. Winners of one race at this meeting five pounds extra, two races 7 pounds extra; five entries. Six furlongs.

Palo Alto's b c Racine, Bishop—Imp. Fairy Rose, 115.....Morton 1
Palo Alto's b g Pliny, Flood—Precious, 112.....Hitchcock 2
R. P. Ashe's ch f Mirope, Joe Hooker—Constellation, 107.....Hart 3
C. V. Tupper's ch c Guido, Double Cross—Aurora, 110.....Narvice

Time, 1:16¼.

Betting—Racine 1 to 3, Pliny and Mirope 20 to 1, Guido 6 to 1.

The race—Guido got off on the inside slightly in advance of Racine, Pliny last two lengths behind the leaders. Guido was slightly in front of Racine at the quarter and half, but on turning into the straight Morton gave Racine his head and going on won easily by two and a half lengths, Pliny meanwhile had been gradually closing up and was ridden out for the place, getting it by a scant length from Mirope, Guido last, being eased in the last few strides.

Third Race—Purse $125; $25 to second; 100 pounds each. Gentlemen riders.

Golden Gate Stable's Black Pilot, a, Echo—Madge Duke...Williams 1
C. V. Tupper's br h Ito, 4, Ironclad—Fanny Gordon .....Fallon 2
R. P. Ashe's ch g Elwood, 5, Norfolk—Ballinette.....Delmas

Time, 1,49¼.

Betting—Black Pilot, no odds; Elwood 4 to 1, Ito 10 to 1.

After a long delay caused by Elwood who acted like a regular cur trying to bolt and various other tricks, acting as badly as he possibly could, he was eventually left at the post for when the flag dropped to a slow moderate start he was pulled up, his rider seemingly thinking it not a go. Mr. Fallon on Ito went out at a lively rate, and pursuing a suicidal policy made every post a winning post. At the quarter he led six lengths, at the half and three-quarters he led about eight lengths, then the pace told on him and he slowed down in the last hundred and fifty yards, allowing Pilot, who had been very patiently ridden by Mr Williams, to win easily by three lengths.

Fourth Race—Mt. Hamilton Stakes, for all ages; $25 each, $10 forfeit or $5 if declared out by April 1st, with $300 added, of which $100 to to second, $50 to third horse. Weights 10 pounds below the scale; winners this meeting 5 pounds extra, two races 7 pounds, three 100 pounds. One and three-eighths miles.

Golden Gate Stable's ch m Laura Gardner, 6, Jim Brown—Avail, 106
.....Hazlitt 1
Palo Alto's br c imp. Brutus, 4, McGregor—Teardrop, 107 ..Morton 2
R. P. Ashe's b g Mozart, a, Flood—Mozelle, 113.....Tompkins 3
Wild Oates ran unplaced.

Time, 2:23¾.

Book betting—4 to 5 Laura Gardiner 3 to 1 Mozart, 4 to 1 Brutus, 8 to 1 Wild Oats.

Brutus had a shade the best of the start but was passed by Wild Oats who led past the stand, with Brutus second, Laura Gardiner third and Mozart last. Wild Oats kept the lead past the half, pressed by Mozart who had come through; just before the three-quarter pole was reached Laura came past Mozart and then Wild Oats, and going on won by two and a half lengths cleverly, Brutus and Mozart were both ridden out for the place and after a sharp finish Brutus got it by a length.

SUMMARY.

Consolation Purse $200, $50 to second, $20 to third; entrance free, horses beaten at the meeting allowed five pounds, twice ten, three times fifteen pounds. One mile.

Lady Helen, 107; Rose Lewis, 106: Nabeau, 104; Tom Daly, 100 ran place.

Time, 1:42¾.

Book Betting Rosa Lewis, 5 to 2; Ed McGinnis and Jou Jou 3 to 1; Tom Daly, 6 to 1; Nabeau, 8 to 1; Glen Helen and Lady Helen. 10 to 1.

Jou Jou and Tom Daly were started a length in front of Nabeau, and when Tom Daly showed a little in front of Jou Jou and kept there to the three-quarters when Jou Jou left him and led into the straight. Ed McGinnis and Glen Ellen had gradually been closing up, and McGinnis challenged the leader a furlong from home with Glen Ellen coming fast, and after a splendid finish all three being ridden clean out McGinnis won by a neck. Glen Ellen who had come with a rattle making a dead heat with Jou Jou for the place.

A Sensible Firm.

At a late meeting of the Board of Trade, of Sacramento, Mr. Edwin F. Smith, Secretary of the State Agricultural Society, appeared before that body and addressed them in reference to the advantages to be derived by holding an annual spring meeting, such as will shortly be held, under the auspicies of the Capital Turf Club. The address was ably delivered and was the means of the board seriously considering the matter. What they will do as a body is not as yet known, but one of the representative firms of Sacramento, has addressed the following letter to Mr. Smith, which speaks for itself. This letter will, beyond doubt, be followed by many more of the same sort.

SACRAMENTO, April 5.

Edwin F. Smith, Secretary State Agricultural Society—DEAR SIR: Your proposition, as laid before us, relative to encouraging and perpetuating Spring racing in Sacramento, we consider excellent. The method you propose will not only arouse enthusiasm among our local horse breeders, but will do a great deal toward encouraging Eastern turfmen to winter their stables here. As a result, Sacramento cannot fail to be benefitted thereby.

Believing that the enterprise should be assisted and fostered in every possible way by Sacramentans, we have decided to donate to the State Agricultural Society the sum of $500, to be placed in such manner as the Directors may, in their judgment, deem best for the interests of the proposed meeting. This sum is subject to your order, and will be turned over at any time to anyone properly authorized to receive it. Yours, very truly, HALL, LUHRS & CO.,

Per A. ANDREWS.

Inaugural Meeting at Moorland Track.

Friday afternoon, April 5th, a number of Santa Clara residents assembled at the new half mile track lately finished by the Milpitas Racing Association, to witness the initial events announced by that body, and a very enjoyable time was had. The track, as already stated in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, is situated on the Moorland Ranch, the property of D. J. Murphy. The track was in fairly good condition and will improve greatly when more work is done on it, the newness of the course causing it to lump considerably, a complaint easily remedied. The first event on the card was for a purse of $250, half mile heats, best three in five, and was robbed of much interest owing to the paucity of starters, there being only two entries, Mr. A. Carrick's Billy and John Buckley's Birdie; under the arrangements the winning horse was to take the money, the second to receive a fine set of breaking harness.

It took but a very short time to start them, Billy going immediately to the front, Birdie trailing. As they rounded into the homestretch Birdie was let out a link, and just managed to get on even terms with his opponent and they came under the wire like a double team. The judges announced a dead heat, time 1:27¾. The three following heats were easily taken by Billy, Birdie not proving equal to the task; time 1:28½, 1:26, 1:28. The second race of the day was called the Donation stakes, best three in five, half mile heats, the entries being D. J. Murphy's stallion colt Hume A. and P. Cameron's Lagoon. This race was altogether one sided, as Lagoon was short of work, and utterly unable to trot, while Hume A. was hardly any better. The latter won in straight heats, the best time being the last half made in 1:58. The officers of the day were: Judges, James Boyd, C. H. Cropley and H. G. Cox; timers, D. J. Murphy and E. Topham. When the races were concluded, Mr. Cox made a short address to the assemblage, stating that the management would from time to time give races, and trusted that the attendance would always be as large as it was then. During the afternoon Mr. Murphy took a lot of the guests over his extensive stables, a visit to which was well worth the time and trouble taken.

Pacific Coast Blood Horse Association Entries.

It is now an established fact that the 1889 Spring Meeting of the Association will be far in advance of any hitherto held. The entries are large in number and the reports that come from the training centers, lead us to believe that at no past time has there been such phenomenal youngsters, as are now being prepared for the contests of speed which begin on the 20th of this month. It is to be hoped that the Bay District course will be fast, and if it is the public may rest assured that more records than one will be smashed. On the very fast track at San Jose marvelous time was made for this season of the year, and as in many instances the horses were started there, as much for preliminary work as for anything else, they should be much improved by next week, and surprises are therefore in order. Secretary Culver has made out the following list of entries which will be found correct.

FIRST DAY, APRIL 20TH.

No. 1—Introduction purse $350, of which $50 to second, for three-year-olds and upwards; maidens, if three years old, allowed seven pounds; if four years old or upward, allowed twelve pounds; one mile and one-sixteenth.

Baldwin, b c Carrientes, 4, and b f Alaho, 3; C. V. Tupper, b c Al Farrow, 4.

No. 2—The California stakes for two-year-olds, half a mile. Entries closed August 15, 1888.

Entries—B. C. Holly, King David; Maltese Villa stable, Abdiel, Achilles, Willoughby and Mirope; W. M. Murray, Fabiola and Evalina; James McNassar, Sacramento and Riverside; Oak Grove stables, Morton and Tippecanoe; Palo Alto stable, Flambeau, Racine, Pliny, Glenloch and Muta; L. U. Shippee, Take Notice, Fellowcharm, Farsalara and Whis Ban; Sierra Foothills Company (A. G. Todd), Jessie C.; H. I. Thornton, Reata, Bellini, Cantenac and Rubina; C. V. Tupper, High Jack and Guido; A. Wakeman, Kiro; S. W. McMullen, b f McMullen.

No. 3—Purse of $300, of which $50 to second, for three-year-olds and upward. Maidens if three years old, allowed five pounds; if four years old, allowed ten pounds; if five years old or upward, allowed fifteen pounds. Heats of nine-sixteenths

Entries—W. L. Appleby, b g White Cloud, aged; Joseph Garland, b h Jackson, 4; Kelley & Samuels, ch g Rosebug 3; T. F. Lynch, b g Jou Jou, aged; Maltese Villa stable, ch f Geraldine, 4; Matt Storn, ch g Kildare, 4; C. V. Tupper, br h Ito, 4; J. McBride, ch c Longshot, 3.

No. 4.—The Tidal Stakes. For three-year-olds. One mile and a quarter. Closed August 15, 1887.

Entries—Maltese Villa, Flood Tide; Palo Alto, Faustine, Geoffrey; Oak Grove stables (W. L. Pritchard), Louis P.; W. L. Appleby, Wild Oats; John Arnet, Lady Emma; J. D. Carr; Maid of Salinas; J. B. Stinson, ch f Asa, 3; Theodore Winters, ch c Joe Courtney, 3.

No. 6.—The Select Stakes; for two-year-olds; $50 from subscribers, $100 additional from starters, $750 added, of which $150 to second, $100 to third. Starters to be named through the entry box at 6 P. M. the day before the race. Five furlongs.

This race has been designed especially for the large stables of the State, as by many of the smaller class of breeders, it is deemed impossible to raise horses that can compete with those of the larger stock farms, therefore when the bell is rang for this race it is presumed that the picked two-year-olds of the State will face the starter. E. J. Baldwin makes two nominations; Palo Alto Stock Farm, three; Theodore Winters, three; L. U. Shippee, two. Palo Alto has exposed its hand at San Jose, but what the other stables will produce is at present only speculation. The winner will have to beat the fastest recorded time if the information from time to time be correct.

No. 7—Selling purse $350, of which $50 to the second, for three year-olds and upward; horses entered to be sold for $1500 to carry rule weights; two pounds allowed to each $100 less down to $1000; then one pound each for $100 less down to $300; selling price to be stated through the entry box at 6 P. M., the day before the race. One mile.

Entries—W. L. Appleby, b c Wild Oats, 3; Elmwood stables, ch m Nerva, 6; James Garland, b g Wanderer 2nd, 3; Golden Gate stables, b h Jack Brady, 5; A. D. Harrison, ch g Hello, aged; F. P. Los Angeles Races.

Up to and including the last mail we received from Los Angeles, the weather had been very disagreeable, and many who would have witnessed the sport if the days had been pleasant, were deterred by the rain from attending. The officers of the association had done everything possible for the comfort of their patrons, and not a word of complaint was heard. The judges were: A. Workman, Charles Durfee and J. K. Gries; the timers, E. B. Gifford and L. H. Titus, while T. H. Rodman, the efficient Secretary of the organization, was the starter. The initial race of the meeting was the Rodman Scramble for two-year-old, in which five starters appeared. The youngsters all looked well, but the public was not long in selecting Mr. Dornalech's Duchess filly as the probable winner, and she was installed favorite. With but very little trouble the field got away, the favorite showing first in front, Rettie B. and Gold Dust well up. Hennessy rode the unnamed filly very poorly, getting too much speed out of her in the early part of the race. Young Dennison rode a patient race until he turned into the stretch, when he set sail for the leader and used up the favorite in short order. E. J. Baldwin's Florella was a fairly good third.

SUMMARY.

First race, Monday, April 8th—Rodman Scramble, for two-year-olds; $50 entrance, half forfeit; $200 added, distance, five-eighths of a mile.

G. W. Trahern's ch f Rettie B., 2, Joe Hooker—Kate Carson, 107
			Dan Dennison	1

E. J. Baldwin's ch f Florella, 2, Rutherford—Savannah, 107			Johnson	3

Ch c Gold Dust, 2, 110 lbs., (McCurdy) and ch c Washington Bartlett, 2, 110 lbs., (Denoy) ran unplaced.

Time, 1:50½.

Pool sold—Wildidle, Dutchess filly $20; Florella $15; Rettie B. $12; field $5.

The "talent" made no mistake in the second race, the winner being considered in better form than any of his opponents. The starters were quickly away, and for three-quarters of a mile first one and then another showed in front, until finally G. W. seemed to draw away from his field. Brown, on Canny Scott, rode the same kind of a race as Dennison did in the first, waited until he was well into the home-stretch, then overhauled G. W., coming under the wire an easy winner, John Treat being third.

SUMMARY.

Second Race—Southern Pacific Handicap; for all ages; $20 each, half forfeit; $200 added, of which $50 to second. Distance, 1¼ miles.

Lillitt, 4, 100 (Johnson; Naicho B., 3, 95 (Hennessy); Four Aces, 3, 100 (McCurdy), and Dave Douglas, a, 112 (Dennison), ran unplaced.

Pools sold: Canny Scott $20, Lillitt $10, Naicho $3, field $20.

The third and last race of the day was a trotting contest for 2:20 horses, but the time shown was slow for that class, 2:28½ being the best time shown. We have not the space to spare for a detailed account of the heats but the summary which is full and complete will show how the different heats are trotted. Four heats were trotted on Monday, and two on Tuesday, the following being the

The running races on the second day was full of interest for the "short end boys," as the 'know alls" were completely knocked out. The first event was a purse race, four horses facing friend Rodman. When the word was given the McCarty horse had a little the worst of it, being about a length behind. The almost friendless Dan Murphy at once took the lead, but it was of short duration, for almost immediately they were all in a bunch, and so rounded into the home-stretch. A hammer and tongs race here ensued between G. W. and Dan Murphy, but the latter would not be denied, and won by a short neck.

SUMMARY.

Running—Purse $150, all ages, of which $25 to second horse, 10 lbs above scale. Distance, seven-eighths of a mile.

H. E. Rose's b c Dan M. Murphy, 116 lbs., 3, imp. Spectator—Goliah

E. J. Baldwin's b g Carrientes, 113 lbs., 3, Grinstead—Blossom
			Johnson	3

Time, 1:30.

Waldo Johnson 116, (O Brien) ran unplaced.

Betting: G. W. $25, Carrientes $17, Waldo Johnson $15, Dan Murphy $5.

There were only three starters for the Pioneer Handicaps, and starter Rodman got them off easy, and a splendid race ensued, Galgo however, not being in condition to last with his two companions. Douglass and Othello made a splendid showing, but the latter managed to get the verdict by a short half length. The next two heats Douglass had at his mercy and won as he pleased.

The only remarks necessary in the trotting race for three minute horses, is that in the last heat the judges disqualified Glendine for running, so that only four heats were necessary to decide the contest.

Of the third days proceedings the following telegraphic summary will give an idea of the winners. A full report of the last three days of the meeting will appear next week.

A disagreeable drizzling rain made the attendance at the race-track to-day very poor. The sport was fairly good.

In the Inaugural sweepstakes for three-year-olds, one-mile dash, Louis P. won, with Lillita second and Hotspur third. Time, 1:43¼. Getting off to a good start the quartet kept in a bunch to the backstretch, when Louis P. forged ahead, and coming away won easily by a length and a half.

In the running race for a purse of $300, half-mile heats, best two in three, Gladstone won the first two heats, easily beating Aloha, Kyrle Daly, Elizabeth, and Mave, who ran in the order named. Time, 0:49 in both heats.

In the trotting-race for two-year-olds, mile heats, best two in three, Zelda H. had a walk-over,

In the trotting for road horses, best three in five, Charlie D won the first heat in 2:34½; Pond Lilly won the second and third heats, both in 2:35½; Charlie D won the fourth heat in 2:39½, and Pond Lilly won the last heat in 2:39: and was awarded first money. Ellsworth also trotted.

E. D. Gifford, of San Diego, to-day matched What Ho against Knap McCarthy's Lena Wilkes for $1000. The trot will take place here December next. A forfeit has been deposited of $250 each.

Grim's Gossip.

Maud S. 2:08⅞, was fifteen years old last Thursday week.

Mr. King, of Oakland, has sold Garfield 2:29¼, to the McCarty Bros.

Mike Kelly says he will take about six horses back East this year, including Floodtide and Geraldine.

There is not a particle of truth in the rumor published in the dailies, that the Dwyers had made an offer for Al Farrow.

The report that E. J. Baldwin's Florella had died, was not true; it was Colunde that the stable lost. He was by Grinstead—Ophir.

A few days ago, there died at Palo Alto, a full sister to Norlaine. She had been ailing from birth, and only lived five days.

I am glad to hear that the twin foals by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Cora by Corsican, the property of Mr. Irvin Ayres, are looking fine and doing well.

Wary who has been backed quite heavily for the Suburban, stepped on a nail recently, severely injuring her foot, and she has been thrown out of training.

Fleur-de-Lis, a full sister to Ormonde and Ossery, three-years-old, hasdeveloped into a roarer, keeping company with the balance of the family.

It is reported in the East, that the Brooklyn Jockey Club gave away 2,200 dead head tickets at their two meetings last year, still they netted $102,000.

Dan Dennison is at Los Angeles with his thoroughbreds, and at the same time tells everyone he meets that "Prince of Norfolk" is the greatest stallion in California.

If all accounts are true, W. H. Murray got a warm send off from Sacramento when he started with his stable East. There were several rows in which he came out second best in each.

Notification has been sent this office that the books are full for Director and Thistle, at the Pleasanton Stock Farm. Mr. Valensin also leaves word that Sidney cannot take any more mares.

It is said that unless Mr. Baldwin's horses show better form than they have done up to now at Los Angeles, he will not bring them up to the Blood Horse Meeting. Is he getting faint-hearted?

Now that American horses with records of 2:20 are in such great demand in Europe, the large Eastern cities are overrun with agents willing to purchase such trotters anywhere from $5,000 to 15,000.

There will probably be a special race arranged between Al Farrow and Geraldine at 110 and 105 pounds, one mile, with added money by the association. Kelly says that the last Saturday would suit both of them, as neither horse is engaged that day.

Ito and Black Pilot will probably meet again during the week, and if Mr. Fallon can be pursuaded to ride to orders he ought to win as Ito has a great turn of speed. Anyway he has cleared himself for they had $100 on him for a place last Saturday, at 4 to 1.

While on a visit to the Oakland track, M. McManus showed me several very fine specimens of trotting stock, one particularly suiting my fancy, by Clay. He is four years old, a dark brown and of perfect conformation; he should prove a useful horse for campaigning the circuit.

Robert Steel, Philadelphia, has purchased from J. W. Coulston, the bay mare Nellie Rose, 2:29½, trial 2:21, by Sacramento, brother to Mambrino Dudley, 2:19¼, dam Nellie Walworth by Toronto Patchen. Nellie Rose will be bred to Antevolo, 2:19½.

Fresnoites are anxious to have Stamboul trot on their track at the same meeting that the great $20,000 running race takes place. If the noted stallion fails to make 2:12 on the local tracks here, it is just possible he may go over the Fresno track and try to win Mr. Rose's wager, which he made with Counseller Crawford, of Lexington, Ky.

Senator Hearst's chestnut colt Mistral, which died week before last, at Sheepshead Bay, was a full brother to the Speedy Four Aces, owned in Los Angeles, and Arthur H. owned by W. H. Babb. He was over sixteen hands in height and was considered the equal of King Thomas in appearance and speed.

Dr. S. N. Hamlin, of Marysville, writes to tell me that there was an omission of his colt's name in the list of horses published last week, as in Senator Hearst's Stable. The c g, 3, by Joe Hooker, dam Dolly Varden, is named "Sir Reginald," and is entered in the Realization Stake, to be run at the spring meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club.

Many thanks to the Southern California Racing Club for a special invitation to attend their spring meeting, but the changes in the Breeder and Sportsman office of late prevented my visiting the City of the Angels at present, but I hope in the furture to pay my respects to the county which can boast of its Santa Anita and its Rosemeade.

R. E. Hyde, of Visalia, has purchased from D. J. McCarty seven broodmares, among the number being Nellie Burns, with a Guy Wilkes filly by her side. Satellite, bred to Noonday: a full sister to Lucille; Carrie Vernon by Mount Vernon, and Miss Haggin by Alaska, dam by Niagara. The mares were shipped to Visalia on Wednesday.

Jockeys A. McCarthy, Jr., Redfield, Day, Malone and English, who had been "set down" several months ago at Guttenberg for suspicious riding, were reinstated conditionally at a meeting of the Executive Committee last week. Every engagement made by any one of them to ride must be announced to and approved by the judges before the race. The reinstatements are only during good behavior, the judges reserving the right to revoke them at any time.

The following story was told me a few days ago, and shows that there are still some men left with big hearts. As will be remembered, Susie S., the property of A. G. Stevenson, was killed some weeks ago by one of Senator Hearst's horses running against her. She was entered at San Jose in several of the races, and naturally forfeits were issued to the winners. In one of the races a gentleman, on receiving the forfeit paper tore it up saying "Archie has had bad enough luck lately, he don't owe me anything."

For the past four months the horse news published in the Sacramento Record Union, have been clipped bodily from the Breeder and Sportsman, without a word of credit being given. Now, however, things will change, as N. E. White, an old Californian journalist, has the city desk on that paper, and we may expect to read frequent items about the doings of horses and horsemen at Agricultural Park.

The Blood Horse Association have determined to do away with all dead head tickets, at the coming meeting, and have established the rule that ladies shall be charged admission. In the future, things will not be run in the free and easy manner of the past, but strict attention paid to making the meeting a financial success. Members will be sent tickets as usual, but no extra passes of admission will be issued.

Dan McCarty purchased from J. Morgan Hill, on Wednesday last, Linda, four-year-old, a full sister to Fleet, who has a yearling record of 2:34. Linda is by Sidney, dam Flight by Buccaneer; second dam Prairie Bird, record 2:23¼, by Flaxtail; third dam Fashion by John the Baptist. Mr. McCarty will take this mare to the East, with the balance of his lot, where, beyond doubt, she will bring a good round figure.

One of the most popular horse journalists in the country, is Leslie E. Macleod, of Wallace's Monthly. During his visit to California, he has written up many of the stock farms in addition to compiling the work shortly to be issued by Charles Marvin, the veteran trotting horse driver and trainer. Mr. Macleod made many friends on this coast, who will heartily welcome him should he ever return. He started for New York last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. J. K. Newton, (the Australian throughbred importer,) returned last week from Lake County. He took his imp. Maribrynong mare bred to Salvator, with whom he was very pleased. He also took a fancy to Greenback while up there. His other mares are bred to imp Cheviot and Three Cheers. He expects to astonish race goers at the Blood Horse Spring Meeting with his colts, of whom we have heard very flattering reports.

From a private source, I learn that last week, Matt Byrnes worked out Fitz James a mile and a quarter against Firenzi; for the three-quarters they were nose and nose, but for the last half, the mare had to give way to the speed of the horse. Since the track has been in condition to work the string, Fitz James has developed in speed more than any of the others, and seems to have thrown off the apathy which characterized him last year.

Two weeks ago Mr. Leslie Macleod, of New York, contributed a short article on horse portraiture for the columns of the Breeder and Sportsman. In it he made the assertion that up to that time he had not seen any competent photographer on the coast who could take a good picture of a horse. Just before he left for New York he told me that he wanted to take that assertion back, as in Messrs Hill and Franklin, of San Jose, he had at least found two gentlemen who could take a good horse picture.

Mr. J. H. White of Lakeville, Sonoma Co., in addition to being elected President of the Breeder's Association, was also elected last week President of the District Agricultural Association at Petaluma, vice Mr. Meecham, who resigned on account of his health. Mr. White is a man of progressive ideas, and is able, from past experience, to build up the Association, make the necessary repairs on the track, and have it as it should be, one of the principal training places for California horses.

My old friend Charles V. Sass, (Centaur) has retired from the editoral chair of the New York Sporting World, joined the great army of Benedicts, and started for the West India Islands. Charley started the Sporting World and battled along with it until he saw the little infant verge into full fledged manhood, from a non-paying venture into a financial success. He was a good writer, very conscientious, and could not tolerate crookedness of any kind. He has my hearty good wishes for his future, and I sincely trust his lines may be cast in pleasant places.

The Eureka Jockey Club have determined not to be behind the other racing associations of the State, and so announce that they will give two days racing, on May 1st and 2nd. The majority of the races are for trotters, and the entries already made show that the immediate vicinity of Eureka will furnish most of the entries. On the first day a Colt Stake is advertised, best two in three for a purse of $150. On the second day still another trotting contest will take place and also a running race, three-quartors of a mile dash.

In the Hanford Sentinel one C. K. Ragan issues the following challenge: "Being informed through the owner of King Daniels that one of his friends had a thoroughbred colt by King Daniels that he was willing to match against any high trotting bred colt for $1,000, I hereby propose to match said colt or any other thoroughbred colt with a two-year Brilliant colt for $1000 or $1, as the case may suit other parties, owned in Tulare, Fresno, or Kern counties; trial to be made on any track in the three counties named, provided the match has money enough in it to pay expenses, should it be made in Fresno or Bakersfield."

Col. J. Thornton has just returned from a short visit to his ranch, and says his yearlings are looking wonderfully well, and though not as big as some he has seen, particularly Mr. Haggin's, yet they are doing as well as he expected and show great promise. The colonel, who is an enlightened breeder says that his mare Rebecca (bought at the Haggin sale last spring) ought to nick with his imported horse Mariner, and that he bought her for that purpose. She certainly ought to, for her dam is by imp. Eclipse, a son of Orlando, while Mariner has three Bay Middleton crosses, and speed is what we require in this enlightened age, this ought to give it though it is always considered rather soft blood.

Among the interesting special events of the year will be the stallion race for a $10,000 purse, says the Sporting World, to be trotted Sept. 18, over a first class New England track as yet unnamed. It will take place under the management of Mr. Wesley P. Balch of Boston, whose success in this special direction is well known. It is limited to horses eligible for the 2:19 class, of whom there is such a number credited with great speed that the result is certain to be a grand success. Entries close June 1, but the entrance money, $1,000 is not due until the day of the race. It would be easy to make a list of fifty stallions in the Eastern States that might be entered for this event with reasonable hopes of success, and a grand contest may be expected.

Entries Closed.

The Montana Agricultural, Mineral and Mechanical Association colt stakes have closed with the following entries:

To Mr. Morgan, the buff dog Victor.

Mr. Taft and His "Veteran Class."

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The B. and S. received to-day and read with interest. I didn't suppose that you would publish my letter. It was intended as a personal affair merely. It may look as though I wished to judge the "trick class," which I have no desire to do unless as a "help out." If there are any matters wherein I can help without publicity, I shall be happy to do so. I hope that the Pacific Kennel Club may make the "Veteran" class that I proposed. There is a "colley" up here that I would like to put in it, both regular and veteran. FRED A. TAFT.

Coursing at Sacramento.

The members of the Alta Coursing Club, of Sacramento, accompanied by a large delegation of ladies and gentlemen, went out to the Twelve-Mile House, on the Marysville road, Sunday to witness the unfinished coursing matches of the preceding Sunday. The day was delightful, the roads in good condition, the hares plentiful, and the dogs eager for the fray. What more could the most arcent lover of the sport wish for? The races were admirably managed by W. J. O'Brien and Ed. Sheehan, who did duty respectively as judge and steward.

The only incident of note, aside from some excellent features of several of the races, was Major Neary's catch-as-catch-can wrestling bout with a wire fence, in which the Major was badly worsted. The several heats were won as follows:

Conclusion of first series—H. M. & S. beat Lida Grant, Banner Blue a bye, Hot Stuff beat Lorrigan.

Second series—Tallyrand Jr. beat Longfellow, Frankie R beat Lady Alpha, Snowdrop beat Gimlet No. 1, Snowflake beat Ben Harrison, Queen beat Pride, Mohrn Shore beat Windsor Joe, Hot Stuff a bye, H. M. & S. beat Banner Blue.

Third series—Frankie R. beat Tallyrand Jr., Snowdrop beat Queen, Snowflake beat Mohrn Shore, H. M. & S. beat Hot Stuff.

Fourth series—Snowdrop beat Frankie R , Snowflake beat H. M. S.

Fifth series—Snowflake beat Snowdrop and won first money, second went to Snowdrop, and third to H. M. & S.

The Central Field Trial Club.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The Central Field Trial Club will hold their first meeting at Lexington, North Carolina, December 2, 1889, or immediately after the Eastern Field Trials Club have finished their running, Please place the above notice in your Kennel fixtures.

The Central Field Trial Club is in receipt of so many inquiries for information as to rules, etc., that the writer is unable to answer each in detail, hence would like to state through your valued paper, that we are hard at work on the rules, and expect to have them completed during the next four weeks, when a copy, together with a full advertisement of our stakes, will be sent to each of the sporting papers for publication. The names of applicants for information are placed on file, and a copy of the rules will be mailed them at the earliest moment possible.

For the information of all concerned, we will run a Setter Derby, also a Pointer Derby, with first, second and third places in each. The winners will be known as the winners of first, second and third in the Setter Derby and first, second and third in the Pointer Derby, respectively. The two first winners will be compelled to run a heat together, and the winner of this heat will be known as the winner of the Derby, and will receive an additional stake which from present indication will make its winnings worth about $1,000.

We will also run an All-Age Setter stake and an All-Age Pointer stake, with first, second and third places in each stake. The exact amount of each stake has not yet been fully determined, but none of them will be less than that now offered by the Eastern Field Trials Club, and the aggregate amount, including specials, will be not less than $3,000.

We have received several offers of special prizes for the winners of the Setter Derby, Pointer Derby and winner of the Derby, but as all except the latter were accompanied by conditions, the club has deemed it best not to accept any except the one offered without any other condition than that it should go to the winner of the Derby.

We hope to be able to offer a Breeder's Cup for the winner of the Setter Derby; also a like cup for the winner of the Pointer Derby.

The club hopes that the Pointer Derby will commend itself to all pointer breeders, and that they will show their appreciation by sending a very large number of starters to the trial. The setter breeders have always been stout-hearted and ready to give battle, hence we feel that the only appeal necessary to insure their support is to conduct our trials in such a manner as to insure the best dog (barring its being off or out of condition) being placed at the top.

We assure all that nothing money, experience, competent judges and fair play can do, will be left undone to make our trials an absolute success, and render setisfaction to all.

With your kind permission, we will, during the next two weeks, send you for publication, an outline of our running rules.

We will run a Derby for pointers, also a Derby for setters, with first, second and third places in each stake, and have decided to make the prizes in each, $400 to first, $200 to second, and $100 to third, making $1,400 for the two stakes; the winners to be known as the winners of first, second and third in the Pointer Derby, respectively. It will be a condition of each stake that the two winners of first must run a heat together, and the winner of this heat will be known as the winner of the Derby, and receive $400 additional ($200 of which has been so generously donated by the "American Field") making the entire amount, thus far decided on, for the winner of the Derby $800.

The first series of heats will be run to determine what dogs the judges shall select to run in the future series. Every dog will be given ample opportunity to show whatever merit he possesses. No heat can be less than one hour, and the judges will prolong the time as much beyond that limit as may be necessary to expel all doubt of the correctness of their decision. After all the dogs have run through the first series, the judges will announce those they have selected to run in the subsequent heats, and the names will be drawn to see which will run together, and the usual order of running will be continued through the future heats, the beaten dogs being dropped and the winners running together in the next series of heats.

In order to bring all dogs to the field in as fresh a condition as possible, we will alternate the running of the stakes—that is, run the setters one day and the pointers the next day, until both stakes are finished. This will give each dog all opportunity possible for rest and, we hope, will be the means of bringing them to the field each day, on a keen edge and enable them to show up to the best advantage possible.

The All-Age Setter Stake and the All-Age Pointer Stake will be run on the same plan as the Derby, first, second and third places in each stake. The winner of the first in the Setter stake and the winner of first in the Pointer stake will be compelled to run a heat together and the winner of this heat will be known as the winner of the All-Age stakes.

Mr. John Davidson and Mr. Wm. Tallman will judge in all stakes and Col. Arthur Merriman will make the third judge in the Pointer Derby, also the All-Age Pointer Stake. Mr. J. M. Tracy was to have been the third judge for the Setter Derby and All-Age Setter Stake, but he now finds it will be necessary for him to be absent in Europe. Mr. Tracy is one of our members, and if alive, will be in the field next year. We will endeavor to find a substitute for Mr. Tracy as judge that will prove acceptable to all owners and breeders, and will be pleased to have them send the writer, names of such gentlemen as will be satisfactory to them.

C. H. ODELL, Secretary pro tem.,
Mills Building, New York.

Sporting Breeds.

Recent purchases of bench winners in England have given America a lead in certain breeds which will probably be maintained. In pointers, English and Irish setters, England is already quite outclassed as is admitted by a writer, who says, in an exchange:

"The stimulus afforded by the remunerative prices paid by American buyers has to a certain extent helped to keep buyers on the alert as much from the fact that our neighbors on the other side of the Atlantic are prepared to pay well for extra good dogs as from the equally important desideratum that unless every energy is strained to keep to the front, England will be surpassed in breeding dogs as on many other points by the energetic and wealthy Western Hemisphere. It is on the latter account that the pre-eminence of our fine English kennels at the commencement of the present year may be viewed with the utmost complacency.

It is in the sporting division that breeders in England are being severely pressed by the Americans, but it must be remembered that the Laverack and Llewellyn strains have formed the groundwork of their English setter breeding; but, be this as it may, so long as there is a Birkett-Cockerton and a Shorthose in the field on this side, there is not much fear of defeat, more particularly as second-rate animals that have been imported from this country now pose as champions. To take, for an instance, Rockingham, who could not have gained the title of champion in England except by the merest fluke. It is in the future, however, that English breeders will have to look to their laurels, as, with the increase of enthusiasm in dogs in America, the number of breeders of setters will probably far exceed that of those in the Mother Country. The Irish setters, also popular in the Far West, in many cases trace their pedigree back to Palmerston, that prifice of blood whose lineage is so highly valued all over the United Kingdom.

While on the subject of Irish setters a tribute of praise is due to the Rev. R. O'Callaghan for the perseverance he has displayed both as a judge and breeder in raising the standard of these equally useful and handsome dogs to their present state of excellence. By comparison with the English and the Irish setter the black and tan setter has not made such rapid progress, possibly owing to the difference of opinion which exists amongst judges as to the value of color.. In Scotland, the home of the breed, richness of tan is a sine qua non, a point which with most English judges is of secondary consideration. About the name there has lately been a lengthy discussion in America, with the result that it is from henceforth to be called the Gordon setter, and every dog with a stipulated percentage of blood which can be traced to the Duke of Gordon's strain is to be eligible for the Stud Book.

Pointers have always been favorite dogs with English sportsmen to shoot over, and they have participated in the general advance, taken as a lot, but during the past few years very few individual specimens have been bred standing out prominently amongst the crowd; few, indeed, to compare with Mr. Lloyd Price's celebrated Wagg; light eyes and coarse and badly-carried sterns are too often to be seen even amongst the greatest prize winners. That there is room for improvement was evidenced at Birmingham, where the best classes of sporting dogs are usually to be met with; there the small-sized dogs and bitches were wretchedly poor. It is argued by some people that for a pointer to be good in the field is all that is required; but there is no reason why beauty of contour, liberty of action, and the other typical points should not be associated with the finest working properties were breeders to set to work in earnest to obtain them.

The variations of fashion have been experienced amongst spaniels. Caprice has of late decided that Clumbers are to be larger than of yore, great size having been obtained at the expense of type. On the other hand the blacks have well-nigh reached perfection, Messrs. Bryden and Comber's and Mr. Farrow's being of great merit. Now varieties have been manufactured, amongst them black and tans, which in some cases have shown a decided family likeness to Gordon setters. The fine Sussex with the golden liver color has almost become extinct, and though some few are said to be direct descendants from the celebrated Rosehill strain they are generally wanting in Sussex character. At the present time there is a disposition to force small field spaniels into the Cocker classes. This is a great mistake, as the active little Cocker is distinctly different in form to the long and low field spaniel.

There is no breed of sporting dogs which has kept on so steadily improving in style and character as retrievers, more particularly in the wavy division. The fact that all the best dogs remain in the country in consequence of there being but little demand for retrievers aboard, where pointers and setters are taught to retrieve, has, no doubt, something to do with this. But probably a more cogent reason is to be found at Ettington Park, where Mr. S. E. Shirley keeps a fine kennel of wavy retrievers, and from whence have sprung almost all the best retrievers of the day. The combination of substance with quality has been made an important feature in building up this strain, and there now only wants the eradication of the disposition to throw light eyes and rather large ears to obtain almost absolute perfection.

The exportation of the greater part of the best fox terriers to America has not been advantageous to the smooth variety of that name, it being an open question whether there now exists a Buffet or Dorcas. More of the character so conspicuous in that grand old terrier, Belgrave Joe, is still required. The wire-haired fox terriers have made giant strides during the short time that attention has been paid to their breeding, and it was no small feather in their cap when the six best were successful in competition with the same number of the cream of the smooths. The stringent measures with regard to trimming which have lately been passed by the Fox Terrier Club can only be looked upon in one light, that of approval.

Notes on Bait Fishing For Trout.

By J. Harrington Keene.

Worm or bait fishing for trout should be practised in lucid streams, where the trout are few and wary, and never should be allowed in rivers where the fish are numerous and unused to fishing or anglers. Under circumstances of such difficulty as indicated, it ranks, in my opinion, next to fly-fishing in its demands on the resources of the fisher; the necessity for careful and neat casting, and alert attention to the indications of a bite being, indeed, in some respects of a superior grade. Worm fishing should come in when the water is brightest and the fish wariest, namely, in July or thereabouts. It should never be practised before, and it is really unsportsmanlike, as I have admitted, if used after the showers of early season have colored the water. In bright water, however, if the angler is skilled, his sport is sure to be great; if, however, he does not care to attend to the minutiae of the art of worm fishing, he may in vain exercise his strength and perseverance, for it is, under such conditions, as difficult to take trout with the worm as with a fly. A good angler in this style, however, may be sure of taking almost as many trout during the heat and brilliance of midsummer as during the whole of his subsequent or previous experience in that season. Mr. Francis goes into raptures over the scenic and other charms, incident to the dolce far niente worm fisher's art. Mr. Stewart confines himself to describing the methods of its practice, and the latter example I shall elect to follow myself.

In order that the cast may be made with a success commensurate with that in fly fishing, I prefer a double handed rod, of greater stiffness than the ordinary fly rod, and from 14 feet to 16 feet in length. A single handed rod can, of course, be used if the angler chooses, but I do not recommend it, having found, even in fly fishing, a double handed weapon inflict less real fatigue than the other. A double handed rod, then be it.

When I referred to the success of the cast, I did not mean the getting out of a long line necessarily, but the successful cast of the bait, so that the fragile worm may not be mutilated or broken. A long cast, indeed, is not desirable, because the force of sending it out often sadly disarranges your lure The length of the rod also aids one in striking and bringing home the bait, for it must be patent to every body that a strike is better made, when the fish is at a distance, with a long rod than a short. The reel may be similar to that used for fly fishing, and so may the line; the choice of such may be, however, left in some degree to the angler's taste.

The casting line cannot be too fine in reason. The upper part may, truly, be of thicker gut than the lower, and, like a fly cast, the whole may be taper. I advocate this on two counts: one, the greater facility afforded of getting the line out; the other, the desirability, because of the clearness of the water, when worm fishing is practised. Drawn gut is better than whole gut, because the former has, by the process of drawing, been deprived of its reflective powers, and is therefore, not nearly so visible in the water as the latter.

Now, as to hooks. Stewart and Pennell advocate more than one hook—in fact, the former advocates four, tied one above the other. The worm is looped on. It is known as "Stewart's" tackle, and these are the advantages the maker claims for it: (1) That the trout can hardly take hold of the worm at all without having one of the hooks in its mouth; (2) That the worm lives much longer, and being free to wriggle itself into any shape, is more natural looking, and consequently enticing; and lastly (3) that it is much more easily baited, especially if the worms are fresh. Very candidly does Mr. Stewart enumerate its disadvantages. He says that it is "more difficult to extricate from the fish's mouth (that it is, indeed, especially if the worm be, by chance, swallowed, and the whole four hooks are safely attached); that it requires to be baited afresh every bite (a nuisance which becomes intolerable when the angler is learning the style, and in consequence, misses a large number of bites); and that the exposure of so many hooks is calculated to scare away some of the trout that would otherwise take the bait."

For my part, I think the objections to the tackle far outweigh its usefulness. Another detraction may be added, that is, the hooks are continually catching in something, whereas the single hook, being unobtrusive and unexposed, does not do so. Besides this, I have found that the worm often breaks itself, no matter how skillfully it is put on or how well it has been scoured. The originator, or, more properly, the adapter, thinks otherwise, of course, and certainly advances strong evidence of the plausibility of his conviction. He first tried using one and then the four, the trial lasting over three days. The result was that the four hook tackle proved triumphant to the extent of about 15 per cent. Such experiments are not, however, unimpeachable as to real test. There are natural conditions of atmosphere and water which are utterly beyond the estimation of the angler, and which will ever render such tests unreliable, unless they are conducted through a long series of days or even months. Perhaps there is something in early training which disposes me to this exclusive liking for the one hook. Anyhow, I prefer it to the quartet Stewart recommends.

For my own part, I prefer a No. 5 or 6 hook, whipped on with a bristle or piece of silver wire projecting about a quarter of an inch above the shank. It should be baited by running the hook along the length of the worm, from the mouth to within one-half an inch of the tail. In order to do this well it is necessary to have a little silver sand in a receptacle near, or attached to the worm tin, to dip the worm in, that it may not slip between the fingers.

I never attach shot, because I do not believe in impeding the worm at all. If one be fishing in deep water, sinkers are admissible, but then it is not in pools that the angler usually finds his sport. It chiefly is in the midst of streams of shallow water where he will get fish, and to use shot when throwing up-stream is of no utility in producing the properly silent—or nearly so—delivery of the bait.

Besides all this, also, the staying of the bait in the stream is an unnatural proceeding, and is calculated to arouse the suspicions of the wary old fish, likely to regard your bait with favor. Throw in a worm, good angler, and watch it. How it twists and twirls, and then rolls over and over, higgled-piggledy, amongst the stones and debris of the ground of the stream, and finally into the jaws of a trout. There is ordinarily no stoppage whatever in its progress until it reaches that bourne from which no worm returns—the trout's mouth. Why, then, should the angler place shot on his line? To retard it, say some, so that the fish may have time to take it. Unnatural again. Depend upon it, good trout-fisher, the nearer you are in all things approximate to the natural, the better your sport.

The worms in use for worm-fishing are chiefly the dew or maiden worm, the red worm, the brandling, and the marsh worm.

The dew or maiden lob-worm is an immature worm of the species Lumbricus terrestris, or common earth worm. By well watering the grass of a closely cut lawn just before sundown, and traversing it afterwards with a lantern, one can always get enough for a day's fishing. They should be kept in damp moss—the sphagnum is the best—that they may scour themselves and become tough and lively.

There is a black-headed worm, which is probably of another species, called by some anglers the blue head. It is of sheeny bluish appearance throughout, and is, no doubt, one of the best worms for trout-fishing when scoured well. There is, however, a difficulty in getting it, and my experience is that very dark, stiff loam alone produces it in abundance.

The red worm, or cockspur, is a delightful little fellow, and is found in rotten manure heaps. The brandling is also a pretty worm, but has a remarkably fetid smell. Whilst the red worm is really a splendid lure, the brandling is not often so. Both are too well known to need any description.

The marsh worm is a great favorite with many anglers, but I do not esteem it as at all approaching the foregoing in popularity with trout. It is of a pale blue color, with a whiteish knot a little above the centre. It is very plentiful, but I do not care much for it. If properly scoured it assumes a bright pink hue, and will kill fish in small waters.

Now, a word as to the storing and keeping of worms in good condition. Get a large box, and into it place old pieces or any material of that nature without dye, torn into small pieces. Put your worms on the top and throw in a good lot of earth of the ordinary garden sort. In cold weather place a sack over the receptacle; do so in hot weather also, to keep out the sunshine, which is inimical to the worms. Look them over carefully every few days, throwing away the dead ones.

To scour them, the moss above named is best; they ought to be in some three days at least before using. Place them at the top. Walton talks of the yolk of egg as good food for worms, but such fanciful fare is really not worth speaking about. Perhaps, as a curiosity, however, before quitting the subject, the following recipe I discovered in manuscript in the Sloane collection, (British Museum) will prove interesting:

"A wonderful bait for Trowtes and Thymallos. Draw a black hen, put into the belly of it three yolks of eggs and as much saffron as pease; then sew up the hole, and bury the hen in a dunghill of horsedung for three or four days till it putrefit or rot, and there will appear little yellow worms in it. When you have a mind to fish, fasten one of these worms to your hooks. Keep the rest of the worms in a pot or vessel. It is a wonderful experiment." This is taken from a work by John Hooker, the name of which is illegible, and the copyist adds: "I think the like may be made with a herring, for it is said that a herring hath an attractive power to draw fish to it; and the eggs of hernes may be better than the yolks of hen eggs." He also says, "Worms sprinkled with powder of camphor makes a good bait for carps, perch and other fish."

In the selection of a hook bait, those worms that are small and well fed, likewise, being somewhat transparent and of good color which experience alone will determine, are the best. It must never be supposed that a large worm entices a large trout in the same way as a large bait is found most suitable for a large pickerel. Such is not the case. I have repeatedly taken a two-pound trout with a worm only just large enough for the hook, but it was always a very lively worm, and well scoured. I do not think trout are very particular what species of worm they take. If there is any preference at all, it is for the cockspur or small red worm.

In casting the worm, a rather different style must be resorted to from that used in fly-throwing. The line must be thrown lightly, so as not to break the worm, and precisely to any given spot. It should, to this end, be allowed to go back to its extremity, and then the plan is to slowly urge it forward, so as to avoid the risk of its popping. If it "pops," of course the chances are the worm requires renewal. Its tail, which hangs loose, is probably broken, and this is a very bad fault in a bait. The vermicular writhings are exceedingly fascinating to trout.

After the bait has fallen on the water, (bear in mind I advocate up-stream fishing if possible) the point of the rod must be lowered, so as to facilitate the sinking of the bait; it should then be slowly raised, so as to keep out of the water as much line as possible, but it is necessary that this should not be done too quickly, lest the trundling, rolling passage of the bait be interfered with. It is of great importance to keep the line as much as possible out of the water, lest the stream acting upon it, accelerate its force unduly. Also the trout, seeing the continuous line, will very often be startled. In all cases it is best to endeavor to let the worm fall first, as with the fly, because, in the case of an eddy, though it may drop precisely in the centre, yet, if there be much line in the water, it is infallibly swept out of it. There is also another reason: The worm is of but little specific gravity (as compared with the water), and floats or rolls down stream at almost the same pace as the stream. On the other hand, the line, if allowed, bags, and a portion of it remains up stream. If this portion be considerable, it retards the strike sufficiently to cause the loss of many a fish. No more than four or five feet of fine gut should be allowed to present itself to the stream, excepting when a deep pool necessitates otherwise. It must be born in mind that the worm ought not to grovel on the ground, but skip, as it were, over obstacles, and generally behave itself as if it were unencumbered. It then, by force of the stream as much as by the will of the fish, leaps, as it were, into the jaws of its foe.

When this consummation so devoutly to be wished has arrived, the first signs are a stoppage. In many cases this is imperceptible to the eye of the uninitiated, but the experienced worm-fisher instantly detects it, and unerringly acts on it by striking. But the striking must not be too rashly done. Lower your rod down stream till the line is straight without bearing on the fish, and strike sharply. The plan may be practised whether you are using the four hook tackle or the one hook—perhaps a second or so later for the latter.

Now, no one in the world can determine on paper the precise moment when the strike is most likely to have effect. Let us consider for an instant how a trout takes a worm. I have watched the proceeding often enough in aquariums. The worm falls and floats down stream wriggling. The trout advances and takes it, if possible, by the tail end; if not by the tail, then by the head, and sometimes quite crosswise. The most general aim of the fish is to take it tail first, this part being best liked. Hence, the tail is allowed to hang down in preference to the head.

Somebody may ask how I know the fish like the tail of a worm in preference to the head. By experiment, I answer. I chopped up worms so that the heads and tails were mixed, and distributed them promiscuously to my trout. They invariably "went for" the tails with a decision which, to say the least, was remarkable.

From these facts I deduce the desirability of the threading of the worm from head to tail. At the same time one repeatedly finds the fish taking the worm by the head and biting it through—evidently from pure "cussedness"—and then leaving it. In such a case Mr. Stewart's tackle has them instanter.

It is certainly very deadly in this respect, but I conceive its chief detrimental feature is the habit it has of catching at everything within reach, as if it were really endowed with vitality.

Mr. W. J. Golcher and Chas. D. Laing fished the San Lorenzo from Boulder Creek on Monday and had good luck. They went well up the stream.

Will Kittle took a good basket of trout from the Alamio on Sunday, using white winged Coachman tipped with bait.

A small army, with rods and baskets, raided Point Reyes on Saturday evening. Robert K. Gardner and Mr. Emery used bait and did fairly. David Thorne, H. Spencer and Senator Pinder, fly casting, brought down light baskets.

Messrs. Schwerin, Open, Precht, Frank Dolliver and Wilson fished for salmon at the bridge near Olema in tide water, and killed a dozen fish between them.

The fishing season has so far been all in favor of the trout and salmon, the streams having been too high and muddy for good sport. Another week or two, however, will bring favorable conditions. Messrs. Ramon E. Wilson, J. M. Adams and W. H Peckham fished Boulder Creek and the San Lorenzo on Saturday last, Messrs. Adams and Wilson using flies and Mr. Peckham bait The two first named got plenty of very small trout. Mr. Peckham killed but four or five, but they were large, one a salmon weighing five pounds.

THE GUN.

Championship Meeting.

The championship of Central California at Blue Rock targets was shot for at Adam's Point, on Saturday afternoon last. The honor is emphasized by a gold medal worth $100, offered by the Selby Smelting and Lead Company, which had been twice won by Mr. Frank J. Bassford, of Vacaville, and on Saturday he added a third win. If he again wins the trophy it becomes his personal property.

The match was given under the auspicies of the Blue Rock Club and was well attended. The traps, of the latest model, did not work satisfactorily, breaking many of the targets, and throwing the rest irregularly.

Mr. A. B. Sperry, of Stockton, had challenged Mr. Bassford but did not appear for some reason.

Mr. W. A. Hamilton, of San Diego, one of the best of the southern coterie of fine shots, took second place.

Score:—At 50 singles, and 25 pairs, Blue Rock targets; entrance $10. First, medal and 40 per cent of entrance, Mr. F. J. Bassford; second, 30 per cent, Mr W. A. Hamilton; third, 20 per cent, Mr. J. B. Portal Jr.; fourth, 10 per cent, Mr. J. B Maynard.

He is Not Mad!

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—Why, oh why, should I have been made the target for your humor-tipped shaft of last week? But I am not mad—no, I am not mad! However, I came home a week ago to-day, tired and hungry, from a snipe shoot, and my wife met me at the door with two postal cards—one wasn't enough, but two had to be sent—and before I knew what it was all about, I had been pretty well chaffed about my "symmetrical figure," etc. I have satisfied the good lady, however, that it was all meant seriously, and that I was the observed of all observers at the trials—the central figure, etc. If I had only thought to have held in my arms that gorgeous alligator-leather gun case she presented me on Christmas—when that picture was taken—I would have had an easier task to thus convince her that I was really the same dignified creature away from home that I try to be here.

Well, how do things look for next year? Good, I hope. May we be there to see! You know "there are only a few of us left," of the originals, and I hope we will continue to stay with the procession. N. E. WHITE.

SACRAMENTO, April 6, 1889.

A notable visitor to San Francisco during the week has been Mr. William Thomas, of Chico, the best shot, most devoted angler and leading sportsman of that section. Mr. Thomas attended the last field trials at Bakersfield, and expects to be represented in the next by a pointer. He reports game scarce about Chico, and interest in sport at a low ebb.

The Pacific Sportsmen's Club, Sacramento, held its annual meeting on Saturday last, and elected the following officers: President, J. M. Morrison; vice-president, Frank Kunz; treasurer, Adam Damm; secretary, Fred George; captain, Chas. Flohr; assistant captain, George Chapman. The club will hold its first trap meeting of the season on April 27th, at 8 o'clock A. M., on Agricultural Park, Sacramento.

THE STANDARD BRED YOUNG STALLION

NUT GROVE.

By GROSVENOR, he by ADMINISTRATOR, he by RYSDYK'S HAMILTONIAN.

First dam Lady Nutwood by Nutwood 600; second dam Lady Mac, standard, by American Boy; third dam a thoroughbred mare imported from Australia.

NUTGROVE is a beautiful bay, 15¾ hands, and is one of the finest appearing young horses in the State. He took the first prize for best two-year-old standard-bred horses at Oakland in 1888, also first prize at the State fairs in the same class. He has been worked for speed but a little, but showed quarters in 33 to 40 seconds. His dam took first prize for standard mare at the Oakland Fair, and also took first prize at the State Fair, 1888, for best mare of any age or breed. For further particulars apply to

We have received catalogues from Bruce & Kidd announcing a combination sale of the Woodburn, Runnymede and Coldstream yearlings. They are a remarkably bred lot, being by such sires as imported Billet, Hindoo, Falsetto, King Alfonso, Longfellow, Powhattan, Macduff, Fonso, imported Uhlan, Lisbon, The Rake, Barnes, Pat Malloy, Miser and imported Deceiver. Among the near relatives to noted performers in the lot are brothers to Sir Dixon, Belvidere, Fordham, Buddhist, Miracle, Washburn, Brahmin, Burton, Hindoo Rose, Falcon, Catalpa and Foxhall, and sisters to The Lioness, Jennie P., Hanover, Perkins, Alpena, Jim Gore, Sunbeam, Miss Motley, Nita, Carroll, Servia, Hinda, Spalding, Peekskill, Font and Bob Fisher. There is also a half-brother to Barnes and Runnymede by Hindoo in the collection. Any of our readers who desire catalogues can procure them by calling at this office. The sale will take place Tuesday, April 30th.

13th District Agricultural Association.

The annual meeting of this association was held at Marysville, a few days ago, and J. H. Kimball, of Sutter County was elected president, Mr. Knight positively refusing to accept the position again as he expects to go East shortly, and he could not give the association the attention it requires. Mr. Thos. Sherwood, of Marysville, was elected secretary and manager of the Fair. The date for the fair was selected, being September 3rd to 7th inclusive. As usual it was determined to give as large purses as possible. The speed list will be published on or about May 1st.

A few weeks ago, by the request of J. D. Whitney and A. B. Cutler, we sent an advertisement to the Chicago Horseman and the N. Y. Spirit of the Times relative to the firm opening books on the Brooklyn and Suburban Handicaps. In the Spirit of March 30th the following notice appears: "For information concerning the responsibility of Messrs. Cutler & Whitney, bookmakers, San Francisco Cal., intending backers should address editor of BREEDER AND SPORSTMAN, of that city, by whom the advertisement was sent to the Spirit."

The advertisement was simply sent to our contemporary as an act of accommodation to a customer, and not with the idea of being cited as reference. However, the following letter speaks for itself, and gives the references furnished by the firm:

E. A. BUCK, ESQ.,
Editor Spirit of the Times,
New York City, N. Y.

Dear Sir: I see by your paper of the 30th inst. that you refer all those speculatively inclined to the editor of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, of this city. That is all satisfactory, but would much rather have you refer than to our banks, which are the following: McCornick & Co., of Salt Lake City, Utah (private act, Mr. A. B. Cutler), also California Savings Bank and Loan Association, corner Powell and Eddy Streets, this city, by which we will save our friend, Mr. A. P. Waugh, city editor BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, considerable trouble, and it will be more satisfactory (we think) to the general public.

Very truly yours,
CUTLER & WHITNEY.

The Stanford Stakes of 1891.

The first Stanford Stakes were for foals of 1879, so that the one which closed on the 20 inst., is the tenth of the series.

As first it was a stake of $300, each being the largest stake ever gotten up for trotting three-year-olds, the object being to induce Eastern owners to make nominations. Failing to receive their support it was reduced to $175 each, the cutting down being in first, second and third payments which are $25 each in place of a first and second installment of $100 each. Thus colts can be engaged at a small risk when compared with the original amount, and as the payment of $100 is put off until thirty days before the time fixed for trotting there is a good chance to learn the capacity before the largest majority of the stake has to be posted.

That the stake retains its popularity is manifest from the list of nominations which was published last week, thirty-one in all, and many of the most prominent Californian stallions represented. Arrayed in alphabetical order their names are Alban, Alcazar, Antevolo, Electioneer, Electricity, Eros, Guy Wilkes, Dawn, Le Grande, Nephew, Norval, Shamrock, Sidney and a son of Kelpie and Sprite. Thirty-one colts make a grand showing, and fourteen stallions fully in keeping with the number of their progeny. Stamboul and Director are omitted which probably comes from neglect on the part of the owner of the game black, and Mr. Rose may have thought that he would prefer that the battle for Rosemead be fought by the get of his favorite colt. That the sires do not carry all the glory is manifest when the list of dams is scrutinized for in that will be found, Sable, Manon, Sallie Benton, Lady Ellen, Mayflower, and combinations of blood in those unknown to fame which is an augury that will be only a temporary cloud. There are eight which have made third payment in the Stanford Stakes for 1889, and twenty which are still eligible for that of 1890.

Secretary Geo. A. Tupper, of the Sonoma County Agricultural Park Association, with a commendable promptitude, forwarded us last week, immediately on the closing thereof, the entries already received for the colt stake races, to be held in Santa Rosa this fall. Since his last letter he has received a few other nominations, which are to be added to the list already published. They are as follows.

DISTRICT YEARLING STAKE.
R. J. Zane, g c Custor, Capri—Fanny.
DISTRICT TWO-YEAR-OLD STAKE.
A. J. Zane, g c Coustol, Capri—Fanny.
S. Sperry, b f Rosa F., Anteeo, dam by Sultan.
R. H. Hudson, br f Lady Armington, Anteeo—Abotine.

Trotting Stakes to be Decided in 1889.

Not to speculate about stakes which are yet to close, it is a safe assertion that never a year before which gave such promise of rare sport among the trotting youngsters on this coast.

There are so many colt stakes at the various fairs, that a good portion of the programme is taken up with them, the nominations are very full, and the character of the contestants such as to warrant the belief that even records may be equalled with a possible chance of still lower figures. The hardest task is unquestionably the essay to beat the two-year-old mark, and were we asked to select the easiest to wipe out of all of the colt records the yearling guage would be the choice. Two minutes, thirty-one and a half seconds is a "prodigeous" flight for an animal which ranks as a yearling, and though the trial be postponed, until 1889 be within a few hours of being numbered with the past, it is still the hardest kind of a stent to accomplish.

But when 2:18 is the objective point for an animal foaled in 1887, there are mountains in the way, and no small elevation when foals of 1886 make the same endeavor. Then 2:16 for a four-year-old is an up grade the whole of the way, and though there may be those who flippantly vaticinate on the ease with which certain colts will "knock the black out" of a figure already low in the teens, their enthusiasm runs away with their judgment. But for all that, there is a "field" of four-year-olds which portend trouble to "Folio's" selection.

Admitting Grandee to be a wonderful colt, with Direct, Gossiper, Memo, Balkan, Moses S., and quite a number of the three-year-olds of last year which gave evidence of being cut the right way of the cloth, and put together as well, to meet even the grandson of Nourmahal may falter before victory is gained. Sunol so far overshadows all other colts and fillies of her age, of her year, or any other year, that with health and condition in her favor, none would be rash enough to dispute that she had a first mortgage on all of the three-year-old stakes she started in. But health, and freedom from accidents incidental to colts in training are not positively to be counted upon, and there is also a chance that she may not take part in California races. Outside of Sunol, Margaret S. and Vesolia have shown the best in public, but not so manifestly superior as to preclude hopes that others may be fitting company. There could not be a more "open question" than that which the two-year-olds will present. There is a great number of that age in training, and from reports, which appear to be well founded, there will be no lack of fast ones in that class.

A great year for all class of turf and track sports, an extraordinary year for youngsters in both divisions, superlative for fairs and meetings, and above all the best for the whole State of California that has been known for crops of all kinds.

The Meeting at San Jose.

When the San Jose Blood Horse Association hold its next meeting there is little question of hearty support being given. The first proved that good racing could be seen in the spring, and that with the number of horses now in training in California there will be no further trouble in bringing enough of them together to ensure capital sport at any suitable season of the year.

The improvements to the course have resulted in as good track as the most oxacting could ask for. "Fast" and "safe," spectators are pleased with contests which the watch endorses as having the attraction of speed, while the safety part delights owners and trainers.

Fast, look over the whole list of races. The horses, of course, had to be fast, too, though it requires more than elastic muscles and "nerves of steel" to put such marks on the blackboard as were displayed during the entire meeting.

The most notable event in the way of speed was the run of Al Farrow in 1:40. Quite true that he had only 93 pounds to handle, but to make 1,760 yards in 100 seconds is a great performance if even the weight carried was a "gutted snowbird," to use an old time quarter horse metaphor. Then Geraldine from all accounts "should have won," had her powers been more judiciously managed.

It is claimed that she made three quarters of a mile in 1.13, and that is enough to "cook" any horse, however game, that flies over the fastest ground at that rate. But then again, Al Farrow had the worst of the start, and according to all accounts he was no further back at the three-quarter pole than he was when the flag fell, so that he must have also gone three-quarters in 1·13, and had enough left to beat the fiery-footed-filly at the finish. When these Oregon-reared short mares are bred to California stallions, they appear to upset Fanny Kemble's often-quoted saying: "That none but thoroughbreds do it right well," and that Lummux and George combined with Joe Hooker and Connor, are "sure enough racehorses" when the route is no further than a stated mile.

Far more important to the true interests of racing was the example set by Palo Alto to crack the record all through. Not that it has been the first time that horses from the same stable "raced each others heads off," but since dash races became the rule, it has been gravely argued that so long as the stable won, no matter if a Dan Sparling beat a Spendthrift, or the slowest crab in the string finished before the crack, when a half-hundred, a long half-hundred at that, would not have brought them together, it was all right. These cute argumentators, however, lose sight of the fact that the spectators who pay their money to see a race have rights, and their expectation must not be balked to favor owners, although it is questionable if ever any great benefits are derived from sharp practices of any description.

That spring racing in California, outside of the Blood Horse meetings, will hereafter become popular is settled beyond controversy, and San Jose has done a good deal towards accomplishing the end.

The Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeder's Association.

Furthermore, it is a fortunate circumstance that it was established on broad grounds, and that in place of the membership being restricted to a few, as some advocated, all who have a fondness for the trotting horse are eligible. The title may be claimed a misnomer, as some are on the roll who cannot be classed as breeders, but so long as they are of the right material in other respects, that cannot be considered as a mark against them. In point of fact it is an advantage, acting as a balance wheel on those who are so rigidly bound by preferences, and, perhaps, by prejudices, as not to be capable of taking the soundest view of what should be done.

A few argued that membership should be confined to those owning "breeding farms," and had this foolish notion prevailed, there would have been certain failure. It might be difficult to determine what should be considered a breeding farm.

There are half a dozen trotting horse "ranches" in California which so far overshadow all others, that there is scarcely room for comparison, and yet there are hundreds who may be classed as breeders of horses especially intended for fast work in harness, and this number can be multiplied several times over when the requirement is so general as to include people who are interested in trotters and trotting races.

Far better to have a membership of many hundreds, which is likely to result from the qualifications fixed upon at the late meeting, than a score, or less, which would have been the limit under the iron-clad rule. Better a hundred members with as light a fee for membership as that agreed upon, $25, than twenty willing to pay a sum which would aggregate a larger amount.

In one case there is a certainty of popular support, in the other there would be a feeling that the intention was to create a monopoly, establish a trust which should work for the benefit of the organizers, swallow the small breeders, or at the best form them into a tail of a huge kite which would keep them in perpetual shadow.

There is small ground to base a reason upon for restriction. If benefits are to follow the organization of a society for the promotion of the interests of small breeders, there cannot be any possible chance of injuring the larger, provided the latter class are willing to accept an equal chance. But if the membership were restricted to a few, and the usual conditions attached, that all colts nominated in stakes, or entered in purses, gotten up by the asscciation, should be the get of stallions owned by members, or ownership by members when entries were made, then those who were not fortunate enough to own or occupy the required number of acres would be ruled out.

In this connection it may be proper to advise, that should a restrictive law be embodied in the code, that it only apply to residents of that part of the country which is termed the Pacific Coast, and that all outside of the boundaries be admitted. It is unquestionably proper, when membership is placed at so low a figure as $25, that participants in the benefits should assume their share of the weight, when residence is within the bounds.

Without that qualification there are people, and people, too, who are largely interested, who would refrain from joining when there was not a direct return in view.

Judging from the past there is little likelihood of nominations and entries being received from the other side of the mountains, and still less of members from that quarter, but should there be men willing to enter the lists, when the tilting ground is thousands of miles away, the association should give them a hearty welcome.

There are questions, however, of greater moment than one of what may be termed courtesy to breeders who are now residents of the Pacific Slope, though all are easily managed if no disturbing influences are permitted at the first. The danger most likely to be met will arise from jealousy among prominent breeders, and with proper guards that will be reduced to a minimum. There was an informal discussion after the adjournment in relation to naming stakes after individuals who would "add" certain amounts to stakes which were thus christened, or which took for a title the name of a horse selected by the donor. It might be that pecuniarly the association would be benefitted at first, and that men would be found willing to stand godfather to a sufficient number of stakes to fill the whole programme of a meeting. But advertising men or their horses in this way will be sure to raise a feeling of animosity, and those who cannot afford to give as liberally as the wealthy division, or who do not desire that kind of prominence, will object, and discord will result in place of harmonious action.

It may be that precedents will be quoted to justify that kind of nomenclature, and that a custom which has prevailed since the first St. Leger was gotten up will sanction a continuance. With all possible reverence for the past, and veneration for the old-time patrons of turf sports, it may be as well to forsake some of the paths they have marked, and though it would be decidedly iconoclastic to rechristen the Derby, St. Leger, the Withers or Belmont, there is no necessity for adhering to personal names, and fill a programme with appellations which have little bearing on trotting affairs. There are names in California which are "household words;" names which are borne by men who have won the respect and admiration of their fellow citizens. There are others who are equally entitled to respect and esteem to whom, however, fortune has not been so generous, and not having been "blazoned by the Trump of Fame," the appropriateness of naming stakes after them would only be recognized by their intimates.

When a stake was given the name of the largest and most successful breeder of trotters, not only in California, but also in the whole world it was certainly applicable. More so from the fact that it was a departure from the usual routine, and the consent of the "patron" to have it so called, gave it a standing without an association to "back it." There was no necessity for exlanation. The reasons for naming the largest three-year-old trotting colt stakes were apparent at a glance, and if there were thousands of men by the same name there could be no mistake to which it owned its designation. In that case the name was an honor to the stake, there might be instances when the prefix was, to say the least, without meaning.

There was a short speech made by a delegate which covers the whole ground, and though only one sentence was employed brevity was not its only merit. That was: "The objects of the Association are to further in every way the best interests of trotting horse breeding in California." The officers already chosen will do their utmost to meet the wants of breeders, and gratify those who are not in the ranks of breeders, but have a fondness for trotting sports is beyond question. That they have the ability is also acknowledged on all sides, and with a directory of the same character, and which there will be no trouble in securing, there could not be better prospects for success.

The meeting which is to be held on Friday evening, April 19th, should be fully attended. The report of the committee on Rules and By-Laws will be ready to report, and it is of the utmost importance that the ratification should be endorsed by a full quota of members.

Every breeder of trotting horses in the State, should attend the next meeting of the Breeder's Association, which will take place at the Palace Hotel, Parlor A, on Friday, April 19th. If you cannot attend personally, send your name to Wilfred Page, secretary P. C. T. H. B. A. Penn's Grove, Sonoma County, for membership.

Auction Sales.

Messrs. Killip and Co., have their hands full just at present, the many breeders of California recognizing the fact that this old reliable firm is the very best one in the business, are sending in consignments for public sale, several of which will take place in the near future.

J. B. Haggin is again in the field and announces through Killip & Co., that on May 3d, he will sell at public auction at the Bay District track, a large consignment of thoroughbred riding horses, which should all find ready purchasers as saddle horses are in great demand. At the same sale there will be road and harness, work and draft horses sold, in addition to a choice selection of Shetland ponies, all of them having been bred and raised on the Rancho Del Paso.

On Thursday, May 16th, the executor of the estate of the late Seth Cook will have sold at the Bay District track, a choice lot of Galloway, Polled Aberdeen Angus, Devon and Durham cattle. This selection will be, so it is claimed, the finest collection of superior fancy bulls and cows, ever offered for sale in California. This will be one chance in a decade to secure choice cattle, and the breeders of the State should take advantage of this opportunity.

The Missouri Horse Exchange insert an advertisement this week notifying the public, that they will sell, by order of Mr. T. T. Turner, of Normandy, Mo., at St. Louis on Monday, June 3d, a choice collection of imported and home bred Shetland ponies, and also a magnificent lot of Standard and thoroughbred trotters, numbering in all about sixty head. The secretary of the Exchange also writes to say that they will hold a monster combination sale commencing June 3d and continuing to June 13th. Parties desirous of making entries should send in lists before May 1st, to ensure their appearing in the first catalogue.

During the Blood Horse Meeting, two thoroughbreds will be sold at the Bay District track by their respective owners. The first one to be offered will be the chestnut gelding McCormick, by Don Victor, dam by Enquirer, which will be sold on Saturday, April 20th. There will also be sold on Thursday, April 25th, the br g Jack Pot by Joe Hooker, dam Lugena. This will be a good chance for some one to buy two good race horses at a very low figure.

On Wednesday, April 24th, Messrs. Killip & Co. will sell at public auction, without reserve, a magnificent lot of finely bred trotting horses, the property of D. J. Murphy, Esq. The sale will take place at Agricultural Park, San Jose, and intending purchasers should attend in person as many bargains will undoubtedly be picked up. The lot consists of the get of Nutwood, Geo. M. Patchen Jr. Capt. Fisher, Ethan Allen Jr. Whipple's Hambletonian, and other good sires, and from grand producing dams. Catalogues are now ready and can be had on application to Killip & Co., 22 Montgomery Street, San Francisco.

Improved Farm Machinery.

Mr. Byron Jackson, at 149-169 Bluxome Street, San Francisco, is doing much to lessen the drudgery of farm life by offering ingenious constructions in the way of hay stackers, rakes and bucks, and irrigating and harvesting appliances of the most approved and recent models. His improved "Eclipse" stacker has special advantages for stacking in windy weather and for loading hay on wagons. The Jackson "Acme" rake and buck combined does the work of all other hay or horse rakes combined, and rakes cleaner than any other.

The Studebaker Brothers Manufacturing Co., are celebrated from one end of the country to the other for the excellence of the carts and sulkies produced by them. The firm has a reputation second to none, and it would be advisable for our readers who may want anything in that line to give them a call at 201 Market street, San Francisco. Messrs. Studebaker & Co., are sole agents on this Coast for the Frazier (or Chicago) cart which are very popular in the East just at present. If you cannot call at the warerooms personally, send for their catalogue of prices.

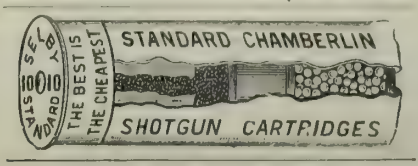
FOR SALE.



A BRACE OF FINELY BRED POINTERS,

DOG AND BITCH, whelped, April 4, 1888, by Tom Pinch and Galatea. These puppies are beauties, and marked nearly alike, liver white and ticked and are fast and full of hunt. Both have had distemper and are sound and healthy. I had reserved them to be trained and run in this year's Derby, but on account of going East, will sell them at a reasonable figure.

By HARRY ASHMAN, Auctioneer,

THE WELL-KNOWN STUD OF

Imported and Home Bred Shetland Ponies,

Standard and Thoroughbred Trotters,

Saddle Horses and Yearlings,

NUMBERING IN ALL ABOUT SIXTY HEAD,

Purchased and bred by MR. TURNER from the best strains and blood of the present day, many of which cannot be duplicated. Full particulars as to ages, qualities and pedigrees will be found in catalogues, ready May 1st.

From the fact that MR. TURNER has made the matter of the proper selection of his stock a study for years, and no expense or trouble spared, this sale offers an opportunity seldom if ever to be met with, and every animal will be sold absolutely to the highest bidder, as MR. TURNER, through other business engagements, cannot devote any further time or attention to his Stock Farm.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

This being the date of the Annual Meeting of the St. Louis Jockey Club, the Missouri Horse Exchange will hold a large Combination Sale of Horses, lasting ten days, June 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11, 12 and 13. Entries for these sales must be made by May 1st, so that catalogues can be prepared and mailed. Entries received after May 1st will be published in supplementary catalogues.

The Electioneer Stallion LANCELOT,

SEAL BROWN STALLION, 15½ HANDS, FOALED APRIL 15, 1881.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco, Cal.

Sire Gov. Stanford's ELECTIONEER; first dam Lizzie Harris by Comus; second dam by Arnold Harris. Comus by Glencoe's Bashaw, dam Topsey by Prophet, son of Hill's Black Hawk. Young Bashaw by Grand Bashaw (Arabian) (182), dam Pearl by First Consul (913); g d Fancy by imp. Rockingham. Arnold Harris by Whalebone, dam Sportsmistress by American Eclipse.

All the sons of Electioneer in the Eastern States have their books filled for the season. This is a rare opportunity to breed to Lancelot at a very low price. Lancelot has shown quarters better than a 2:30 gait, and had it not been for an accident would have had a record as low as the fastest of the sons of Electioneer.

The Nutwood Stallion SALADIN.

Bred by C. C. BEMIS, San Francisco.

SALADIN, chestnut stallion, 16 hands 1 inch high; foaled April 9, 1880. By Nutwood; first dam Lady Utley Jr. by Speculation, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian; second dam Lady Utley. Grandam of Western Girl. Record 2:27¼.

NUTWOOD (record 2:18¾), half brother to Maud S., 2:08¾, by Belmont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; first dam Miss Russell by Pilot Jr.; second dam Sally Russell by Boston; third dam Maria Russell by Thornton's Rattler; fourth dam Miss Shepard by Stockholder; fifth dam Miranda by Topgallant; sixth dam by imported Diomed; seventh dam by imported Medley; eighth dam by imported Juniper. Nutwood is the sire of Felix, 2:18¾; Dawn 2:19½; Manon 2:21; Menlo 2:21¼; Nutbreaker, two years old, 2:29¾; Nutwood Jr. 2:26; Mount Vernon 2:21; Woodnut 2:16¾, and several others that have trotted under 2:30.

The above stallions will make the season of 1889 at the Hoag stables, corner 1st and B Streets, Santa Rosa.

TERMS: $40 for the season for either of the above stallions.

Pasturage $3 per month. All mares at the owners risk. Apply or address,

The Thoroughbred Stallion Judge McKinstry,

Will make the Season of 1889, from March 1 to July 1, at San Felipe Rancho, near Gilroy.

PEDIGREE.

Foaled 1879, by Grinstead or Thad Stevens, dam Katy Pease; second dam Minnie Mansfield by imp. Glencoe; third dam Allegrante by imp. Young Truffle.

DESCRIPTION.

JUDGE McKINSTRY is a bright bay with black points, 15¾ hands in height, of a conformation combining power and speed. His breeding is one that cannot be excelled. The families on both sides being noted for their gameness and fleetness. Speaking of JUDGE McKINSTRY, Matt Storn, the well-known trainer, says: "He is the fastest race-horse I ever saw on the Sacramento track. He has shown me trials that were marvelous, one especially of a mile and a quarter that was ahead of the present record." He was started in several races when not in condition to run, and even then developed an amount of speed that is characteristic of the noted families from which he descends. His performances are too well known to need repetition here. Good judges of horses state positively that there can be no doubt of his sire, as he is a perfect picture of Grinstead, but rule compels us to name both sires.

TERMS: $75 payable when the mare is moved from ranch, or, $100, with the usual privilege. Good pasturage, $3 per month. Mares at owners risk. All communications must be addressed to

Prince Imperial.

DESCRIPTION.—PRINCE IMPERIAL is a black horse, 15-3 hands high; weighs 1,150 pounds, and is a model of beauty, action and power.

PEDIGREE.—Sired by Black Prince, he by Dictator, own brother to Dexter, dam Daisy by Witherell Messenger, he by Winthrop Messenger, son of imp. Messenger.

Mr. Peter Brandow's statement in regard to Prince Imperial: "I met A. Weske in the Park in 1887 driving the above horse, both strangers to me. I was driving a good horse, but the above horse, hitched to a phaeton, beat me easily. I followed him to find out what horse it was, and he finally allowed me to hitch him to a sulky, which I did, and drove him easily in 2:32¼. I think him one amongst the best horses in California, and firmly believe that in six months I can drive him in 220."

PETER BRANDOW.
Trainer of trotters for 25 years.

In 1881, while visiting Salt Lake City, I saw the colt Prince Imperial, and bought him for my own use, and have used him for family purposes ever since. In offering him for public service last year, not knowing anything about horses' pedigrees I made a mistake in his. I wrote to the owner of the mare in Salt Lake, Dr. S. B. Young, and he says she was by Henry Clay, brought from Kentucky by him.

Will make the season of 1889 at the farm of A. Weske, 2½ miles from Santa Rosa on the Healdsburg road. Season commencing March 1st.

Dam KATE GENNETTE.

T. O,

By ANTEEO,

Half Brother to JIB.

KATE GENNETTE IS A BELMONT AND BLACK HAWK MARE.

JIB is a fine mahogany bay; stands 15¾ hands; weighs 1,200 pounds. Received second prize as best horse of all work at Oakland Fair, 1886. Foaled May 1883. A sure and reliable foal getter.

T. O, by Anteeo, is a dark bay, five years old; stands 15¾ hands; weighs 1,050 pounds. Received first prize as horse of all work at Oakland, 1886.

These fine stallions will make the season of 1889 at Oakland Trotting Park. Terms for the season, $40. Due at time of service. For further particulars call or address

SIRE OF YOLO MAID, 2:14.

Alexander Button.

Alexander's Record. 2:31 1-4!

DESCRIPTION.

Alexander Button is a dark bay with fine flowing mane and tail; stands 15-3¾ hands high; weighs 1,200 pounds, and is of excellent disposition. When three years old he made a record of 2:28½, and when four years old, in his first race, he obtained a record of 2:26½. Has been driven a mile in 2:16 in his four-year-old form, and has been driven a last half in 1:0 . Alexander Button is a natural trotter, inherited through the speed-lines of his ancestors, and imparts his speed to his offspring with uniform certainty. Yolo Maid, as a three-year-old, paced 18 heats, never leaving her feet—carrying the world's record of 2:14. Rosie Mc, as a five-year-old, rarely ever breaks; has a record of 2:20¾. R. H. Newton's colt, with very little handling, paced a 2:16 gait, and there are several other colts that show gaits from 2:16 to 2:20. Considering that Alexander Button has never been mated with a standard-bred mare—his colts show him to be a wonderful producer—and with his breeding, and terms of service, he is the cheapest and most wonderful horse in the State.

PEDIGREE.

Alex. Button was sired by Alexander, he by Geo. M. Patchen, Jr., his dam Lady Button by Napa Rattler by Biggett's Rattler, he by Sir Henry, and he by imported Henry, dam of Biggett's Rattler by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam of Napa Rattler, thoroughbred.

TERMS: $75, payable at end of season. Mares not proving with foal may be returned next season free of charge. Good pasturage will be furnished at $2 per month, and due care taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability whatever assumed.

Will stand at City Stable, Woodland, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. The remainder of the time he will stand at my ranch, which is situated about 1½ miles west of Yolo station.

All mares sent to Fashion Stable, Woodland, Yolo County, will be forwarded free of charge.

LONGWORTH.

High Bred Trotting Stallion.

WILL BE FOUR YEARS OLD IN MARCH.

Dark Bay, Black Points, by Sidney,

OWNED BY A. C. DIETZ, OAKLAND.

Also the owner of Bay Stallion Ringwood, four years old, by Sidney, half brother to Longworth, which has showed trials over the Oakland Track, 2:30; quarters, in 34 seconds—2:16 gait —as a three-year old.

LONGWORTH, for finish, style and form cannot be excelled by any four-year-old horse in the State. His gait is perfect; going low to the ground, with smooth, easy motion, and has shown wonderful speed with but two month's work. As a two-year-old, he showed a 2:40 gait; as a three-year-old showed—trial—full mile over the Oakland track, 2:26; half mile, 1:10; quarters, 34 seconds; eighths, 16 seconds—a 2:08 gait.

Longworth is the result of a long line of distinguished ancestors, endowed with speed on the sire and dams' side that follows back for generations—consequently he cannot help but produce great speed.

He is half brother to the great three-year-old Adonis, record 2:14¼.

Gold Leaf, three-year-old record, 2:15.
Memo, three-year-old trial, 2:20½.
Sister V., two-year-old trial, 2:32.
St. Nicholas, three-year-old trial, 2:27¼.
Ringwood, three-year-old trial, 2:30.
Miss Sidney, one-year-old trial, half mile, 1:38.
Brown colt, three-year-old trial, 2:40.
Black colt, three-year-old trial, 2:39.
Linda, one-year-old trial, one quarter, 40 seconds.
Sorrel colt, two-year-old trial, quarter, 34 seconds, and a number more that have shown remarkable speed. One yearling that has shown one-eighth of a mile in 16 1-5 seconds—a 2:10 gait.

Sidney, the sire of Longworth, has a record of 2:19¾; Santa Claus, the grand sire, has a record of 2:17½; Sweetness, the grandam, record 2:21½; Strathmore, the sire of Santa Claus, has twenty-two that have trotted below 2:30; Volunteer, the sire of Sweetness, has twenty-six that have trotted below 2:30. Volunteer is the sire of St. Julian, record 2:11¼.

Longworth's first dam Grey Dale, the dam of Daisy C., Silver Threads, and grandam of Phaceola; Grey Dale by American Boy, Jr.; he by American Boy, the sire of Belmont. Second dam Grey Poll by Winfield Scott, by Edward Everett; third dam Sorrel Poll by Sir Henry; fourth dam Daughter of Printer.

Grey Dale, the dam of Longworth, has shown herself a great producer of speed through Daisy C. and Silver Threads, the sire of Phaceola.

All letters pertaining to the service of this horse should be addressed to J. J. FAIRBANKS, Oakland, Alameda County, Cal.

TERMS: Fifty dollars, payable at the end of the season or sooner if the mares are taken away. Season will close June 15th, 1889. The number of mares limited to twenty-five. The best of care will be taken to insure mares with foal. Pasture $5 per month, which can be procured at the Oakland Race Track. Mares at the owners' risk, as to escapes or accidents.

The stallion will be kept at the stables of the undersigned, at the junction of San Pablo Avenue and Park Street.

NOONDAY.

No Record, Foaled 1884.

Standard No. 10,000.

THIS CELEBRATED TROTTING-BRED STALlion will be limited to 40 mares the ensuing season at Oakland Trotting Park, Oakland, Cal., commencing February 1st and ending July 1st, at $100 the season, with the usual privilege of returning the mare next season if not proving in foal. The names of his patrons will be entered on his book in order of their application. He will be limited strictly to forty mares. Pasturage at five dollars per month, hay and grain extra.

NOONDAY, sired by Wedgewood (692), record, the fourth heat, 2:19, (sire of Favonia, record, fourth heat, 2:15, and Nugget, record 2:26, he the sire of Nettie Leaf, four-year-old record 2:23¾), and five others better than 2:26.

First dam Noontide, record 2:20½, by Harold (413), sire of Maud S., record 2:08¾, Mattie Graham, 2:21¼, and 17 others in 2:30.

Second dam Midnight (the dam of Jay-Eye-See, record 2:10), by Pilot Jr., sire of the dam of Maud S., 2:08¾, Nutwood, 2:18¾.

Third dam by Lexington (sire of dam of Ansel, 2:20.)

Fourth dam by imp. Glencoe (sire of the grandam of Favonia, 2:15), sire of the sire of the dam of Arrow, 2:13½.

Wedgewood, by Belmont (64), sire of Nutwood, 2:18¾.

First dam (the dam of Woodford Mambrino, 2:21), by Woodford (thoroughbred son of Kosciusko), he by Sir Archy.

NOONDAY is well formed, evenly balanced and handsome; his color is dark seal brown, small star, right hindfoot white, 15 1¾ inches high, weight 975 lbs, strong back and good gaited, short and rapid, and will make a fast and game campaigner.

Breeders will please remember that this horse is not owned by me. I have only leased him for two years for the benefit of the State and breeders on account of the speedy lines and blood that this State is in need of, and no stallion now in public service can show a pedigree with such fast records as enrich the blood of NOONDAY.

I will also handle and train a few horses for gentlemen at fair terms. Address

THREE CHEERS

Will make the Season of 1889 at Oakland Race Track, Oakland, Alameda County.

Pedigree.

Sired by imported Hurrah, first dam Young Fashion by imported Monarch; second dam Fashion by imported Trustee; third dam Bonnets o' Blue by Sir Charles; fourth dam Reality by Sir Archy; fifth dam by imported Medley; sixth dam by imported Centinel, etc. (see Bruce's American Stud Book, Vol. 1, page 432.)

Hurrah by Newminster (winner St. Leger 1851), dam Jovial by Bay Middleton (winner Derby 1836.)

Newminster by Touchstone (winner St. Leger 1831), dam Beeswing (winner of 54 races out of 61 starts) by Dr. Syntax (winner Doncaster Cup 1837, 40, 41, 42, the only horse that ever accomplished that feat.)

THREE CHEERS is bred in the speediest and stoutest lines. His dam, Young Fashion was the dam of Surprise Scotland (the only horse that ever beat Asteroid a heat), Liverpool, Columbia and Bonnie Kate, the dam of Little Buttercup and the flying Bonnie Lizzie. His grandam, Fashion, was the greatest race mare of her era, defeating Boston in that historical match at four-mile heats, that is recorded as one of the greatest events in the annals of the turf. He is thoroughly sound in wind and limb, his family on both sides being noted for their exemption from curbs, spavins, roaring, or any other hereditary unsoundness. Horsemen, who can appreciate the highest type of the thoroughbred, are specially invited to inspect Three Cheers.

THREE CHEERS is the sire of Almont, Applause and Why Not, the only three of his get ever trained, and all are stake winners.

TERMS: $75 for the season. Mares not proving with foal can be returned the next season free of charge. Good pasturage at $5 per month. Mares cared for in any manner owners may desire, and fed on hay and grain, either or both, at reasonable rates. None but competent grooms employed, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes.

N. B.—Mares sent from a distance in care of J. W. Morshead City Front Stables, San Francisco, will be forwarded without delay.

THE WILKES STALLION

Mambrino Wilkes, 6083

(Half Brother to Harry Wilkes, 2:13 1-2.)

Sire of Gus Wilkes, 2:22; Alpheus, 2:27; Balkan 2:29¾, three-year-old; John O'Brien, lapped out the winner in 2:36 as a three-year-old; H. A. W.'s Black Colt, trial 2:29 with very little work as a four-year-old.

Will remain in the future at San Miguel Stock Farm, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County.

DESCRIPTION.

MAMBRINO WILKES is a black horse, 16 hands high, and considerably longer than his height; has immense muscular development and weighs 1,260 pounds. He has the utmost symmetry of proportion and elegance of finish. No competent judge who has seen this horse has failed to pronounce him a perfect individual, and his breeding is certainly fashionable enough to satisfy the most fastidious. His colts are large, stylish and handsome, and Balkan has been pronounced by many the most stylish trotter on the turf.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by George Wilkes, dam Lady Chrisman by Todhunter's Mambrino; second dam by Pilot Jr.

Todhunter's Mambrino by Mambrino Chief, dam Ripton's dam by Hunt's Commodore, son of Mambrino, by imp. Messenger; second dam by Potomac, son of imp. Messenger.

George Wilkes sired 65 colts that have beaten 2:30. Of these 39 have average records of 2:24, 14 of 2:19 and 12 of 2:18.

TERMS.

Mares from a distance will be received at the Dexter Stables, Oakland, or Livery Stable, Martinez, the owner notifying Smith Hill, Superintendent at the farm. Good pasture and plenty of water. For the purpose of placing the service of a Wilkes within reach of breeders, the same rate will be maintained as last year, to wit, $75 for the season. Although it is not admitted thereby that this horse is inferior as a producer to the horses whose fees are placed at from $150 to $500.

BALKAN,

Three-year-old Record 2:29 1-2; trotting many heats faster, when he did not obtain a record.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by Mambrino Wilkes, dam Fanny Fern by Jack Hawkins, son of Boston; second dam S. F. B. by Jim Crow.

It will be readily seen that this colt is from strong producing lines on both sides. Fanny Fern having produced Mollie Drew, May Queen, Onyx and Fred Arnold, all noted trotters and all by different sires.

This colt will be kept at the Oakland Trotting Park, and will be stinted to ten approved mares at $100 for the season.

MEMO.

The Fast Trotting Stallion, the Best Son of Sidney.

Will make the Season of 1889 at the Oakland Trotting Park.

He was bred by G. Valensin at the Arno Stock Farm, Sacramento County, California; foaled spring of 1885.

PEDIGREE.

By Sidney.

First dam Flirt by Buccaneer.

Second dam Mohaska Belle by Flaxtail.

Third dam by John the Baptist.

Sidney by Santa Claus, 2:17¾, his dam Sweetness, 2:21¼. Strathmore, the son of Santa Claus, has 22 of his get which have trotted in 2:30 or better, up to close of 1887, several having entered since, and Volunteer, the sire of Sweetness, has 26 in the same list. Buccaneer is the sire of Shamrock, two-year-old record 2:25, and of Flight, 2:29, and in him are combined the strains of Long Island Blackhawk, Vermont Blackhawk, and the dam of Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Flaxtail figures prominently in both pacing and trotting descendants, and is the sire of the dam of Apex, 2:26, Flight, 2:29, J. H. McCormack, 2:29, and Shamrock, 2:25.

PERFORMANCES.

Memo only trotted in public in his two-year-old form, obtaining a record of 2:49, though he was close to Grandee in a race on the Bay District Track, the second heat of which was made in 2:31½, the first in 2:32. He exhibited phenomenal speed when three years old, and had it not been for a slight strain of his fore fetlock there is little question that he would have shown in public very close to the best record. On the Oakland track he was timed a mile in 2:20½, and frequently trotted quarters in from 32½ to 34 seconds.

DESCRIPTION.

He is nearly if not quite sixteen hands high, and of powerful build throughout. His color is a glossy black, with both fore-feet white and a touch of white on his off hind quarters. His disposition is all that could be desired, and his action superb.

TERMS: One hundred dollars the season, which will commence on the 5th of February and close on the 1st of July. Due care will be taken of mares, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes.

Mares taken and kept as desired by the owners, and at reasonable rates.

Pasturage at $3 per month within the track enclosure; feed first-rate, and a living stream of water in the field. There is a double protection against escape, as in addition to a strong fence on the inside of the track, the gates of the outer fence are enclosed at night, which gives almost positive assurance of safety. ELECTIONEER STALLION

EROS,

Standard No. 5326.

Electioneer, his sire, has more 2:20 trotters than any living horse, and more 2:30 trotters than any stallion LIVING OR DEAD.

Eros has a record of 2:29¾, made in the fifth and deciding heat against a field of eight horses in his maiden race, and with only four weeks preparation after coming out of the stud.

Progeny.

Eros had last fall but three colts trained; the oldest a three-year-old trotter, an exhibition mile during the San Jose Fair in 2:34, last quarter in 36½ seconds. A two-year-old (timed by the judges) made a mile in 2:46½, and the other two year-old in 2:47. All of these trials being made without a single skip, and none of these colts had then been handled three months from the bitting harness.

TERMS: $50 for the season, from February 1st to July 1, 1889. Due at time of service.

Pasturage, but no responsibility for accidents or escapes. Apply to

WILKES PASHA.

STANDARD 2618.

Dark bay with white hind feet, 16¾ hands high, bred by R. P. Pepper, of South Elk Horn Farm, Frankfort, Kentucky. Sired by Onward, 1111, record 2:25¼, trial 2:17. He by George Wilkes, 2:22, sire of sixty-five horses in the 2:30 list, ten of them with records below 2:20. First dam Fisher (dam of Clara Wilkes, 2:20¾, trial 2:25) by American Clay, 34, sire of Granville, 2:28; Maggie Brass, 2:27; Ella Clay, 2:27¾; and the dams of Executor, 2:24½, Ranchero, 2:24¾, Judge Hawser, 2:24¾; Ambassador, 2:25, and nine others in 2:30; second dam by Wilson's Snow Storm, sire of Jim Irving, 2:26; third dam by Paddie Burns, thoroughbred.

Onward, 1111, is one of the noted sires of to-day. In 1887 he placed seven performers in the 2:30 list, including Hourl three-year-old record 2:19¾; while in 1888 he still further sustains his reputation by adding nine of his sons and daughters to the list. Onward combines the blood of the two great trotting families, Hambletonian 10 and Mambrino Chief 11, and derives his speed inheritance direct through the greatest son of the one family, and the greatest daughter of the other.

Onward's dam was Dolly (the dam of Director, 2:17, and Thorndale, 2:22½), by Mambrino Chief. Dolly was one of the greatest speed-producing brood mares that ever lived. George Wilkes stands at the head of the list of sires of fast trotters with 65 performers with records of 2:30 or better, and the combination of these two great producers will breed on with absolute certainty.

WILKES PASHA will make the season of 1889 at the stables of the undersigned, at the Trancas Bridge, two miles north of Napa, on the Soda Spring Road.

TERMS.

For the season ending July 1, 1889, $35 in U. S. gold coin.

Alfalfa pasturage $4 per month; natural grass $2.50 per month.

Every attention and care will be given to mares, but no liabilities assumed for accidents or escapes.

VINELAND BREEDING FARM.

Whippleton, 1883,

STANDARD UNDER RULE 4 & 6.

The most successful stock horse in California for his opportunities. WHIPPLETON has no equal as a prouncer of carriage and general purpose horses. Sire of Lily Stanley, record 2:17½, dam's breeding unknown; Homestakes pacer, 2:16½, dam's breeding unknown; Flora B., 2:30, dam's breeding unknown; Cora C., three-year-old pacer, 2:33¼, dam by Naubuc, Rachel, 2:38, dam's breeding unknown.

DESCRITPION.

WHIPPLETON is a beautiful black, tan muzzle and flanks, and exceptionally strongly made all over. He stands 17 hands high and weigus 1400 pounds. He is beyond doubt the most uniform breeder on the Coast for size, color and finish. Most of his colts are 16 hands or over, and all bay, brown or black in color. He has never sired a sorrel or white faced colt; if he does I agree to refund service money.

PEDIGREE.

WHIPPLETON, sired by Hambletonian Jr. (sire of Hancock 2:29), by Whipple's Hambletonian; dam Lady Livingston; (dam of Lady Blanchard 2:28¼, Bloomfield Maid, trial 2:22); by General Taylor (sire of dam of Wells Fargo 2:18¾, Nearea 2:24½, Bickford 2:29½, Lady Blanchard 2:26¼) and Stella 2:30, son of the Morse horse.

TERMS.

ALCONA, 730.

By the great Almont (sire of Westmont, 2:15¼, Puritan, 2:16, Fannie Witherspoon, 2:16¾, Piedmont, 2:17½, and 31 others with records better than 2:30, and grandsire of Bell Hamlin, 2:13¼) by Alexander's A dallah (sire of Goldsmith Maid, 2:14), he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Alcona's dam, Queen Mary by Mambrino Chief, sire of Lady Thorn, 2:18¼, Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½ and 4 others in 2:30 list, and sire of the dams of Piedmont, 2:17¼. Director, 2:17, Onward, 2:25¼, and many others; 23 of his sons have produced 2:30 trotters.

Almont has 38 sons that have produced 2:30 trotters, which number is only equaled by his grandsire, Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

DESCRIPTION.

Alcona is a beautiful chestnut, 16¾ hands high, and weighs 1,300 pounds. His colts possess speed, style, finish and beauty, and if they don't trot fast they command the highest price for carriage and general purpose horses. Eleven of Alcona's colts that have been sold UNTRAINED brought $7,810, an average of $710 per head.

TERMS: $35. Usual return privilege.

Grandissimo,

Full Brother to GRANDEE. 3-year-old record 2:23 1-2.

Sired by La Grande (son of Almont, and out of Jessie Pepper by Mambrino Chief; Jessie Pepper is the dam of Iona 2:22, Alpha 2:23½, Sterling Wilkes 2:33¾, and others) dam Norma, by Arthurton (sire of Arab 2:15, Joe Arthurton 2:22½, etc).

Grandam Nourmahal (full sister to A. W. Richmond, sire of Arrow 2:13¾, Romero 2:19, and sire of Columbine, dam of Anteeo 2:16¼, an i Antevolo 2:19¼ at 4 years old),

DESCRIPTION.

Grandissimo is 3 years old, will make a sixteen hand horse; he is a rich mahogany bay in color and perfect in style and action. Limited to ten mares, at $50 for the season. Usual return privileges.

In case any of my horses are sold before the next season, parties breeding mares have the privilege to return them to any other stallion I have making the season at the same price. Mares kept in any manner desired. Best of pasture the year round, at $4 per month. Some choice young stallions, colts and fillies by Whippleton for sale reasonable. Correspondence solicited.

ANNUAL FALL MEETING.

In addition to the regular racing programme to be given at this meeting, the following Guarantee Stakes are announced:

RAISIN HANDICAP. For all ages. 1¼ mile dash. Guarantee Purse $1,000. $10 entrance. $10 May 1st. $15 June 1st, $25 July 1st. Weights will be declared August 15th and acceptance September 1st, when the other $50 is to be paid. To be run at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entrance money amounts to more than $1,000 it shall be added to the purse, and the association will add 20 per cent. of amount of purse; 3 moneys, 70, 20, 10 per cent. of purse. Horses winning any purse or stake of one mile or more at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $800 or over, shall carry 10 pounds extra. Horses winning a purse or stake of one mile or over at Sacramento or Stockton when purse or stake amounts to $500 or over, to carry 5 pounds extra.

Weights to be declared through BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, August 15, 1889. Entries close May 1st with the Secretary.

American Association Rules to govern.

REMARKS.

As to the Handicap Running, 1¼ mile dash, the Handicapping Committee will use due diligence in learning the performance of every horse entered, and weighting them fairly to their merits. Each entry must be accompanied by entrance money or be considered no entry. All payments not made when due the nominator forfeits all money paid in. We propose at the finish of the race the horse winning the purse, or any part of it, gets his money and not forfeit papers.

GUARANTEE PURSE.

For horses that never beat 2:30. Trotting Purse $1,000, $100 entrance, $25 May 1st, $.5 July 1st, $50 August 15th, when nominees are to be named. To be trotted at Fall Fair, 1889, Fresno, Cal. If entries amount to more than $ 000 it shall be added to the purse, and the Association will add 20 per cent. of amount of stakes. Four moneys, 70, 25, 15, 10 per cent of purse.

Horses eligible at closing of entries, May 1st.

American Association rules to govern.

REMARKS.

This 2:30 class Guarantee Purse gives the party making the entry the privilege of naming any horse he sees fit the 15th day of August, having no better record than 2:30 the first day of May, irrespective of the record he gets after that date. You will see by this the nominator has almost a sure thing of getting his money back. Any nominator failing to make payments when due, forfeits all money paid in, and money must accompany entry or it will be considered no entry.

Our grounds are the finest appointed in the State being about 2½ miles from the city; horse car line running direct to the grounds.

We also have the best of box stalls for 100 horses. Hay and straw furnished to all horses entered in races free of charge. Grain can be procured on the grounds at reasonable rates.

N. I. BALDWIN, Secretary.
P. O. Drawer U, Fresno, Cal.

AMBERINE.

$25. $25.

PEDIGREE.

Sired by PROMPTER No. 2305, with six weeks training at the close of a stud season, he won a stallion race of five heats, winning the last three heats and getting a record of 2:33¼; he has never been trained since.

His sire, Wilson's BLUE BULL, No. 75, has more of his progeny in the 2:30 list than any horse that ever lived, except it may be George Wilkes, and it is a disputed point between the two which has most.

PROMPTERS' dam, PRAIRIE BIRD, 2:28¾ is in the GREAT BROOD MARE TABLE, a proved producer, and of a family of wonderful producers, as an examination of the produce of Flaxtail mares will prove.

AMBERINE'S dam, "BONNIE," owned by G. W. Hancock, of Sacramento, is one of the best road-mares in the State: she has many times covered 50 miles on the road in five hours, and 125 miles in 17 hours. She is the dam of Daisy, yearling record, 2:38¼; her sire is John Nelson, sire of the dams of Albert W., 2:20, and Valensin, 2:24.

AMBERINE is a beautiful bay, three years old, very powerfully built, 16 hands, and trotted a mile in his yearling form in 3:20, and has never been trained.

Will serve 15 outside mares at the low price of $25 the season. Should the mare not prove in foal, the money refunded or mare bred following season. Service fee payable, when I pasture the mare, at the time of her removal; but if served outside, payable at time of service.

THE Stanford Stakes 1891.

A sweepstakes for trotting colts and fillies, foals of 1888, $175 each, $25 payable on the 2d of April, 1889, which must accompany the nomination, and none will be recorded in which there is a failure to comply with this requirement, at which time the stakes will close; $25 on the 1st of January 1890; $25 on the 1st of January 1891, and $100 thirty days before the day fixed for trotting, whatever amount up to be considered forfeit, and the neglect to pay at the stipulated time incurring forfeiture of the previous payments. The race to be heats of a mile, best 3 in 5 to harness. First to receive six-ninths of the whole sum, the second two-ninths, the third one-ninth. In addition to the stakes and forfeits the proportion of the gate money, profit on pool sales, and all other sources of emolument will constitute the gross amount, to be divided in the foregoing proportions Five or more subscribers to fill. The race to be trotted in 1891, not sooner than the 1st of August. The exact date to be fixed and announced on the 1st of April, 1891, or sooner.

The stakes for 1892 will close January 2, 1890. $25 entrance.

Race to be governed by the Rules of the National Trotting Association. Nominations to be made to N. T. SMITH, Treasurer, S P Railroad Office, Fourth and Townsend Streets, on or before the 2d day of April, 1889. The colt must be named, the name and pedigree, so far as known, given.

Should a Pacific Coast Trotting-Horse Breeder's Association be gotten up, the above stake may be transferred to that, the Treasurer, N. T. Smith, having the power to make the transfer, and also to arrange anything else, in connection with this stake which is not expressed in the above conditions. Should it occur that Captain Smith cannot act at any time, then a majority of the subscribers still eligible to start will have the power to fill the vacancy.

Under the new trotting rules letters legibly postmarked April 1st will be eligible.

N. T. SMITH, Treasurer.

Frank Morgan.

DESCRIPTION.

FRANK MORGAN was brought to California by Mr. S. E. Larabie of Montana. He is undoubtedly one of the handsomest stallions in the country, is a dark chestnut, about 16 hands in height, of free, easy carriage, well gaited, perfectly developed and superb in general appearance. In disposition he is all that could be desired. He has been named Frank Morgan in honor of the family from which he descends.

PEDIGREE.

FRANK MORGAN was sired by an unnamed son of Morgan General, Jr., by Morgan General, by Billy Root, by Sherman, by Justin Morgan. Dam by Romeo, by Green Mountain Morgan 2nd, by Gifford's Morgan, by Woodbury Morgan, by Justin.

FRANK MORGAN will make the season of 1889 at the Oakland Race Track, serving a limited number of mares. He is a sure and reliable foal getter, and the uniform beauty and style of his colts have shown him to be a producer of the finest class of road and carriage horses that have ever been seen in this country.

TERMS.—$40 FOR THE SEASON.

Good pasturage furnished at five dollars per month. The best care will be taken of all mares, but no risks for accidents or escapes. For further particulars, address

JOHN ROWEN, Oakland Race Track,
or C. W. WELBY, 627 Seventeenth St., S. F., Cal.

Thoroughbred Stallion Prince of Norfolk,

Will Make the Season of 1889, from Feb. 15th to July 1st, at Sacramento.

PEDIGREE.

PRINCE OF NORFOLK, ch c, foaled 1881, by Norfolk; 1st dam Marion by Malcolm; 2nd dam Maggie Mitchell by imp. Yorkshire; third dam Charmer by imp. Glencoe; 4th dam Betsy Malone by Stockholder; 5th dam by Potomac; 6th dam by imp. Diomed; 7th dam by Pegasus, etc. Norfolk, the unbeaten son of Lexington, is the sire of Winters, Twilight, Connor, Ballot Box, Trade Dollar, Flood, Duchess of Norfolk, Lou Spencer, the great Emperor of Norfolk, an many others. Marion's sire, Malcolm, was one of the first horses to bring Bonnie Scotland into notice. Through the Maggie Mitchell cross comes the blood of two of the most celebrated race mares of their day, Charmer and Betsy Malone. The combined speed of these great families seem to be concentrated in the get of Norfolk and Marion, as is instanced in the case of the Emperor of Norfolk, who is a full brother to the Prince of Norfolk.

The blood lines here displayed cannot be surpassed in the world, there not being a single cross that has not been celebrated for speed and endurance, and it is fair to assume that the get of this stallion will show equally well with those of past generations.

TERMS, $50 for the season. We offer first class pasturage on our own ranch, at $4 per month and the best of care will be taken of mares sent to us, but no responsibility can be incurred. For further particulars address

W. P. TODHUNTER, Sacramento.

GROVER CLAY,

Bay Stallion, bred by Hon. W. W. Traylor, San Francisco. Foaled 1883. By ELECTIONEER.

First dam MAGGIE NORFOLK by NORFOLK, son of Lexington.

Second dam by BILLY CHEATHAM.

Third dam by DORSEY'S GOLDDUST.

GROVER C. is a very handsome shade of bay, 15¾ hands high, and showing as much quality as a majority of thoroughbreds. He is as square-gaited a trotter as can be, and has shown a great deal of speed for the amount of handling. Has been worked very little, though he can show a thirty gait or better whenever called upon.

TERMS.

Fifty dollars the season, payable at time of service. Proper care will be taken, but no responsibility incurred for accidents or escapes. Mares will be pastured inside of the Oakland Trotting Park, which is especially safe, having two fences which give ample security against escape. There is a never-failing stream of water which runs through the field, and the food is good.

Season commencing first of January and ending the first of July.

This is the only son of Electioneer standing in Alameda County, and the high breeding on the side of his dam is a guarantee that his colts will inherit qualities already made famous through the mixture of Electioneer and Lexington blood. Ansel, 2:20, is from a Lexington mare, and Sunol's granddam, two-year-old record 2:18, was by Lexington, both Sunol and Ansel by Electioneer, Lexington the sire of Norfolk.

OSSIDINE

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 15, 1888.

GENTLEMEN:—We have used Ossidine for the past two years and consider it invaluable for Sprung Tendons, Curbs, Ringbone and Spavins; there is nothing equals it; and for us it effected a permanent cure where firing failed, although performed by one of the most successful veterinarians on the continent. We have recommended it to others with like success, and believe it has more merit than any blister ever used.

Very respectfully yours, S. A. BROWNE & Co., Prop's.

This scientific preparation is an absolute cure for all bony or callous lumps on horses, and is a more powerful absorbent than "firing," without creating the slightest blemish. After a few applications the excrescence is so palpably reduced that even the skeptical frankly acknowledge that it is by far the most valuable outward remedy for horses ever invented.

The ONLY preparation in the world that will remove a Bone Spavin after it has become ossified.

Price $3.00 per Large Bottle,

Sole Agents for Unitad States and Canada.

Owner of Eole, St Saviour, Eolist, etc, says; I have long used it in my stables, and find it to be all that is claimed for it in removing callous and unnatural bony growths, without leaving the slightest blemish. From my experience, I most strongly recommend the use of Ossidine, and feel that it is a necessary adjunct to every stable. Yours respectfully,

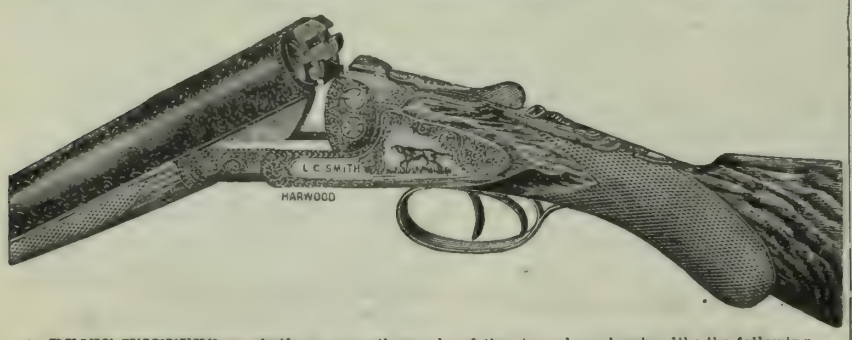
Jackson's Improved "Acme" Rake and Buck Combined.
Weight, 650 lbs. Price, $50.

This is my standard stacker, and is, I think, an improvement on all others, as it is lighter, stronger, and dumps the hay at any desired height, instead of carrying it all up over itself, without regard to height of stack. This latter point is quite important in stacking in windy weather, as with the "ECLIPSE" the hay is only raised as high as necessary to dump it on the stack, and is not scattered by the wind. The uprights of the "ECLIPSE" are made 28 feet high, and this is as long as they can be shipped, and with them it will stack nearly or quite that height, but the height it may be made to stack is really unlimited, as these uprights may be spliced out as high as desired, and guyed with rope.

I make this machine under the "Acme" and Oliver patents. It is mounted on iron wheels, and will build a stack 25 feet high.

With the rakes the hay is taken from the swath, when cured, just as left by the mower, or from the cock or windrow, if it is desired to rake it before it is cured sufficiently to stack; and when the Rake is loaded it is driven to the Stacker, the rake-teeth entering between the pitcher-teeth; the hay is pressed forward against the pitcher-head, the horses then back the Rake off, leaving the hay in a compact mass upon the pitcher, and return to the field for another load. As soon as the Rake is out of the way, the horse attached to the pitcher rope is started, elevating the load the desired height, when the latch-rope is pulled, and the hay is dropped in the center of the stack, the horse is backed up, the pitcher being brought back to the ground by its own weight, ready for another load.

The "ECLIPSE" has special advantages for stacking in windy weather, and for loading hay, etc., on wagons. IT DUMPS THE LOAD AT ANY DESIRED HEIGHT, from 5 to 25 feet, while it is easily moved, quickly set, and amply strong.



The above illustrates my latest-improved Rake. In it are embodied all the improvements that my long experience with them in the field has suggested. They are first-class in design and construction.

They are mounted on 34-inch patent iron wheels, with 4-inch tires, and have the improved patent ratchet device, which enables the driver to EASILY RAISE the HEAVIEST LOAD without leaving the very comfortable spring seat in which he rides. The swing fence automatically discharges the load when the team backs.

It does the work of all other Hay or Horse Rakes, viz, wire rakes, sulky rakes, revolving rakes, buck rakes and "go-devils." It rakes from the swath, and leaves the hay in large bunches at once, requiring no hand-work. One man and two horses will keep up with two mowers, following the mower as soon as the hay is wilted enough to be raked clean with any rake. It rakes CLEANER. The hay will cure quicker without bleaching by dew or sun. Very large bunches can be made by pushing two or more rakefuls into one.
